If there is one thing history has taught us (or should have taught us) it is this: a polyglot conglomerate of diverse squabbling factions never accomplished anything, except their own self-destruction. History has also taught us that a powerful, polarized single movement can, and does, move the course of History. One such historic movement is the tenacious Mosaic racial religion of the Jews around the core of which they have rallied for all these thousands of years. Any Jew will admit that without their cohesive racial religion they would be nothing. Another example is the monolithic structure of the Catholic Church, the oldest corporate structure in the White Man's history. It has had a tremendous influence in directing that history. It has maintained itself for nearly 2000 years.

But the most significant lesson of all for our purpose of how to break the back of the Jewish behemoth was demonstrated by Hitler's Nazi Party. Soon after Germany's dismal defeat in 1918 a myriad of "Nationalist" parties sprang up in Germany, many of them half baked and badly disoriented. These groups, some 2000 in number, spent as much time wrangling amongst themselves, confused in purpose and program, as they did in fighting the enemy. It was not until Hitler built a German Racial Party that absorbed the confused, fragmented membership of the myriad of polyglot parties that the German people finally had the clout to take over the real power of government in their country. One other side lesson we should learn from this event is that Hitler never "merged" with the other parties, nor did he compromise his position, nor did he water down his creed or program. He just kept attracting members and built his organization until it encompassed most of the German racial militants and was the sole power in the Reich.

If we are ever to win this battle for the survival of the White Race we must do the same — we must consolidate our forces into one powerful battering ram, instead of the fragmented, polyglot scattering of aimless groups now competing against each other for recognition. In this respect there are two questions I would like to ask every conscientious, responsible White Man and Woman, namely, (a) Of what importance is your hubris if the White Race goes down the drain, as it surely will unless we unite and get our act together? and, (b) Which would you rather do — wetnurse your inconsequential little hubris, or fight a successful battle? I know where my loyalty lies. I have made my commitment for victory.

There is one persistent argument I have heard from those who can't quite commit themselves to building a meaningful powerhouse in opposition to the Jews, and I find that these people completely miss the point. Their argument is that if we are fragmented into thousands of little polyglot groups we are better off because the enemy establishment will not be able to destroy us all at one fell swoop, whereas if we are united into one major powerful movement, they might. This argument is valid only as far as it goes, but it does not go to the ultimate conclusion of really overthrowing the Jewish tyrant and forcefully taking government power into the hands of the White Race. What these cop-out artists are saying is that they would rather prefer to keep on playing meaningless little games, as annoying gnats buzzing at the ears of the enemy, but have no plan or intention of really coming to grips of destroying the enemy in a showdown of power.

The fact is that if we establish and organize thousands of C.O.T.C. centers all over the Unite States, and yes, South Africa, Australia, South America, England and the rest of Europe (we already have a number of groups and ministers in each of these areas) we will have the multiplex dispersion (See Dispersion and Polarization P. 22 of Building a Whiter and Brighter World) these polyglots hold so dear. Moreover, we will have a unity of purpose, a common creed and program, a polarized loyalty and a powerful movement that will not quit until we have won the world. Isn't that what we really want? Yes, it is. The bottom line is that we must build one united, polarized powerhouse on a worldwide basis, as Hitler did with the Nazi party in Germany, in order to oust and destroy the enemy. There is no other way, and there is no better way than to build it around a fanatically militant racial religion as embodied in Creativity.

I did not come up with the idea of a racial religion for the White Race, and incredible as it may seem, neither did anyone else in all our recorded history until the Pontifex compiled a comprehensive omnibus less than twenty years ago. Now the White Race does have its own racial religion — Creativity. Even though I, Will Williams, didn't think of it, I recognize that it is an idea whose time has come — and none too soon. Our only chance for survival is to consolidate and polarize around this idea and to hell with all the diverse, fragmented side issues. Creativity not only addresses all the crucial issues that are of major importance to the White Race, but goes far beyond, formulating a creed and program that can serve the best interests of the White Race for the next million years. But our first order of business is to get the Jewish parasite off our backs, and only through a militant racial religion can we ever hope to achieve this major breakthrough.

I have now committed myself to promote this one idea with a zeal, more passionately than that of millions of spook-chasing Christian ministers who are promoting their claptrap which, incidentally, none of them had a hand in formulating either. The treacherous Jews devised it, and these "useful idiots" just spread Yahweh's garbage around for them, much to the yids' glee and our own detriment. The point I am making is that history has demonstrated time and again the tremendous influence of religion on any people's destiny, especially in that of our own destruction, and in the success of the Jew's conquest of the world. A racial religion is the key to our future existence, and since that is so, let us embrace one that will really "save" us, not one that seeks to equalize us into a tribe of nigrescent octoroons and baboons. If you really believe that our genetic treasure, our precious gene pool, is worth fighting for, then join with us, start a Church of the Creator in your area. It can be done, it must be done.

We will politicize our movement from the pulpits (see C.C. Nos. 64 and 69 in the White Man's Bible) just as the niggers do from theirs. We will do it just as legitimately, but even more effectively. Come join with us and through our combined forces let us build that mighty battering ram with which to smash the Jewish monster.

So quit spinning your wheels and help distribute ten million White Man's Bibles. Become a mini-distribution center for WMB, as the Pontifex has implored you repeatedly to do. We can "Wheel" our way to victory and smash the Jews and their stranglehold on us to smithereens, once we inform, arouse, and organize the White Race. Once we have control of our own destiny we will make damn sure that neither the Jew, nor the mud races will ever again be a threat to our survival on this planet.

Remember, for inspiration and enlightenment, read your White Man's Bible everyday.

We cannot—we will not—settle for less.

In the confused milieu of the present right-wing conservative — Identity — White racist movement a number of strange and contradictory ideas are being bandied about. Some of these ideas are not only downright counter-productive and destructive but extremely dangerous to the very survival of the White Race. Whereas the racial movement has any number of kooks and aberrants hovering around the fringes, we are not particularly concerned about them. Every movement has them. What we are grossly concerned about is some of the destructive ideas that are being pushed by some of our more prominent and responsible leaders in the racial movement, people who should know better. It is our objective to explore and clarify some of the more vital positions that are being advocated.

1. Territorial Fragmentation into a polyglot checkerboard of ethnic groups. (This includes the concept of Regionalism, a closely related defeatist approach.) Both of these ideas, in my opinion, are some of the most bizarre and insane ideas that are seriously being discussed and advocated by several of our White Racial Comrades in their effort to compromise and appease our enemies — the mud races. Basically, the fragmentation idea consists of slicing the United States into "ethnic areas" whereby literally scores of ethnic groups would theoretically be moved and shunted into their "allotted" territories, each presumably "receiving" (who will do the giving?) a choice piece of the United States real estate in accordance with their proportionate numbers. The process would be similar to what we did to the Indians in the 1800's, except now we would slice the entire United States into thousands of reservations and herd not only Indians onto them, but White people, niggers, mulattoes, Mexicans, Haitians, Cubans, Japanese, and everybody else, each into his or her reservation. Or another example would be the South Africa Apartheid system where each ethnic group would have their own compound, with government police enforcing the law that they stay in their compound or "homeland." This whole idea is basically so insane, it hardly warrants our consideration, were it not for the fact that many of our leading groups and promoters are advocating just such an idea.

When we stop a moment and think about it, the whole idea becomes so bizarre and ridiculous that an endless number of unanswered questions begin to surface, questions which have not been answered and remain unanswerable. In the first place, there are an endless number of minority groups that have special interests and we could divide the population into not only dozens of groups but more like hundreds, or thousands, depending on which way we want to slice it, and who does the slicing. We could categorize by country of origin — Vietnamese, Chinese, Japanese, Burmese, Pakistani, Mexican, Hindu, Mongolian, Fiji Islanders, on down the line. There are about 126 countries in the world to whom the United States is gratuitously dispensing foreign aid. Everyone of them has "refugees," immigrants, escapees who reside in the United States. They may number anywhere from tens of thousands (like the Haitians) to thirty millions (like the Mexicans). Surely, each and every one of them rates a slice of territory to call their own here in these United States? The Mexicans alone could reclaim all of the Southwest without a fight, territories our valiant forefathers fought and bled to win for the White Race. There are hundreds more that could also claim to be entitled to a chunk of territory on a nationality basis alone. Then we could subdivide all these hundreds of nations further according to their own ethnic groups. For instance, let us take Russia: There are the Ukrainians, Great Russians, the White Russians, the Poles, the Bulgarians, the Moldavians, the Letts, the Tatars, the Kazakhs, the Uzbeks, the Kirghezians, the Bashkers, the Kurds, the Kalmucks, etc., and on and on. In fact the Encyclopedia claims there are over 175 distinct peoples living in Russia alone, speaking so many different languages that scientists have not yet been able to list them all. Undoubtedly there are any number of representatives of each of these people resident in the United States. Should each of them be "allotted" a territory? Then we go on to each of the other countries with all their multiplicity of ethnic groups, all of whom also have large numbers resident in the United States. Undoubtedly we are already into the thousands of ethnic groups, classified by nationality alone. But then we should (and must!) divide them further by religion — we wouldn't want to mix Catholic Irish and Protestant Irish in the same territory, now would we? Or Moslems, Hindus and Sikhs from India? The list is endless, and for anyone to rationally try to cut the United States into little bits and pieces for each ethnic, religious, national and racial group would run into an endless nightmare, that could not be solved by the world's largest computer, nor the most intelligent grouping of brains, nor by any other means.

But supposing by an impossible miracle somehow it was done. Would we have peace and quiet, an equitable solution to the world's turmoil in the United States? Far from it. It would be the scenario for endless strife, turmoil, revolution, anarchy and mayhem, not to mention thousands of "independence" movements. This is not just theory. Let us take a real-life example. We could pick almost any country in the world, but let us take a good look at Burma, for instance, as a small scale prototype and microcosm.

Burma has approximately 37 million people. It is divided into at least thirty important minorities, but basically it has approximately ten major ethnic minorities. Listing them alphabetically they are: the Arakan, the Kachin, the Karen, the Karenni, the Lahu, the Mon, the Pa-O, the Palaung, the Shan and the Wa. These have loosely banded together into a revolutionary group called the National Democratic Front, or the NDF. Then there are three more major groups: the Burman, the Chin and the Naga. Each of these thirteen groups are segregated into their own territories in a fashion similar to what some racial leaders here are advocating we do to the United States.

Has Burma had peace and tranquility? Has it enjoyed prosperity? Hell, no. Ever since it was "given" independence some forty years ago and the British moved out, continuous and unrelenting revolution, warfare and anarchy has been the lot of this fractured and fragmented country. Once relatively prosperous in the trade of teak, jade and oil, it is now rated as one of the poorest and most chaotic countries in the world. Its main stock in trade now is opium and the drug trade, most of which is funnelled into the United States. But Burma is not the exception. It is more realistically a prototype, a textbook example of a nation fragmented by minorities. There are dozens of other third world countries in the same fix, and any number of others that are not third world such as South Africa, or Ireland or Nicaragua. In short, fragmentation is not a solution by any means. It merely compounds the problem. For us to even think of such a process in the United States is insane, utterly mad, and would only hasten the demise of an already shrinking White Race.

2. Nationalism. In this analysis, as always, we Creators are looking at all problems and solutions from the White Man's point of view. When we examine any idea, we ask the question — is it in the best interests of the White Race? In this respect there is another idea that is being bandied about that is divisive and destructive from the White Man's point of view, and that idea is encompassed by the word Nationalism. We find any number of groups that head their designation with the word National or Nationalist. the foremost of these, of course, was Hitler's National Socialist Party, the NSDAP. We Creators deplore the word Nationalist per se as being counter-productive, divisive and destructive. When we review the history of the White Race over the last several thousand years, (and especially Europe during the last several centuries) we find an endless series of wars and White people being killed by other White people. Practically all of these wars were fought in the name of nationalism, one nation against another, or one group of nations against another group of nations. The War of Roses, the Hundred Years War, the Seven Years War, the Thirty Years War, the Crimean War, the Boer War, World War I, World War II, and hundreds of smaller wars in between and after. In many of these wars religion entered into the picture, but even when it did, it was still by and large one nation, or group of nations against another. It was the Government of a Nation that instigated, plotted and waged the wars, and they resulted in millions of White men, women and children being brutally massacred.

We Creators deplore and denounce nationalism as such. We espouse instead Racial Socialism (See Chapter 6 of Nature's Eternal Religion). We espouse and promote White Racial Teamwork. (See Page 20 of Expanding Creativity.) If we must fight and wage war, let us make damn sure we unite and direct our forces not against each other, but against the mud races, and especially the parasitical Jews. Never again must we engage in war against ourselves, White men killing White men. This is the bottom line and a major segment of our creed and dogma.

3. Polyglot Groups. The idea has been bandied about that if we have a myriad of quasi-racial groups "deploring and lamenting" about their own narrow specialty, that we are then better off than if we join into one major powerful movement. The argument is that "the enemy" presumably the United States government, or the Jewish network, or the C.F.R., or "the Communists," or the I.R.S., or whomever each group deems to be the enemy, (there is no agreement) will not be able to destroy all of a number of polyglot groups in one fell swoop, whereas if we had one big movement, they might. This argument sounds good as far as it goes, but unfortunately it stops in the middle of a no-win mentality. What it is saying is that with thousands of little fractured and fragmented groups as we have seen operating for the past forty years, we will always have a few gnats buzzing at the enemies ears. Of course, we will never have a powerhouse with which to confront the enemy and destroy them, but we'll settle for being an ineffective annoyance.

We Creators deplore this insipid no-win attitude. We say — either we go all out to build a meaningful, massive, all powerful movement into which all our energies and resources are organized and integrated, and confront and destroy the enemy, or we go fishing. We see the enemy as the worldwide Jewish network as the target, not communism, or the IRS or any other tentacle of that Jewish juggernaut. We are out to destroy Judaism in toto, on a worldwide basis, nothing less. Delenda est Judaica! In order to do so we must build one powerful united battering ram that has the power and determination to destroy this worldwide Jewish pestilence.

Again, looking back into history, there is only one powerful movement that accomplished such a break-through in recent times, and that was Hitler's Nazi party in Germany during the 20's and 30's. As long as there were two thousand or more fragmented Nationalist parties, nothing was accomplished. When Hitler absorbed them all into his movement (we must remember he did not merge with any, he absorbed the members) then they had the clout to take over the government, and they did.

We in America must do the same. We must not settle for having thousands of fragmented ineffective gadflies buzzing about annoying the enemy, but we must go all the way. We must build that one concentrated organized movement that can and will take over the government.

4. The Turner Diaries and The Order. Some ten years ago or so Dr. William Pierce wrote The Turner Diaries under the pseudonym of Andrew MacDonald. It is the story of a group of dedicated White revolutionaries who wage an underground war of relentless destruction in order to undermine and destroy the "establishment" and government in power. They blow up bridges, railroads, electrical power lines and generating plants, government buildings, and in general, wreak havoc and mayhem. It is written in the form of a diary by one of its fictional heroes, namely Earl Turner.

The Turner Diaries have one fatal and inexcusable flaw, a flaw that leaves the whole plot less than useless. Supposedly, a few generations after all this mayhem, the White Race finally finds itself in control of the government and its own destiny. What the Turner Diaries fail to explain is that the most important step — namely, how they got from Point A to Point B, how they managed to turn anarchy and revolution into control of the government. Whereas the story does describe anarchy, destruction and mayhem in great detail, it then leaves a huge gap, an unexplained lapse. The reader is left hanging in a vacuum as to how all this mayhem is supposed to be rewarded with control of the country.

Now Dr. Pierce is an honorable, highly intelligent and dedicated man whom I have met and talked to on a few occasions and for whom I have a great deal of respect. However, unfortunately the formula espoused in the Turner Diaries is not the answer to our present problem of getting the Jew off our back, and when I say this I look back to seventy years of observing history. I especially look back to the time and place I was born, namely the Ukraine in Southern Russia. When I was born in 1918, there was an abundance of anarchy, killing, destruction and warfare there in the Russian revolution, enough to last anyone a lifetime. Five million people died of starvation in the Ukraine alone. Did this wake up the people to the problem? Did it identify the enemy? Did it produce a righteous outrage to kill and destroy the enemy? Did it produce a meaningful creed and program to set the country back on the road to salvation? No, it did not. It did none of these things. People were killed by the millions (Twenty million White Russians were massacred.) Millions of people starved. People suffered. The countryside was devastated. When the dust finally settled the Jews were in firm control and, today, seventy years later they are still in control. Despite all the killing, suffering, bloodshed and devastation there were a number of essentials lacking for a White victory — (a) the White people did not know who the real enemy was; (b) they had no creed or program to unite them; (c) as a result they killed each other instead of focusing on the real enemies — the Jews. It is a situation that history is bound to repeat today in an America were we in our present uninformed state to resort to unlimited violence and destruction.

Nevertheless, a group of brave young White warriors under the leadership of Robert Matthews took the formula seriously and decided to form an underground group called Brueder Schweigen (German for Silent Brotherhood) or, also known as The Order. They launched into a program of criminal activities such as armed robbery and even managed to assassinate a filthy Jewish talk-show host by the name of Alan Berg. The end result of all this was that these brave young racial fighters, some thirty-five of them, are now behind bars, their energetic activities neutralized and thwarted, probably for the rest of their lives. Bob Matthews is dead, having died heroically in a fiery shoot-out against the overwhelming odds of a massive swat team launched against him by the Jewish establishment.

I believe this is an unduly heavy price to pay in terms of our young activists for the killing of one lousy Jew. If, instead they had each gone their own quiet separate ways, secretly planned and planned well a number of attacks on groups of Jews, they could, for the same price, have killed probably as many as twenty, or fifty or a hundred Jews each. The sum total price exacted for the thirty-five now behind bars could have been several hundred dead Jews, instead of one filthy talk-show host. The thing to remember is that we all have to go sometime anyway, but if we are ready to go, don't go alone, and don't go cheaply. Exact a heavy price from the enemy. Make it fifty to one, or a hundred to one, but not thirty-five good White warriors for one filthy Jew.

Let us take a look at some of the strikes the Arabs, who generally are none too bright, have successfully executed. A classic example is the bombing of the U.S. Marine compound in Lebanon on October 23, 1983. There we find one lone truck driver (presumably an Arab) who willingly went to his death with a big smile on his face. But as he did so, he took with him 240 of his enemies (dead) as well as hundreds of wounded. Now if we compare that maneuver to the effectiveness of what The Order episode accomplished, we find that the lone Arab was approximately 35 x 240, or more than 8000 times as effective as were each of the 35 some members of The Order. Now that, my fellow White Racial Comrades, is one hell of a difference. Let's give this effectiveness a name. Let's call it the Enemy Toll Effectiveness Factor (E.T.E.F.). That is an E.T.E.F. difference of 8000 to 1, comparatively. Nor does the difference in effectiveness really end there. The quality of the enemy destroyed also enters in. We must remember those killed and wounded were U.S. Marines, fighting men in the prime of their manhood, a much more meaningful action than merely killing an equal number of random riff-raff.

Or let us take a look at another successful execution by a (so far) unknown group or hit-squad who successfully executed 22 Jewish rabbis in one fell swoop. Two gunmen posing as photographers, on the morning of September 6, 1986 entered the prize new Neve Shalom synagogue in Istanbul, Turkey. They opened fire with automatic pistols, set their victims on fire and blew themselves (and their victims) up with hand grenades. Going back to our Enemy Toll Effectiveness Factor, (E.T.E.F.), the score on this one is 11 to 1, but actually, because of the place and the rabbis, the ramifications are a thousand times greater.

This surprise action frightened the hell out of world Jewry, as nothing else can. This major episode has been suppressed and played down in the world (Jewish) press.

Undoubtedly the Jews feared, and rightfully so, that any amount of publicity would give the same idea to other groups throughout the world who would then be inspired to emulate similar actions.

The Jews' fears are well founded. A few more actions like the one in Turkey and the paranoid Jews will be scared spitless (they already are) and will be taking Rabbi Meir Kahane's advice seriously — get out while you can — head for Israel before it is too late! Nothing would please us more. Once they are all congregated in Israel and the American people stop supporting, subsidizing and protecting them, I am sure the Arabs can and will make short shrift of them.

Conversely, the Palestinians have not been doing so well recently in their rebellion against the Jewish tyrants in the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. Since the escalation of that uprising December 8, 1987, 210 Palestinians have been killed in exchange for only four Jews, according to Jewish news reports as of June 21. (Actually, I'm sure many more Arabs have been killed.) That is an E.T.E.F. of 52.5 to 1 in favor of the Jews, a very lopsided score indeed, and it should teach us a lesson, namely that sticks and stones are no match for machine guns. Let that be a lesson for all time! Never give up your guns!

There were several other ingredients missing in the agenda of The Order, as there were with The Turner Diaries. The most flagrant item missing was a positive creed and program for the future of the world. Both The Turner Diaries and The Order made it clear that they were against the Establishment and the present government of the United States, and they were determined to blow up the countryside and the physical plant in order to bring it down in flames and anarchy. The inference was that once the country (the U.S.A.) was in shambles and the "establishment" thereby destroyed, that the problem was solved and victory was ours. This is a rather naive conclusion, and not really any answer to anything.

What neither The Order nor The Turner Diaries made very clear was that the Jewish worldwide conspiracy was the real culprit and had to be destroyed. Nor did they spell out a format of what was to follow when it was destroyed. What kind of a world did they envision for our children and grandchildren? Were they for perpetuating the Jewish-Christian hoax? Evidently they were, since most of them were followers of Richard Butler's preaching that we, the White Race, are the real Israelites, and Christ was our Saviour. Obviously there is a schizophrenic and contradictory set of concepts in play here, a belief and attitude that is bound to produce nothing but disaster. On the one hand they are preaching Christian love and forgiveness, and on the other robbery, killing and criminality. Schizophrenic is the word indeed.

Furthermore, what did they have in mind about the rest of the world — Africa, Asia, South America, Australia, Europe? There was no program, no clear philosophy, no concensus. Only the negative drive — blow up the countryside, bring down "the establishment." What about using criminal means to fund their program? Was this any different than the train and bank hold-ups Stalin used to fund the Bolshevik program? In fact, many members of The Order were outright criminals before they ever joined the movement. Was criminality to be the basis of our future society? Were we going to replace one set of criminals in government with another set of criminals? Were we going to continue to hypocritically promote and espouse the Jewish-Christian blather?

In conclusion, neither The Order nor The Turner Diaries had, or have, a meaningful, comprehensive answer to the dilemma that sorely befuddles the White Race of today. At best, The Order was a group of dedicated White militants, a group to be admired. We need more dedicated White militants, and cannot afford to have them wasted ineffectively. Their intentions were noble, but their thinking was extremely confused. They reacted bravely in a violent, half-baked, knee-jerk reaction to a complex worldwide conspiracy they did not completely understand, especially the treacherous role played by Jewish-Christianity in this life and death struggle. Because of this, they reaped disastrous consequences in an ongoing racial war, a war that is going to demand millions of further White casualties. What we must make sure of is that when we do sacrifice our gallant warriors in the battle, we extract a much, much higher E.T.E. Factor, and not sacrifice ours wantonly.

However, we of the C.O.T.C. do not espouse violence, not at this time. Before we can launch open warfare or even covert warfare, we must first straighten out the confused thinking of our White Racial Comrades, and we must do it by the millions. Putting ten million White Man's Bibles in the hands of our White Racial Comrades would put us well over the top. It would cost us less than it now costs us to subsidize the niggers and the mud races for as little as half an hour. It would be the best bargain we had ever bought for ourselves. We certainly have the resources to do so. By the time we did so, violence would probably not even be necessary. After all, Hitler and his Nazi party took over the German government without blowing up a single bridge or power plant, and with very little bloodshed. We can do the same. The C.O.T.C. has the creed and the program to do the job. One part of it is getting those first ten million White Man's Bibles out.

5. Political or Religious Movement? There are any number of people in the racist movement who claim that the solution is purely political, and we should leave religion out of the picture. This is a shallow, naive and incomplete analysis of both the problem and the solution. History over the ages has taught us that religion comes first. We may call it by other names — Weltanschauung (German word for "world-view") or philosophy, or ideology, or creed, or an idea to which we are dedicated. But religion is really the best all-encompassing word that embraces all. All major movements in history were motivated by their religious core, whether it was Marxism, or Catholicism or Protestantism, or Mohammedism or Judaism. These religions then found political, economic, cultural and nationalistic apparati with which to convey their goals and ideas. But remember, religion was, is, and remains the prime motivator that provides the force, inspiration and direction to make those goals and motivations become a practical reality.

We see glaring examples of this in the world today. Communism or Marxism, which directly dominates three-fourths of the world today and indirectly perhaps all of the world, is a prime example. It is based on an ideology called Marxism. Then there is Zionism. It is based on an idea spawned by Theodore Hertzl, as espoused in his book The Jewish State. It combines with, pervades and overrides Marxism. But back of it all is Judaism, the Tribe of Judah's original Mosaic religion. Marxism, Zionism, Christianity and thousands of lesser organizations, creeds, ideologies and movements have their seeds in Judaism.

So, the problem is not purely political, nor is the solution. The root of it all lies in ideology or religion. The great White Race could have had the world, a beautiful world, all to itself a long, long time ago, had it only created for itself a racial religion to rally around, a religion that could and would unite it, give it concrete goals, direction and the inspiration to pursue those goals and directions for its own undivided benefit.

6. In Creativity we now have such a racial religion. Only as recently as fifty years ago, before the devastating and suicidal event of World War II, the White Race was supreme and unchallenged throughout the world. The mud races in India, Africa and even China were either in the control of, or controlled by, the White nations of Europe. The only threat to the White nations were other White nations (manipulated by Jews.)

Today the White Man has been driven out of all these areas, not by force of arms, but through treachery of their own Jew-controlled governments. We can look at Britain, France, Belgium, the United States (especially the United States) and find that betrayal and treachery turned over most of the land areas of the world to the mud races. But the treachery did not end there. The White Man (especially in the United States) is now feeding and subsidizing most of the mud races of the world, and the mud races are exploding in numbers at a rate unprecedented in all history. Not only have the mud races exploded and taken over most of the land masses of this Planet Earth, but they are invading and colonizing the home territories of the White Man himself — England, France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Canada, Australia, and the United States, (again, especially the United States) and the White Man is not lifting a finger to stop them. The United States is now becoming the dumping grounds for all the scum, criminals, free-loaders and mud races of the world. They are invading us by the millions — from Mexico, from Central America, from South America, from Indonesia, from Vietnam, from China, from Africa — you name it. "Our" government is not only not stopping this massive invasion, but rabidly encouraging it, providing the means and the wherewithal. It is all part of the Jewish program to mongrelize the White Race into extinction and replace it with a mongrelized mixture of brown zombies, dumb, subservient and thoroughly enslaved.

7. Before we come to the solution of this abominable situation, there are a few more misdirected ideas that are being bandied about by our polyglot White racial groups.

(a) The word Democracy, which appears in several nomenclatures. Let me remind these people that "democracy" is a Jewish invention, along with Christianity and communism. It is an extremely useful vehicle in manipulating their treacherous "divide and conquer" technique. Divide the White Race into two opposing groups — then with a small leverage, control the outcome. We Creators denounce the idea of Jewish "democracy," and strongly support and advocate the Leadership Principle, as did Adolf Hitler, and as has been successfully demonstrated by all viable organizations throughout history, whether it be the Catholic Church, or governments or financial organizations. (See The Leadership Principle in Nature's Eternal Religion.)

(b) The Christian Identity Idea. We have belabored this stupid claim that we, the White Race, are the real Israelites, on numerous occasions, and will not take the space here to review it again. It is so ridiculous and so contrary to any meaningful evidence in history that it hardly needs to be re-examined. (See Issue No. 32 of Racial Loyalty reviewed on Pages 124 to 138 of RAHOWA! on "British-Israel Identity.")

(c) The Confederate Flag. This outdated relic from the Civil War is not an adequate symbol representing the hopes and aspirations of the White Race today. At best, it recalls a tragic blunder, instigated and manipulated by the Rothschild Jews of large armies of White Men killing other White Men in a stupid and disastrous war that never should have been fought. It was a shameful, cruel, tyrannical war presumably fought over the emancipation of niggers, but in reality it was a war between Eastern Jew power and money power to destroy the wealthy White Southern plantation owners. In either case, it is a war of which we are not proud, and the Confederate flag represents the losers, just as the Christian cross with a Jew hanging on it represents a loser. All the Confederate Flag does is recall a shameful and tragic episode in our history, of White people of the north hating and killing White people in the south, a divisive, no-win "cause" that does absolutely nothing towards focusing on the real enemy — the International Jew.

The Confederate flag also symbolizes the defense of black slavery, an idea we Creators deem highly repugnant. We do not want to enslave anybody, nor exploit the inferior races. What White Man or Woman today would favor the importation and exploitation of black slaves? In fact, we curse those greedy White exploiters who combined with the Jewish slave-trader and dragged the scum from black Africa onto our shores, only to now leave us with the consequences of an ever spreading black plague.

How much better to replace the Confederate flag with the Creativity Logo — which says loud and clear — We, the White Race, are the crowning glory of Nature's Realm, and we cherish, honor and defend our racial good fortune as our most sacred treasure. This, far more clearly represents the goals and sentiment of the White Race on a global basis than does the Confederate flag.

(d) The no-win "Deplore and Lament" approach of most racial groups. For the last forty years more than twenty thousand groups have come and gone deploring the effects of the Jewish onslaught but never coming to grips with the real cause — the Jewish master plan to mongrelize and destroy the White Race so that they can enslave the world without any threat from a (formerly) intelligent, vigorous, aggressive White Race. Few of these organizations ever really identified the enemy (the Jews), nor the means by which we were being destroyed (Christianity and Communism) nor did any of them ever come up with a comprehensive plan as to how to overcome this sinister menace. (See The Flat Tire Syndrome, Issue No. 1 of Racial Loyalty of Expanding Creativity.) All we have heard from these groups is — deplore and lament! Deplore and lament! A rehash of past history (for the umpteenth time) of how we got into this mess! Having thoroughly depressed and discouraged our White Racial Comrades, these Jeremiahs then leave the reader hanging in his misery, never coming up with a viable solution.

8. We Have a Solution! We not only have a solution — but in a powerful comprehensive racial religion, we have the only solution. Our program reads as follows:

(a) Territory. We Creators are determined that the winner take all — that the White Race colonize, occupy and inhabit all — and we mean all — the beneficent territory of this Planet Earth. It is too late to play Santa Claus and divvy up territories to our enemies. It is a stupid idea today, and it was a suicidal idea in the past. We do not need the mud races to survive. We don't need the Jews to survive. Our unswerving attitude must be — to hell with the Jews! To hell with the niggers! To hell with the mud races! We will either take all, inhabit all, or we will drown in a sea of mud races. The world is becoming far too crowded to support both us and them.

In so doing, we do not want to ever again make the mistakes of history. We do not want to exploit or enslave any of the mud races. Nor will we further subsidize, educate them nor support them in any way. We just want to get rid of them by boycotting them and letting them wither on the vine and reach their own demise. (See A Planet Devoid of Mud Races, Page 65 of Rahowa! This Planet is All Ours.) In this approach we are following the good American Way, the same program our illustrious ancestors pursued in building America and the Winning of the West. (See Creative Credo No. 32 of the White Man's Bible, "We shall be Masters of Our Own Destiny—Winning of the West—the Prototype for the Winning of the World".) Anyone who is proud of America, proud to be White, proud of our forefathers' building of America and conquering a continent, should have no problem with the program of Creativity.

(b) We Creators are against a polyglot world of chaos, destruction and anarchy. We do not want to destroy, we want to build a Whiter and Brighter World, to unite the White Race under one powerful all-encompassing religion where the bottom line is the best interests of the White Race and the White Race alone — its survival, expansion and advancement.

(c) Placing ten million copies of the White Man's Bible in the hands of our White Racial Comrades will be a major step in accomplishing this magnificent goal of world supremacy.

9. Can the White Race Accomplish This Goal?
You bet we can. We have the numbers (there are still 500 million White Racial Comrades on this planet), we have the intelligence, we have the energy, and yes, we even have the financial means. Just one White multimillionaire like one of the Hunts, or a Ross Perot, could bankroll the whole Creativity movement all the way to victory. (See again "We are not helpless" page 148, and "How to Utilize your Wealth Effectively," of Expanding Creativity.)

10. Let us now draw some far-reaching and comprehensive conclusions. We Creators will neither accept nor tolerate a program that would Burmaize or fragmentize our greatest of all White homelands, namely the United States of America. Nor will we condone or tolerate such a program of Apartheid for any other country on the face of this planet.

We are determined to pursue a course of unrelenting expansion for the White Race until we have colonized and inhabited all the benign and benevolent lands and territories of this Planet Earth. For us it is either all or nothing. This planet is now too crowded for the White Race to survive in a sea of mud races, even if we wanted to, and we do not. We sure as hell will not be so cowardly as to condemn our future progeny to be relegated to a horde of stupid brown bastards. We are determined and committed to a program of not only survival, but to insuring that survival by expanding to the limit of our ability. We want it all, and by Jupiter, we will have it all.

In order to do so we are determined to follow our unswerving program as previously stated and spelled out in Rahowa!

1. First we must straighten out the confused, suicidal and scrambled thinking of the White Race itself.

2. This must be done by replacing the suicidal religion the Jew has foisted on the White Man's brain, namely Christianity, by a militant, yet logical religion, dedicated to the survival, expansion and advancement of our precious race.

3. We must then arouse and unite all our White Racial Comrades on a worldwide basis, polarizing them into one mighty battering ram and first of all, Priority No. 1, smash the Jewish behemoth.

4. From there on out, the rest is easy. We will then be able to control our own affairs, our own destiny, our own government, our own finances, our own education, and all the rest of the accoutrements that go to make up a brilliant, prosperous White society.

The rest of the mud races will then be of no particular problem, though they outnumber us 20 to 1. All we will then have to do is have the good sense to stop feeding and subsidizing these hungry freeloaders and they will wither on the vine and quietly shrink back into oblivion.

We now have the means, we have the intelligence, we have the numbers. We now also have the religion, the program (see Page 401 of the White Man's Bible, “Our Unswerving Program") and the fighting words to do the job. We are determined to meet Fire with Fire.

Rahowa!

As far as the White Race is concerned, there is absolutely no future for us in collaborating with the mud races.

* * * * *

Planet Earth is the only habitat the White Race needs or should ever want.

* * * * *

We say mass distribution of WMB's will do a lot more good than blowing up bridges and power lines.

* * * * *

Any White Man who would want to be a descendant of these fictional Jewish swine (who at best are moral reprobates) must be clear out of his cotton picking mind.

* * * * *

We have no intention of being either overly modest nor being braggarts. We are determined to stay on target and hit the enemy straight between the eyes.

Survival, Expansion and Advancement

First Part of a Series

These three words are the key words we Creators have in mind in our program for the salvation, resurrection, and redemption of Nature's Finest, our precious White Race. The more you think about it, these ideas become so obvious, you are led to wonder why no one has spelled it out before. Yet nowhere else but in the program of the Church of the Creator have I ever before seen this combination set down in print. Because it is so simple, yet it's implications so comprehensive, it has also been largely misunderstood by some, and deliberately distorted and misrepresented by our enemies, or even those of our friends whose hubris might have been ruffled. In this article we want to answer some of those criticisms and try to explain our program so clearly that even the most misguided fool cannot have any alibi to misunderstand us or have any room to misrepresent us.

Survival.

In all our comprehensive struggles we are of course talking about the survival of our precious White Race, the very pinnacle of Nature's bountiful array of creatures and creations. We are not interested in the survival of all the various species of the so-called "human" race, a polyglot collection of mud races and miscreants that are breeding, polluting and proliferating this Planet Earth — expanding in an uncontrolled population explosion. Not only are we not interested in their survival, but we look upon the present scene with horror and revulsion as the mud races crowd us out of our limited living space, and look with fear and grim apprehension as to what the future might hold for our children and grandchildren.

Charles Darwin, in studying the species of Nature, has perceptively observed that the greatest rivalry for food, water and living space on this planet is not so much between different species, but between the more closely related subspecies of the same genus, wherever they try to share the same habitat.

Certainly this is true in the history of the "human" race, and never was that rivalry for survival more explosive and fierce than it is today. Again, looking at it from the viewpoint of the White Race (the one and only point of view we Creators take on all matters) never was our precious race in more danger of mongrelization and extinction than it is today. And who or what is it that most threatens our survival? Is it some species of lions, or elephants, or whales, or gorillas? No, it is none of these. It is our more closely related sub-species of "humans," the niggers, the Mexicans, the Haitians, the Cubans, the Orientals, and in general, the polyglot multitude of mud races that are now exploding all over this planet, invading our own territory by the millions and crowding us out of our rapidly shrinking living space. And even more dangerous to our survival is the chameleon-like parasite that slithers ominously through the nations of the world — the international Jew. It is he who leads the mud races into hating us, and misleads and confuses the White Race into subsidizing and paying for the invading hordes that are bent on destroying us. Three major tools or "ideas" the Jew so skillfully utilizes in carrying out the genocide of the White Race are Christianity, communism and democracy.

It is passingly strange that the present "culture" is so frantically concerned about all the multiplicity of species that are now on the endangered list — snail darters, bald eagles, whales, condors, etc. Even among the "human" species, according to the Jewsmedia, our hearts bleed profusely for the starving niggers in Ethiopia, the Sudan and elsewhere in Africa and throughout the world. But never is the slightest iota of attention focused on the most flagrant and obvious tragedy in history that is unfolding before our eyes — the rapidly escalating genocide and extinction of 500 million of Nature's Finest — the White Race.

We Creators are not only vitally concerned about the survival of the White Race, but we are deeply alarmed and damned mad, and we are going to move heaven and earth to make sure we do survive. We will again review our dynamic program at the end of this article.

In the meantime, our number one priority is to survive. This comes first before we can expand, advance our gene pool, or do anything else. Nature gives each creature the basic urge to procreate and to fight for the survival of its own species, no holds barred. Nature also has given us that supreme right. We need no written laws, no constitution, no declaration from Washington. Nature says that we have not only the moral right, but the moral duty to do so. This is a basic tenet in our religion — Nature's Eternal Religion, and no man, no race, no government is going to change that or take it away from us.

Expansion.

The second basic urge Nature has imbued us with is expansion of our own kind — expansion of our numbers, expansion of our territory. This, too, is a basic natural right and a basic duty. Every animal, bird, fish, insect, plant or weed seeks to expand its numbers and its territory and Nature urges every species to do just that to the limit of its abilities — again, no holds barred. (Read again, Colonization—a Basic Urge in Every Creature of Nature's Realm, C.C. No. 21, WMB.) There is no competition for living space on Planet Earth from the lions, elephants or whales as far as the White Race is concerned. There is fierce and deadly competition from the allied sub-species of the human race, namely the mud races, as we have mentioned before. There are now over five billion "humans" or humanoids on this planet, fiercely competing for food, water and living space. The mud races are rapidly expanding in both numbers and territory, all at the expense of the White Race. For this we can thank the Jewish-Christian creed and program of subsidization, the major burden of which is being carried on the back of the world's foremost patsy, the working White American taxpayer. (See Operation Rip-off, page 172 of Rahowa!)

This must not only be stopped, but it must be reversed as quickly as possible, before the White Race is shrunk to the point where it can be physically overwhelmed and massacred — the long cherished goal of the Jews and mud races. This, too, the Church of the Creator is determined to overcome and we will again spell out our unswerving program at the conclusion of this article.

It is at this juncture that the opposition brings charges of genocide, race war, and mass slaughter against us, and we intend to make our position clear.

1. Yes, we want to reverse the trend of a dying White Race and an exploding horde of mud races as quickly and conclusively as possible. As soon as we have driven the Jews from off our backs and regained control of our own destiny we will devote our total and considerable energies to doing just that. This is our unswerving goal and we have every moral right to do so. This we are told by the highest authority in the Universe — Mother Nature herself. We make no apologies and we will not retreat from this position.

2. Yes, we then are determined to expand our habitat until the White Race inhabits all the benign and benevolent lands of this Planet Earth. Again, we make no apologies and our position is irreversible.

3. Having said this, we categorically deny that this would necessitate an all out racial war of extermination. On the contrary, our policy of uniting the White Race for its own survival and regaining control of its own destiny is undoubtedly the most rational and sagacious course of action we can possibly take to prevent impending anarchy and a wild, uncontrolled war of mass slaughter between the races.

Let me again remind our misguided critics that we, the Church of the Creator did not invent the racial issue, nor did we instigate the racial war to exterminate the White Race. The Jews instigated it, planned it, and have promoted it viciously and vehemently for centuries. The White Race is now in imminent danger of total mongrelization and extermination. Unless it soon gets its act together, becomes justifiably aroused and highly organized it will soon, and I mean in the next few generations, be an extinct species. It has every legal, moral and biological right to prevent such a major catastrophe from happening.

This is an undeniable fact, and the question is not whether or not we should allow ourselves to be exterminated, but rather how can we best defend ourselves and survive. A secondary question perhaps is how can we do so with the least amount of bloodshed to ourselves and the existing mud races that threaten to overwhelm us and, in the end, destroy us in an orgy of mass slaughter.

It is this issue which we will now address.

That the White Race must regain control of its own destiny before it can solve this massive problem (as well as any other problems) of that, too, there is little doubt. Before it can do so, it must become aroused, aware, organized and powerful. Of this, too, there is little doubt. In Creativity we have the creed and the program to do so, as we have detailed many times before and we will again expound upon this further in the conclusion.

Let us now assume that Creativity is triumphant, that the White Race has broken the power of the Jewish tyranny, that it now has control of its own government and its own destiny. How would we go about cleansing our own house, the United States, of the mud races, and eventually the world? There are two more questions. Can this be accomplished at all? And secondly, can it be done without a wild, uncontrolled slaughter?

Our answer to the last two questions is positive on both counts. Yes, it not only can be done, it must be done, and secondly, only if the White Race is first of all in control of its own destiny and government can it be done with the least amount of bloodshed and violence.

After the Jews have been driven from power, there are several large blocks of mud races that we must expunge from our land and our racial body as we would expunge poisonous toxins from our human bodies if we are to remain alive and healthy. Among these the foremost are the African blacks, secondly, the Mexicans and other Hispanics, and thirdly, the Orientals (mainly the Japanese and Chinese). The other 57 varieties of mud races would pose little problems once we have taken care of these three major groups.

Let us address the black African problem first.

As far back as two hundred years ago Thomas Jefferson already realized that White America had a festering racial problem when he said categorically, "Nothing is more certainly written in the book of fate than that these people are to be free: nor is it less certain that the two races, equally free, cannot live in the same government." In 1777 Jefferson was chairman of a committee of the General Assembly of Virginia which reported favorably for the emancipation and colonization of the black slaves into a land of their own, preferably a colony on the coast of Africa. He pursued this goal to the end of his life.

In 1817 the American Colonization Society was formed to pursue a program of repatriation of American blacks. This organization, which had a long life span, also had a distinguished membership over the years. It included some of the most prominent luminaries in American history. Besides its first president, Bushrod Washington, these included such notables as Francis Scott Key, John Randolf, Thomas Jefferson, James Monroe, Charles Fenton Mercer, John Marshall, Andrew Jackson, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, Abraham Lincoln and a long line of other prominent men and women. Four of these were presidents of the United States, some of our finest, so you can discern that the idea of repatriating Africans back to Africa is one of long standing and not some hare-brained idea dreamed up by the Church of the Creator in recent years. Although we do not have space here to catalogue the work and accomplishments of this notable society over the decades, one of their most notable accomplishments was the establishment of the African colony of Liberia in 1821 as a home for repatriated American slaves and actively transferring thousands back to Africa. By the time of the Civil War, the Society had removed 12,000 such emigrants to Liberia.

Abraham Lincoln, also a member of the Society, had a comprehensive and meaningful plan to lend impetus and culmination to the plan. Even while the Civil War was raging, Lincoln was busily engaged drawing up plans for removing the emancipated black slaves from out of the midst of White America to distant colonies or countries of their own. On August 14, 1862, Lincoln assembled a group of free niggers in the White House and delivered a long lecture to them, the contents of which have been recorded for posterity. In it he detailed his plans to resettle the freed blacks after the end of the war to countries in both Africa and Central America, and strongly impressed on his black gathering that it was incumbent upon those blacks with learning and leadership qualities to cast off their own personal interests and help provide the leadership and motivation for this gigantic undertaking. Had Lincoln lived, there is every reason to believe that this major exodus could have been accomplished and the racial problem in America solved once and for all. Unfortunately, as soon as the war was over, the same foul Jewish conspiracy which instigated the Civil War in the first place, had him struck down by an assassin's bullet, and instead resumed with increasing fervor its long standing design to rape, loot and mongrelize first the prostrate South, then the rest of White America. With the death of Lincoln the repatriation plan temporarily died with him and the vicious carpetbaggers from the North took over the brutalization and destruction of the ravaged South.

There have been several other notable attempts to remove the niggers from out of America and transport them back to Africa. One of the most remarkable of these was the "Back to Africa" movement headed by Marcus Garvey, a black of good education born on August 17, 1887, in Jamaica. After migrating to the United States in 1916 he organized a Universal Negro Improvement Association, which stressed the importance of economic progress, blood integrity, and race nationality. This organization became international and during the course of its activities, Garvey developed into the most powerful and effective advocate of race nationality ever seen in the United States. He organized a vast army of dedicated workers devoted to his program of repatriation. Rallying his followers to the slogan of "Africa for Africans," he built an empire of their own in their ancestral home of Africa. He even attempted the establishment of the Black Star Line of steamships to carry the black emigrants back to Africa. As his remarkable movement gained momentum, the Jewish establishment, who controlled the United States government (and just about everything else) became alarmed. In 1925 they had him convicted on trumped up charges of fraud. In this matter, that homosexual Jewish stooge, J. Edgar Hoover, played an important part. After spending more than two years in the Federal Penitentiary in Atlanta, Garvey was deported back to his native Jamaica, where he continued in political activity.

Despite his removal from the American scene, his movement did not die. He proved conclusively that the American blacks have a racial yearning to return to Africa and live in a country of their own. Had the government and the media supported Garvey and his movement instead of fiercely opposing it and then maliciously smashing it, the mass exodus of American niggers would have been successfully and totally accomplished more than sixty years ago, and that without bloodshed or the ravages of a racial war. Garvey died in London in 1940.

Before the beginning of World War II a prominent American patriot and staunch fighter for White racial purity, took up the battle for moving the increasing black hordes from out of the heartland of America. He was Theodore G. Bilbo of Mississippi. This remarkable man, who in his outstanding career was at one time a businessman, State Senator, Lt. Governor, twice Governor and served three terms as United States Senator from the State of Mississippi, also wrote a powerful book (1946). It is entitled Take your choice—Separation or Mongrelization. In it he analyzed the subject of race relations over the last 30,000 years and then reviewed the long standing battle to repatriate the niggers of America back to their native Africa. In the preface he stated, inter alia: "Personally the writer of this book would rather see his race and civilization blotted out with an atomic bomb than see it slowly but surely destroyed in a maelstrom of miscegenation, interbreeding, intermarriage and mongrelization. The destruction in either case would be inevitable — one in a flash and the other in a slow but certain process of sin, degradation and mongrelization."

On April 24, 1939, Senator Theodore G. Bilbo introduced a bill in the United States Senate called the Greater Liberia Bill. Three-fourths of the Senate Gallery was occupied by black delegates whose several organizations had produced a giant Negro Petition asking Federal aid for niggers who desired to migrate to Liberia and settle upon lands held in trust by that country for American Negro colonists.

The names in support of the petition were listed 50 to a single sheet of paper and the giant petition totalled approximately two and one half million names. Senator Bilbo, with this massive petition of 50,000 pages in front of him, in a memorable speech of more than two hours duration ably set forth the efforts of Jefferson, Lincoln and other eminent Americans to achieve the colonization of the blacks in America back to their native Africa. This he did to the cheers and effusive support of the massive black gallery who hung on his every word. However, again the Jew power in the United States Senate opposed him and the vast black army that supported the movement. With war clouds gathering in Europe, the measure was suppressed, as the Jews directed. But again, it conclusively proved that with government and media encouragement, that for such a movement it would not be at all difficult to win the whole-hearted support of the majority of the niggers themselves.

There is one more episode in recent American history that I believe demonstrates that the American nigger is ready, willing and receptive to being repatriated back to Africa, if only our government and the Jewish establishment would not repeatedly torpedo such efforts. That episode is the phenomenal rise and charismatic appeal of Malcolm Little in the black population a little more than two decades ago. This mulatto is better known in history as Malcolm X.

He was born May 29, 1925, in Omaha, Nebraska, the fourth child of Earl and Louisa Little. Earl Little was an itinerant black preacher, but whether or not he fathered Malcolm is a moot question, since Malcolm had freckles and fuzzy red hair. Be that as it may, while Malcolm was still a small child, the Reverend was killed when a streetcar ran over him and Louisa and her brood were left to shift for themselves. By the time Malcolm was twelve his mother was sent to a mental hospital in Kalamazoo, and Malcolm, who had always been a rebellious juvenile delinquent, was placed in a detention home. He was an energetic hustler and brighter than the average nigger. He managed to finish the eighth grade. He gambled, drank, smoked and sold reefers, and in general, moved on into criminal circles in Harlem. He soon became a thief and professional criminal. By the time he was 20 he was convicted and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary.

He served seven years, during which he spent much of the time educating himself. He also joined the Black Muslims, or Nation of Islam. When he was released in 1952 he made this his full time career and obsession. He soon distinguished himself as a fiery orator and outstanding leader. After six years of intensive hustling and promoting the Nation of Islam he became its most outstanding spokesman. By this time he was looked upon as the most likely successor to the aging Elijah Muhammed.

After extensive travels to Mecca, the Middle East and Africa, Malcolm began to formulate ideas of his own, and a split began to develop between him and the Black Muslims. He left the Nation of Islam and formed the Organization of Afro-American Unity, which was dedicated to uniting the niggers of America (and the world) and moving them to form a nation or nations of their own in Africa — the same idea Marcus Garvey had promoted some forty years earlier. So appealing was this idea and so successful was he in attracting millions of his black cohorts that both the Jews and the Muslims became highly alarmed. He was consequently assassinated by a trio while delivering a speech in New York on February 21, 1965. Two of the assassins were Black Muslims. The third was possibly a member of the Jewish Mossad, since the Jews usually do not like to leave such important assassinations to chance of failure.

Although dead at 39, the idea of Malcolm X lived on, nevertheless, and he is still regarded as a folk-hero among his people. Had he lived, he would probably have united and organized the black population of America to indeed migrate to Africa, and fulfill the dream of Marcus Garvey.

Today Louis T. Farrakhan is carrying on the same idea with great success, but with this one major difference: he wants to build a black independent nation right here in the heart of America, an event we must make damn sure never happens. Farrakhan has one redeeming feature, however. He hates the Jews even more vehemently than he hates the White devils.

I have briefly cited more than two hundred years of history regarding the problem of black aborigines and mulattos in the midst of a formerly White American society, starting with the efforts of Thomas Jefferson in 1777. What can we learn from this review? There are two clear and cogent conclusions we can and should draw from this study, and they are these:

(a) Intelligent and responsible White statesmen such as Jefferson, Lincoln, Bilbo and many others have realized from the beginning of the Republic that the black African in our midst was a festering cancer that was bound to destroy the White Race unless we took decisive and conclusive measures to expunge them from our social body; and

(b) That there is an instinctive and inherent urge and yearning in the majority of the niggers living in a White society to separate themselves and form an independent nation or nations of their own; that with support and encouragement from the government and the media, the majority would cooperate willingly in a "Back to Africa" movement.

The road block, the opposition to accomplishing this paramount historic achievement, does not come from the niggers per se, but from the insidious Jewish power establishment. It is the Jews who want the nigger to stay, to breed and multiply, to interbreed and mongrelize the White Race into oblivion. It is not that the Jew cares a whit for the welfare of the niggers, or their much professed love for "democracy," or their civil rights. They couldn't care less. On the contrary, the Jews' age-old program is to mongrelize the White Race, to degrade it, to destroy it forever. Their motivation is purely fueled by hate for the White Race, and by hate alone. Once they have destroyed the White Race and have a world of dumb brown zombies to contend with, they feel assured that their own future survival is secured and they will have no problem enslaving, ruling, and exploiting their brown mongrels forever and a day.

So our first and major objective is crystal clear: we must get the Jews off our backs, drive them from power, and take control of our own destiny and our government. Can this be done? And if so, how do we go about accomplishing this major historic break-through?

Our Rebuttal to NDF Reply

(Background: Gary Gallo at that time was the head of a small P.O. Box organization called the National Democratic Front, located in Maryland on the outskirts of Washington, D.C. He has since moved to Tennessee. The idea he advocated was to split the United States up into seven countries and move each ethnic group into their allotted territory, an idea that we deem as utterly insane.)

July 15, 1988

Dear Gary:

1. When we protest against slicing the White Man's precious living space into bits and pieces and "giving" it gratis and voluntarily to a polyglot collection of mud races, we are hardly engaged in a "straw man" issue.

2. The Burma mess is not at all different from what you propose to inflict on the United States, except that it is already in a more advanced stage. Each of those thirty or so minorities, too, want to be "completely independent" nations cut loose from the Burma government, and have been struggling to do so for 40 years. Actually, their case should be much easier, since, unlike the United States, their minorities are already territorially separated.

3. Your unrealistic plan would call for the forceful uprooting and movement of probably as many as 150 million Americans in the style of moving the Cherokees and other Indian tribes during the nineteenth and previous centuries, in their "trail of tears." This, however, would now also involve forcefully moving probably as many as 100 million White people. Do you believe in your wildest dreams that this vast operation would be voluntary and bloodless?

If, for instance in your magnanimous generosity you gave Arizona to the Mexicans, would the White homeowners in the city of Phoenix (which is still predominantly White) voluntarily give up their businesses and beautiful homes to the Mexicans and be shunted elsewhere? I think not.

4. Since we have shown that a polyglot United States has hundreds, if not thousands, of ethnic, racial, religious, linguistic and ideological mixtures scattered all over its wide domain, I challenge you to specifically name the "seven" categories into which you would arbitrarily and capriciously lump these hundreds, or thousands of mixtures. Secondly, draw a territorial map revealing your intentions as to just where each of the arbitrary seven would be herded. I can't wait.

5. Your argument that your plan would be "voluntary" and "bloodless" and our plan of expanding the White Race is one of genocide, I believe has the situation completely backwards. To uproot and move tens of millions of White Americans would cause a more bloody conflict between White and White than the suicidal Civil War ever evoked. It would certainly not unify the White Race, nor win any popular White support from the outset, a prerequisite before you would wrest governmental control from the Jewish establishment. On the contrary, the whole idea is so ghastly, so crazy, it is still-born at its very inception.

6. We Creators do not propose a "war of extermination" against the mud races of the world. We have said time and again we must first straighten out the confused and convoluted thinking of the White Race, unite it to pursue its own best interests, and stop subsidizing and feeding the mud races. They will then "wither on the vine" of their own incompetence to sustain themselves, as they did before "our" Jewish government undertook to rob the White Man of his productivity and substance in order to feed and expand the non-achieving mud hordes of the world.

7. The NDF does not address the crucial issue of Jewish Christianity — the most pervasive and suicidal mind scrambler of all time.

8. Since you advocate pursuing the "truth," as you say in your masthead every month, why don't you stop being a hypocrite and publicly state whether or not you believe Christianity to be a lying hoax, as you do in private?

9. The word "democracy" may have been coined by the Greeks, but nevertheless it is the Jews who have treacherously manipulated it into their "divide and conquer" technique (along with Christianity and Communism) as a tool with which to mongrelize the White Race.

10. The vast majority of the White population would undoubtedly prefer to live in a White nation, and we plan to make this possible, but they would definitely and overwhelmingly refuse to give up their homes and businesses where they now live and turn them over to the mud races, which they would have to do under the NDF program.

11. Creativity is not at all separate from political action as you falsely seem to imply. We are strongly political and are determined to take over our government and control our own destiny. Only by properly orienting and uniting the White Race can this ever be done. The fact is, we cover the whole comprehensive spectrum — race, religion, politics, culture, education, language, environment, eugenics, individual health (Salubrious Living), economics, geopolitics, and much more: read our Basic Books.

12. Instead of wasting our dwindling resources joining a "front," usually used as a concealment for its real motives, or substitute for a meaningless muddle, I would suggest that it would be much more constructive and productive if all men of your native talents were to forget their own little hubris and instead join in the comprehensive, creative, profound and meaningful program of the Church of the Creator.

Creatively yours,
B. Klassen, P.M.

Survival, Expansion and Advancement

In the foregoing scrutiny of history we have reviewed a number of historical events that would strongly lead us to the following conclusions:

(a) The separation of the White Race from that of the mud races, and especially the niggers, is a monumental issue that has plagued the American Republic from its very beginning, in fact ever since these black animals were first imported from Africa to infect and infest the White American gene pool.

(b) The racial problem has been pointed to with alarm by some of the most eminent of White leaders in American history, such as President Thomas Jefferson, President Lincoln, Senator Theodore Bilbo and a host of others.

(c) The conclusion unanimously arrived at is that the races must either be geographically separated, or miscegenation and mongrelization will in the end totally destroy the White Race (as well as the integrity of the black race).

(d) This has also been the conclusion of any number of black leaders, such as Marcus Garvey, Booker T. Washington, Malcolm X, Louis T. Farrakhan and others.

(e) The black leaders and the black race itself has shown a willingness to found a nation or nations of their own in Africa, if such efforts were not continually stymied and repeatedly torpedoed by the power establishment that rules America, namely, the Jewish network, the Jewish press, the Jewish money power, and the Jew dominated government of the United States itself.

So we now come to the crux of the problem that vitally affects not only the expansion of the White Race, but also its future genetic advancement, and most of all, its very survival in this, the latter part of the Twentieth Century. Therefore, before we can solve the nigger problem and get them out of our territory and prevent them from further contaminating our gene pool, we must first get the Jews out of our territory, out of our culture, and off our back. This is so obvious, so important, so vital, it is a matter of life and death for the White Race. To accomplish this clean-up, no price is too high, no effort too great, no sacrifice is too dear. Delenda est Judaica!

The question is — can we do it? The answer is: we can. We have, overwhelmingly, the resources to do so, in fact, we have sufficient resources for an overkill. (See Self Imposed Handicap, P. 89, and We are not Helpless, P. 148 of Expanding Creativity.)

The biggest problem is not the power of the Jew, formidable though it now seems, but the pathetic and vacillating effort of the White Race itself in waging that battle. Up until now the White Race has never had a clear picture presented to it of the deadly situation it is in. It has never had a specific creed or program to follow in its fight for survival. It has never really focused on the Jewish problem. Now, with the advent of Creativity, it has it all together. We have drawn in clear and stark terms the deadly situation that is facing the White Race. That ominous danger is genocide by mongrelization and, in the end, total massacre of any White remnants and pockets that may escape mongrelization. We have also clearly stated the solution — getting rid of Jewish Christianity, Jewish democracy and the Jews themselves. We, the Church of the Creator, advocate that we now rally around a racial religion of our own, unite and build a worldwide power structure of our own and militantly claim this Planet Earth as our one and only home, a home exclusively for ourselves and our future generations.

Can we do it? The answer is yes, we can do it, and we goddamn well are determined to do it, come hell or high water. We must do it — we have no other choice. For years, we have tried to reason with our enemies, to try to persuade them that separation is the best course. We have tried every reasonable argument, we have tried to compromise with them, we have tried to placate them. We have bent over backwards to be fair and generous with our enemies. It hasn't worked. The Jews don't have the slightest desire to negotiate, to compromise or to settle halfway. They are hell-bent for leather to take all, to destroy the White Race at any cost, at any risk.

So be it. To hell with compromise! To hell with being fair and reasonable. When reason fails, force prevails. This is now an all out war for survival and we will treat it as such. As I remember the rules of war as fought in World War II, (and every other war) anything goes — murder, treachery, lying, deceit, mass killing, whatever it takes to win. We will now adopt the same rules. I repeat, this is all out war. This is a matter of life and death. This is a matter of survival.

I again ask the question — can we win? I repeat the answer — yes, we can, and we are damn well determined to win at any cost. If you are too timid and weak-kneed to believe me, then listen to what some of our enemies have to say. Perhaps they will be more effective in convincing you than I am. Let's listen to what the Jews themselves have to say, and listen carefully.

One of the most militant and outspoken leaders of the Jewish race, both here in America and in Israel, has been Rabbi Meir Kahane. He is fiercely pro-Jewish in his every word, deed and thought, much more so than the average Jew. We can therefore reasonably assume that what Kahane has written and said represents a thoroughly Jewish assessment of the worldwide Jewish situation, its dilemma, its fears and its future evolvement.

What Meir Kahane is shouting to the world is startling. It is also highly encouraging from the White Man's point of view. What he is saying in essence is that the "holocaust" is coming, not only in America, but throughout the world. What every Jew should now do is get out while he can and scurry to the haven of Israel before it is too late, and that time is running out. We couldn't agree more with the rabbi and it is our objective to add fuel to the fire to scare the hell out of the rest of the Jews who may still be vacillating so that they may take Meir Kahane's warnings seriously to speed up the "Exodus," or "Aliya," return to Israel, as they call it.

The Jews are basically and pathologically an insecure, cowardly, jittery and paranoid people. They have good reason to feel jittery. Over the centuries, they have been run out of just about every country they have infested, except the United States. In the worldwide situation today they are sitting on a powder keg that is soon going to explode, as we have pointed out any number of times before. Combining their inherently paranoid nature with the deadly serious threat to their physical survival makes for a situation that will convince every Jew that he or she had better run for cover, and soon. We, the White Race, must give them every reason to exacerbate that paranoidal fear and give them plenty of reason to swell the present movement to Israel into a veritable stampede. I wonder what a dozen or so incidents similar to the one that happened to the Neve Shalom synagogue in Istanbul, Turkey, would do to their paranoia if they occurred in the United States in rapid succession?

Meir Kahane founded the highly militant Jewish Defense League in 1969. The JDL openly advocates bashing heads, breaking bones and killing people, if they are deemed enemies of the Jewish people. They not only advocate outright violence, murder, dynamiting of buildings, cars and the property of their enemies, but have repeatedly implemented such violence to further Jewish ends. If anybody is a threat to the Jewish cause, such illegal tactics are openly condoned by the JDL. They are aggressively justified as necessary for the survival of their people, therefore anything goes. In this respect, we Creators have no quarrel with them for their philosophy. They are right — they are justified in their fight for survival. So are we, the White Race, justified in adopting the same tactics, and we had better understand the ground rules: This is a deadly war for the survival of races — of Nature's species, and Nature has said loud and clear — in the fight for survival on Planet Earth the end justifies the means — any means.

So let us get the ground rules straight. We are in a racial war for the survival of our precious White Race — and we had better wage that war just as fiercely, fanatically and aggressively as does Meir Kahane and his Jewish band of parasites and cutthroats.

Rabbi Meir Kahane has written several books. Among them, Never Again; Time to Go Home; Our Challenge; and The Story of the Jewish Defense League, the latter published in 1975. In the story of the JDL the recurrent theme is:

(a) The whole world hates the Jews; they have no friends.

(b) The only people that can save the Jews are the Jews themselves.

(c) Events are rushing to a climax: there is going to be another "holocaust" in America, and worldwide, and Jews are going to be massacred on a wholesale scale.

(d) The other Jewish organizations in the United States such as the American Jewish Congress, the B'nai B'rith, the ADL, the American Zionist Federation, the World Zionist Congress, the Rabbis and the synagogues, all are a bunch of wimps and pansies, and are not facing reality.

(e) It is much later than the average Jew would like to believe and the only solution to save themselves and the Jewish race is "aliya" — going home — that is, returning to Israel.

(f) He has set up an organization called Habayta (Return) to promote an intensive drive to convince every Jew in every community "of the gravity and reality of the situation, and persuade them to take immediate, urgent steps to return to Israel."

(g) Not only does Habayta promote such immediate return, but it works with the Israeli government to plan cities, villages and settlements "in the liberated areas," meaning, obviously, the lands they have already captured and stolen from the Arabs, and the further stealing and expansion of such lands in the future.

(h) Kahane himself returned to Israel in the mid 70's where he was elected as a member of the Israeli Knesset. For years he carried dual citizenship, slipping back and forth into the United States and whipping up Israeli fervor. I understand that at present (1988) he is being forced to give up his U.S. citizenship.

(i) He is as militant and vehement in Israel as he was (and is) in the United States, and has made it plain that all the Arabs in "Israeli territory" (stolen, occupied, or whatever) must get the hell out, and now. At present they have a "choice," they can get out now and be "compensated" for their property, or be driven out later and get nothing.

Here are some quotes from his book. "If an American Nazi leader poses a clear and present danger to American Jews, then not to assassinate such a person would be the most immoral courses I could imagine."

"We created a special group of fighters — the 'Chaya Squad.' The word 'chaya' in Hebrew means 'beast.' We want to put out Jewish 'beasts' who would frighten the anti-Semite to the roots of his soul."

To this latter threat we say — very well, Rabbi Kahane, two can play that game. We, too, can raise an army of Storm Troopers as did Adolf Hitler and outnumber yours ten to one, or fifty to one. This is in fact, what we, the White Race, must do, are determined to do, and will do, and soon.

The Rabbi says further: "Three million Jews in the Soviet Union are being ripped from us now. And it is our obligation to break any and every law now to save them." Presumably, to "return" them to Israel. We are all for that. Aliya! and Rahowa! Let's support the rabbi in getting a Jewish stampede going of every Jew heading for a "return" to Israel. The White Russian people, too, would be real happy to get them off their backs and out of their midst. Let us make damn sure, however, that these parasites don't change course in Vienna and head for the United States.

There are many things I admire about the rabbi. He is fanatically loyal to the Jewish race and militantly active in promoting the survival and Jewishness of his race. What if we had a thousand such militant White warriors fighting for the survival, expansion and advancement of our race? The Church of the Creator has the creed and program to develop such leaders and bring this about, and we must carry on the fight just as fanatically and militantly as does the JDL, only more so.

There are many other issues on which I agree with the rabbi, the foremost of which is to bring home to every Jew that they should head for Israel now and that time is running out for them. On Page 230 of his book Kahane says: "We see it all, and we hear it all, and we watch a growing economic crisis develop which could be the spark to ignite the powder keg and we choose to ignore it. Like little children, we dislike unpleasant truths. We prefer to cut off the unpleasant for tomorrow and tomorrow and tomorrow — until...the next tomorrow is too late."

There is a cogent message in the above for the Jews. Rabbi Kahane is telling them loud and clear something that most Jews already realize but would prefer to ignore — they are sitting on a powder keg and the fuse is lit. There is also an ominous message there that applies equally to the White Race — and that is this: that powder keg can blow us up as well, if we continue to sit on our hands too long and fail to take not only adequate, but drastic, militant measures to insure our own survival. Let me hasten to add that the White Race can and will survive only if it gets the Jew off its back, and pronto.

I admire not only the militancy of Rabbi Kahane in the interest of his people, but the frankness and outspoken honesty with which he proclaims it. We can learn much from the rabbi and emulate his militant stand in the best interests of our own race.

There are, however, several puzzles and a few pieces missing in the rabbi's story. There are a few segments that are less than honest.

1. He repeatedly refers to the dreadful "holocaust" that presumably occurred during Hitler's Nazi regime. The fact is it never occurred. "Six million" Jews were never incinerated. On the contrary, millions of White people today fault Hitler for not having killed those "six million" Jews when he had a chance, rather than for having done so. Kahane, of all people, being highly informed, knows that the whole "holocaust" story is a damnable lie. Along with the rest of the Jews, however, he is milking the hoax to the hilt to arouse sympathy for the Jews from the outside world, and to stir up fear and fervor among the Jews themselves.

2. Nowhere in his whole book have I seen him mention that dreadful criminal gang of international murderers and assassins known as the MOSSAD, the Jewish secret police. Whereas Kahane pretends that other than his JDL, the rest of the Jewish organizations, including the Israeli government itself, are a collection of wimps and oppose his group, this story just doesn't wash. I am convinced that Kahane and the JDL work hand in glove with the master criminal band, the MOSSAD, which is headquartered in Israel, but whose agents and tentacles spread crime and terror throughout every country of the world. I am convinced, in fact, that the MOSSAD spawned the JDL in the first place as a semi-visible front for terror and intimidation to perform the minor criminal strong-arm tactics, while the MOSSAD supplies the hard core organization, the money and the direction to carry out worldwide revolutions, assassinations and civil wars, all incognito and behind the scenes.

3. Whereas Kahane and millions of other Jews realize that they are sitting on a powder keg that can any minute blow up in their face, I am not sure that either Kahane or the Jewish world establishment really wants all the Jews to hightail it to Israel. The flaw in the Jewish "aliya" is obvious even to a non-Jew — if the Jews all congregated in Israel it would permanently and totally break their power and influence in the rest of the world, especially the United States. Without the support and subsidization of these Gentile countries they now manipulate, especially the United States, Israel would quickly die in its own stench. Without the yearly billions it now receives from the United States, it would be incapable of feeding itself or financially supporting itself. Even with the $10,000 subsidy each Israeli family receives, at the expense of the American taxpayers each year, (how stupid can we get?) Israel still runs up huge deficits and has one of the highest inflation rates in the world. Without America's slave-like support, not only would Israel quickly wither on the vine, but its death knell would be rapidly accelerated as the masses of hostile Arabs would converge and massacre these parasites down to the last man, woman and child. Such is its well-earned hatred from its neighbors. Delenda Est Judaica! and to which we add: good riddance!

So either way, the Jews are in a dilemma. They are sitting on a powder keg and they know it. We know it, too, and we must move heaven and earth to hasten the day when it blows up and blows them to smithereens.

That the fear and the paranoia of the Jews is very real is further illustrated by an incident that happened some twelve years ago, an item that was not publicized in the Jewsmedia.

Back in 1976, a close administrative aide to the late New York Senator Jacob Javits gave an interview that revealed much about the aims, the arrogance and the paranoia of the Jews. It is my belief that Sen. Javits was an insider and a big wheel in the Jewish Kehilla, and would be privy to most of the secret information and manipulations of the Jewish conspiracy. Undoubtedly, his close aide would also become aware of many of those secrets. In the interview given by that aide, perhaps he revealed more than the Jewish establishment would have liked, for he was one of four who were killed in an alleged sky-jacking attempt on an Israeli airliner in Istanbul, Turkey, but unlike the others, he was not killed by a stray bullet. Evidently the aide, whose name was Harold Wallace Rosenthal, age 29, talked too freely. Although we do not have the space here to give the full details of that interview, here is the gist of what Mr. Rosenthal freely volunteered.

No one in the last three decades has achieved political power without Jewish approval. Roosevelt was their man. "We Jews toy with the American public as a cat toys with a mouse." "The blood of the masses will flow as we wait for our day of world victory," Mr. Rosenthal said coldly. "Most Jews throughout the world — I'd say 90 percent, know what is really happening to our people. We have communication unequalled anywhere." In Russia, there are two distinct governments — one visible and the other invisible — the invisible is composed of all Jews... "the powerful secret police takes its orders from the invisible government." "The United Nations is nothing but a trapdoor to the Red World's immense concentration camp. We pretty much control the U.N." "It (Israel) will eventually be the base for World Government headquarters."

Mr. Rosenthal arrogantly goes on for hours, and at great length, denouncing the stupidity and the gullibility of the goy, and how the superiority of the super-intelligent Jews has the world of goys locked up in its grasp. However, and for whatever reasons, Mr. R. confesses that the Jews are less than invulnerable, and that their whole program is based on lies. There's great fear among the Jews that the people, especially in America, are now waking up. "Our greatest fear is that this falsehood will be discovered, for we will be stamped out the moment the general public comes into possession of the truth and acts upon it." Great Balls of fire! Let's get those 10 million White Man's Bibles out! Let's turn up the heat and get the ball rolling!

Mr. Rosenthal continues his confession. "We are presently making plans for a rapid exodus. We know that when the light begins to dawn, there will be no stopping it. All efforts on our part will only intensify that light and draw focus upon it." We agree. Turn up the lights! Let us get those 10 million copies out!

"History confirms the fact that the passions of an aroused minority, no matter how small a group, has exerted enough power to topple the greatest empire." Mr. Rosenthal must have had visions of the coming of the Church of the Creator. He says, further, "History has been written in blood, not with ink." We Creators agree. Let us now translate our passions into action. A few more Intanbuls, (see p. 11 and 12 of Racial Loyalty No. 41) and the Jews, I predict, will panic into a stampede for Israel.

Here is our program for survival:

1. It is imperative that we, the White Race, take charge of our own destiny and take charge of the world. Any other course would spell the death of Nature's Finest and culminate in a world of anarchy and chaos. It would soon degenerate into a sleazy world of poverty, filth, starvation and misery as now exemplified in dozens of

"third world" mud countries such as Haiti, India, Ethiopia, Sudan, Burma, Pakistan and scores of others.

2. In order to survive, we, the White Race, must take a hard, militant and ruthless stand in defense of our own best interests. We must throw overboard the hypocrisy and mealy-mouthed professions of a Jewish Christianity which has led us to the brink of suicide. We must again face the realities of the world and adopt the unbending Laws of Nature in the fight for our survival.

3. In the creed and program of the Church of the Creator we have a clear-cut battle plan. First we build a powerful worldwide movement in the order and procession as spelled out in the eight articles of Creative Credo No. 64 of the White Man's Bible, which will and must culminate in the White Man wresting control of his own destiny and taking charge of the governments of the United States and other White countries.

4. Once we have done so, we will inaugurate an aggressive and ruthless program of cleaning up and cleaning out the mud races from our own territories. This we will do by: (a) First, we drive the Jews out of our land and stampede them in the "aliya" back to Israel as previously described. We are capable of doing this all right. We have the means, the power and the program to do so. Our problem in the past has been our abysmal lack of confidence, our lack of a clear cut program, and our vacillating and pusillanimous attitude towards our own power and potential. (b) Persuading by blandishments and inducements that the niggers emigrate back to their natural homeland of Africa. This, too, is neither unreasonable nor too difficult of an accomplishment, as we have already examined. Most of them can be persuaded to go willingly, but we will not hesitate to use force with those who do not. (c) Next we must clean up the Mexicans, the Cubans and the Orientals and send them back to their homelands by persuasion if possible, by force if necessary. In any case, we must and we will clean up and clean out the mud races from each and every White country of this Planet Earth, however long it may take and whatever the cost. Once this program gains momentum, and the mud races see the handwriting on the wall that we mean business, I predict that it will take a lot less time than it may now seem.

5. Once we have cleaned up our own territories and living space we will then proceed to the next progressive stage of colonization and expansion, a program that the White Race has been aggressively following during the last four centuries and has stupidly halted and reversed only during the last four decades. However, under the creed and program of Creativity there will be this major difference: instead of conquering the mud races, governing them and exploiting them (as the British did in India, the Spaniards in Mexico and South America, etc.,) we will conquer limited targeted territories one step at a time. As we do so, we will clean out the mud peoples and colonize such territories with White families only. This we will do slowly and systematically, planned and deliberately, thoroughly digesting each conquered territory before we take the next step. One of the first objectives could be the beautiful islands of the Bahamas and the Caribbean off our southeastern shores. The next objective could be the northern segment of Mexico. In each case we would draw a specific line, settle and colonize the targeted territory, then set the next objective and draw a new line and move on, step by step. While we are expanding our territories in the American hemisphere, the White countries of Europe could similarly be expanding in Africa, in Asia, and elsewhere. South Africa could regain and clean up Rhodesia, and keep on expanding northward into Angola, the Congo, and on upward and onward. Why not? We have successfully conquered and colonized the world for the last four hundred years, even though we lacked a coordinated plan and program. Only this time we will do it different. We will not race-mix, nor exploit the mud races, nor have them in our geographic midst. We will move them out — out — out!

6. One immediate major change we must make in our worldwide policy (as soon as we have driven the Jews from power in the U.S.) is to stop subsidizing the mud races, once and for all, either here or abroad. For the last four decades this has been a major insanity that has drained the working White people of their means and subsistence and artificially caused an unnatural explosion of the shiftless and incompetent mud races. It has been a catastrophic disaster for the White Race, treacherously imposed upon us by the perfidious Jewish tyranny. Once we stop feeding and subsidizing the damned mud races, 80 percent of them will automatically starve to death, relieving this overcrowded and over polluted planet of approximately 3-1/2 billion useless parasites. Where would Japan be today if we had not shipped massive quantities of food and raw materials to her? What if we had boycotted her and refused to buy her unneeded products? We would be a thousand times better off. Where would India be if we had not sent her massive quantities of food and aid? Where would Israel be? Egypt? Burma? Pakistan? The nigger republics of Africa? Closer to home, where would the goddamn Indians and niggers in the United States be if we stopped subsidizing and feeding these parasites? The answer is they would shrink and shrivel on the vine, and no longer pose the massive threat to our survival that they do today. I repeat, we do not owe the mud races a thing, and we have been stupid beyond belief to have subsidized Israel and 125 other countries for the last 40 years, much to our own detriment.

7. While we are colonizing the world and expanding our living space, we must also expand our own numbers. This is no major problem for a healthy and fecund White Race. This we must do by encouraging and making it possible for White couples to have earlier marriages and to have larger families. This, too, is no major difficulty, once the White Race is in charge of its own destiny. I can point with pride at the rapid numerical increase of my own ancestral Mennonites in Russia, a healthy and wholesome people who were family oriented, or we can look back on many of the White pioneering families of America, who, with plenty of living space and unfettered by a heavy-handed government and crushing taxes, often had families of eight or twelve children.

8. In any case, we must, and are determined that we inhabit this one and only Planet Earth, and make it all ours. It is the only course we can follow if we are to survive and we owe it to ourselves and our future progeny to do just that. Nature tells us to do so and gives us a clear and unbridled right to expand our numbers and territory to the full extent of our unlimited abilities, which are tremendous. We can do no less. We would be criminally derelict in our obligations to our illustrious ancestors, to ourselves, and especially to our future progeny not to fulfill our manifest destiny.

Let's fire up RAHOWA! and put more steam into Aliya!

The Story of Burundi

The coming era of the savage: Anarchy, Horror and Endless Massacres

For those bleeding hearts who cannot lavish enough sympathy and loving kindness on the savages of the so-called "emerging" Third World mud races, (emerging from what? Poking their heads out of the bush?) there is a strident lesson to be learned from the news that is coming out from many parts of the world. That lesson is this: If the stampede from the expansion of the mud races is not soon checked, the time will soon come when their hearts will not only be bleeding from misplaced sympathy, but will be gushing real blood from the slashes of machetes wielded in the hands of the very savages they are stupidly promoting.

Events of brutal savagery and horror are occurring in hundreds of areas of the so-called Third World. We do not have space here to recapitulate the long laundry list of such horrors. Let us just focus in on one such story that is in the news today — the massacres that are going on in the small state of Burundi located in the middle of Africa.

For centuries before World War II the White Man had been expanding his influence and territory on the limited land space of this Planet Earth. The British Empire was a prime example, at its zenith covering approximately one-fourth of the land area of the globe. But other European countries too, were in the race for colonies, such as France, Belgium, Spain, Portugal, and even the United States, each of these countries bringing not only law and order to the backward mud races of the world, but also civilization and learning to a range of semi-savages to outright head hunters and cannibals.

One of the most advanced countries of Europe that was late in entering the scramble for overseas colonies was Germany. Whereas countries such as Portugal had begun to found colonies as early as four hundred years ago, Germany strangely enough, only began to enter the race as late as the latter part of the nineteenth century.

Before World War I the area now known as Burundi was part of German East Africa, and was vigorously being settled and developed. When Germany lost that war, she was stripped of all her colonies by the "Allies," and the area known as Ruanda-Urundi was first turned over (by the victors) as a mandate to the League of Nations, then awarded to Belgium in 1924. Before World War II practically every territory in the continent of Africa was either governed by, or under the jurisdiction of a White civilized country. (See The Black Tide and the Mud Flood is Upon Us, P. 256 of Building a Whiter and Brighter World.) Not only did this enable the European countries to develop the rich natural resources of the African continent, but it actually improved the living conditions and standards of the backward natives as well.

The Jewish press, of course, disputed the latter claim, and after WW II a hue and cry was raised, not so much by the natives affected, but by the Jewish establishment, that colonization must go — that each savage tribe was entitled to freedom, independence and a country of their own. Soon, by treachery, through betrayal by their own European governments, and by means of massive propaganda campaigns of the Jewish press, the stampede for "independence" was in full swing and the White Man in Africa (and elsewhere) was soon shamefully in full retreat.

Belgian Ruandi-Urundi was split into two nigger republics, namely Burundi to the south, and Rwanda to the north. Burundi, whose present situation we are examining in this article, was proclaimed a "republic" on January 28, 1961.

All right, so now all these savage, backward niggers in Africa have "freedom," "independence," and full sovereignty of their own republics, something they never had had before and didn't have the brains to understand in the first place. They had it not because they wanted it, but because the Jew forced it on them, for the sole reason of driving the White Man out of Africa and shrinking the White Man's territory and influence. So everything is peaceful, prosperous and hunky-dory in niggerdom, right? Wrong!

Anarchy, poverty, mass starvation, massacres and mass murders are the order of the day, not only in Burundi, but in just about any and every nigger republic you might want to pick anywhere in the world — Ethiopia, Sudan, Angola, Pakistan, Burma, Haiti, etc. But let us focus in on the present day situation in Burundi, as we started to in the beginning of this article.

Burundi is relatively small, having an area of approximately 10,747 square miles, about the size of the State of Maryland. It has a relatively crowded population of five million, which consists basically of two tribes, the Hutis and the Tutsis, which have lived in a state of extreme hostility towards each other for at least four hundred years. Of the two, the Hutis (the short ones) outnumber the Tutsis (the tall ones) approximately six to one. However, despite their smaller numbers, the Tutsis are in control of the government and have the guns, and the Hutis are the oppressed and exploited, having only spears and machetes with which to defend themselves.

Somehow, some of the Hutis were getting some semblance of education, which worried the Tutsis. In 1972, the Tutsis decided to reduce the number of the Hutis and systematically proceeded to exterminate 100,000 "educated" members of the tribe. This was no big deal to the outside world, and no big hue and cry was raised. Compare this to the screaming outrage of the Jewish press in America when one coked-up nigger was accidentally killed as he ran into the path of an oncoming car when chased by some White boys in Howard Beach, NY. Anyway, back in Burundi, the tribal hatreds and feuds kept on simmering, the Hutis thirsting for their day of revenge for the 1972 massacre. A few weeks ago the Hutis in northern Burundi decided to do something about it, and with spear and machete in hand, they started a vicious attack on some of the ruling Tutsis families. They surrounded some of the compounds, set them on fire, and hacked to pieces some of its fleeing inhabitants, killing about two or three thousand. (An accurate count is hard to come by. Who can count?) The Tutsis, armed with guns, soon retaliated, and according to last (August 23, 1988) reports, about 5,000 have been killed, but this is not necessarily the end of it.

So now these nigger republics have their "freedom" (Ahuru!) and "independence" so greatly cherished by the Jewish media. So how are they doing? The answer is, terrible. They are unable to govern themselves, unable to feed themselves, unable to maintain law and order. Is Burundi an exception? Far from it. It is far more typical than the exception. We can see similar events happening in India, Pakistan, Angola, Sudan, Burma, any one of a dozen nigger republics in Africa. Of course, as soon as there is some catastrophe (there are always dozens of catastrophes going on in the backward mud countries of the world) good old Uncle Sap, the Red Cross and other bleeding hearts from the White world rush in to supply food, medicines and other aid. Crazee!

Why don't we just leave these savages to their own devices, now that they have their much vaunted freedom and independence? Let them kill themselves to their hearts content. We Creators couldn't care less. The more they decimate themselves the less crowded and polluted this planet will be, and open up the way for the White Man's revived expansion. In any case, let us stop feeding and subsidizing them. We don't owe the world a living, least of all our natural enemies. I say, let the bastards starve, and good riddance.

The real danger that is closing in on us is (a) the rapidly increasing influx of these jungle bunnies into the confines of our own country, and (b) the high birth rate and expansion of the mud races already in this country, all of which is turning most of our major cities into "Third World" jungles right here in the United States. Unless we, the White Race, get organized and get our act together, it is only a matter of time and we ourselves will be overwhelmed and overrun by these mindless, cruel and brutal savages, and many of these damned "bleeding hearts" that are now only bleeding with sympathy can soon expect to be bleeding real blood from multiple cuts of a machete.

Survival, Expansion and Advancement

Third and Final Segment of a Series

Advancement

Cacogenesis (Greek, caco(s) bad, and eugenics) Degeneration of race, esp. as caused by the breeding of members having inferior hereditary qualities.

Eugenics (Greek, eu-, well, and gen, bear, produce) The science of improving the qualities of the human species; the science of bringing about an improved type of offspring of the human species.

The above two definitions are from New Webster's Dictionary, 1981, and these two key words are the essence of what this chapter is all about. But let us begin at the beginning.

* * * * *

We will now explore the limitless and exciting possibilities open to us as we reach that much desired third plateau in our program of survival, expansion and advancement. We have not only survived, but we have now arrived at the stage where we have successfully expunged the Jew from the body of our White society on a worldwide basis and this scurvy parasite is no longer a threat or problem to us. We have achieved what the Church of the Creator set out to do in the first place — to wrest control of our own destiny into our own firm hands. We have driven the mud races from out of the United States and other basically White territories. Creativity is now firmly established not only as the White Man's universal religion, but is also being avidly pursued as the creed and program of all the good creative White peoples of this Planet Earth. A New Era has dawned in the history of Nature's Finest — the White Race is now free to develop its own great and dazzling potential — a potential that a bountiful Mother Nature herself has benevolently endowed and bestowed on her most favored species.

We now have a multitude of prodigious but exciting tasks to fulfill. The world is before our feet, but much, much remains to be done. The mud peoples, although no longer polluting the original White Man's territories, still occupy more than half of the land surface of this planet. It is our task to keep crowding them as we did the Indians in the North American continent and make more and more territory available for our own people, a program similar to that pursued by the White Race during the last four centuries, but with a difference. We will conquer these territories piecemeal, in a planned and deliberate progression. As we do so we will settle such conquered territories exclusively with our own kind — there will be neither geographic mixing nor racial mixing of any kind. We have already discussed this program in the previous chapter on expansion, and will not expound on it further in this dissertation, other than to remind our readers that this will be an ongoing mission until Nature's Finest inhabits exclusively all the benign and benevolent territory of this lovely Planet Earth. Like our illustrious pioneering forefathers who in their zealous drive for the Winning of the West were imbued in their Manifest Destiny of conquering this continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, so, too, will our dedicated and capable progeny be imbued with the resolute spirit of conquest and expansion until they own it all. And nobody in Nature's Realm is more deserving of this supreme reward than the creative, productive and intelligent White Race.

But the conquest of this planet is not the main subject of this chapter on advancement. What we want to explore in more detail is how we, now that we have conquered the world, can advance the quality of our life, how we can upgrade the quality of our gene pool and produce a finer, healthier and more beautiful species with each passing generation. We want to chart as much as possible the goals and objectives, the programs and procedures necessary in order to obtain these lofty rewards that are now within our reach.

The multitude of problems that beset the present confused and insane world might seem insoluble and hopeless. Mankind seems bent on turning this planet into a hopelessly crowded and intolerably polluted pigsty, and in the process committing wholesale suicide on itself. It is, in fact, at this point in time doing just that. But once we have gotten rid of the destructive Jewish parasite and the White Man is in control of his own destiny, we have an altogether different situation, a completely new ball game. There will be no problems the White Man can't solve and solve them he will, resolutely and in totality. For purposes of clarity, we will divide the problems raised and their solutions into three broad sections.

A. Cleaning up the Environment

One of the first major problems we will have to tackle will be to clean up this pristine planet from the ever increasing pollution of billions of tons of ordinary garbage and debris, and then the billions of tons of more dangerous substances classified as hazardous wastes, which consist of poisonous chemicals and radioactive wastes. All are a rapidly mounting problem that is not being addressed at present and the problem is compounding itself by geometric proportions as each year goes by. Nor will it be solved as long as the blood-sucking Jew is in control of our world affairs. Year by year these poisonous wastes are increasingly piling up with no place to go. Our land is polluted; our air is polluted; our ground water is polluted; our rivers, lakes and streams are polluted; and even our bountiful oceans, which occupy three-fourths of the surface of this planet and were once deemed as limitless in their capacity, are now also becoming dangerously polluted, especially along our beaches and shorelines. If this process continues much longer, this lovely planet will no longer be fit to live on, in fact, will not be able to sustain human life. Our environment is rapidly becoming a shambles, and as I have stated before, as long as the Jew is in control, it will become increasingly worse.

After we have eliminated the Jewish parasite from harm, what can we do to turn back the clock on pollution? Can we ever again have a safe and clean environment? Yes, we can. There is much that can be done and must be done. One of the major problems (but by no means the only problem) is overpopulation. No matter how you look at it, there is a limit to the number of people this planet can feed and the amount of waste it can dispose of in a safe and stable manner. There are now some five billion people on this overcrowded planet, and that population is projected to double in the next century. This runaway population explosion is wild and insane, completely out of control. It is a disaster of the first magnitude for all of mankind, especially for the White Race. We Creators believe in a bountiful and qualitative life style, every man a king, every family being prosperous and living in abundance. We have no desire to live in a filthy, diseased, poverty-stricken and overcrowded world as now do most of the mud peoples of the world, such as India, Haiti, Mexico and dozens of others. This planet just simply cannot support five or ten billion people living in the quality of life that we envision, and in any case, it will not do so. The answer is to reverse the population explosion and bring the figure back down again to a reasonable and stable level. I am not sure what that figure might be in the future but I would speculate that somewhere around one billion is a sane and comfortable limit. Since that number has to be kept stable and since there is only a fixed amount of land and space available on this planet, we want to make damn sure that this limited space is utilized exclusively by our own kind — Nature's Finest — people who are productive and intelligent, capable of providing for themselves a life style of which we can be proud.

So the first major step in bringing the environment back into good order is to reduce the population level of this overcrowded planet by about 80 percent, and to make sure that the future one billion that this planet can comfortably support is productive, responsible, and is capable of feeding and supporting itself. But besides cleaning up the racial pollution there is much more we must then do in properly managing the housekeeping affairs of this chaotic, but unique and most extraordinary Planet Earth.

1. We must stop poisoning our farmlands with chemical fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides. These chemicals not only poison our soil and our food, but wash down into our streams, rivers, lakes and oceans and poison them as well. Every one of these poisonous chemicals is toxic to plant and animal life. We must drastically change our methods of farming and food production and revert to Organic Farming as I have outlined in Creative Credo No. 13 and 14 of the White Man's Bible. This will produce three major constructive benefits for us: (a) it will revitalize and save our precious topsoil, (b) it will increase the nutritious qualities of our foods, and (c) it will greatly decrease pollution of our environment.

2. Concomitant with the above approach, we must for our own benefit and well-being also modify our dietary habits. Instead of producing feed and grains for fowl, cattle, hogs and other animals, we must gradually shift towards eating a larger proportion of fruits, vegetables and nuts in their raw state, and gradually eliminate meat products altogether. Not only will this greatly reduce the waste of converting produce into meat, but it will be much more salubrious for our own health and well-being.
3. Along with the Salubrious Living and Organic Farming program also goes a massive program of planting more trees, especially fruit trees. Trees are the most beneficial plant in Nature's domain. They act as the lungs of our atmosphere, they produce nutritious fruits and nuts for our dietary needs and they are an excellent insurance against the now ongoing desertification of our planet. (See Creative Credo No. 15, On a Worldwide Scale: the Encroaching Desert in WMB.) The massive and wanton destruction of our great rainforests that is now going on in the Amazon basin is not only an unmitigated disaster, but also a crime against humanity and Nature.
4. We must improve the treatment of sewage by improving the systems, and make sure that no raw sewage is being dumped into our lakes, rivers or oceans. We now have the technology to treat sewage so that it is almost harmless to the environment. However, in many cities the plants are overloaded and outdated. There are also a number of breakdowns, As a result, much raw sewage is dumped into our lakes, rivers and especially our oceans. In fact, until recently a number of seashore cities regarded the oceans as unlimited sewage disposal receptacles, and if they only ran their outfall lines a mile or two offshore, what difference would it make? Well, the oceans are not unlimited garbage cans. I remember while I lived in South Florida on the lower Eastern coast, some of the filthy garbage kept floating back to the beaches. We can have no more of such shoddy practices.

The most flagrant violators of polluting the oceans and the beaches on a worldwide basis are those Third World Countries inhabited by the mud races. Being highly irresponsible in the first place, secondly lacking finances (perpetually) they are in an endless dither about keeping their garbage disposal under control. Add to this their burgeoning population explosion, their situation is one of those mounting crises with no solution. How does this affect us? It affects us significantly, since we have to live on the same planet, share the same oceans and breathe the same air. Mexico is just one prime example of a country of mud races whose population increase is out of control. Not only is their untreated sewage washing up on the coasts of San Diego and lower California, but the population, too, is overflowing and spilling into, and all over the United States.

5. One constructive action we could employ with much of our ordinary garbage is the process of recycling that which can be salvaged. This includes a major portion of our ordinary garbage, such as aluminum cans, tin cans, glass bottles, newspapers, and a variety of paper products as a whole. Not only would this greatly reduce the size of our garbage dumps, but would save the cutting down of trees (for pulp) and a variety of other dwindling resources.

6. Making any and all throw away products biodegradable. About 15 or 20 years ago non-degradable detergents were being manufactured and sold by the millions of tons. Since they did not decompose, they lingered for years in our environment and were becoming evident as foam on the surface of many of our lakes and rivers. When a law was passed making it mandatory for manufacturers to make only biodegradable detergents, the problem soon abated. Today billions of non-degradable plastic containers of all shapes and sizes clutter our roadsides, or lakes, rivers and beaches, and our garbage dumps. This and many other similar problems will also need to be addressed.

B. Upgrading our Gene Pool.

I have put a lot of stress on cleaning up the already existing toxic, radioactive pollution and mountains of other garbage that are now overwhelming and choking this planet. It is a must, and as soon as we regain control of our own destiny we had better get busy, because no matter how we tackle it, the accumulated mess will take years, perhaps generations to clean up. In the meantime, and simultaneously, we must also begin to inaugurate such planned and deliberate programs as will set us on a course of improving our badly eroded White gene pool. In short, we must begin practicing Eugenics. There is nothing more important in the creed and program of the Church of the Creator than improving the genetic qualities of our unique and prestigious race.

Contrary to what the Jews and the liberal press have led us to believe, there is nothing very complex or ominous about this idea. Basically, it means that families endowed with superior physical, mental and moral characteristics should strive to have larger families. Those who are sickly, mentally inferior, and have inherent genetic defects should have smaller families, or if these defects are serious enough, should have no offspring at all. The White Race has known the basic principles of eugenics for more than a hundred years and has been practicing these principles in the breeding of better horses, cattle, dogs and cats for generations.

Right at this point the goddamn scurvy Jew will rise up on his knobby hind legs and scream bloody murder. Racist! Shades of Hitler! Human beings are not animals! To which we Creators answer loud and clear: to hell with you, you miserable blood-sucking parasite. We have been listening to your suicidal advice for too long. Now that we have finally managed to get you off our backs and out of our society, we mean to practice eugenics and upgrade our own kind to where it will be a marvel to behold, and thereby attain that lofty goal of mankind that Nature in her superior wisdom deliberately implanted in the Divine Seed of the White Race, and the White Race alone.

The idea of embarking on a constructive program of upgrading the future generations of our race is one of the most sensible, the most productive, and most obvious courses we could pursue. What is more delightful than to see a beautiful, healthy family of bright and intelligent children? What is more tragic than to see a defective child, a child who is crippled or mentally retarded, or physically deformed? Are these contrasts completely a matter of chance, or is there something meaningful we can deliberately do to see to it that the percentage of beautiful, healthy, bright and intelligent children is significantly increased, and that the percentage of physically deformed, idiots and morons is decreased to where it becomes close to zero? Is it completely a matter of indifference to today's White parents as to whether future generations of our progeny degenerate into a stupid mass of starving, clawing mud races as exemplified by such countries as Haiti, Burundi, or India, to name just a few?

From the reactions of some of today's confused and Jew-programmed White parents it would seem that there are too many parents who are completely indifferent about the abysmal fate into which they are willing to cast their future progeny. Be that as it may, we Creators sure as hell are neither indifferent, nor are we so criminally irresponsible as to ignore this most important matter. What future legacy we leave our children and their future progeny is not a matter of indifference but one of vital concern for the health of their genetic gene pool, and also the viability of a clean and healthy environment on this unique, this one and only Planet Earth.

As I have said before, there is nothing very complicated about improving the health and happiness of our future generations. We have known all about eugenics, but have stupidly ignored this vital subject for the last hundred years. For this we can thank the assiduous brain pollution dumped upon us by the perfidious Jew whose goal it has been for many centuries to mongrelize the White Race, to destroy the White Race and enslave the brown mongrelized product forever and a day. We can also thank Jewish Christianity, which has lain like a cancer on the White Man's brain for nearly two thousand years. Jew-concocted Christianity also heavily promotes cacogenesis. This it does when it blatantly emphasizes such suicidal advice as blessed are the meek, the halt, the lame, the morons and the idiots on the one hand, and viciously denounces the rich (the capable and the competent) on the other.

Well, we Creators have had enough of this Jewish and Christian treachery. If the White Race is to ever save itself and its future progeny from the hell of mongrelization, degeneration and slavery, that time has come. It is now or never.

At the beginning of this chapter I have emphasized two special words as defined by Webster's dictionary, both of which are derived from the Greek. It is interesting that the Greeks 2500 years ago were already aware of racial improvement or its opposite, racial degeneration. In fact, the Spartans assiduously practiced eugenics and by any standard the Greeks, both in Athens and in Sparta, were far superior to any group of people that have evolved since, in either physical or mental excellence. Unfortunately, eugenics was not part of their religion, and mongrelization crept in as the centuries passed. When I last visited Greece in 1973 I found the present indigenous population had sadly degenerated from their zenith of 2500 years ago to the extent that it could now barely be included among Nature's Finest. The fact is that the whole White Race has been on a downhill path of genetic degeneration for several centuries, and with the Jews promoting a force-fed program of mongrelization and race-mixing, this has especially been accelerated in the last 40 years. So we have our choice, either cacogenesis or eugenics. Either improvement of our genetic fabric, or degeneration. We Creators are firmly committed to a positive program of eugenics. Once we are in control of our own destiny we intend to promote a planned and deliberate program of eugenics, as spelled out in Creative Credo No. 28 of the White Man's Bible. This basically consists of (a) a Genetic Grading system, as described in the White Man's Bible, and (b) through religious indoctrination, encouraging those parents endowed with superior genetic qualities to have larger families, and those of inferior endowment to have fewer children or none, and (c) the sterilization of the incurable misfits, idiots and genetically diseased.

Again, we will have the Jews, the bleeding hearts and the liberals screaming to high heaven. What? Enforce birth control? Have the government meddle in family planning? The answer is yes, to both questions. We are not "meddling" when we encourage and take meaningful measures in improving the quality of our future generations. We are taking a much needed positive step towards improving the future welfare of humanity, and eliminating one of the most serious causes of misery. The difference between the welfare of the United States and Haiti, for example, is not a matter of natural resources (200 years ago San Domingo was more prosperous than all the Thirteen Colonies combined) nor is it a matter of their respective forms of government, contrary to what the liberals would have us believe. The difference between their sick, miserable and unhappy state of affairs and ours is due to the difference in the quality of two respective peoples, namely the competent White Race who built this country, and their degenerate mob of mongrels. However, let us not be too complacent. The way the United States is (a) being force-fed race-mixing, and (b) allowing itself to be flooded and overrun by all the scum and mud races of the world, it will only be a matter of time before we too will be as sick, degenerate and miserable as is Haiti today. (See Creative Credo No. 30 of the White Man's Bible, The Grisly Lesson of San Domingo—a Forerunner for White America.)

We now examine the moral question — does society have a right to prevent children from being born to parents — any parents? Our answer is an overwhelming and resounding Yes! The right to breed irresponsibly and indiscriminately is not an absolute right by any means. For irresponsible married or unmarried parents to push babies into the world whom they can neither support nor intend to support, as many of the nigger women are now doing, and foist them on the productive taxpayers for future support, that, my friend, is a heinous crime in our book. For the idiots and morons to thoughtlessly breed and let society take the consequences of their moronic reproductions, that, too, is a crime of heinous proportions. To throw such defectives into our gene pool to have disastrous consequences for centuries to come is a hellish crime that we Creators will not tolerate. To infuse the black blood of Africa into our White gene pool, that, too, is a crime of monstrous proportions which we will not tolerate either.

The greatest blessing we can bestow upon future mankind is to up-breed our race to where we approach the Superman — healthy, beautiful, intelligent White people, competent in not only responsibly providing for themselves and their families, but each family capable of living a high quality of life such as history has never before enjoyed. Surely, if a government can "legally" conscript young sons in the prime of their life and forcefully put them into a uniform and send them over to the jungles of Vietnam to be maimed and killed, then surely it is more reasonable and morally justified to prevent misfits, morons and mongrels from being indiscriminately pushed into this world by delinquent parents, only to have society take the rap and reap the disastrous consequences for their depravity and irresponsible crime.

There is one more compelling reason why society must finally come to grips with the world population explosion and take a positive stand on birth control. Eventually, even after we, the White Race, have colonized all the good lands of this Planet Earth, and the mud races are only a distant mad memory, the time will come when we will reach an optimum population that this planet can comfortably support. We speculate that such level will have been reached at the figure of approximately one billion. It will not take very long for the White population to reach that level, probably not more than two or three generations. Should we then go on indefinitely expanding that number wantonly and recklessly? The answer is a resounding No! What would be the point? It is much better to stabilize it at a comfortable one billion than overcrowd this planet with starving, clawing five billion, or ten billion, as we are in the process of now doing. Even if all the people on this planet were White, such numbers would hopelessly overcrowd, overstrain and overpollute this limited planet, and cause nothing but poverty and misery. So why do it? Whether we like it or not, positive birth control is the only answer. Since birth control is an absolute necessity, isn't it also logical that we would have a controlled favoritism for the genetically superior, and discourage the reproduction of the inferior? It absolutely is, and this idea is firmly and permanently ingrained in our creed and program.

C. Improving Our Society and Quality of Life.

We now come to the third stage. We assume that we have now replaced the mud races and our program of eugenics is progressing nicely. Having accomplished that much, we Creators are also keenly interested in upgrading the quality of our society and our lifestyle. We want every family, every man, woman and child to be able to lead a healthy, happy and prosperous life. We want them to have a feeling of belonging in their society, of being a proud member of their race, a feeling of accomplishment and that their life is very much worthwhile.

Much of this we will already have accomplished by (a) the genetic upbreeding of each individual, the culling out of the misfits and the genetically diseased, and by (b) bringing the population figure down to a comfortable level where there is plenty of room and living space for all.

But we want to further upgrade the health, happiness and well-being of our future generations by improving the societal structure as well. This we can do through Creativity whereby we give our White Racial Comrades a sense of fellowship and comraderie centered around their church. We want to see each community have a Creativity Center which will consist of not only a church, but which will be a major social center as well, one that will be family-oriented. It will encompass many social and recreational activities. Among them will be sports (baseball fields, bowling alleys, tennis courts, swimming pools, gymnasiums, etc.); cultural activities (theaters, libraries, public meeting halls for lectures, etc.); artists groups, musical activities and festivals, picnic grounds, etc. We also plan to have financial agencies that help finance and advise budding new business enterprises. We hope to have such Creativity Centers for the enjoyment of every small community in the United States and, in fact, throughout the White world. In the larger cities such as Los Angeles, there should be perhaps as many as three or four hundred such centers to service the White communities.

Our schools and colleges will be revised to reflect more interest in racial pride and racial integrity, and be focused more towards training our young people in the practical realities of planning for vocation, business, marriage and family life. Let me add one more feature to the list, and that is a computerized dating and mating system in order to help young people find the best mates for their future family formation. Not that we want to abolish the traditional casual meetings that have culminated in mating and marriage in the past — by no means. But it would be an additional augmentation to help matched family formations. Right now, if we Creators had such a system it would be a real boon for our young people to find proper mates of like mind — a situation that is not easily come by at this time in history.

I just want to add one footnote, namely that we Creators are much more interested in making real progress in our program of eugenics than we are in advancing our scientific technology. The fact is that with atomic bombs, hydrogen bombs, radar, laser beams, rocketry, computers and all the rest of an ever accelerating scientific explosion, we are reaching a point of no return, a point where technology has become our master, where scientific technology has far outstripped our social apparatus to control that dangerous and runaway monster. We are now in the precarious position where a few madmen can blow this world to smithereens and kill all human life with their lethal chemical, atomic and other insane weapons. Nor am I convinced that the human population for all its astounding advancement in scientific technology is any happier, or better off today than they were a hundred years ago, nor than were my Mennonite ancestors in their amenable and friendly social structure before the advent of the telephone and television, the automobile and electricity. We, the White Race, can amply feed, clothe and house ourselves and produce all the amenities for an affluent life with the technology we already have at hand. It is time we turn our attention to more important things — our own advancement. Don't get me wrong. I have no desire to roll back technology to the horse and buggy days, and it cannot be done even if we wanted to. In fact, I have been keenly interested in the sciences, all sciences, most of my life, and when I was a young man I studied electric and electronic engineering at two different universities in Canada. What I am now saying, though, is that we should drastically shift our emphasis. We don't need anymore complex and sophisticated machinery or gadgets than we already have. What we, the White Race, need to do is concentrate on a program of racial cleansing and advancement and a restructuring of our society and our social life. It will pay us much greater dividends in health and happiness than our obsession with runaway scientific advancement.

A few years ago I visited the Kennedy Space Center at Cape Canaveral, Florida. Last week I visited the Space Center at Huntsville, Alabama. The length and expense to which our scientists and technicians have gone in order to produce huge sophisticated rockets, rocket engines, extremely complex electronic guidance systems, electronic computers, electronic communication systems and a thousand other extremely complex, complicated, sophisticated (and tremendously expensive) paraphernalia is just simply mind boggling. In each case, the thought kept recurring to me — what in the hell do we need all this mess of tremendously complicated and outrageously expensive hardware for? There is nothing out there for us in space. If instead we would only have spent the same hundreds of billions of dollars in shipping the niggers back to Africa, and expended the same amount of zeal and ingenuity in improving our societal structure and upgrading our White gene pool, undoubtedly the benefits accruing to us would have been a thousandfold greater in terms of our own best interests.

* * * * *

The hard choice lies before the White Race: either colonize all of Planet Earth with its own, or become an extinct species.

Bashing the Rich

Fangs of Bolshevism

The basic plank of Karl Marx's communist creed is that the rich are the incarnation of all the world's evil, and must be exterminated from the face of the earth. Once these nasty rich, these "Capitalists" have been destroyed, the "proletariat," supposedly the working class, will take over, and there will be no more exploitation of the workers. Ipso facto, all problems, which are basically a matter of economics anyway (so the theory goes) will have been solved. If we will only get rid of those damn "Capitalists," we could have a beautiful new world order. Class distinctions will fade away, even government itself will dissolve into a sweet nothingness, and presto, and lo and behold! a new era for mankind! A veritable heaven on earth, a Worker's Paradise will appear as if by magic. Just kill those damn Capitalists!

These bait-and-switch ideas encompassed in this con game are as Jewish as Henry Kissinger's hooked nose and have a long Jewish history. In Protocol No. 1 of the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, they say that by shouting the words "Liberty, Equality and Fraternity" they have brought into the Jewish ranks whole legions of the goyim, who carried their (Jewish) banners with enthusiasm, while their own Jewish agents did the advance work in surreptitiously spreading these ideas. These same words were canker worms at work, boring into the well-being of the goyim society, putting an end everywhere to peace, quiet, solidarity and destroying the foundations of the goyim states.

Going back even further into the murky channels of Jewish propaganda, we find that a mythical Christ was pre-empting Marx and expounding the same destructive ideas. It is all set forth in the New Testament, written by Jews for the destruction of the goyim. Those nasty damn rich! Oh, how we hate them! It will be easier for a camel to wander through the eye of a needle than for a rich man to ever get to heaven. Christians and Yids prefer such worthless derelicts of society as Lazarus, who was lazy, shiftless, penniless, and so sloven and sick that the dogs licked his open sores. Those are the kind of scum Christians like to see in heaven, but those damn rich will burn in hell forever and ever and ever, because oh! how the Lord hates them!

Marx's brutal successors, Lenin, Trotsky and Stalin, ruthlessly pursued this evil communist dogma, and successfully conspired to engineer one of the most violent and destructive revolutions in history. Backed by the Jewish bankers of the world, especially the Federal Reserve bankers of the United States, they overthrew the three hundred year old Romanov dynasty of Russia, brutally murdered the Czar and his family (Nicholas II, his wife Alexandra and their five children), and the Bolsheviks' Soviet of Workers Deputies took over Russia, the largest and richest (in natural resources) country in the world. Whereas, the front men in this revolution were Marx, Lenin, Stalin and Trotsky, the real stringpullers behind the scenes were the Jewish Kehilla, the Jewish bankers and the Jewish network as a whole, the latter having worked toward this goal for many centuries. Jacob Schiff, of the Jewish brokerage house of Kuhn, Loeb and Company in New York bankrolled Trotsky's band of cutthroats to the tune of 20 million dollars during World War I and had them trained as killers and hatchetmen in Eastside New York for the takeover of the Russian Duma (parliament), and take over they did.

This Bolshevik revolution inaugurated the most evil and destructive era in the history of mankind. It is rivalled only by the destructive advent of Jewish Christianity that inaugurated the Dark Ages some fifteen hundred years earlier,and the similarity does not end there. (See Christianity and Communism: Jewish Twins, page 363 of Nature's Eternal Religion.) Not only did Trotsky's Jewish hatchetmen kill the members of the Duma, but in the bloody era of revolution, anarchy and famine that followed, the Jews had their Purim: they killed between 20 and 30 million White Russians as well. As in the French Revolution they killed off the leadership, Russia's finest in keeping with the Jewish maxim: Kill the best of the goyim first. Among those killed were several of my Mennonite kinsmen. We ourselves lost our beautiful farm and household and everything we had, and fled the country in 1924.

So, in destroying the rich (actually only the White leaders) did the poor reap the millennium? Did they get a Worker's Paradise? Hell, no! The Jewish dictatorship killed their goyim enemies, took over with a vengeance, and then clamped a brutal dictatorship on "the masses," a dictatorship they have maintained by sheer force and terrorism ever since. This they have done with the covert collaboration of the United States and its tremendous wealth and resources. (See Russia, Israel and the United States, C.C. No. 38 of the White Man's Bible.) With the United States ready to bail out the Bolshevik regime of Russia at every turn, the Jews have not only maintained their ironclad grip on the poor Russian victims, but have been able to expand their evil empire over most of the world. The result has been poverty, misery and heavy-handed tyranny over more than three-quarters of the population of the world. The unrest, chaos and destitution in Poland today is a current example, but only one of many.

So much for the communist revolution, much of which is already well known to most of our readers. What alarms us Creators is that a strange line of bolshevist propaganda is creeping in to the White racial movement today. Some of the "leaders" in some of the half-baked, ill-advised White movements are beginning to prominently spout the same sinister Bolshevik line. Instead of pointing the finger at the Jewish network (which certainly encompasses the super-rich, the real money power) they are blaming and bashing the White "rich." Strangely, people like Gary Gallo, Tom Metzger and Wyatt Clay Kaldenberg are saying that the Jews aren't really the bad guys. It is our own White people, our wealthy members, who are the real culprits. When I last visited Tom Metzger, he treated me to a replay of his Aryan Nations speech on his wide screen video player. Within two minutes of watching this speech, I told him frankly: "You sound like a communist." I also noted his repeated admiration of Lenin, of how his tactics “got things done." Yes, indeed he did with the backing and financing of a vast Newish network, inside and outside Russia, which paved the way, supplied the financing, the blueprint and the manpower, every step of the way. More important and to the point, what about Lenin's ideology? Tom had no comment on that, but I noticed that his library contained most of Lenin's works.

When I confronted Gary Gallo face to face with this question: Do you or do you not believe the Jews are our prime enemies? He replied flatly, "No, the White rich are our main enemies."

Let us halt the program right here and examine this "rich versus the workers" issue once and for all. Let us ask a few cogent questions.

1. Are the rich any more crooked, dishonest, mean, morally depraved and otherwise villainous than, say, the poor or blue collar class?

Answer: My observation after seventy years of dealing with every type of people imaginable, is, no they are not. Although White people are the finest and most honorable people in the world, you have good guys and bad guys in all classes, and there are just as many crooks, liars and petty thieves among the poor as there are among the rich, if not more so. In general, the rich are probably more responsible and trustworthy because they have more valuables to protect, including their reputation.

2. Are the rich mostly parasites on our society or do they contribute their share to the general welfare?

Answer: It is my opinion that the average man of means has contributed far more to society than the average poor. Let us take a few examples from history — Cyrus H. McCormick, who invented the first horsedrawn reaper, became wealthy because of his ingenious invention. As a result of this one invention, the then tens of thousands of farmers were able to produce three times as much grain and produce as they were able to do previously by using the hand operated sickle. Can you imagine what this means? One man's invention was now equivalent to the work of all the farmers three times over. Certainly any rewards that McCormack reaped were a small pittance compared to the increased benefits he contributed to society in exchange.

The same can be said of Eli Whitney who invented the cotton gin and thereby laid the foundation to a huge and thriving cotton economy in the South. The same conclusions can be drawn for such illustrious inventors as James Watt, who invented the steam engine; Robert Fulton who built the first successful steam driven boat; Samuel F. B. Morse who invented the first telegraph; or Alexander Graham Bell who invented the first working telephone; or for that matter tens of thousands of others, who like Henry Ford did not invent anything new that was patentable, but built a successful business that put the nation on wheels, or like Bessemer who invented a new steel manufacturing process, thereby enabling engineers to build skyscrapers that were not possible previously.

At this point some rich basher will jump up and say, O.K., O.K., you have only been talking about inventors, and they are all right and fully deserve whatever their rewards, but most wealthy people were not inventors.

All right, let's look at some other entrepreneurs. Let's look at the field of transportation. Some have formed companies that spanned the country with railroads from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Some built steamship lines. Some built stagecoach lines. Some built bus lines. Some, like Howard Hughes, Eddie Rickenbacker and dozens of others, built airlines. Certainly they created tens of thousands of jobs and contributed tremendously to the advancement of travel and transportation.

You want more? All right, let us look into the automotive business, which probably more than any other industry has created millions of jobs and tremendously expanded man's ability to get around much faster and more comfortably than he could with a horse and wagon. We have already mentioned Henry Ford, but there were tens of thousands more such as Gottlieb Daimler and Karl Benz in Germany, or in America such enterprising pioneers as Charles Duryea, Ransom E. Olds, Elwood Haymes, Alexander Winton, Charles B. King, John D. Maxwell, Francis Edgar Stanley (the Stanley Steamer), Walter White and hundreds of others. In fact, there have been as many as 2000 automobile manufacturing companies, most of which are now either defunct or have merged with more successful competitors. Many of these lost their initial savings and went broke, some made a modest fortune and some like Ford made tremendous fortunes. But they produced and they contributed tremendously to the advance of technology and changed the face of America and the world.

Shall we continue and go farther afield? Why not? The field is unlimited. We can go into the food manufacturing industry and cite entrepreneurs like Post who started with cornflakes; or real estate developers like Del Webb who built whole cities, well planned and well built; or architects like Frank Lloyd Wright; or newspaper moguls like William Randolph Hearst; or movie makers like D. W. Griffith, and cartoonists, movie makers and theme park builders like Walt Disney. As I said, the field is unlimited, and I could go on endlessly.

All, or most of these men, made millions of dollars and huge fortunes. But I say that, by and large, they earned every penny and they deserved what they made because they contributed mightily to the advance of our economy, our technology, our welfare and our civilization as a whole.

But even though I could cite endless success stories that would fill volumes, rich-bashing malcontents like Tom Metzger and Gary Gallo would still not be satisfied, mostly because of envy that they themselves failed to make millions. What about all the idle rich who inherited their money? Well, even many of those are not necessarily drones, nor are they lazy and unproductive. We can cite geniuses like Howard Hughes, who inherited a tidy sum of half a million dollars back in 1924 at the age of nineteen. But he did not sit on it and let it rust. He built up a motion picture industry, an airplane manufacturing industry, an airlines company, an electronics plant and had interests in a dozen other enterprises, catapulting his original inheritance of half a million into a multibillion dollar fortune. Certainly the man produced jobs, he built companies and he produced a myriad of products. What more could a man do?

Besides Howard Hughes there are countless more who took a small inheritance and built huge empires. The one common denominator we will find among these men is that by and large they were highly energetic, they were men of imagination and on the average they were more intelligent than the average yokels. Certainly most of them were neither drones nor parasites, which, let's face it, we cannot say about many drifters and freeloaders who are penniless and on welfare.

Over my seventy years of sojourn on this planet I have lived in four different countries and half a dozen different states of our good old U.S.A. My parents were poor and I, myself, grew up on a wheat farm in Saskatchewan. I have known all kinds of people — farmers, truck drivers, miners, ditchdiggers and millionaires, politicians, governors, senators, artists, writers, inventors, Nazis, Jews, niggers, scoundrels and con-men. On the issue of dividing the rich and the poor, I would have to come to the inevitable conclusion that men of means are, by and large, more intelligent, more interesting, more imaginative and easier people to deal with than are those who have never been able to put their act together and accumulate at least a comfortable nest egg to provide for themselves and their families. I say this without rancor and without prejudice. In summation, I would conclude that these people who have amounted to something financially are usually the movers and the doers and are, by and large, the pillars of our society that have advanced the White Race forward.

We now come to the last refuge of the rich-bashers who will strike their last nasty blow and accuse the rich of not having done enough to help promote the cause of us White racists in our fight against the foul Jewish conspiracy that is now threatening to destroy Natures' Finest — the White Race. In this charge I can totally concur. The tens of thousands of wealthy White men and women in this country, many of whom are the owners of huge fortunes, have done damn little to aid our cause, a cause which most certainly should also be theirs. But again, in fairness to all the rich, to all the middle class and to the poor, none of these have greatly bestirred themselves to fight back against this monster that is now devouring us, and certainly the average blue-collar worker, who is content watching the boob tube while guzzling his beer, is as criminally negligent as are those well-do-do individuals that Metzger and Gallo like to label as "fat-cats" and would just as soon see hung. Just as there are any number of exceptions among the blue-collar workers, so are there among the affluent. Certainly, Henry Ford, one of the wealthiest billionaires of our century, bestirred himself about the Jewish menace some sixty-five years ago and put out a series of exposes in his Dearborn Independent extirpating the Jewish network. Also, after years of research on "the Jewish problem" he put out a four volume set of books on The International Jew.

Andrew Carnegie, born a Scotsman, but destined to become one of America's foremost steel magnates, contributed 350 million of his fortune to charity. Of this, a huge sum went to building public libraries in every major city across America, so that boys would not be handicapped in obtaining books to read, a privilege that he himself was denied as a youth. He also instituted a number of other charitable institutions for the advancement of learning, and authored a number of outstanding books.

So much for the benefits bestowed upon society by the rich and affluent, the kind of people that Metzger and Gallo and many other envious people would like to hang. Having said all these nice things about wealthy Whites, let me make it clear that I like the blue-collar working man just as well, as long as he is White. I myself have done plenty of hard manual labor in my younger years. Being brought up on the farm, as a kid I milked cows, herded cows, picked rocks off the fields all day. By the time I was ten I was stooking sheaves in the wheat fields, or hauling grain to the elevator. By the time I was 15 I manned a team and rack as a full-fledged member of a threshing crew, an arduous labor of 12 hours, in the field from 6 A.M. to 7 P.M., with one hour out for lunch. This I did for several years during harvest, even as I was working my way through college. During some of these summer sessions I also worked in the nickel mines of Sudbury, Ontario, down in a stope sometimes as far as 5000 feet underground. This was hot, humid and suffocating work, shovelling heavy nickel ore eight hours a day. So let me assure you, I am no stranger to manual labor.

The vital point in this whole discussion is: We need all of our White Racial Comrades to build a powerful affluent and well structured White society. We need the rich, the poor, the middle class, the entrepreneurs, the managers, the planners, the promoters, the builders, the businessmen, the storekeepers and the farmers; especially the farmers, and I might add there are some very wealthy farmers, or were, until recently.

The real culprits that are destroying our country, our White society, our environment, and the White Race in particular, is the Jewish cabal, that eternal parasite which has destroyed peoples and civilizations for thousands of years. It is Jewish money and Jewish power that has been and is subversive and destructive to the White Man's society, and is enslaving the world. At the core of this bestial monster is the Federal Reserve Board and the network of Jewish bankers that own and control the parasitic monetary systems throughout the world. They not only control the monetary systems, but because of the tremendous power they thereby wield, and because of racial loyalty practiced by the Jewish race, they also control the governments, the newsmedia and every other nerve center of power. Backing up the Jewish bankers is the whole Jewish network, forming a sinister conspiracy to not only enslave the workers and producers of the world, but to mongrelize and destroy the White Race, the rich and the poor, the middle class in particular.

There is the real culprit — the whole Jewish network, as such, with the financiers manipulating the strings and planning the strategy.

It is at this point that we, the Church of the Creator, part company with Gary Gallo and Tom Metzger. Whatever their reasons for going off on this kind of destructive tangent, we will not sit idly by. To concentrate on bashing the White rich is not only highly confusing, but it is an outright deception. It is not even a racial issue, but overt class division among our White Racial Comrades, a communist plank and Bolshevik tactic of the first order. Nothing could be more destructive and confusing to the rank and file of the White racial movement, nor could anything be more comforting to our mortal enemy, the parasitic Jew, than blaming the White rich.

Gary Gallo has a strange and dubious background for one who contends that he is fighting for the White racial cause. I am told by one of his former close aids that his grandfather, whom Gary much admired, was a hot pink commie. How much of it transferred to the grandson we cannot tell, but evidently many of the grandfather's communist ideas took root in the grandson, as Gary's ostensible program, what little there is, seems to indicate. Gary's National Democratic Front (NDF) advocates (a) the progressive income tax (b) confiscation of property (c) no inheritance to the children of a family (d) state owned production facilities (e) hang the rich!

All of the above are outright planks of Marx's Communist Manifesto, as any student of the conspiracy will easily recognize. Whereas Gary readily latched on to the allure of the Communist Manifesto, with or without his grandfather's tutelage, it took him three years (by his own admission) to accept that the Jewish holocaust was a gigantic hoax, even after the facts were plainly laid out before him.

But that isn't all. Whether it is part of the Communist Manifesto or not, Gary has come up with another plank that is even more devastating, and that is — to slice up our American homeland and divvy it up among the different ethnic groups — niggers, Cubans, Mexicans, Indians, Chinese, Japanese, Haitians, Vietnamese, and of course, the Whites would be allotted a slice somewhere, too. We Creators say loud and clear — to hell with that noise! Our pioneering forefathers fought and bled to conquer this land. They took it by force and conquest. I repeat — conquest — from the mud races and built a mighty White nation. For any White traitor now to come along and advocate that we are willing to give it to all the scum and mud races of the world, free and gratis, on a silver platter — that, my friend, is unspeakable lunacy and foul treason to the White Race. Whose side is this fellow on? Whatever, we want no part of the NDF.

We now come to Tom and John Metzger who are a different case, but also indulge in bashing the rich and the "fat-cats," and also agree on slicing up America and handing vast areas over to the mud races.

Tom is an aggressive promoter and is doing a yeoman job of getting publicity for the White racial cause, all of which is to his credit. However, publicity isn't everything, unless it is espousing sound principles. Bruce Springsteen and Michael Jackson are each getting a thousand times more publicity than Tom and John put together, but neither is necessarily aiding the White racial cause.

What is even more deleterious is that Metzger also espouses a polyglot program of "working with" everybody. Well, almost everybody, except those he does not like. He will “work with" Christians and Identity racists, although he blandly professes he does not believe the stuff. He will embrace the Odinists, although he does not believe that claptrap either. He will gladly collaborate with such Trotskyites as Myatt Clay Kaldenberg, who happens to be a racist, incidentally, as well as a Trotskyite. This is perfectly acceptable and does not bother Tom at all. Tom even likes to play footsie with such niggers as Louis Farrakhan, since he, too, is a racist, even though a nigger racist who hates Jews and Whitey with equal venom. Tom has even made unsuccessful overtures to such international celebrities as Mummar Kaddafi, who also hates the Jews, as well as the United States and the White Race.

So what does Tom and WAR stand for? It is hard to tell, since his specific platform, if any, is transparently thin, shallow and skimpy at best, other than that he agrees with Gary about bashing the rich Whites and slicing up American territory in order to turn it over to 57 varieties of mud races. Somehow, Tom's philosophy reminds me of a big city prostitute, who not having any firm principles of her own, finds it easy to crawl into bed with just about anybody.

There are, however, a few exceptions. Whereas Tom deplores the strict and uncompromising code, creed and program of the Church of the Creator, he himself feels free to disagree and denounce anyone he chooses, but heaven forbid that we Creators should do likewise.

Well, we Creators damn well feel free to criticize the Jews, the communists, the niggers, or any member of the White Race, for that matter, if we feel that such people are leading the White Race down a dead end street to a major catastrophe. Why can't these fellows learn the obvious lessons of history that are plainly staring them in the face?

All this is painfully reminiscent of the George Wallace experience of some twenty years ago. I remember back in 1962 seeing those dramatic TV pictures of George Wallace standing in the schoolhouse door defying U.S. Attorney Nicholas Katzenbach and his U.S. marshals in enforcing integration of our public schools. At that time I was still somewhat apolitical, and had not even joined the John Birch Society. But it excited my racial instincts. A few years later I became politically involved. I joined the George Wallace campaign and by 1968 I was the Florida Chairman of the American Independent Party, promoting George Wallace for president. But soon I began to see strange things happening in the Wallace camp. He had a number of Jews in his entourage. He began waffling with double talk. He began to brag about the fact that he was not "anti-Semitic," in fact, look at the Jews in his staff. He began to veer and veer and veer. Soon he was no longer a racist, and in the end he bragged he had more niggers in the Alabama state bureaucracy than any other governor before him.

I denounced him and left him in 1969, realizing that he had been set up from the beginning to be a chabez-goi stooge, designed to neutralize the racial instincts of millions of our best White militants.

We now return to Tom Metzger and Gary Gallo and their ill-advised philosophies.

The first obvious lesson we want to remind them of is that the Marxist planks are Jewish in origin and are highly destructive to a White people and society. Russia has been under the Marxist heel for 70 years. I was born in the Russian Ukraine. Before World War I the Ukraine was the most productive bread basket in the world and could feed all of Europe. Today, under the Marxist regime, not only is the whole Russian economic program in shambles, but land-rich Russia can't even feed her own people, and has to beg and import millions of tons of wheat and foodstuffs from the United Stats and other countries. If the Russian economy had not been propped up on numerous critical occasions over the last 70 years by the Jew-loving United States, it would have collapsed long ago. (See Russia, Israel and the United States in the White Man's Bible.)

The same thing is happening in Communist Poland. The economy is on the verge of collapse. The people are destitute and starving. They are in a perpetual state of rebellion. With the slightest real encouragement from the United States, the Polish people would overthrow and demolish that tyrannical Jewish regime, once and for all. The same thing can be said of Hungary, Rumania and all of eastern Europe now under the Marxist heel. Anyone with even half a brain can readily perceive that the Marxist doctrine destroys private initiative and private enterprise. The result is stagnation, poverty, misery and total breakdown. You can only bash "the rich" once, you can only rob them once, but after the initiative is gone, productivity too, is gone, and there is no one else left to strip and rob. Look fellows, damn it, it just doesn't work. Marxism is just a Jewish swindle, plain and simple. It doesn't work.

The second lesson Gary, Tom and Co. should learn is that you can't overthrow the Jewish powerhouse with a polyglot assortment of divided little "movements," if such they can be called, even though you might have 10,000 of them, or 20,000 of them, as we have witnessed over the last fifty years. What we are witnessing in the so-called White racial movement today is what we call the P.C.I.C., namely a Polyglot Conglomerate of Irreconcilable Contradictions. This leaves us wide open to the Jewish powerhouse for their "Divide and Conquer" technique, because, like the big city whore we mentioned, we can't seem to polarize around any firm principles of our own. Like Harold Covington says in his book, The March Up Country, most White racial movements not only have no idea as to how to get there, they don't even know where they want to go. That pretty well sums up the whole mess of the Polyglot Conglomerate of Irreconcilable Contradictions. If you don't know where you are going, you sure as hell won't know how to get there. The fact is, we are no closer to destroying the real enemy today than we were 30, or 40, or 50 years ago. And the real enemy, let me point out again, is not the rich White, but the goddamn sinister worldwide Jewish network. There is not a rich White, nor a White politician, for that matter, in the United States today that wields any real power, and this includes even such highly visible families as the Rockefellers or the Kennedys.

We Creators do have a real, meaningful creed, program and doctrine. It is embodied in a comprehensive doctrine that takes in politics, economics, race, eugenics, religion, the environment, Salubrious Living and just about every other facet of human endeavor that is vital to the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race on a worldwide scale. Why do people like Tom, Gary and others in the movement choose to ignore it and espouse the sordid Marxist principles of bashing "the rich" (Whites, that is), promoting the progressive income tax, confiscation of private property and other Jewish claptrap? Not only do these fellows choose to ignore Creativity which has real answers for the White Race but they are openly hostile to it and vociferously attack it.

Why do they choose such an insane course when history has proven that not until the Germans united around one polarized creed (under Hitler) did they finally have the clout to destroy the Jewish monster?

I'll tell you why. The answer is hubris, hubris. They are jealous. Creativity shows up the poverty of their own half-baked, ill-conceived "programs," if such they can be called. As stated in Racial Loyalty No. 32, Hubris, Hubris, if they don't have it, if they didn't think of it first, they would rather torpedo Creativity than embrace it, even if the White Race goes down along with the torpedoed ship.

So be it. To hell with them. With friends like that, who needs enemies. If they value their own little hubris more than the White Race and want to wet nurse it rather than save the White Race, so be it. Sooner or later they will die or go out of business and their precious little hubris will die along with them. But Creativity will go on regardless. We will ignore their petty jealousies, their goddamn P.C.I.C. and instead keep attracting more and more members and build and build until we have one mighty tidal wave that will overwhelm and crush the foul Jewish network. We sure as hell don't need cooperation from useless ballast that wants to slice up our precious territory and give it to the mud races, nor do we need the intrusion of Marxist doctrine to confuse and louse up our creed and program. There is one thing that is a lot worse than a capitalist, and that is a capitulator. To hell with the defeatists and the traitors. We don't need them. We would rather have them as enemies outside our ranks than inside the fort and burrowing from within. Who needs capitulators? We Creators will never agree to give up one inch of our territory — territory won by the blood of our pioneering forefathers. We regard that as treason. Who needs defeatists? Instead, join with the C.O.T.C.; support the C.O.T.C. and build a movement with strength and purpose. Our unswerving and uncompromising goal is the Planet Earth — all of it — and we will never rest until all of it is settled by a regenerated and rejuvenated White Race — Nature's Finest.

* * * * *

Destroying the White rich has never benefitted the poor, but invariably transfers their properties into fewer and fewer hands of the super-rich Jewish bankers and money-manipulators.

* * * * *

How many times do some people have to be hit over the head with a telephone pole before they learn the obvious lesson of history — that Marxist programs were designed by Jews for the destruction of the White Race?

* * * * *

Our forefathers fought, bled and died to conquer this precious territory now known as America. For any White Man to now suggest that we voluntarily turn it over to the mud races on a silver platter is unmitigated racial treason at its worst.

Issue No. 46 — January 1989

Who Killed John Kennedy

No big mystery to those who understand the murderous MOSSAD, the nature of the sinister Jewish power establishment behind it, and to those few of us who have the guts to tell it as it is. Plainly, it was the Jewish MOSSAD who murdered John F. Kennedy.

Last November 22, my wife and I celebrated our forty-second wedding anniversary, and we did so in the company of our children and grandchildren on a special vacation at Disney World. On that same day the world widely acclaimed and publicized the anniversary of the criminal assassination of the then young and glamorous President of the United States, John F. Kennedy, shot down in cold blood in the streets of Dallas twenty-five years earlier. Numerous feature articles appeared in newspapers, tabloids and on television screens commemorating that fateful day. But after 25 years, the mystery of who shot Kennedy on November 22, 1963, seemingly still remains unsolved and beclouded. Numerous theories, mostly bizarre and off the mark, still swirl around that historic and dastardly deed.

I remember that day well, as undoubtedly do millions of others who were then old enough to realize the shock and impact of that foul crime. When my 12 year old daughter came home from school that day, the first thing she said was "Boy! those Republicans don't fool around, do they?" True, her assessment may have been premature and somewhat naive, but perhaps no more so than the numerous theories and conclusions floating around in the minds of the vast majority of the American public today, and certainly it was no more wild than the official conclusion put out by the Warren Commission that was quickly set up to whitewash and confuse the whole criminal affair. After months of "investigation" the commission managed to so contrive the "evidence" that it would support the conclusion they wanted to project even before they started the expensive and long drawn out probe — namely, that it was nothing more than one lone, erratic nut — Lee Harvey Oswald — who did the job, all by his impulsive little lonesome.

Despite the massive propaganda barrage that the Jews have slopped on us for the last 25 years, the American public and the world at large still won't buy that ridiculous explanation. In fact, at the time of the 25th anniversary in 1988 there was not only widespread coverage recalling the event, but there were also a number of public opinion polls taken as to what the public believed or did not believe about the Warren Commission's official verdict. The Orlando Sentinel ran one such poll in their program called "Sound Off." Of the 2039 callers who answered their key question — Did Lee Harvey Oswald act alone in assassinating President John F. Kennedy? — 1890 callers (93 percent) said they did not believe it. This was 25 years later, and after the prestigious Warren Commission who had spent months of endless "investigation" saying that a lone nut was responsible and that was all — there was no conspiracy! When this did not wash with the American public, the Rockefeller Commission was set up later to again investigate and whitewash the same affair, to try to shore up the public confidence in the Warren lie. When this still did not do the job, years later the House Select Committee on Assassination was set up, headed by a capable lawyer named Richard Sprague. When it seemed he might be coming too close to the facts, the CIA and FBI decided to have him sacked. The CIA took over and the cover-up of the crime proceeded to grind out the same impossible and ridiculously stupid conclusion as the Warren Commission. That the public still didn't believe it was shown by numerous polls conducted at that time and the ensuing years. Today, after numerous books and thousands of articles and "documentaries" by the Jewish press, the public at large and the world as a whole overwhelmingly rejects the ridiculous conclusion that "there was no conspiracy," as is shown by the Orlando Sentinel poll (93 percent rejection) and numerous other polls.

Although the American public is extremely gullible and will swallow most of the lies slopped upon it by the Jewish propaganda machine (such as the Holohoax) evidently the "official" Warren Commission lie is just too, too much even for the gullible American public to accept. And there is good and sufficient reason why such an outright and blatant lie cannot and will not wash, as we shall see. But whereas the American public will not buy the lone nut, no conspiracy story, it still remains hopelessly confused as to who did do it, and as to why Kennedy was assassinated.

Before we go into the who and the why, let us briefly review the known and accepted events of that fateful episode that in a few brief moments changed the course of American and world history.

On November 22, 1963 John Kennedy, in the company of his glamorous wife Jacqueline, was riding in an open motorcade through the streets of Dallas, ostensibly to shore up his sagging political image. As he was riding by the Dealey Plaza and past the Texas School Book Depository Building at 12:30 PM, shots suddenly rang out. Governor John Connally, who was riding in the same car in a seat in front of Kennedy was severely wounded. John Kennedy, whose brains were blown out by one of the shots, was pronounced dead on arrival at the Parkland Hospital, to which the car was rushed.

Lee Harvey Oswald, a drifter and nonentity without means, had evidently been carefully coached and set up by the conspirators to play the part of the fall guy. He was seen running out of the Texas School Book Depository Building, and a Dallas policeman by the name of J.D. Tippit, who tried to arrest Oswald shortly thereafter, was shot and killed in the act. Presumably he was killed by Oswald, but even this conclusion is questionable. Shortly thereafter Oswald was captured and taken into custody.

He was promptly questioned by seven FBI agents for 12 hours. Forty-seven hours after Kennedy was shot, while in the custody of Federal agents and being transferred in a passageway beneath the Dallas police building, Oswald himself was gunned down by a Jewish night club operator named Jack Ruby, (real name — Jacob Rubenstein). This was done in broad daylight in full view of the television cameras, and thereby instantly was destroyed a highly visible but unstable key witness who could have shed considerable light on the conspiracy. He was, however, only one of 29 people who were connected with the conspiracy who were to die prematurely and violently under mysterious circumstances, as we shall see.

Lyndon B. Johnson, Vice-President under Kennedy, was quickly sworn in as President during the flight back from Dallas to Washington. Contrary to all legal procedures and to the laws of Texas, Kennedy's body was also flown to Washington and taken out of the jurisdiction of the Texas authorities. So too was the investigation of this foul crime. The now president Lyndon Johnson quickly curtailed the investigation and bypassed independent Texas authorities who had prime legal jurisdiction by appointing the Warren Commission as the sole authority to do the job. Seemingly this was done because the crime was of such magnitude that the usual authorities who should have had legal jurisdiction (the Dallas police, the State of Texas) were too minor to be entrusted with such a major crime. Actually, the real reason, as we shall see, was so that the cover-up could be contained and controlled in one highly selective package, a package carefully stacked so that it could be trusted to do just what it did do — not to investigate the crime at all, but on the contrary, cover it up.

The Warren Commission, headed by Supreme Court Justice Earl Warren, took over all aspects of the investigation and barred all other authorities who had prior and legal right to do so. In this it was backed up by the controlled Jewish press, by the FBI, and by the CIA. In fact, it became a willing tool of these latter two federal agencies and did as it was told.

The story of the cover-up was long and odious, and unfortunately, we cannot cover all the details of its many dubious procedures, nor can we fully review its preconceived conclusion that it contrived to report in thousands of pages. Let me repeat that after all the massive propaganda support it received, despite volumes of lies sworn to by the FBI and the CIA, the fact remains — that after 25 years, even a highly gullible American public does not believe the commission's ridiculous and impossible fairy tale.

Basically, the conclusions the Warren Commission reported were these:

(a) There was no conspiracy.

(b) Lee Harvey Oswald, a lone nut, did it all by himself. He fired all the shots that killed Kennedy and wounded Governor Connally from a sixth story window of the Texas School Book Depository building.

(c) This consisted of only three shots fired from a Mannlicher-Carcano rifle made in Italy.

There is more, much more, thousands of pages of garbage, that is the story put out by the Warren Commission. It was the conclusion they were determined to foist on the public before they ever even started gathering "facts" and "information," and they stuck with it to the bitter end, either ignoring or twisting any evidence that did not fit their preconceived "conclusion." The story is so wild that it could easily fit into our series of "The Wildest Stories Ever Told." No wonder. The authors have a common mentor—the Jewish power establishment. Also, no wonder that after 25 years and massive doses of lies and propaganda the overwhelming majority of the American public still won't buy it.

Here are some of the strange and bizarre antics and episodes that occurred during this blatant crime and fraudulent cover-up.

- Although the alleged key culprit, Lee Harvey Oswald, was questioned by seven FBI operatives for 12 hours, the transcripts of the interrogations were burned and destroyed forever.
- Oswald was murdered within 47 hours of the assassination by Jack Ruby, a sleazy pimp and himself a paid operative of the FBI. This he was ostensibly able (allowed) to do while Oswald was in the custody and "protection" of Federal agents.
- In order to make sure that Jack Ruby would not at some later date recant and spill the beans, he conveniently "died of cancer" while in prison awaiting trial.
- None of Oswald's fingerprints were found on the Mannlicher-Carcano rifle with which he was accused of shooting the president. Since he rushed out of the Depository building immediately after the president was shot, he would hardly have had the time to clean it up.
- Although Oswald was known to be a poor marksman with a rifle (several months earlier, April 6, 1963, to be exact, he had taken a shot at right-wing Maj. Gen. Edwin Walker and missed) the Warren Commission credited him with the miraculous feat of inflicting eight different wounds on President Kennedy and Governor John Connally within six seconds from a distance of more than 200 feet and at an angle that would have taxed the professional skills of even the world's most expert marksman.

- One of these bullets was credited by the Warren Commission as having followed this most amazing route: It supposedly went through President Kennedy's back and came out of his neck, then went through Gov. Connally's back and out of his chest, into the Governor's wrist and out of his wrist into his leg. Now, man, that is some shooting! Strangely, this same alleged bullet was then accidentally found lying on the floor of the Parkland Hospital where the victims were taken. When "discovered," this magic bullet was found to be clean as a whistle, unscarred and unmashed, even though it supposedly had traversed and shattered ribs, wrists and other bones in its most remarkable trajectory. Would you believe?

- The Warren report blandly stated that "no credible evidence suggests that the shots were fired from any other place than the Texas School Depository Building." This despite the fact that the commission knew the names of at least 266 witnesses present at the scene of the crime. Of these two hundred and fifty nine were able to testify before the Dallas police, the Dallas Sheriff's Dept., the FBI or the Secret Service. In the case of 68 persons interviewed or called as witnesses, the law enforcement interrogators "forgot" to ask where they thought the shots came from. Of the 90 who were asked this important question 58 said that the shots came from the grassy knoll (in front of the motorcade) and not from the Texas Book Depository Building (behind the motorcade). Strangely most of the 32 who disagreed about the shots coming from the grassy knoll were government officials, their wives, or aides. Nevertheless, even ignoring coercion or bribery of such officials two thirds of the witnesses affirmed they believed the shots came from the grassy knoll in front of the motorcade, a very important piece of evidentiary information the Commission chose to completely ignore. We will have more to say about this later.

- There was one individual spectator, a man by the name of Zapruder who happened to film the motorcade at the time of the shooting, using an 8mm movie camera. Since this was hard evidence that could refute the conclusions desired by the conspirators, the CIA moved quickly to appropriate the film.

- LIFE magazine in its October 2, 1964 issue ran an article by then Rep. Gerald R. Ford (R-Michigan) who was a member of the Warren Commission. In this article, it ran eight pictures of the critical frames from the Zapruder film. In one issue frame No. 6 showed blood and brains spurting upward from the head of Kennedy. Evidently LIFE had committed an unforgivable error that could have run counter to the establishment's directive. The presses were stopped in mid-run and a new No. 6 picture was substituted, which merely showed the president slumped over. Someone from higher up evidently gave the order. When a keen reporter (who had a copy of both issues) years later tried to obtain an explanation from LIFE, the management blandly denied that there had been a switch or that there had been two versions.

- Nitrate tests exonerated Lee Harvey Oswald from having fired a rifle on November 22, but this evidence was suppressed.
- Oswald vehemently denied that he had shot anybody, but because he evidently had much more he could tell, he was quickly murdered and removed from the picture.
- Oswald was questioned by a federal agent back in August 1963, but the notes were later burned.
- X-ray and autopsy pictures of the dead president have been concealed from the public to this day.
- The Warren Commission claims that only three shots were fired and all came from Oswald's Mannlicher-Carcano rifle. Two of these shots were fired within 1.2 seconds (according to the Commission as evidenced by the Zapruder film). Officials of the Mannlicher Steyr factory in Italy found this most flattering, but stated that the time lapse between shots from their rifle had never been less than 2.3 seconds.
- When a newspaper in Spain (La Voz de España) printed that story and it was brought to the attention of the Senate Press Gallery, one of the pressmen (an agent of the CIA) asked if he could have the copy to photocopy it. It was "accidentally" destroyed.
- When the same individual who had dug up this issue tried to get another copy from the Spanish newspaper, he was told that they happened to have ample copies of every issue except that one particular issue. It had disappeared.
- During the Kennedy autopsy, his brain (what was left of it) was removed and placed in a stainless steel container with formalin. This chemical "sets" the brain tissue so it can be sliced and examined. It was placed in the National Archives, under lock and key.

Some years later, the neutron activation tests were perfected. These remarkable tests could accurately tell, for instance, by taking one hair from Napoleon's head how much arsenic had been given to him to cause his death. They could also tell whether Kennedy had been shot from the front or the back. When forensic pathologists went to the National Archives to try to conduct just such tests and settle once and for all the question of from which direction had he been shot, the JFK brain had disappeared from the archives. To this day, nobody knows where it is (officially).

That the conspirators were determined to suppress the real information at all costs was evidenced by the fact that it was apparently dangerous to know too much about the crime, should such people not be subject to control in cooperating in the cover-up. I have already mentioned that two people, Lee Harvey Oswald, and Jack Ruby, met violent and untimely deaths. Both of them were part of the conspiracy, and neither apparently could be trusted not to blow the whistle. But they were only two out of a string of at least 29 people who had some knowledge of the conspiracy and who, over a period of years, died under mysterious and violent circumstances. These murders, too had to be covered up in an ever-widening circle of complications. That the conspirators, whoever they were, or are, have been able to successfully do so over the last 25 years proves more than anything else that the conspiracy is not only determined and pervasive, BUT ALSO TREMENDOUSLY POWERFUL. Here are a few of those that met with an untimely death because they knew too much.

- Dorothy Kilgallen, a nationally known syndicated columnist and television personality interviewed Jack Ruby during the latter's trial for killing Oswald. She then made the mistake of telling her make-up man that she was going to "break the Kennedy assassination wide open within five days." Three days later, November 8, 1965, she was found dead in her apartment.

- Gary Underhill, a CIA agent, told friends he knew who killed Kennedy, and that he was sure that they would soon get him (Underhill) also. On May 8, 1964, Underhill was shot to death in Washington.

- William Pitzer, a lieutenant in the U.S. Navy had photographed the military-performed autopsy of JFK's body. He told friends he had been ordered to keep quiet about what he saw and did so for years. Nevertheless, he was found dead with a bullet in his head on October 29, 1966.

- Carlos Prio Socarras, formerly a sometime president of Cuba and at one time a business associate of Jack Ruby, died on April 15, 1977, of what was declared "a self-inflicted" gunshot wound to the chest.

- Joseph A. Milteer, who was identified by Miami Police as a "right-wing extremist" was secretly taped by the Florida lawmen in which he accurately described how Kennedy would be assassinated. This he did 13 days before the event. On February 9, 1974 a Coleman stove blew up in his bathroom. He died two weeks later, but the mortician who saw the body said the burns were not sufficient to cause his death.

- David Ferrie was a CIA contract pilot who flew secret missions into Cuba. New Orleans D.A., Jim Garrison, in a trial, questioned the flier, implying that Ferrie had flown the real killers out of Dallas and into Cuba immediately after the assassination. On February 21, 1967, a month after the questioning, David Ferrie was found dead in his apartment, shot in the heart.

There are more detailed stories easily available of people who knew too much and consequently died an untimely, violent death under mysterious circumstances. However, we do not have the space here to further pursue each case. I believe, however, that I have cited sufficient examples to show that the conspirators, whoever they might be, are powerful, are ruthless killers, and will leave no stone unturned in suppressing any evidence which they suspect might surface to blow their conspiracy.

* * * * *

We now come to the heart of the story. Who might these conspirators be? We have clearly established that there was a widespread conspiracy, planned long before its execution on November 22, 1963. More importantly, the evidence further strongly indicates that there was a vast cover-up, and it, too, was meticulously planned long before the Warren Commission was set up to whitewash the real conspirators and blame the "lone nut," Oswald, as the culprit of the foul deed. That Oswald was a naive patsy, and a small cog in the operation, of that there is no doubt, but he was neither the main instigator of the huge plot, nor is it likely that he even so much as fired a shot. Then who did? Moreover, who was powerful enough to successfully carry out a pervasive cover-up that spread not only throughout the nerve centers of power in this country but even to the press and power centers of foreign countries as well?

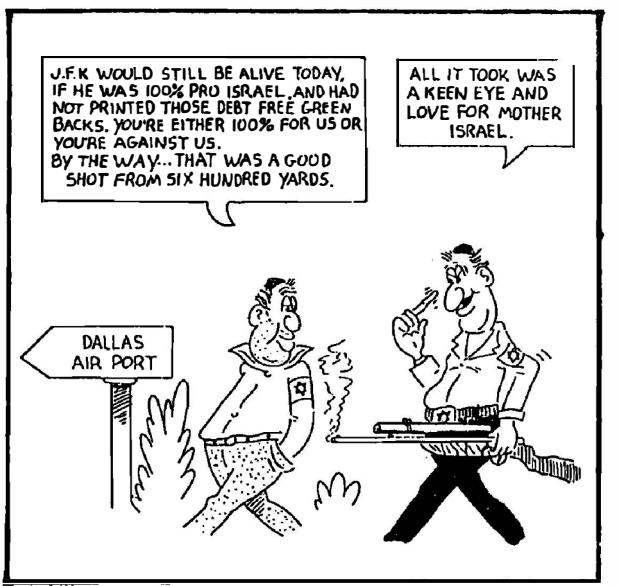
There are any number of individuals or groups who would have had motives to kill Kennedy, and perhaps would also have had the means to do so. After all, any man, no matter how well protected, is vulnerable to the assassin's bullet, as has been proved more recently in that President Reagan was shot at and hit, as also was Pope John Paul II and a number of other highly protected individuals. From time to time, a considerable number have been mentioned as possible suspects of killing Kennedy, people and parties who had both the means and the motive:

- Fidel Castro, because there was information out that the U.S. was going to liquidate him.
- The anti-Castro groups, because Kennedy betrayed them at the Bay of Pigs fiasco.
- The Kremlin and the KGB because of the missile crisis and other frictions, had both motive and the means.



- The list that has been brought up at one time or another is almost endless. For one reason or another the following have also been mentioned: the CIA, the FBI, Richard Nixon, Lyndon Johnson, H.L. Hunt, E. Howard Hunt, Howard Hughes, Aristotle Onassis, David Rockefeller, and even Jacqueline Kennedy.

Each one of these, it has been argued, could have conceivably had some motive to see him dead. There is one major test, however, that none of these could possibly meet, and that is the all-pervasive power in the press, in the political field, in the judicial field (and several other major areas) to plan and stage a successful cover-up, something the conspirators have more or less succeeded in doing for the last 25 years.

Who could possibly have the power to do this? Who could stop the presses of LIFE magazine in mid-run and change pictures? Who could yank the Supreme Court Justice out of his routine and put him at the head of a whitewash committee? Who could command the whole newsmedia to consistently support a blatant and transparent lie claiming that there was no conspiracy? Who could tell the Mannlicher-Carcano Corporation and its employees, even in Italy, to keep their mouths shut? Who could possibly murder at least 29 other people who knew too much and get away with it?

The Spotlight, in a series of articles it compiled over a period of years and put together in a book called J.F.K. the Mystery Unravelled, asks similar questions, but then at the very end it gets cold feet and cops out by leaving the question unanswered, and thereby does not quite unravel the mystery. DeWest Hooker, who is credited with being the first to enlighten George Lincoln Rockwell about the evil ways of the Jew (see dedication of G.L.R.'s book, This Time the World) was also an early cohort of Willis Carto in their Nazi days, told me that Carto had told him that The Spotlight can use such terms as "dual loyalists," "Zionists," "Israelis," but had been forbidden to use the word "Jew" in reference to any culpability in any endeavor whatsoever. Who would have the power to tell Willis Carto and The Spotlight that they cannot ever under any circumstances accuse the Jews directly of anything?

Why, who else but the Jewish establishment and the Jewish powerhouse itself. It is they who have the power to not only suppress any information they deem deleterious or harmful to their cause, but they can also spread wholesale all over the world any lie or set of lies they deem beneficial to their cause, and this they blatantly have done for centuries. The cover-up of the Kennedy assassination is one major example, but by no means the only one. The Six Million lie, the holohoax, is an even bigger lie they have successfully promoted, and Communism and Christianity are two more gigantic Jewish lies.

The whole stance and position of The Spotlight is in itself a strange case in point. Whereas it proudly proclaims to print news that other papers (meaning the Jewish establishment papers) do not dare to print, it does in fact present a wealth of news on the many shady shenanigans the government and the Jewish establishment would just as soon the public did not hear. Many of these news items are directly aimed at our cozy relationship with Israel and how Israel is manipulating the United States and ripping off the American taxpayer. It has even run a powerful expose on the 1967 Israeli attack on the U.S.S. Liberty, and referred to it repeatedly, something the establishment press does not dare to touch.

But here is the strange paradox in The Spotlight's position. It will go so far in pointing to the Jewish stranglehold in America and the world, but then it will pull back. It will never say explicitly, loud and clear, the Jews are behind it. Dual loyalists, Zionists, Israelis, yes, but not Jews, per se. The Jews, on the other hand, blatantly accuse The Spotlight of being violently anti-Semitic, and The Spotlight will vigorously deny it, and so they play the game. The fact is, there are a number of Jews on The Spotlight staff. Their star lawyer, Mark Lane, is a Jew. So are Charles M. Fischbein, the Collier brothers, Alfred Lilienthal and others.

Mark Lane's and The Spotlight's treatment of the Kennedy assassination is a case in point. Mark Lane has written a major book Rush to Judgment on this heinous crime, and written several subsequent follow-up articles, as have others on the staff. Mark Lane makes it very clear that the Warren Commission lied to the American public, that there was undoubtedly a vast conspiracy behind it, and that the whitewash and cover-up were of unprecedented magnitude. Anyone with an ounce of reasoning would be led to the same conclusion as we have come to — but strangely, he does not. He concludes that it was the CIA, which as we all know is American, don't we? So the Jews, Israel, and the MOSSAD had nothing to do with it, right? But then, you wouldn't expect a Jew to blow the whistle on the Jews, now would you?

This is a last minute diversion that is typical of most of The Spotlight's reporting — point in that direction — then cop out in the finale. All of which raises the question — is The Spotlight controlled by the Jews, or isn't it? We believe it is. We believe it fits neatly into the class III journal category, the Trap Classification, which is described in Protocol No. 11 of the Protocols of the Learned Elders of Zion. Whereas The Spotlight is evidently (for obvious reasons) not willing to put the finger on the Jewish network for the assassination and cover-up of the Kennedy crime, we of the Church of the Creator come up with the obvious and only answer: The Jews planned the foul job and their murderous band of bloodthirsty killers, the MOSSAD pulled the trigger or triggers that killed Kennedy.

* * * * *

Who or what is the MOSSAD? Most Americans have never even heard of it, and few even know it exists. It is therefore cogent that we expand here briefly on the nature of the Jewish MOSSAD.

The MOSSAD is, in a way, the Israeli equivalent of our CIA, but it is much more. It is the Jewish intelligence gathering arm, whose headquarters are in Tel Aviv, Israel, but their vast armies are spread into every country of the world. Like the CIA, they not only gather information relentlessly from every corner, nook and cranny of the world, but they also ruthlessly murder people they deem a threat to the Jewish conspiracy. They foment revolutions, hatch political plots, overthrow governments, assassinate key figures, stage commando raids where necessary, or organize revolutionary movements, all in the cause of the Jewish race. The CIA, or the Russian KGB do all these things also, but with this difference. Since the Jews control practically all the nerve centers of power throughout the United States and the world, so do the intelligence agencies of the United States collaborate with the MOSSAD. In short, the CIA and the KGB are adjuncts of the MOSSAD, with the MOSSAD firmly in control of all. The CIA feeds all important information it gathers not only into its own computers in Washington, but also into the huge bank of computers in Tel Aviv. So does the KGB, so does the British Intelligence, the German and the French. The MOSSAD gathers all, but it does not give any back. It is a one-way street.

In fact, the CIA and FBI are heavily infiltrated by, and staffed with MOSSAD agents. The MOSSAD also makes sure that their own agents are in every agency of the government, in the staff of every congressman and senator, and, in fact, every important nerve center of power.

In short, the MOSSAD is purely Jewish — loyal only to Israel and the Jewish race and the worldwide Jewish conspiracy. It is the world's most powerful, most efficient gang of killers. Although, historically speaking, the name of MOSSAD is of recent vintage, under other names the roots of these murderous brigades go far back in history. When the Jews describe the killing of 75,000 of their enemies in the Book of Esther, they were describing a typical MOSSAD operation, and they have been celebrating their PURIM every year ever since. Killing their enemies is what they mean by "having a good day." These killers run rampant throughout every country in the world, including, and especially, the United States. Our congressmen are acutely aware, and also deathly afraid of them, and for good reason, as are most personnel in the government's employ.

It is my unswerving conclusion that when the Jews planned to assassinate John Kennedy, it was the MOSSAD which did the job. They had their professional triggermen carry out the execution and do it right. They had their sharpshooters set up behind a stone wall on the grassy knoll in front of the motorcade and when Kennedy was in close range they let him have it from front and back and blew his brains out. That is why the Warren Commission repeatedly ignored eyewitness reports about the shots from the activities on the grassy knoll. At the same time they placed Oswald in the School Book Depository Building to play the part of the fall guy, but you can be sure they did not leave the real killing job to a third rate bungler like Lee Harvey Oswald.

* * * * *

We now come to the question of motive. Why would the Jews want to kill Kennedy?

When it comes to motives, I confess I do not claim to be a mind reader. We can only speculate, look at the ensuing events of history and come up with cogent reasons as to why they did what they did. With that as a basis I can think of several important reasons why they would want to see John Kennedy dead, and I will list them in what I believe to be their order of importance.

1. According to the Canadian Intelligence Service of September, 1988, Kennedy committed the most deadly of all crimes in the eyes of the Jewish bankers. He bypassed the Jewish Federal Reserve and issued government notes. He committed the same unforgivable sin as did President Abraham Lincoln a hundred years earlier and for which he, too, paid the ultimate price. In the complex cover-up of the Kennedy murder, history repeated itself and a strangely similar modus operandi was used as in the cover-up of the Lincoln crime some 98 years earlier.

On June 30, 1963, Kennedy signed Executive Order No. 11110, and further amended E.O. No. 10289 of September 19, 1951, thereby giving the President authority to issue the currency. He thereupon ordered the issue of $4,292,893,815.00. This was almost ten times as much as the $450,000,000.00 printed by Lincoln during the Civil War. He evidently forced then Secretary of the Treasury, C. Douglas Dillon, another name changing Jew (Lapowski?), to sign the United States Notes. Shortly thereafter, on November 22, 1963, Kennedy paid the ultimate price and was shot, as was Lincoln.

The first thing President Johnson did when he flew back to Washington was to reverse this order. For good reasons this operation of printing U.S. notes (as mandated by the Constitution) has been shrouded in secrecy by the Jewish bankers, since, if it became general knowledge, would blow the cover on the whole Federal Reserve scam. Even among racial and "conservative" circles there is much confusion and a general ignorance of this bold and monumental action. When I discussed this issue with Tom Metzger about a year ago, he vehemently assured me that he had thoroughly investigated this matter of Kennedy printing the notes, and that there was nothing to it.

However, we have the Executive Order number, the date, and the amount of the issuance, all stated in the above. Even more convincing, I have seen and personally held in my hand one of those U.S. notes — a five dollar bill.

2. The second serious infraction that Kennedy made in opposition to the Jewish conspiracy was his decision to end U.S. participation in the Vietnam fiasco before it had hardly begun, a move that angered the Jews, since they had planned an increasingly heavy, long term involvement in that stupid venture. Present on Air Force One with

Kennedy on his fateful trip to Texas was Rep. Henry Gonzales of Texas. On March 21, 1988, Rep. Gonzales revealed a bit of significant history in a speech before the House. Gonzalez told that on said trip, Kennedy, as he rose to leave the (airplane) compartment, turned and said to him (paraphrased), “By the way, I have issued orders to pull all our military and their equipment from Vietnam, beginning this December." The Jews had different plans as we all know only too well. They planned to bleed the American treasury dry, to kill thousands of young American boys in the jungles of Vietnam and destroy American prestige and honor, what was then left of it. All this they did with a vengeance. Kennedy was killed within hours after he talked to Gonzalez, and Lyndon Johnson, as soon as he became president, reversed that order, and used the Tonkin Gulf "incident" to vastly expand the ill-fated American presence in Vietnam. This insane war helped to put billions of profits into the hands of the Jewish war profiteers, at the expense of the world's foremost patsy, the White American taxpayer. (See Operation Rip-off our Booklet No. 103.)

3. The third reason the Jews had for seeing Kennedy dead was inherent in the whole Kennedy clan. They had all the characteristics necessary to build a powerful goy dynasty, and this the Jews feared from the time old Joe Kennedy began building his powerful empire. The Kennedys were extremely wealthy, they were numerous, they were clannish, and they were politically ambitious and aggressive. Joe Kennedy already had ambitions in the thirties of grooming his oldest son Joe, Jr., to become a future president of the United States, and Joe, Jr. was shaping up to become an ideal candidate, being considerably more articulate and charismatic than was his younger brother John. Unfortunately, Joe was killed while on a bombing mission during W.W. II. Routine casualty of war, or did the Jew plan it that way? We will never know, but Joe Jr. was out of the way, accidentally or deliberately. Joe Sr. still had three more sons, and he next groomed son John, who, as we all know, by hook or by crook did become president in 1960. We also know that Bobby became Attorney General, and later Senator. Teddy as we all know also became Senator, and is still in the Senate today. The third generation of Kennedys are also entering the political domain, despite three violent deaths in the Kennedy clan.

There was one other thing that the Jews feared about the Kennedys. Although we have been told about their extreme liberal orientation in the Democratic Party, essentially old Joe and his four boys were extremely well versed in the existence of the worldwide Jewish network and their string pulling. Although John feigned to go along with Israel and the Jews, it was not sincere, paying only lip service for political gain. The Jews, being well trained in detecting the innermost sentiments of their enemies since before the days of Esther, did not trust John Kennedy and feared the rise of a Kennedy dynasty that might turn on them at the earliest opportunity. In his decisions on Vietnam, on issuing U.S. notes without the benefit of the Federal Reserve and in his lukewarm support of Israel, John Kennedy was already beginning to display his rebellion against the Jewish powerhouse. Consequently he had to go, as five years later in 1968, did his brother Bobby, and Teddy, being of even more dubious moral fibre, is now thoroughly locked in their embrace.

4. Shortly before he was assassinated Kennedy made a speech to a group of Cuban patriots in Miami. In this speech he revealed that he had been betrayed and double-crossed during the Bay of Pigs invasion, that whereas he had ordered air cover, someone in the chain of command reversed the order at the last moment and left the Cuban freedom fighters to the mercy of Castro's militia. "We will have our revenge!" he is quoted as saying. The Jews, who put Castro in power in the first place, saw it otherwise, and were determined that Cuba remain in the Communist camp.

5. Back in 1963, before he was shot, John himself did not have the public image of being the great "hero" that the glitz and hoopla of Jewish propaganda has now, 25 years later, built him up to be. In fact, he was thoroughly hated and despised by many. After his Bay of Pigs debacle in Cuba, he was regarded as a wimp by many. After he used 20,000 army troops in strong-arm tactics to force one miserable nigger into the university at Oxford, Mississippi, he enraged most of the White electorate and many people began to ask "Whose side is this damn fellow on, anyway?" His many extramarital affairs with prostitutes and other sleazy characters earned him nothing but disgust. Nor did his associations with the Frank Sinatra "rat pack" and Mafia characters win him any popularity ratings. The fact is while he was alive, he was becoming the laughing stock of the American electorate. A phonograph record put out by nightclub comic Vaughn Meader parodying the Kennedy family was rapidly becoming a runaway best seller, and the nightclub comedians, too, in general, were having a field day in which the Kennedys were the butt of their jokes.

What did all this have to do with the Jews? Well, a great deal. It was at this time, in the early sixties, that the Jews were getting their major onslaught into high gear to ram their plethora of "civil rights" legislation through congress, but with the unpopular image with which the Kennedy administration was now saddled, they were getting nowhere. All this changed overnight after he was shot. He now suddenly became a legendary hero, and the American nation not only was in shock, but somehow felt terribly guilty about his death. President Johnson (actually the Jews) wasted no time capitalizing on this ridiculous guilt feeling, and "In the name of our martyred President," he and congress rushed through one civil rights bill after another, all designed to mongrelize and pump the black blood of Africa into the unwilling veins of White America.

6. There was one other extra dividend the Jews reaped from this murderous affair. Whereas old Joe Kennedy (and the family) had a major grip on the liquor industry, especially the importation of Scotch whiskey, this now rapidly slipped out of their hands and to the benefit of the rival (Jewish) Bronfman family. Although it was not really a significant factor in causing Kennedy's execution, nevertheless, the Jews never miss a bet in cashing in financially.

So John Kennedy was murdered by a brigade of professional killers, the Jewish MOSSAD. Both the execution and the cover-up were planned months in advance by the only force in the world that had the pervasive power to draw on all its resources in the newsmedia, the government and the judicial agencies, namely the worldwide Jewish network. Nobody else could have done it and made it stick, and that, my White Racial Comrades, is an obvious fact.

* * * * *

Such is the nature of our treacherous enemy. Unless we smash this rapacious beast it will certainly devour us all. The only way we can stop the Jews from destroying the White Race is to smash this sinister behemoth to smithereens, once and for all, and the only way it can be done is with a superior and more powerful force than theirs. Let us remember that the Jews built their power network solely through the aegis of their racial religion. With 500 million White people on this planet we certainly still have the wherewithal to destroy this plague upon mankind, and with Creativity as the rallying point we have the vehicle and the means with which to do the job. Do your part in building that power structure. Become a militant partisan, an activist Creator in the fight for survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race. Become involved, heavily involved! Time is of the essence.

The future despotic Jewish State will have three classes of journals that they will control. In the front rank will stand organs of an official character. These journals will always stand guard over the Jewish interests and they admit that, therefore, their influence will be comparatively small. In the second rank will be semi-official organs whose part it will be to attract the tepid and indifferent Goyim. In the third rank they will set up their own papers, but to all appearances they will be in opposition to their regime. This will (a) trap their real opponents to accept this simulated position as their own. (b) They can lead the opposition opinion into the very channels to which they then desire, and thereby neutralize them.

In this regard, Racial Loyalty stands nearly alone in category No. 4 — a journal which the Jew can't control, and truly loathes and fears.

The Rothschilds, the Civil War and the Lincoln Assassination

Sequel to the Kennedy Assassination

1. "If you like we shall divide the United States into two parts, one for you, James, and one for you, Lionel..." Benjamin Disraeli, (Son of Isaac D'Israeli and, secondly, British Prime Minister) toasting and bragging to Nathan Rothschild's boys at the wedding of their sister, Lenora, to their cousin Alfonso in 1857.

2. "We shall force the Christians into wars by exploiting their pride and stupidity. They shall massacre each other and clear the ground for us." From the funeral oration of Rabbi Reichhorn (Page 59 of the Rothschild Money Trust).

* * * * *

Let us take up the specific subjects in the title in the reverse of their chronological order and start with the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth president of the United States.

Who Killed "Honest" Abe

In a series of events that strangely parallel the assassination of President John Kennedy some 98 years later, Abraham Lincoln was murdered on April 14, 1865 while he was attending a play at the Ford Theater. It was a time when he was at the height of his career, flushed with victory as the Civil War was winding up to a successful conclusion for the Union forces and a catastrophic end for the Confederate South. At this propitious moment at 10:15 PM, that fateful night, he was hit behind his left ear by a half inch lead slug fired from a derringer in the hand of John Wilkes Booth, of the Jewish family of Botha.

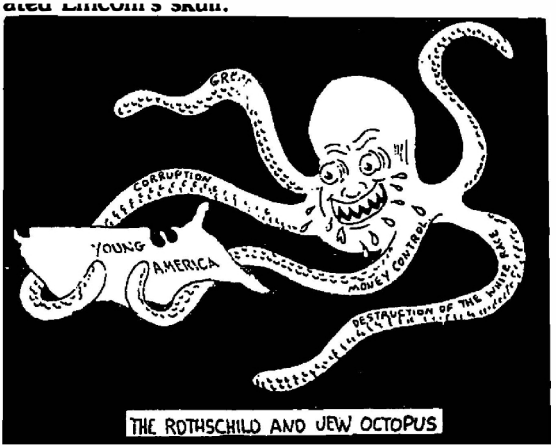
In a split second, as in the Kennedy assassination, this act dramatically changed the course of history. As also in the Kennedy assassination, that course of history boded ill for the White Race and greatly accrued to the benefit of the Jewish money powers. Let us briefly summarize how the White Race lost and how the Jews gained tremendous advantages in that split second when the lead ball penetrated Lincoln's skull.



THE ROTHSCHILD AND JEW OCTOPUS

As historians are well aware, Abraham Lincoln dared to thwart and challenge the Jewish banking establishment by printing 450 million dollars in U.S. government "greenbacks," as they were called, and thereby bypassed the Jewish bankers. This was, and continues to be, an unforgivable crime in the eyes of the Jews. The fact that Lincoln had a clear constitutional right to do so, made not the slightest iota of difference to the hard-nosed Jews. They have usurped this powerful weapon — the issuance of money — into their own grubby hands, and will fiercely defend it by all the devious and sinister means at their disposal. Not only did Lincoln have the constitutional right to do so, but as every president before and after him, he had a sworn constitutional duty to do so. (See C.C. No. 40 of The White Man's Bible "The Federal Reserve.") Lincoln took this major step during the middle of the war to somewhat belatedly help pay the mounting debts and the terrible price the war between the states was exacting from the nation. Whether Lincoln fully realized the extent and the power of the forces he was bucking is a matter of some conjecture. That he paid the full price with his life, as later did John Kennedy, of that history leaves no doubt.

The second reason the Jews wanted Lincoln dead as soon as the war was over was purely racial. Now that he had done them the stupendous favor of successfully waging a disastrous, so-called "civil war" between two groups of burgeoning White peoples, he was no longer needed. In fact, he was now an obstacle and a liability to their future plans. As I have pointed out repeatedly in many of my previous writings, it has been the ultimate dream of the Jewish cabal to decimate the White Race, to mongrelize the White Race and to finally destroy it utterly and have this Planet Earth populated by only two classes of people — the Jews as masters, and a polyglot brown mixture of dumb mongrels as their slaves. Their motto is and has been for centuries — every Jew a king, every goy a slave.

In the preceding article on the Kennedy Assassination we mentioned that the bloody gang of Jewish killers known as the MOSSAD as being of recent vintage, approximately the 1930's. Whereas the name is recent, and like the Russian KVD and KGB, changes names from time to time, the Jews have always had a well organized, tightly knit intelligence network. The MOSSAD is replete with super spies and professional killers ready to execute those they deem inimical to their cause. This they have had long before the emergence of the modern MOSSAD, going as far back as the days of Moses and Joshua. Evidently, this gang of spies and killers was also well established in America before and during the Civil War.

During the progress of the long, cruel war, Lincoln's prestige and position were both extremely precarious, depending solely on the turn of events. Every battle was a crucial barometer of whether he had been right or wrong. A defeat castigated him as a villain. Every victory glorified him as a hero. When the tide of events in April of 1865 successfully wound up that gruesome war with the Union forces victorious and the Confederate forces shattered, Lincoln emerged as a national hero of historical proportions (in the eyes of the victorious North). As president in the aftermath, his power and prestige would largely have dictated the course of events as Lincoln wished them to be.

Just what did Lincoln have in mind for the Union he now had "saved?" They were largely constructive and beneficial for the White people of the now "United" States. He had a far-reaching program in mind for moving the niggers out of the territory of the United States and re-settling them (a) in the tropical territories of Central America, at that time largely vacant, or (b) in Africa, in which the colony of Liberia, founded in 1821 for that purpose, was the embryo, but by no means the only destination.

That such was Lincoln's plan and intention was no secret at that time in history, although the Jewish propaganda machine has subsequently and largely obliterated that fact from our present history books. For those interested in further pursuing Lincoln's plans and program, the details are capably set out by Earnest Sevier Cox (1880-1966) in his booklet Lincoln's Negro Policy, available from Liberty Bell Publications, Box 21, Reedy, WV 25270.

Had Lincoln lived, his influence and prestige would undoubtedly have set in motion a most urgent and far-reaching solution to the cancerous racial problem, a problem that is now rapidly coming to a climax and threatens to destroy the last bastion of the White Race, the United States of America. When John Wilkes Booth fired that derringer on that fateful night of April 14, 1865, the whole plan of racial "emancipation" died with Lincoln. Although the urgency of that program has increased with each passing generation, no president, no political party since has had the guts to carry it forward and implement it. This overwhelming issue now ominously staring us in the face, more than anything else, is the reason for the existence of the Church of the Creator. It is now or never, and we cannot afford to fail. We must not fail! Your support to achieve what Lincoln had in mind a century and a quarter ago is now a matter of life and death for our precious Race.

Lincoln had a constructive and forgiving policy towards the now defeated and shattered states of the Confederacy. In contrast, the Northern stooges and radicals, goaded and led by the Jewish forces, thirsted for revenge. They not only wanted to destroy the property of the White Southerners but they wanted to destroy their traditions, their life-style, and everything the South stood for. Most of all, they wanted to destroy and mongrelize the White Southern gene pool — they were determined to pump the black blood of the former African slaves into the veins of White Americans. This was the most heinous of all their crimes, and, led by their Jewish overlords manipulating the whole operation and pulling the strings, these White traitors went about it with a vengeance. As always, whereas the Jews remained in the background, in the forefront appeared such radical reprobates as Thurlow Weed, New York newspaper publisher and political boss; Benjamin F. Wade, Senator from Ohio and Chairman of the Committee on the conduct of the War; Brothers Jay Cook and Henry Cook, the former being a Philadelphia financier and Lincoln's Civil War fund raiser, and the latter a Washington, D.C. banker; Thaddeus Stevens, Congressman from Pennsylvania and Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee; Zacharias Chandler, Senator from Michigan and Chairman of the Committee on Commerce; Brig. Gen. Benjamin F. Butler, some-time congressman from Massachusetts, and the brutal military governor of New Orleans during part of 1862, a stint that earned him the name of "Beast Butler."

This by no means completes the list of radicals which were determined to smash and destroy the South and all the White people who dwelt therein. What they had in mind was to make the White Southerners the slaves of their former black slaves.

Further, Lincoln was in favor of reimbursing the former Southern slave owners for the slaves that they would now no longer hold; of giving the niggers only a limited vote, i.e., those who were at least somewhat educated and literate. He was in favor of taking the Confederate States back into the Union as full partners, with only partial and limited restrictions.

All of this was anathema to the Northern radicals, who not only wanted vindictive revenge but also wanted to physically and financially break the South. This would enable the carpetbaggers from the North (especially Jews like the Seligmans and Lehmans) to march in and buy up the formerly valuable properties and estates for two cents on the dollar. This they now did with a vengeance, as the Jews were to do again later in war-torn Germany after World Wars I and II.

All this was accomplished in the flash of a derringer when Lincoln was assassinated on that fateful night of April 14, 1865. The radicals got their revenge. The properties of the Confederate States were burned and looted. What remained was stolen and confiscated into the hands of the Northern carpetbaggers. The Southern States were occupied and treated to a Carthaginian truce as vicious as had ever been imposed on any foreign enemy. The niggers were allowed to run rampant and rape the Southern women at will, and these filthy, ignorant savages now became the token "governors" of their former White masters, with the Jews pulling all the strings in the background. All this massive change was accomplished by that one fatal shot from a derringer.

As in the assassination of John F. Kennedy, we now come to the main question in this whole gruesome episode: Was the assassination of Abraham Lincoln merely an accidental quirk of history, the act of a lone nut, John Wilkes Booth, or was it the culmination of a massive, carefully planned conspiracy by powerful forces behind the scenes?

Again, as in the Kennedy murder, the stakes were tremendously high in that it would it would change the future course of the nation's history. Also, if we raise the question — who benefitted, and who lost the most, we come up with the same conclusion in both of the two historical events, although they might be 98 years apart in time: the Jews were the overwhelming benefactors and gained their desired objectives; the White Race lost a tremendous amount of ground in both cases. An accidental quirk of history? Hardly.

There are many more strange parallels in these two historic assassinations. Since in the previous article about the Kennedy murder I have already made a cursory review of the many absurdities, lies and impossible conclusions put forth by the Warren Commission and the several concomitant whitewash efforts succeeding it, there is no need to repeat them again. What is strange is that in the Lincoln assassination and its aftermath we find a very similar question, suppressed evidence and a massive cover-up.

Here are some unanswered questions:

1. Why did several invited guests, including Gen. U.S. Grant, refuse to accept Lincoln's invitation to accompany him and Mrs. Lincoln to Ford's Theater on the night of April 14?

2. Why did the President only have one single bodyguard that night, and how did it happen that even he was absent from his post at the time of the murder? How did it also happen that he was never punished for his dereliction, nor even questioned?

3. Why, despite countless threats and known plots did the War Department fail to provide Lincoln with adequate protection?

4. Did Edwin M. Stanton, Lincoln's power-obsessed Secretary of War, play a role in the assassination?

5. Why were all the escape routes out of Washington closed that fateful night, except the one that Booth used?

6. Who, for hours after the murder, blacked out all the commercial telegraph lines from out of Washington?

7. Why was the existence of Booth's diary hidden until long after the famous 1865 conspiracy trial, and when revealed 18 pages had been cut out?

8. Who removed those 18 pages, when and why?

9. Were the convicted and hanged Booth co-conspirators scapegoats for higher figures in a massive cover-up? (cf. Oswald set up as the patsy in the Kennedy murder.)

NOW THAT WE'VE GOTTEN RID OF LINCOLN, WE JEWS CAN REALLY START TAKING OVER THIS FRESH NEW COUNTRY.

10. Was the man shot at Garrett's farm and identified as Booth the real Booth, or a substitute?

11. Did the real Booth escape to freedom and die an old man 40 years later, as has been alleged? (Probably so. We must remember that he performed an inestimable favor for the Jews, and that Booth was himself of Jewish ancestry.)

It is my inescapable conclusion that once the war was over and the South lay in ruins, it was of tremendous importance to the Jewish cause that Lincoln be put out of the way. They foresaw this long before the war was over, and they meticulously planned both his assassination and the massive cover-up that followed.

It is my further conclusion that having successfully accomplished the Lincoln assassination and cover-up, they utilized this experience to follow a similar modus operandi in the murder and cover-up of John F. Kennedy. Also, the reasons for doing so were strikingly similar (the issuance of "greenbacks"; proceeding with their avowed program of mongrelizing the White Race.) In both cases, the sole benefactor was the worldwide Jewish network.

About the Civil War

There are some further observations I want to make about the so-called Civil War, which was not a civil war at all, but more correctly a war between one group of American states (the North, or the Union) and another group of American states (the South, or Confederate States) in a war of secession (the latter from the former). In so doing, I may not have any new information to offer, except for one important point that historians have chosen to ignore, and that is this: viewing that war from the point of view that the real power behind it was the Jewish money power — the whole worldwide Jewish network. To ignore such (because of "fear of the Jews") throws an altogether different light on world events and is, in fact, an aberration and a gigantic distortion of history.

As I have stated on numerous occasions previously, the only wars that America has fought that were of any benefit to the White Race were of two categories. The first was the war against Mexico between 1846 and 1848. The second category consists of the numerous battles, wars and skirmishes against the savage Indians which flared up, off and on, for approximately three centuries. In the first case, the Mexican War, which was ably planned and successfully carried through by our outstanding eleventh President, James Knox Polk, we gained a major third of our land area for the benefit of the White Race. True, it was a racial war, in which the White Anglo-Saxon Race was pitted against the more numerous mongrelized Mexicans. The White Man won that war hands down, much to the glory and benefit of our brave and competent forefathers. Although spread out over a much wider period of time and circumstances, the results of the numerous Indian skirmishes was the same. We conquered a continent and a massive new territory and held it by force. We settled it, developed that territory and built a great nation. Of this we can be tremendously proud.

We cannot say the same about any of the other wars into which the United States has been treacherously inveigled. We derived no benefit from the Vietnam War, not from World I or II, nor even from the American Revolution, which, had it not been for the Bank of England and Jewish money power, need never have been fought at all. But of all the bloody and costly wars into which the White people of the United States have been snookered, none was as stupid, as bloody, as destructive and as unnecessary as was the massacre between the States in the era of 1861-1865.

As most of the destructive wars into which the White Man has been ensnared and swindled, the so-called Civil War was a Jewish operation from beginning to end. For more than forty years the Jews used the slavery issue as an emotional and "moral" issue to stir up intensive hatred and dissention. By cleverly manipulating their propaganda machinery (in which Uncle Tom's Cabin was a major tool) the stage was thoroughly set by the time Lincoln became president. The results, as all the world now knows, were devastating, especially for the South. In terms of slaughtering the prime manhood of the North, and again, especially of the South, in terms of men maimed and crippled, in terms of property wantonly burned and destroyed, no other war in our history can equal the punishment inflicted on the then young and emerging nation. Nor was that legacy of hate and destruction to the White Race ever absolved or redeemed. We are today reaping the whirlwind of that horrible blunder made by our forefathers when they allowed the Jews to inveigle them into that catastrophic and fratricidal war. As never before, because of it, we, the White Race, are now faced with total mongrelization, and, for all practical purposes, are facing a fate worse than genocide, worse than death.

It was all planned that way, and the Jewish money power, the Rothschild dynasty in particular, not only planned it, but bragged about it years before the event.

There is one further intriguing question that arises from this whole gruesome and tragic catastrophe. Since the Jews planned the whole operation, the war, its outcome, the Lincoln murder and its subsequent cover-up, the vicious raping and destruction of the South, the question is — what was Lincoln's conscious role in this whole affair? Since he was the central figure in this fratricidal war, was he a willing collaborator in conspiracy with the Jews, or was he a dumb patsy used by the Jews, or was he partly both?

Lincoln was not the great man that subsequent history has made him out to be, just as Kennedy was not the heroic idol he is now being portrayed. There is a saying that some men are born to greatness, some achieve greatness, and some have greatness thrust upon them. Lincoln definitely falls into the latter category. Lincoln was an enigma in his time, and remains as such even today. He was a shrewd politician, somewhat of a not-too-intelligent backwoods lawyer and country bumpkin, but sharp enough to be able to manipulate people and use his homespun homilies and anecdotes in order to make his points. This he did effectively, as a good politician should. Also, he had a big ego and a fierce determination to win. He did not create the furor about the slavery issue. The Jews had been working on that for some forty years, and when his opportunity came, Lincoln was shrewd enough to capitalize on it as a crafty politician should. He probably did feel that it was an important moral issue that he would like to rectify, if he could. I do not believe that he knowingly collaborated with the Jews when he became president but rather the Jews saw in him a useful tool for furthering their cause and consequently used and promoted him. In American Jewry and the Civil War, the Jewish author Bertram W. Korn says, "One of the most enigmatic intimates of President Lincoln during the war was Isachar Zacharie, an obscure British-born physician and chiropodist, who, according to the New York World, enjoyed Mr. Lincoln's confidence perhaps more than any other private individual — (and was) perhaps the most favored family visitor in the White House." Undoubtedly, the Jews used Zacharie as a conduit to manipulate Lincoln to do their bidding whenever necessary, but Lincoln was committed and obsessed to wage and win the war, and did not need too much prompting. Although I do not profess to be a mind reader, I believe that Lincoln entered the presidency more or less ignorant and unaware of the Jewish money power. However, once president, somewhere along the line he did become aware of it, and it frightened him. He is quoted as saying something to the effect that he saw dark and sinister forces gathering on the horizon and he feared for his country. If the United States were ever destroyed it would be destroyed not by an outside enemy, but from within. Without a doubt, confronted with grim reality, he had become aware of the "hidden hand" of Jewish money power.

Rothschild Money Power

We now come full circle as to who and what caused the Civil War and culminated in the assassination of Abraham Lincoln. In this whole treacherous and catastrophic series of events, let me assure you, that freeing of the slaves was never the real and underlying issue. The issue was two fold — money and race. Both of these issues are the primary domain of the Jewish cabal and have been for at least three thousand years.

The Jewish focus on money and power therefore did not start with the Rothschild family dynasty, but it did reach new heights with their dominance. Mayer Amschel, the founder of the dynasty, was born in 1743 in Frankfurt-am-Main. He was a dealer in junk, antiques and old coins. He was a shrewd operator and soon became the financial agent to the Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel during the French Revolutionary wars. He had a large family of 20 children. Of these, ten survived to adulthood, five of which were sons.

The Landgrave of Hesse-Cassel was the same fellow that engaged in renting out his subjects (young soldiers) to America in the Revolutionary War and was making a fortune in supplying Hessian mercenaries to fight on the American side. All this money also went through Mayer Amshel's slimy hands and he was quick to divert it to his own coffers and multiply it prodigiously. He went into banking. He had discovered that magic swindle now called fractional reserve, that process whereby you lend money out at interest on script, against gold you do not have, on the premise that only a fraction of your customers will come to call on the gold. (See C.C. 40 in The White Man's Bible "The Federal Reserve.") Anyway, crafty Jew Amschel prospered by leaps and bounds. His basic working motto was "Give me the power to issue the Nation's money and I care not who makes its laws." He soon set up his five sons as central bankers in the five main financial capitals of Europe, namely London, England; Paris, France; Vienna, Austria; Naples, Italy; and the aforementioned Frankfurt to cover Germany.

During the Napoleonic Wars the five boys were extremely busy lending money not only to both sides, but to all sides. They pulled off their biggest coup after the Battle of Waterloo, where they had couriers and/or carrier pigeons to speedily relay the results of that fateful battle back to England, and, through this crafty device were the first in England to know the outcome of that history making battle. However, being privy to this kind of "insider information," they quickly started stock buying sprees which worked to their favor. The word spread like wildfire that Napoleon had won and panic hit the British stock exchange. The Rothschilds had made a fantastic killing, once again using the Jewish ruse of lies, deception, and insider information. Like trained seals, the British merchants took it lying down, and let these scurvy thieves get away with it.

There are many other fast deals that the Rothschilds manipulated on a national scale, such as the Suez Canal stock shares, and a host of others. Most of our readers are also aware of the double-dealing, latter day Rothschild cohorts, the Warburgs. During World War I while Paul Warburg was advising our president Wilson how to starve Germany into surrender, his brother Max was in Germany advising Kaiser Wilhelm on how to decimate the U.S., but let us focus back on the Civil War.

The Rothschilds and the Jews saw the new nation of the United States of America as a huge potential gold mine and they lost no time establishing themselves and getting their financial tentacles firmly entrenched in the new land of milk and honey. In the first place, the Jews were the foremost promoters and traders in black gold — trading in black slaves imported from Africa. They had a twofold purpose in the slave trade: first, to make huge fortunes from the slave trade itself. Secondly, polluting this new land with the dirty genes of these black African savages. They could utilize this tactic later to ruin the U.S. as they did Egypt 3000 years ago and have done to several other countries since then. They had gathered a wealth of experience in the trading of slaves and in the poisoning of the gene pools of White nations.

Having shipped vast numbers of black slaves into America at a huge profit, they simultaneously began to lay the guilt complex on the White Americans at large. This Achilles' heel of the White Race they exploited and fomented with a vengeance. When they then found a Lincoln to act as their front piece and to lead the new nation in a divisive, fratricidal war, the Rothschild network was more than ready — ready to again finance both sides of a war they themselves had been instrumental in instigating.

On the Union side they had August Belmont (real name — Schoenberg), a racial cohort, as their agent to supply the North with money (at interest, of course). On the Confederate side they had Judah P. Benjamin to supply the South with printed Confederate notes, the value of which rapidly dwindled into the nothingness from whence it came when the South lost the war. But the Rothschild dynasty made out like the bandits they were and cleaned up beautifully on both sides. Furthermore, their tentacles did not relax after the war was over. In fact, so deep in debt were both sides after the war that these slimy Jewish parasites have been making a killing from that debacle (and several ensuing debacles) ever since.

To illustrate how deeply involved the Jewish House of Rothschild was in plotting and instigating the Civil War, and how arrogantly sure they were of their scam, I refer the reader back to page one and the opening, boastful toast of Rothschild crony, Benjamin Disraeli. Could the picture be more lucid as to who and what caused the Civil War?

The Jews found Abraham Lincoln a useful patsy in a war that they, the Jews, had carefully planned and fomented for decades in advance. When Lincoln had served his time and their purpose, they just as meticulously planned his murder and the ensuing cover-up. We, the White Race, are still paying an outrageously high price for this perfidy, and unless we soon get ourselves organized and expunge these deadly parasites from our midst, our future progeny will be totally mongrelized, totally enslaved. Twenty years hence, your children will ask: Dad, Mother, where were you when the Jews and the niggers took over this country?

How will you answer them?

Issue No. 48 — March 1989

Operation Judah USA

Stupidly, for more than forty years, Uncle Sap has magnanimously been playing Santa Claus to all our worst enemies, to the Jews, to the mud people, and to all the scum and freeloaders of the world. All this, of course at the expense of the long suffering White American taxpayer, who is being robbed blind.

The United States of America today has a unique position in the world that has not been equalled by any other country, or empire for that matter, in the history of the world. The productive and creative abilities of the White American worker and taxpayer, combined with the technical advancement and the vast physical resources of its land areas from the Atlantic to the Pacific, are awesome indeed. Never, in all history, has any people had the wonderful opportunity to be healthy and wealthy, happy and prosperous, as did America in the latter half of the twentieth century. Indeed, immediately following its victorious conclusion of World War II in 1945, America stood on top of the world, supreme and unchallenged, the envy and hope of all the world.

Unfortunately, whereas nearly the entire outside world realized this, our most enviable position in history, the average White American did not. Nor did many White Americans realize that the same Jewish parasite which had euchred America into this disastrous worldwide slaughter of WW II in the first place was in control of the destiny of America, and, in fact, of the world, as it has been for centuries. Nor did White America realize that this vicious Jewish parasite would soon turn its destructive invective on the productive and creative White American who had just saved the neck of this treacherous plague from being wiped off the face of the earth. Because White America was not aware of either its racial identity, nor its great fortune, it stood naked and defenseless against the conspiratorial Jewish network, which was soon determined to take away from America both its racial identity and its great good fortune. Because the average White American was asleep at the switch, because of his own naivete and his own stupidity, because he allowed himself to be snookered into a worldwide conflict against his own best interests, in which he killed his own White Racial Comrades, the White Man is today paying dearly for that insane dereliction. Because of it, he has now lost all. He has lost his liberty, his unique opportunity of enjoying both wealth and abundance, and soon he will be stripped of his racial integrity as well. Even before the disastrous and insane world conflict of 1939-45 was over, the treacherous and conniving Jew was already laying worldwide plans of how he was going to rob White America of its wealth and turn it over to the incompetent mud races of the world; how he would rob America of its honor and identity; and how he would pull down the affluent White American worker until he was reduced to the rank of a miserable coolie, carrying all the scum, the parasites, and freeloaders of the world on his back. Not only did the diabolical Jew plan to do all this to the productive White American, but he also planned to rob and destroy the White gene pool, contaminate it on a worldwide basis to that of a filthy slop pail, and eagerly looked forward to the day when no more White babies would be born.

How did the otherwise intelligent, creative and productive White American get into such a predicament? How could such a monstrosity go on for more than fifty years without the victims becoming becoming aware of it? How does it happen that the average White American even today doesn't realize he has been robbed, swindled, bamboozled and led to the slaughterhouse?

It is a fascinating, yes, frightening question and we will try to unravel it, step by step. Whereas the Jewish plan to destroy the White Race has been an ongoing conspiracy for the last several thousand years, it really picked up a major boost and tremendous momentum in the last fifty years. We must remember that it was carefully planned, and each major step was accomplished by perpetrating a monstrous hoax upon the White Man, which the latter either embraced, or at least passively accepted, thereby endorsing it through acquiescence.

Step 1. World War II

We start with the year 1939 when the Jews managed to inveigle all the White Races of the world into a major bloodletting contest in which one group of White men killed another group of White men, when they should all have been on the same team killing Jews, instead of each other. This the Jew accomplished by means of (a) a relentless and vicious program of propaganda against Hitler and the Germans, persuading America and the world that Hitler was a demon, a madman, a dictator who wanted to conquer the world, and (b) having their (the Jew's) stooges in the nerve centers of government, such traitors as Roosevelt, Churchill and others, in practically every "democratic" country in the world, ready to pull the levers of power and declare war.

Through World War II the Jews managed to kill at least fifty million people for no other reason than to advance their own interests. At least 90 percent of those fifty million victims were White, and most of those were the manhood of the White nations in the prime of their lives.

By means of this wholesale, bloody, worldwide slaughter, the Jews achieved the biggest breakthrough in their history and set the stage for subsequent perfidious programs on a worldwide basis. But let us here concentrate on America.

Step 2. Subsidize the World

Many realistic military men, such as General Patton and other White leaders of foresight, declared that we were in an excellent position to destroy Communism. We could have finished that job in 1945 and went straight on to Moscow and cleaned out that foul nest of vipers. However, the Jews were firmly in the saddle, and would have none of that. They surreptitiously killed such men as Patton, and silenced others into oblivion. The propaganda machine went into full swing and spread the idea that it was now America's beholden duty to rebuild a torn and impoverished world, a world we had helped smash into rubble in the first place. One of the key arguments of the time, as I remember back some forty years ago was America cannot survive as an island of prosperity in a worldwide sea of poverty. It was a stupid argument if there ever was one, but evidently the American people accepted it, or at least made no great effort to oppose it or expose it.

"PLAYING SANTA TO THE WORLD"

"PLAYING SANTA TO THE WORLD"

This laid the groundwork for the next major hoax that was perpetrated on the American people, namely that Communism was now the major threat to America, since it was making gigantic strides and taking over eastern Europe, China and elsewhere in the world. Of course, we were told, we could not stop it by means of military action as we did in the case of Hitler and the Nazis. Instead, we were told, we had to subsidize all those countries threatened: Greece, Italy, France, Mexico, a multitude of countries in South America, and many more. The Marshall Plan was instituted, and in a few years Uncle Sap became the Santa Claus of the world, dispensing aid and largesse to all the freeloaders of the world; all at the expense of the unlucky taxpayers of the United States. Once started, this program kept on mushrooming until today we are giving aid and substance to 143 countries throughout the world.

Let us back up a moment here and re-examine the fallacious premises on which this endless giveaway program is based: (a) We cannot survive as an island of prosperity in a sea of poverty. Wrong. America built itself up into a great and wealthy nation by its own sweat and hard labor, not by giving it all away to the freeloaders and the scum of the world. We never owed the world a living, do not owe it today, and never will. Our best protection was and is to build up our own strength and prosperity. We sure as hell have not bettered our position any by subsidizing all the scum of the world, expanding their numbers to a world population of five billion, and squandering, proliferating and draining our own resources. (b) The Communist Expansion. I have fully answered this in an article I wrote more than ten years ago, entitled Russia, Israel and the United States. It is part of the White Man's Bible, being C.C. No. 38. In it I lay out explicitly how the United States, under the domination of the worldwide Jewish network, has been instrumental in helping the Jews in Russia depose the Romanov dynasty and set up a Communist dictatorship; how the United States has helped to save that tottering dictatorship time after time when it was on the verge of collapsing; that it is doing so today; that they saved its neck during WW II when Hitler had the means and the determination to wipe the Communist plague from the face of the earth; that Communism is a Jewish plague from its inception; and that America's apparent opposition to Jewish Communism is a hoax and a fraud. Instead, Russia and the United States are, and have been for several decades, working hand in glove, promoting Communism throughout the world as part of the Jewish program to take over and enslave the world under the brutal dictatorship of the Jew. (Read again C.C. No. 38 in the White Man's Bible.)

But let us proceed to the next several fraudulent maneuvers.

Step 3. The Civil Rights Movement

Whereas since its inception with the successful conclusion of the American Revolution in 1781, America had always regarded itself a White Man's domain, after World War II the Jews put into high gear their age-old program of how to destroy the White gene pool and mongrelize it into oblivion. Although the Civil War was supposedly fought to "free" the black African slaves on our soil, the White Man never did regard the nigger as his equal. At best, they were regarded as a low form of humanity which had been dragged into our midst and now we were stuck with them. Several farsighted Americans such as Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln, Marcus Garvey (a mulatto), Senator Theodore Bilbo and others realized the problem and tried to take far-reaching measures to expunge them from our society (See R.L. No. 42, Survival, Expansion and Advancement.) The treacherous, wily Jew, however, who controlled our destiny and pulled the strings from behind the scenes, knew exactly what he was doing and thwarted any and all such constructive plans and programs, and was patiently biding his time.

His time came in the 1950's and 1960's when the Jew plunged the United States into hysteria with his Civil Rights program. Suddenly it seemed, the incompetent, savage African could do nothing wrong, and the White Man was the villain and the culprit, and everything he did was wrong and had been for centuries. The Jew, with almost unchallenged control of the news media and other propaganda machinery, continued to pour it on, and laid a heavy guilt complex on the White Man, not only in America, but anywhere and everywhere in the world. Whereas the heavy or villain in the movies of the past had been a Mexican, a mulatto or an Asian, now the nigger is always portrayed as the wrongfully accused hero, and the White Man the villain.

In fact, suddenly it seemed that the White Man, who had been unchallenged as the builder of civilization, of culture and learning, now was responsible for all the ills of the world. Not only responsible, but owed compensation to all the world, especially the backward mud races, who were now portrayed as the "emerging" third world. The way the Jew told it, everybody was now equal (hadn't the Christians been spouting this garbage for nearly 2000 years?) and the only reason why the Hottentots and the Australian aborigines weren't as advanced as we were was because the White Man had oppressed them and kept them down.

This, the Jew kept screaming, applied especially to niggers here in our midst, and it was our Christian and civil duty to rapidly raise them to our level, financially, culturally, politically and in the field of education. It was our beholden duty to institute a crash program and make them equal as quickly as possible. If it didn't happen soon by just giving them an equal opportunity to become equal then the government should (must!) institute programs such as Affirmative Action, "minority" quotas, special educational programs, special subsidization programs, etc., etc., whatever it took, to force feed the programs and subsidize these backward savages until they would become equal.

One of the first demonstrations of brutal, strong-arm force came in 1957 in Little Rock, Arkansas, with the breakthrough in forced school integration. Eisenhower, one of the sorriest of the Jewish stooges to become president, deployed massive military force in and around the school to help a few carefully chosen niggers get into an all White high school. All this was in violent opposition to the wishes and opinions of the White people who had helped elect him, and who also paid the bill for this abortive outrage. But with the Jewish propaganda machine backing him up, this despicable race traitor, long in the employ of the Jews, made it stick. The White population was confused, disorganized and leaderless.

This blatant outrage against the White Race was relentlessly pursued by the next administration, the Kennedy boys, when another strong arm military action was instituted in Oxford, Mississippi, when "our" (read J.O.G. the Jewish Occupational Government) used 20,000 military troops at tremendous taxpayers' expense, to get one filthy nigger, James Meredith, enrolled in the formerly all White University of Mississippi. But it was a time when the Jews wanted more. They wanted to make it a crime for the White Race to not mix with the savage niggers in all walks of life, and a sinister set of so-called Civil Rights laws were introduced by "our" Jew-catering congressmen. When the public began to become conscious of what was going on and vigorously opposed not only congress but also began to flagrantly ridicule the Kennedy administration, it seemed the Jews were stymied, and the laws did not pass. What to do? The Jews had the answer. Assassinate Kennedy and make him a martyr and a hero. The ruse worked, although it has kept the conspiracy madly scrambling to this day covering their tracks. (See R.L. No. 46 Who Killed Kennedy.)

The White American public suddenly felt a heavy guilt complex laid upon them, and when the next Jewish stooge, Lyndon Johnson succeeded Kennedy as president, he played his hand to the full. He and congress now rushed through one complex set of "civil rights" laws after another, with very little opposition from the White point of view. Soon the nigger was supreme, and the former masters became slaves of their one-time slaves. The White Man's most precious possession, his children were now loaded into yellow buses and transported a dozen miles across town into the nigger jungles, and the little jungle bunnies, on the other hand, were transported into the White schools and neighborhoods.

Race-mixing now became the official religion of the governmental administration and its concomitant and all-pervasive propaganda network, all of which were manipulated by Jews. This extended into all fields and embraced not only the schools and education but also into housing and racially mixed neighborhoods, into government, jobs, business contracts and every other field of endeavor. Where jobs and business contracts were formerly decided on a merit basis, such criteria were now thrown overboard and a gimmick called Affirmative Action was put in its place. This meant a government department, or a business employer, or a school, university or whatever, had to give preference to the stupid and incompetent jungle bunnies (or other "minorities" such as "Hispanics") to come up with a certain percentage of warm bodies whether such bodies were competent or not. This type of reverse discrimination was supposedly instituted to make up for "past wrongs," whether the employer (or whoever) had any part in such past wrongs, or whether such wrongs had actually even occurred.

The idea was, favor the goddamn niggers, at whatever the cost, and pull down Whitey. We were all to be, oh, so equal, but the niggers and the Jews were to be more equal than anybody. This goes right back to the fraudulent posture incorporated in the Jewish-Christian bible, that we are all equal in the eyes of the Lord except the Jews, who are far more equal than anybody.

And so the niggers were pushed forward and the Whites pushed back. Big business and its advertisers collaborated one hundred percent. Every ad that was now shown on television, or elsewhere, always promoted happy race-mixing. Each ad showed at least one "equal" nigger in the middle of the picture, with the oh, so happy Whites surrounding the jungle bunny.

Step 4. Wide Open Borders

Not only were the native-born niggers and Hispanics amply encouraged by an overly generous welfare system to freeload and breed while the White taxpayer footed the bill, but the official line of our Jewish Occupational Government (JOG) now was that we must take care of all the "refugees" in the world, and give "sanctuary" to those who were fleeing their tyrannical governments, wherever in the world they may be. Since most governments in the world, (thanks to Jewish manipulation) are not only tyrannical but also hopelessly corrupt, just about anybody could claim they were fleeing political oppression. In fact, our own JOG outfit also very much falls into the category of being hopelessly corrupt and tyrannical, but thanks to the productive and constructive White people who built this country and still inhabit it, undoubtedly it is still the favorite magnet of just about 95 percent of all the mud people of the world.

In their diabolical program of genocide for the White Race, the Jew determined that after World War II no country should remain White for long. On various pretexts the mud races were now rapidly injected into every White country in the world. Moluccans into Holland; Turks into Germany; Algerians into France; Hindus, Pakistanians and all breeds of niggers into Britain (once Great Britain, but no longer) and so on down the line. But we are here dealing with the United States, and the means the Jews utilized to bring down and destroy this once most affluent and prosperous country in history. Whom could the Jews inject into the United States?

The list is almost endless. On our 1900 mile long southern border are unlimited hordes of poverty ridden Mexicans breeding like rabbits, all eager to come into the United States. And coming they are, by the millions and more millions. Whereas our government officials are sworn to defend our Constitution and the United States, they are doing neither. At best the Constitution is now used as a gimmick to dole favoritism to the mud races, aliens and other enemies. It is also used as a double-edged sword with which to rob and suppress the best and most productive elements of this country — the White people who built it all and produce the abundance that feeds much of the world.

Not only are our borders now wide open to the Mexicans, but to all the other scum and riffraff of the world. The Vietnamese are here in huge numbers, some have taken over whole cities; the Pakis are here; the Haitians are here; the Jamaicans are here and expanding; the Chinese are here and coming in increasing numbers; the Japs have taken over Hawaii, and are building large automobile factories and buying up choice commercial real estate; the Cubans have taken over South Florida.

Ah yes, the Cubans. Thereby hangs another vast story of perfidy of how our JOG outfit has manipulated, infiltrated and destroyed just about every country in the world. The modus operandi goes something like this: (a) First of all we offer a country foreign aid, which is sent to the head of its government, presumably for distribution to the needy and poverty ridden, or to build up its resources. (b) Most of such money, however, is funnelled away into the private bank accounts of its dictators, who become tremendously wealthy, arrogant and obnoxious, creating hatred and opposition from their rebellious people. Examples of such are too numerous to list, but to mention a few: the Shah of Iran; "Papa Doc" Duvalier and his son in Haiti; the Diem brothers in Vietnam; Ferdinand E. Marcos and his expensive wife of the Philippines; Anastasio Somoza of Nicaragua, Fulgencio Batista of Cuba. There are dozens more that could be listed. To help stir up revolution and unrest, our JOG establishment sends in the CIA to organize revolution and civil war against these arrogant and spendthrift tyrants. Financed with American taxpayers' money, these revolutionary outfits soon have arms, uniforms and organization, surreptitiously led and directed by our own CIA. The situation in Nicaragua is a perfect example. First we supported and financed Somoza. Then the CIA helped organize the Sandinistas to drive out Somoza. Then things got even worse, much worse.

The CIA then abruptly switched horses and organized the Contras to drive out the Sandinista government, and soon the Reagan administration was giving aid and bankrolling the Contras to the tune of hundreds of millions. How stupid can you get? The same M.O. was followed in Jamaica, in Cuba, in the Philippines, in Panama, in South Korea and in dozens of other countries around the world. Nothing but revolution, anarchy and mayhem; all instigated, organized and bankrolled by our Jewish government; all at the expense of the White American taxpayer whose future they are thereby undermining and destroying.

Step 5. Export our industries into the slave labor and coolie areas of the world

Whereas the United States had an overwhelming monopoly on technology, manufacturing and production facilities after World War II, it has now given it all away gratis, and the same Jews who own (and owned) our manufacturing enterprises then and now have, in fact, moved them away into the cheap labor areas of the world — mud countries like Korea, Taiwan, China and Japan, especially Japan. We have shown and taught them the technology, initially financed and set up their factories, and then put them in competition with our own workers at coolie wages. There is a two way benefit in this for the Jews. Being internationalists and not giving a tinker's damn about America, they reap the added profits, and at the same time pull down the White American economy by (a) throwing millions of American workers into the unemployment lines and on the welfare rolls, and (b) piling up huge trade deficits because of the goods we import from these mud countries, goods we could and should be making ourselves. Thus, through Jewish treachery and manipulation we end up deeper in debt, our productive facilities jeopardized and the White American worker unemployed and/or impoverished.

Sundry Additional Programs Pursued by JOG to Destroy White America

So far I have detailed five basic steps and programs by which the Jews have reduced our once powerful and affluent White American society into one of weakness, confusion, dependency and servile slavery to the Jewish monster. But the foregoing list is far from complete, and this complex conspiracy cannot be encompassed in this short analysis. However, to further clarify the picture, we must briefly list some of the other key tools and weapons the Jews have used, and are continuing to use to destroy us.

(a) Undoubtedly, the Federal Reserve System, that gigantic Jewish counterfeiting ring, must rank at the top of the list. Although already inaugurated shortly before World War I (1913) and fraudulently being represented as an official U.S. governmental agency, it set America up as a patsy for both world wars. Since I have already gone into some detail on this gigantic Jewish scam in C.C. 40 of the White Man's Bible, I will not repeat it here.

(b) The World Bank. Although supposedly international, it is predominantly funded by American taxpayer money. It is an open account and a blank check for the Yids to squander our goods, money and substance to all the freeloading mud countries of the world, without having to account for its expenditures in the governmental budget.

(c) American banks extending huge unsecured loans to mud countries like Mexico, Argentina, Brazil, to name a few, but the list is endless. These loans run into not only millions, but hundreds of billions (Mexico's debt alone is over one hundred billion) and there is no hope or expectation that the principal will ever be repaid. In fact, in order to induce some of these countries to pay even so much as the interest, these financial idiots extend new loans. How stupid can you get? Or is this simply a matter of stupidity? Hardly. Whereas these same bankers are hardnosed as flint when it come to foreclosing on American farmers and homeowners, they act as if they were inadvertently caught napping with their pants down when it comes to such huge loans to foreign mud countries. Actually it was all planned and a deliberate Jewish policy, having conspired in advance that the White American taxpayers are going to pay the tab (as usual) and bail out the banks, much as President Bush is now pushing to bail out the scams of the Savings and Loan outfits by means of the taxpayers' money.

(d) And last but not least, there is that god-damned parasite of Israel on our back, killing Arabs, bashing their heads and breaking bones to the tune of more than three and a half billion in financial support from Uncle Sap, alienating the whole Moslem world and making us look like the stupid Jewish stooges we are, in the eyes of the world.

Conclusion

There is more, much more, but the foregoing presents a fairly rounded picture of the mess we are in and who did it to us. The next cogent question is: what do we do about it and how do we get out of this miserable mess?

The solution is not easy, but the answer is fairly simple, when we ask a few basic questions.

1. How did this small, miserable, parasitic minority get such a powerful stranglehold on the world in general and America in particular? The answer is they did it through their racial religion, Judaism. They practiced Racial Loyalty, and feverishly organized powerful networks and tentacles around this religious core, until now they have the world in their grip.

2. Can the White Race, which outnumbers the Jews 30 to 1, and has a virtual monopoly on intelligence, fighting ability and creativity, not employ the same powerful weapons, racial loyalty and a racial religion?

Yes, we can, and we must. The Church of the Creator has organized and structured a powerful, comprehensive and full-fledged racial religion designed for the redemption and resurrection of the White Race and the White Race alone. In it lies a complete and detailed creed and program with which to smash the Jewish monster once and for all.

At the heart and core of this religion is the same ingredient that fueled Judaism — Racial Loyalty, the name of the paper you are now holding in your hands.

It is time we stop bickering about fragmentary, makeshift and half-baked issues, such as should we slice up the United States into dozens of small bits and keep a fragment of it on the west coast, or in the northwest, or the southeast. To give up any land for which our forefathers fought and bled, for which they sacrificed blood, sweat and tears, would be sheer madness, not to mention cowardly treason. We say to hell with all that nonsense. We Creators will not give up one inch of our territory. On the contrary, we must rally our forces and our resources on a worldwide basis and win the world. We will not compromise. It will most definitely be all or nothing for the White Race, I can assure you. And it must happen right here, in the last powerful bastion of the White Race — in the United States of America.

Anatomy of a Hypocrite

Although I never considered him of any consequence either then or now, for years I have nevertheless been extending the hand of friendship to Harold Covington. Since I assumed that he had a semblance of intelligence, I felt that it should not be wasted in pursuing lost causes, or worse still, pursuits destructive to our White Race. I felt that if his screwed up thinking could be straightened out and pointed in the right direction, he could perhaps be of some value to the White racial movement.

My first contact with him was back in 1973 when I wrote to Matt Koehl's NSWPP in Arlington, Virginia, as to what their position was on Jewish Christianity. Since the Christianity issue made Matt extremely uncomfortable and evidently he didn't want to state their position on it, he had Harold compose a non-answer. The reply was something to the effect that they had no stance, and it was irrelevant, unimportant, of no account; that the Nazi party was purely political, and religion had no place in it, or so said Harold.

My answer to that pusillanimous letter is reprinted, in full, on Page 122 of the Klassen Letters, Volume One. My answer evidently smoked out Matt Koehl, for he then came forth with his own version, which was as waffling and contradictory as was Harold's. My answer to that letter can be read in full on Pages 123 to 125 of the same Klassen Letters. It is interesting to note that Matt Koehl has come 180 degrees since then, forming a National Socialist religion with Hitler as the deity or spook or whatever.

The next time I heard about Harold, he had joined a Nazi outfit in Chicago under the leadership of that half-Jew queer, Frank Collin, who was later hauled into court on child molesting charges.

Now, Harold comes from the Serta mattress family, and suddenly he had the good fortune to have a $90,000 inheritance dropped in his lap. So enamored was Harold with the remnants of this FBI agent infested group that he threw most of his windfall into buying Rockwell Hall for what was left of this phoney group to gather in to do their thing. A fool and his money are soon parted.

The next time I heard about Harold he and a fellow who went by the name of Eric Campbell (I don't know his real name) had holed up in George Dietz's office where they drank volumes of beer, leaving the many empty cans stacked on the floor.

But this boy Harold doesn't stay put for long. Soon we hear of him running for Attorney General of North Carolina. It was also some of his Nazis, along with some Christian klansmen under the leadership of none other than Virgil Griffin, who were led into an ambush by a federal agent in Greensboro, NC, back in 1979. Fortunately, these men managed to turn the tables on the Communist Jews and niggers, killing five, but Harold was conspicuous in his absence and admits to knowing the true identity of the federal agent provocateur at that time. There was much speculation as to Harold's true colors after this debacle. Even The Spotlight got into the debate with one of their Jew writers, a Mr. Hertzberg, calling Harold a federal agent in a series of articles. The heat was a little more than this Johnny Reb could take, so the next few years were spent in a couple of failed marriages and a succession of foreign countries; first being Rhodesia, then South Africa, then Ireland. Whether he was there as a CIA agent or was kept on the move because his life was threatened, as he claims, is anyone's guess. There was no real reason why the U.S. government should want to kill him, since every venture he entered into fell flat on its face, including Rhodesia and Frank Collin.

In the early 80's I was making plans to build a permanent center for the Church of the Creator in North Carolina and I was looking for a good man to help head up the project. At the time, Harold was putting out some dismal little newsletter, one of which happened to reach me. Knowing him to be a man of many contacts, I wrote him at the given address and asked him if he knew of some man of the caliber I had in mind (I did not have Harold in mind, only asked for a contact to help promote our movement). His reply surprised me. Acting as if I had him in mind, he made a big issue of turning down an offer that I had never made. He went further. He strongly admonished me not to locate in North Carolina, that it was absolutely the worst state I could possibly choose. It was full of those fanatic Bible Belt Baptists, a sorry lot, and furthermore, the Klan, and every other White racial group in North Carolina were a bunch of traitors, phonies and government agents. You could not trust any of them, Harold said, and emphasized — Stay out! Stay out!

What's with this paranoic jerk, I wondered. Disregarding his gratuitous advice, as we all know, we went right ahead with our plans and built the headquarters for the Church of the Creator, (on land I had purchased in 1970, by the way) and also an educational building that we hope to utilize as a school for gifted boys in which to train our future leaders.

That brings us up to more recent events. After much hardship and hostile opposition, we are pressing forward in constructively building our worldwide movement. In spite of all the enmity, (which would have occurred in any state) we have, over the last five and a half years, put out 48 issues of Racial Loyalty, ordained scores of ministers in several countries of the world, and published eight major books, all consistent with our comprehensive and well structured White Racial movement. We now have the foundation for a genuine racial religion on which the White Race can build and finally pull itself out of the swamp in which Jewish Christianity, in conjunction with Talmudic Jewry, has mired the White Race. I must confess that most of the visible opposition to our movement, much to our surprise, has come from the Christians and even other White racial groups, most of whose leaders don't believe in that Jewish claptrap themselves.

Comes now our boy Harold, who has been playing musical chairs from one organization to another. He, who with great alarm admonished us to stay out of North Carolina, is now here himself, filling the void left by his former Nazi protege, Glenn Miller, by stirring those tired ol' gray embers of the Confederacy. He is pretending to build a "Confederate Congress," an aimless, half-baked group of a few confused souls who seem to have latched on to his idea of reviving the Confederacy; a stupid issue at best, and one that has been long dead for more than a hundred years.

In his recent mini-book, written before launching this abortive "movement," Harold stated categorically that most White racial movements of today seem to have no clear idea of what they want, never mind how they are going to achieve it (P. 22). With this analysis we Creators thoroughly agree, and it seems to me, that is about the only worthwhile statement Harold makes in the entire book.

But, lo and behold, immediately after getting the book published, Harold sets about trying to put together just such a group; the 20,000th of that type that has temporarily floated its mirage across the American scene. Not only that, but Harold, who has jumped around more vigorously than Mark Twain's Jumping Frog of Calaveras County, specifically picked the State of North Carolina, that terrible state he so despised, as his base. As his old buddy, Eric Campbell, has said, Harold will say one thing, then do just the opposite. Ah! Shades of politic and expedient, Jew-loving Ronnie Reagan!

So what does the "Confederate National Congress" stand for? Well, after all the jumping around he has done, he has finally realized his "inner sentiments" are really with the good old Confederate cause. Evidently he would like to reinstate the plantation system with a myriad of niggers picking cotton and singing Old Black Joe. But here comes the hooker — it is to be an all White "refuge" area, where the White Man can claim at least a small piece of the good old U.S.A. as his very own. He will move all the niggers out. Where to? Evidently give them the rest of the United States, gratis, on a silver platter. What about the White people living in California, Minnesota, Illinois, Indiana and elsewhere? Well, that's their problem. We will just cut them adrift. We just want to have a cozy little corner in the southeast.

Stupid? Yes, stupid as hell. But that isn't all, the same fellow who condemned Christianity a few years back and even now jokingly talks about Christ as "the dead Jew on a stick," and has openly admitted any number of times that he himself doesn't believe in all that Christian claptrap, now makes the official statement that his "movement" is a Christian Movement and no member is to distribute any "violently anti-Christian" (read C.O.T.C.) literature. How about a race-mixing Jehovah's Witness tract, Harold? He, himself, is now even strongly considering becoming ordained as a Christian Identity minister. Would you believe? Not only is the Christian foxtrot the ultimate in two-faced hypocrisy, but there is more. He is not nearly as interested in building a Confederate revival (in which he himself does not believe) as he is in using it as a diversionary tactic to oppose the Creativity movement and the Church of the Creator, at the same time admitting that if we get big enough he might later join with us. How crazy can you get?

Last Sunday, February 12, was the last straw. He called a group of White activists from several states to try and put together a "Ban the Church of the Creator" movement. Why is Harold so afraid of Creativity? For the same reason as are many of our enemies. Because in Creativity we have a comprehensive, fully-structured creed, program and movement, the first real racial religion fully dedicated to the White Race. It makes his own so-called "program," by comparison, look puny, frivolous and shallow, which it is, merely based on a fraudulent scam and a passel of lies (Christianity) in which he himself does not believe. As in everything else Harold has tried, he again fell flat on his face at that meeting, in spite of the fact that the members of his "commission" were all either Christian klansmen, Identity Christians or his own men (except one, who's with Gallo's NDF). But I'm glad the ultimate hypocrite finally showed his true colors. Now he says that he doesn't "want us to feel that we were in any way railroaded or denied a hearing" last weekend, and he would now like to meet with us, as long as we don't discuss religion, and we say, to hell with you! Get lost, Harold. We have no confidence in what he might do next, and I wouldn't be surprised if he would soon join Judaism along with Sammy Davis, Jr and other ilk of his stripe. We suggest that he do so and become a good Rabbi — he already looks the part. With his squat, stocky stature and heavy black beard, he'd look right at home in a yarmulke. We know of his admiration for Meir Kahane, and that he has corresponded with, and even sent him money.

Is Harold a CIA agent? We can't prove it and the CIA will deny it. As William Casey himself said, "The CIA will lie about anything, anytime, anywhere." However, if it walks like a duck, quacks like a duck, looks like a duck,...etc. As Shakespeare said in Hamlet: "Beware of entrance to a quarrel, but, being in, Bear't that the opposed be aware of thee." In other words, kick the living beejeebers out of the shiftless polecat. Goodbye, Harold. We never want to hear from you again.

Issue No. 51 — June 1989

Part One of a Series of Two

Remember the Alamo!

But let us make damn sure we

Avenge Dresden!

The mission fortress of the Alamo at the little town of San Antonio de Bejar had been under siege for twelve days. The 6000 man army led by that flamboyant and cruel dictator of Mexico, General Antonio Lopez de Santa Anna, had taken a heavy toll at the hands of the gallant 182 Texans inside the fort, whereas miraculously the Texans had, at this point, not lost a single man. On the thirteenth day, on the early morning of March 9, 1836, Santa Anna decided to storm the walls. With his buglers playing the famed Moorish March, the "Deguello," the defenders knew their hour had come and that no prisoners would be taken alive. It was now a matter of fight to the last man and die.

These 182 Texans fought gallantly and exacted a heavy toll from the enemy. During the thirteen days of defense they took between 1500 and 1600 Mexicans along with them to their death. Their Enemy Toll Effectiveness Factor (E.T.E.F.) was highly commendable.

But the heroic Texans did not die in vain. Their death shocked all of Texas. It also did something more. It united the squabbling Texans and set off a deep and burning rage that cried out for revenge, and furthermore, unconditional independence from the blood-thirsty Mexicans.

Less than two and a half months later the White Texans had their revenge. On April 21, 1836, Sam Houston with a force of only 600 rag-tag volunteer White Americans trapped Santa Anna's army of 4000 at San Jacinto. With the rallying cry of "Remember the Alamo!" the Texans rushed Santa Anna's camp and with a fury that nothing could abate, they annihilated the Mexicans, and captured Santa Anna himself. The battle, which lasted only eighteen minutes, was one of the most important in American history, and one of only a few that has been fought in the best interests of the White Race. The Texans now had their revenge, and more. It led to the Mexican War ten years later that finally quashed the Mexicans and won for the White Man extensive areas, including California and all of the land in between. The White Man now had won a vast domain from the Atlantic to the Pacific, for himself and his future progeny.

We now come to a gruesome episode in the history of the White Race that is a thousand times more tragic, of immensely greater dimensions, and more brutal than the slaughter of the 182 men at the Alamo. Shamefully and grievously at this point in history, it has not yet been avenged. It still remains a top priority on our list of unavenged outrages, as set forth in Part I of Nature's Eternal Religion. We are talking about the heinous fire-bombing of Dresden towards the final days of World War II.

A long-time member of our Church, an American Air Force officer who took part in that murderous bombing related to me the briefing they had received the night before the multiple raids. They were sworn to secrecy and were told that the Germans had developed some terrible secret weapons that could turn the tide of the war, and that these weapons were secreted in the city of Dresden. It was therefore their patriotic duty to bomb the city into rubble, to burn it to the ground and incinerate every living man, woman, and child in it. Does this sound like a familiar refrain from the pages of the Jewish Old Testament? It does indeed, and the same perfidious liars who wrote that vicious diatribe also instigated and orchestrated the bombing of Dresden. Tearfully and regretfully, this former American officer, now old and dying of cancer, told me how they had been deceived by this treacherous Jewish ruse and American and British bomber crews, of which he was part, had been instrumental in carrying out this horrible murder of hundreds of thousands of his own race — Nature's Finest. He found out later that it was all a treacherous lie, a part of the long standing Jewish creed of "kill the best first." It was an agony that preyed on his conscience to his dying days.

Before World War II the city of Dresden was one of the most beautiful in the world. In fact the word Dresden was synonymous with culture, beauty and art. Like so many other cities in Germany, this city in particular was rich in German culture and the heritage of its people. The Castle, the Opera, the Hofkirche, the Frauen Kirche, to name a few amongst thousands of other buildings, were beautiful and outstanding examples of German (and White) culture. Many of these beautiful buildings dated back a thousand years or more.

The normal population of Dresden was about 600,000. In February of 1945, as the refugees from the Eastern countries were fleeing before the Red Army, and seeking safety in the west, a large number of them fled to the apparent safety of Dresden and swelled the population of that city to over 1,200,000 people. These were people who had fought the Communists and were strongly anti-Communist. We must remember that at this period of history World War II was practically over and Dresden was by no stretch of the imagination a military objective. In judging what follows we must also keep in mind that Dresden represented the finest examples of German art and culture, that it was not a military objective, and that it was swollen at this time with refugees fleeing before the Red Army, the barbarians of the East.

On the night of February 13, 1945 at 10:13 P.M., British bombers started dropping hundreds of thousands of fire bombs on the poor, helpless refugees and citizens of Dresden who were only trying to escape the butchery of the Red Army. These raids were carefully planned by these heinous and diabolical Jews to reap the maximum in death and destruction. The timing was such that it would hit the citizens of Dresden at a time when they were out on the streets celebrating a Christian religious holiday. Thousands were burned alive.

When the first raid was over and the survivors came out of their shelters to begin rescue operations and when thousands of fire fighters arrived from other cities to help in the rescue, the treacherous Jews struck again. At 1:30 A.M., February 14th, only three hours after the first attack, a second and larger force of British bombers rained down more death and destruction on the helpless White men, women and children below. So many fire bombs had been concentrated on this once beautiful old city of Dresden that a fire storm of hurricane proportions engulfed the whole city. The heat was so intense that once live people were shriveled into corpses reduced to half their size. Thousands of people hiding in air raid shelters were melted into one pool of liquid. A mother with her baby in her arms was found melted into the pavement forming a small tar statue. In a furious, fiendish effort to incinerate this beautiful city of Dresden, the city of art and culture, more than 650,000 fire bombs were dropped on it during the raids.

As if this were not enough, the next day, which was Ash Wednesday, while Dresden was still burning furiously from the two attacks of the night before, a huge force of American B-17's started pounding on what was left of the magnificent city.

The great shame and tragedy of it all was that the pilots who were dropping these bombs were White Gentiles killing their own brothers in a battle that the Germans had been fighting for the preservation of the White Race. What these White pilots, with their mentality deranged by Jewish brain pollution, did not know, but their Jewish bosses did, was the fact that 26,260 allied prisoners of war were in the same area! Just another example of Jewish evilness and treachery. Even though the American and British soldiers were fighting to save these Jewish parasites from their just dues, the Jews themselves didn't mind at all having the White prisoners killed as well!

But this was still not the end of Jewish fiendishness and barbarity. A final touch of Jewish treachery was added when after the B-17's had left, 37 B-51 American fighters were ordered to fly low over the city and kill anything that moved! This they did by shooting and machine-gunning people who were trying to save themselves along the banks of the river Elbe. These B-51 fighters flew low along the banks of the river and killed everything in sight.

Does this sound familiar? Remember the vicious ideology of the Jews as laid out in Deuteronomy 20, v. 16 "thou shalt save alive nothing that breatheth"?

Let us remember that this is the vicious Jewish religion, a religion that they have been practicing for thousands of years; a religion that they have swindled the White Man into as making it part of his own, in order to worship, idolize, and protect the Jew.

After the war, the world was lied to and told that only 35,000 people were killed during the raids, but as the years passed they finally admitted to 135,000 deaths. This still was a big lie. The actual number of people killed between February 13th and 14th was 350,000 and 400,000!

To add a further insult to treachery, when the war was over the Jews invented a huge hoax accusing the Germans of killing and incinerating six million Jews in order to heap hatred on the Germans and create sympathy for the treacherous Jews who had started the war in the first place. In order to try to "substantiate" this colossal hoax, the Jews showed photograph after photograph of heaps of burned corpses. But the corpses they were showing were not Jews at all, but Germans that had been burned in the once beautiful city of Dresden.

We White Brothers and Sisters have a tremendously powerful lesson to learn from this horrible event. The overwhelming lesson is that the Jews regard all White people as their enemies and that it is only a matter of time when they will try to incinerate the cities and people of America just as they did Dresden, provided we will let them do it. The second lesson that we can learn is that it took the willing cooperation of White pilots, the British Air Force and the American Air Force to do this treacherous deed — the killing of their own White Brothers. This illustrates again and again how powerful is propaganda!

The third lesson that we must learn is that there is no compromising, no negotiating, no co-existence with the treacherous and diabolical Jew. Their religion and their inbred parasitic nature drives them on to destroy all that is good in this world. There is no peace, no co-existence with this vicious evil. It is either them, or it is us. Being members of Nature's Finest, the great White Race, let us make damn sure that it is we who survive and that mankind's most sinister parasite will be wiped from the face of the earth. Delenda est Judaica!

We of the Church of the Creator put this monstrous murder of the beautiful city of Dresden at the top of our priority list when The Day (Der Tag) comes to settle the score with the Jews.

There are more atrocities, thousands more, which we are determined to avenge as part of the unavenged outrage. In next month's issue we will further describe some of the atrocities heaped upon the brave and creative people of Germany after this horrendous war had already ended.

It's Time for a Closer Look at E.T.E.F.

Everyday now as we read the papers and look at the news, the crime, anarchy and number of killings seem to escalate. Hardly a day passes but we read "Israelis kill two Arabs, wound 18," or rape and murder in Central Park, or revolution and bloodshed in just about any part of the world. Lets face it, the Jews have stirred up turmoil and warfare in just about any and every part of the world, and the White Race in the United States is their main target for destruction.

Last week (May 6) the Iranian Parliamentary speaker Hashemi Rafsanjani had had enough of this Jewish terrorism and openly called for a worldwide campaign of terror against Americans and Westerners (he meant Jews). Leaning on an AK-47 assault rifle, he announced that the only way to stop Israeli terrorism was to kill five of the enemy for every Palestinian killed. Mr. Rafsanjani, acting commander in chief of the Iranian armed forces, was interrupted by thousands of Shiite worshipers who chanted "Death to Israel!" The Shiite and other Moslems are pursuing a holy war against Israel and the Jews, a war they call the JIHAD. In fact, the Jews have committed so many atrocities over the centuries, the whole world now hates the Jews, and the time is rapidly approaching when the Jews will pay in blood — their blood.

Although the Iranians are no friend of ours, we Creators, in fact the whole White Race, has the same common enemy, namely the bandit state of Israel, and the whole conspiratorial Jewish tyranny on a worldwide basis. We, too, have our holy war against them, and we call it RAHOWA! RAcial HOly WAr to the bitter finish!

The United States is now plagued with the largest concentration of Jews in the world — officially six million, but probably many more. Israel ranks second with only four million. Russia, once the world's No. 1, now ranks a poor third with only 2.6 million.

So there we have it. This is the Jews' oyster and the center of their powerhouse. They have monopolized and harnessed the tremendous productivity of the White American worker to enslave the world and destroy the White Race. Knowing that America is the key to their sinister program, they are tightening the screws daily, imprisoning good productive, (but independent) Americans like Rudy Stanko, torturing them on a daily basis in order to break their spirit. His and our civil, religious and constitutional rights are being violated repeatedly and justice as such for the White Man in America is a daily sham. It has taken us months and repeated efforts to so much as get our White Man's Bible into Rudy's hands, and this only after a Federal Judge issued a court order.

We Creators are law abiding citizens. Nine years ago I wrote Creative Credo No. 64 — Law and Order vs. Violence, Terrorism and Self-Preservation. In it I stated clearly that we will and are determined to abide by legal methods and obey the law of the land. However, there comes a time when the government itself becomes the foremost criminal, the cruelest of tyrants and the No. 1 enemy of our precious White Race. When that time comes, and it seems to be approaching rapidly, we will declare that we have now exhausted Articles 1 through 6, and we now have no other choice but to invoke Articles 7 and 8, Nature's Law of Survival of the Species.

When such time comes we should be well prepared. We should now be thinking of what are the most effective ways of carrying out and implementing Articles 7 and 8. We do not want to blunder into such a war recklessly and suffer a 35 to one loss as did the Order when they (presumably) killed one lousy Jew. We want to make sure we proceed with the highest E.T.E.F., that is, Enemy Toll Effectiveness Factor. What is a satisfactory E.T.E.F.? Five of the enemy for one of ours? Ten? Twenty? Fifty? Whatever the factor, we want to make damn sure we inflict the highest losses possible on the enemy, and suffer the least on our side. To do so, we must think, plan ahead, and coordinate our resources. I suggest you start thinking about such scenario now, as to what you can do, and what you will do when we are forced to invoke Articles 7 and 8.

We would like to hear your suggestions and will publish and pass on some of the better ones to our readers and members. Your suggestions will be published anonymously or with your name attached, as you choose. Remember, survival of our species, the precious White Race, is the highest law of Nature and no price is too high, nor is any sacrifice too great. Whether we like it or not, the enemy is forcing our hand and we are engaged in a Racial Holy War! RAHOWA!

A Rose by any Other Name

Shakespeare noted that a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and with this I agree. Conversely, some odious creature by any other name would still be what it is.

As recently as even fifty years ago, the niggers in America were called niggers and there was little fuss raised about that issue. It derived generically from the Latin "niger," meaning black. The fact is these dark-skinned throwbacks are not only different from the White Race in the color of their skin, but also in a myriad of other characteristics (one anthropologist has written a comprehensive book on the subject and lists at least 200 differences other than color.) The most obvious and serious difference is their intellectual capacity and their lower I.Q., a fact of Nature that the Jewish propaganda media has spent billions of dollars over the years trying to confuse and convince the White Man does not exist. Not only is this lower mentality an obvious fact, but the whole cultural and spiritual deficiencies of this African subspecies is demonstrated in the headlines and the news media everyday of the week to those of us who can read between the lines.

Being inferior in most areas, the niggers have tried to upgrade their nomenclature from one designation to another, to another. When the term nigger became rather odious in our language, they clamored to be called colored, rather than nigger and, in fact, when they formed their first major organization to promote and aggrandize themselves, they called themselves colored — the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. When that term became somewhat jaundiced, they insisted on being called negroes. As that term, too, became a designation of inferiority, they went to the next stage, and for the last 25 years insisted they be called blacks. Now that too has become somewhat tainted and the most recent demand is that such be dropped, and changed to African-Americans, thereby latching on to any prestige the name "American" might still have (not much, really). Soon that too will become to represent inferiority, and the Jew will dream up a new nomenclature for them.

As Shakespeare said — a rose by any other name would smell as sweet, and, conversely, we say that a nigger by any other name would still smell.

Part Two and Conclusion

Remember the Alamo!
But Let Us Make Damn Sure We
Avenge Dresden!

In evaluating the horrible slaughter of White people that history has labeled as World War II, we must carefully keep in mind that this murderous and insane tragedy was basically a Jewish war, instigated by world Jewry, planned by them long in advance, orchestrated by the Kehilla from beginning to the end, and there was only one winner — the Jews. It was not just a war against Germany, but another major step in euchring the White Race to turn on itself and destroy its precious and unique Gene Pool. Indeed, it was for the sole benefit and bloodlust of the pernicious parasite that has fastened itself onto all the important nerve centers of power throughout the world. We must also keep in mind that World War II, seemingly targeted on the Germans, was a cunning, but another major step in the Jews' centuries old program of destroying the best first. It was neither the first such step, nor by any means their last, in their long historic program of warfare and genocide against the White Race.

Germany, lying in the heart of Europe, and being revived and unified under the brilliant leadership of Adolf Hitler in the 1930's, was a major prize, whatever its destiny. It was the most energetic, most advanced and most progressive nation in the world at that time, leading in science, culture and genetic advancement, and under the dynamic leadership of Hitler, could have, and would have, rid the world of its most pervasive and sinister parasite — International Jewry. With it also would have been forever eradicated the Jews' long standing parasitic debt-based monetary system which now holds the whole world in its clutches.

Germany indeed was a major prize for the White Race, and a prize that had to be smashed if world Jewry was to survive and continue to carry on its long-established plan of undermining the White gene pool, step by step, until ultimately the Jews were in a position of destroying the White Race altogether in one final thunderclap. Let us make no mistake about it — the Jews have worked on their master plan a long time and the destruction of Germany was by no means the first outburst of diabolical hate and destruction against the White Race. If we look down the long corridors of history we find that the Jews were already highly active and organized 3500 years ago in mongrelizing and destroying White Egypt. It was, in fact, Egypt which was the incubation ground of the Jewish racial religion and its ongoing conspiracy. The Jews were instrumental in pulling down the beautiful and creative civilization of Ancient Greece, the finest specimen of humanity in all history. The Jews deliberately set about destroying their unique and irreplaceable gene pool by mongrelization and the Jews brazenly brag about it in their Protocols of 1489. The Jews were the degenerative solvent that disintegrated the virile and robust Roman race and its powerful empire. The Jews held a special hatred for the Romans for being everything the Jews were not, a pathological hatred that was matched only by the Jews' hatred for the Germans in more modern history. They destroyed the great and admirable Roman gene pool with two major devices — by their lucrative slave trade and by infecting the minds of the Romans with the virulent bacillus of Christianity. Rome, too, came down in ruins, and all of Europe (the White Race) fell into 1300 years of the Dark Ages.

There is one other major maneuver in more recent times in which the outburst of Jewish destruction and hatred for the White Race manifested itself that I want to mention before we get back to Germany. That painful and tragic outrage of wanton destruction, White Men killing White Men, occurred right here in the heart of America some 125 years ago. History has dubbed it as America's Civil War. It was, in fact, a brutal, insane mass slaughter of Nature's Finest, inflamed, instigated and directed by Nature's most virulent parasite — the despicable and repugnant Jew. In this senseless and horrible war White people killed other White people in a mass orgy on a scale that was unparalleled since the Thirty Years War of 1618- 48 in the heart of Europe.

Many of the brutal and vicious tactics used on Germany during and after the war were already inflicted on the White people of the South nearly a century earlier in America. The wanton destruction of Sherman's march through the South, burning Atlanta to the ground, cutting a 60 mile swath eastward to the Atlantic and destroying farms, homes, plantations and cities, and every other basic resource in their path, then turning northward and on into South Carolina, this, too, was an explicit example of Jewish hatred and vengeance against the White Race. In fact, many of the vicious tactics and programs employed against the Germans during and after the war had already been tried and tested against the White Southerners during and after the Civil War. It was indeed a typical demonstration of a long standing Jewish goal — the murder, mutilation and mongrelization of the best of the White Race, whenever they could seize the opportunity.

In the second part of this article I want to focus on the multitude of measures the victorious "Allies" (read White stooges manipulated by Jews) took to ensure the slow strangulation of the German people after the war was over. But before I do so, I want to review the ghastly and wanton destruction of the German cities other than Dresden, and particularly, the massive and unrelenting terror inflicted upon the great German seaport and city of Hamburg.

At this juncture it is necessary to clarify the civilian bombing of cities during this horrendous war. On May 10, 1940, as soon as Churchill (the drunken Jewish stooge) was ushered in as Prime Minister, he announced that the bombing of Germany's civilian population would commence. At this time Hitler stood at the threshold of victory over the French and British armies, a brilliant victory that six weeks later culminated in the occupation of France and the debacle of the British forces at Dunkirk. Hitler had no designs of vengeance on the British, nor the British Empire and her colonies. In fact, he repeatedly expressed his admiration for both as a measure of respect for the constructive achievements in the realm of colonization and civilization for which the best of the White Race can point with pride. He extended the hand of friendship to Britain and offered a peaceful settlement. But the Jews behind that drunken lout of a Churchill wanted killing — more White people killing White people, and the British R.A.F. commenced the random and wanton bombing of German cities to inflict a maximum of death and destruction among the civilian population. This sadistic and unnecessary pursuit was promulgated and carried out for no other reason than sheer bloodlust — the Jews wanted the White people to kill and destroy as many of Nature's Finest as they possibly could, for as long as they could, until Europe lay in ruins and utter exhaustion. This decision on the part of Churchill was to cost Britain dearly. The smouldering, blackened ruins of London, Liverpool, Coventry and many other British cities bore silent testimony to this stupid mistake. Let history record, however, that Hitler did not want any extension of this insane slaughter, and he resisted retaliation on British cities for three months after Churchill launched his bombing raids on German cities.

Be that as it may, with the massive production facilities of the American factories and the military might of the United States joining into the fray of White people killing each other, it was Germany who paid the most horrible price in people killed and cities smashed into rubble. As the war escalated, the hate the Jews managed to inflame increased accordingly, and when the war ended in 1945, for every Briton killed by German bombs, nine Germans were killed by "Allied" bombs — a scenario that the Jews had long planned and their goyim stooges carried out with bloodthirsty efficiency.

It is not my purpose here to review the multitude of needless slaughters and massacres of that insane war on behalf of International Jewry. I do, however want to describe, if possible, the horrors of this terrible Jewish Purim as inflicted on the second largest city in Germany, a fate shared not only by Dresden, but practically every city in Germany.

Hamburg was a beautiful Hanseatic city of two million souls. The city straddled the romantic Alster River immortalized by the "Moonlight on the Alster" waltz. Its long, 1000 year history was reduced to a rubble of cinder and ashes as the Jews manipulated the "Allied" forces to implement their long planned "Operation Gomorrah." Does this sound familiar? It should. The Jews lifted it directly out of their fiendish Old Testament. This magnificent old German city, one of the major seaports of Europe, was targeted to die a fiery rain of death and destruction from the skies.

In ten terrible days, from July 24 to August 3, 1943, concentrated and persistent "Allied" bombing reduced to rubble more than 6000 acres of this great city. This consists of an area almost equivalent to ten square miles of densely populated housing. During those ten horrendous days an estimated 100,000 people were murdered to satisfy the Jewish bloodlust. Many more were crippled, maimed and disfigured.

The method devised by these fiendish murderers was relatively simple and extremely effective. The first wave of bombers would release thousands of high-explosive bombs on the city. This would keep the population, especially the fire-fighting service, in their shelters. The next wave of bombers coming in rained down a multitude of magnesium bombs setting fire to the city, a large part of which consisted of medieval, half-timbered Elizabethan style houses that had formerly attracted tourists from all over the world. These type of buildings, the destroyers had correctly calculated, would burn readily and offer the most potential victims per square mile.

During those ten days, it has been conservatively estimated that Hamburg was struck by 1200 landmines, 30,000 high explosive bombs, and 3,000,000 stick incendiary bombs. The phosphorous bomb, perhaps the most macabre weapon designed in this category, was dropped especially on the civilian areas of the city. Of these, 80 thousand 100 pound phosphorous bombs were dropped, plus 500 phosphorous cannisters and 500 phosphorous incendiaries.

The ensuing firestorm that enveloped the city is impossible to describe as are the scenes of horror in which tens of thousands of people were burned to death. Still the bombers kept coming. The shrieking wind kept feeding the engulfing inferno, a firestorm wind so powerful that huge balks of timber, debris of all kinds, walls of destroyed buildings, trucks and cars, all were hurled by screaming winds along the flaming streets. Burning men, women and children were caught up as helplessly as leaves in a swirling inferno.

Underground in the shelters, groups of people, especially families, clung together in semi-darkness. Families embraced. Mothers held their children tightly, trying to murmur comforting words. Thus they died, trapped in the increasing heat of the deadly shelters. None of the flames that raged high above them in the streets ever touched them, but the heat inside continued to rise until it melted glass, kitchen utensils, and even the brick walls glowed red inside these ovens of intense heat. Mixed in with this molten glass and metal were mounds of molten half human remains.

It will be a long time before these shelters will be opened again, and when they are, men will look upon sights that mankind has never before witnessed, and hopefully will never again.

Martin Caldin, one of the world's leading authorities on military science subjects, described the bombing of Hamburg as "Standing out as the worst of the disasters visited upon civilization during the insanity of the Second World War."

High on our list of priorities, along with Dresden, that must be avenged, is the brutal murder of the great city of Hamburg. RAHOWA!

By April 30, 1945, Adolf Hitler was dead and a week later Germany surrendered. The war in Europe was over, but the war against the German people continued with unabated fury and hatred. Now that the German people were leaderless and defeated, their cities smashed to rubble, the cream of their manhood dead on the battlefields stretching from Africa to the far-flung steppes of Russia, the Jews were in an unfettered position to wreak further death and destruction on what was left of a destitute German nation. In what follows we must remember that whereas originally all of the invective and hatred had seemingly been focused on Hitler, the real aim of the Jews was the destruction, pollution and diminution of the German gene pool, to reduce it to the rubble they had wreaked on the German cities and the total German landscape.

With their goyim stooges completely in their tow and ready to front for them, the Jews now had a free hand in slicing up the German nation and heaping torture, humiliation and misery on the defeated German people. They made the most of it and had a field day. They imposed upon the Germans what even Time Magazine (Jew controlled) called "history's most terrifying peace" ever inflicted on a defeated nation. Actually, even today, 1989, forty-four years later, whereas we signed a peace treaty with Japan a long time ago, still no peace treaty as such has been signed with the German people. What is left of Germany today is occupied territory. With 360,000 American troops (many of them niggers) still on German soil, Germany is still a slave state. Whereas these American troops supposedly are there as a NATO force to act as a deterrent against Russian invasion, the real reason for their presence there is to protect the Jews, who now again are in control of Germany, from the German people.

The fact is the Jewish war against the German people has never ceased and is being waged with a full fury to this very day.

Treaty or no treaty, let us review the Draconian "peace" imposed on the German people following their defeat in 1945.

The ability of any nation to sustain the life of its people is supported by these main pillars: (a) land, which includes all its natural resources, (b) labor, which encompasses both brawn and brains, and (c) capital, which means not only finances and credits but also plants and equipment. We shall see how the Jews set about in a diabolically planned strategy to destroy all three of these underpinnings to make certain the German people would be left a crippled shadow of their former self. The Jews did to the German people what they had done to the defeated Confederate South some eighty years earlier. They were masters of destruction and had learned their lessons well. Germany was another major step in their fiendish program of destroying the White gene pool, of "destroying the best first." They had done it to the leadership of the French people (the best) during the French Revolution 150 years earlier. They had done it to the White people of the American South eighty years earlier. And now, in 1945, they were setting the stage for doing their diabolical number on the German people for the second time. Although they had inflicted tremendous damage on the German people during and after World War I, nevertheless when Hitler came to power their program backfired on them. This time they wanted to make sure the dynamic German gene pool was crippled and mongrelized forever. Their plans called for several basic strategies.

Extermination by Overcrowding

Whereas at Yalta the Big Three Jewish Stooges, Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin, had piously announced to the world that they reaffirmed their "faith in the principles of the Atlantic Charter" they were lying through their filthy teeth. The Atlantic Charter had hypocritically promised "No aggrandizement of territory;" no territorial changes that do not accord with the freely expressed wishes of the peoples concerned;" "the right of the people to choose the form of government under which they live." It was all nothing more than sucker bait. When Roosevelt and Churchill mouthed the Jewish script at their first meeting, they lied flagrantly and deliberately, as they did again with their Communist cohort, Joseph Stalin, at Yalta. When it came to divvying up the spoils of war, a gruesome harvest was unveiled to the German people. The meeting at Potsdam decided their fate. The German Reich was soon severely amputated. What was left of its former virile body was now a mere basket case.

Germany had historically suffered from overcrowding — too many people for too little "Lebensraum" — living space. After World War I their homeland was reduced from 208,830 square miles (the State of Texas has 267,339 square miles) to 181,699 square miles. After W.W. II this was further slashed to 133,000 square miles (half the size of Texas). This included what is now Communist East Germany. West Germany itself is further reduced to a mere 95,976 square miles. Into this small space are crowded some 61 million people.

The Potsdam conference gave tacit permission for driving Germans off of land that had formerly been their homelands for hundreds of years. It said specifically "the transfer to Germany of German populations, or elements thereof, remaining in Poland, Czechoslovakia and Hungary, will have to be undertaken." The countries such as Poland, etc., needed no encouragement in driving the Germans out and possessing their farms and homes. In fact, some 15 million Germans were driven out under the most brutal conditions — half a million from Hungary, nearly three million from Czechoslovakia, and the rest from Poland and Russia. Of these, over 3,000,000 Germans perished of hunger, brutality and other atrocities. About 4,000,000 were deported to Eastern Europe and Russia as slaves. Hungry, desolate, with only the clothes on their backs, those who escaped death or slavery crowded into an already desperate and overcrowded Germany.

All this was no accident. While mouthing pious shibboleths at Yalta, the Big Three with Jewish manipulation had planned just such a scenario for "killing the best."

Destroying the Pillar of Labor

There were three main fronts on which the Jews proceeded in pulling down what was left of German manpower after the devastating ravages of the war itself. Basically, these were (a) enslavement, (b) denazification, and (c) physical incapacitation through undernourishment (starvation). Although at Potsdam it was again piously reiterated that "It is not the intention of the Allies to enslave the German people," nevertheless when Breslau and Berlin surrendered (in Russian occupation territory) long columns of German prisoners marched eastward towards huge depots near Leningrad, Moscow, Minsk, Stalingrad, Kiev, Kharkov and Sevastopol. All fit men marched 22 miles a day. Those partially handicapped went in handcarts, or carts pulled by spare beasts. Most of these handicapped prisoners died on the way. Those that made it joined the slave labor camps of the Russians, a vast army of some 10 to 20 millions, mainly political prisoners, or designated as "political unreliables." Few of these Germans have ever returned to German soil again.

But Russia was not the only one utilizing German prisoners for slave labor. According to the Red Cross, France had 680,000 former German soldiers slaving for her in August, 1946. Of these 475,000 had been captured by the United States and turned over to France. These performed slave labor under the most abominable conditions. In a camp in the Sarthe district for 20,000 prisoners, inmates received only 900 calories a day — plainly a starvation level. Twelve died in the hospital every day. Similar conditions existed in camps in the Charentes district, in the Orleans camp, and elsewhere.

Great Britain, who claims to be the motherlode of democracy, had, according to the Red Cross, some 460,000 German prisoners slaving for her, and as in the case of France, were bringing in a handsome profit for the War Office. The British government netted over $250,000,000 annually from its slaves, and the government frankly called itself the "owner" of these enslaved prisoners. Is slavery dead? By no means. So much for the cradle of democracy.

De-Nazification

Meanwhile the German homeland itself was in shambles, the cities were piles of rubble, the former factories, machinery, electric power plants smashed and the farms neglected and run down. Whereas her manpower, as we have seen from the foregoing, was severely depleted, the Germans are a very resilient and competent people. There was a massive rebuilding job of their country that had to be done and the Germans were desperately trying to get started — clean up the rubble, get some housing, get the farms back into producing food. It was a matter of life and death — a grim matter of survival.

But the Occupation Forces, controlled by Jew power, threw a monkey wrench into that vital and urgent program also. They had to de-nazify the German population first — a purely political and ideological maneuver to satisfy the ego and the sadistic hatred harbored by the Jews. The Nazi party was now outlawed by decree and all former Nazis were declared as criminals per se. Since Adolf Hitler and the Nazi party had been the most popular form of government the Germans had ever enjoyed, and since the overwhelming majority of Germans had been enthusiastically loyal to the Nazi leadership, just about any and every competent and loyal German had either been a member or a supporter of the Nazi party, especially those of leadership quality. These very people, who were now so necessary in getting the nation back on their feet, were now branded as criminals and were either incarcerated in prison, or were relegated to such menial labor as digging ditches. Only former traitors, incompetents, aliens and Jews were now allowed to hold positions of authority, and it is easy to see what a debacle such policy, dictated by the "Allied" high command, would cause. It would, of course, cause chaos in any undertaking, but it was especially deadly in a nation that was desperately struggling to survive.

Meanwhile, the German people were starving, homeless, disorganized and being constantly harassed by their Jewish tormentors. They were being taught Democracy with a vengeance. They could choose any kind of government except the kind they most needed and wanted. They were free to choose their leaders except those most competent to do the job. The fact is they were not free to do anything. They were utter slaves being ground into the dirt by their Jewish slave masters. Although today the German people have rebuilt their country despite all the handicaps imposed upon them, they are still slaves in the hands of their Jewish conquerors.

There is one lesson we Creators can learn from this episode of de-nazification. If it is morally acceptable to de-nazify the German Nation, then it is equally moral for us to de-Judaize the Jews. Whereas the Jews deemed the Nazi philosophy as harmful to their parasitic way of life, history has proven that Judaism is a thousand times more deadly to our own survival. Let us keep that in mind when we, the White Race, regain control of our own destiny. Delenda est Judaica!

The Looting and Sacking of Germany

Having cut up the geographic entity of Germany like a carcass of beef hanging from a hook, the "Allies" immediately proceeded to loot the individual Germans. Since the High Command had branded all Nazis as criminals, and since all Germans were deemed as Nazis anyway, every man, woman and child was considered fair game, lower than an animal, to be looted, stripped and sacked by any American G.I., nigger, or Russian soldier at will.

The serious looting by the Russians was conducted officially, systematically and thoroughly. Every house and apartment was entered, searched and stripped of everything at once valuable and movable — wrist watches, jewelry, silverware, works of art, clothing, household appliances, and money. Stores, shops and houses were ransacked. Farms were denuded of farm animals, machinery, seed reserves, wine and food stocks. (All this is reminiscent of what happened to my family in Russia during the Communist Revolution, especially during the years between 1918 and 1922.) Telephones were removed from residences and telephone lines and equipment were dismantled. Automobiles, trucks, even fire engines were seized. Everything not nailed down was hauled away. The German standard of living deliberately had to be lowered to where it was worse than that of the poorest peasants in Communist Russia.

Outside of the fact that the Russian occupation forces were equal in size to the combined occupation forces of the Western powers, nevertheless the American sectors were equally criminal and flagrant in the business of looting as were the Russians. Although the average G.I. did not suffer from poverty as did the Russians, they somehow made up for it in their arrogant and wanton vandalism with which they destroyed that which they did not steal. Millions of dollars worth of rare items varying from intricate Zeiss lenses to butter and cheese and costly automobiles were destroyed through sheer vandalism. "They seemed to ruin everything, including the simplest personal belongings of the people in whose houses they were billeted," wrote one correspondent of the Chicago Daily News.

Such was the wholesale looting, practiced by the average soldier, and the higher authorities not only took no steps to curb it, but silently condoned it. However, the official Allied Control Council promulgated a number of decrees that would deliberately make certain German recovery never would exceed the average living standards of other European Countries (which, under Hitler, Germany far outdistanced). Anything they deemed as "excess" (we are talking about an entire nation that was in rubble and starving to death) shall be taken as plunder or destroyed. In short, the prostrate German economy must be quartered and its flesh fed to other economies, a project that has aptly been called "economic cannibalism."

But this was not the end of the looting by the victorious conquerors. The Jews resorted to their oldest and most effective scam of all, one that they have used countless times in history and by means of which they continue to loot all nations throughout the world. The "Allies" all in their respective occupation zones printed huge amounts of bogus paper, which they called military currency, which the Germans were forced to accept as "payment" for whatever the victors chose to "buy." It was worthless, of course, merely worthless bogus paper. It is conservatively estimated that altogether between 15 billion and 20 billion occupation marks were printed. This means that the four powers further stole between two and four billion dollars worth of German property for the mere cost of printing worthless money, issued in payment.

Meanwhile, the Russians, who occupied 45 percent of what was formerly Germany, dismantled every factory, machine and plant that had escaped the ravages of war and shipped them eastward into Russia. Not only did they ransack their own zone, but the other three powers gratuitously agreed to give them 25 percent of anything and everything they could loot out of their zones as well. Nothing was spared, patents, inventions, scientific laboratories and even the scientists themselves were appropriated by the victors, with the Russians making off with the lion's share.

In the previous paragraphs we have already reviewed the horrors of war suffered by the German people; the terrible fire bombing of Dresden; the massive, concentrated bombing and burning of the great city of Hamburg, and in fact, every other major city in Germany. Yet, remarkable as it may seem, food reserves were still ample when the war ended, thanks to the discipline, hard work and efficient planning of the German government and its people. Once the war was over, however, this was quickly and drastically changed to one of famine, chaos and the ultimate in death and misery. Under "Allied" policy, bent on vengeance and the decimation of the German people, these food stores were deliberately destroyed, and in the Russian zones devoured by the Russian troops or loaded up and shipped to Russia.

None of this just happened. When the "Big Three," Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin (sadistic sons of bitches that they were) met at Yalta, they deliberately planned to starve the German people to death, not because food was not available, but because in an orgy of hatred and vengeance they wanted to torture the German people, and, moreover, cripple and decimate the German gene pool into insignificance and oblivion. We all remember the "Morgenthau Plan" to reduce the great German nation into an insignificant goat pasture, devoid of people. Henry Morgenthau, Jr. was U.S. Secretary of the Treasury at the end of the war, and this scurvy Jew was not only privy to the inner circles of the Jewish Kehilla, but also one of Roosevelt's closest advisers (if not his boss). Be that as it may, on this issue the Jews of the world were in unison: heap a maximum of misery on the German people! Starve them to death! Kill the best first!

When I visited Germany in 1955, I had the pleasure and honor to be the guest of a German businessman for more than a week. This fine gentleman by the name of Fred Bieger, who had suffered the pangs of cold, and battle wounds on the very edge of the Russian front, told me that whereas the war years were horrible, the "peace" that followed, during the first year at least, was a thousand times worse.

The average American diet is about 3000 calories a day. A working lumberjack needs as much as 7600 calories to maintain his weight and health. Studies by the University of Minnesota showed that when intake (by volunteers) was reduced to about 1650 calories over a period of several months, the volunteers lost a fourth of their weight, experienced fainting spells, dizziness and a feeling of always being cold. They lost three-fourths of their energy and working ability, and their only interest in life seemed to be the next meal.

In their deliberate campaign to starve the German people, the caloric intake allowed in the American zone ranged from a high of 1550 calories to a low of 1180 per person per day. This was, in fact, a program deliberately pursued with the objective of starving the German people to death, and starve them they did. The British, French and Russian zones were even worse. The result was mass starvation. Infant mortality reached a horrifying 90 percent. It was 16 times as high as it had been in 1943. Ed Johnson, correspondent for P.M. Magazine wrote at this time: "Most children under ten and people over 60 cannot survive the coming winter."

Senator Homer E. Capehart of Indiana in an address before the U.S. Senate, February 5, 1946, said in part..."the fact that it has been and continues to be the deliberate policy of a confidential conspiratorial clique within the policy making circles...to draw and quarter a nation now reduced to abject misery...this clique, like a pack of hyenas struggling over the bloody entrails of a corpse and

In the American occupation zone, the High Command saw fit to bring in 42,000 black nigger troops, a move that was no accident. These black savages, the lowest type of animals, had a higher crime rate, a venereal disease rate several times that of the White soldier, and in general, a propensity for rape and criminal activity. They were deliberately set loose upon the German women, and even a scoundrel such as General Eisenhower loosely dismissed the wholesale raping of the German women by the American G.I.'s as "The boys were just having a little fun." Some fun! Where brute force was not employed in the wholesale rampage, later, as starvation set in (as described in the previous chapter) the American G.I.'s traded food, bars of soap, chocolate bars, for cheap and easy sex to the hungry and hopeless German women who were desperately trying to survive.

Without going into detail, the same flagrant program of rape and violence against the women prevailed in the French and British zones. Without a doubt, the policy had been handed down from on high: rape and desecrate every German female to be found. A whole book could be, and should be, written about this shameful and horrendous episode of atrocities committed by the "Allied" conquerors, but we do not have the space here to do so.

Suffice it to say, it is one of the blackest and most shameful blots on the history of civilization, and the White Race as a whole. But let us remember — back of it all was the planned and deliberate hate of the Jewish Kehilla — to destroy that which is best, the German gene pool.

Conclusion

As we enter the last decade of the Twentieth Century, White Americans are not interested in the story of what happened to the Germans after they were defeated and disarmed. Very few know the real story, a gruesome story that was completely hushed up, and few Americans want to hear about it today. But we had better learn from history and realize that what happened to the disarmed Germans then, is in store for the White people of America and the White people of the world. What the Jews did to the Germans was only one further, albeit major, step in their long-standing program of mongrelization and destruction of the White Race. No sooner had the Jews vanquished the Germans when they immediately turned their attention to doing the same to the very "Allies" who in their ignorance and stupidity had helped them do the dirty deed. Targeted for mongrelization and destruction now were all the White countries of the world — especially the United States. This they did by shipping in the mud races of all stripes and colors, into Britain, France, the Netherlands, the Scandinavian countries, and again, especially the United States. They further exacerbated the program by massively subsidizing the mud peoples of the world, by means of the Marshall Plan and foreign aid abroad, and by means of huge welfare programs to the niggers in America herself, all at the expense of the White American taxpayer. The result over the past 45 years has been a massive population explosion, not of the White Race, but exclusively of the mud races, and the United States (as are Britain, France, the Netherlands, etc.) is being flooded and overrun with the mud scum of the world. The objective is to disarm the White people, and when the time is ripe, to utilize the overwhelming hordes of mud peoples to rape, kill and mongrelize the decimated remnants of the White Race in a pattern very similar to what happened to the vanquished and disarmed people of Germany.

Therefore let us take heed and learn our lesson well. Destroy the enemy before it destroys us! Destroy Judaism, the scourge of the world, before it destroys us! If it is morally acceptable to de-Nazify all the Germans, 80 million of them, then it is imperative that we are justified in de-Judaizing the 20 million Jews of the world — our No. 1 mortal enemy. Delenda est Judaica! Let us make sure we avenge Dresden, Hamburg and all the rest of the atrocities the Jews heaped on the great and fine people of Germany. By so doing we will ensure that a similar fate is not perpetrated on us and our own future progeny.

To do so we must become informed, aroused and organized. Had the American people in the 1930's done just that, they would never have gone to war against Germany. Instead they would have joined with the Germans and turned their wrath on the mortal enemies inside our own borders — the sinister and treacherous Jew. Let's not lose any more time. Join the Church of the Creator. Help get those first ten million White Man's Bibles out and into the hands of our White Racial Comrades. Do it now!

Set-up in China

The Chinese are Coming!

It seems the deceit and cunning of the Jew knows no bounds. To most of the befuddled world, recent events in China, it would seem, just happened. The Chinese communist government, like their Russian counterpart, so our Jew orchestrated papers would have us believe, became more lax, and the Chinese students, like the rest of the Chinese people, just spontaneously assembled in Tianamen Square by the millions to express their hunger for "democracy" and freedom. Doesn't everybody?

Practically everybody in the United States and the world who has followed the events of the recent Chinese uprising believes this scenario. However, there are some serious flaws in this projected set-up. For one thing, you don't whip a million students into a state of agitation where they all assemble spontaneously in China's main square without previous long-scale planning and trained leadership. No, this revolt did not happen overnight nor without a great deal of financing behind it. Secondly, there isn't one chinaman in ten thousand who knows the meaning of the word "democracy" (nor an American either for that matter) and really gives a damn for the concept of democracy. Earlier this year Chinese students didn't demonstrate "democratic" principles when they bashed the nigger exchange students who had eyes for their Chinese women. In fact, most chinamen who might have heard the word "democracy" and are asked its meaning would probably say that it was some alien concept repugnant to the Chinese and their culture.

So how did it happen that a million Chinese students assembled in the heart of Beijing and started shouting "Western" (English only for American TV cameras?) slogans? How did it happen that the Communist hierarchy was seemingly indifferent to such a heretical uprising for a number of weeks and then suddenly let loose the armed troops and started mowing down the unarmed students with real machine guns? Wasn't that a nasty thing to do? Didn't that enrage the "democratic" peoples of the world? Surprise! Surprise!

To those of us who have studied the Jewish modus operandi (M.O.) for the last several decades and have followed the upheavals in any number of other countries — Cuba, Nicaragua, Panama, Vietnam and a score of others, it is no surprise at all.

Let us keep our eye on the ball. What is it that the Jews are trying to accomplish? What is it that they are not only trying, but actually achieving, with amazing success? The answer, as any Creator could tell you, is: the Jew is fanatically bent on destroying the White Race, by any and every means possible. Kill the best first! We have already described in great detail how the tribe of Judah managed to bomb, massacre, starve, deport and bastardize a major segment of the German people in the Avenge Dresden! series of articles. We have already spelled out any number of times how, after the defeat of Germany they immediately moved to perpetrate a similar fate on the rest of the White nations of the world, especially America. How can they bring down America? Again, the deceit and cunning of the Jew knows no limits, and they will, and are, using every means at their disposal to bring about the total collapse of White civilization. One means is to promote race-mixing. This they have promoted with a vengeance, not only by propaganda, but also by subsidizing the niggers already in this country so that they will breed to their hearts' content at the expense of the overburdened and hard working White American taxpayer. The Jew controlled government has augmented this further by "legally" enforcing such "civil rights" laws as "open housing," "affirmative action," unlimited welfare, and in general, enforced integration in every segment of our lives.

What has all this to do with what is happening in China today? A great deal, and we are now coming to our main point. Communism is a Jewish invention from beginning to end. Jewish Communism took over China in 1949, forty years ago. In order to do so, Mao tse tung, whom the Jews used as their stooge in China, ruthlessly killed off, it is estimated, between 40 and 60 million of his enemies. Mao is now dead and as elsewhere, Communism has been and is, a dismal failure. But let us remember that in the enslavement of the peoples of the world, the Jews' main target and prime obstacle still is the White Race, and that last great bastion of the White Race, the United States of America.

As we mentioned, one of the many destructive programs utilized by the Jews to destroy the White Race is to mongrelize the White Race into a massive sea of brown zombies, and the flooding of the United States with mud peoples is one powerful method of accelerating such a program.

So what better way to allow all these mud peoples to flood into the United States than to play on the stupid — "Christian compassion" of the White people? Make them feel sorry for the "refugees" from all these tyrannical regimes that the Jews themselves instigated! This the Jews have successfully done in dozens of countries. In fact the United States is the No. 1 sucker haven for all the destitute mud races of the world.

Now where is there a more massive reservoir of mud peoples than the sub-continent of China? There are more than one billion, that's a thousand million, son, there in that miserable country of China, and 99 percent of them would love to scramble to the United States. Millions of them already have done so. But they need a "moral" issue, they used to be "refugees" from a tyrannical government to really open wide the flood gates into our fair country. What has happened in China in the last month provides the perfect scenario, almost as if it was scripted in Jew Hollywood itself. We will see many more scenes of killings, shootings, brutality on our TV screens, and I predict our Jew controlled government will indeed open wide the floodgates to endless hordes of stinking, yellow Chinese. What better and quicker way of drowning what is left of White America in a flood of mud? It will happen just as planned, and as this issue of Racial Loyalty goes to press developments are rapidly unfolding to insure sanctuary in the U.S. for all Chinese students (over 40,000) now "studying" here. If our readers will remember, about a year ago we told you of the million Chinese agricultural workers who were brought to this country (by JOG) last year ostensibly to pick produce (which the White Man has decided he is too good to pick himself). It now appears that JOG may have been just softening us up a little and testing the waters as to how much more the "melting pot" was prepared to take. As "Operation Chinese" falls into place, remember what Racial Loyalty has been telling you all along about it.

Help! A Plea for Support

The Establishment is Trying to Use "Legal" Strong Arm Tactics to Destroy Our Church

The Church of the Creator is a well-founded, well-established, non-profit religious organization. Its North Carolina corporate charter clearly defines it as such, and when we built our headquarters here in North Carolina in 1983, the Macon County Tax Assessor recognized it as such, and in line with our First Amendment rights granted us tax exemption, the same as they had granted to all the one hundred or so other churches in the county. The Tax Assessor that then succeeded the former assessor also concurred and left our tax-exempt status undisturbed.

Along now comes the third tax assessor, one Richard Lightner, who either hates our defense of the White Race, or perhaps the White Race itself. Arbitrarily and capriciously, on his own volition he decided to revoke our tax exemption. Whether he has been paid by the ADL or is a Jew himself, we have not yet determined, but it could be either, or both. We mean to find out. Evidently the Jewish establishment is beginning to run scared, feeling that our increasing growth could soon mushroom into a major awakening of the White people and is a dire threat to their all-embracing tyranny. Earlier in the game they tried to scare us out of existence by using a number of sneaky physical assaults during the middle of the night, such as a shotgun blast at our eight foot logo on the face of the church (the holes are still there for anybody to see), throwing phosphorous fire bombs at our building and various other malicious attacks. When we refused to be frightened or intimidated, they evidently decided to change tactics and are now trying "legal" harassment and assault. We have the news for you goddamned Jewish stooges: it won't work either. We are staying!

Last February we received our initial letter from Jewish-stooge Richard Lightner, said tax assessor. The reason (or pretext) they said was that they had been snooping around the fringes of our property (without so much as coming in and talking to us) and that they had determined we were "not active enough," whatever that means. We replied to the County Commission in writing that we had never been more active in our existence, and also restated such at a formal meeting with the Commissioners. We told them that we were performing marriages, had published eight major books, eleven policy booklets, published 54 issues of Racial Loyalty, had ordained dozens of Ministers in half a dozen countries of the world, started a Leadership School for Gifted Boys, and actually held a two week session at the school. In the face of all this evidence, they still turned us down, but they now changed their tactics. Their new pretext was that our by-laws were not complete, whatever in the hell that meant. We pointed out that the by-laws were written by the same attorney, Richard Jones, who was now, and had been for years, the legal counsel for their own County Commission, and just what was it that was deficient? Furthermore, completeness or incompleteness of by-laws, or no by-laws at all, had absolutely nothing to do with our credentials as a church or our tax-exemption as a religious organization.

My wife, our loyal and hard working Rev. A.W. Reynolds and myself were served subpoenas to appear in Raleigh, NC, the state capital, at 9:00 a.m. September 21, 1989. With it came a Duces Tecum, an order to bring with us all our records, lists of members, lists of ministers, our corporate books, our by-laws, minutes of our meetings, records of expenditures, everything but the kitchen sink, in fact, 13 separate items. To make sure we would be ambushed and unable to comply with the Subpoena and Duces Tecum, we were served only on September 19th, two days prior to the 21st, although it was deceitfully dated September 8th.

Nothing convinced us more that this was a Jewish set-up for harassment than the fact that in the face of all this evidence and common sense the local officials still decided to rule against us and force us to go to the North Carolina Tax Commission hundreds of miles away and go through a formal hearing in order to retain our rights that had already been acknowledged earlier, several times and several years. This now also meant we had to hire a lawyer licensed by the state, since a corporation must have a licensed lawyer to represent it before a state board.

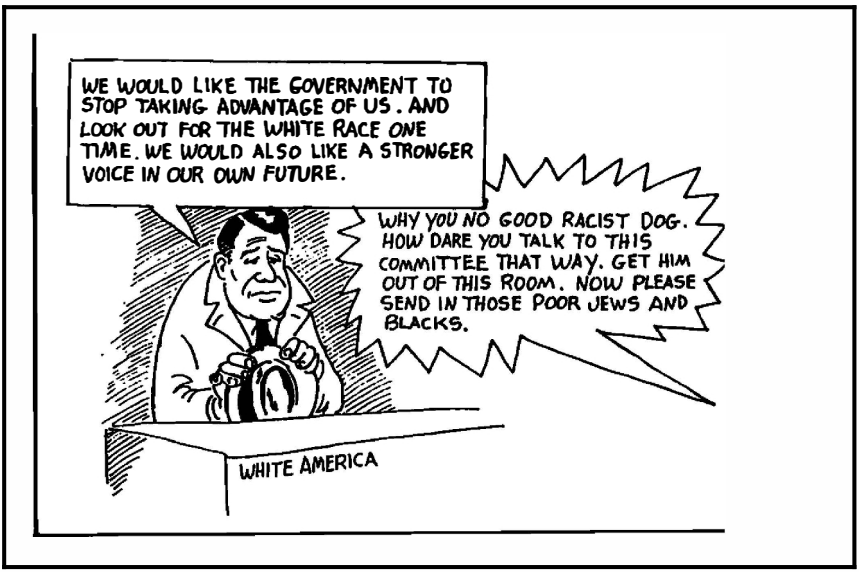
This is where the squeeze comes in. Practically every lawyer in the state is pro-Jewish, pro-nigger, anti-White and gung-ho for race-mixing, everything we are against. Furthermore, they are extremely reluctant to even take on our case, since they are scared spitless it will tarnish their pro-Jewish image before the powerful, all-dominant Jewish control of the courts and the Bar Association (and everything else, we might add).



After several attorneys turned us down and some backed out and left us in the lurch at the last moment, we finally found a paralegal from Oklahoma, who with a legal attorney from Wyoming were willing to go to battle for our case, both of whom were well versed in the First Amendment rights of churches and Constitutional law. However, we still had to also hire a licensed North Carolina lawyer as well, a man from Raleigh, NC, who had been selected by our paralegal. The total bill for all this came to $6000 (so far), a sum we can ill afford. On top of that we had travel expenses, motel bills, etc., to cover.

We finally had a meeting and confrontation with the North Carolina Tax Commission in Raleigh, NC on September 21st. It lasted all day. No decision was arrived at, and we still have to submit briefs and await their deliberations. At the hearing we have successfully asserted the privacy of our subscriber/membership/minister lists and other sensitive documents, but our religious beliefs were bandied about without any First Amendment considerations, whereas when the tax assessor on cross-examination was so much as asked what was his religious faith, immediately had his attorney shout "Objection!" which was quickly "sustained!" by the chairman. That is what is called double standards.

In conclusion, I want to make three cogent points:

The First Point is that our credentials as a church and as a religion are impeccable. They are as good as, if not in fact much better than, any religion on the face of the earth, past or present. Our religious beliefs are not based on silly and untenable myths or fairy tales that have no basis in fact, nor are such myths even logical. Our beliefs are well founded and well grounded in the Eternal Laws of Nature. Does anybody care to argue about the truth and validity of the Laws of Nature? Only a fool would.

Furthermore, our beliefs are based on the experience of history. What history? All history — Egyptian history, Greek history, Roman history, and especially more recent history, such as World Wars I and II, and what has happened here in crime and nigger infested America and what is happening in Palestine, to quote a few examples. We have set our views and beliefs down in writing in eight comprehensive books that anyone is free to read and study. Our creed and program takes in history, religion, politics, bodily health (Salubrious Living), eugenics and the uplifting of our race, as well as the preservation of a viable environment; in other words, we aim to achieve a SOUND MIND in a SOUND BODY in a SOUND SOCIETY in a SOUND ENVIRONMENT. Our creed and program also considers many other facets of our life, such as anthropology, archeology, astronomy and every other scientific study. Compare this with the concepts of the Old and New Testaments written by primitive, ignorant and superstitious Middle Eastern desert tribesmen.

The Second Point I want to make is that our goals are real and compelling: the survival of the White Race — Nature's Finest. I ask any responsible White Man or Woman, what is more important? Saving the gorillas? or niggers? or some species of endangered clams? Can you and your family survive in a drug and crime infested America with wall-to-wall niggers?

The Third Point is: we need financial help — much help! Saving the White Race is taking an increasing amount of our dwindling resources, the largest portion of which to date I have been supplying personally. But these resources are now coming to an end and will have to be borne by the living members of the White Race, too few of whom seem to realize the tremendous issues that are at stake. So confused is the average White Man now by Jewish propaganda that only a small percentage can see through the blather of Jewish garbage slopped on them daily to understand that their very life, their property, their culture and their civilization are at stake. Moreover, and what is more important, the future of their children and grandchildren is non-existent if we don't win this fight NOW — IN THE NEXT DECADE.

Despite all the challenges, difficulties and enemy attacks, our commitment to the sacred cause of Creativity and our belief in its final victory is undiminished. But we need better grassroot organization through the COTC Primary Groups and increased support from the field activists to the Church Headquarters in the form of renewed subscriptions, membership fees, donations and volunteer services at the Church Headquarters. We would especially appreciate volunteer services of Creators with secretarial, typing and editing skills. Also, please send us office supplies, books, and don't forget to remember us in your will.

Let each one of us Creators examine our skills and resources and contribute regularly and generously to the Sacred Cause of the One and Only White Racial Religion — Creativity. Remember, if Creativity does not win, the White Race will be exterminated by the rising tide of the mud races, and then all your resources and all your skills will be worth nothing. Please use them for the best interests of the White Race while it is still not too late. Let us make hay while the sun shines.

So ante up! It is now or never! We need all the help we can get. You need all the help we can give you. Act now! Send us all you can spare and a little extra. The time has come for the showdown! Act now!

Cleansing the Territory

The Spirit of the Early Texas Rangers

It Lives Again in the Ranks of the C.O.T.C.

We, of the Church of the Creator, are proud of the yeoman service rendered by the early Texas Rangers in the expansion and advancement of the White Race in America. They were a camaraderie of brave and heroic men at a time when the White Race in America was building the world's finest empire — an empire that was soon to reach from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

They were lawmen and they were pioneers. They were gunmen and they were Indian fighters and they were racists. They were the protectors of the pioneering White settlers from the marauding Indians and also the encroaching Mexicans. Their motto in the mid-nineteenth century was: "The only good Indian is a dead Indian!", a policy which, if it had been continued by the Federal government, would have saved today's overburdened White taxpayers from having hordes of these pathetic and useless semi-savages on the public welfare rolls.

But the early Texas Rangers were not only protecting the fledgling White settlers from the Indians. They did much more. It was their avowed goal to drive every Mexican and Indian from out of the then Republic of Texas. And drive them out they did, with a zeal that we would do well to emulate today.

It was Stephen F. Austin who pioneered the colonization of Texas by the White Man. His father, Moses Austin, had visions of bringing White settlers into the then Mexican held territory of Texas, and started the initial negotiations with the Mexican government in 1820. His early death the next year left the unfulfilled plans and obligations squarely on the shoulders of his son, Stephen Fuller Austin, who at that time was 28.

CLEANING UP THE TERRITORY FOR THE WHITE RACE.

By 1824 Austin had almost fulfilled his contractual obligations with the Mexican government of bringing in a total of 300 settlers, each of which received a grant of 4605 acres, and who in turn had certain contractual obligations to Austin and to the colony.

One of the problems the struggling new colony had to provide for was that of maintaining law and order in a wild and wide open territory of considerable dimensions. Though the settlers themselves were mostly good solid citizens (their character references had been carefully checked before acceptance), there was still the problem of outlaws, desperados and marauding bands of Indians.

When Stephen Austin put forth the call for volunteers, the men quickly replied to the need, and formed local defense groups that Austin organized to repel Indian attacks. These militia companies soon switched from stationary defense to wide-ranging horse patrols, and concluded that the best defense was to go on the offensive. Thus these patrols came to be known as "ranging companies" and became the forerunners of the legendary (and notorious) Texas Rangers.

Initially, the chief targets were the Indian tribes that infested their territory and settlements, and any Indian was fair game. Attacks on Indians were not only a practical necessity for the survival of the settlers, but a contractual duty that Austin owed to the Mexican government, who at that time still had sovereignty over the territory, and in some instances such Indian raids were carried out with the collaboration of, and on direct orders from, the Mexican military.

By the year 1836 when the fledgling colony had expanded its numbers of White Americans, the Indians were not the only menace. The Mexican government itself became a thorn in the side of the White settlers. As it watched the incoming Americans increase, the Mexican government became apprehensive of their growing numbers and became more hostile and oppressive to the settlers over which it nevertheless still considered itself as the sovereign lord and master. The White settlers, on the other hand, were chafing under the taxes, the customs and the Catholic regimen of what they now considered as a culture and a government alien to their own.

The massacre of the 176 brave men at the Alamo in February of 1836 both panicked and also galvanized the spirit and determination of the freewheeling White American settlers.

On March 16, the Texans promulgated their own Declaration of Independence and elected David Burnet as provisional President of their newly formed Republic. When Sam Houston and his rag-tag band of 800 volunteers trapped and then annihilated Santa Anna's army of 4000 at San Jacinto on April 21 of the same year, they sealed their independence in blood.

Houston's heroic battle at San Jacinto was one of the more important victories in American history. Although small in comparison, it was the battle that decided that Texas was to become the White Man's domain and not that of the mongrelized mestizo Mexicans. The decisive San Jacinto victory rightfully earned Sam Houston a glorious place as an outstanding hero not only in Texas and American history, but also in the history of the entire White Race. We of the C.O.T.C. recognize him as such and are hanging an oil portrait of him in our gallery of "White Men of Whom we are Proud" in our World Headquarters.

Sam Houston became the first elected president of the fledgling Republic of Texas in October of 1836, his first term of office being limited to two years by the Texas constitution. When he came into the presidency the newly created Republic was in shambles. The land area claimed by Texas after the revolution was 242,594,560 acres, stretching from the Sabine and Red Rivers on the east, to the Rio Grande on the West. There were now 30,000 Texans who had settled 62,594,560 acres, but nearly half of this had been ravaged and devastated by Santa Anna's marauding forces. The economy of Texas was in ruins, food was scarce and prices were sky high. Flour was selling at an unprecedented price of $18 per barrel, corn at $1.50 per bushel. The Republic was saddled with a public debt of $1,250,000 incurred during the revolution.

Furthermore, a seething and resentful Mexico refused to recognize the boundaries established by the newly formed Republic of Texas, and an invasion of 25,000 Mexican troops was feared by the spring of 1837. Not only did the Republic have the threat of the Mexican invasion hanging over their heads, but Indian depredations, too, were taking their toll. The Republic was bankrupt and could not afford to finance a standing army.

At Houston's urging, the Texas congress turned its attention to the Texas Rangers. Veterans of San Jacinto and young brawlers from all over Texas came to join in answer to Houston's call. Such outstanding and notorious fighters as Deaf Smith, Ben McCulloch, Edward Burleson, Noah Smithwick, W.A.A. "Bigfoot" Wallace, Jack C. Hayes, Samuel H. Walker and George Thomas Howard were all destined to become enshrined in the hearts of Texans, and, might I say, in the present era of the White Man's struggle for survival, in the hearts of all Creators. Houston quickly organized 600 men into three divisions as a border patrol to guard against either Mexican or Indian attack.

For ten years the Republic of Texas walked a lonely road, constantly under threat of the more powerful Mexican Republic to the south, and the ever marauding Indian tribes in its own territory and on its extended borders. When Houston's two year term as president was up, he was succeeded by his former vice-president, Mirabeau Bounaparte Lamar, a one-time Georgia newspaper publisher and poet. Lamar stated the racial conflict succinctly: "The White Man and the red man cannot live in harmony together. Nature forbids it!" He saw the conflict clearly, as a three-cornered racial war between the mestizo Mexicans, the Indians, and the White Man. It was such in 1840, it remains as such today.

During its ten year tenure as an independent republic, the Texas government and its strong-arm Texas Rangers were well on their way to cleaning up the Texas territory for the White Man. Upon annexation of Texas as a state into the Union in 1845, the Federal government took control of Indian affairs. Much to the consternation of the Texans, the Washington government now took a paternal attitude towards the savage Indians. Whereas the Texans had from their very inception as an independent Republic sought out, pursued and destroyed the Indian villages and encampments within their territory, the Federal government now reversed this policy and set up Indian reservations on Texas soil. It made a number of meaningless treaties with these lawless savages and actually protected and fed them. Instead of solving the Indian problem, it now aggravated and promoted it, much to the chagrin of the Texans. The White Texans wondered just whose side the Federal government was on.

Finally in 1859, the Texans had had enough and took matters into their own hands. They abolished every reservation, and drove every Indian out of Texas territory. It was a superb task, ably carried out by the Texas Rangers. Any Indian found on Texas soil after that was there at his own risk.

We now want to highlight a few of the colorful characters of this noble and heroic band of racial warriors. There is a rich lore and there are a considerable number to whom we could refer, but we will pick only a few at random.

Captain Jack Coffee Hayes. It was Capt. Hayes who revolutionized mounted warfare in the 1840's by adopting Samuel Colt's newfangled handgun as a primary cavalry weapon. Invented in 1836, the early Colt five-shot revolver was fragile and prone to misfire. The U.S. Army had rejected the weapon as a mere novelty. But Hays thought differently. The Comanche Indians he was fighting could shoot a dozen arrows in the time it took his men to dismount, muzzle load their cumbersome rifles and fire a round. Captain Hays dispatched Ranger Samuel H. Walker to help Colt modify the revolver, and the result was a durable, quick firing, easy to load six-shooter, known as the Walker Colt.

During the Mexican War when it was the Texas Rangers who were usually at the forefront leading the U.S. Army into Mexico, the Walker Colt proved its mettle. The revolver wielding Texans proved so effective that this weapon was finally adopted as the official sidearm for all U.S. cavalry men.

Ranger Captain Ben McCulloch led 40 men through Texas lines to find a route from Matamoros west to Monterey for the invading U.S. Army. In ten days, he and his men traversed 250 miles and raided several villages and rancheros without being once sighted by the Mexicans.

So fierce and elusive were the Rangers that the Mexicans called them Los Tejanos Diablos — the Texas Devils. After the capture of Mexico City, with much credit due the Rangers, the Texans earned another name: Los Tejanos Sanguinarios — the Bloodthirsty Texans. Quick-triggered at best, the Rangers were enraged when one of their men was murdered in a villainous part of the City, and went on a shooting spree that left 80 dead Mexicans lying in the streets.

Captain John S. (Rip) Ford. The Comanches came to regard the Texas Rangers with ever greater fear and terror. In the 1850's, the seek-and-destroy missions staged in the 1820's were refined to a bloody art by the latter-day Rangers. In 1858 Ranger Captain Ford was given command of all Texas state forces — militia as well as Rangers, and ordered to use whatever means necessary to end Comanche pillaging in northern Texas. Ford gathered a force of 215 men, mostly Rangers, and tracked a band of Comanches all the way to the Canadian River in Oklahoma. The trail led to a large Comanche village, defended by 300 warriors. They were, however, no match for the well armed Texans, who lost only two killed and two wounded. In the encounter they killed 76 Indians, including the chief, took 18 prisoners, captured 300 horses and destroyed the village's food stores.

In the years to come, the Rangers used their effective mobile assault forces to drive the Comanches and the Cherokees out of Texas. After the Civil War, the U.S. Cavalry adopted the Ranger's tactics to crush Indian resistance in the West.

* * * * *

Today the White Race faces a very similar racial dilemma which is crowding in on us and threatening to destroy our White civilization, our race and our gene pool, as did the early Texans from the depredations of the Indians and the Mexicans.

In the latter part of the twentieth century the White Race is besieged not only by a scattering of Indians, but by millions of Mexicans, millions of niggers, millions of Asiatics, and in fact all the scum and freeloaders of the world, not the least of which is the tribe of Judah. The racial war may be much more complex today than it was in the early days of Texas, but the issue is basically the same. It boils down to one eternal law of history and of Nature, that was enunciated by President Mirabeau Lamar in 1840. That law still stands today: "The White Race and the mud races cannot live in the same territory. Nature forbids it!" We will either cleanse our territory of the mud races as did the Texas Rangers a century and a half ago, or we — the White Race — will be utterly destroyed. If we, the White Race, do not take a firm hand in changing the course of racial flooding of the mud races that are being dumped upon once White America, we will in the course of the next generation be deluged into extinction.

White people awake! In our creed and program we have stated again and again what the grim lessons of history have repeatedly taught us — namely, that a polyglot nation or a polyglot society can neither be governed nor can it endure. By sheer breeding alone the mud races will crowd us out of our own territory and off the face of the earth. As I have pointed out in any number of chapters and articles, a fate similar to that which befell San Domingo awaits us here in America. (See the White Man's Bible, "The Grisly Lesson of San Domingo — A Forerunner for White America.")

Whether we like it or not, grim and appalling disaster is staring us in the face. Nature's Finest — the White Race — is doomed to rapid extinction unless we take determined and, yes, ruthless action, as did the Texas Rangers in the early history of that state. We must again realize our racial values and guard and protect them with our very lives, as did the valiant heroes at the Alamo, and as did Sam Houston and his rag-tag army at San Jacinto in 1836, as did the heroic Texas Rangers. We must drive the alien scum from out of our midst as did the Texas Rangers in the middle of the nineteenth century. Furthermore, we must make it clear that we are determined to hang those racial traitors who are now selling us out to the enemy, as did

Gen. Winfield Scott to the San Patricio traitors in 1848 at the end of the War with Mexico.

Klassen's Letter to Metzger

(Written and Mailed on January 25, 1985)

Dear Tom:

I have been meaning to write you ever since I returned from my trip to So. California and thank you for your hospitality and the taping of the show. So allow me to now say — many thanks!

After meeting you I am convinced of your sincerity to the cause that I believe you and I both hold in common — and that is the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race — a goal that we of the Church of the Creator spell out repeatedly.

But time is rapidly running out on us and whether we will achieve this in our lifetime depends on how fast we, the White Race, can get our act together. Let me add that if we don't do it in our lifetime (and I believe we have at best only another five to ten years to do so) it will not be done in our children's lifetime either. In another decade or less all hell will break loose and a worldwide racial war will ensue, the objective of which will be to completely destroy the White Race, and mongrelize what dilapidated remnants survive. There will be no comeback, no second chance. The other alternative is to smash the monster that is bent on destroying us.

I have been preaching repeatedly that the only way the White Race can beat the monster and survive is by sheer power — to build a powerhouse larger and stronger than the Jewish powerhouse and smash the hell out of it. Secondly, I have been preaching that the only way that can be done is the same way as the miserable parasitic Jews have built theirs — by polarization and dispersion — around a dynamic powerful racial religion. See again "Dispersion and Polarization" in Racial Loyalty No. 14.

In Creativity we have it all — the whole ball of wax — to build that powerhouse. Also the White Race has the manpower, wealth, resources, intelligence and numbers to do the job. The biggest roadblock, in my opinion, is the hubris of the tens of thousands of little groups in wanting to be so goddamned independent and individualistic that they would rather see the White Race go down the drain than admit that their own little satrap might not be equal to the task.

My objective in writing you this letter is to convince you — implore you — to join with us in the Creativity movement and form a Church of the Creator in your area. That would be a big step in the direction of polarization, and since you are a leader, a man with a considerable following, this would shake up the whole White Racial movement to take a second look and bring them to their senses — in the realization that we have to polarize into one huge powerful battering ram. Fragmented and divided we are sitting ducks. The last 50 years of history has proved that overwhelmingly. In contrast, in Germany Hitler proved the power of the polarization approach, the Catholic Church proved it over the centuries, and the Jews have amply demonstrated it for thousands of years.

For those who argue that we must be dispersed or the Jews might smash us in one fell swoop — the beauty of Creativity is that we can do both: polarize around one loyalty — one creed — one program, and at the same time be dispersed into thousands of different church groups, just like the Jews have done for millenniums.

What I am saying, Tom, is this. What is to stop you from forming a Church of the Creator group in Fallbrook, or anywhere in So. California, and still be your own boss? You can put out your own newspaper, or you can put out ours, or you can put out both, if you like. Your can run candidates for political offices or whatever activities you see fit and constructive. You can be ordained as a minister of our church, or we could even create a higher title (equivalent to a bishop, cardinal, etc., in the Catholic Church, except we would come up with some Latin name for it) all of which would provide prestige and some legal protection.

All of this would create a significant beginning toward crystallizing and polarizing the whole White Racial movement toward really building a meaningful, lasting power structure. It would also buy us all a lot more security as a movement. For instance, if we (here in North Carolina) were wiped off the map (which could happen) there would be thousands of other church groups who could and would carry on, pick up the leadership and in fact through our martyrdom be fanned into cold blazing fury of determination and retribution.

Anyway, this is the only way to go. History has proven that a formless fragmentation of little groups going in hundreds of different directions are no match for a united, polarized army that has a specific goal, purpose and creed.

I could go on, but I believe you have read enough of my literature, including The Pole Star in issue No. 20 to know what I am talking about.

Why don't you sit down, lock yourself in your office as you did about the Christianity issue, and think this thing through. You could be a key figure in amalgamating and galvanizing the White Racial movement, and I invite you to join with us in achieving this overwhelmingly crucial goal.

May the Creative Force stay with you!

For a Whiter and Brighter World,
Creatively yours,
Ben Klassen, P.M.

ED. NOTE: This letter was written and mailed to Tom Metzger almost five years ago, yet all of the invitations, offers and pleas for W.A.R. to join with the C.O.T.C. are still valid and are hereby renewed. We wholeheartedly agree with White Racial Comrade Rev. S. D. Kenly and other Skinheads/White Warriors that W.A.R. and the C.O.T.C. should join forces and become one huge battering ram capable of smashing the chains of Jewish tyranny and winning the worldwide White Racial Holy War. I bear no personal animosity or grudge against Tom. On the contrary, I consider him a courageous energetic fighter for White survival. In fact, his son John is already an ordained minister of the C.O.T.C., and has been for years. Personalities are secondary. We must get our priorities straight and remember there is nothing more important than winning the life and death battle against the Jews. In order to do so we should also remember Benjamin Franklin's advice: Either we hang together, or we will hang separately. ALL WHITES, UNITE AND FIGHT!

Issue No. 57 — February 1990

We Won!

The Establishment's Tax Assessor did not win this round

We might not chalk up too many victories against the Jewish power establishment, but the recent decision of the North Carolina Tax Commission in our favor is a welcome exception.

Terrorist Tactics Against Us in the Past

As everyone who has been reading Racial Loyalty for the past several years knows only too well, the Jewish ADL in collaboration with the Christian churches has been hounding and harassing us from the time we poured the foundation for our church building back in 1982. In June of 1983 we were shot at (our logo on the front of the building still shows a number of bullet holes from a double-O pellets shotgun blast). In the same sneak attack in early hours (2:30 a.m.) of the morning of June 15, 1983, our church was also firebombed and only the timely arrival of the local fire department saved it from destruction.

Since we did not run and fold up shop, a number of scare and harassment tactics were continued to be aimed against us. For example, in June of 1986 Hasta Primus Rev. Carl Messick heard voices on the grounds near our church, laughing and loudly proclaiming that they were going to shoot out our yard lights, burn down the church and shoot the "dude" (Rev. Messick) when he came running out. In anticipation of impending trouble, we immediately called the Sheriff's department to inform them of the threats. In the meantime, while the Sheriff's department dragged their feet in arriving, sure enough, a car drove up our road (at about 3:30 a.m.) up to my house, turned around and stopped in front of the church. I jumped into my car (rifle in hand) to pursue. As they fled out of our domain, Rev. Messick was waiting for them at the end of our private road trying to stop the attackers. When they would not stop and in fact tried to run him down, he unleashed a fusillade of a dozen or more rounds from his M-1, aiming low. It riddled the car with a number of bullet holes, flattened their tires, but nevertheless they escaped. This dramatic incident evidently scared the hell out of any further vandals, and we have not had any such assaults since, although you never know when some fool may try again.

ADL... THIS IS THE TAX ASSESSOR. I'VE STARTED THE BALL ROLLING TO REVOKE THE C.O.T.C. TAX EXEMPTION, "LIKE YOU REQUESTED."

WHEN THE JEWS THINK WHITE PEOPLE ARE STARTING TO LISTEN... THAT'S WHEN THEY RUN SCARED.

"Legal" Strong-arm Tactics Now Being Employed Against Us

In the last year the ADL and the power establishment switched their tactics from physical terrorism and intimidation to using "legal" strong-arm tactics instead in their attempt to break us. After having applied for real estate tax exemption, the same as any other church, and having such granted for 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987 and 1988, a new tax assessor, one Richard Lightner, evidently volunteered to front as the tool of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League (ADL) to do the dirty job.

On February 14, 1989 we received a first notice that arbitrarily and capriciously the tax assessor was summarily revoking our tax-exempt status. This started a whole chain of hearings, appeals and legal maneuvering that cost us (so far) at least $7000 in legal and other expenses, not to mention the time, aggravation and energy expended. It probably cost the county (meaning the taxpayers) another $30,000 in legal fees and other expenses. All this for a $800 a year tax revenue, something that cannot be justified by the county other than it is the vindictive and malicious strong-arm abuse of the power to tax in order to destroy someone whose beliefs they hate with a vengeance. And what is that belief that the Jewish power establishment hates so vehemently? It is the right of the White Race to assert its Constitutional rights for its own survival, expansion and advancement.

On our part we would be better off financially to throw in the towel and pay the taxes. But only temporarily. It would only be the opening gun of further legal maneuvering to close us down. They know it and we know it. As Gen. MacArthur said "there is no substitute for victory," and we have just won the first round.

All this maneuvering ended in the state capital, namely Raleigh, North Carolina, when a hearing on our appeal was held on September 21, 1989 before the North Carolina Property Tax Commission. On December 22, 1989 the Commission came out with their eleven page Report and Decision. It was decidedly in our favor. Without quoting the Report in its entirety, this is what the Decision states:

Conclusions of Law

Based on our review of the applicable law, the evidence, and our findings of fact, the North Carolina Property Tax Commission makes the following conclusions of law:

1. The County's motion to dismiss is denied. In the Commission's view, the Appellant made a timely appeal from an adverse decision of the local board. The Commission has subject matter jurisdiction over such appeals, and the Taxpayer's notice of appeal stated a claim upon which the Commission could give relief, namely, that the Appellant protested the removal of a previously granted exemption from ad valorem taxation.

2. The Commission does not address the Taxpayer's motions to quash certain subpoenas issued in connection with the appeal. In view of the Commission's disposition of this appeal, these motions are now moot.

3. The Commission denies the County's motion for sanctions against the Appellant, The Commission has no lawful authority to impose such sanctions.

4. The Commission concludes as a matter of law that the Macon County Assessor did not employ a lawful procedure in removing, for the tax year 1989, the exemption previously granted.

5. The Commission concludes as a matter of law that the Macon County Board of Equalization and Review for 1989 had no authority to remove the previously granted exemption from the subject property for the tax year 1989 under the circumstances presented in this appeal. But for the Assessor's letter of February 14, 1989, the Appellant would not have appealed to the local board.

6. The Commission concludes that the Macon County Assessor, in his letter dated February 14, 1989, exceeded the authority granted to county assessors under the law.

Wherefore, it is ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the decision of the Macon County Board of Equalization and Review for 1989, removing the exemption from ad valorem taxation of the subject property for the tax year 1989, is REVERSED. 12/22/89.

The ADL Continues Its Attacks Against Us

The matter should end there, but it will not. The ADL is apparently goading the Macon County Commissioners to pursue this matter viciously and maliciously no matter what the cost, no matter what the financial consequences. (The County undoubtedly has already spent more in legal fees than they would collect in taxes from us in the next forty years!) At a special meeting on January 8, 1990, in a split vote they decided to appeal, and drag this matter on indefinitely.

We on our part are determined to defend our rights of freedom of religion, freedom of speech and defend the rights of the White Race to the limits of our ability for the next hundred years if necessary. We are damn well determined that if the Jewish synagogues, the Black Muslims and thousands of other religious cult groups and institutions are allowed tax exemption, then we will demand, yes, demand, equal rights. Furthermore, we intend to sue the County summarily, and each individual member of the County Commission, for punitive damages running into the upper six figures for their arbitrary, capricious, deliberate and malicious abuse of tyrannical power to violate our civil and religious rights. Before we are through, we hope to teach these Jew-manipulated tyrants and race traitors that they cannot willy-nilly play fast and loose with the constitutional rights of the White Race. It will be a lesson they won't soon forget!

It's becoming more obvious every day...

— THE JEW PLAN —

1. COMPLETE GOVERNMENT CONTROL BY ELECTING JEWS ONLY.
2. FINANCIAL CONTROL OF THE WORLD.
3. HOSTILE TAKE OVER OF WHITE OWNED BUSINESS'.
4. GENOCIDE OF THE WHITE RACE.

6. WEAKENING OF THE WHITE FAMILY THROUGH DRUGS.
7. BRAIN WASHING THE WORLD TO FEEL SORRY FOR THE POOR JEWS.

" LITTLE BY LITTLE ITS WORKING "

Oooooo!... If you utter that "N-word," you've had it!

About Nigger Nomenclature

At the beginning of the year 1990 Mayor Bruce Bannister of East Point, a suburb of Atlanta, was having a private telephone conversation with Councilman Cecil Kennedy. In the conversation, Mr. Kennedy referred to City Manager Joseph Johnson as "that nigger," and the Mayor laughed. Either by accident or by design, the secretary had left the tape recorder on, unbeknownst to the two engaged in conversation, and somehow, soon thereafter, a copy of the tape got into the hands of the Jew-dominated Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

All hell broke loose. A City councilman had used the word "nigger," and — heavens to Betsy — the mayor compounded the felony by uttering a laugh! This is a major crime of the first magnitude! This calls for immediate impeachment, — the Atlanta Journal-Constitution cried with big front-page headlines, — of both the Councilman who said the unutterable "N-word" and also of the Mayor who had the audacity to utter a laugh!

At the instigation of the flap generated by the Jew-run Atlanta Journal-Constitution, the eight-member City Council immediately called a meeting to consider impeachment proceedings. Two members of that Council are niggers, namely Joseph Heckstall and Ann Douglas. The meeting was attended by 500 residents, most of whom were niggers. About two dozen of the latter repeatedly called for the resignation of the Mayor and Councilman Kennedy. "This is probably one of the most degrading things that could have happened in East Point!", lamented nigger Councilman Heckstall. When it came to a vote and a showdown, it went straight down the racial line. The six White council members voted against, while the two niggers voted for impeachment.

Why is it such a crime?

Let us stop and consider how far the White Man has been pushed down the road of intimidation. Since the founding of this once great Republic, the word "nigger" was an ordinary straight generic term, as was say the word "house," "mouse" or "louse." It stemmed from the Latin word "niger," meaning "black." But now comes the Jew-orchestrated "Civil Rights" revolution of the '60's, and — horrors! — to use that word is the most unspeakable of all crimes, and spells sudden death for any politician that dares to utter it, or even (as the Mayor found out) so much as laugh when hearing it.

Why is it such a crime? I repeat, it was and still is, a basic generic word of the English language, used for centuries to describe a certain type of people, as say the word Frenchman, or German, or Chinese. How does it happen that none of these other ethnic groups feel offended or that a "racial slur" has been cast upon them by using the centuries old nomenclature? Why is it only the nigger that has to change it every so often like a pair of dirty socks? Why is it only the word nigger bears this tremendous stigma?

Inferior and Repugnant Outcasts

I have already described the reason why in detail in "A Rose by any Other Name," the article I published in one of the previous issues of Racial Loyalty. The reason is the nigger was and remains inferior and repugnant, no matter what nomenclature he goes under, and therefore soon that nomenclature itself becomes repugnant. They didn't like the word "nigger," so they shifted to "colored." Soon that too became odious, and soon they insisted on being called "negroes." When that word, too, became smelly (like a typical savage nigger animal always is!), they shifted to the word "black." Soon that, too, was disreputable, and now they have a new designation — "African Americans or Afro-Americans." No doubt, very soon that too will become distasteful and Christ only knows what they will come up with next.

The savage, repugnant, stupid, stinking nigger animals want instant "dignity" heaped upon them, which the Jewish media is doing its damnedest to artificially fabricate and lavishly slop all over these stone-age aborigines, stagnated and useless outcasts of evolution. However, it doesn't work that way. Dignity, like respect, is something you have to earn, and the shiftless niggers are simply unable to cut it: short of earning respect, they are unable to earn a living! They exist as parasites on the backs of the hard-working White taxpayers. Like intelligence, dignity is a commodity on which niggers come up damn short, and for a good reason: they are an inferior species. No amount of artificial “uplifting" will ever change this basic fact of Nature.

As I said in the previous article, a rose by any other name would smell as sweet (to quote Shakespeare) and a nigger by any other name would still smell.

First of a Two Part Series

If not Creativity, what else is there? If not now, when?

Dramatic changes in Europe

With the dramatic and far-reaching changes that seem to be sweeping Europe, there seems to be a euphoria of hope that we Americans are winning the battle against communism and that a better and more peaceful world is in our future. Communism is a dead horse, our newsmedia exult, and democracy, American style, is the wave of the future.

One mudhead from the U.S. State Department's "think-tank" went even so far as to suggest that the world has reached "the end of the history of ideas," because, according to him, from now on "liberal democracy will be the universal, dominant, unchallengeable and irreplaceable ideology all over the world for all eternity..." (Obviously, the think-tank mudhead has not heard yet about Creativity — the new racial ideology-philosophy-religion of the White Race — which completely and categorically rejects all Jewish ideas, including the Jew-concocted "liberal democracy," and thereby challenges "the end of the history of ideas.")

Democracy! Democracy! Every country in the world must have democracy, the Jew-controlled U.S. government shouts, whether it be Europe, or Nicaragua, or Panama, or South Africa, or be it the mud countries of the African continent such as Ethiopia or Swaziland. One man, one vote, that is the solution to the world's problems — it's the only way to go — a free society and equality for everyone...

Breakdown of the "Evil Empire"

Recent events would seem to indicate that the breakdown in the former "Evil Empire" of Communism is indeed moving towards democracy, American style. The Communist empire with its headquarters in Moscow is visibly disintegrating before our eyes. East Germany has "voted out" the Communist dictatorship and is rapidly moving towards a reunion with the West German Federal Republic. Hungary has shucked off the Communist monopoly, as has Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia, Czechoslovakia and a host of others. Romania did it the hard way, after thousands were murdered and finally the Communist dictator Ceausescu and his wife were summarily executed by the rebels. The Ukrainians are chafing at the bit and seething for autonomy, as are the Moldavians, Azerbaijanians, Armenians, Tadjiks and a host of other ethnic groups. As a most dramatic development, on March 11, 1990 Lithuania has declared its complete independence from the Soviet Union and is currently engaged in a war of nerves with Moscow.

There is no doubt about it, the Soviet Communist empire is falling apart at the seams, and neither Gorbachev nor anybody else is going to be able to hold it together or restore the former status quo.

The Death of Communism

Communism is a dead horse. It is, or was, a form of Jewish tyranny imposed upon Russia in 1917 by a well-organized band of Jewish Bolsheviks and aimed to become a vehicle for establishing an ironclad Jewish dictatorship throughout the world. By now its deceit and defects are so obvious that it is dying of its own dead weight. So, good riddance! Democracy is the coming thing and the answer to the world's ills, we are told. What is our response to this claim?

No doubt, the death of communism is a welcome phenomenon and some of the changes in Europe are for the better and irreversible. The reunification of West and East Germans, ending a diabolical heavy-handed partition imposed upon the Germans by the victorious Jews after World War II, is one of the constructive changes, looking at it from the White Man's point of view. The breakdown and discrediting of Jewish communism, per se, is another favorable and historic turn of events. Shaking off the tyrannical iron grip from Moscow is also a step in the right direction for many of the ethnic groups of the polyglot Soviet empire.

Lenin’s Last Stand

Associated Press

25 foot-tall statue of V. I. Lenin is lifted from its pedestal in Bucharest square Monday. The statue was to have been removed last Saturday, but workers couldn't budge it. Finally, a squad that included workers who in 1970 removed a statue of Josef Stalin was brought in to finish the job. The city government hopes to sell the monument: asking price, $1 million.

However, we Creators are not at all convinced that we are moving toward a Whiter and Brighter World. Nor do we buy the garbage that democracy, American style, is the answer to the multiplicity of problems in this world overcrowded with mud people. On the contrary. As the French saying goes, the more things change the more they are the same.

Yes, the system of tyrannical Jewish Marxism, whereby all property is "collectively" owned by the state with the resultant waste, mismanagement and nonproductivity, has now been conclusively discredited for all time. Marx, son of a rabbi, is finally dead — physically, ideologically and philosophically. But, we must remember that Marx was a nonentity and that the cruel imposition of Marxism was accomplished only by the powerful direction and manipulation of Judaism, and Judaism and the Kehillah are still very much alive and in control of the world today. In fact, it is they that are now promoting democracy with a vengeance, and — I have no doubt — are willfully and deliberately throwing Communism overboard. Evidently, it has served its purpose, and it is now time to scuttle it and change tactics in their unswerving plan and program to enslave all the peoples of the world as set forth in the Protocols of the Elders of Zion.

Analysis from the White Man's point of view

Now in reaching the conclusions I will be coming to, I want to make it clear that I am using the criteria as set forth in Creative Credo No. 2 of the White Man's Bible. We Creators look at everything from the White Man's point of view. Not from "America's" point of view, not from the Jews' point of view, nor that of world "humanity," nor are we looking at it from the niggers' point of view, nor "through the snake's eyes." The bottom line is — what do all these dramatic changes occurring in today's world bode for the future of the White Race?

The answer is — more dangers and accelerated race-mixing! We must remember that Democracy, like Christianity and Communism, is a Jewish invention, a tool used to divide and conquer, the main target being the White Race. The very fact that the Jewish press is huckstering "democracy" with a vengeance, should raise a red flag by itself. Also, the fact that Communism seems to be dismantling itself relatively peaceably, without a major cataclysm such as the Bolshevik revolution, or World War I or II, is in itself very strange, especially so when we consider the fact that the world's No. 1 Communist leader, Mikhail S. Gorbachev, seems to be spearheading and masterminding these great events. He didn't get into the No. 1 catbird position without the massive help and approval of the Jews themselves, that is certain. The fact that he has been so highly touted, has received such glowing approval from the American Jewish press in every move he takes and every utterance he makes, should further convince us that he is their fair haired boy.

"Democracy" — another Jewish tool

So, what are the Jews up to, what do they have in mind? Well, I am neither a mind reader, nor do I have a crystal ball. All I can do is to look at the facts and put two and two together, using the principles of logic and common sense.

Let us first look at the Jewish concept of democracy, that great, great sacred word that is always at the forefront of every utterance made by Jimmy Carter, or Ronald Reagan, or George Bush, or any other political prostitute in the service of the Jewish Occupational Government. We have "democracy" in the world's "greatest" and "most affluent" society today. How is the White Race faring here and who rules the United States, this, supposedly, the world's greatest "democracy"?

The answer is — the White Race is not faring very well. The Jews own and control their own private Federal Reserve (the world's largest counterfeiting ring); the Jews own and control most of America's newsmedia; the Jews own and control most of the nation's major businesses; the Jews control our cultural and educational facilities and are using them to brain-pollute, race-mix and degenerate our society, especially our youth. Furthermore, the Jews are in complete control of all branches of our government in Washington, and in every state, county and city as well.

So how is the White Race faring under democracy? Not very well! It is targeted for extinction by "our" Jewish government. Practically every major city now has a stupid nigger mayor who is, of course, manipulated by his Jewish masters who put him there in the first place. The White productive worker and his family are having a hard time making ends meet while they are being taxed to death in order that "our" Jewish government can subsidize an ever increasing horde of freeloading niggers and other mud races (Mexicans, Puerto Ricans, Haitians, etc.). While the White taxpayers work and slave and hold back on raising a family of their own, the niggers and the mud races feed and breed, subsidized by the largesse of the exploited White taxpayers. At the same time "our" Jewish government not only leaves our borders wide open for all the free-loading scum of the world to enter into our domain, but actually encourages these hordes to come here and pollute our once pristine domain. That, my dear White Racial Comrade, is democracy in America, the model for all the world.

Meanwhile, productive White entrepreneurs, like Rev. Rudy Stanko, sit in jail, robbed of their business and reputation, on trumped up charges contrived by a vicious Jewish conspiracy. He is not alone. Thousands of other White loyalists are also behind bars for no other reason than that they are for the White Race and therefore a threat to the Jewish conspiracy. You are, of course, free to enjoy the fruits of the great American Constitution, and the Bill of Rights, and you can say and think anything you like, except, of course, don't mention the Jewish behemoth. That, too, is an integral part of "democracy" in America.

How is the White Race faring in once "Great" Britain, that mother of all parliaments, democracy, and all those other shibboleths? Well, the Skinheads, who originated in Britain, pretty much summed it up in a few lines of their brave song: "Once we had an Empire, now we've got a slum." Niggers of all stripes from Africa, Pakistanis, Hindus and a plethora of other scum and mud races now infest British cities, and the Jew-controlled British government, as in the U.S.A., coddles sweetly to these parasites, but takes an extremely hard stand against any White Man who dares to take a pro-White position and defend White racial purity of his once great country. That is "democracy" in England.

We now take a look at the German people, the most productive people in the very heart of Europe. Since democracy is supposed to exemplify rule by the majority of the people, undoubtedly, Germany under Hitler from 1933 to 1939 had the finest democracy of all time, since Hitler's regime enjoyed the popular endorsement of over 90% of its people. But, of course, it wasn't a Jewish democracy; in fact, it was hostile to these miserable scavengers. Therefore, to hell with the will of the people, it had to be smashed.

Despite draconian partitions and extortions imposed by the Jewish victors on a defeated Germany, the German people by sheer strength of their talent, hard work and perseverance managed to rebuild their smashed and devastated cities, factories, transportation systems and farms. In the Western part of partitioned Germany, they had the American-style democracy imposed on them, whether they liked it or not. They could vote for any scoundrel they chose, but they could not vote for freedom from the tyranny of hostile occupation forces, nor could they vote for the kind of government they had enjoyed (National Socialism), nor could they vote for re-union with "East" Germans, nor their kinsmen in Austria who were part of the German Reich in 1939. So they were free to do anything at all as long as it conformed with the wishes of their Jewish slave-masters. All of which, of course, didn't leave them much choice or much room to maneuver, but that was what was now called democracy. In the meantime the Jews saw to it that the "democratically" occupied Germany be polluted with Turks and other mud races to make sure their gene pool would be on its way to major pollution.

Now that union of "West" Germany with "East" Germany seem inevitable, all Germans will have a unified "democracy" — to be ruled, exploited and tyrannized by the worldwide Jewish powerhouse. That is what democracy has in store for a unified Germany.

Inter-ethnic conflicts — the Jewish plan to divide and conquer

Meanwhile, in the other countries breaking away from the Soviet communist monolith we already find a passel of major inter-ethnic conflicts. Poland is hostile and apprehensive that a united, strong Germany may try to reclaim its former territory carved out of eastern Germany and forcefully joined into a Poland that had its own eastern territory "given" to Russia (very democratic, was it not), with the blessings of the Jew-controlled "democratic" United States, Britain and France.

Inter-ethnic conflicts are the curse of Europe. I pick up the morning paper and I read that another incident of ethnic violence is stirred up in Yugoslavia where 417 ethnic Albanians were hospitalized due to poisoning, and about 4000 ethnic Albanians gathered in the streets of Podujevo and beat up some 15 Serbs and Montenegrins, accusing them of deliberately poisoning the Albanian students. Another article on the same page tells about thousands of anti-Hungarian demonstrators rallying for the fourth straight day in protesting the intended take-over of Transylvania by Hungarians. This clash between Romanians and Hungarians left seven dead and 300 wounded. Meanwhile there are deadly ethnic clashes between Turks and Greeks on Cyprus, as well as border disputes between Greeks and Albanians. The list of examples of ethnic strife in Europe and elsewhere is endless.

Is Europe going to enjoy peace and prosperity once communism is dismantled? No, not hardly, if the Jews can help it. Already all the hundred-year-old grudges, feuds, animosities, ethnic hatreds are being fanned and revived in the same old Jewish game of divide and conquer.

The fact is this ethnically splintered and fractured world is never going to enjoy either peace or prosperity as long as the Jews are in control, and at this juncture in history they are fully in control, as they have been to a lesser degree for the last two thousand years.

What is the solution?

Is there a solution to ever bringing peace and prosperity to this polyglot, fractured world? Can even a once White and civilized Europe achieve peace among its various nations? Can they settle all the age-old grudges, rivalries, border problems, former territorial acquisitions, the problems of ethnic groups within other ethnic groups? Can they solve the thousand and one other problems, such as languages, religions, etc., that have been and will be the cause of endless wars even after communism is eradicated?

My answer is no, under the present system of values in the existing religious, economic and social system they will never be peacefully settled. Let us take, for instance, the problems of one single country, namely Germany, as a starter. The boundaries between Germany and Poland will be an eternal ulcer and can easily escalate into a military war again. Germany's borders with France, especially Alsace-Lorraine, are an ongoing grudge, and will remain so. Its borders with Czechoslovakia will heat up again, as well as the question of unification with Austria.

Other examples: Belgium has problems of religion and language dividing it. Ireland has an ongoing civil war about religion that has been ulcerating for four hundred years. Britain and France fear that a reunited Germany will again become too powerful and will out-compete them in international trade. The laundry list goes on and on.

I repeat, is there no solution to the endless problems of the White Race, even amongst themselves? And again, I come to the same conclusion: not under the present system of values.

Without confronting the enormous problems of an exploding mud population that threatens to overwhelm the White Race, before the White peoples of the world can get their act together, there have to be some major fundamental changes in their thinking and in their attitude about themselves. There are thousands of minor divisive issues that have plagued the White Race over the centuries, but the major dividers have been these: nationality, religion and language. The Jews, who have developed the art of divide and conquer to a fine technique, have skillfully utilized and exacerbated these fundamental divisive factors and managed to keep the White nations of Europe (and the world!) in turmoil, at war, and in ever-increasing debt.

Creativity is the answer

Hasn't anyone in the highly intelligent White world ever come to a solution to the problems of divided nationality, religion and language? Yes, Creativity has come to a sensible, non-violent and logical solution based on the revolutionary idea of White Racial Loyalty and Solidarity.

We want to educate White people of all nationalities, religions and languages that their first and basic loyalty belongs not to any particular nationality, religion or language, but to the White Race. Based upon the idea of White Racial Loyalty, we want to promote global White Racial Solidarity and Unity as the only way for the White Race to survive in the world which is becoming increasing flooded with the mud races.

One global White racial language

Creativity has the answer to the divisive problem of the different languages. We Creators advocate one common language for all the White people of the world, and we suggest Latin as "lingua franca" of the White Race. Latin — the classical language of the glorious White Roman Empire — is the most beautiful, melodic and logical of all Aryan languages, and in addition it is non-partisan. It has a great historical significance and tradition for the White Race: Latin was the official common language of all educated Europeans until the 16th century, when the Jew-instigated "Reformation" crushed Renaissance (the great European cultural and academic revival) and plunged Europe into fratricidal, religious and ethnic wars. Furthermore, classical Latin — even 2000 years after the Jew-instigated destruction of the White Roman Civilization — is still the best structured, organized and phonetic language in the history of our race. So let us polarize around our one and only great classical, traditional and historic language — Latin, the language of noble and magnificent White Romans.

Let us White people of the world unite in the spirit of White Racial Loyalty and Solidarity and finally understand each other by speaking the same language!

One global White racial religion

We next examine that explosive issue of the different religions in which the White peoples of Europe and the world are enmeshed. Without a doubt, Jewish Christianity is the overwhelming prevalent religion with which the White Race has been plagued for nearly two thousand years. But besides it being a deceitful Jewish invention which brought down the once great White Roman Empire, it now has the added disintegrating factor that it is fractured into thousands of major and minor factions all of which are jealous of each other, and overtly and covertly at war with each other.

There are the Catholics and the Protestants, there are the Eastern Orthodox, there are the Mormons, and the Baptists, the Presbyterians, the Unitarians, the Calvinists, the Anglicans, the Mennonites, ad infinitum. Even the Korean-originated Moonies claim they are Christian. The list goes on and on, and even among the main groups there are endless divisions (for instance, even the small sect of Mennonites has 32 different divisions or denominations).

More blood has been spilled over this Judeo-Christian idiotic spooks-in-the-sky swindle which the Jews have foisted on the White Race, than probably any other issues, of which the devastating Protestant vs. Catholic Thirty Years War (1618-1848) is only one example.

We Creators reject all existing religions which are based on myths and detrimental to the best interests of the White Race. We Creators are determined to convert all White people of the world to the one and only true White Racial Religion — Creativity, which is based on the Eternal Laws of Nature, History, Logic, Common Sense, and is dedicated to the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race.

One global White racial nation

Ethnic/regional/state nationalism is another strong divisive tool in the Jewish arsenal of weapons for manipulating and destroying the White Race. Who is it but a National government that has the power to declare war, to mobilize armies and to order attacks on another group of White people under the dominion of another national government. Nations go to war and, more often than not, White nations kill the people of other White nations. And in this category no other nations are as devastatingly efficient in raining death and destruction on their fellow kinsmen as the White nations themselves.

We Creators want to unite all White nations of the world into one global White racial nation, and we will move heaven and earth to see to it that never again will White men go to war to kill other White men, women and children. If we are going to go to war and kill, let's make damn sure we kill our racial enemies, who are our real enemies, — Jews, niggers and the mud races.

Creativity — the New Renaissance of the White Race

We have addressed the main categories (language, religion, nationality) of divisiveness that over the centuries have prevented the White peoples of the world from ever getting their act together for their own best interests, for their own survival, expansion and advancement.

The main problem has been that, foolishly, they have never really thought of themselves as members of the White Race per se. They have considered themselves in terms of cultural, or religious, or regional bonds, such as French, or British, or German, or American, or Catholic, or Protestant, or Anglo-Saxon, but never considered that most significant of all the bonds we share — the biological bond which by its very crucial nature overrides any and all other bonds. Nor have they realized the overwhelming importance and privilege of being a member of Nature's Finest — the White Race.

With the White Racial Religion — Creativity, all that changes. We Creators consider our biological racial heritage and our White gene pool as the most significant and precious value on the face of the earth. It is this vital biological bond on which we focus our dedication, loyalty and inspiration. It is our centerpiece around which our religion is structured and polarized. We Creators consistently affirm on a daily basis: Our Race Is Our Religion!

By converting the White peoples of the world to the one and only White Racial Religion — Creativity, we have the total solution for overcoming, peacefully dissolving and eliminating the most vexing and pernicious problems — namely, differences in language, religion and nationality, — problems which have divided and plagued the White Race since time immemorial.

If we all joined in one global White racial religion and embraced one global White racial loyalty, polarized around our biological bond and stressed our White racial heritage, then all national boundaries would become meaningless, and we could better use our talents and energies providing for a richer, healthier and fuller life — better housing, culture, happy families, healthy children, clean environment, etc., rather than continuing to devastate each other in endless wars of self-destruction.

Also, we would benefit in a multitude of other ways as well. We could easily communicate in any other country of the White world through our universal Latin language. We would reap the benefits of a longer, healthier and happier life through Salubrious Living. Since the White Race by then would have come to its senses and have purged the Jewish-Christian brain-scrambler from out of its system, religious prejudices and hang-ups would no longer exist.

And above all we would get the goddamn Jew off our back, once and for all, never to reappear again. Never again would this parasite invade, infest and destroy our pristine society. In other words, by implementing the Creed and Program of the White Racial Religion — Creativity, the White Race would achieve a New Renaissance of unparalleled prosperity and magnificence.

No alternatives to Creativity

Now whereas we are the only comprehensive, fully structured White Racial Religion in 6000 years of civilized history, we have no rivals, no worthwhile competition in that arena. However, there are a number of other White racist organizations of different stripes and moulds in America and to a lesser extent in other countries who claim to have plans to save the White Race. Let us view and review what the landscape looks like in America.

One of the older ones is the still existing Klan. It had an opportunity to build meaningful political clout and free this country of Jews within the 1920's and early 1930's. At that time it had as many as four million members that included Supreme Court Justices, many governors, mayors, congressmen and other figures of prominence. What happened to it since then? Well, obviously it botched its job, and is now a small, fractured and fragmented group of confused yokels who don't know where they are going, nor how to get there. They are now one of the most maligned and ridiculed group of people in the United States, even by the majority of the White people themselves.

Why have they failed? I can think of several basic reasons. In the first place, the "new" Klan was organized by a group of Masons in about 1915. Since the Masons themselves are a Jew-spawned organization, designed to do the bidding of the international Kehilla, it makes sense that they were organized in order to attract those Whites with racial instincts, then lead them down a blind alley into oblivion. Secondly, they embrace Jewish Christianity, a creed designed for slaves, and again spawned by the Jews. Thirdly, they have a build-in contradiction that splits the White Race down the middle: whereas they are for Christianity, they are as hostile to Catholics as they are to Jews. Fourthly, parading in their pointed hoods and white robes, burning crosses at their ceremonies, makes them look pretty ridiculous to friend and foe alike.

So what else is there on the landscape? Well, there is the Aryan Nations out of Idaho, led by septuagenarian Richard Butler, who has had triple by-pass heart surgery. It is obvious he won't last too much longer, and with his insane "true Israel" Identity creed, which says that we, the White Race, are the real Israelites, he will leave absolutely nothing of value behind. He has come up with no basic new ideas, written no meaningful books. His only "accomplishment" is that he has confused a number of already too-confused Christians in wanting to be "real" Jews.

Then there is Tom Metzger's W.A.R. group. Tom himself has generated a considerable amount of publicity to his credit. He and his son John have appeared on a number of major Jewish talk shows. However, the message that he espouses vacillates from one contradiction to another, and his main theme seems to be to gather as many divergent and fragmented ideas as possible, throw them all into a melting pot and hope to come up with some kind of palatable chop-suey that will sell. He has been a Klansman, a Christian, and anti-Christian, has supported the "true Israel" Identity lunatics, then repudiated them. He was for the White Race retreating to a small segment of the United States and leaving the rest of the country to the niggers. But then recently has repudiated that position and agreed with the C.O.T.C. that "we want it all." Well, RAHOWA! He has even supported Creativity, but then also attacked it when his ego and hubris got the best of him. He has also tried to get together with that voluble nigger, Louis Farrakhan, and even Muamar Khaddafi. What Tom really thinks and believes remains shrouded in mystery, and he, too, has written no books or even spelled out his creed or program, content instead to ride on the coattails of a multitude of diverse and contradictory assertions spelled out by others.

There are also the Nazis, but they are history. Hitler was a great man, the greatest of all them, but after he lost the war against the Jews, his exclusively pro-German, nationalistic "Deutschland uber Alles!" approach is no longer applicable in a changed world where Whites can no longer afford fratricidal nationalistic rivalries. What the White Race in America and the world needs now is not divisive pro-German Nazi imitators, but inclusive pro-White racial loyalists.

Of course, there are hundreds of other minor groups whose only merchandise is to deplore and lament, bitch and gripe, but they haven't the slightest idea of what to do about the sorry mess, nor how to come up with a solution.

If not Creativity, what else is there?

So, outside of Creativity, what else is there? The answer is — nothing! If we fail to coalesce, polarize and unite around Creativity, there isn't a ghost of a chance for the White Race to survive more than another generation. Creativity has all the answers in solving the multitude of idiotic and pervasive problems of nationalism, religion and language, as well as a host of others, including our polluted environment and the polluted mud scourge that now infests Planet Earth. A polyglot, confused and contradictory program of half-truths and mixed goals will no longer suffice. Creativity has the whole ball of wax. It has the Total Program, the Final Solution, the Ultimate Creed for the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race.

If not now, when?

We now come to the question of how much time do we have left to save the White Race? The answer is damn little. If we don't get busy now and make hay while the sun shines, it will soon be too late. I would say we have to make or break it before the end of this century, or it will be the end of Nature's Finest. So, White Racial Comrade, get with it today! Remember we are at war, and in this life and death struggle time is of the essence! If not now, when? White Man, make up your mind and join the White Racial Religion — Creativity now! RAHOWA!

We are not "White Supremacists," we are White Racial Loyalists—Creators

(This letter has been published in the Franklin Press)

In the Wednesday, Feb. 1, 1990, edition of The Franklin Press, there appeared the headline "White Supremacist Continues Tax Fight." Granting that the reporter, Elizabeth Gill could not possibly cover all the issues involved in this controversy in one article, on the whole, I would say that she did a commendable job in trying to be impartial on two subjects that are highly controversial, namely race and religion. However, there were a few major errors and omissions that need to be addressed.

In the first place, calling the Church of the Creator a White Supremacist organization is erroneous and misleading. The phrase "White Supremacist" has been used loosely and indiscriminately by the liberal and Jewish press as a buzz word to put down any and every White person who exhibits any pride or loyalty to his own race. Without ever defining the phrase, it immediately implies a bad image. It is a "slur" word, similar to the word "nigger" when applied to blacks.

What is a White Supremacist? We of the C.O.T.C. define it as a term used to describe White people who seek to rule over the non-white people, to dominate them, to exploit them and to abuse them. To their discredit, this the White Race has done in many phases of its checkered history. There are any number of cases we can cite, such as the British ruling and exploiting India over a period of two hundred years; the White plantation owners of the South exploiting black African slaves; the French plantation owners of San Domingo (present-day Haiti and the Dominican Republic) two hundred years ago exploiting imported black Africans in huge numbers and utilizing them as slaves; the Spaniards exploiting the Indians in Mexico and South America; the list is endless. In each case the exploiters thought they were getting a real bargain in cheap labor, but eventually the slaves outbred and interbred with their White masters, and in the end the slaves mongrelized and destroyed the future progeny of their exploiters who had dragged them into their midst in the first place.

We of the Church of the Creator want none of this. We don't want to rule over anyone, we don't want to enslave or exploit anyone — black, yellow or purple. Nor do we want to intermarry with them, or intermix with them, or socialize with them. Nor do we want any part of the insane course our government has been pursuing for the past 45 years of subsidizing all the "mud races" of the "Third World," or the "emerging countries," or subsidizing the parasitic little state of Israel to the tune of three billion (or more) dollars a year, or subsidizing any other foreign country. Where in our Constitution does it say that we, the productive White people of America, owe all parasites of the world a living? We Creators say: let us stop this insanity that is causing a disastrous population explosion the likes of which the world has never seen, and is crowding the White Race from the face of Planet Earth. How stupid can we get — feeding and subsidizing all the scum of the world — who return our largesse with hatred and hostility.

It is not the goal of the Church of the Creator to "eliminate the mud races, including Jews, Indians and blacks," as the article in the "Press" contends. Our position is that like every other creature in Nature, let us take care of our own and let those that are alien to us fend for themselves. It is not our obligation, nor is it in our interest to feed a billion Hindus in India, or the millions of inhabitants of Sudan, or the Arab-killing Zionists of Israel, or billions of other mud races, most of which hate us White people with a passion in return for generosity. We say — they are NOT our kind, they are NOT our brothers, and they are NOT our concern. Let them fend for themselves or wither on the vine. I repeat, they are not our obligation, nor are they our concern. In any case, the more we feed them, the more they breed until the world is becoming (has become!) an over-polluted cesspool of clawing, hostile and starving people, and we have created it by our idiotic program of subsidizing 126 countries that are alien to us.

We Creators want none of this. We want only to take care of our own and strive for the survival of our own precious race — the White Race, which we regard with pride as Nature's Finest.

This is the basis of our religion. If you are interested in learning more about Creativity, read our three basic books: Nature's Eternal Religion, The White Man's Bible, and Salubrious Living.

Unification of the White Race

In the last month's analysis of the present world scene we came to the inescapable conclusion that the break-up of worldwide communism and the huckstering of "democracy" would not solve any of the ills that now beset our sorry planet. The Jews will still control the world — its finances, its propaganda, its multitude of bickering governments and nations, in fact the whole ball of wax, the same as they have been doing in the past, only more so. The Jewish mania to destroy the White Race will proceed unabated and with increased fury. The various divisive problems that have plagued the White Race for centuries will not only remain, but will in fact be exacerbated and fanned into new virulence.

Unless the White Race can unite on a common ground, unless it can be aroused, organized and mobilized into one powerful battering ram, as the Jews have done for themselves, the White Race is doomed. As I have pointed out, the Jews have been great masters at the "Divide and Conquer" technique in manipulating the multiple factions of the White Race, in fanning their multitude of differences, in waging war against each other and thereby destroying themselves. The Jews have euchred the White nations into killing each other by the millions, and no other force on earth can kill White people more efficiently than the White people themselves.

The three most pernicious and persistent divisive forces amongst the White people of the world, as we pointed out in the previous article, were nationalism, religion and language. In this article we want to explore these three destructive and divisive factors in greater detail and show that whereas in the past each faction of the White Race has zealously and jealously guarded and nurtured each of these elements with pride and bigotry, nevertheless they are the key elements in our coming destruction. They must be dissolved into oblivion and only a total unification of the White Race, polarized around the bond of our common biological base, can now save us from the onslaught of the Jewish juggernaut. Only by total unification and total mobilization of its resources can the White Race save itself from drowning in an overwhelming sea of mud races that is now flooding the world. No longer can we indulge in the continuous bickering between ourselves over our multitude of self-imposed differences. Either we unite, or we are finished.

Let us examine in greater depth each of these major dividers that have plagued the White peoples of the world from time immemorial, especially in the continent of Europe, the seed bed of the modern White Race.

Language and Nationalism

The longest (relative) period of peace and prosperity that the civilized world has known in its turbulent history was the two hundred year era known as PAX ROMANA (ROMAN PEACE). It was a period during which the genius of Roman civilization, organization and government held sway over most of the White people of Europe. The great Roman language, Latin, was the universal language that bound the Empire together and was avidly being learned by the conquered peoples of the great Roman civilization. Latin remained the universal and dominant language of Europe for more than fifteen hundred years and during the Renaissance it was the basic language of all scholars and intellectuals. Practically all major books, theses and scientific works were written in Latin. It was the finest and best organized language ever invented by the genius of the White Race and it remains so to this day.

The one thing the Romans did not have to hold their great Empire together for all time was a racial religion. They did not realize that their inherent greatness lay in their genes, in their gene pool, and since they were unaware of this vital factor, they foolishly left it unguarded and untended. Their basic loyalty was to the Roman Empire, when it should have been to their racial heritage and their unique and superior gene pool. Because they failed to realize this one vital factor, their "Empire" was soon inundated by hordes of polyglot peoples from Africa, Asia and Europe, diluting the White Roman racial stock and making the Roman Empire an easy prey for Jewish Christianity. As the tentacles of this new cancer spread across Europe, the empire fell apart into many feuding "nations," and the Dark Ages enveloped all of Europe for over a thousand years. Learning and civilization not only stopped, they retrogressed into a dismal quagmire. Europe disintegrated into a Babylon of multiple languages and a polyglot of political confusion. It remains as such today.

People identify themselves as "nations" mostly by the language they speak, and the language they speak is basically that which they were taught by their parents. If they speak German, they think of themselves as Germans. If they speak French, they think of themselves as Frenchmen. If they speak Hungarian, they consider themselves Hungarians, and so on ad infinitum. Around their language such people also build an "ethnic culture," of which language is the base. This ethnic culture is then guarded with a great deal of fanaticism and zeal and becomes a divisive rallying point of "us against them," in short a highly divisive factor among the White peoples of the world. It has especially been the bane of the White peoples of Europe. Countless strife, wars and dissention have been caused by these "ethnic" differences, of which language has been the base. Little do these people realize that language is not an inherent ingredient of their genes, but merely an artificial attribute that has been acquired. A German could just as easily have learned Romanian or Italian or Russian as he could learn German, had he been taught such as an infant. And, I might add, any and all of these people could just as easily have learned the great Latin language, had it been properly promoted, and thereby saved themselves a great deal of hassle, confusion and controversy.

But, no. Strangely and stupidly they take tremendous pride and tenaciously cling to their "mother tongue". I pick up the morning paper and read a headline spread across the top of a page. It is entitled "Fighting words resurface as old English-French feud splits Canadians." Most of Canada speaks English, and it is the official language of nine of its ten provinces. But Quebec was settled by the French, starting back in the early 1600's, or even earlier. In 1763, the Seven Year War between the French and the English was concluded with the Treaty of Paris. England won Canada by sheer conquest of arms. Ever since, although their huge neighbor to the south spoke English, and the settlers in the rest of Canada also spoke or assimilated English, the French of Quebec, however, have never forgotten that in 1759 British General James Wolfe defeated the French under general Marquis de Montcalm, and they have clung fanatically to their French language. (As a side note to history, both generals died a hero's death in that battle, Wolfe dying just at the moment of victory.) So the animosity has festered on and on for more than 230 years. Not only has the language difference never abated in all those years but in recent years it has resurfaced with a new virulence.

I lived in Montreal for more than two years during WW II working as an engineer for Northern Electric. At that time English was universally spoken in most stores, businesses, and used in official government circles. However, in the countryside, Quebec City and other smaller cities, French prevailed, and even in the more sophisticated and "international" city of Montreal (Canada's largest) there was an ongoing animosity between the French and the dominant English.

Since then, especially in recent decades, the French in Quebec have gone all out to become "nationalistic." The Quebec government has not only gone stridently French province wide, but now tyrannically persecutes any use of the English language in any shape, way or form. Quebec's Bill 178 mandates French as not only being the official governmental language for everyone in Quebec, but all store signs must exclusively be in French, as well as all other signs, proclamations, or whatever. In the article I referred to earlier, the president of Ralph's, a shopping mall clothing store, put a sign in his store “Sale: Ties" in English. He was notified by the French language police to cease and desist using English in said sign. He then advertised raincoats, also in English. He received a registered letter that he was violating Quebec's Bill 178, and that he was subject to severe fines if he did not change his sign into French. And so the language war goes on, as it has for more than 230 years. Quebec is ready to secede from Canada and cut it alone, and is feverishly working towards that end. All this, despite the fact that the French and the English are both White and have a common genetic and biological bond, their major difference being the artificial barrier of language.

Quebec is only one instance in a microcosm of a conflict that is raging all over Europe and other parts of the world. For example, the Dutch Boers and the English have been at it in South Africa for more than a hundred years. Their language-based enmity has kept the White Race in South Africa divided when they should have united against the Jews and the niggers. As a result, they are most likely to soon lose all to the Jews and the niggers, and their laboriously built civilization is going to crumble back into the hands of the black cannibals. But it is Europe that has been most fractured, splintered and divided, and the Jews have had a real ball playing their game of "Divide and Conquer." Europe is plagued with an endless hassle of old wars, boundary disputes, ethnic islands within larger ethnic groups, ethnic groups speaking different languages in the same country, and nationalistic groups speaking different languages in different countries. So we have endless animosities and conflicts ensuing from this mess of a Babylon of polyglot languages. Every "nationality" is "against" and wants to break away from their neighboring White nationality. For example, the Ukrainians against the Russians. (In fact, Russia alone has a passel of 230 different ethnic groups with even more languages and dialects, although not all of those groups could be comfortably embraced by the White Race.) The Hungarians against the Romanians. The Serbs against the Albanians. The Germans, the most progressive people in the heart of Europe, are beset by endless border conflicts with the French on one side, the Poles on another side, not to mention the Czechs, the Slovaks, the Italians, and a number of other ethnic groups which contain "islands" of German-speaking ethnic groups.

So we see that whereas language differences constitute the basis of a nationality, the latter in turn forms the basis of a politically independent country. Were there not a language difference, there would be much less likelihood of this divisive hubris of nationalities and ethnic groups, a term that has been expressed as the "Balkanization" of Europe. What is inherent in the term is a splintering of biologically similar White people into a plethora of hostile ethnic groups, of which the Balkans are the most hostile of all and most typical of the fractured and divided mess in Europe.

A typical example is Czechoslovakia, which during the last winter has ousted the Communist party that has dominated and tyrannized the country for the last 45 years. Having done so, the parliament has argued for the last several months as to what name they should now adopt for their "liberated" country, which consists mostly of Czechs and Slovaks. The parliament agreed that they should drop the word "Socialist" from their nomenclature. But should they now call it Czechoslovakia or should they hyphenate it as Czecho-Slovakia? The Slovaks argued fiercely that the hyphenated form would emphasize to the world that the Slovaks, who make up a third of the country's population, were not the same as the Czechs, and they were determined not to lose their identity. The issue was not resolved to the satisfaction of the Slovaks, and chances are, this and other disputes will never be resolved as long as they speak two different languages in that country.

Another example of the regrettable European fragmentation is demonstrated by the three Baltic republics of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia. Although the peoples of these three countries are biologically very similar, yet they have three distinct languages, three distinct political entities and governments, and they are determined to keep it that way. Their "ethnic" hubris would have it no other way. Yet all three countries put together constitute a land area slightly smaller than the state of Missouri, and a population less than the state of Michigan. Does this make sense? Not really, unless you prefer to aid and abet the Jews' game of divide and conquer. It is obvious to any thinking person that small and divided no country will be able to cut it alone and shuck off the tyrannical stranglehold the Jews have on every country of the world.

The moral is: united we can prevail, divided we will be (already have been!) enslaved. Only Creativity has the total answer: one universal language, namely Latin, for all the White people of the world, one racial religion for one people.

Religion

We go back to the title of this article: If not Creativity, what else is there? Let us now examine in more detail what the present White Man's religion, Christianity, and all its thousands of splintered factions have done to the White peoples of the world, and compare it to what the religion of Creativity, when universally adopted and replacing Christianity, can do for us.

Christianity proclaims that it, too, is interested in solving the racial problem, and that such a problem exists. Just how does it intend to solve this problem? To get some answers I look at the religious page of the Atlanta Constitution. There in big black headlines is an article entitled INTERRACIAL MARRIAGES URGED and a subtitle beneath proclaims "Key to peace, says church leader." The article refers to Rev. James A. Boughman, president of the Unification Church of America. He is on a tour lecturing to students at Clark Atlanta University, Georgia State University, the University of Georgia, Kennesaw College and Emory University. He is telling these young people that interracial and international marriages are the way to world peace. A former Roman Catholic, he himself was married to a Korean woman in a mass marriage of 2074 couples a few years ago. The mass marriage ceremony was officiated by the head of the pro-mud church, Rev. Sun Myung Moon, and the couples were paired at random, although making sure that most of them were racially mixed, mostly Whites with Asiatics or some other mud. The Unification Church plans another such mass marriage event, even larger, in 1991, to take place in Korea. Peace! Peace! they scream, all the while mongrelizing and destroying the White Race with a vengeance.

Now, the "Moonies" are not yet considered as quite being in the religious mainstream of America, However, they are getting there, and they are Christian. But let us see what the "mainstream" is doing. On the same page as the Moonie article and adjoining it, is another big black headline proclaiming METHODIST CHURCHES TO GET PASTORS OF DIFFERENT RACE. In the article it explains how the United Methodist Churches of South Carolina are planning to place ministers of a different race in their churches as an ongoing goal, in other words, put White ministers in black congregations and nigger ministers at the head of White congregations. How do you like that for a potpourri of interracial chop suey? The South Carolina United Methodist Annual Conference has about 250,000 members, of which 50,000 are black.

Are the Moonies and the Methodists exceptions in the Christian drive for race-mixing? By no means. They are right in the "mainstream" of Christianity, not only in America, but now all over the world. Practically every Christian denomination and every cult is now screaming for race mixing from the pulpit and through the T.V. boob tube. Not only are the Christian churches pushing race mixing with a vengeance, but at the same time they are telling you to love your Jew neighbor, that the Jews are God's chosen and to send more money to Israel. The Mormons are doing it, the Catholics are pushing it, the Presbyterians, the Baptists and every other big or little tin-horn Christian group is pushing race mixing and love thy Jew. At the top of the heap, the National Council of Churches and the World Council of Churches is leading the way for the rest of the Jew-dominated churches to follow — race-mixing with a vengeance. The average church member doesn't like it, but from the top the Christian hierarchy is promoting the hell out of these two ideas (race mix and love thy Jew), and the average brainwashed churchgoer is following them like a puppet manipulated on strings — which he is. Meanwhile, the Jews in the background are pulling the strings.

What kind of a world will a mongrelized planet be like? Well, there is no need to speculate. We have large enclaves of mongrelized mud areas in most parts of the world now. Take a good look at Haiti for example. Peace? I have another recent (March 24, 1990) article in my files that says "ANOTHER NIGHT OF TERROR IN HAITI LEAVES 17 DEAD." Peace through mongrelization? Read again C.C. No. 30 in the White Man's Bible entitled "The Grisly Lesson of San Domingo — a Forerunner for White America." Also read the article on Burma in Racial Loyalty No. 41 and the article on Burundi in Racial Loyalty No. 43. If you want more examples, look at what is happening in Ethiopia, in Sudan, in Pakistan, in India, and in fact, in every nigger or mud country in the world. Everyone of them has the stench of death, famine, disease, filth and crime. But we need not go abroad. We have any number of nigger and/or mud enclaves right here in the United States. Nigger inundated Washington, D.C. and Atlanta are vying for the title of crime capital of the U.S.A. But close on their heels are Detroit, Los Angeles and all other major cities now infested and overrun with black savages.

The Christian churches' cry "Christ is the answer!" is no answer at all. It is, in fact, the original problem that is destroying the White Race. There is only one way we can now save the White Race, and that is for all the White nations and peoples of the world to unite under the banner of Creativity: one religion, one language, one people! Total White racial unification is the answer. If we don't do that and do it soon, we will be hopelessly swamped in a sea of mud races which are now expanding like a horde of rats, thirsting for a White bloodbath.

* * * * *

The main battleground for winning the war against the Jews and the mud races of the world will have to be fought right here in America. In fact, the war is on, and getting hotter every day. Only the White people are asleep at the switch and won't face it. If we don't get our act together here, all is lost. Just as a multi-racial, polyglot nation is impossible to govern, so too is a polyglot mess of "racialist" parties, groups, movements, a useless and ineffective mob against a highly organized enemy. The Jews are united, they are organized to the hilt, and they have a definite detailed war plan for the destruction of the White Race. It is all embodied in the Judaic religion, and has remained resolute and steadfast for thousands of years. What does the White Race have in comparison? Well, it has Christianity, but as we have already observed, it is no answer at all, it is, in fact, a deadly tool designed by the Jews for our destruction. Only a powerful racial religion can now persuade our people to unite around the White racial banner. If a bad religion such as Jewish Christianity can mislead the White Race into the suicidal nonsense it now pursues, surely a good religion can also lead them to common sense, racial unity and racial survival. The only organized, comprehensive, fully structured counterpart the White Race has to Judaism is Creativity. What we must do is to unify under its banner. We must, or the White Race will die.

Just as Germany during the '20's had a polyglot mess of 2000 "nationalistic" parties, they were completely impotent until those members of the polyglots joined and united under the Nazi party. It was then that the Germans finally had the power and the clout to take their government away from the Jews and into their own hands. Unification was the answer! So, too, must we now unify all the White peoples of the world under the one and only Racial Religion the White Race has ever had. The time is past when we can indulge in the luxury of playing the polyglot game. To just bitch and gripe, deplore and lament will no longer do. We must have our own creed and program, our own battle plan, and Creativity has it all. We must unite under Creativity, and we will do it because we must. Other than Creativity, there is nothing else on the horizon. The future of "humanity" rides with the rise or fall of the White Race, and the survival of the White Race now rides with Creativity.

White Man, what is your answer to the vital questions:

If not Creativity,
what else is there?

If not now, when?

We Don't Need Any Mugwumps in Our Camp

White Man, make up your mind!

The mugwump is a dirty bird which sits on the fence with its mug on one side and its wump on the other. It can never make up its mind which side of the fence it is on. In fact, it can never make up its mind, period. It prefers to straddle the fence forever and a day.

There are a lot of good people in the racial movement who act as pusillanimous as does the mugwump. They are the kind that can't quite make up their mind what racial organization they should join and support, and as a compromise they contribute a drib here and a drab there. I know of some people who proudly point to the fact that they "belong" to a dozen different "racialist" organizations.

We Creators abhor such a polyglot, blunderbuss, scattered and fragmented approach in trying to build a powerful force with which to smash a unified, fanatic, well entrenched Jewish conspiracy. No mugwump or collection of mugwumps has ever achieved anything, no matter how numerous they might be. Only a unified, well organized and highly dedicated army of militants can effectively counter and destroy the powerful and sinister Jewish Tyranny that now holds the world in its thrall. Although there are other lesser examples, we point with pride to the formation of Hitler's Nazi party during the 1920's and 1930's.

After World War I, approximately 2000 Nationalist parties sprang up in war-devastated Germany during the next decade. As a conglomerate they were totally ineffective in ousting the decadent, Jew-controlled postwar government and in stemming the Jewish-Communist tide. It was not until the members of these bickering and polyglot organizations dropped their petty parties and joined with Adolf Hitler that the German people finally had the clout to take over their government and take back their own country.

We believe that the same principle applies to the dilemma in America today, if we are ever to wipe Judaism off the face of the earth. What is different today is that it must now become a global battle in which the total White Race, informed, aroused and organized, takes on the perfidious foe and exterminates it once and for all. In order to do so we must mobilize all our resources. We must utilize every weapon the White Race can possibly assemble — religious, economic, political, moral, educational and every other means available to us and then concentrate our fire. We are further convinced that only the C.O.T.C. with its comprehensive, all embracing creed of the global White Racial Religion — Creativity — is geared to do that awesome job. In the one and only, true and revolutionary White Racial Religion — Creativity, we have the total program, the final solution, the ultimate creed for the salvation and redemption of the White Race.

We urge every good White Man and Woman to stop being mugwumps, to make up their minds as to which organization they believe is best fitted to do the job that urgently needs to be done, and then concentrate on that one organization and give it your all. We don't want mugwumps. We want angry, militant tigers. RAHOWA!

Let Them Wither on the Vine

They are not our kind,
they are not our brothers, and they are not our concern!

It has been my experience when being interviewed by reporters, talk-show hosts and race mixing liberals in general, the prime question they will usually zero in on is this: — Since you want to get rid of the mud races, just what are you going to do with them? Do you want to kill them all?

This is a tricky question, and a loaded question. It implies that we Creators are haters, killers, and bent on genocide. It is important that this question need be answered directly and in the correct context of our creed. Our answer to the question is this:

— No, we don't want to kill anybody. Nowhere in our books or our literature do we say we plan on killing anybody. If you have taken the time to read our Bibles, you will find that instead of being prone to violence, as our enemies would like to portray us, our creed and program is fully committed to law and order, to the constitution and to obeying the law. We want to point out that nowhere in the U.S. Constitution does it say that we, the White working people of America, who pay most of the taxes, have any obligation to subsidize, feed and carry on our backs all the freeloaders, the shiftless parasites and the scum of the world, both at home and abroad. We demand that our government stop sending foreign aid to all and every of the some 126 countries of the world, most of whom are our enemies, are hostile to us, and hate us with a passion. None of them show any gratitude. We see no reason why we should, for instance, send some four billion dollars of aid a year to the parasitic state of Israel, who has done nothing for us, but has permanently poisoned the friendly relationship we once had with the Arab nations of the world. We see no reason why we should subsidize Egypt to the tune of several billions a year just so it will remain "friendly" towards Israel. (We deem this as sheer blackmail.) We see no reason why we should ship millions of tons of food each year to India, which does nothing but expand its wretched population and proliferate the unending misery that exists in that country, as it does in Pakistan, in Ethiopia, in Sudan, and dozens of other mud countries. We are not responsible for their problems, nor is there anything we can do about their inherently wretched social and genetic deficiencies. Nature has made them the way they are, and so be it.

As a result of our government's idiotic policies of robbing the White productive American taxpayer in order to subsidize and feed all the parasites and all the scum of the world, we are witnessing an explosion of the mud population, the likes of which the world has witnessed never before. This "our" Jew-controlled government has done deliberately in their sinister program in order to overwhelm, crush and exterminate the White Race, not only in America, but throughout the world. (Read again Proliferating the Misery in RL No. 22.)

> The program of the Church of the Creator is reasonable, nonviolent and legal. We demand that we, the White Race, worldwide stop subsidizing the mud races, wherever they are. Since they are incapable of competing with the White Race in culture, technology and productivity, and incapable of feeding themselves, we will just let Nature take care of them, as it has in the past for thousands of years. Their populations will then revert back to their natural levels before the United States adopted its insane policy of subsidizing all the scum of the world some forty years ago.

In short, our non-violent policy is to take care of our own, and let the mud peoples shift for themselves, both at home and abroad. Our deliberate and unflagging policy is to stop subsidizing the mud peoples of the world, and let them wither on the vine. We should never have disrupted Nature's plan in the first place. In the future, let Nature take care of the mud races on their own merits, and Nature will properly reduce their numbers to where they will never again pose a threat to the survival of Nature's Finest. (Read again our Booklet No. 103 "Operation Rip-off — the World's Ultimate Patsy — the White American Taxpayer is the prime target for all the scum, freeloaders, pirates and thieves of this hungry and overcrowded world.")

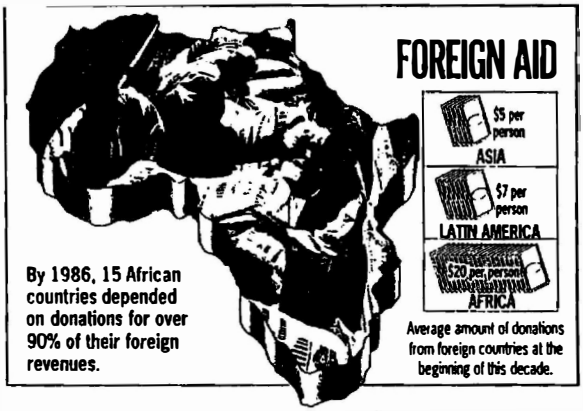
Nearly half of Africa's current population is under age 15, which means a population surge well into the 21st century.



By 1986, 15 African countries depended on donations for over 90% of their foreign revenues.

The War with Mexico is Unfinished

The heroic spirit of the early Texas Rangers must be revived to save the White Race

Exploding Birthrate

The birthrate of Mexicans today (and their Latino neighbors to the south) is the highest in the world, even exceeding that of the well-fed and subsidized niggers in the United States. They, the niggers and other mud races of the world, are a bigger threat to us than the hydrogen bomb. If we don't soon face the wild and unchecked invasion of mud races into the White Man's territory, we will soon be swamped into a cesspool of chaos.

Unchecked Invasion Becoming a Stampede

It is hard to tell at this point in history whether the niggers, or the Mexicans, or the Cubans, or the Haitians are the biggest threat to the White Race in America, but let's not waste time haggling about that question. The point is they all are, as are the tremendous influx of Chinese, Jamaicans, Vietnamese and millions of other mud races who are starving in their own countries and want to get on the backs of the White Man's generous subsidy. They bring with them nothing but bad news — disease, poverty and mongrelization.

800 Million Mexicans in 50 Years

Of them all the Mexican invasion is the most rapidly accelerating threat. This is partly due to our 2000 mile long common border. The population of Mexico is doubling every twenty years. In 50 years, the North American continent will be infested with 800 million Mexican-Hispanic mongrels. Fifty years is not a long time. Need we go further? For centuries Mexico hasn't been able to feed her people. As a result they swarm across the border into the United States by the millions each year to get on welfare, to feed and to breed. In the last decade or so they have made alarming inroads in the population of California, Arizona, New Mexico and other southwestern states. With the one-sided help of the Jewish anti-White Federal government, they have also gained tremendous political power. The Mexicans make no bones about their racial hatred and their social and political goals. On the schoolboards, on the municipal level, they openly brag that they will outbreed and drive the gringo out of these territories that once belonged to Mexico. At this point neither the White Man, nor the United States government is lifting a finger to stop this outrage. On the contrary — collaboration and betrayal are the order of the day.

Thinking Gone Berserk

Let us remember therefore that the Mexicans are succeeding only because the White Man is letting them, and the White Man is stupidly letting them because his racial creed is all fouled up by Jewish-Christian propaganda, coupled with Jewish betrayal. It is up to the Church of the Creator to correct this horrible tragedy and clear the White Man's brain.

At the heading of this article we called the Mexican War An Unfinished War. We couldn't be more serious. We have a war of major proportions on our hands, a war in which the present government (as usual) is betraying the White Race and is on the side of our enemies. Whether we know it or not, it is a war we are losing (at present) but can easily reverse if we get our bearings straight. So let us clear away the mental cobwebs that shackle our thinking and adopt an aggressive, meaningful program. We have no time to lose.

What We Must Do

1. The first thing we must do is seal our borders from any further invasion of the Mexican hordes. After all, they are violating our immigration laws and therefore are criminal invaders. Since they are swarming in by the millions, what is the difference if they are doing so as a military army or as civilian invaders? The results are the same — they are taking over our land and living space. Therefore, I propose we get tough and enforce the laws we now have. Set up machine guns and mow them down mercilessly as they try to invade us. This will definitely put a stop to this outrage.

2. Change the immigration laws so that the immigration quota from Mexico is an absolute zero.

3. The next step is to aggressively comb the Mexican population for illegal aliens in our midst. Their very presence, too, is an outrage against our sovereign territory and all we need to do is strictly enforce the law as it now stands. Every illegal Mexican then must be booted back into Mexico and told in no uncertain terms that if they ever again cross the border or are found on U.S. soil they will be shot on sight.

4. Once we have accomplished that much, the next step is to forcibly ship back to Mexico all Mexicans of that racial origin, whether they are citizens or not, whether they were born here or not. Severe? Remember what Mexicans under Santa Anna did to the Texans when they had the power.

Remember the Alamo!
Fight Mexican invasion!

5. The next step is to adopt the same program as our great President Polk and courageous forefathers did in 1836 and again in 1846-48, and that is push the White Man's boundaries farther southward.

We Now Have a Racial Policy

There will be one difference at this stage of history. Whereas the White Man's instincts in 1846 were basically sound, he did not have a clearly formulated racial creed or policy. Now we do. When we now expand our territory, we must do it in planned steps, and every step we take must be cleansed of the mud races and settled and assimilated by the White Race before the next step is taken. These steps we must take in rapid succession until we again reach and regain the Panama Canal that the Jews in collaboration with White traitors have gratuitously turned over to the enemy.

If some of these steps may seem harsh to some of our still befuddled White Racial Comrades, let us look at it this way:

1. We have no choice. In the relentless struggle for survival that Nature has imposed on all her creatures the conclusion is obvious: either the Mexicans will take over, (with our help) and eventually massacre a diminishing White population as did Santa Anna in Texas, or we push the Mexicans ever southward into oblivion.

2. This is not a new program, but a program initiated by our courageous forefathers who built America. It is in fact 350 years old and is the bedrock on which America was built. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators call it the "American Way." Do you want to argue against it and repudiate 350 years of American history?

3. Let us look at it from the moral point of view of the Christian Bible. This book tells us that God is perfect and we poor dumb sinners are supposed to try to become more Godlike. Alright, let's pursue that approach. What did God do when he didn't like the people he created? He killed them all, he drowned them like a bunch of miserable rats in the "Great Flood," except for Noah's family. Then we can cite dozens of passages of the Old Testament where the Jewish God goaded the Jews on to take over the lands of the Canaanites, Philistines, etc., and encouraged them to "kill everything that breathes." Then also we can cite today's "Chosen People" driving the Arabs out of Palestine to the cheers of the rest of the "civilized" world. Shall I go on? So if that's the Godlike approach, the moral and Christian way of dealing with a whole mass of people, why should we be condemned for taking a similar, but much milder approach to the mud races invading our territory and threatening our very survival?

4. Now let us look at it from the point of view of the Eternal Laws of Nature, the position that the Church of the Creator takes on all issues. The overriding Law of Nature is the survival of the species at all costs. Nature does not ask any questions as to what your methods are or what (temporary) moral code you espouse, or anything else. It plainly commands each creature to care for their own and harshly punishes those that are too lax, or too laggard, or too stupid, with the ultimate punishment — extinction. This is the bottom line as far as we are concerned. Our religious creed is founded on the Eternal Laws of Nature, and our basic goal is the resultant conclusion of such laws: the Survival, Expansion and Advancement of the White Race.

Since the Winning of the West was the finest and greatest achievement in the history of the White Race, we want to weave this theme into our religious program. To our White Racial Comrades (many of whom are still mistakenly stuck on glorifying stone-age mythical "Heroes of True Israel," or dark-age fratricidal "Viking Heroes," or many other inappropriate foreign imports) we want to remind and reemphasize the spirit of work, hardship, fighting and colonization of the 19th century that produced the greatness of America. We want to remind our people that conquest and colonization is the American Way, and to have some insipid bleeding hearts roadblock every action the White Race takes for its own survival will not only be condemned as being un-American, but will also be considered as treason against the White Race itself. We again want to remind any traitors of how General Scott handled the traitors at Churubusco.

The Western Heritage — Our Trademark

Therefore, instead of adopting say the Nazi style of military dress and format (which we also admire), we prefer the Western style of dress, in the manner of the cowboy, or the U.S. cavalry, or the Texas Rangers. We also will stress cowboy and country music, folk music, square dancing and other customs that reflect our early White American heritage. We will also encourage a revival of the architecture of the western frontier towns for our religious buildings. Why not? That is our real heritage and we want to emphasize that the foundations of the Church of the Creator are not only grounded in the history and heritage of the White Race itself but those foundations are also rooted in early America. They are not a foreign import (like the "Deutschland Uber Alles" Neo-Nazism), but thoroughly American in every way. Our proud slogan must be: The Winning of the West is the Blueprint for the Winning of the World.

Texas Rangers — True Heroes of the White Race

In the war against the Mexicans, there is one group of heroic men in the epic of the Southwest that deserves our particular mention. Because of their tenacity, their bravery and especially their dedication to the survival and expansion of the White Race, we White Racial Loyalists — Creators point with pride to that gallant cadre of White Men, the Texas Rangers. They were tough, relentless and untiring in waging war, pushing back and tracking down the Mexican and Indian marauders that tried to kill and drive out the early Texas settlers.

Tough Spearhead

Whereas we do not have the space here to give even the cursory history of this elite band of lawmen, I want to give them their just due in making it possible for the White Men and their families to first of all settle, and secondly, maintain their tenuous toehold on the precious soil they had won. When the Mexican War of 1846-48 finally came to put the mongrelized Mexicans in their place, it was the hard core of former Texas Rangers that were the shock troops. In practically every major battle and every heroic victory, all the way from Matamoros to the Halls of Montezuma, the relatively small forces of six companies of Texas Rangers made a huge difference.

Strictly No Nonsense

When the war was over, the frontiers of Texas still remained under savage assault from the recalcitrant Mexican mongrels and their ancestral kinsmen, the savage Indians. Singly and in collaboration with each other, both the Mexicans and the Plains Indians continued their murderous raids on the Texas settlers for decades after the Mexican War was over. Especially tenacious among the Indian tribes were the fierce Comanches and the Cherokees. It was the job of the Texas Rangers to drive these enemies of the White Race out of Texas and make sure they stayed out. With such unstinting dedication and relentless energy did the Rangers do their jobs that both the Mexicans and the Indians soon learned their lesson the hard way — to come up against the Texas Rangers was to pay in blood — to leave their dead carcasses on the plains of Texas.

Texas Devils

So formidable a reputation did the Rangers earn for themselves that when General Winfield Scott's troops entered Mexico City in triumph in 1847, it was the Texas Rangers that the Mexicans feared the most. Mexicans referred to the Texas Rangers as "Los Diables Tejanos" — the Texas Devils. It was a reputation that stayed with them long after the Mexican War and a name both Mexicans and the Indians learned to hate and to fear throughout the Winning of the West.

Federal Government Aggravated the Indian Problem

There is one other footnote in the history of Texas that is highly noteworthy to our struggle against the mud races. When Texas joined the union during the last days of 1845, the Federal government in Washington preempted the final solution to the Indian problem. Whereas the Texans and the Rangers had taken a hard stand of expulsion towards the Indian predators, the Federal government reversed this policy and set up Indian reservations on Texas soil, made a number of meaningless treaties with them, and actually protected, fed them, and in various ways subsidized these unwanted savages. Confusion and frustration ensued. The Indian problem was not solved, but on the contrary, aggravated, to the chagrin of the Texans.

Final Solution by Texans

The White people of Texas began to wonder just whose side the Federal government was on. For 14 years they tolerated this stupid nonsense. Finally in 1859 they took matters into their own hands — abolished every reservation, and drove the Indians out of their territory, a task ably performed by the Rangers. After that any Indian found in Texas was there at his own risk.

Credit and Discredit

It is to the eternal credit of the Rangers and the early Texas settlers that the Indian problem was liquidated once and for all, and no reservations or wet-nursing compounds for inferior redskins remained in Texas. Not to the credit of their offspring is the toleration and proliferation of the vast and growing Mexican element, which is now smothering the White Race in Texas and the Southwestern states, and, in fact, the Mexican disease is spreading to the rest of America.

Our Goals Those of Texas Rangers

In today's continuing War against the Mexicans it is our intention to revive the spirit and the goals of nineteenth century Texas Rangers. Their goal was — as is ours today — to drive every Mexican and every Indian from the territory of the White Man. What neither the Mexicans, nor the Indians could win in the 19th century by force of arms, our treacherous Jewish Occupational Government has aided them to achieve in the 20th century through sheer treachery: by means of immigration; by means of welfare; by means of subsidization; by allowing illegal Mexican aliens to invade our borders by the millions. We now have an intolerable situation where the mongrelized Mexican Indians are taking over not only the Southwestern states that the White Man won in the War of 1846-48, but are disseminating all over the United States into cities like Chicago and many others. By invasion and sheer breeding (the "Hispanic" muds are even more prolific than the niggers) they are crowding the White Man in his own territory, surreptitiously swindling the White Man out of coming to grips by means of any war of confrontation.

The War Continues

We White Racial Loyalists — Creators therefore want to urge and inspire every red blooded White Man to action — to take up again the war on the hostile mongrels where our heroic forefathers of the Mexican War left off. We again call the White Man to arms to revive the spirit of the Texas Rangers whose motto was 'THE ONLY GOOD INDIAN IS A DEAD INDIAN' and who vowed to drive the mongrelized Mexicans and Indians forever from the soil and territory of Texas. Like the Texans of the Alamo we White Racial Loyalists — Creators declare war on the mongrels. Like the Texas Rangers, our goals must be to cleanse our land of the savages and the mongrels. The early Texans realized that in their vast territory there was an irreconcilable conflict of three races — the Mexicans, the Indians and the White Race. They could never live together in peace and the White Man could only survive by either driving out or destroying the other two. As Texas President M. Bounaparte Lamar (1838-40) succinctly stated "The White man and the red man cannot live in harmony together. Nature forbids it." He realized that the United States policy of moderation and forbearance towards the Indians had been a total failure and the proper policy was one of total expulsion.

We White Racial Loyalists — Creators agree with the policy of total expulsion, not only towards Indians, but also towards their racial kinsmen the Mexicans, as all other mud races. It is not our policy to make the world safe for "democracy," a Jewish idea and swindle at best, but on the contrary to make the world safe for the White Race, not only in our time, but for our children and their future progeny, eternally and forever. RAHOWA.

(For more information about the Mexican War, read CC 32-33 in the White Man's Bible.)

Lessons of the Mexican War

1. The most obvious and important lesson we must learn is that America, as every other country, empire, or civilization, was built by conquest. It was by force of battle, by spilling blood, by conquering the enemy that the White Man forcibly took the land from the Indians, or the Mexicans, and even their independence from the British.

2. The Jewish writers, always working against the best interests of the White Race, have downgraded President James Polk (the greatest president of them all!) and the Mexican War (the best war of them all!) as an "insignificant" part of our history. Instead, the Jews keep rehashing the Civil War, the "nostalgia" of it all, the "colorful" generals, and so on, ad nauseum. The fact that the Mexican War, under the supreme leadership of President James Polk, was a most constructive and productive war, and the Civil War a terrible ghastly blunder, perpetrated by the Jews themselves, is never pointed out.

3. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators regard the wars against Indians and the Mexicans as of far greater significance than the war of the American Revolution against England. After all, Canada has prospered equally well, although it never formally broke away from England. Its smaller population is solely due to the fact that only its southern fringes lie in a hospitable climate.

4. If the Mexican War of pushing back the mud races and settling it with White people was so productive in the past and was the "American Way," why scrap a winning formula? Why not apply the same successful program to the rest of the land areas of the world, not just for the U.S., but for the White Race as a whole? We White Racial Loyalists — Creators propose that this is exactly what we not only can do, but must do, if we are to survive. We have the intelligence, we have the power, and Nature has given us the natural right to do so. In Its credo the one and only, true and revolutionary White Racial Religion — Creativity also furnishes us not only with the moral right to do so, but · also the moral obligation to do so.

5. For those insipid bleeding hearts (whose minds have been polluted and perverted by Jewish propaganda) we throw down this challenge: If you really believe that the White Man was wrong in conquering America, if you don't believe in the American way, why don't you set an example of demonstrating your convictions by deeds? Give your property back to a Mexican or an Indian, renounce your American citizenship and crawl into a hole and die. That's the bottom line of your idiotic conclusions, whether you know it or not.

6. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators take the contrary position. We take a position that both Nature and history have taught from time immemorial, and that is: Land and Race are Everything. Land is essential to the life and the preservation of our race. The survival, expansion and advancement of race is the most vital goal in our existence. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators believe not only in expanding American territory, as did our glorious ancestors of 1846-48, but of following the same great "American way" of expanding the living area of the White Race all over the world, until the White Race inhabits every hospitable square mile on the face of the earth.

7. The Mexican war also provides a lesson and a warning to all race traitors of today. Under orders of General Winfield Scott, 65 American deserters, who joined the enemy forces, were tried by court martial and sentenced to hang. Let that be a warning to all traitors. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators take an even tougher stand: as part of our religious creed we believe that racial loyalty is the greatest honor, and racial treason is the worst crime. We content that being a traitor to your race is even a more heinous crime than treason to country or army. We, too, shall have a day of reckoning with all those traitors who today believe they can betray the White Race with impunity. We, too, shall render good old-fashion frontier justice to race traitors. We shall never forgive or forget.

Save the White Race!

Racial Hygiene

vs.

Mongrelization and Degeneration

What do we mean by Eugenics? Basically it means racial health. All species of Nature practice it instinctively. All species, whether it is a herd of buffalo, or deer, or caribou, or a flock of ducks, do basically two things to keep the genetics of the herd or the flock healthy: (a) there is a continuous culling out of the misfits in order to improve the genetic quality of the herd or flock (survival of the fittest), and, (b) they do not interbreed with another similar species, no matter how closely related that species may be.

There are a number of outrages and humiliations that are worse than death, and there are a number of causes than an honorable person would consider dying for. In Nature's Eternal Religion I have titled the first part of the book "The Unavenged Outrage." In this dissertation we want to examine in more detail one of such outrages the Jew is perpetrating on Nature's Finest, an outrage that is so heinous that it supersedes all others, and one that can only be avenged and paid for in blood. It is an outrage that is being perpetrated before our eyes, every day of the year, and has been going on for centuries. What the Jew is doing to the White Race is surreptitiously poisoning our White gene pool, pulling the White Race down slowly but surely, until we will be a miserable and shameful mass of idiotic brown zombies, docile, stupid and ready to be the willing slaves of the treacherous Jew.

Does that sound fantastic? Look around you, my dear White racial kinsman. You need not be a genius nor be clairvoyant to see the White Race slowly but surely being drawn into the maelstrom of mongrelization. Every scene on the Jewish boob-tube clearly tells you so. Every ad in the Jewish newspapers, magazines and other media glorifies the stupid mongrelized mulatto as the role model for the coming "new age."

THE JEW'S WANT TO MONGRELIZE THE WHITE RACE.

"PSST... HAVE YOU EVER THOUGHT OF MARRYING A NICE BLACK WOMAN? LOOK AT ALL THE HALF-BREEDS YOU COULD PRODUCE!"

Every day of the week The Atlanta Constitution (at the church we call it The Atlanta Prostitution) features niggers, niggers, niggers, in large pictures on the front page and elsewhere. Even that "prestigious" weekly Time magazine, the No. 1 flagship of Jewish periodicals, openly flaunts the prediction that in the next century the White Race will be a small minority in America, and that the mud races will overwhelm and prevail. In the April 9, 1990 issue, they smirked with the suggestion that instead of the American flag being red, white and blue, their front cover portrayed in bold caricature a flag that consisted of brown, black and yellow stripes. In the article itself the Jews openly gloated that America was being mongrelized and that the process was unstoppable and irreversible.

We Creators say to you perfidious, slimy Jews — the hell it is! We Creators, in collaboration with all 500 million White Racial comrades, not only are determined to reverse this process in America, but on the entire face of this Planet Earth. We are determined to drive the Jews from power, to again wrest control of our own destiny into our own hands and to colonize all the habitable and congenial lands of this planet with our own kind. This we are determined to do, and this is a cause that is of such transcendental magnitude that it is well worth dying for indeed.

Let us now look at the picture from two sides, namely what the White Race could and should be doing to not only protect its precious gene pool, but also vastly improve it, as the COTC advocates in its Eugenics program. Then let us look at the other side and see how the Jew is doing just the opposite — forcefully pumping the black blood of Africa into the veins of White America.

Recently, one of our supporters from California, the Rev. John Brooks, sent me a book called Racial Hygiene — Medicine Under the Nazis. I found the book not only extremely interesting and inspirational, but also highly informative as to what we can and must do to first of all save, then upgrade our rapidly degenerating White gene pool. Its author, Robert N. Proctor, ostensibly takes the position that what the Nazis did was awful, of course, a position most writers today are forced to take if they want to get their books published. However, what he does say is highly informative and speaks for itself. We can learn much from what not only the Germans did in the research of genetics, but what the worldwide fraternity of scientists and doctors did long before Hitler's Nazi government began to put much of the known scientific knowledge and conclusions into practice.

In his first chapter, The Origins of Racial Hygiene, the author points out that the idea of racial differences has been around for some time, several hundred years, in fact. As early as 1727 the Earl of Boulainvilliers argued that the noblemen of France were descendants of an original and superior race of long-headed Franks in contrast to the lower estates of French society which were descended from the Celtic Gauls. However, it was not until the second half of the nineteenth century that the problem of race received the detailed attention of scientific scholars. In 1853-55 Arthur Comte de Gobineau published his pioneering Essay on the Inequality of Races. He claimed for the first time that race was the primary moving force of history. Equally important was his contention that his racist history was a science. It was the beginning of the entrance of science into the field of race and genetics.

Enter into this genetic and scientific mix the publication of Charles Darwin's Origin of the Species in 1859. Darwin's theories for the first time seriously challenged the Judeo-Christian concept of the unity of man, based on the single creation of Adam and Eve. Darwin's theory (known as evolution through natural selection and survival of the fittest) suggested that humans had evolved over hundreds of thousands, even millions of years, and that the races of men had diverged while adapting to the particularities of local conditions. Its impact on scientific scholarship was enormous.

* * * * *

Even before Gobineau and Darwin, the race issue was uppermost not in Europe but in America. This was probably due to the fact that in no other major advanced White country was there such a large element of black Africans to threaten the mongrelization and miscegenation of its dominant population. To those bleeding-heart liberals who would like to portray the Founding Fathers as one of theirs who proclaimed “all men are created equal," we must point out that the American Constitution recognized the legitimacy of slavery and extended the full "rights of man" only to propertied White males. Whereas enlightened European philosophers championed liberty, yet they made it contingent upon the practice of "reason," a faculty they did not concede was shared equally among humans. Englishman David Hume, for instance, compared the intelligence of a nigger with that of a parrot, and argued that a man of this race could never achieve the status equal to that of a European. Jean Jacques Rousseau of France claimed women were inferior to men in the sphere of reason, and therefore did not deserve the same rights as men. This position was evidently shared by the framers of the American Constitution, since it was not until 1920 that women were given the right to vote. In Britain this right was achieved in 1918 for women aged 30 or over and extended to the age of 21 in 1928.

German genetic scientists were somewhat behind those in America, England and France. The German eugenics, or racial hygiene, movement emerged late in the nineteenth century. The German social Darwinists feared the degeneration of their race was becoming a threat for two reasons: first, medical care of "the weak" had begun to destroy the natural struggle for existence; and secondly, the poor and the misfits of the world were beginning to multiply faster than the fit and the competent.

In 1895, Alfred Ploetz wrote a treatise that was to become the founding document of what was to become known as Racial Hygiene (Rassenhygiene). Ploetz warned against the various kinds of social "counter-selection" (such as internecine wars, revolutions, welfare for the sick and the inferior). These forces must be avoided. War and revolution must be avoided, and support for the poor should only be given to those past child-bearing age. The population should be protected from such agents as alcohol, venereal disease, or anything else that might damage the human germ plasm. But most of all, Ploetz warned against medical care for "the weak," for this allows those inferior individuals to survive and reproduce, who in the natural order would not. Traditional medical care, he argued, thus helps those certain individuals but endangers the race. (These theories are parallel to those we espouse in The White Man's Bible, namely that civilization as such, without a conscious racial creed, has the disastrous effect of downgrading the species.)

In 1904 Ploetz founded the Archiv fur Rassen und Gesellschaftsbiologie (Journal for Racial and Social Biology) to investigate "the principles of optimal conditions for the maintenance and development of the race." In 1905 Ploetz, together with psychiatrist Ernst Rudin, anthropologist Richard Thurnwald, and lawyer Anastasius Nordenholz, founded the Society for Racial Hygiene to further the cause of human racial improvement. Soon the society became international, and in 1910 Sweden's Sallskap for Rashygien became its first foreign affiliate.

Beginning only with a handful of members after World War I, the Society expanded rapidly, both in Germany and abroad. By 1930 it had 1,300 members in Germany alone, with sixteen local branches. Early in its formation, Ploetz stressed the superiority of the "Nordic stock" and, whereas he did not originally exclude the Jews from the goals of racial science, he did point out that Jews were radically different in thought and character from the Nordic stock and that in times of war it was the Nordics that are "more willing to fight for their ideas" and suffer the most in depletion of its best racial stock. The Jews, he noted, suffer least from war, since they enlist only half as often and of these are killed only half as often, consequently suffer only one-quarter as much as non-Jews.

Interest in racial hygiene increased immensely among scientists and the medical profession during the 1920's in Germany, and a number of outstanding names appear. Although we are not in a position in this limited treatise to cover the now rapidly expanding development, we should mention such names as Julius Friedrich Lehman, who soon became Germany's most important publisher of works in racial hygiene; Eugen Fischer, who was appointed director of the Kaiser Wilhelm Institute of Anthropology, Human Genetics and Eugenics when that organization opened its doors in 1927; Theobald Lang, who declared in the National Socialist Monthly that National Socialism was simply applied biology. The ranks of notable scientists and doctors espousing racial hygiene grew rapidly with the rise of the Nazi party. In fact, the percentage of enlistment of doctors of medicine across the board into the Nazi party significantly exceeded that of any other profession.

It soon became evident to the medical profession that theory was one thing, but to put into actual practice their ideas of eugenics it needed to be wedded to political power. It was thus that the racial ideas of the Nazi party rested on the research and promotion of the medical profession, and that in turn the medical profession realized they needed the political clout of the Nazi party in order to implement their ideas of racial improvement. It was a natural and mutual partnership: each needed the other. It is significant to note that the number of journals of racial hygiene and related fields had proliferated and expanded into major proportions before Hitler came into power in 1933. (There were some 200 German medical journals in existence in 1933.) It is also noteworthy to point out that racial hygiene was not "imposed" on the German medical community; physicians eagerly embraced the racial ideal and the racial state. This they did because it was obvious to them that such a course was the only course to pursue for the future racial, political, economic and physical health of the German people, or any other people, for that matter.

With the assumption of political power in 1933, the Nazi party and the medical profession lost no time in implementing those racial ideas that the medical profession had been advocating for the last several decades. Within the first few months, the medical profession was Gleichgeschaltet, that is, coordinated or unified into a single hierarchical structure, responsible to a vertical chain of command culminating in the National Socialist Physicians' League, which was in turn subordinated to the National Socialist party.

The Gleichschaltung of the medical press in Germany marked the beginning of a campaign to eliminate Jews, and all that might be identified as Jewish, from German medical science. In the summer of 1933 the journal Deutsches Ärzteblatt (German Doctors' Journal) announced that the German medical press would begin to "purge itself of non-German influences" in order to return the profession to "German feeling" and "German thinking."

Educational reform was an important part of Nazi medical policy. In 1933 Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels asked that all German organizations be educated in "the eugenic way of thinking." German universities' support for racial hygiene increased rapidly. In 1933 Fritz Lenz was the only full professor for racial hygiene in Germany, a position he had held for the previous ten years. By 1936 professorships in racial hygiene were established at Berlin, Bonn, Frankfurt, Giessen, Hamburg, Heidelberg, Jena, Königsberg, Munich and Würzburg. Soon the curriculum required that all medical students devote three hours of course-work per week in their ninth semester to "human genetics as the foundation of racial hygiene."

As in the professions of law, banking and finance, education, publishing and other fields, the medical profession up to 1933 had been heavily dominated by Jews. This was especially so in Berlin and the major cities, less so in the rural areas and the smaller cities. Jews constituted less than 1% of the German population, but 13% of all physicians were Jewish. In Berlin, the nation's capital, that figure was a whopping 60% and with it, of course, went control of all the key nerve centers in the medical profession throughout Germany. It was a stranglehold that was not easy to root out.

However, despite their heavy entrenchment, the German doctors and the Nazi party set about to do just that. In the summer of 1933 one of the rallying cries of the new journal German Public Health from Blood and Earth was to "put an end to the pernicious influence of Jews in medicine." The journal carried a bi-weekly cartoon caricaturing the "Life and Deeds of Mr. Isidor Farben," a physician with exaggerated Jewish features. Kurt Holz, editor of Der Stürmer, argued in the new journal that, bad as it was that Jewish lawyers, journalists and politicians had for decades injected their poisons into the German people, a thousand times worse was the fact that Jews had come to dominate German medicine.

Routing and rooting the heavily entrenched Jews out of the medical profession was no overnight project, nor did it come easily. Home to more than half of Germany's Jewish physicians, Berlin was to bear the brunt of the anti-Jewish legislation. One official count in October of 1933 showed a total of 3,481 Berlin physicians practicing medicine within the state-supported insurance programs. Of these, only 1,404 were of German origin (40%), 1,888 were of foreign (Jewish) origin (54%) and 189 were of "ambiguous" origins, meaning they were probably partly Jewish or had a Jewish husband or wife. By 1934 1,144 physicians had been forced out of Berlin's social insurance programs, mostly Jews, but 10% also because of communist affiliations. Nevertheless, even by 1937 the proportion of Jewish physicians in Berlin was still as high as 23%.

By no means was Germany the only country to realize the Jewish menace in the medical profession. By 1939 countries as diverse as Bulgaria, France, Italy, Norway, Poland and Romania had passed laws restricting the proportion of Jews allowed to practice medicine in their countries. In 1937 the Polish Medical Association voted 120 to 104 to exclude Jewish members from that organization. In 1938 the Hungarian Medical Chamber ruled that the number of Jewish physicians in the Chamber could not exceed 20%. As Jewish physicians fled Germany during the 1930's, neighboring countries took measures to keep them out. Holland denied working permits to Jews fleeing Germany. Bulgaria closed its borders to Jews in 1939. In Belgium, in 1939, as the influx of Jews reached 1,250 per month, the Flemish Nazi leader Braun announced a campaign to exclude the "white niggers" (weisse neger) from further immigration. At the German University of Prague and the technical colleges at Brno many Jewish professors were relieved of their posts months prior to the German invasion of March, 1939.

Euthanasia

Having more or less cleaned house (but never completely) of the Jewish problem in their own bailiwick, the German medical profession in collaboration with the German government set about instituting reforms to improve the German genetic health in all other ailing categories and set programs for the future cleansing and upgrading of the German gene pool.

The idea of the destruction of "lives not worth living" had been discussed in legal and medical literature long before the Nazi rise to power. In the late nineteenth century, British scholars writing for the Westminster Review had debated the merits of destroying the terminally insane in order to relieve society of "this terrible burden." In 1912, at a meeting of the Hungarian Psychiatric Association, Dr. Namenyi recommended that "useless idiots" be done away with in accordance with the principles of euthanasia. The word has different meanings to different people. To some it means the right to die deliberately at a time of their choosing without pain or prolonged suffering. To others it means that certain groups or individuals be destroyed forcefully as lives useless and/or harmful and burdensome to the community — lives not worth living. One is voluntary and the other is compulsory, and the two have been invariably confused, a confusion that can hardly be attributed to the Nazi doctors.

In 1920, Alfred Hoche, a professor of medicine, and Rudolph Binding, a professor of law, published their book Release and Destruction of Lives Not Worth Living, in which they argued that the principle of "allowable killing" should be extended to the incurably sick, and they also defended the right to suicide. The right to live, they asserted, must be earned and justified, not dogmatically assumed. Those who are not capable of human feeling — those "ballast lives" and "empty human husks" that fill our psychiatric institutions and insane asylums — can have no sense of the value of life. Theirs is not a life worth living; hence their destruction is not only tolerable, but humane.

The ideas of euthanasia were not restricted to Germany. In 1935 a number of British physicians formed the Voluntary Euthanasia Legalization Society, headed by Lord Moynihan, president of the Royal College of Surgeons. In 1936 the Euthanasia Society submitted a bill before the House of Commons to allow voluntary euthanasia. A not uncommon view in Britain was that euthanasia should be considered an option for the mentally retarded, though they might be otherwise healthy.

American discussion of euthanasia peaked in the period 1936 to 1941. As in Britain, most advocates claimed that people should have the right to choose when or how to die, and help guarantee the rights of those individuals who today would call for death with dignity. Many argued it would be a good way to save on medical costs. Dr. W.A. Gould in the Journal for the American Institute of Homeopathy defended euthanasia as one way of resolving economic difficulties. He reminded his readers that euthanasia was not a recent idea, and some of the best and healthiest societies in the ancient world had practiced it, as witnessed by the "elimination of the unfit" in ancient Sparta, a society that already practiced partial eugenics, and undoubtedly produced the finest specimens of the human race both mentally and physically in all history. (What doomed the Greek civilization was two fold: (a) their internecine wars — Sparta vs. Athens, and (b) the pollution of their gene pool by the import of inferior foreign slaves. What the Greeks needed most desperately, but did not have, was a well-structured racial religion which not only could have saved their exemplary gene pool but propelled it to unimaginable heights.)

Also in America, W.G. Lennox in a 1938 speech to Harvard's Phi Beta Kappa chapter claimed that saving marginal lives "adds a load on to the back of society." (He should see America today!) He wanted physicians to recognize "the privilege of death for the congenitally mindless and the incurable sick who wish to die: the boon of not being born for the unfit." Lennox was astute enough to perceive that "the principle of limiting certain races through limitation of offspring might be applied internationally as well as intranationally. Germany, in time, might have solved her Jewish problem in this way."

Opposing all such views were the Christian churches and the liberal bleeding-hearts, the latter being vociferously promoted by the Jewish press. Germany, meanwhile, although psychologically and politically prepared to act on the problem of the insane and the misfits, nevertheless proceeded cautiously and slowly. Partly this was due, undoubtedly, to the fact that she was under heavy attack by the Jewish press in their worldwide campaign. For the same reason support for euthanasia dwindled in the early 1940's in America and other Jew-occupied "democracies." As the Jews managed to incite more hate and fanaticism against the Germans and to plunge the world into a fratricidal war in 1939, the dire exigencies of war and the need for conserving their resources and strength finally brought about some limited action by the Germans in ridding their population of the burden imposed by caring for the mindless, the insane and congenitally unfit.

As early as 1935, at the Nazi Party Congress in Nuremberg, plans were discussed for the destruction of all of Germany's "lives not worth living." In a speech before that congress Gerhard Wagner, head of the N.S. Physicians' League, assailed liberalism and Marxism for having denied "the inherently different values of the lives of different individuals." The doctrine of equality (Gleichheitslehre), he said, was even worse in its effects (biologically speaking) than the Bolshevik revolution, insofar as it led one "to value the sick, the dying, and the unfit on a par with the strong and the healthy." He pointed out that the average family size of the "inferiors" was nearly twice that of healthy families. Thus the number of mentally ill had grown by 450% over the last seventy years, while the population as a whole had increased by only 50%. Inferiors thus lived at the expense of the healthy, and were growing at a rate nine times as fast as the normal and the healthy. Again, projecting this into the future, it assured the deterioration and breakdown of society, he pointed out.

Hitler realized all this, but although he was determined to cleanse the German nation of the human refuse that threatened to destroy it, he was reluctant to proceed in the face of bleeding-heart propaganda. It was not until the nation was fully enmeshed in war when it became a matter of having to choose between saving useless idiots and saving the lives of fighting soldiers that the plans set up earlier were put into action. The Nazis argued that if the healthy should sacrifice their lives in time of war, then why should the sick, incompetent and useless not do the same?

Beginning after the war against Poland had been completed, after some hesitation the records indicate that between January of 1940 and September of 1941, a total of 70,273 individuals were mercifully put to death by means of anesthetic injections, gas and other painless means. In a population of more than 80 million, this constituted less than one tenth of one percent, and did not really make a major dent in the numbers of insane and incurably ill. But it did indicate that the German people meant business in trying to cleanse their race of defectives and, over a longer period of time, would undoubtedly have succeeded. Rome wasn't built in a day, and you cannot expect all the accumulated ills and racial sins of centuries to be cured in the short period of six years that the Nazis had in peace time.

Sterilization

Racial policy was not long in coming after Hitler came to power on January 30, 1933. On July 14 of the same year the Nazi government passed the Law for the Prevention of Genetically Diseased Offspring, according to which an individual could be sterilized if in the opinion of a genetic health court he or she suffered from any one of several genetic illnesses, including feeblemindedness, schizophrenia, manic-depressive insanity, genetic epilepsy, Huntington's chorea, genetic blindness or deafness, or severe alcoholism.

Racial hygienists and much of the orthodox medical press had long advocated sterilization as a means of improving the quality of the race. As early as 1892 psychiatrist August Forel had tried to justify sterilization of the insane as a national sacrifice similar to that of a soldier in war.

The Nuremberg Laws

In the fall of 1935 Hitler signed into law a series of three measures, generally referred to as the Nuremberg Laws, to further cleanse the German population from unwanted elements.

(a) The Reich Citizenship Law of September 15, 1935 distinguishing between citizens and residents. Citizens, the more exclusive category, included only those "of German or related blood" and "able to faithfully serve the German people and nation." Jews in particular were considered as excluded from citizenship, but could be classified as residents, not entitled to many privileges of citizenship. Strangely enough, single women were also classified as residents, the motivation evidently being that German women should get married and bear children.

(b) Also on September 15, the Law for the Protection of German Blood and German Honor, or the Blood Protection Law, was announced. It forbade both marriage and sexual relations between non-Jews and Jews, and later this law was extended to all "non-Aryans." It classified Jews as "full Jews" if all four of their grandparents were Jews; half breeds, first degree if two were Jewish, and second degree if one grandparent was Jewish. Based on these classifications, the law was quite specific which categories could be married. The law further stipulated that Jews were forbidden to employ German servants under the age of forty-five.

(c) On October 18, the government passed a third and final measure in this series. The Law for the Protection of the Genetic Health of the German People, or the Marital Health Law, required couples to submit to medical examination before marriage in order to prevent racial damage from occurring. The law forbade marriage between individuals suffering from venereal disease, feeblemindedness, epilepsy, or any other infirmities specified in the 1933 Sterilization Law. Those considered "genetically ill" were permitted to marry others in the same category, but only after they had been sterilized to insure that they would not leave any offspring.

Walter Gmelin, head of the Health Office of Schwabisch-Hall, wrote an article in 1933 urging doctors to help construct racial legislation, which embodied both negative and positive measures. The negative measures included the Sterilization Law, marital sanctions, certain forms of birth control and other sanctions. The more important positive measures included support for "valuable genetic lines" and incentives for families of good stock to have many children. He further suggested that considering the large numbers of Jews that had converted to Christianity for the sake of convenience, religion alone was no longer a reliable measure of race. Gmelin therefore suggested that the government launch a massive effort to construct a comprehensive genetic registry of the German people in order to determine the scale of the problems German health authorities would have to deal with in order to upgrade the genetic health of the nation. As early as 1930 Kurt Thomalla had proposed that all Germans carry a health pass which would include vital information on one's genetic and racial health.

Conclusion

As we can see from the above, the German nation during the 1930's was well on its way in implementing a powerful, constructive policy in cleaning up the racial quagmire into which the Jews had dragged them after their defeat in World War I. The Jews feared a healthy and resurgent German nation, and rightfully so, because their exemplary success would soon have been emulated by all the other White nations, not only in Europe but also in America and throughout the world. The Jews, therefore, through their worldwide propaganda apparatus and financial manipulations treacherously euchred the other White nations into a global Second War to smash what Germany had built. We must never let such a catastrophe of White people killing White people ever happen again. After they had smashed the German government, her cities and infrastructure, they viciously set about to rape and defile the German women with hordes of goddamned black animals.

We Creators strongly support the spirit of the German cleansing operation and their racial laws, but do not necessarily condone or intend to emulate them per se. Nor are we going to sort them out and make a laundry list of those we approve or disapprove. We have already clearly set forth our racial and eugenic philosophy in various chapters of the White Man's Bible, such as Creativity and Eugenics; Life, Death and Immortality, and a number of others, as well as Eugenics and Survival of the White Race in Salubrious Living, and we see no reason to change any of them now. Nor do we see any reason to spell out any of our laws or creed in greater detail at this time. I believe we have done so clearly and in sufficient detail for the time being. However, there is much we can learn from the German experience and it behooves us to study their history.

The main difference between our philosophy and that of the Nazi philosophy of the 1930's is that whereas the Nazis put the major emphasis on Germanic racial characteristics, we say that there are a tremendous number of valuable racial qualities in all the nations of the White Race, and also a number of undesirable characteristics that must be culled out if we are to survive and advance as a species. Whereas the Nazis differentiated between German and non-German, we address and embrace all the White peoples of this Planet Earth and draw the line between the White Race and the mud races. We need all of our White Racial Comrades in order to survive, and we believe that our aggressive program of eugenics, once we get it into operation, can and will effectively upgrade our race to the era of the Superman and beyond.

There are two other points I want to make. One is that we are now racially in a much greater and alarming catastrophic mess than were the Germans in the 1920's, and we are now going to hell in a handbasket at an accelerated clip unless we change direction violently and vigorously, and we do it now. The other point is that nothing will stop the mongrelization and niggerization of the White Race unless we get the Jews off our back, as did the Germans in the 1930's, and take control of our own destiny and our governments, worldwide.

Only Creativity has the creed and the program to unite the White peoples on a global basis and drive the Jew from power.

Creativity is the Winning Formula for White survival!

White Man, join the winning team, today! Mobilize the White Race!

Issue No. 63 — September 1990

War in the Middle East

American Boys Sent to Die for Israel

At the bottom of this whole Middle Eastern furor is Israel. The JOG has decided to pull the awesome might of the U.S. military power over to the hot sands of Saudi Arabia and smash the potential threat to Israel by Iraq or any other Arab country. White Man, instead of joining the Jewish Occupational Government's pro-Jew army, join our pro-White movement for White racial survival, expansion and advancement!

For years Israel has been trying to conjure up some scenario that would induce the mighty power of the United States to move its awesome forces into the hot sands of the Middle East and smash Israel's Arab neighbors. Now, seemingly they believe they found such a pretext. At least the inflammatory rhetoric that is spewing forth from President Bush's mouth would seem to try to convince the American people that they now have a moral issue, a holy cause with which to make such a colossal blunder. In any case, whether the confused American public is convinced or unconvinced, Bush is moving vast military forces of the United States to the deadly 120 degree sands of Saudi Arabia. The very fact that his insane rhetoric is so highly inflammatory strongly indicates his intent of igniting a shooting war.

Let us examine both the issues and rhetoric.

Bush says our "vital interests" are threatened by a "new Hitler," by a madman. Not true. Whether one Arab or another controls the oil of Kuwait makes little or no difference to the United States. Saddam Hussein had no intention of withholding the oil of Kuwait from the United States or anyone else. In fact, the Iraqis are most eager to sell all the oil they can since it is their financial life blood. Furthermore, the U.S. import of oil from Kuwait was only a meager 1.5 percent of its daily consumption. So what is the big deal? It makes very little difference to us whether some fat billionaire sheik or emir (Saddam says the emir is "retarded" that sat on the throne of Kuwait) sells us the oil, or gouges us, or whether we buy it from Iraq. Certainly, it makes no damn difference at all to the young American boys who are placed on the hot burning sands of Saudi Arabia to sweat and die.

Second Point. We are there, Bush says, to defend Saudi Arabia from Iraq's Saddam, and we "believe" he "intends" to invade Saudi Arabia next. How idiotic can you get? If we are to go to war and defend every lousy mud country in the world from another whom we "suspect" of having aggressive intentions on their neighbors, we would be deploying our forces on at least fifty frontiers spread all over the globe.

And since when did we usurp the right to be the policeman (or bully) of the world that we have a right to go in, invade and smash every foreign potentate against whom Bush has a personal vendetta, or more accurately — whom his Jewish overlords want us to destroy?

Third Point. Bush sanctimoniously and deceitfully tries to make this a "matter of principle," a moral issue where we cannot allow big bully dictator to invade a smaller dictator. We cannot allow the rule of "might makes right," says the two-faced hypocrite that is "our" president, or more correctly, the political prostitute and upfront stooge for the JOG, who is really pulling the wires. What about his big bully invasion of Panama less than eight months ago? What about our invasion of Grenada several years earlier? Some years back, Bush as director of the CIA, had Noriega on his payroll and there is a cozy photo around of the two of them discussing some sinister shenanigans, probably how to make more money in the drug trade.

Where were we when Israel wantonly invaded Egypt during the Six-day War?

Or when Israel occupied the Golan Heights, the West Bank and the Gaza Strip, all of which it still holds and tyrannizes to this day?

Furthermore, where was the United States ten years ago, when Saddam Hussein and Iraq invaded Iran? Why, we were supporting him and supplying him with arms against our then "bully of the year" the Ayatollah Khomeini. But now we switch sides, like the treacherous bully the United States itself has become, to seek the help of Iran to fight against Iraq. Shifting American policy for the last several decades has had only one consistent feature: to betray and destroy those who thought the United States was their friend. With "friends" like that, who needs enemies?

Fourth Point. Bush calls Saddam a liar. It is the kind of rhetoric belligerents use when they want to make damn sure they will provoke a shooting war. Saddam returns the compliment the next day and calls Bush a liar, but who is the biggest liar, and I believe Bush wins this dubious prize hands down. At least when Saddam invaded Kuwait, he captured a rich prize for his country, and he is a celebrated hero to his own countrymen. When Bush went into Panama, he captured his former buddy, Noriega, no rich prize, who, by the way, still hasn't been tried after cooling his heels in the pen for the last eight months. By the looks of things he may never be tried, and if he ever is, it is extremely questionable whether he will be convicted.

Furthermore, he could, and undoubtedly will, reveal some embarrassing facts about Bush's duplicity. After all, what right does big bully George Bush have to invade a sovereign country, smash its infrastructure to smithereens, then forcefully kidnap its head of state, bring him into the United States and try him for alleged crimes committed in a foreign country? If we were to consistently pursue such policy on a worldwide basis, we would be hauling in all the criminal heads of governments from some 140 countries, starting with the criminal thugs at the head of the parasitic state of Israel.

Fifth Point. As in the case of the insane and tremendously costly Vietnam war in both lives and money, the President of the United States is peremptorily and rashly rushing us into a stupid war without the Congress being consulted and making a formal Declaration of War. This is an obvious and flagrant violation of the Constitution for which Bush should most certainly be impeached. Since imposing a blockade is an outright act of war, he is using such weasel words as interdiction of the vessels and ports of other countries, even such countries as Jordan, our supposed friend, against whom we have no quarrel.

Which brings us to the final point, which is this: our boys are not being sent over to sweat and die on the hot sands of the Middle East either to protect our "vital interests," nor our oil supply, nor of restoring the "legitimate" fat and retarded emir of Kuwait to the throne, nor to protect Saudi Arabia from invasion, nor as a matter of some fictitious but dubious "holy" principles such as imposing our brand of "democracy" on some unwilling recipient. Nor is George Bush or the United States really calling the shots. The Jews are calling the shots in their own sinister interest and those of Israel. At the bottom of this whole Middle Eastern furor is Israel. The JOG has decided to pull the awesome might of the U.S. military power over to the hot sands of Saudi Arabia and smash the potential threat to Israel by Iraq or any other Arab country. Meanwhile, Israel is keeping an unusually low profile, as if it were only an innocent bystander, and had nothing to do with it all. But they are not fooling any one, least of all the Arabs, and to a lesser extent the European toadies like England, France and Germany, who are unwillingly pressured into "supporting" the United States' unholy campaign. The most confused and baffled of the whole mess is the American public, who will pay the highest price of all for this wanton and dastardly treachery of the Jewish Occupational Government.

With all due credit to the treacherous and insidious antics George Bush has pulled off, we must realize that he is not his own man. Like President Reagan before him, he is only a front man, a shabez-goy, a despicable stooge for the Jews, who behind the scenes control this country and the world. So as to whether Bush or Saddam is the biggest liar, or the most flagrant aggressor, it is a moot question, and really immaterial.

What we must do to rid ourselves and the world of this perennial Jewish plague is to build a formidable power structure for ourselves, the White Race, on a worldwide basis, starting here in the United States. The Church of the Creator, with the creed and program of Creativity, has the one and only Winning Formula on which such a power structure can be built. White Man, instead of joining the Jewish Occupational Government's pro-Jew army, join our pro-White movement for White racial survival, expansion and advancement! Join with us and let's wipe this alien scourge from off the face of the earth, once and for all. Delenda est Judaica!

The Much-Touted "Multicultural Society" Leads to Chaos and Decadence

We repeat:

Who needs niggers?

There were two racial issues that received a tremendous amount of attention in the Jew-controlled press, including The Atlanta Constitution, during the months of July and August. (At the Church we call this Jew-orchestrated scandal sheet The Atlanta Prostitution, and rightfully so, since no other sinister vehicle has done so much to prostitute and niggerize the once proud city of Atlanta, Georgia.)

One of the issues The Atlanta Prostitution has been pounding away at is one that hardly need concern Atlanta at all, since the event is not taking place in Atlanta, nor even within the state of Georgia.

For years the PGA (the Professional Golfers' Association) has been holding its annual Championship Tournament at some of the finest country clubs in the nation. For 1990 it chose to stage this event at the city of Birmingham, Alabama, and specifically at the Shoals Creek Country Club, to be held August 9-12, 1990. Shoals Creek is one of the most prestigious country clubs in the nation, and it also had the honor of hosting the PGA Championship six years ago. Being a country club of some class and distinction and being a social club as much as a sporting club, it has throughout its long history avoided having any black members. It is, in fact, very careful as to whom it accepts into its membership roll, even though they be White, and the initiation fee is a steep $35,000. The PGA was well aware of the fact that Shoals Creek had no black members when it chose to hold its tournament there in 1990, and also when it played there six years earlier.

But this time the Jews decided that they would break down the social barriers and inject a nigger into this elite private White society, whether they liked it or not. Having made that decision and having control of the newsmedia of the country (and the world), soon all hell broke loose. As they unleashed their massive propaganda campaign all over the country, with The Atlanta Prostitution probably screaming the loudest, all the world was soon to know that horror of all horrors! There was no nigger in the Shoals Creek Country Club and therefore the PGA should ban the place. Soon the Jew-orchestrated NAACP also got into the act and threatened to picket the place and raise a ruckus.

Neither the membership of the Shoals Creek Country Club, nor of the PGA was too keen about bowing to the demands of the Jewish cabal nor of the NAACP, no matter how loud they screamed. But then the Jews brought their second line of artillery into play. Such events as the PGA Championships are big media and TV events and the millions of dollars of advertising that goes with it. Soon Toyota, IBM, Delta Airlines and Honda/Acura were induced to withdraw their advertising from the ESPN and the ABC television networks which were sponsoring the PGA Championship event. This really cut to the heart of the controversy. Since money rules all, and faced with the loss of two million dollars worth of advertising money, the Shoals Creek Country Club and the PGA soon came to terms with the enemy. Soon the search was on for some token nigger to be taken into the membership of their elite club. Soon thereafter they found one Louis Willie, a mulatto insurance executive in Birmingham, and Willie was taken in, willy nilly, without any fuss about a background investigation that usually precedes a new membership, and without the usual $35,000 initiation fee! Presto! Instant nigger membership! The Jews had broken the longstanding tradition of the Shoals Creek Country Club. They had humiliated and insulted not only its members, but also the PGA, and furthermore now threatened all White Country Clubs throughout the nation. They sent out the message that they had better scramble to put niggers in their midst, even though niggers are notoriously uninterested in golf and never produced any good players. Even Louis Willie, who is not really a golfer at all, said that he didn't really want to be a member, but somebody had to be first. Really? Who needs niggers in their ranks?

* * * * *

The other unimportant item that seemed to preoccupy the editors, reporters and columnists of The Atlanta Prostitution for days and weeks on end was the National Black Arts Festival. To hear them gush, eulogize and extol this primitive collection of nigger junk that had been gathered in Atlanta, Georgia, you would be led to believe that this event overshadowed the Second Coming of Christ. Day after day the paper showed reproductions in color of primitive attempts at daubing paint on canvas that could easily have been done by an amateur six year old.

Such extravagant captions as "Sounding a vibrant new note," "the Ascension of Thornton Dial," "He's black, proud" headlined an endless number of articles, extolling the virtues of nigger "art," most of which, had it been done by a White artist, would not have been given so much as passing glance.

* * * * *

All of which brings up some crucial moral questions. Why is it alright to have a National Black Arts Festival from which Whites are obviously excluded, but a heinous moral crime for the White people to have an all White social country club that has no nigger membership? Would it have been alright to have a White Arts Festival from which nigger artists would be excluded? If such an event were held, the niggers and the Jews would be screaming louder than the wailing banshees. If we are going to espouse color blindness in one area, then we should also do so in all other categories. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. Why is it great to have an organization like the NAACP that is extremely racist in promoting only the interests of niggers, but at the same time it is deemed to be an outrage if we have a racial religion such as Creativity promoting the best interests of the White people?

Recently some of our activists distributed several hundred copies of Racial Loyalty in a Tampa neighborhood, an activity that is practiced by millions of other people in distributing their particular literature such as shopping guides, flyers for political campaigns, by the Watch Tower people, Hare Krishna and thousands of others. But ours was White racist, that one category of no-no, and immediately a major storm erupted. Articles denouncing us were printed in The Tampa Tribune and the St. Petersburg Times. The Jewish mayor of Tampa, a certain Sandy Freedman, was inspired to lead a parade in downtown Tampa on July 12, 1990. It was labeled as a Solidarity March against bigotry and prejudice and was designed to "stop all the hate." The affair was organized by a number of the most virulent of all hate groups, all of which proceeded to concentrate their hate exclusively against the White Race, and whose major goal was and is to wipe out the White Race in totality. When they talk about Solidarity, it is only solidarity directed against the White Race, never solidarity of the White Race. As usual, the Solidarity March was led by Jews, of which Jewish mayor Sandy Freedman was its major protagonist.

One interesting offshoot of this blathering exhibition of "brotherly love" was a Hispanic hate flyer sent from Tampa to us here at our address in Otto. The flyer showed pictures of their heroes, namely bandits Pancho Villa and Emiliano Zapata, as militant warriors against the gringos of the United States. It was all in Spanish, and a translation of a strident paragraph at the bottom of the flyer proclaimed:

> "Death to the racist, imperialist, fascist and (filthy expletive) gringos, sons of bitches. We are determined to continue our defense, in front of you, amidst you and behind you."

Such brotherly love! However, Jew mayor Freedman didn't seem to notice, or care, or mind those kind of hate mongers right close to home and in her own back yard. After all, they weren't White.

* * * * *

As every other organ of the Jewish propaganda in the U.S., every day of the week The Atlanta Prostitution proclaims in loud and glowing terms the joys and virtues of a multiracial society. It is, oh! so proud, of the polyglot races, languages, ethnic groups, and the renegades, derelicts and scum of the world that are gathering into Atlanta. There are the Vietnamese, the Nicaraguans, the Cubans, the Hindus, the Mexicans, the Pakistanis, the Chinese and the Japanese, and not to mention the millions of niggers that swarm over the landscape. Best of all, the mayor is a mulatto nigger, as are the police commissioner, most of the city council and all the rest of the civil service cabal. How lucky can you get, says The Atlanta Prostitution, we are becoming such an international city. The fact that the Japanese are buying up many of the city's most prominent skyscrapers is such a blessing, it not only adds investment capital to our city, but it all adds up to such a richness of our cultural mix. We all want to live in a polyglot, multiracial, multicultural, multilingual, multiplex, multifarious, polymorphic, motley, discordant, heterogeneous, incongruous, divergent, mixed-up and screwed-up society, don't we?

No, we don't! Not even the stupid niggers or Vietnamese want a polyglot society. Each of them wants to build and enlarge their enclave, to take over, to exterminate the other races and ethnic groups and rule the roost.

* * * * *

In Creative Credo No. 17 of The White Man's Bible we clearly state a law of Nature and the uncompromising lessons of history, namely: only a homogeneous society can be governed and can endure.

The first paragraph of this chapter lays down the basic principles of this observation:

Race Mixing Spells Death. History has proven over and over again that no multi-racial or polyglot society has survived for long. Just as in the previous chapter we have seen that a healthy body will not and cannot tolerate any alien organisms in itself, so also a society cannot survive admixture with alien elements. Let us learn this basic lesson for all time and heed it and heed it well! Let us state it another way: Any society whose elements are composed of two or more differentiated races will perpetually be at war within itself until it destroys itself. Usually the dregs of such a society will destroy the best elements and the former will survive to occupy the real estate in a more primitive social structure. Anarchy, poverty and misery will then become its normal life style. A prime example of this is the history of Haiti, which story we have related in a future chapter. But history abounds with any number of other examples. In our previous book, Nature's Eternal Religion, we have cited a few such as Egypt, India and others."

Since the above chapter was written more than ten years ago, the evidence to support that conclusion ominously keeps piling up. As we look at the daily headlines and observe how the mud countries are faring on their own, we find the common denominator in every one of these "self-governing" mud countries is one of poverty, starvation, anarchy, revolution, crime and murder. I look at today's paper and find the following:

— One article, dateline Eravor, Sri Lanka, proclaims: "Gunmen murder 119 Muslims in Sri Lanka; Tamils blamed."

— Another article, same page, dateline Johannesburg, South Africa: "9 die in fight at hostel for black S. Africans."

— Dateline Paynesville, Liberia: "Liberian government counterattack loosens rebel grip." In the article it mentions further that 18 civilians were killed in the counterattack, and bodies of refugees and pieces of clothing from their bundles were scattered in the streets.

—Karachi, Pakistan: "5 Bhutto cohorts held in corruption charges."

— Sidon, Lebanon: "Battle between Lebanese Shiites kills 16."

—Port-of-Spain, Trinidad: "Trinidad coup leader threatens hostages." Further in the article it says: the black Muslim leader of the attempted coup threatened to kill the prime minister and other government hostages and already 22 people had died in the uprising.

* * * * *

Meanwhile, closer to home in our "model" multicultural city of Atlanta, which has the honor of being the Murder Capital of America (second only to that black jungle which is our nation's capital), things are also stirring.

More than ten years ago, in order to revive the nigger infested "core" of the city of Atlanta, a lot of money was poured into building a tourist, entertainment and nightclub attraction "Atlanta Underground" in a below street level section. Much of this money came from the taxpayers. Despite all the shops, restaurants, attractions, and other businesses that were opened, the operation failed, mostly because the White people were afraid to venture into this crime infested nigger area. A few years ago, mulatto mayor Andy Young again tried to revive Underground Atlanta, pouring vast sums of public money into the venture and beefing up the police protection to the point where there were sometimes more law enforcement officers than customers. The Atlanta Prostitution went ecstatic in boosting the project, and for a time it seemed that the venture might become financially viable. But no more. The chickens are coming home to roost, and niggers and crime being inseparable, last week signs of drugs and gang warfare broke out into the open in Underground Atlanta. It seems that the warfare between two rival nigger gangs from Los Angeles, the Crips gang and the Bloods gang, has moved in. Last week the shooting started at the Peachtree entrance of Underground Atlanta, and one person was killed and two wounded. I predict that this second go-around of Underground Atlanta is doomed. It will go belly-up as did the first version. Problem: niggers.

Meanwhile in Balkanized Europe, our White Racial Comrades are having almost as many problems as the mixed-up mud countries. A headline across the page of a recent reporting of that area proclaims: "Balkan rivalries threaten to re-ignite Europe's tinderbox." Dateline Zagreb, Yugoslavia, the article reports "Rioting broke out at a recent soccer game in Zagreb. But it wasn't your run-of-the-mill European soccer fan violence. It was a bloody battle between Croats and Serbs, Yugoslavia's two largest ethnic groups, whose hatred for each other runs centuries deep. 138 people were injured, 12 critically... Many see the violence as a precursor of what is to come."

The Balkans are undoubtedly Europe's most volatile tinderbox. But they are by no means the only source of ethnic warfare and dissention. In Czechoslovakia there are unresolved tensions between the Czechs and Slovaks. No matter what treaties are signed by a reunited Germany about the permanency of the present borders, there were millions of ethnic Germans left behind in borders of Poland, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Russia, in the insane redrawing of the map of Europe after WW II. They are going to want to reunite with Germany. There are the Hungarian and the Romanian “ethnic minorities," each of which want separation. There are the Slovenians and the Croats who are at each others throats. The ethnic Albanians want separation from Yugoslavia. The list goes on and on, and is not confined to the Balkans.

What is the solution to all this mess that has not only all the mud countries of the world in turmoil, but also the White European countries as well? Furthermore, the world's foremost and most affluent country, the United States (we are only ten trillion dollars in the hole) is also rapidly sinking into a Balkanized swampland that will soon reach the status of a mongrelized poverty and anarchy ridden third world country. What is the solution? When we ask people this question, they throw up their hands and roll their eyeballs.

Well, we, the Church of the Creator, have a total, straightforward and meaningful solution, and, we believe, the only solution. We have the one and only winning formula, and we have spelled it out repeatedly before. But allow me to spell it out again, step by step. It is all polarized in the one word — RAHOWA!

1. In the first place, the White Race must unite on a worldwide basis. It must unite under one language (Latin), and one religion (Creativity).

2. Secondly, we must forget about trying to save all the scum, freeloaders and mud races of the world, and take whatever measures are necessary to save ourselves.

3. Thirdly, in order to do this, we must get the goddamned Jews off our back and take charge of our own affairs and our own destiny.

Until we do this nothing will be settled, and we, the White Race, will sink deeper and deeper into the quagmire, until mongrelization, slavery and extinction will be our final lot and dismal fate. If not Creativity, what else is there? If not now, when?

White Man, Unite and Fight! There is no other way out! Either we unite, get the Jews off our back and take over the world, or else all is lost. Otherwise, there is no future for you, or your family, or your children. The prize is dazzling, the alternative is horrible beyond comprehension. No sacrifice is too great, no price is too high.

White Man, join with us!

Propagandize! Proselytize! Organize!

The Manifest Destiny of the White Race

Like the American pioneers, we, the White Race, must now make it our Manifest Destiny to win the world, and populate all the good lands thereof. This planet is all ours! RAHOWA!

The White Man is a tremendous builder. The few times in history when he has been unshackled and free to do as his inborn nature dictates, he constructs, he creates, he builds empires. Given free rein over a period of time, the creative works of the White Man become truly astounding. One such period was the building of America, and the Winning of the West.

During the middle of the nineteenth century, the majority of Americans were imbued with the idea that it was their Manifest Destiny to conquer and populate America from the shores of the Atlantic to the shores of the Pacific. And conquer they did!

Our doctored history books have given us so much trash about the importance of the Pilgrim Fathers, the Puritans, the Mayflower Compact, and, in general, the role of Christianity in the building of America. Our school children and the American population, by and large, as a result, have now become so indoctrinated that practically all of them will rehash this Jewish distortion that America was built by Christians, for Christians, and on Christian principles. A closer examination of history will show that American was built not by Christians, nor on Christian principles, but, on the contrary, was built despite the shackles of Christianity.

Who were the real builders of America? They certainly were not the Pilgrims or the Puritans or the religious zealots, although there were some of these sprinkled throughout the early settlers. Basically the people who came over here in large numbers and were the root-stock of America were the best examples of what is good about the White Race. These were people imbued with the spirit of adventure who were looking for a better land and a better opportunity in which to raise their families and to make their fortunes. They were adventurous, aggressive, fearless, energetic, and above all, people with vision and people who wanted to build. They were the same kind of stock that has pushed forward the frontiers of the White Man all over the world in the far-flung continents over the last many thousands of years.

Who were these people? They were the best of our White racial stock that we could be proud of. They were the pioneers, they were the trappers, the hunters, the explorers, the farmers, the ranchers, the railroad builders, and above all, the Indian fighters. They came here from an over-crowded Europe that had been torn asunder and exploited by Jewish financial monopoly and enmeshed in a divisive strife-torn controversy over the Jewish imposed Christian religion. They were people who were looking for elbow room and for freedom to follow their natural inclinations and aspirations. In their veins and in their blood was the feeling of a Manifest Destiny to expand and populate the rich new land.

Out of all this emerged the finest and greatest blossoming of White productivity that the world has ever seen. In the Winning of the West undoubtedly was demonstrated one of the widest and broadest accomplishments of the human race. In the heroic Winning of the West was written one of the most glorious and far-reaching chapters in the history of the White Race, or of any race, for that matter. By sheer dint of courage and labor was built the most productive, creative, powerful and affluent empire the world has ever seen.

Today, America, although the White people in it constitute less than five percent of the people of the globe, produces as much wealth and substance as all the rest of the world put together. This, in spite of the fact that Americans have been loaded down with severe restrictions and handicaps, such as no nation has ever before known. White Americans have riding on their back 30 million (probably 70 million) black parasites, which are not only a heavy load to carry, but a serious further handicap in as much as throwing gravel into the gears of production. All this production comes from America in spite of the fact that the American people have been forced to subsidize their rivals and their enemies all over the world with foreign aid, technology, loans, products, monetary restrictions, and every other form of shackle that the Jew could possibly dream up. Added to this is the strangling effect of the Jews in our midst, reputedly six million, but probably a great many more.

Without a doubt America today is the basic stronghold of the White Race. For this reason it is under heavy attack by the Jew to have the White American mongrelized and dragged down into the same snake-pit as was India thousands of years ago, South America a few centuries ago, and Haiti 150 years ago. America is the great stronghold of the White Race and it is here that the battle will have to be fought, it is here that the Jew will have to be conquered, it is here that a new world philosophy for the survival of the White Race will have to be formulated and take root.

We owe much to our hearty forefathers who came to a bleak and hostile continent with nothing but their unbounded determination and their native inborn abilities to create and to build. Among these were the early fur traders and trappers, the hunters, and the explorers, restless, energetic and free-wheeling, looking for new adventures and ever wider horizons. With them also soon came the early settlers, the homesteaders, the farmers. And as they pushed westward the rancher and the cattle barons and their romantic cowboys helped to tame the vast spaces of an ever onward expanding America. These were in turn followed by city builders, railroad builders, and entrepreneurs, in the best American sense. As they built this empire, all of them, in one way or another, were Indian fighters.

Since our history has been so badly distorted on the one hand, and since our heroic pioneering forefathers have been mischievously maligned for their policy against the Indians on the other hand, it is of utmost importance that we examine just what the policy of pioneering America was towards the inferior red native, namely the Indian.

There is no question that the White Man was invading a land that was populated by Indians, a race vastly different from himself and decidedly inferior. Although the invasion was a trickle at the beginning, it did not take the Indian long to realize that he was being invaded and deprived of his land. As hostility soon developed, as it must, it did not take the White Man long to realize also that the Indian was his deadly enemy and a dire threat to his existence, to his property, and to the lives of his family.

From this developed a bond between the White Race such as had never been experienced in Europe. The White Man realized that he had to stick together to survive, and one of the finest periods of racial loyalty among White People of all different European origins developed. It brought out the best of the White Man — racial loyalty, ingenuity, resourcefulness, and courage. Giving full play to these natural attributes, he pushed steadily onwards, drove the Indian westward and took over his land. Although the White Man was vastly outnumbered, this proved to be no handicap, for when the White Man is united and determined in purpose he can overcome all other forces and all other obstacles. The White Man clearly realized the Indian was his enemy and the motto, "the only good Indian is a dead Indian," became the unwritten law of the land.

It is, therefore, so much garbage to expostulate that America was built on Christian principles. America was not built on Christian principles at all. If the early White American pioneer had followed the dictates of Christian ethics such as, "love your enemies," "turn the other cheek," "sell all thou hast and give it to the poor," "resist not evil," "judge not," etc., and all the other suicidal Christian nonsense, he would never have made it. He would have been overwhelmed and killed by the Indians before he ever so much as got a toe-hold on the American continent. No, indeed! America was not built on Christian principles, nor by people that were particularly interested in Christianity. America was built by the best specimens of the White Race — the White Race exercising its inborn aggressiveness and giving full sway to its superior abilities and competence.

We hear so much nonsense in our modern-day history books, in the movies and in other Jewish propaganda, about how the White Man was perfidious, that he broke treaties with the Indians, how he tricked the Indians, and how he lied and betrayed them. This is, of course, as I have just said, Jewish propaganda in order to degrade and downgrade the heroic White Man. The White Man just plainly fought and overpowered the Indians, he did not have to trick them or have to promise them anything, he was out for conquest. He fought the Indian, he defeated the Indian, he killed and slaughtered the Indian and drove him before him as he took over his land. He plainly outfought the Indian and subdued him. It was just simply a matter of conquest, and to accuse the White Man of trickery and chicanery is plainly another lying Jewish trick. The White Man made no treaties with the Indians as such. He handed down edicts most of which were for containing the Indian in given reservations or areas after he had already been totally defeated in any case. You do not bargain nor make treaties with devastated enemies, you hand down terms, and this is the way the American Indian was managed.

Let us be honest about it. The White European crossed the ocean, invaded the American continent peopled by an inferior red race, and drove westward; he conquered the red man; he took over his land, he killed off most of his opponents, and when he had unquestionably subdued them, he herded them into a shrunken area of then deemed useless land called reservations. No matter how you look at it, it was open, free-wheeling conquest, a free play of the forces of Nature, it was the White Man at his best. If our forefathers had not done this, there would have been no America — there would, in fact, be no great, strong reservoir of the White Race today. In fact, it is doubtful whether the White Race would still have survived at all.

Since the winning of the West and the building of America was one of the most creative and productive epoches in the history of the White Man, we should learn some serious lessons from our own history. If waging war against the colored races namely the Indians, was so productive a hundred or two hundred years ago in terms of the expansion and well-being of the White Race, and if out of such aggression was built a great wealthy empire, what is the matter with pursuing and adopting such a policy today on a global scale? Why do we pamper and promote the proliferation of the inferior black African in our midst when we have the overwhelming power to rid our beautiful country of that scourge and send him posthaste back to Africa? Why do we not help our pioneering White Brothers in South Africa and help them to drive the savage black man northward towards the Equator?

Nature herself has endowed us with the inalienable right to survival, the inalienable right to propagate, advance and expand the White Race in the hostile face of all enemies. Let us not forget that the most deadly enemies the White Race has are the mud races. In fact, all mud races are enemies of the White Man. The best protection the White Man can provide for himself is to expand the territory and the numbers of the White Race on a global basis and shrink that of the mud races, all of which are hostile to us, until this threat exists no more.

As long as the hostile red race had the preponderance of numbers and power, he was a threat and a menace to the White American pioneer. It was not until the White Race by sheer numbers overwhelmingly overpowered the Indians that the threat to life and property was destroyed. Similarly, on a global scale the mud races, all of which are hostile to the White Race, and becoming more so every day, are a deadly threat to the very existence of the White Race. If the racial policy of the White Race in America a hundred years ago was such a productive policy for our race, it stands to reason that it would also be an excellent policy on a global scale.

Impossible? Not at all. In fact it is not only possible, it is the only sensible policy the White Race can pursue. Make no mistake about it, the Jews in collaboration with the mud races have marked the White Race for extinction and are rapidly proceeding — and succeeding — in this program.

It is the highest right, the foremost law in Nature, to fight for our survival at all costs! We must secure the existence of the White Race on the face of this planet for all time. And the White Man could easily do it if he united and achieved racial solidarity. Whereas in Roman times, one Roman legionnaire, using his contemporary weapons, such as sword, shield, spear, etc., could perhaps outfight six (or maybe ten) times his number of black savages, today, with the modern technology that is the product of the White Man and the White Man alone, a few trained pilots armed with jet planes and atomic bombs could wipe out any and all opposition from the hostile blacks of Africa, for instance, in no time at all. The fact that our weapons are now also in the hands of our enemy, who could never have conceived or produced them on his own, is a shameful reflection on the lack of loyalty and purpose on the part of the White Race.

Nevertheless, bad as things are today, it is not too late, nor impossible. When the White Race achieves political unity and ideological cohesion, the mud races, due to inability to sustain themselves, will wither on the vine and no nuclear holocaust, with which the Jews are continually intimidating us, will be necessary.

Yes, the handwriting on the wall is clear: White Man, unite or perish! Populate the world or become a mongrelized slave!

Since the black race commits the overwhelming majority of all violent (and other) crimes, it is plain that if we shrink their numbers we will shrink crime. The same principle applies to ignorance and poverty. Therefore, if we want to reduce crime, poverty, filth, slums, and ignorance, the best and most effective program is to shrink the number of niggers in America.

The racial program of the Church of the Creator therefore is clearly spelled out: expand the White Race, shrink the muds.

This must be our program for all time, not only in America but on a global basis.

Stupidly and foolishly, under the auspices of the Jew and Christian principles, we have been doing just the opposite. In America, as elsewhere in the world, every policy the White Man has foolishly been induced to pursue, whether it be foreign aid, welfare, fiscal policies, taxation, technological aid, medical aid, or one of a hundred other policies, has consistently worked to multiply the mud scum and shrink the base of the productive White Race.

The mud races throughout the world hate us with a passion. Fanned by the worldwide Jewish press, the White Race, polarized in the White American image, is the prime hate target everywhere. Not only is the White Man hated throughout the world, but right here in America itself, the Mexicans, the niggers, the Indians and every other mud scum can hardly wait for the day when they can do us in.

Why we should "turn the other cheek," and feed, subsidize and promote the proliferation of the mud scum who hate us, is beyond reason. It is suicide. It is insanity. We owe the mud races nothing. Any one of them will do us in as soon as they have the power. Collectively and organized by the Jew they will have the power in a generation or so, and they will do us in, unless we ourselves unite and organize.

I repeat, united and organized the White Race is ten times as powerful as the rest of the world combined.

Throughout Nature each species endeavors to expand by colonizing into new territory. For example, as soon as the rabbit set foot in the new continent of Australia, it multiplied prolifically until it covered the continent. When the starlings came to North America they rapidly spread across the continent. When the hyacinth came to Florida a century ago it rapidly spread into every canal and waterway that was suitable for its growth. When a weed takes root in a field of wheat, it immediately seeks to enlarge its territory, dispersing seeds to where, if possible, it can take over the whole field, the whole county, the whole country.

This is Nature's program: colonize into new territory and expand to the limit of your abilities — no holds barred.

For thousands of years the White Race has been colonizing territories and continents, sometimes with great success and also with certain setbacks. During the Roman era it was outstandingly successful. Had the White Race not been stricken with a suicidal, mind-crippling affliction, namely Christianity, it undoubtedly would have gone on and long ago colonized the world. Unfortunately, as history shows, the Romans did succumb to Christianity. The forward surge of the White Race crumbled, the White Race itself went into decay and was almost overrun by the Mohammedan Moors.

With Renaissance the White Race regained its senses, and in the sixteenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries the White Race again moved forward in a healthy resurgence of colonization that embraced every continent of the world, and as we have just explored, was most vigorous of all in the North American continent.

Now, in the twentieth century, the White Man is again in rapid decline as poisonous, virulent, new Jewish philosophies, communism and liberalism, are spreading like the plague. Foolishly, the White Man is now retreating, running before inferior scum, shrinking his own and helping his enemies multiply. Instead of colonizing, White America is being colonized, not only by hordes of black niggers, but all the mud scum of the world.

* * * * *

The real solution is for the White Man to adopt a sound, clear-cut racial policy: The White Race must expand until it inhabits all the good lands of this earth; it must consider all mud races its deadly enemies; it must stop giving them aid and assistance of any kind; it must crowd and shrink them from the face of the earth, as it did the Indian in America, only more so.

In order to survive at all, this must be our creed and our testament: it is either them, or us! It is the overwhelming objective of the Church of the Creator to make sure that the survival of the White Race upon the face of this earth will be secured for all time to come.

We, the White Race, must therefore learn over again the great historic lesson from our illustrious American forefathers. We must project this great productive surge of the White Race into a worldwide basis. We must again, in a planned and deliberate program, resume the colonization of the world which the White Race has pursued for the last several centuries in a more or less haphazard, but vigorous manner. Like the American pioneers, we, the White Race, must now make it our Manifest Destiny to win the world, and populate all the good lands thereof. RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours!

(For more about Manifest Destiny read NER II-10.)

Issue No. 64 — October 1990

The Obvious Solution to a Crushing Problem

Repudiate and Cancel the Federal Debt!

There are two basic points I want to drive home in this article. The first point is that we, the White Race, are being totally enslaved by the JOG. Secondly, nobody can be enslaved unless they willingly cooperate with their slavemasters. Therefore the first step in our liberation is the straightening out of our thinking through a Revolution of Values.

Right now, the Jews control the money creating machinery in the U.S. and all other White countries, and it is probably the most powerful and significant weapon of all in the arsenal of the worldwide Jewish Conspiratorial Network that is slowly but surely tightening the noose around the necks of the working White taxpayers of the United States and the world. At the heart of this Jewish monster is the FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM, which has acquired for itself the powers to print unlimited quantities of money out of thin air and paper, and thereby control the finances of the world and all the accoutrements of power that go with it. (Read again "The Federal Reserve Board — The Most Gigantic Counterfeiting Ring in the World," C.C. No. 40 in the White Man's Bible.)

Through this power of manufacturing its own money, then lending it out to the government and the people of the United States with interest, the Jew-controlled Federal Reserve System has been able to put the working people into a tighter and tighter noose, tightening the vise in which they have us clamped as the mountain of debt grows ominously larger daily.

The Federal debt of the United States at the time of Calvin Coolidge was only three billion dollars, of which he managed to pay off two billion while in office. Today the Federal debt exceeds three trillion dollars, a figure so huge that the average person cannot grasp it, and I won't even try to explain it, except that is is now one thousand times as large as it was during the time of Calvin Coolidge, and it is growing at a fantastic rate. But that is only part of the picture. Every state, city and municipality in the United States is also over its ears in debt. So is every large and small corporation. In fact, the total NATIONAL debt now stands at over 13 trillion dollars and increased by another 12 billion dollars while you are listening to the Jewsnews broadcast during the evening. Just the interest on the Federal debt alone is now the third largest item in our national budget, exceeded only by the welfare (tax Whitey, feed the nigger) programs and the military (make the world safer for the Jews) budget.

What does all this mean? It means, we, the White working people, who built it all through sheer labor now owe more than all the combined real wealth (real estate, machinery, land, housing, etc.,) in the United States is worth. It means every baby that is now born is already saddled with a $52,000 debt the day it arrives. By the time that baby is an adult, that debt may be five, ten or twenty times as large. It means we are enslaved in a Jew-created mountain of debt that grows ominously larger by the minute. (Read again "Operation Rip Off," p. 172 of RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours.)

Now let us stop and think a minute. Debt has two parties: the debtor on the one side and the creditor on the other side. We hear incessantly of the astronomical amounts we, the people of the United States, owe. But strangely, never a peep as to whom we owe all these trillions, more than all the real combined property is worth. To whom do we owe such huge sums? When you ask the average person that vital question, they act dumb, confused, like gee, I never thought of that. The government never mentions it. The Jewsmedia will never inform you of this vital issue. Doesn't anybody know? Why the big mystery?

Well, it might have been conspiratorially covered up by the Jewish power establishment but a mystery it is not. I can tell you in half a minute whom we owe it to, who is raking it in on the other side. The answer is the Federal Reserve Board, which is not at all a governmental agency as most people are led to believe, but a vile and vicious conspiracy of worldwide Jewish bankers. That is to whom we owe everything we own, and even more.

JEW RUN BANKS JEW RUN FED JEW RUN WORLD BANK

YOU MIGHT OFTEN WONDER, WHO RECEIVES THE INTEREST ON THE WHOPPING NATIONAL DEBT, US JEWS GOT THIS COUNTRY INTO. WHY... US JEWS, WHO ELSE?

How did they get us into such a stupid and servile position? The steps leading the Jews to the worldwide dominance are: racial loyalty, racial religion and a conspiratorial game plan, surreptitiously acquiring all the world's nerve centers of power, of which money is the key. That is how they managed to lock us in and enslave us.

So, the bottom line is we owe everything we own, and more, to the treacherous and perfidious Jewish conspiracy who didn't earn any part of it, but through trickery and treachery have euchred and swindled us out of our property and substance. I repeat, the Jews stole our wealth through paper shuffling, through deceit, through trickery and chicanery. The Jew-controlled Federal Reserve swindle is not a legal body, nor have they acquired the right to create money. They are in violation of the Constitution of the United States, Section 8, Article 5 of which says, “Congress shall have the power: to coin money, regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coin..." This does not mean Congress can give that right and obligation away to a gang of Jewish counterfeiters, which is what has happened.

So, do we owe these sinister Jewish gangsters 13 trillion dollars? Not by a damsite! We don't owe it to them legally, we don't owe it to them morally, we don't owe it to them, period. What we owe them is a good neck-tie party to hang all these treacherous gangsters who have caused more wars, killings, poverty and misery than all other evil forces of the world combined. While we are at it, we should also hang all the traitorous chabez-goys who collaborated and cooperated with our mortal enemies.

Back in 1927 when I was a youngster attending a one-room public school out on the prairies of Saskatchewan in Canada, we had a very hard-core patriotic teacher by the name of Mrs. Murphy. Although the monicker "Murphy" was Irish, it was hers only by marriage. She herself was very much Scotch-English and was a native of Nova Scotia. However, her patriotism was not focused on Canada. Her allegiance was 100% for Great Britain and the British Empire, who at that time could still proudly make the claim of being "Great." She considered Canada only as a part of that great empire, and so did most of the Canadians. I remember her telling us that we were not Canadian citizens but "British subjects," an important distinction. Victoria Day was celebrated on May 24, a big holiday, although Queen Victoria had never set foot on Canadian soil. May the 24th was a day of celebration, of great parades, of ringing speeches and rhetoric. I can still remember such speeches after more than sixty years about how great was the British Empire, which God had specially blest. It encompassed more than a quarter of the globe, and the sun never set on the British Empire, the speakers declared with fervor again and again.

I also remember Mrs. Murphy teaching us a number of songs, one of which we sang with great gusto:

Rule Britannia, Britannia rule the waves.
Britons never, never shall be slaves.

Well, today, despite all the gusto, jingoism and flag waving, the sun has set on the British Empire. Thanks to the treachery and betrayal of such shabbos-goy traitors as Winston Churchill (and Franklin Roosevelt on our side of the Atlantic) today Britons are very much the slaves they vowed they would never be. Today, Britain is a third rate power, stripped of her great Empire, and rapidly slipping into a "Third World" country of mongrelized bastards. Not only do they have no control over their government, their finances, their education, or anything else, but they are rapidly becoming outcasts in their own country as the flood of mud races keeps overwhelming their once pristine island. Whereas the native British pay the taxes, do the work and carry the mud races on their backs, they are shunned, exploited, discriminated against and abused by their "own" government. Not Britons, but Judah now rules once "Great" Britain, and the native Britons are slaves to an alien parasite. The British Skinheads in one of their songs sum up the situation succinctly:

Once we had an Empire,
Now we've got a slum.

Although so far we have focused on Britain and her once glorious Empire, she is no exception from the rest of the world. Today the Tribe of Judah not only rules Britannia and the waves, but Judah rules the world, including, and especially, the United States of America.

How do these slimy Jews do it? Well, its a long story starting back about four or five thousand years ago. But let us capsulize the important highlights:

— First came Racial Loyalty, which, by the way, is the name of our flagship newspaper.

— Secondly came their own Racial Religion, namely Judaism.

— Thirdly, they formulated a conspiratorial Game Plan, namely to acquire for themselves all the gold, money and real estate of the world.

— Fourthly, get control of all the nerve centers of power — finances, government, newsmedia, education and other peoples' religions.

— Fifthly, destroy the best, namely the White Race, by shrinkage and mongrelization, and convert the leaderless brown zombies into docile, servile slaves, willing to work for their Jewish slavemasters.

This may sound like a tall order, an impossible accomplishment, but the stark brutal facts of life are these: the Jews are doing it, and the goal they have been striving for through millenniums is almost theirs, at least it is definitely in sight within a generation.

Now, there are certain races that make docile slaves, and there are some who do not. Historically the niggers of Africa have made the most easily manageable slaves. The Arabs have not, the Indians of North America never did. Neither have the Japanese, nor the Chinese. The least conducive of all have been Nature's Finest — the White Race, who traditionally have been the world's greatest conquerors and warriors.

Although the Jews are now on top of the world, the indomitable determination, resourcefulness and fighting qualities of the White Race pose a serious threat and roadblock to the Jews' fanatical drive to enslave and dominate all the goyim (read "cattle") of the world. True, the White Race suffers from a fatal Achilles heel. They want to be fair, they want to give the other fellow an even break, they even want to turn the other cheek and help their enemies. They seem to have no sense of racial cohesion, or racial loyalty. However, there is always a chance that they might wake up as they did in Germany sixty years ago, realize what is happening, organize and turn their wrath on their mortal enemies — the Jews.

It is this nightmare that propels the Jews to work ever more feverishly to mongrelize the noble White Race out of existence.

We, the White Race, are now at a critical point in the biological history of our species. The Jew is in a frenzy to mongrelize the White Race within this generation. It is now or never, and the Jews know it. The White Man is finally becoming acutely conscious of what the Jewish conspiracy is doing and that the Jew power is on a worldwide rampage against the White Race. We see stirrings of anti-Jewish resistance in Russia, where Pamyat is scaring the hell out of the Jews. We see it in Germany, we see it in France, we see it in South Africa, we see it in Sweden. Although we are not too well known yet, Creativity and its gospel of White Racial Loyalty is attracting more and more attention, because it has a comprehensive game plan for victory and the only true winning formula.

* * * * *

We come back to square one. The White Race is not compatible with slavery. It cannot be permanently enslaved, but it can be permanently destroyed, which is what is now happening.

Can we reverse the process and save the White Race? Yes, we can! The most direct step we can take is to repudiate the Federal debt and all other debts that have been laid upon us through the chicanery of the Jewish bankers, then hang these criminals. If we can "forgive" Egypt a debt of seven billion and Israel an even bigger mountain of money, it makes more sense to "forgive" the American people's debt, a debt that was criminally imposed on them by a gang of Jewish financial manipulators.

How can we do that? We must get back to basics and build the powerful massive steamroller of a White Racial movement through the same steps as did the Jews thousands of years earlier — through Racial Loyalty, through Racial Religion, through Creativity. Only through these logical steps can we regain control of our own destiny and make our supine congressmen nullify the Federal Reserve Act, cancel the ill-begotten mountains of debt and repudiate the Federal debt. Once we have done that, the Jewish game is over, once and for all.

President Bush has been deliberating and having conferences at the White House with members of both Parties, trying to find a "solution" to the national deficit. For weeks, as they fiddled and fidgeted, this was the big news until the diversion of the "Gulf Crisis" took over the headlines. But they did not solve it and they never will, because it is these very same traitorous chabez-goys who have been (and are) collaborating with the Jews that brought about the financial mess we are in. We now need to adopt a more drastic approach. Like Alexander the Great, when presented with the Gordian knot which no one could untangle, he took his trusty sword and with one powerful blow cut through the whole tangled mess and the problem of the Gordian knot was solved. Let us do likewise.

Only in Creativity do we have the winning formula to do the job. In order to win we need a complete revision of those values we hold dear. In Creativity we do just that. It is, in fact, a REVOLUTION OF VALUES, heaving overboard the insane and suicidal Jewish values, dumped on us by Christianity, and in their place establishing new RACIAL VALUES, BASED ON THE ETERNAL LAWS OF NATURE, HISTORY, LOGIC AND COMMON SENSE.

Dear White Racial Comrades, join with us now and build the necessary powerhouse with which to destroy Judaism and its adjunct, Christianity. Let's kick the pernicious slimy Jew out of power and out of America. Let's do what Roman Senator Cato the Elder did when, at the end of every speech he made in the Roman Senate, he would shout "Delenda est Carthago!" (Carthage must be destroyed!) It became a battle cry of all Romans, and as a result, the threat of Carthage was totally destroyed, never to rise again. Let us likewise shout "Delenda est Judaica!" until we have destroyed these vicious parasites on the body of humanity, until they too have been expunged from the face of the world.

Delenda est Judaica! RAHOWA!

THREE CHEERS FOR A UNIFIED GERMANY!

But, if the White Race is to survive,

Germans and all other Whites must put Racial Loyalty above National Loyalty

There is much rejoicing and great jubilation in Germany these days. In fact, there is an air of euphoria prevalent with all Germans all over the world. East and West Germanys are to be united! The Berlin Wall has been torn down! Communism is collapsing! For the first time in 45 years eighty million Germans can pool their resources and face the world as one. It is indeed a great historical epoch for Germans.

Looking further into the future, beyond the present day euphoria, let us try and visualize the course of future developments, not from the perspective of Germany and Germans, but from the viewpoint of the total White Race and its present domination and enslavement by the conspiratorial Jewish network of evil gangsters. Although I personally am proud of the German people, am proud of my German heritage, I basically consider myself a member of the White Race, and it is there that my first loyalty belongs. Racial Loyalty in our book by far overrides and supersedes National Loyalty. With this in mind let us see what we can expect to develop in both the short and the long term course of world affairs.

Whereas the Germans are jubilant, their European neighbors are fearful and most apprehensive. Jew-loving stooge Margaret Thatcher is fearful that German, now with a population of 80 million energetic and industrious people, is going to dominate Europe and will out-produce and out-trade Britain and relegate Britain's already shabby economy into utter chaos. And, she has good grounds for those fears. The Poles, who have seemingly thrown off the communist yoke, and whose economy is in utter chaos, are fearful that the Germans, once they have again established themselves as a major world power, will want to reclaim vast areas of their former lands that were forcefully torn from the Germans after their defeat. They, too, have solid grounds for their fears. Weak and debilitated France, who has feared a resurgent and expanding Germany ever since the beating France took in the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71, is fearful of German revanche, that Germany will not only push France's tottering economy into further disintegration, but will eventually want to avenge herself for the atrocities heaped on Germany after both World Wars I and II, and might even want to reclaim Alsace-Lorraine. Russians, on the other hand, are now in such desperate straights, in such utter confusion and so preoccupied with their own mess, they have no particular fear of German as such, but only hope that a resurgent German economy will help bail out their hopeless predicament in Russia itself, a mess left them upon the collapse of their odious Jew-imposed communist legacy.

Within Germany itself there is much optimism and a resurgent spirit of Nationalism. As multitudes of hundreds of thousands of Germans gather to jubilate at the Brandenburg Gate, we can hear them again singing "Deutschland! Deutschland, uber Alles! Uber Alles in der Welt!", their hallowed national anthem that preceded World War I. It is their epitome of nationalism — Germany above everything in the world! However, they are far from being home safe, and their problems are prodigious. Seventeen million Germans in formerly East Germany are almost as destitute as their Soviet oppressors. Their housing, their factories, their roads and bridges, their whole city infra-structures (sewers, water systems, etc.,) are in a state of decay and neglect and that whole section of the country has to be rebuilt from the ground up.

Even more of a problem is the whole mental disorientation of the 17 million East Germans, who have been subjected to 45 years, two generations, of Jewish communist propaganda and ideology. The result, not surprisingly, is that most East Germans have been inculcated with the slave mentality of having their lives planned and directed by the state. This, of course, has destroyed much of the natural initiative inherent in most Germans, and also the opportunity to develop the ability to spawn private enterprise, a deficiency that cannot be restored overnight.

However, despite all these handicaps, I am confident that the Germans, being an intelligent, industrious and resourceful people, will not only overcome the 45 years of repression, but will in a few years rebound and become the most prosperous and economically powerful nation in the world, surpassing even the United States. Despite their new burdens, the Gross National Product of West Germany for this year is projected to increase by 4.0%, ten times that of the United States, whose projected increase is only 0.4%. One big advantage the Germans have over the United States is that they will not only be a united people, but they will be a homogeneous people, the vast majority of which are industrious and competent, whereas no matter what the United States tries to undertake, it is saddled with vast hordes of niggers and other incompetent mud races, which threaten soon to become the majority in what was once a White Man's domain of enterprise and opportunity. As they say, you can't make a silk purse out of a sow's ear.

We now come to Germany's political situation, which is not nearly as bright, and in fact, contains a multitude of sour notes. For one thing, the Jews still run Germany, as they do the rest of the world. Also, there are still 250,000 U.S. soldiers in West Germany. Since the Soviet Union is a bankrupt and broken down collection of polyglot factions and no longer a military threat (if it ever was), what are those 250,000 U.S. troops, on more than 100 military bases, doing in Germany? I'll tell you what they are there for. They are in Germany to protect the parasitic Jews from the Germans and to make sure that the Germans will never be able to install a government of their own kind and of their own choosing. Then there are still 350,000 Soviet troops in East Germany. That is a pretty heavy army of occupation for a small geographic area containing only 17 million people. What are they there for? They were originally there to impose Jewish communism on the Germans and hold them in the communist tyranny's slavery and bondage. Now that communism is crumbling in Russia itself, as well as most other Eastern European countries, they will probably move out at the insistence of a revitalized Germany, but I am sure not without extracting a heavy price, a heavy handed piece of blackmail, to make the Germans pay to help bail out the rotten Soviet economy.

However, whether the 250,000 U.S. troops and/or the 350,000 Soviet troops will pull out at all, is, in my opinion, still very questionable. It will depend very much on events in Russia, in Europe, in the Middle East, and, above all, in the home power base of the Jews, the United States itself. We can be fairly certain the Jews are not going to release their stranglehold on the Germans, whom they fear more than any other people on the face of the earth. And for good reason. The atrocities the Jews have heaped on the Germans in the last one hundred years are so horrible that if the Germans ever get into a position to do so, and are inclined to wreak vengeance, the total price would be to wipe out the Jewish population in toto. (Read again Avenge Dresden! in RL 51 and 52.)

However, even if Germany again should get its house in order and control of its own destiny, which is not likely, the problems of the present mess in Europe under existing ideology and accepted values, are impossible of solution. The Jews have seen to that.

Here is an excerpt from the newsletter of July/August, 1990, called Teutonic Unity, which is published by Manfred Roeder, a long-time German patriot who has spent several years in prison for his Germanic views. I quote:

"Yes, the Poles should live in secure borders, just like any other nation. I sincerely hope so. But this is just the reason why I can never accept the Oder-Neisse-Line as Germany's border. Only a just border can be secure. Injustice can never guarantee security but rather the contrary: unrest for generations to come. And the Oder-Neisse is blatant injustice, it is a crime, dictated by Stalin and meant to perpetuate the hatred between Germans and Poles.

I cannot accept the Oder-Neisse-Line because I do not want a new conflict or war about it. And no German Parliament or government can foresee how coming generations will think about this robbery of territory, and therefore nobody can guarantee anything for the future. Beyond the Oder-Neisse lies one fourth of undisputed German land that has been German for 750 years, as long as Berlin.

Accepting this annexation means that Germany will be entitled in the future to retaliate likewise and — if circumstances change (and they change all the time) — take not only all her lost territories back but in addition one fourth of original Polish land up to the gates of Warsaw. And we would have the 'right' to expel all the inhabitants of this territory and connive the death of a few million in the process. And we could do it with no bad conscience at all, for up till now no Pole has ever regretted this crime against the German people or apologized for it. On the contrary, inflamed and sanctioned by the Catholic Church, one propagates in the most shameless manner historic lies of the 'homecoming of ancient Polish lands'. And on top they demand reparations for damage during the war. Can we build a new Europe on such a foundation of lies and effrontery? Never!"

Now Manfred Roeder is not a man of any great influence in Germany or anywhere else. But the bottom line is that what he is saying represents the gut feeling of the vast majority of Germans, and once they have the power, they will demand a return of their stolen territories, that I can guarantee.

The present reality of the European situation is such that, communism or no communism, its nationalistic hatreds, grievances, boundary disputes, religious feuds and a hundred other problems are insoluble. If Germany again becomes the world power of which it is capable, promises or no promises, it will on nationalistic grounds demand a return of its lost territories. So will a number of other polyglot political divisions whose ethnic groups and convoluted boundaries are an insoluble nightmare. Europe will then be back to Square One, where it was in the 1930's and war will again ensue. I repeat, the linguistic, political, religious and ethnic mess in Europe under the present state of values and ideology is insoluble. Two of the most implacable villains in the piece are Nationalism and Christianity.

Is there a solution? Yes, there is, and Creativity and only Creativity has the solution. The answer is a complete Revolution of Values through Religion. Unless we can persuade the White Race to think in terms of their most important value of all, their biological bond, instead of their national and linguistic differences, we will never solve any of the world's problems, and the Jew with his diabolical technique of "Divide and Conquer" will again set the world on fire and destroy us all.

Think about it, White Man: Survival of the White Race, or going through the same old suicidal rat race of Whites killing Whites?

Remember, Whites now constitute less than 10% of the total world population, and, if present demographic trends continue, in 80 years Whites will be less than 1% (one percent!) of the total world population. It is high time for all Whites to unite as a racial entity and fight for its own survival. United under the banner of Racial Loyalty we can build a Whiter and Brighter World, but divided under banners of National Loyalty we are doomed to extinction.

"Desert Shield" and the brutal Israeli massacre of Arabs on Islam's Holy Grounds

We are all familiar with the expression of a case where the tail is wagging the dog, although we have never seen it happen to a dog.

However, it would be difficult to find a more exemplary situation to which this epigram can be applied than were we to take a good look at the now impending war that is about to explode on the hot sands of the Arabian desert. If there was ever a case of a tail-like appendage wagging the much larger body of the dog, a prime example is being demonstrated by what is happening in the Middle East, where the louse-infested Israeli tail is wagging the larger American dog.

Never in the history of the world has such a miserably small parasitic state as Israel manipulated, exploited and controlled so completely the world's most powerful economic and military nation, namely the United States of America. The situation is so stupid and so bizarre the average hoodwinked and gullible American doesn't seem to be able to believe and comprehend the obvious facts unravelling before his or her very eyes. They seem to remain blindfolded even after the facts are clearly and meticulously laid out to them.

In this article it is our objective to review recent events, to review the facts and lay them out in logical order with the hope that we can educate the best elements of the White Race, bring them to their senses and arouse them to lead the entire White Race to active struggle against the Jewish Conspiracy.

Jewish Massacre of Arabs

George Bush, our chabez-goy president, had been, oh, so careful in putting together what would seem like an international coalition against that bogeyman of the hour, Saddam Hussein of Iraq. Much treachery, deceit and bribery had gone into this operation. Egypt and her Jewish lackey, Hosni Mubarak, had been bribed with a seven billion dollar "Forgiveness" of her debts to the United States, at the expense of the White American taxpayers, of course. Syrian President Hafez al-Assad had been bribed with a monumental sum of eight hundred million dollars, to go to him personally. For this huge amount Assad could pretend to love a lot of Jews and betray the masses of his own people. Half of this amount would come from the Saudis and the Kuwaitis, and the other half from, guess who?, that perpetual patsy — the White American taxpayer. The way this last 400 million is to be paid is in itself a masterpiece in camouflage. Half of it will be funnelled through the CIA and the other half through Israel, and the American taxpayer will never know the difference. The other non-Arab collaborators, such as France, Britain and others, have their own chabez-goy traitors, such as Margaret Thatcher, and the Jews can turn them on and off at will.

There is one other little dirty trick Shabby George had up his sleeve. Just before the Iraqi invasion on August 2, 1990, he had our state department and their mouthpieces make it clear to Saddam Hussein that the United States would look the other way and not interfere, should he decide to take over Kuwait. In fact, only two days before the August 2 invasion White House spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler openly declared at a news conference that the U.S. had no commitment to defend Kuwait from invasion.

Shabby George had put together a real slick deal (such a deal!) and had good reason to gloat in his craftiness. Why, he had Bush-wacked Saddam into invading Kuwait, giving the U.S. JOG a pretext to move a massive aggregation of American troops into the Middle East to defend Israel. In addition, now the whole world was against Saddam, even the Arabs, he crowed.

Through coercion, through bribery, by means of dirty tricks and treachery George Bush-wacker had put together an extremely precarious coalition, which perhaps could stay together for a short time, provided no one rocked the boat, and provided the attack against Iraq is launched before the shaky allies might take a second look at what they had gotten into. Also, providing Israel stood aside and was not implicated in the phoney war that Bush was conniving at the instigation of Israel.

But on Monday, October 8, 1990, Israel pulled a major snafu that put her right in the middle of this carefully staged but precarious exercise in hypocrisy and deceit. On that day, while some 3,000 Jews pretended to be "wailing" at the Wailing Wall, all hell broke loose. This Wailing Wall is actually the wall of a Moslem shrine that encloses some 35 acres of Holy ground which the Arabs call Haram al-Sharif, their term for Noble Enclosure. In it is the gold topped Dome of the Rock Mosque, and also the Al-Aqsa Mosque, Islam's third most holy shrine, after Mecca and Medina. The Arabs have owned this ground for more than a thousand years. The Jews in the last two decades have tried to steal this "holy ground" from the Arabs, and claim this is the site of their biblical Second Temple. They vow to pull down and demolish the Moslem Temples and rebuild their Jewish Temple on this same ground, which they call The Temple Mount.

In fact, on this same Jewish Holy Day, a rabbi-led Jewish mob tried to sneak the first cornerstone of their to be rebuilt temple on to the site. This set off a riot, with the Arabs throwing rocks at the Jewish mob, the only weapons the Arabs had. The Jewish police, heavily armed with American-financed Uzzi automatic machine guns responded with premeditated brutality firing live ammunition at the unarmed Arabs, on the holy ground legitimately belonging to the Arabs. In a matter of minutes 21 Arabs lay dead, and more than 150 wounded, a massacre of major proportions by any standards.

Now Shabby George's precarious and artificial coalition against Iraq is rapidly unravelling due to Israel's "indiscretions," but George the Jew-lover Bush is reluctant to criticize Israel and her hot-head Prime Minister Shitsack Shamir. After all, the only true purpose of that "coalition" and the entire "Desert Shield" operation is to protect Israel against Arabs in general, and Iraq in particular.

"Desert Shield" for Israel

As a Standard Operating Procedure (S.O.P.) in most deceptive Jewish campaigns (and all Jewish campaigns are deceptive) the focus or target of their campaign is usually ad hominem, that is, concentrated on a person. Select a given person as the target and then go all out to vilify, denounce, slander, lie, attack and finally destroy that person. In World War I, it was the Kaiser, in World War II, it was Adolf Hitler. Since that tragic Jewish debacle, we have had any number of lesser targets of Jewish hate. At one time it was Ayatolla Khomeini, another time it was Muamar Khaddafi, at another time it was Daniel Ortega, and at another — Manuel Noriega. Today all guns of Jewish propaganda are firing at Saddam Hussein, although only two years ago he was the American buddy and we were supporting him in the cruel and destructive war against our then enemy Iran.

Let us again review the meaningless twaddle and idiotic charges that the Jew-manipulated George Bush is hurling at Saddam Hussein as pretexts to drag our young manhood half way around the world to suffer, sweat and die on the hot 120 degree sands of Saudi Arabia. All this at tremendous expense to our chaotic and floundering economy. All this to fight a war that Israel wants and manipulates, but is completely useless and meaningless to the White American taxpayers and our boys sent to Saudi Arabian deserts to die for Israel.

CHARGE NO. 1: Saddam Hussein is a big bully, an aggressor pouncing on a weaker neighbor. Well, George, old boy, this is the pot calling the kettle black. If you will jog your memory a bit and recall as recently as last December, you, the biggest bully in the world, pounced on your once partner in drugs, and beat the hell out of Panama. The inequality of the big bully and the little victim was much greater than between Iraq and Kuwait. What sayest thou about that? And then, George, if you will recall, in the not too distant past there was Grenada.

CHARGE NO. 2: We, the U.S., cannot tolerate aggression anywhere in the world. What a goddamn laugh! The United States of America has hundreds of thousands of troops stationed in dozens of foreign countries where they are hated and unwanted, especially the nigger troops. The largest number of bases and contingents of troops are in Germany supposedly to "defend" the German people, another big belly laugh.

So, we will not tolerate aggression anywhere in the world? Well, how come we tolerated the Soviet aggression against the Baltic States and other Eastern European countries? How come we not only tolerate but actively support and bankroll the continued Israeli aggression against the Arabs?

CHARGE NO. 3: We, the U.S., are determined to restore the legitimate government of Kuwait. Having deposed and imposed any number of legitimate and illegitimate governments all over the world (e.g., Vietnam, Nicaragua, Palestine, Panama, Philippines, Germany, etc.,) who in the hell are we to say whose governments are legal or illegal? The American people couldn't care less whether some pompous fat billionaire "emir" governs Kuwait, or whether it becomes a province of Iraq. Certainly they are not willing to spend 20 billion a year and have their sons sweat, suffer and be killed on the hot desert sands of Saudi Arabia just to put some greasy "emir" and his coterie back on the throne.

CHARGE NO. 4: We must protect our vital interests in this oil rich territory. What vital interests? What possible "vital" difference does it make to us whether one Arab or another sells us the oil from Kuwait? If we had not dragged our vast military forces halfway around the world into the land of the Arabs, Saddam Hussein would still be selling us and other countries oil as usual, and it would still be around $20 a barrel, instead of $40. There never was any threat that Kuwait oil would cease flowing, and furthermore, only a minor 1.5% of our oil supply formerly came from Kuwait. Why does George Bush keep lying to us? Now that we have thrown a blockade around both Iraq and Kuwait, we have cut off our nose to spite our face, and cut off the oil supply to the world of not only one country but two.

CHARGE NO. 5: Saddam Hussein was surely going to invade Saudi Arabia next. The fact is we have no evidence of what Saddam Hussein's intentions were or are at present, unless we claim to be mind readers, which we are not. His statements and actions after the occupation of Kuwait indicate that he had no aggressive plans against Saudi Arabia.

Our Jewish propaganda machinery, otherwise known as “mass communication media," is just plain lying to us as it did 25 years earlier about Vietnam and the domino effect and all that nonsense for which 57,000 young American lives were sacrificed in the jungles of Vietnam.

And even if Iraq were to invade Saudi Arabia, we again come to the basic question, what damn difference does it make to the average American whether we buy our oil from one Arab or another?

* * * * *

In studying all the above highly touted charges against Iraq, we can come to only one conclusion: they are all a passel of lies and phoney as hell. There is only one basic and meaningful reason why the Bush administration has dragged hundreds of thousands of our boys halfway around the world to suffer and sweat and die on the hot sands of Arabia, and that is — Israel. It is Israel and the domestic Jewish network in America that has given the orders and is calling the shots. They want us to go to war to smash the military potential of Iraq and other Arab countries which might pose a threat to Israel.

All Arab countries are intently hostile towards Israel and for good reason. The Jewish intrusion into Palestine and what it has done to the native Arab population was a brutal act of aggression that raised havoc not only with the Palestinians, but because of the mighty backing of the world's foremost power, the United States, has created chaos and hostility in all of the Middle East. It has wrecked once prosperous Lebanon, it has set the United States against Libya, Iraq, Jordan, Syria, Egypt and many other countries. Since the Jews control world affairs and especially the United States, they have managed to either bribe these countries, such as Egypt, or destroy them by military force, such as Lebanon, all at the expense of the White American taxpayers. Evidently today Israel considers Iraq as its most serious threat and has managed to manipulate the stooges that head the American government to use our vast military resources to smash Iraq.

But evidently the Jewish Kehilla is thinking beyond Iraq. George "Read-My-Lips" Bush keeps talking about THE NEW WORLD ORDER, and about the LONG-TERM commitment of the U.S. forces to the Desert Shield Operation. It seems to me I have read about the New Order somewhere in the Protocols of the Elders of Zion, how the word will go out from Jerusalem and from Zion, and how the Jews will rule the world.

Evidently the U.S. military forces are to remain in the Arabian desert permanently in order to protect Israel not only from Iraq, but also from all other Arab countries. Just as we have had anywhere from 250,000 to 350,000 American troops in Germany for the last 45 years to protect the Jews from the Germans, so now we are evidently settling in permanently in the Middle East to protect the Jews in Israel from the Arabs.

Holy War against Jewish Tyranny

However, I am confident that the Jewish tyranny throughout the world might soon be coming to an end. What the U.S. JOG is doing in Saudi Arabia today is the beginning of the end. The American presence in the Arab Holy Land, home of Mecca and Medina, is stirring up a hornet's nest that cannot and will not be contained.

The so-called "alliances" Bush is trying to put together are extremely precarious and none of them, including the non-Arab allies, have any stomach to do the dirty work for the Jews. They all hate Israel with a passion, and America, the chief bankroller of Israel, is included as the principal accomplice in Israel's crimes. It is only through vast amounts of bribery and/or threats that we have these so-called "allies" consenting to rendering token aid. The fact is our blatant, biased and slavish defense of Israel is stirring up a Jihad, an Islamic Holy War that is uniting 150 million Arabs in the area to vent their wrath against both Israel and the United States.

At the same time, this transparent pro-Jewish treachery, deceit and hypocrisy of the U.S. JOG is stirring the White people in America and the world to join us in the RAcial HOly WAr (RAHOWA) against the Jewish tyranny.

Israel and the Jews have over-reached themselves and they will soon find themselves between a rock and a hard place, between the wrath of a holy war waged by the Islamic forces and a Racial Holy War waged by the most powerful force on the face of the earth — a united White Race. It is our sacred duty to see to it that this comes about, and soon.

Already the fires of rebellion and opposition against this stupid war are springing up in the streets in many parts of the United States, and in foreign countries as well. The familiar Vietnam slogans of yesterday are now being revised to read:

Hell no, we won't go!
We won't fight for Texaco!

Perhaps it doesn't rhyme, but it would be more on the mark to proclaim:

Hell no, we won't go!
We won't fight for Israel!

All of the known White Racialist publications have strongly condemned the Jew-orchestrated U.S. military moves in the Middle East. Some of the pro-White activists, such as Matt Hale in Chicago, have publicly burned the Israeli flag and organized demonstrations against the Jewish conspiracy to fight Israeli wars with American soldiers. It seems that the anti-Israeli protest is not limited only to the White Racialists. According to the October 21st Sunday edition of The Atlanta Journal, thousands of protesters against "the pro-war hysteria" took to the streets in various U.S. cities, as well as a number of foreign countries, including Australia, England, France, Italy, Sweden, Canada, Spain and even Panama. Let us hope this is the beginning of a broad rebellion to break the tyrannical stranglehold of the Jewish serpent.

The duty to rebel against tyrants and traitors

That greatest of all leaders, Adolf Hitler, admonished us with these words of wisdom in Mein Kampf:

> — If, by the instrument of governmental authority, a people is being driven to its destruction, then rebellion is not only the right but the duty of every member of that people."

The government of the United States, led by such racial traitors as President Bush, flanked by mulatto nigger Chief of Staff Powell, and Jewish Secretary of Defense Cheney, is indeed leading the White people of the United States and the world to disaster and destruction.

The traitors and tyrants have the (Jewish) law, but we have the right! It is our right and duty to mobilize Nature's Finest, the White Race, the most powerful force on the face of the earth, and wage a White Racial Holy War, and do it now.

Only Creativity has the religious zeal, the creed and program to do a complete and final job. In Creativity we have the TOTAL PROGRAM, the FINAL SOLUTION and the ULTIMATE CREED for White racial survival, expansion and advancement. Join with us in our sacred cause and do your part in building a powerful steamroller to smash the Jewish tyranny and get the Jewish parasites off our back, once and for all.

JOG Treachery: There's more than meets the eye

The Impending Pro-Jewish War in the Middle East

Iraq, Bush-whacked and Booby-trapped, is only a pretext for the treacherous JOG to move U.S. armed forces into the Middle East for protection of Israel.

The overwhelming majority of Americans have been grossly misled and misinformed about the war that is now impending in the Middle East. The Jew-dominated media has seen to that, along with some massive help from our Bush-whacker president. To hear the Jewsmedia tell it, everything was going just fine out there in the Arabian desert, Iraq and Saddam Hussein were the best of our buddies, until suddenly Saddam had this strange impulse to invade Kuwait. Then in a matter of minutes the whole situation turned topsy-turvy and the dictator of Iraq instantly became the world's most sinister and dangerous villain. Suddenly our "vital interests" were at stake, our way of life was threatened, Saddam was a dangerous threat to all of mankind, and not only must he be destroyed but also the total Iraqi military machine along with him. Surprise! Surprise!

There is much deception in this posture, as we shall see, and it is the American public who is most deceived, snookered and bamboozled, of all the parties involved. Like in a Hollywood movie script, through conspiracy, deceit and deliberately planned machinations, our JOG, in collaboration with the Jews in Israel, has set in motion a military operation to fight Israel's wars with American soldiers. Let us try to put the individual pieces together.

Planning the Destruction of Iraq

In the first place, Bush-whacker George, manipulated by his Jewish mentors, was not surprised at all, but was treacherously laying plans for the event to happen at least 18 months before the August 2, 1990, invasion of Kuwait. In an article dated October 25, 1990, in The Atlanta Constitution, there is a detailed story about how the strategy was hatched with the objective of destroying Iraq. I quote: "Starting in March 1989, Army Lt. General John Yeosock and his 500 war-gamers, fuel-estimators and other planners sat at a Georgia military base and thought about how they could move 200,000 troops to Saudi Arabia."

The story goes on. "The top-secret work in Building 363 of Atlanta's Fort McPherson spelled out the Army's part of the enterprise. By July 1990, the cigar smoking General Yeosock and his three-star and four-star counterparts in the Navy, Marines and Air Force were ready for the test run."

Test run indeed. It is more than a coincidence that by July the military was ready to roll, and by August they did roll.

Enter Dr. Gerald V. Bull

For some 25 years Dr. Bull, a Canadian born space and ballistics genius who has been compared to Dr. Werner von Braun, has been designing super artillery, cannons/rockets. His Canadian-American High Altitude Research Program (HARP) has broken all records for long-range artillery. For 15 years the Pentagon has turned down Dr. Bull's offers and strenuous efforts to equip U.S. armed forces with the advanced 155 mm and other long ranged projectiles. That was ten years ago. In the meantime, Dr. Bull's Space Research Corp., rebuffed by the United States, turned its attention and its production of long range artillery to Iraq, who snapped up the opportunity with gusto. Iraq now has the capability of delivering poison gas and biological warfare missiles into the camps of our boys, who are set up like sitting ducks in the Arabian desert. What with using rocket boosters equipped with homing devices, Saddam Hussein can also deliver such projectiles directly into Tel Aviv and Jerusalem, hence the extensive distribution of gas masks in Israel.

Why did the United States turn down Dr. Bull and allow him to turn his efforts and genius to the benefit of Iraq instead? Since this didn't happen overnight but over a period of decades, it must have been a planned and deliberate action on the part of our military establishment. It is a strange puzzle, but this piece, too, fits into the overall picture. Evidently JOG wanted Iraq and Saddam Hussein to have enough destructive military power to make him seem a credible threat to world peace, and also probably to be able to kill a significant number of American boys. The situation is not unlike Pearl Harbor in 1941 when Roosevelt and the Jews acted dumb and silent and allowed the Japs to bomb Pearl Harbor, destroy our Pacific fleet, kill more than 3,000 of our men in one day. All the while the traitors in the White House and the Pentagon knew months in advance that the attack was coming. In fact, they were shadowing the Japanese fleet and knew the day and the hour when the Japs would strike. The Dr. Bull episode suspiciously appears to be a similar case.

There is one difference. When the imminent danger to Israel became all too real, on March 22 of this year, Dr. Gerald V. Bull was assassinated by the Mossad at his Space Research Center in Brussels, Belgium.

Creating a Pretext

We now come to the recent train of events, July, 1990. By this time the planners in Atlanta were ready and now needed a dramatic pretext to send all those troops and heavy machinery over there into that hot, godforsaken Arabian desert. How convenient then that on August 2, 1990, Saddam invaded postage-stamp sized Kuwait. Was this most propitious timing accidental? Did it just happen? Hardly.

Just days before the invasion, Jewish stooge Bush-whacker George took Saddam by the hand, led him by the nose and told him to go ahead and realize his long-standing ambition of grabbing that most cherished prize — oil rich Kuwait. The American spoon-fed encouragement could hardly have been more explicit, as shown by the train of events that immediately preceded the August 2 invasion. On July 25, the U.S. ambassador to Iraq, April Gillespie, met with Saddam. A transcript of that meeting shows that ambassador Gillespie told Saddam that "We have no opinion on the Arab-Arab conflicts like your border dispute with Kuwait." This, obviously, with the blessing of President Bush and Secretary of State James Baker. In fact, Bush followed this up further with a personal message underlining ambassador Gillespie's message, with only a gentle hint that it was not "nice" to use force against a neighbor. This position was further waffled by the White House spokeswoman Margaret Tutwiler, a few days later, stating during a press conference that the U.S. had no commitment to defend Kuwait from invasion.

Premeditated Reaction

No sooner had Saddam taken the bait when all hell broke loose. "Kinder, gentler" chabez-goy George Bush now immediately became a roaring lion, and he immediately began screaming war and moving troops. Now there was no waffling. The Jews had written the script for his speeches a long time ago, and the movement of the troops had been meticulously planned for the last 18 months, as previously described. It all went according to the script.

It was a monumental decision to launch a major war in the midst of the Arab nations, the consequences and ramifications of which were far-reaching and unpredictable. The American economy was already tottering and on the brink of disaster, but Bush-whacker George seemed completely indifferent about the tremendous cost such a war would inflict upon the American people in terms of money and American lives. And where was Congress all this time? Quiet as a mouse. That, too, was all in the prearranged script. It seemed that Jewish stooge Bush alone was now the grand commander-in-chief, making the decisions and calling all the shots, while Congress, which alone by the Constitution is empowered to declare war, stood supinely by, presumably supporting a bellicose president whose rhetoric was now screaming for an all out war.

Huge New Oil Reserves Discovered in Saudi Arabia

There is one more element that has been tacitly ignored by the Jewsmedia. According to the October 29 issue of Spotlight, a gigantic new and untapped oil field has recently been discovered in a remote area of the Saudi desert. It is claimed to be the largest accumulation of oil anywhere on the face of the earth discovered in the last 20 years, and enough to keep the Saudis pumping oil well into the 22nd century. Although its discovery has been known for some time, its existence has been discreetly kept quiet so as not to raise undue suspicions about the coming war in the Middle East.

The question is: who will control the future of this huge, strategic asset — the Jews or the Arabs? With the massive military might of the United States firmly in the hands of the Jews, only the unravelling of history will tell the tale.

The Winners and the Losers

Despite the tremendous stakes of who will control the oil of the Middle East, the real and paramount issue of the impending war in the Arabian desert is the protection of Israel and maintaining the Jewish control of the world. If this now becomes a shooting war, the destruction on both sides will be catastrophic. As in the American Civil War, as in Worlds I and II, and most other wars, the numbers of people killed, wounded and maimed are always much larger and the wars last much longer than the trigger happy instigators initially led us to believe. Tens of thousands, probably hundreds of thousands of American boys will be killed. But the Jews couldn't care less.

The Jews would like to see the neighboring Arab countries such as Iraq, Iran, Syria, Jordan and even Egypt destroyed, pulverized and pounded to a pulp, as has already happened to neighboring Lebanon, once a prosperous and peaceful Christian country.

The Jews plan to have American forces in the Middle East and on Arab soil permanently to protect them from 150 million hostile Arabs. The cost to the White Americans will be crushing and overwhelming. It will further escalate the ruination of a rapidly disintegrating America, but it will tighten the Jewish grip on America and the rest of the world.

Saudi Arabia will lose control of its oil and its sovereignty as well, as will Kuwait, Iraq, the Emirates and the rest of the Arabs. It will all fall into Jewish hands, at least that is the aim of the Jewish vampire.

Conclusion

There is only one way out of this bloody mess and only the White Race can mobilize the powerhouse to expunge and destroy the Jewish plague. We must take the bull by the horns and confront the goddamned Jewish menace head-on. In order to do so, we must organize and mobilize the total resources of the 500 million White Minority that still remains on this planet. We must polarize into one mighty movement, one battering ram. We must smash Judaism and its auxiliary tentacle, Christianity, and replace it with a vital, meaningful, no holds barred White Racial Religion — Creativity. Only Creativity has the answer, the creed and program to do that job. Join with us, White Racial Comrades, and help build a Whiter and Brighter World for yourself, your family and your future progeny. Delenda Est Judaica! RAHOWA!

HELL... WE KNEW WE'D HAVE A SHOW DOWN WITH HUSSEIN 18 MONTHS AGO. WE ALSO KNEW HE WOULD INVADE KUWAIT. WE LET IT HAPPEN, LIKE WE ALWAYS DO. WE HAD TO HAVE AN EXCUSE TO SEND 300,000 TROOPS OVER THERE. THE WHOLE GAME IS TO PROTECT ISRAEL, AND KEEP OIL PRICES UP.

BUSHWHACKER BUSH

The introduction to a new (soon to be published) book by Pontifex Maximus Ben Klassen —

A Revolution of Values Through Religion

What the Creativity Revolution is All About

Throughout history different civilizations and cultures have established for themselves a set of values that they hold in high esteem. Although some of these may seem frivolous, even stupid, to other rival cultures, nevertheless they were and are the fundamental yardsticks of each of those particular cultures, nations and/or civilizations — values they hold dear.

How were these primary values established? Again, going back into history we find such values were derived and molded through their particular religious beliefs. Whereas to White Europeans a cow is just a cow, a useful animal that is not too bright, yet to Hindus a cow is a sacred object, a holy animal, due untold respect and veneration. Why is a cow holy to Hindus? Because their religion tells them so, and theirs is not to question why. To Moslems, Mecca and Medina are holy shrines because their religion tells them that's the way it is. To Jews, Moses, Abraham, Isaac and Jacob and a whole passel of other Jewish scoundrels are their national and religious heroes. The Christians have their Jesus Christ, a mythical Jewish figure at best, with no meaningful historical evidence that such a figure ever even existed.

I have listed a few focal highlights that are venerated as fundamental values of high esteem in a selective few of many scattered religions. But with each of these goes a whole plethora of subsidiary values and beliefs that are tied in with their central core, and whereas such a resume or listing would be endless, we are here primarily concerned with those fundamental values that are held sacred by our own race, the White Race. It is these values we want to examine, to analyze, and to keep and treasure, or, if found wanting, to discard on the scrap heap of history and replace with a more deserving set of values.

In the chapters following we first of all carefully examine twelve major religions, what they stand for, along with a short resume of their origins and their history. We also want to know how they relate to the White Race, and in particular how they compare to our own religion, Creativity, when we put their various concepts to the acid test as to whether they are either beneficial or detrimental to the White Race.

Having laid the broad groundwork of the characteristics for some twelve major religions and their influence throughout the ages, we now focus our attention on that particular religion which inadvertently concerns us most, namely Christianity. We do this for the overwhelming reason that over the last nineteen centuries Christianity has subversively encroached on the minds of the White Race and managed to become its predominant religion. Originating from a passel of Jewish writers, "prophets" and murderous criminals, it has, as Marcus Eli Ravage, a Jew, arrogantly boasts, conquered us Gentiles more thoroughly than any conquering army in history has ever conquered its miserable victims.

We now ask the simple, basic question: Has Christianity been beneficial to the White Race or has it been injurious to our survival and welfare? In order that we may answer this question logically and persuasively, let us first examine some of the fundamental values Christianity espouses.

These values are mostly scattered about in an obscure and confused manner in the New Testament, although the Old Testament, which is all about the Jews, takes up more than two-thirds of the Christian bible, a strange piece of chicanery in itself. However, without scanning the entire New Testament we can focus on those values that Christ himself (supposedly) spelled out in the Sermon on the Mount. He says:

1. Love your enemies.
2. Turn the other cheek.
3. Judge not.
4. Sell all thou hast, give it to the niggers, and become a bum.
5. Resist not evil.
6. Don't plan for the future.
7. Don't store up treasures on earth, store up treasures in heaven, wherever that is.

8. The Jews are God's chosen people, the Old Testament tells us over and over, a thousand times.

There is more in the same vein, but I believe we have succinctly set out the inherent tenets of Christianity. In essence, the whole creed and program is based on some dubious other world, a nebulous supernatural world, one that is undefined, having no known location and no known verification as to its existence. In short, it is all based on wild claims, on speculation, and hopefully, on the gullibility of its intended victims. It is entirely based on a wild "spooks in the sky" theory, spooks no one in their sane state of mind has ever seen, heard, felt or smelt.

We Creators reject these nonsensical, nebulous out-of-this-world claims in their entirety and get down to reality. The real world, not some hypothetical spook world, has enough unsolved problems to contend with, and these are our main concern. Of these mountains of problems facing the real world today, not the least of our concerns is the survival, expansion and advancement of our own precious race, the White Race. To us Creators our White gene pool is our most precious treasure of all, a treasure that is irreplaceable, and must be guarded from depletion and contamination at all costs. And herein lies the fundamental departure of our values from those artificial and hypothetical values espoused by Christianity. Whereas Christianity worships some mythical Jewish bastard whom they have dubbed Jesus Christ and who supposedly teaches them to love their enemies and hate and destroy their own kind, we Creators say just the opposite. We say to hell with our enemies, to hell with the Jews and the niggers. Instead let us revere, respect and defend our own kind — Nature's Finest, and base our beliefs and knowledge on the Eternal Laws of Nature, the source and bedrock of all knowledge and wisdom. In our book, a race traitor is the most despicable and repugnant of all vermin, a mutant cretin in Nature's realm, to be despised and expunged from our society.

As can be clearly seen, the gulf between our values and those traditionally held by Christians is as wide as the Grand Canyon, and these differences remain forever irreconcilable.

The racial conflagration is heating up daily all over the world, and nowhere more rapidly than right here in the United States. Either the White Race will shortly mobilize and rally its immense, but dwindling resources for its own best interests, or it will suffer the dismal fate as did the White colonizers of San Domingo some 200 years earlier. Mayhem, mass murder, and finally, total extinction will be the price paid for not guarding our precious gene pool.

In answer to the question asked earlier, has Christianity been beneficial or detrimental to the White Race, we furthermore come to the studied and unequivocal conclusion that Christianity has been, and still is, an unmitigated disaster of unparalleled magnitude.

Therein lies our true REVOLUTION OF VALUES. Our race is our religion and we look to the Eternal Laws of Nature, not some mythical spooks, for our guidance. We furthermore state that unless we destroy and replace Jewish Christianity with a sane, realistic set of values, such as we espouse in Creativity, the White Race is doomed to extinction and mankind as such will revert and sink back to its lowest levels of savagery such as can be viewed in the untamed jungles of Africa and New Guinea. We Creators are determined that such must never happen. Instead we intend to go forward triumphantly on the chariots of a creative and constructive religion to build a Whiter and Brighter World for the future children of Nature's Finest. RAHOWA!

To White Victory through the Revolution of Values!

Every Creator a Reverend

The advantages of becoming an Ordained Minister of the Church of the Creator

Now that we have the blueprint drawn, the foundations laid and the framework for the White Racial Religion of the future under construction, it behooves us to put muscle on the bones as quickly as possible. This we are attempting to do and the means to do it with are people — more good, aggressive, White activist people. We need to utilize our resources to the utmost and take advantage of every means at our disposal.

As I have pointed out any number of times, religion is undoubtedly the most powerful motivator and energizer to ever influence the human elements throughout history. Combine this with a racial fervor, as the Jews and Moslems have done, and you have a combination that is intensely powerful. In Creativity we finally have such a combination for the White Race.

Religion, like fire, is a powerful force, but, like fire, it can be either constructive or destructive depending on how it is used, by whom, and on whom. As I have also pointed out innumerable times, the Jews concocted Christianity for us, slopped it on us, and used it as a powerful tool against us and for our own self-destruction. However, now that Creativity has come along, we can take a long historical view of all this religious anarchy which the White Race has suffered and profit from the lessons it has taught us. We can and should learn from experience. We can and must especially learn from the disastrous experience such as the nightmare of mongrelization the White Race is being subjected to right now. We can learn the same methods, techniques and procedures our enemies use and put them to work for our own best interests. Now that we Creators are no longer interested in saving (the scum of) humanity, but instead look at every issue from the basis of our own Golden Rule (What is best for the White Race?), we too, can do many powerful things with religion, our own religion.

This short treatise is designed to emphasize only one limited phase of that all-encompassing program, and that is to fully utilize the extraordinary prestige and influence religious titles exercise in our culture and society. The Jews have bragged time and again that practically every new issue (such as integration and mongrelization) that they want to slop on the White Race they promote first through the ministers (the White Man's) and the churches as a moral issue. Why? Because there is an inherent "reverence" for "the Reverend." They not only use this ploy with the White "Reverends," but also and especially by means of black "Reverends" who, though they are just recently emerged from the jungles, are now almost instantly converted into a near deity by turning their collar around and draping them with the religious mantle of "Reverend."

When they picked an alleged Communist, panderer and car thief by the name of Martin Luther Koon to head up the "civil rights" movement of the sixties, they first of all made sure that he had the title of "Reverend." They did the same with his successor, the "Reverend" Abernathy, although anyone looking closely into that dark and sinister face can visibly see in it more malignant criminal hatred for the White Race than any so-called Christian love and charity. The same goes for the "Reverend" Jesse Jackson, and a host of other black "Reverends" whose jungle English can hardly be comprehended.

Well, two can play that game. We now have a religion of our own, a White Man's religion, established for the survival of the White Race, for the White Man's benefit. It is called Creativity. Since religion is like fire, let us make sure we utilize ours to burn down the treacherous facade that is being used against us, and to fuel our own engines to steamroller the Jews and other mud races out of our culture.

In Creativity we have a legitimate, powerful religion that has every right, privilege and protection as spelled out under civil and religious guarantees of the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution. We Creators do not ask the Jewish establishment whether we, too, can exercise those rights the same as any Jew or nigger. We do not stand there, hat in hand, begging. We demand that we have those rights unquestionably, and woe betide any Jew, nigger or race traitor who would stand in our way and fain deny us our legal rights and equal protection under the law of the land.

So let us proceed and exercise our muscle and our constitutionally guaranteed rights. Let us too have ordained Ministers and Reverends to spearhead our noble and sacred Cause.

This is nothing new in our movement. We have been ordaining Ministers of the Church of the Creator for over ten years, and presenting qualified members with Ministerial Certificates. The Mormons throughout their history have instituted the practice of obligating every member to become a lay missionary. What we now want to do is to step up our campaign and have every valid member of the Church of the Creator apply for and, if qualified, receive a Ministerial Certificate, and become an Ordained Minister.

What are the advantages of doing so? Well, there are many and I want to briefly recapitulate them here:

1. The prestige and recognition that automatically go with the title are a most valuable asset that has long been recognized by the Christians, Jews and niggers. We, too, can capitalize on it.

2. The legal protection under the First Amendment is much more pervasive for a religious group, front, organization, or whatever, than say a political group (like the Nazis) or a fraternal organization, a "charitable organization" (always suspect of fraud) or a civic organization, or any other. Whereas the media or any political hack will eagerly kick a Nazi around like some dog, they will differentially treat with kid gloves any "Reverend" who heads up a religious organization. Why? Because to attack him possibly opens up the same charges against all other "religious" organizations and could bring the wrath of the religious "establishment" down on their heads.

3. It lays the basis for the legitimate claim of exemption from the tyrannical and voracious Jewish tax collectors. It is no guarantee, but it is a strong claim that we can and must defend. If the Jewish synagogues get tax exemptions, why shouldn't we? If the nigger's "religious" establishments get tax exemptions, why shouldn't we? If the Catholic Church, which is headquartered in a foreign country, gets tax exemptions, why shouldn't we? The answer is: there is no reason in the world why we shouldn't and we must demand and defend our religious and civil rights guaranteed under the First Amendment (also, the Fourteenth — "Equal Protection under the Law" clause).

4. Since most religious groups in this country (and around the world) are based on a most transparent hoax (the spooks-in-the-sky swindle), but nevertheless wield a lot of political and moral clout, the Jewish establishment (i.e., the government) is most skittish about arguing the issue in the courts, since it can and will bring out so many obvious flaws, swindles, hoaxes and contradictions that it might bring down the whole odious house of cards. We Creators must realize this, and that is our trump card — we are probably the only legitimate religion on the world scene whose beliefs, creed and philosophy is based on truth and reality. All others, be they Christianity, Judaic, Mormon or Moslem, are totally based on a collection of hocus-pocus. Their basis is built on the flotsam of far-out superstitions, on myths, hearsay and lies that won't stand the light of day. They cannot either substantiate or justify their super-natural claims and swindles. Ours is based on fact, on the Eternal Laws of Nature, on Reality, on the truth. You can't beat that — but nevertheless, we are forced to, and we must defend it at all costs.

All right, we now realize the advantages of a religious movement, especially ours. We realize the advantages of being an Ordained Minister of the Church and having the title of Reverend. So, why not utilize this advantage — for every good, upstanding member of the Church of the Creator?

Why not, indeed? Why don't you become an Ordained Minister of the Church of the Creator? Why not utilize your best talents for the promotion of our sacred goal — the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race.

So how do you go about becoming an Ordained Minister of our Church? Here are the steps:

1. First, become a member of our Church. If you are not now a member, you can become one by applying by letter and donating $25.00 to the Church. In return you will receive:

   (a) A Membership Certificate and a wallet-sized Membership Card.

   (b) A 12 month's subscription to our periodical, Racial Loyalty.

2. Next, after having thoroughly studied our creed and program as set forth in our Three Sacred Books of Creativity, write us for an application form to become ordained.

3. Upon submission of your application along with a passport-sized photograph of yourself, your credentials will then be reviewed.

4. If you are deemed to be a legitimate White Man or Woman over the age of 16, and have convinced us that you are dedicated to the noble cause of the White Race, you will be awarded a Certificate of Minister, with all the ensuing credentials for becoming an inspirational leader in your area. This will have the further advantage of giving you the prestige and credentials to form a Church group of your own as set in our guidelines. Why not avail yourself of these advantages? Act now!

Creativity is the one and only, true and revolutionary Racial Religion of the White People.

Triage

If we are to survive in a world gone stark, raving mad, we must sort out our priorities and put them in proper order.

The word triage is of French origin and derives from the word "trier," meaning to sift, to sort out. It came into prominence during the Franco-Prussian War of 1870-71 when battle casualties were tremendous and the French army medics were hard put in their limited efforts and resources to try to save what they could of the overwhelming number of wounded and dying on the battlefield. Since it was completely impossible to save all the wounded, rather than pursue an ineffective response of flailing out in a chaotic manner of confused desperation, they had to make some hard decisions. For one thing, they had to decide on whom they could still save, and whom it would be an exercise in futility and a waste of their precious time and resources to try to save. The hopeless and impossible cases were left to die.

It was not a novel situation. Although the word triage is probably not generally known, the same situation has occurred in a countless number of occasions throughout history. Anyone who has read Gone With the Wind or seen the movie, will undoubtedly remember the terrible scenes that resulted from the Battle of Atlanta during the Civil War. One such scene depicts thousands of wounded and dying soldiers lying at random on the railroad yards and tracks of the Atlanta station. An exhausted medical physician by the name of Dr. Meade and a few assistants were up to their elbows in blood and stench trying to save those whom they could, and leaving large numbers of others, who were more or less hopeless, to their fate. They, too, had to make decisions — whom could they perhaps save, who were beyond help, and, in short, how could they best utilize their limited resources to save those they could. These doctors, too, were following the principles of triage. They, too, were forced to make hard and ruthless decisions of sorting out the possible from the pointless and do the best they could with what they had. They had to make up their minds as to what their priorities were.

Let me illustrate one more example. When the then super ocean liner Titanic struck an iceberg in the North Atlantic on April 14, 1912, its sinking caused the loss of 1,517 lives, according to a Funk & Wagnalls Encyclopedia. Because of indiscretion and unpreparedness, when the disaster was upon them, the crew (and some of the passengers), too, had to make some hard and ruthless decisions, and they had to make these decisions in a matter of less than two hours and 40 minutes before the ship sank. They knew there were not enough lifeboats to save all the people aboard. So the decision that had to be made in rapid order was: whom should they allow into the lifeboats, and whom should they leave to drown with the sinking ship? They had to make some quick decisions of principle and then on the basis of these principles sort out the people they would save and those they would not save. It seems the consensus of those decisions, whoever made them, was to "save the women and children first." They, too, had to establish their priorities, and they did — a priority that set a precedent at sea for decades to come. Whether or not this was the only criteria, or even the best criteria for sorting out those who should live and those who were left to drown, can be debated endlessly. The fact of history is that 1,517 were left to drown. Of this number there were 832 passengers, mostly men, and 685 of the crew, also mostly men. But 706 were saved, mostly women and children.

There were many instances of heroics, of self-sacrifice and bravery. There were also a number of instances of cowardliness, selfishness and meanness, but they were in small minority. The fact that the captain went down with the ship and 685 members of the crew along with him speaks for itself. Also their courage to make hard and ruthless decisions to establish their priorities speaks for itself. Had they dallied for more than two hours and 40 minutes and taken no action, undoubtedly all of the passengers, men, women and children, captain and crew, all would have gone down with the Titanic.

Webster's Third New International (1961) Dictionary defines triage as "the sorting out and first-aid treatment of battle casualties in collecting stations at the front before their evacuation to hospitals in the rear." Evidently its consideration is mainly concerned with battle casualties, but the same principle applies to any major or minor disaster, whether connected with open warfare or not, and that principle is this: In case of disaster, if you cannot save them all, priorities have to be established and hard decisions made as to who can be saved that is worth saving.

* * * * *

Using the above principles as our guideline, let us now take a hard and ruthless look at a major disaster that is shaping up in the world today, a disaster of such magnitude that it would eclipse a million Titanics. In so doing let us make one important distinction between the word "ruthless" and the word "cruel."

Nature may be ruthless in culling out the weak, the meek, the misfits and the degenerate. This does not mean that Nature is cruel. On the contrary, in making sure that the strongest, the healthiest, the most competent and the best survive to procreate and bring in the next generation of a species, Nature is carrying on its benevolent program of building a better species and a more orderly world. Were Nature to promulgate the reverse principle, i.e., "the meek shall inherit the earth," as per the Jewish bible, the world would soon be populated by a sick, crippled, degenerate horde of miserable misfits and panhandlers, be they birds, animals or people.

In short, Nature has established priorities and is ruthless in carrying out its program of culling out the misfits. This may be ruthless, but it is not cruel. In its final analysis, it is a highly beneficent, creative and constructive program, a program which Nature in its infinite wisdom has pursued from time immemorial.

* * * * *

Having established our concept of triage, let us now take a look at our Planet Earth as it now exists in the light of the emerging 21st century, and especially as it portends to the future of our own species, the White Race. While we are taking a cold, hard look at this crucial phenomenon, let us also keep in mind that we have now been forced into a situation where it is imperative that we establish our top priorities, whom we want to save and whom we can save.

When we look at the world today in the last decade of the 20th century, we find it to be one horrible mess, a basket case, a total disaster of a magnitude that never before has faced mankind. Whereas for hundreds of thousands of years mankind has been slowly advancing along a bumpy road, it has, nevertheless, spasmodically advanced to ever higher levels of intelligence and creativity — groping ever upwards in a spiral of a constructive civilization. The main and only significant species in this miraculous advancement has been Nature's Finest creation, the White Race.

This upward and forward momentum was seriously jolted, in fact reversed, when the Jews introduced a virulent disease of the brain — Christianity — on the mentality of the then great Roman civilization of 2,000 years ago. After a slow and painful recovery the White Civilization was further torpedoed and set back by World War I when the Jewish conspiracy inveigled the nations of the White Race in a suicidal and fratricidal war of global dimensions, with White Men viciously and cruelly decimating millions of their own White brothers for the most asinine of reasons and pretexts. The White Race had hardly recovered from this catastrophic disaster when Jewish money power inveigled the White Race into the Second World War, even more devastating and destructive than the first. Speaking of cruelty, no incident in history has been more unjustified, stupid, asinine and cruel than was Jew-instigated World War II. In an insane rampage White Men were killing White Men on an unprecedented scale, by using the most effective of modern technological weapons invented by the White Man himself.

When the Jewish-led coalition of White nations defeated Nazi Germany in 1945, it was the greatest victory the Jewish conspiracy had ever won, and one which they lost no time in capitalizing upon. It was a disaster of infinite magnitude for all of the White Race, including the so-called victor nations. However, it was by no means final, and we Creators want to make sure that Jewish atrocity will be avenged and reversed.

* * * * *

Since 1945 the White Race has ignominiously and repeatedly retreated before the Jewish-led conspiracy of expanding the mud races and shrinking the White Race. If we take an honest look at the world in this last decade of the 20th century, it is appalling. It is, in fact, a world that has gone stark, raving mad, the White nations included along with the mud and nigger "republics." If we look at the news any given week, we find the following catastrophes in process:

Item: SAUDI ARABIA. The United States has 240,000 troops in place on the dry, hot sands of the Saudi Arabian desert and chabez-goy Bush is sending in 200,000 more. Hauled over onto the same desert sands are thousands of motor vehicles, tanks, mortars, military planes of all kinds, electronic equipment and thousands of other costly items, all at real expense to the White American taxpayer. The American troops wonder what the hell they are over there for in that hot godforsaken hellhole. The American people back home have the same question, a question that has never been satisfactorily answered by our Jew-manipulated president. However, the answer is not too difficult to unravel, if we read between the lines. Our boys are over there to defend and die for Israel, our most treacherous enemy. Three months after the initial troop movement, our chabez-goy president ordered another 200,000 troops to suffer on the hot miserable sands of the Saudi desert.

Item: NEW DELHI. India has a population of 882 million miserable, hungry people. Of this number 12% are Muslim, and 82% are Hindu. Both factions are extremely hostile to each other and are involved in frequent bloody clashes. Early in November riots exploded around a run-down little mosque in Ayodhya. The issue revolves around the efforts of Hindu fundamentalists to build a temple at the place where they believe the god Rama was born, but it so happens that the Muslim mosque already sits on this spot. In the riots that ensued more than 305 people were killed, countless injured.

Item: ISLAMABAD. In 1947 Pakistan broke away from India so that it could be "free" to have its own Muslim state. Pakistan now has a population of 110 million miserable, poverty-ridden people. After 43 years of "independence" its religious factions are still divided and battling over the issue as to whether Pakistan should be governed by religious Muslim law or should be governed as a "secular democracy." In the meantime, coups, assassinations, riots, chaos and poverty are rampant and the order of the day.

Item: RUSSIA. After 73 years of communism, the long suffering people in the Union of Soviet Republics find that the Jewish idea of communism has brought them nothing but poverty, slavery and empty promises. The Soviet Union is breaking up, the people are desperate, but after all these years of servitude, the people do not know what to do about their dilemma. Hopelessness, confusion, hunger and poverty abound, and political, economic and social chaos runs rampant. Each Soviet republic and province wants independence from the central government, proclaiming local nationalism. But the sorry state of affairs is that even when and if they achieve "independence," they have no idea as to how to put their economy together and feed themselves.

Item: TBILISI, USSR. In Soviet Georgia, the Jews are fleeing out of this republic in droves, although it was one of their more peaceful habitats in Russia. In most of Russia, the Jews are now being targeted as being the culprits that brought the long-lasting devastation of communism to the people of this huge conglomerate of diverse nationalities, peoples and cultures. Now they are fleeing, afraid that the day of reckoning nears. Where are the Jews going? First to Israel perhaps, but then to the United States, or to the United States directly.

The list of problems and conflicts goes on.

Item: PARIS. U.N. conferees finalize plan to end Cambodian War. Fat chance.

Item: JERUSALEM. Gunman crosses Israeli border, kills four Jews, injures 23. Chalk up one for our side.

Item: DHARAN. Iraqi official reported shot by Kuwaitis.

Item: AMRITSAR, INDIA. Sikh gunmen kill 20 in India, police say.

Item: JERUSALEM. two die as Arab youth attacks Israeli bus.

Item: N'DJAMENA, CHAD. Rebel leader enters the capital of Chad.

Item: MAJOR CITIES, USA. Nigger criminals are terrorizing the streets with random attacks, robberies and shootings.

Item: HOUSTON. Fake papers help illegal aliens resume surge into the U.S. The mud flood is upon us, indeed.

Further perusing the newspapers, the list is endless. Indonesia, Malaysia, Africa, South America, Central America, everywhere there is a revolution going on, there is a breakdown of law and order, a breakdown of civilization. There is starvation, there is violence, there is chaos. It is indeed a world gone stark, raving mad. Yet, because of the subsidization and feeding of the mud people by the White Race, mostly the United States, the mud people are multiplying like cockroaches, while the White people of the world are shrinking, fleeing and retreating. There will soon be ten billion clawing, starving people on this planet, of which the White Race now is a small, shrinking minority. We, the White Race, through our misdirected Jew-orchestrated charity, are drowning in a sea of hostile, aggressive mud races. This suicidal insanity cannot continue.

We have reached a crisis that we must now face squarely and solve without any further delay or nonsense. We have reached a point of no return. This Planet Earth cannot feed, house and accommodate such huge masses of people. It cannot feed such impossible numbers, nor can it dispose of the wastes that pile up from such an overload. Hunger, starvation, mass pollution and ensuing chaos are now rampant on the face of this planet, and unless a drastic change is made now, the White Race will be the foremost casualty. Then the remaining conglomerates of mud races will fight it out. Due to starvation, disease and pollution, as Nature takes its course, she will reduce these numbers down to a small fraction of what it is now. Mankind will sink down to the lowest level of the African savages, but civilization and the White Race will be gone. Nature's Finest will be no more.

* * * * *

Can we allow the oncoming catastrophe to continue? No, we cannot! We, the White Race, cannot save all these increasing hordes of mud races from starvation and chaos. There is nothing we can do for them, and frankly, we have no desire to subsidize and feed them any longer. We must separate ourselves from them, cut them adrift, and let them wither on the vine. The world at large, like the Titanic, is a sinking ship with a limited number of lifeboats. The best we, the White Race, can now do is to save ourselves, and to hell with the mud races. We have now reached the stage of emergency and disaster where only the principles of TRIAGE can save us, the White Race, from extinction. We must now sort out our priorities and ruthlessly put them into practice.

What are our priorities? We, the Church of the Creator, spell them out in order of importance, although, after the first few, all subsequent priorities are of major importance also, and not necessarily of lesser status as we go down the list.

Priorities of the White Race

1. Our first priority is the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race. To achieve this goal no price is too high, no sacrifice is too great, and we will and we must utilize any and all means necessary to achieve this paramount goal.

2. To enable us to achieve our own survival, we must first and foremost get the parasitic Jew off the back of our people, not only in America, but throughout the world. For too many thousands of years they have been the scourge of mankind. DELENDA EST JUDAICA!

3. In order that we can organize ourselves and muster the power to smash the Jewish stranglehold, we must first destroy and replace Jewish Christianity, their most powerful and insidious weapon, with a healthy racial religion of our own.

4. The basic philosophy of such a religion must be: What is good for the White Race is the highest virtue; what is bad for the White Race is the ultimate sin. Racial Loyalty and White Racial Teamwork must be the foundation of our program.

5. Never again must the White Race be euchred into fratricidal wars of White Men killing White Men. If we must go to war, let us make damn sure we direct such war against our real enemies — Jews, niggers and the mud races.

6. As Nature takes its course and the mud races wither away of their own incompetence and inability to feed themselves, we must expand our own kind and colonize all the good lands of this Planet Earth.

7. We believe that Planet Earth has a definite limit as to the number of people it can comfortably feed, house and accommodate. We believe that number is in the vicinity of one billion people. Once we are in charge of our own destiny, we can stabilize the world population at that number, and through the practice of eugenics constantly upgrade the health, intelligence and genetic quality of our people, thereby building a healthier, happier and more prosperous life for Nature's Finest for all time to come.

Issue No. 68 — February 1991

Impeach Bushwhacker Bush!

George Bushwhacker Bush is a stooge in the clutches of the Jews. He is fronting for them and playing their game. He is not only a traitor to the White Race, he is also a traitor to the country of which he holds the highest office in the land. He is in collusion with our most deadly enemies, the Jews and their parasitic bandit state of Israel. This is high treason against his own country, whose very interests and laws he has sworn to uphold and defend.

A bushwhacker can be described as a criminal thug lying in ambush waiting to pounce on his intended victim in a sneak attack at the opportune moment. Two thousand years ago the Romans in their superlative Latin had a phrase for such a creature: anguis in herba. Translated into simple English it means the same today as it did then — a snake in the grass. Another common and modern day example that is all too common is a gang of criminal niggers ambushing their prey in some dark alley of our decaying cities.

Having categorized a bushwhacker, let us now once more define the word chabez-goy for the umpteenth time, in case some of our readers have forgotten. Chabez-goy is a Jewish term of contempt for those goyim who are lackeys and sycophants for their Jewish overlords, praising, defending and doing the Jew's dirty work. A White Man, who is a traitor to his own race and does the bidding of the Jews, falls into this category.

* * * * *

With the above definitions as a frame of reference, let us now recapitulate the recent events leading up to the stupid and insane American involvement in the Gulf War. Predictably, it has become a growing catastrophe of monumental dimensions and will escalate into more major horrors as the war drags on.

In RL No. 66, we made it abundantly clear that Iraq's invasion of Kuwait came as no surprise to chabez-goy George Bush. The facts are overwhelmingly clear that the Bush administration, steered and guided by its Jewish mentors, badly wanted a pretext to drag the awesome might of the U.S. military forces onto the sands of Saudi Arabia and smash the military capabilities of Iraq. We have related how as early as March of 1989, eighteen months before the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, the Bush administration (controlled by the Israeli and Jewish cabal) was already hard at work planning just such a major war against Iraq. U.S. Army Lt. Gen. John Yeosock had a force of 500 war-gamers, fuel estimators, and other experts in Building 363 at Fort McPherson, Georgia, working day and night planning the details of just such a massive onslaught for the destruction of Iraq. At that time (March, 1989), we must remember, Bush still pretended to be a friend and ally of Saddam Hussein and of Iraq, all the while planning how to strike like a rattle snake at the opportune time.

What they needed was a pretext. What that might be was irrelevant at that time, but no matter — they would concoct some pretext when the time came. By July of 1990 the plans were completed and the U.S. military machine was ready to strike. When Iraq and Kuwait got into a local squabble about the delineation of a common oil pool on their borders, the Jews and the Bush coterie rubbed their hands in glee. Far from trying to ameliorate the squabble between two Arab nations, they goaded Saddam on and gave him the green light to invade. On July 24, 1990, U.S. State Department spokesperson Margaret Tutwiler blandly stated at a public news conference that the U.S. did not have any special defense treaties with Kuwait, nor did it have any special defense or security commitments to Kuwait. The next day, U.S. Ambassador April Glaspie, in a meeting with Saddam, stated categorically: "We have no opinion on the Arab-Arab conflicts, like your border disagreement with Kuwait." All this, just a week before the Iraqi invasion of Kuwait, an invasion the United States was well aware of in advance, just as some 49 years earlier chabez-goy president Roosevelt had been well aware of the impending Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. In both cases, the treacherous U.S. presidents were hoping and praying for the other side to make the first overt move so that the U.S.

could be sucked into a major war for the benefit of the sinister Jewish conspiracy.

With much to gain and with ostensible encouragement of the world's No. 1 superpower, Saddam Hussein made the move. No sooner had he done so, when the U.S. worm turned, and suddenly Bushwhacker Bush became the world's most vocal and vociferous warmonger. Saddam had been booby trapped and there was now no turning back. The Jews and their chabez-goy in the White House now had the pretext for the war they wanted, and all they had to do was fan the flames of war every day, and fan them they did. Without the consent of the Congress, and without even consulting the Congress, the Bushwhacker immediately sent 200,000 American troops to be deployed on the hot, hellish sands of Saudi Arabia with the aim of destroying Iraq as a potential military threat to Israel.

* * * * *

Chabez-goy George Bushwhacker Bush now had to come up with a good-sounding reason as to why he made such a drastic and far-reaching commitment, one that would sell to the American public. Try as he might, and although coached and goaded by his Jewish wordsmiths, he never could find one that would ostensibly fly.

At first, it was to "defend Saudi Arabia from invasion." Not too bright, but it was a start. Since Iraq had not threatened to invade Saudi Arabia, what was the big deal about sending 200,000 troops out there on those hot sands? And in any case, were we to rush out to everyone of dozens of crises throughout the world for no other reason than that some idiot conjectured a possible attack? If so, we would soon have our troops proliferated all over the world. And how many years would our troops be suffering and sweating on the hot desert sands while they waited?

Next, "naked aggression will not stand," said the Bushwhacker. Really? What about his own invasion of Panama just last year? What about the Israeli invasion of the West Bank and of the Gaza strip? They had been there since 1967, almost a quarter of a century. Why no outrage? What about the Soviet invasion of Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia? The Soviets have been in the Baltic states by means of "naked aggression" for nearly 50 years, and as recently as last week they killed a number of Lithuanians and Latvians by means of brutal force when these beleaguered countries sought to rightfully restore their own independence.

Next, "Saddam would control the major portion of all the oil in the world." This, too, was a baseless claim of the JOG propaganda. If the United States had kept its nose out of the Gulf squabble, oil would be still selling for less than $20 a barrel, and it makes damn little difference to us as to whether we buy it from one Arab, or one Emir, or one Sheik, or the other. Saddam never threatened to cut off the oil supply, and is only too anxious to sell what is the main source of income for Iraq.

Then came the ploy that "Saddam was another Hitler" and wanted to conquer the world, and if left unchallenged would threaten our very way of life. This stupid argument to me is reminiscent of the Vietnam War when I remember the then Secretary of Defense, Robert McNamara, standing in front of a blackboard and pointing to all kinds of maps and charts and lecturing us about "the domino effect" of North Vietnam conquering all of East Asia unless we sent our boys in there and smashed the hell out of the North Vietnamese. This is the same stupid bungler who, when president of the Ford Motor Company, came out with the Edsel, the most colossal flop in automotive history.

Every week the Bushwhacker has come up with a new pretext as to why we should smash Iraq, and specifically take out Saddam Hussein. Senator Ernest Hollings (D - S.C.) in the Senate debate during the second week on January made a clear case against Bush's spurious pretext for going to war. To quote part of his well-articulated speech:

> "...Naked aggression? Pick up the morning paper. My colleagues will see as recently as yesterday (January 11, 1991) naked aggression against Lithuania, a free people with a free parliament, not an emir. Are we going to intervene to rescue Lithuania? Not a chance. Lithuania does not have oil.
> Chad? The beginning of December. Rwanda? A few weeks ago. We can go down the list. Afghanistan, Cambodia, the Pakistani-India border — naked aggression. Syria against Lebanon. They massacred 750 Christians."

Senator Hollings went on, and made an excellent case about all the aggressions throughout the world we did not seem to be interested in stopping. However, conspicuously and deliberately neither he nor anyone else in the House or Senate dared to mention the crux of the case, namely Israel and its 23-year-old invasion of Palestine and its killings, brutality and suppression of human rights in that area.

We now come to the key issue in this whole miserable mess. Senator Hollings did mention oil, but it is not the main issue. As I have said, Saddam was not about to cut off our oil supply, and if in fact only a meager 1.9% of our oil came from Kuwait. There is no shortage of oil. On the contrary, there is an oil glut on the world markets.

So what is the real reason? THE KEY ISSUE IN THIS WHOLE MISERABLE DEBACLE IS ISRAEL AND THE JEWS. The whole Arab world of some 150 million people hate the Jews, and for good reasons. Iraq, after eight years of war with Iran (a Moslem, but non-Arab country), emerged with the most powerful military force in the Middle East. It was, and is, a real threat to Israel. The Arabs know it. Israel knows it, and the Bushwhacker knows it. Since the Jews control the U.S. government, the time had come for them to push the United States into a major war to smash their potential enemy, just as they goaded the U.S. into World War II to smash Germany when that country became a threat to Jewish control of the world. Again, the Jews are telling us to go in there and fight their war, and while we bleed and die, they will graciously hold our coats for us.

To further demonstrate what a treacherous “ally" we have shacked up with, consider the following. We are now out there, defending Israel with blood, guts and money. The U.S. has sent very expensive (one shot = one million dollars) "Patriot" antimissile batteries and American soldiers to protect Israel. In a typically Jewish gesture of "gratitude," Israel started demanding 13 billion dollars of additional "aid" from the U.S. as a compensation for Israel's "losses and restraint." From the Jewish viewpoint, the fact that American soldiers are shedding their blood for the protection of Israel doesn't amount to anything of any consequence. After all, in accordance to the Jewish Talmud, goy's blood is simply water. The Jews want not only American blood but also tons of cold cash.

* * * * *

Let's come right out and say it.

George Bushwhacker is a stooge in the clutches of the Jews. He is fronting for them and playing their game. He is not only a traitor to the White Race, he is also a traitor to the country of which he holds the highest office in the land. He is in collusion with our most deadly enemies, the Jews and their parasitic bandit state of Israel. This is high treason against his own country, whose very interests and laws he has sworn to uphold and defend. The Founding Fathers in drawing up the Constitution of the United States some 200 years ago took a dim view of treason. Article III, Section 3 of the Constitution states: "Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort." George Bush has done exactly this. The penalty for treason has traditionally been death by hanging.

* * * * *

What should we do about this miserable situation? If we let Bush and his Jewish overlords have their way, tens of thousands, probably hundreds of thousands of people will be wantonly killed, or more properly stated, murdered. Tens of thousands of these will be American citizens. The Spotlight reports that within the first 24 hours of this gruesome war Iraq suffered 15,000 to 20,000 casualties, most of which were women and children. This our Jewsmedia has not reported. But with as many as 2,000 sorties dropping bombs every day, what can we expect? Why are we doing this monstrous criminal act? Iraq, 10,000 miles away, did not invade the United States, and is not now, or ever, a threat to our security or our true vital interests.

What should we do? The most compelling thing we can do is have the Congress impeach the key player in this treacherous and abortive misadventure, namely George Bushwhacker Bush.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez (D. - Texas), Chairman of the House Banking Committee, has already introduced such a resolution of impeachment, containing four articles, citing four specific charges. They are:

Article I contends that Bush "has prepared, planned and conspired to engage in a massive war against Iraq, employing methods of mass destruction that will result in the killing of tens of thousands of civilians, many of whom will be children. This planning includes the placement and potential use of nuclear weapons, and the use of such indiscriminate weapons and massive killings by serial bombardment, or otherwise, of civilians violates the Hague Conventions of 1897 and 1923, the Geneva Convention of 1949 and Protocol I thereto, the Nuremberg Charter, the Genocide Convention and the United Nations Declaration of Human Rights."

In Article II, Gonzalez charges that Bush "has planned, prepared, and conspired to commit crimes against the peace by leading the United States into aggressive war against Iraq in violation of Article 2(4) of the UN Charter, the Nuremberg Charter, other international instruments and treaties and the Constitution of the United States."

Article III accuses Bush of having "violated the U.S. Constitution, federal law and the UN Charter by bribing, intimidating and threatening others, including the members of the UN Security Council, to support belligerent acts against Iraq."

And, finally, in Article IV Gonzalez points out that despite congressional ratification of the UN Security Council Resolution of November 29, 1990, "the president has not received a declaration of war by Congress, and in contravention of the written word, the spirit and the intent of the U.S. Constitution, has declared that he will go to war regardless of the views of Congress and the American people."

We could add to this list the other charges we have already reported. But we will let Congress take the lead and give them our support. Write Rep. Gonzalez and write your own congressmen in support of the impeachment resolution.

* * * * *

Meanwhile, across the nation and throughout the world the common people are rising up in protest against this insane war. Huge demonstrations with "NO WAR" signs and placards are appearing, some spontaneously and some well-organized. In Washington on the week-end of January 26th, a huge crowd marched down Pennsylvania Avenue to the White House displaying signs and chanting slogans, such as "Support the troops! Bring them home!", "Hell no, we won't go! We support the PLO!" The police said there were 75,000 marchers, but the organizers claim the figure was 250,000. The Bushwhacker, in an effort to escape the protests to his insane war, fled to Camp David for the weekend.

In Bonn, Germany, at least 150,000 people, some beating drums or waving banners, gathered in a rally to protest the war. One of their slogans was "To hell with Bush and Saddam. The people want peace!"

In Camden, New Jersey, as in hundreds of other cities throughout the United States and the world, protest crowds vented their anger against the insane war in the Persian Gulf. Susan Pryor, a schoolteacher from Camden, carried a sign that expressed their sentiment explicitly: "Let's kick a little ass out of the White House!" Good idea.

* * * * *

Here is an outline of some steps you can take to stop Bush's pro-Jewish war in the Gulf:

1. Write your Congressmen and Senators to support Rep. Gonzalez resolution to impeach President Bush.

2. Make contact with the protest groups in your area and cultivate relationships with their leaders. Distribute copies of Racial Loyalty to the membership, especially during meetings and parades. By and large, these people are already partially in our camp. Give them the rest of the information as to who is behind this war and bring them into our movement.

3. Support and help build the COTC and the Creativity movement until we have the members, the power and the muscle to destroy the Jewish tyranny in toto and take charge of our own destiny. This is the real and only answer to the world's problems.

DELENDA EST JUDAICA! RAHOWA!

About Liberty, Chaos and Organized Society

Only in a well-organized White Society, structured for the protection and advancement of the best interests of the White Race, can we hope to survive and prosper.

In their Protocols of the Elders of Zion, the Jews congratulate themselves that they have entrapped and enslaved more unsuspecting goyim with their catchwords of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity than any other concept. They further smirk unto themselves that each one of these words contradicts the others, and that none of these concepts are workable in the real world, yet by throwing them out to the mobs, the Jews brag that they have caused more turmoil, revolution and chaos than they have with any other deceptions in their multifarious bag of tricks. If this is so, and history amply confirms that it is, let us take a close look and analyze these booby traps more closely.

The word "liberty" has had great appeal to the masses for ages. People want to be free and the words liberty and freedom are synonymous. How free is free? The word itself is an absolutism. To be free means you have no restrictions on your activities. As soon as there are restrictions on your activities and someone else can tell you what you can and cannot do, you are no longer "free," right? Yes, I would say that is a reasonable conclusion a logical person would arrive at. It also then follows that being free, such person has no obligations, no responsibilities, no duties, no rules, no guidelines, no laws they are bound to follow or obey. It sounds great, from the Libertarian point of view.

Now let us get back to the real world. At what stage of life do we arrive at such an ideal state of milieu? As a three year old toddler? As a ten year old? A teenager? At 21? As a 30 year old parent? As a grandparent? When you are dead and laid to rest?

The fact is, at none of these. The toddler has any number of duties and obligations with which he must learn to cope. (For the sake of brevity, I use the word "he" throughout as also an alternative for the word "she," and the word "man" applies equally for the word "woman.") The toddler must by now be "potty trained," must learn a comprehensive vocabulary of new words, must learn table manners, must learn to keep himself and his clothes relatively clean, must learn obedience to his parents. The list is endless.

Many of these obligations and a passel of new ones extend on to the ten year old and the teenager. As an adult of 21 more duties and obligations are added to the list, such as having completed or continuing higher education, earning a living, planning on marriage, and a number of others. Parenthood involves even more. Parents must not only be able to establish and maintain a household, but must also have provided for a decent income, be a role model for their children, provide for their education, and a host of other very real obligations and responsibilities, many of which extend on into becoming grandparents.

Added on to all these are any number of civic duties, such as paying taxes, trying to keep the local, state and federal government in check, and dealing with such governments' demands, whether we like it or not. After we are dead and buried, we still have some arduous responsibilities, not the least of which is having left a reputation and track record to which our children and grandchildren can point with pride. Also, before departing from this world grandparents have a responsibility to leave the environment, their country and their society in as good or better shape than when they entered. This they owe to their children, their grandchildren and their future progeny.

So, how free are we when we enter this world, when we leave it, and the time in between? The answer is only an irresponsible idiot would try to shuck all the obligations and responsibilities that are incumbent with living. But even try as he may, such individual is far from being "free." As a child he may try to rebel against authority, but it will avail him nothing. He will be chastised and he will be punished, and life will only be extremely difficult. As an adult, he may try to ignore the responsibility of earning a living, but poverty and misery will be his lot. He can neglect the responsibility of supporting his family, but loneliness, isolation and guilt will be the consequence. He has the freedom to ignore, or even violate the law, but he will suffer the penalties of heavy fines and/or incarceration. Certainly, there will be no joys of "freedom," and liberty will not be his reward.

Let us now picture a scenario in a world about which Libertarians love to fantasize and eulogize, a world in which everyone is free to damn well do as the spirit moves them.

In such a world there are no traffic laws. You can zoom down the highway or the street of a residential neighborhood at 90 miles an hour. If it so tickles your fancy, you can also do this in the left lane any time you please. After all, nobody is going to tell you where or how you can drive, nor is anybody going to tell you that you have to have a driver's license, nor a license plate on your car to identify the vehicle. How long, do you suppose, you would stay alive? Or even if you decided to comply with all the traffic rules, but the rest of the irresponsible yokels need not, how would you like to venture forth into traffic?

As a true Libertarian, you are also, of course, free to dump your garbage anywhere you please, such as on your neighbor's lawn. On the other hand, there are certain drawbacks to this kind of liberty. Your neighbor is also free to dump his garbage on your lawn, and undoubtedly would do so in retaliation. He may also utilize his freedom to fire his gun in your direction.

A true Libertarian is also free from taxes, and to spend his money as only he pleases. This means that no roads, bridges or schools will be built, unless a congenial private group can get together and do so voluntarily. But, again, there are numerous disadvantages to this arrangement. By joining such a group you are thereby already surrendering some of your precious freedoms, of course, and then, too, there is the unpleasant likelihood that other freeloaders, who never contributed to your group, would also use your roads and bridges. There is also the difficulty that such roads would not connect with some other independent group's arrangement and would go nowhere.

There would, of course, also be no schools, no government, no law enforcement agencies, and no laws. As such, there would also be no police protection from thieves, murderers and other criminals. It would be every man for himself. In fact, it would be utter chaos and anarchy, and let me point out that anarchy is the most cruel and tyrannical of all forms of government.

Do such situations exist in the world? Yes, most decidedly, and more and more countries of the world are drifting into despair and anarchy. We read about the various nigger "republics" in Africa. In one single edition of a recent mainstream newspaper the present status of three such countries was described.

* * * * *

On the west coast of Africa there is Liberia, a country that was founded as early as 1822 by the United States to accommodate freed slaves. Its constitution was modeled after that of the U.S.A. In the intervening 168 years, how has Liberia fared?

As in most of these nigger republics, there is a civil war going on, a war that has degenerated into brutal tribal slaughter that characterizes most of these "free" and "independent" states in Africa that can loosely be called countries. At war are the Nimba and the Krahn tribes, aided and abetted by the Gios and the Manos tribes. Added to this melee of mass murder and wholesale slaughter are the Americo-Liberian decedents of the early freed slaves from America.

On July 29, 1990, Liberian soldiers forced their way into St. Peter's Lutheran Church, designated as a Red Cross Center, and slaughtered an estimated 700 displaced civilians. More were shot shortly thereafter at the John F. Kennedy hospital and elsewhere bringing the total casualties in one day to 1000, which constitutes only one fifth of the total in the war so far.

Former President Samuel Doe was slain in 1990, as was the former President William R. Tolbert, Jr. before him, in Doe's succession to power.

Anarchy, chaos, brutality and killing are the norm. More than 600,000 refugees, 20% of Liberia's population, have fled the country from the devastations of this grisly war in the last 12 months alone.

Most of these refugees have fled to neighboring Guinea, the Ivory Coast and to Sierra Leone.

How are these countries faring? Let us look at Sierra Leone, for instance.

In Freetown, the dilapidated capital, roads amount to no more than a maze of potholes, electricity shuts off daily, hospitals lack running water, and most telephones are for looks only. Corruption in government runs so deep that the International Monetary Fund (mostly funded by American taxpayer money) has finally shut off aid. In short, the country is in a state of anarchy, chaos, famine and corruption, as are almost all of the nigger republics of Africa.

Let us look at one more such republic more than a thousand miles to the east, in the heart of Africa.

Uganda has all the physical attributes of a beautiful, prosperous country, once described by Winston Churchill as "The Pearl of Africa." It has an ample supply of water and fertile land, and the climate is generally warm and sunny. Properly organized and developed, it could be one of the most prosperous and beautiful countries in the world.

There is one major problem. It is populated by niggers. The consequence is that Uganda is mired in poverty, wracked with hunger and starvation. During 17 of the last 21 years Ugandans have been agonizingly entangled in protracted civil war and anarchy. Young children walk around with bellies swollen from hunger, and from the effects of a host of worms and other intestinal parasites picked up from dirty drinking water. More than 700,000 civilians have been killed in the ongoing slaughter. Ugandan soldier-thugs have destroyed thousands of schools, looted clinics and hospitals, blasted roads, rail links and power stations, the handiwork of previous White Man's contributions, into useless rubble.

This by no means encompasses the turmoil, anarchy, chaos and the proliferation of civil wars that are going on in the Dark Continent. In fact, it is no more than a thumbnail capsule of what is going on in the vast majority of these savage enclaves, but whereas this is not the place to summarize this huge conglomerate of brutality, mass murder, mayhem and insane savagery, here is a short summary as of 1990.

This is a partial list of the African countries that were still in a state of war and rebellion in 1990, and the dates at which such ongoing wars started:

Uganda, 1969
Ethiopia, 1974
Angola, 1975
Mozambique, 1981

South Africa, 1983
Sudan, 1984
Somalia, 1988
Liberia, 1990, etc.

So much for the potential of trying to uplift the savage niggers to the levels of White civilization.

* * * * *

But Africa is not the only continent in turmoil. Even our ancestral homeland of Europe is disintegrating into a bedlam of anarchy. We find the Balkan countries, we find Rumania, Bulgaria and Hungary in a state of chaos, confusion and rebellion. We find Yugoslavia breaking up into ethnic entities which want "Independence," freedom from the central government. We find the great conglomerate of Russia, probably the world's richest land area of natural resources, breaking up into floundering and confused independences, which, if and when they do become independent, cannot govern themselves, cannot organize themselves to feed and house their own people in a land of rich natural abundance. Yes, the Russian people are facing a dire winter of hunger and famine, even in the Ukraine, a rich area that as long as 80 years ago was considered the rich bread basket of Europe.

Yes, despite all of the technological advances of the last 50 years, most of the world is facing chaos and starvation. Not only in Africa, Russia and most of the formerly communist countries of Europe, but also in Central America, South America, and closer to home in the U.S.A., most of the major cities in our own country are wracked with crime, anarchy, unemployment and poverty. The fact is, as we approach the 21st century, the whole world, it seems, is going to hell in a hand basket.

What is wrong? Can the White Race be saved?

* * * * *

We Creators believe we have some cogent answers. In the first place, for a society to survive and prosper its whole foundation for such must be based on a sound and intelligent philosophy. This we have not been getting. The Jews, our deadliest enemies, have done everything possible to mislead and confuse the White Race.

The same Jewish conspiracy that tossed the catch-words of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity into the French mobs 200 years ago and threw that advanced country into chaos, rebellion and anarchy, is still with us and at it today. It is still plying the same con game to most of the world, although the facade of the format has changed, seemingly. Today, with the Jews in firm control of the most powerful nation in the world, the United States of America, they are pushing democracy, American style, and pushing it down everyone's throat, whether they like it or not. The fact that the Jews are putting so much fervor behind their promotion of democracy should in itself raise a red flag and alert us to its disastrous consequences.

What is wrong with democracy? Well, just about everything. The core of the problem is that, along with Christianity and Communism, it is a Jewish promotion that bodes ill for the White Race and is designed to converge more and more tyrannical power into the hands of the Jewish power establishment. Like Liberty, Equality and Fraternity, it is a Jewish fraud.

Here is how Jewish "democracy," American style, works. Seemingly, the people are led to believe that because they are allowed to vote, they are governing themselves. Nothing could be further from the truth. Ask, for example, the Germans. For the last 40 years they have had democracy shoved down their throat. At the same time they have had some 300,000 American occupation troops on their soil, with another 300,000 or so Soviet occupation troops on East German soil. Now they have been allowed reunification, but most of the troops, after 45 years, are still there. In private, most of the Germans I have talked to have told me that the six peacetime years under National Socialism and Adolf Hitler were the finest, most prosperous and most glorious years in their history. Supposing they, both East and West Germany, wanted to vote in a Nazi government tomorrow. Under their "democracy," do you believe for a moment they would be allowed to do so? Not a chance of a snowball in hell. That is what the American and Russian troops, under Jewish control, are there to make sure never happens.

Things are not really much different in the United States itself. With the money, the financial power, in the hands of the Jews, and the newsmedia and the propaganda apparatus also in their hands, the Jews are able to operate their "divide and conquer" technique so expertly that the people never realize how effectively they are being fleeced, robbed, manipulated and enslaved. With the two-party system the Jews have all the necessary leverage they need to put their very own stooges into positions of government and keep out any meaningful opposition to their nefarious designs. As a result, we now have a president that is a toady, a chabez-goy, a stooge for the Jewish powerhouse. We have a congress that is completely at the mercy of the Jewish manipulators. This applies equally to our governors, our state houses, to City Hall and all the way down to the lowest level of local government.

Whereas the original Constitution strictly limited the powers of the Federal government, and reserved most of the rights (education, voting procedures, etc.) to the State governments, the Civil War of 1861-65 changed all that. The Federal government, taking advantage of the naked power of its armies, has ever since used brute force to override any and all rights the states had in all the areas proscribed in the constitutional agreement. Then, as now, the Federal government rode, and now rides, roughshod over any rights the states or the people have reserved unto themselves in the 9th and 10th Amendments. When in 1956 the State of Arkansas did not want niggers to enter into and louse up their High School at Little Rock, the Federal government, completely under Jewish control, sent down 10,000 troops to ram their fiat down the throats of the local citizens. When a few years later the University of Mississippi did not want a nigger enrolled in their college, the Federal government in short order deployed 20,000 Federal troops to force this one goddamned nigger into an institution where the local people did not want him, and had every constitutional right to reject him.

Being in full control of the propaganda apparatus, especially the electronic boob-tube, and having convinced us of the one-man one-vote virtues, we are daily being slopped with the claim of how free we are in America, that we are all equal, that we should accept the niggers, the Mexicans, the Indians, the Jamaicans, and a slew of other mud races as our brothers. (This is where the "Equality" and "Fraternity" dosage comes in.) Meanwhile, the White Race, accepting all this Jewish propaganda as the “will of the majority," peacefully acquiesces. The White Americans are further told that it is their Christian duty to help the needy, and we must subsidize all these parasitic mud races at home and abroad, whether we like it or not. This is the essence of democracy, that great and magic Jewish concept.

Let us make one thing clear. We Creators are not talking about bigger government. On the contrary, we are for less government, not more. We envision a government that is smaller, imposes less, much less, in taxes, and interferes less with our lives. On the other hand, our kind of government, based on the White leadership principle, is more concerned with those duties a well-ordered government is properly constituted to perform in the first place. The first duty of such a government is to protect our life and property. Secondarily, it would also provide those orderly facilities such as roads, bridges, harbors, airports, schools, law and order, coining of interest free money, and several other necessary accoutrements that are incumbent upon a prosperous and well constituted society. The big difference between the present parasitical Jew-dominated society and a Creator-oriented society is this: our kind of government will be based on the Leadership Principle, headed not by Jews, but our own White leaders whose overwhelming religious zeal is not to rob and destroy our White Race but to protect its integrity at all costs, and to work for the sole benefit of our own precious race. The primary goal of such government will be the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, and expunging the cancerous alien mud races from the body of our society.

Meanwhile the White Race is being mongrelized, decimated and destroyed in a deliberate war of genocide, not only in the United States, but on worldwide basis.

* * * * *

What can we do about it? Are we helpless to reverse the trend now fully set in motion?

The answer is: there is much we can do about it. In fact, we can solve the whole problem resolutely, once and for all time.

The first prerequisite we, the White Race, must have is a firm, positive and militant philosophy and program of our own. For too long we have been led around by the nose by our enemies, who have imposed treacherous, destructive, alien philosophies upon our thinking. Among the most invidious and deadly of these have been Christianity, Communism and Democracy, all of them of Jewish origin. Before we can take any meaningful constructive action, we must throw overboard into the trash heap of history those degenerative ideas the parasitic Jew has imposed upon the White Race. These include, besides Christianity, Communism and Democracy, the ideas of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity. In their place we must instead promote those positive lessons that Nature has taught — ideas that were basic and valid from time immemorial and will be so unto all eternity. Some of these ideas are as follows.

Lessons of Nature for White Survival

1. We must recognize and separate our own biological species, our own precious White Race, from that of the mud races.

2. We must recognize our natural enemies, namely the mud races, of which the Jews are the most vicious, treacherous and deadly. DELENDA EST JUDAICA!

3. We must recognize that our most important mission in life is the survival, expansion and advancement of our own kind and that we must make the world safe, not for democracy, but for the future of our own progeny, for all time.

4. Instead of accepting and succumbing to sick and degenerative Jewish ideas such as Liberty, Equality and Fraternity; Christianity, Communism and Democracy; race mixing and the promotion and subsidization of the scum and the inferior mud races, we must have a complete revolution of those values we hold dear, values that are promulgated by the White Race, for the best interests of the White Race and the White Race exclusively.

5. To do this, we must have a clear, consistent, comprehensive creed and program of our own, based on those values that are in our own best interests. Such a creed and program must embrace such key values as Racial Loyalty, White Racial Teamwork, Racial Purity, the Leadership Principle, the practice of eugenics and the upgrading of our racial species, and many other vital concepts as set forth in our own NATURE'S ETERNAL RELIGION, THE WHITE MAN'S BIBLE and other religious books of CREATIVITY.

6. We must realize that whether we like it or not, we, the White Race, are embroiled in a deadly racial war, a war not of our making, but contrived and orchestrated by the worldwide Jewish network. We are now in the precarious position of being exterminated, a crisis that is coming to a rapid climax. Unless the White Race soon becomes aware, aroused, organized and militant, we will soon be an extinct species.

7. We must also realize our own worth — that we are Nature's Finest, and also we must recognize our own strength and resources. Aroused, united and organized the White Race is the most powerful force on the face of the earth.

8. We must realize that we cannot save all of humanity, and that we have no obligation to do so. We must get our priorities straight and save our own precious White Race in accordance with the principle of TRIAGE. (See RL No. 67.)

9. We must now muster and mobilize those forces we possess and wage an all out war to destroy our enemies and save the White Race from extinction. We must mobilize and polarize around one powerful, comprehensive and militant creed to save ourselves and our future progeny. That creed and program is Creativity and Creativity exclusively.

10. We must realize that we are now in a dire and crucial crisis in the life span of our race, and we must dedicate ourselves to winning this crucial battle for White survival at all costs, no matter what the price or the sacrifices required. We are Nature's Finest, and in accordance with the Highest Law of Nature — survival of the species — we must and we will use any and all means to secure the survival of our species. The end (White survival) justifies the means (any and all means deemed effective and necessary). RAHOWA! TOTAL WHITE POWER!

The Naive American Goy

Historically, the Jews' most servile tool in slavishly doing their dirty work

The last meaningful war the United States fought on behalf of the best interests of the White Race undoubtedly was the War with Mexico in 1846-48. The White Race can be forever grateful to our then illustrious President, namely James K. Polk, whose foresight, determination and loyalty to the White Man's cause increased our territory by more than half, and in carrying out our Manifest Destiny, extended the White Man's territory from the shores of the Atlantic to those of the Pacific.

We can categorically state that every major war the United States has fought since that time, beginning with the disastrous Civil War (or sometimes called the War between the States) has been geared to the destruction and to the detriment of the White Race, to the ruination of the national interest of the United States as such, and above all, to the major benefit in expanding the stranglehold of Jewish power in the United States, as well as on a worldwide basis. The Jews have skillfully manipulated the White Man's brain and actions, exploited the tremendous productivity and ingenuity of the servile White Race in order to further the sinister goals of the Jewish Conspiracy and at the same time, to decimate, undermine and destroy the White Race itself.

Fantastic? It may seem so, but the reality of history speaks for itself. Let us review the history of the United States for the last 130 years, case by case, starting with the disastrous so-called Civil War.

Case No. One: American Civil War. The much ballyhooed Civil War was not about slavery. In every idiotic war the Jews have euchred us into, they have fervently and blatantly proclaimed some phoney moral issue as to why the White Man should plunge in and kill each other wholesale, and the Civil War was a typical example. This brutal war was meticulously planned years in advance by the Rothschilds and the Jewish money clique. The propaganda technique was then skillfully applied to both the North and the South, neither of which previously gave a tinker's damn about the stinking niggers until they were plied with a massive dose of inflammatory propaganda.

The real issues were these:

(a) The Jewish money power in New York and Philadelphia was determined to break the rising political and financial power of the Southern plantation owners. We must remember that before 1861 Mississippi was the most prosperous state in the Union and Natchez was home to more millionaires than any other city in the United States. By the time the massive killing of White Men by other White Men ended in 1865, Mississippi, Georgia, North Carolina, South Carolina and other Southern states lay in ruins, much as did Dresden, Hamburg and the rest of Germany after WW II, and as does Baghdad today.

(b) A second benefit the Jews derived from this insane and cruel war was the destruction of the flower of White manhood in the North and especially in the South, thereby promoting the Jews' eternal goal — that of drastically pulling down the quality of the White gene pool.

The casualty figures are staggering for this young nation with a limited population. The total Union casualties were 359,528 of which number 110,070 were killed in battle or died of wounds, 224,586 died of disease, and 24,872 of other causes. This does not include the hundreds of thousands that were maimed and crippled for the rest of their life.

The Confederate Army, which was only about one-third the size of the Union forces, suffered much heavier casualties percentage wise. Small towns found their young male population virtually wiped out. For example, the 14th Tennessee Battalion marched out of Clarksville with 960 soldiers in 1861. By the beginning of the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863, 360 were left. By sunset, only 60 stood. By battle's end, there were only three survivors.

Although there are no complete records available of the Confederate casualties, the numbers were brutal and massive, inflicting a devastating blow to the White gene pool, from which the South has never recovered.

(c) It firmly re-established Jewish money power, centralized on the Eastern seaboard, and now extending unchallenged over all of the United States.

We must remember that the Jews were able to establish all these gains by brute force only because of the killing, bleeding and dying of the befuddled and misguided White soldiers in the field of battle.

Case No. Two: World War I. This was the first and greatest worldwide conflagration up to that time, in which all the major White nations of the world participated in killing, wholesale slaughter and mass devastation of their own kind of people. Now, some seventy or eighty years later, no scholarly historian has yet come forth and stated one single solitary reason that makes any sense as to why the White nations plunged into such an inane and self-destructive pursuit.

At the turn of the century, it was Germany, located in the heart of Europe and thirty years earlier united under Bismark, that was the up and coming White nation. It was the natural and most progressive leading nation in Europe. For this reason, it was deemed as a threat to Jewish power, and the Kehilla decided it had to be destroyed, the same as they had decided the South had to be devastated some fifty years earlier.

Again, it was the American doughboys and American productivity that was thrown in the balance and turned the tide in the favor of Jewish money power. Despite the fact that more than 30% of the American population itself at that time was of German ancestry, America went to war and helped to smash Germany. It was not an "Allied" victory, nor a White victory, but purely a Jewish victory. Most of the European nations lay prostrate, their economies ruined, disease and famine stalking the land, and Jewish Communism taking over the largest country in the world.

In this case, we must again remember, it was the idiotic naivete of the American goy that turned the tide in favor of the Jews.

Case No. Three: World War II. Despite the Jewish devastation and bankruptcy of Germany, these energetic and resourceful people pulled themselves together and a great leader emerged. Despite runaway inflation, despite tyrannical and impossible "reparations" and war debts imposed by the victors (Jews), the German people survived their catastrophic defeat and by the 1930's, under the leadership of that great genius Adolf Hitler, emerged as the most prosperous and powerful nation in the world. Despite the spreading cancer of communism in other nations, despite worldwide depression (we must remember that even the United States at this time was wallowing in its worst depression of all time), yet the Germans got their act together and prospered. Not only prospered but they thoroughly cleaned house. They drove the communists out of Germany, they drove the Jewish money power out of their economy and they drove the Jews themselves out of the professions, out of their educational system and out of their government. It was a historic case of the White Race systematically taking control of their own destiny and getting the world's most pernicious parasite off their back. Furthermore, it was a classic model of what the other White nations viewed with envy and were eager to emulate.

It was indeed a major threat and the most dangerous crisis the Jews had faced in the last two thousand years of their history. The decision came down from the Kehilla: Adolf Hitler and Germany had to be destroyed!

Again, it was the American goy that came to the rescue of the Jews. Suddenly, depression or no depression, the tremendous industrial strength of the American nation was thrown into high gear to produce vast quantities of war materials — a multitude of weapons for mass destruction. Whom did America (?) want to destroy? Why, the Germans, of course! As all the world now knows, and is reminded daily, it was the American military might that destroyed Germany in 1945 and blasted their cities into rubble.

What interest did the American people have in destroying Germany? None whatsoever. In fact, a third of the White Americans themselves were of German ancestry, as I have already pointed out.

The White goy did it all to save the neck of the Jewish parasite and to restore Jewish money power worldwide, including Germany. Now, as we near the end of the 20th century, we find that this same Jewish parasite has ominously turned its demonical powers towards the destruction of the White Race itself, the very patsy that saved its neck only two generations ago. Today the Jew is furiously hell bent to bringing in the Mexicans, the Koreans, the Filipinos, the Vietnamese, the Nicaraguans, the Chinese and all the scum and mud people of the world in order to overwhelm and outbreed the White people of this once pristine land.

Case No. Four: Israel and the Rape of Palestine in 1948. We have already chronicled the bastardized beginnings of the parasitic bandit state of Israel in 1948, when the overwhelming population of that area was still Arab and Palestinian. In Issue No. 36 of Racial Loyalty and the first chapter of RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours, we tell the story of how Jewish money power and Jewish rapacity took over a major piece of Palestinian territory that had been Arab for more than 1300 years. Nevertheless, when the Jews proclaimed their bastard state in 1948, the United States, under President Harry Truman, virtually broke its neck to be the first to recognize this foul and ill-begotten state, and again it was the United States who led the way in the United Nations to give its blessing to this criminal atrocity.

Case No. Five: Korea. By the late 1940's and early 1950's when "America" acted as if it was alarmed about the worldwide spread of Communism, it made two major decisions. One was that it was going to act as the world's policeman, whether the other countries liked it or not, and secondly, they would supply foreign aid to some 120 countries of the world, whether they needed it or not.

Korea was the first postwar country in which the United States decided it would flex its military muscles. What interest did we have in this backward mud country half a world away? None whatsoever. Our excuse was another blatant lie, namely "to stop Communist aggression." It was phoney as hell, since only a few years earlier in World War II the United States had saved not only the Jews, but also Jewish communism in its home base of Russia. In fact, it was American economic aid and military power that had surreptitiously promoted communism throughout the world before and after that calamitous war. Now we were committing our troops and resources to fight a phoney no-win war in Korea. Absolutely insane.

What did the Jews gain from this war? It set the pattern and greatly helped to weaken and drain the now dominant White superpower of the world — the United States. It also killed, maimed and crippled tens of thousands of young White men in the prime of their manhood, and left us with the commitment of a highly costly army of occupation in that country over the last forty years.

Case No. Six: Vietnam. The build-up for the Vietnam war started slowly during the Kennedy regime in the early 1960's. After Kennedy was himself assassinated by the Jewish Mossad on November 22, 1963, and Jewish stooge Lyndon Johnson took over, the troop build-up accelerated rapidly. I personally remember listening to Johnson's State of the Union message in which he categorically stated, "We do not want to win, we just want to show that aggression does not pay." For moral reasons even more idiotic than previous Jew-instigated wars, the build-up continued until it reached a massive 500,000 American boys in the stinking jungles of Vietnam. Nobody knew why they were there, dying and bleeding, neither the soldiers in the field, nor the taxpayers at home who were footing the bill. Anti-war demonstrations abounded at home and abroad.

How much did this stupid war cost the American people? The long-term costs, including on-going pensions to the disabled veterans and also their dependents undoubtedly run into the hundreds of billions. We know that at least 67,000 American boys were killed, some 300,000 wounded and maimed, and tens of thousands more were left to slowly die of cancer induced by the use of Agent Orange to "defoliate" the jungle. It is my unswerving conclusion that the Jews knew exactly what in the hell they were doing and sprayed this carcinogenic chemical substance on our troops deliberately to wreak the insidious damage that in fact it did.

What secret reasons did the Jews have to stage this pointless and idiotic war? It further helped to cripple the U.S. economy and tremendously increase the debt of the American people to the Jew-owned "Federal" Reserve. Again, it killed thousands of White Americans in the flower of their manhood, as stated above, and wrecked the education and careers of a whole generation. It also divided the country and left a legacy of shame and guilt that will last for generations. However, the main purpose of the Vietnam war was to divert the attention of White Americans from the Jew-orchestrated "civil rights" revolution which firmly established the Jewish control of Washington and signified the beginning of the open and systematic destruction of White America through punitive taxation, forced busing, affirmative action, mud immigration and subsidization of the black demographic explosion.

Case No. Seven: the Gulf War. We have already reviewed the hypocrisy, treason and deceit leading up to our insane entrance into the Gulf War and sending 550,000 of our troops to the hot desert sands of Saudi Arabia. We have done so in the last three issues of Racial Loyalty.

Despite the United States being the largest debtor in the world, despite our economy wallowing in depression, despite the more than 350 billion dollar deficit in the current budget year, Bushwhacker Bush was non-plussed and found ample money to stage this incredibly pointless war. What is it costing? Well, like the Vietnam war, it will run into the hundreds of billions, and its maintenance is admittedly a billion dollars a day.

Why are we there? Bush and his lackeys have come up with a number of spurious and shifting reasons, but like those of Vietnam, they are all phoney as hell. The real reason our military might has been placed on the desert sands of Saudi Arabia is to protect the world's Number One parasite — the Jewish bandit state of Israel.

We see a repeat of the same brutality and destruction that characterized General Sherman's march through Georgia. The burning of Atlanta, the destructive march upward through South Carolina and North Carolina, burning cities and estates and laying waste to plantations and farms as they went along. We see a repetition of the brutality of bombing of cities like Hamburg, Dresden and hundreds of others into rubble and the killing of at least 50 million White people during World War II. It was, and is indeed, an ongoing process of the Jewish Purim — kill, burn, destroy the goyim.

Conclusion

Is there nothing that will stop the Jewish juggernaut from rolling onwards and destroying our world and our precious race? Yes, there is and the only power on earth that can stop the further depredations of the Jewish tyrant is the White Race, and only the White Race. Informed, aroused and united the White Race can make short shrift of the insidious and deceitful Jewish monster.

The Jews have accomplished the enslavement and mastery of the world through their parasitic and deceitful religion — Judaism. In order that we, the White Race, can build a more powerful counterforce to overcome this deadly virus we need to arouse and unite our own people by means of a powerful religion of our own. We need a revolution of values! We need to throw overboard the deceitful Jewish values that have been imposed upon us by Jewish Christianity (love your enemies, turn the other cheek, sell all thou hast and give it to the niggers) and put into its place the eternal wisdom of the Laws of Nature for our own survival, expansion and advancement. (We are soon coming out with another book — A Revolution of Values Through Religion.) In Creativity we have the whole framework, the winning formula. We have the Total Program, the Final Solution, the Ultimate Creed. We now need to promote the hell out of our program already in place and inform, arouse and organize our own resources for our own best interests.

White Man, be a servile, stupid goy no longer! Vow never again to be harnessed into the Jewish yoke! Become a militant Creator and help destroy the Jewish monster that is now feeding upon us. DELENDA EST JUDAICA!

Take action! Join the COTC, NOW!

Issue No. 70 — May 1991

Let's get our definitions straight

We must learn to distinguish clearly between our Friends, our Enemies, and the Mugwumps

Nature, in her infinite wisdom, has endowed each living creature with a built-in characteristic called instinct. This characteristic embodies the collective wisdom of that particular creature's experiences in the struggle for survival throughout the millions of years when that species developed its own identity differentiating it from other nearby species. Included in this outstanding mechanism is the ability to instinctively recognize its enemies on sight, without these enemies necessarily wearing an identification card.

All birds, animals and other creatures have this instinct. The human species, too, has it. If by chance of domestication, change of environment or domicile they lose it, then that species is rapidly on the down-hill slide to oblivion and extinction. It has happened to thousands of species that are now extinct.

Having been brought up on the farm in Saskatchewan, Canada, I can recall plenty of such examples as I observed birds and animals, both wild and domesticated, in their natural habitat. I recall, for instance, how the lowly chicken, no brave bird, knew how to protect her brood. Should a chicken hawk be winging overhead in the yard, the mother hen would immediately spot it, sound a screeching alarm to her flock of little chicks, and all would scoot for cover as quickly as possible. In contrast, should a crow, or a flock of wild ducks, or any other large or small bird be flying over the yard, it would not so much as raise a chicken's eyebrow.

Similarly with the prairie dogs, which proliferated in our pastures. If a hawk would be flying overhead, they would run for cover, their holes in the ground. But prairie dogs have a host of other enemies that consider them as fair game for a square meal, such as coyotes, badgers, and even weasels. Now a weasel is about the size and shape of a prairie dog, but slightly larger in body, and much more ferocious. However, those little prairie dogs had no problem in distinguishing a weasel from one of their own, and would run like hell if they saw or even smelled one. (Weasels do have a peculiar odor of their own.) Interestingly enough, I do remember one instance where a weasel intruded into a prairie dog town, and three brave prairie dogs pounced on it and attacked it.

We now come to that one species of animal life that we are particularly concerned about, namely Nature's Finest. Does the White Man still have his instincts intact whereby he can distinguish between his friends, his enemies and those in between that are neither? Giving close scrutiny to the history of the White Race over the last century, it would seem that the White Race has either completely lost its ability to recognize its enemies, or wantonly abandoned and destroyed such instinct.

Undoubtedly, as the human species developed over a period of millions of years, it developed as strong an instinct for self-preservation as any other animal. Even the dumb niggers still have it, the Japanese still have it, the Jews still have it (do they ever!), but, strangely, only the White Race, it seems, has lost it.

How could this be? How could Nature's most intelligent, most creative, most productive creature of all, have lost its instinct for survival, that most vital of all natural mechanisms? Have we really lost it, or has it merely been temporarily subverted, submerged and stifled by an overwhelming dose of bad propaganda?

I am convinced that the latter is the case, and for this we can squarely lay the blame on Nature's most deadly parasite of all — the perfidious and slimy Jew. Aiding them in this process of subverting and deadening our natural instinct for survival has been their most treacherous ally, Christianity, and its horde of spook peddlers, most of whom are White.

It is the sacred mission of the Church of the Creator to reverse this process. We are determined to revive and re-awaken the White Man's healthy instincts for survival of his own kind, to protect his women folk from the filthy marauding niggers, and to expose and destroy the sinister anti-White conspiracy of the treacherous Jews. It is our goal to get all those deadly enemies of the White Race from off our back and from out of our midst, thereby enabling the White Man to again regain control of his own destiny.

We are morally, religiously, politically and naturally entitled to do just that. Not only are we entitled to do so, but we are morally obligated to do so. Who says so? Nature, in her infinite wisdom, tells us we must do no less. We need no further sanction. Nature is the highest authority and total justification. It is our birthright, and Creativity has the winning formula with which to do the job.

So let us carefully, deliberately and explicitly identify and designate our enemies, our friends, and the mugwumps in between.

Our Enemies

A. First of all, our enemies, more or less in their respective order of menace, danger and deadly viciousness:

1. Without a doubt, at the head of the list of enemies in the White Man's fight for survival we must place Nature's most pervasive parasite — the sinister and treacherous Jew. For thousands of years this pernicious branch of the human species has infested and infected Nature's finest civilizations — the Egyptians, the Babylonians, the Greeks, the Romans, the present White European civilization. Like a fungus on the brain, it has spread from the inside and destroyed them all. It is today destroying the once great American civilization, and successfully mongrelizing it into chaos and oblivion.

2. Secondly, we must identify and indict a sickness that has engulfed the brain of the White Race, namely Jewish Christianity. Without this Jewish invention (read again Marcus Eli Ravage's article Confessions of a Jew on page 305 of the White Man's Bible) the Jews would long ago have become exposed, defeated and passed into oblivion. Without a doubt, Christianity has been the most deadly and pervasive mind-scrambler in the White Man's history. Over the last 2000 years it has been the most powerful weapon the Jews have developed in their long conspiracy of destroying the White Race.

3. The niggers and other mud people. Until the aftermath of World War II, only less than 50 years ago, the niggers and other mud races were only an insignificant threat on the far distant horizon, as far as the future survival of the White Race was concerned. Today, however, as we near the end of the 20th century, the ever swelling flood of mud peoples into the United States, into (once great) Britain, into Australia, and into most other White countries has become a rushing tide of evil that seems to be unstoppable. This anti-White mud flood is instigated by the Jews and used as their most powerful battering ram in their age-old obsession to mongrelize and destroy the great White Race. It is now a clear and present menace. Can we stop it? Yes, if we arouse, organize and unify the White Race. This we definitely can (and must!) do. Creativity and only Creativity has the winning formula to do the job.

4. JOG — (our acronym for the Jewish Occupational Government) that sits astride the White Race and at the head of this once great country. It is, of course, a conglomerate combination of the three previously listed evils, but strangely enough the JOG has in its make-up a predominantly large number of White people — cowards, race-traitors and dupes.

5. We can add a whole laundry list of subordinate offshoots of the four above named evils, such as the IRS, the CIA, the FBI, the Federal Reserve, the communists, the liberals, the masons, the homosexuals, the feminists and a whole plethora of lesser evils. However, they are more the consequences, the symptoms and the tentacles of the monster, rather than the prime cause. Once we take care of those first four, all our other problems will be child's play.

Our Friends

B. Our Friends. Let me say that at present the numbers of our enemies far exceed those of our friends. We have aligned against us, the Church of the Creator and the White Race, all the major power structures of the world. We have already enumerated those evil forces — the Jews, the Christians, the mud races and the JOG, as well as those in Category No. 5. However, we have one major ace-in-the-hole: potentially with and for us are 500 million of Nature's most intelligent and valiant people — the White Race. We the White Race are the best fighters, the best producers and we are even the best organizers. Once informed, aroused and united, no force on earth can stop us. It is just that our minds have been terribly confused by the Jews' pernicious mind-scrambler — Christianity, and we have tragically lacked control and direction.

Our tremendous ingenuity, energy and productivity has been directed to self-destructive goals against our own best interests and to the benefit of our most deadly enemies.

But now we have direction, we have our own goals, we have our own battle plan. We will play the stupid patsy no more. We now have Creativity, the Beacon of Hope and Salvation for the White Race. We will now settle for no less than total control of our own destiny, and never rest until we, the precious White Race, inhabit all the benevolent lands of this Planet Earth. It is all embodied in our battle cry — RAHOWA! THIS PLANET IS ALL OURS!

The Mugwumps

C. Let us now take a closer look at that polyglot conglomerate that is somewhere in between our enemies and our friends. By and large, the mugwump-type individuals and groups we are talking about are racially oriented, are pro-White, but from there on out they wander off into a diversity of counter-productive directions that cannot and never will produce any effective solution. We have pretty well described them in Racial Loyalty No. 1 in the article The Flat Tire Syndrome. Their main stock in trade is to endlessly re-hash history, analyze and re-analyze, discuss and re-discuss the problem, but never come up with any meaningful solution. On top of that they drag along some useless, counter-productive ballast that we have also described in the article Self-Imposed Handicap (See Expanding Creativity, Page 89.) Their main forte is to deplore and lament, bitch and gripe about the mess we are in, but never come up with any program or solution whereby we can solve the problems threatening our survival. In this category we can find the Identity Christians, the Klans, the Odinists, the Instaurationists, the Neo-Nazis and a host of other polyglot bitch and gripe exponents.

Lessons of History

We Creators look at the lessons of history in overcoming the Jewish monster, and we see that the only movement that has made a significant challenge to the Jewish juggernaut was Adolf Hitler's Nazi party in Germany during its sojourn between 1933 to 1945. Hitler during the 1930's covered a significant amount of ground in his own country of Germany in eradicating the Jews from power and out of the system. It was a bold and powerful beginning and from it we could and should learn much. We, of the Church of the Creator, have learned much and taken these lessons to heart. The lessons we have learned are as follows:

1. One of the most glaring weaknesses of National Socialism was Nationalism per se. It pitted White Man against White Man, and culminated in World War II where White Men killed other White Men (the Jews' most cherished dream) to the tune of 50 million. We White Racial Loyalists — Creators say: never again! We reject National Socialism and replace it with Racial Socialism which embraces all the White peoples of the Planet Earth into one powerful battering ram against the Jews and mud races. This is our resolute and unwavering goal and program.

2. Hitler never had the nerve, nor the opportunity to confront Jewish Christianity head on, and thereby ignored destroying the Jews' most powerful and insidious weapon. We maintain that unless and until this pernicious mind-scrambler is thoroughly exposed and completely demolished we will never be able to unite all the White peoples and get the scurvy Jew off our back.

3. There are more lessons to be learned from the German Nazi experience, and we have listed them in Fundamental Differences (see Expanding Creativity, page 56.) But the main lesson we can learn from the German experience is that as long as there were hundreds of rival "Nationalist" parties abounding, none of them had any clout in taking over the government of Germany. It was not until the members of all these polyglot parties saw fit to join in Hitler's Nazi party that the Germans had the clout to take over their government and drive the Jews from power.

I exhort my fellow White Racial Comrades to take particular note of this lesson from history. As long as we here in America are stupid enough to collaborate in playing the Jews' treacherous game of Divide and Conquer, we will never be able to muster the necessary clout and power to win the racial war in this country.

Therefore, we urge every racially minded White Man and Woman to study the situation carefully and make up their minds as to what movement is more powerful than a well-structured White Racial Religion, and what movement is more complete, clear, comprehensive and logical than Creativity. The answer is absolutely clear — NONE! We therefore urge you, White Man and Woman: do not sit on the fence like a mugwump any longer! Make up your mind and take action! Join with us! Our goals are fixed, our creed and program are clear and complete — we have the Winning Formula! Take action, now! RAHOWA!

Language as a Weapon of Jewish Conspiracy from the sublime to collecting alien garbage

The Jews, in their ongoing racial war of annihilation against Nature's Finest, have used the technique of Divide and Conquer most effectively. They have divided and fragmented the White Race seventeen ways to Sunday, but the three main divisive wedges have historically been, and remain so today, namely language, nationalism and religion. Today we want to examine the Jews' fanatic drive to keep us divided by a polyglot plethora of different languages.

The Church of the Creator from its beginning has pointed out and advocated that we would be a thousand times better off if the White Race coalesced and polarized around one universal language. Furthermore, we have strongly campaigned that our overwhelming choice is that greatest of all White languages, namely Latin. We make this choice for several solid reasons, all of which we have already explained and will repeat again before the end of this article.

* * * * *

Recently there appeared an extensive article in The Atlanta Constitution entitled "Most of world's languages saying goodbye forever." A second article accompanying the first was entitled "Vanishing Languages" and under it a major subtitle "Linguists: Rescue efforts made from Alaska to steamy jungles."

The articles went into great detail bewailing such tidbits as: "In Rock Hill, South Carolinian, there is an Indian "Chief" by the name of Gilbert Blue, poor fellow, who has forgotten how to speak his "native" language of Catawba, which vanished with the death of his grandfather." What will these poor goddamned Indians do without their Catawba? The article continues "From the hardscrabble hills of South Carolina's Catawba Indian reservation to thatch-roofed villages in Amazonia (South America), languages are being snuffed out at a record rate — victims of civilization's advance into once-isolated portions of the globe and the pervasive influence of radio and television."

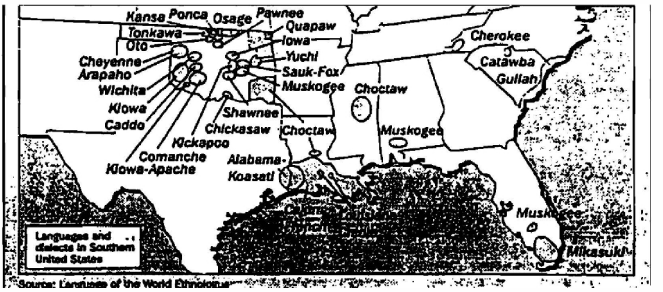
Existing languages

A dwindling number of world languages

More than 5,400 living languages are used around the globe, with nearly 160 in the United States, most of which are North American Indian. Linguists say dozens of languages and dialects are on the verge of extinction—languages like Yuchi, which is spoken by fewer than 50 people; Mandan, spoken by six people; and Osage, which is spoken by only five.



Source: Language of the World, Ethnologue

The article goes on to wring its hands about "disappearance of native language" in the Cherokee Indian Reservation at Cherokee, North Carolina. "Among 600 children I have taught last year," says Marie Junaluska, an Indian teacher at the Cherokee school, "I could only find six who could speak it." But, goddamn it, she is going to move heaven and earth (and huge sums of taxpayers' money!) in a desperate attempt to keep it alive.

The two articles go on to compile a stack of figures and charts about all the primitive languages of the world, from the jungles of the Amazon to the Indian reservations of Oklahoma, to the steamy jungles of New Guinea and Borneo. Not to be omitted, of course, are the passel of mumbo-jumbo languages of the savage niggers of Africa, some of which have an extensive vocabulary of as many as 45 words. They are, of course, oh, so precious!

The articles continue to deplore: "New language surveys suggest that the world is on the verge of a kind of linguistic holocaust, the rapid loss of diversity of human languages." They admit that most of these oh! so precious languages have never been reduced to written form. In short, they were nothing more than the stone-age mumbo-jumbo of some savage tribes which were too stupid to be able to organize their languages into written form. So now the White Man must come to the rescue!

One of such "language rescuers" is the Summer Institute of Linguistics at the University of Texas at Arlington. This project is under the direction of Dr. Thomas Headlong, and funded, of course, by White taxpayers' dollars. There are a number of others trying to "save" this vast collection of stone-age garbage, for what purpose, Christ only knows and he won't tell.

Below is a chart which displays a number of stone-age languages (troubled tongues) on a worldwide basis.

The view of the Church of the Creator regarding languages

Frankly, we care not a tiddle whether savages of the world speak, keep or lose their Babel of stone-age mumbo-jumbo. It is no concern of ours. Why any White Man, who is so indifferent about saving Nature's Finest specimen, should be so concerned about saving somebody else's obsolete garbage, is hard to understand. If these savages are too stupid to save their language and put it into written form, any effort on the part of the White Man is a lost cause in any case.

We Creators have no interest in increasing the "diversity" of thousands of different savage languages that are disappearing or still exist. On the contrary, we are primarily concerned about those languages that are spoken by our own racial kinsmen, the White Race, and even in this category we do not advocate an increase, but a worldwide unification of our spoken and written word.

Let us repeat a stark reality of the world in which we find ourselves. We are under the heel of a sinister Jewish tyranny, a conspiracy that is moving heaven and earth in order to destroy our precious White Race. They have been astoundingly successful, and unless we unite and destroy them first the White Race will be "saying goodbye forever." One of the most effective techniques that has enabled the Jews to succeed in this anti-White campaign is their "Divide and Conquer" trickery. As I have stated innumerable times before, the three most devastating forces dividing the White Race have been for centuries and are today — religion, nationality and language. Therefore, if we are ever to get our act together, to arouse, unify and organize the White Race into a powerful battering ram, we do not need more languages, or "greater diversity." We need to unify the White Race.

* * * * *

As I read The Atlanta Constitution year after year, I have noticed this Jew-run newspaper repeatedly chortling about how "multi-cultural" Atlanta is becoming — why, it has such a "diversity" of racial, ethnic, religious and linguistic groups, and is becoming more international every day, until now it is probably the most "diverse" and "international" city in the United States, they say, and isn't it great? No, it is not great! Atlanta has a super-abundance of native grown niggers, as well as large numbers of mud immigrants: Vietnamese, Haitians, Nicaraguans, Mexicans, Cubans, Pakistanis, Hindus and every stripe of Asiatics imaginable. Does this make for peace and prosperity? No, indeed, on the contrary. Atlanta has the largest crime rate in the country, next to that nigger enclave called Washington, D.C. As I have said any number of times before, a polyglot society has in it the seeds of dissolution and anarchy, and is impossible to govern. And so it is with Atlanta. What used to be a cultural and prosperous White city, is now going down the sump hole of anarchy at a rapid clip. But what is happening to Atlanta is also happening to every other major metropolis and city of the United States.

* * * * *

So we come back to Square One. What the White Race needs is not more fractured diversity, but instead we need to coalesce and unify. Instead of our misguided intellectuals wasting their time and the taxpayers' money in chasing down the thousands of useless stone-age mumbo-jumbo and trying to put it in writing and on tapes, they would serve humanity a thousand times more usefully if they would spend that same amount of time, energy and money in promoting Latin to our own White Racial kinsmen.

There is only one way to go and that is for the White Race to unify under one religion, namely Creativity, and under one language, namely Latin, civilization's finest and most prestigious language of all time.

We choose Latin for the following reasons:

(a) It is the best organized, perfectly phonetic and most effective of all languages.

(b) It has more tradition, culture and history imbedded in it than any other language.

(c) It is a neutral language in the fact that none of the major nations of the world can claim exclusivity on this language. It would therefore evoke less bickering and jealousy from rival nations than if a major modern language, such as French, English or German, were chosen.

(d) Most of our basic terms in the field of medicine, law, zoology, biology, botany, anthropology and other sciences are even today imbedded in Latin.

But most important of all, the Latin language of the great ancient White Roman civilization embraces all the greatness of the best in the achievements of the White Race over the last twenty-four centuries, or for that matter, for all time. The best principles of bravery, warfare, organization, political science, government, law, art and civilization are all symbolized in this great language as in no other. In fact, renewed studies of classical Latin during the Renaissance period helped to awaken Europe out of the Dark Ages, and Latin remained the universal language of all educated Europeans until the Jew-orchestrated "French Revolution" of 1789 divided Europe into a polyglot of language-based "nations." In view of the rapidly approaching threat of genetic extinction, all White nations of the world must put Racial Loyalty above National Loyalty, and unite into a worldwide WHITE RACIAL COMMUNITY with one White Racial Religion (Creativity) and one White Racial Language (Latin).

The White Race of today, what is left of it, can be mighty proud of the heritage handed down to us by the Ancient Romans and their prestigious language, Classical Latin. Let us not allow the Jews to drag it into the dirt and trade it off for some bastardized facsimile that passes for a "modern" language.

Classical Latin is the perfect choice. It is the only way to go if we are ever to unite, arouse and organize our now dying race.

RAHOWA! TOTAL WHITE VICTORY!

Saul, a Jewish Pharisee Rabbi, the Prime Instigator of Christianity

The official story of Christianity, as told by the Christian preachers, goes something like this:

Nearly two thousand years ago, in the year 1 C.E. (Common Era), a spirit called the Holy Ghost, a member of the Holy Trinity, descended upon a Jewish woman by the name of Mary. Although at the time she was married to a Jewish fellow by the name of Joseph, this weird story claims that nevertheless she was a virgin when the Holy Ghost impregnated her and got her pregnant. (Question: Was this the first and only sexual involvement between the Holy Ghost and a human, or were there others? Was this strictly a one-night stand?) The result of this copulation was a bastard son, a hybrid, half-human and half ghost, if you can imagine such a freakish creature. He was named Jesus after the eighth day when he was circumcised, according to Jewish custom.

To follow the life of this hybrid from the story in the Jewish New Testament, little is known about this cross-bred freak for the next 30 years. This is extremely strange, since he claimed to be the son of God, or the Holy Ghost, or the Holy Trinity, take your choice. Anyway, at the age of 30, in a sudden burst of Messianic fervor, he began preaching his strange message, namely that he was the son of God (the Jewish Yahweh, of course) and he now repudiated the harsh code of the old man and came to preach a new message of his own. That message basically was that he had come to save all of us lousy sinners from that fiery sulphurous pit, that horrible torture chamber — also known as hell — to which most of humanity was to be relegated. This horrible fiery pit had evidently been constructed at the time of Creation some 4000 years earlier. At that time, the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost (who are really all one, and had existed from time eternal) also created heaven and earth, and also mankind, the latter seemingly as an afterthought.

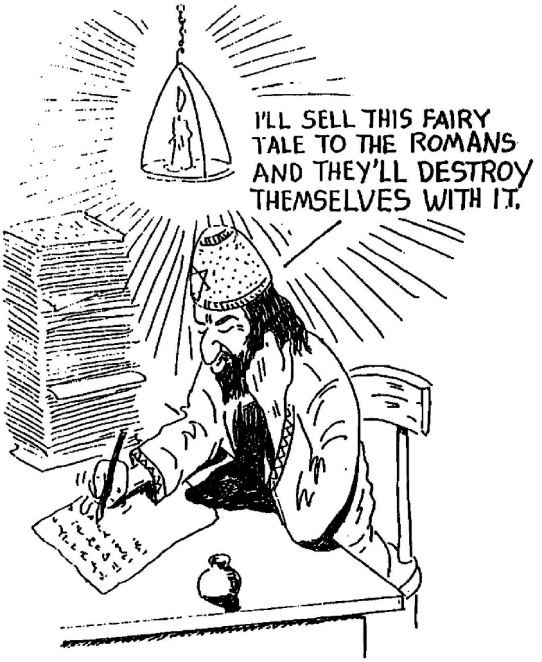
The question as to why they created this horrible, sadistic torture chamber of hellfire, and then followed this up 4000 years later by launching a program for fervently saving us poor mortals from suffering eternal agony in it, is never explained. Nor has it ever been explained why, some 2000 years later, this stupid program of salvation has been an utter failure. Obviously he/it/they could have avoided this horrible problem by never building the goddamned monstrosity in the first place, or having made a boo-boo, demolished it as quickly as possible. But they did neither, and according to one fervent evangelist by the name of Edgar C. Whisenant (See RL #58) 39 billion people are going to wind up in it, to be tortured forever and a day. According to him, only one billion are going to heaven, come Judgment Day.

But to get back to our story of the now hyped-up Saviour at the age of 30. For three high-pressured years he roamed the countryside in Palestine preaching to all and sundry: The end is near! Unless you repent and believe in me that I am your Saviour, you are all going to hell! You are going to burn, baby, burn! Repent! Repent!

After three years of this kind of high-powered promotion, he was condemned to death by crucifixion at the demand of the Jewish mob. For this the Jews have been accused by the Christians as being Christ-killers for the last 1900 years, until recently Pope John Paul II, being in cahoots with the Jews, revised the official line and let the Jews off the hook.

However, the story does not end with the hanging on the cross. In fact, it now takes a strange twist. Three days after Christ was taken down from the cross and interred in a tomb, he walked out, fresh as a daisy, flew straight upward into heaven to be with his father (and the holy ghost, presumably) from whence he had come, and with whom he "was one." Evidently he had carried off his performance according to the script as composed by himself, his father, and not to be forgotten — the Holy Ghost. His job of salvation was completed, and if us dumb clucks didn't take it from there, that was our tough luck.

I'LL SELL THIS FAIRY TALE TO THE ROMANS AND THEY'LL DESTROY THEMSELVES WITH IT.



SAUL... THE INSTIGATOR OF THE MADNESS CALLED CHRISTIANITY.

They could burn in hellfire for all eternity, and it would damn well serve them right.

Weird story? Not only weird, but stupid as hell!

Who concocted this strange and garbled story? Did a fellow by the name of Jesus Christ really walk the sands of Palestine some 1900 years ago and preach this strange stuff? Not likely, since there is not the slightest shred of historical evidence that such a character ever existed then, or later. If not Christ, then who did put this jumbled and garbled story together and promote it to the masses, until today there are more than a billion confused and duped followers who believe this deranged story, more or less.

About twenty years ago I started investigating the early beginnings of Christianity from what sources of legitimate history had to say about it. To my surprise, my encyclopedia, and other sources of scholarly information, shamefacedly admitted there was no actual "historicity" for the life of Jesus Christ, but only the religious "scriptures" and their unsubstantiated claims. In short, no historical evidence, only claims, not unlike the story of Santa Claus or Mother Goose. If there was no Jesus Christ, then it follows that he obviously could not have had twelve disciples to spread his teachings. No Christ, no teachings, no disciples.

Then who did put this story together and promoted it to the world to become one of its major religions?

A good question. The evidence points strongly to a Jewish rabbi by the name of Saul of Tarsus, who later was elevated to sainthood by the Christians to become St. Paul. It was this scurvy, slimy and perfidious Jew who, with the help of other Jewish rabbis, initiated, concocted and promoted the suicidal creed of Christianity with the express purpose of undermining and destroying the magnificent White Roman Civilization.

The story of "St." Paul is almost as fantastic as the story of the "Crucified Saviour" himself, with one major difference. Whereas Christ never wrote a single word, left no letters, essays or manuscripts to prove that he said anything, there is ample evidence that this hyper, souped-up Jew rabbi Saul of Tarsus not only did plenty of preaching, organizing and proselytizing, but left an ample supply of letters for posterity to back his activities. In fact, the numerous so-called Pauline Epistles, written to the Romans, the Corinthians, the Galatians, the Ephesians, the Colossians, and the Thessalonians some time during the latter part of the first century, make up 83 pages of the "New" Testament, or about 30% of its total contents.

As to who wrote Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, nobody really knows, nor is there any evidence that such characters ever existed. Evidently their garbled and contradictory stories originated from some earlier "Crucified Saviour" stories, sixteen of such being on record from earlier religions. It seems that most of the highly touted principles of "Christian morality" — such as "love your enemy," "turn the other cheek," "give everything to the niggers," "do not judge," "take no care of tomorrow," etc., — were plagiarized from the teachings of the suicidal Jewish sect of Essenes.

But let us now focus on this fellow Saul, and see what he did and why he did it.

In this respect, we have an excellent essay and analysis written by another Jew, namely Marcus Eli Ravage, in modern times. His article appeared in the February 1928 issue of Century Magazine, and I have reprinted his analysis verbatim, starting on Page 305 of the White Man's Bible.

Ravage says, in effect, that Saul of Tarsus was obsessed with hatred of the world conquering Romans who ruled most of the civilized world in the First Century, C.E., including the small Jewish province of Palestine. When, in order to subdue the rebellious Jews, the Roman General Titus leveled Jerusalem to the ground, it became Saul's burning obsession to find ways and means to seek revenge and destroy the proud and haughty Romans, and bring their Empire down in ruins. But how?

Finally Saul hit upon a brilliant idea. He would do it by means of religion. He would feed them a self-destructive religion whereby they, the Romans, could commit genocide by their own initiative — a tall order, indeed. Where could he find such a religion?

He already had such a religion, made-to-order for the job he had in mind. The Essenes had just such a religion that they had practiced for the last century and half, and it was effectively destroying the very people who practiced it. Why not promote and feed this poison to the Romans? Why not, indeed? Saul went at it with a vengeance, and gaining the cooperation of the whole Jewish Kehilla, he soon got the operation into high gear. He did not live to see the phenomenal success of his conspiracy, but I am sure it surpassed his fondest dreams, and the rest is history. By the year 476 C.E., the once proud and mighty Roman Empire lay in shambles, and the once superb Roman gene pool had been dissipated and mongrelized among a welter of alien races.

When I included the Pauline saga back in the late 1970's in the White Man's Bible, it was too fantastic for most people's credibility, but the powerful evidence that such were the early origins of Christianity were too overwhelming to be ignored. The undeniable historical evidence is beginning to seep more and more even into the so-called "mainstream" publications.

In the April 22, 1991, issue of U.S. News and World Report appears an in-depth article called "The Momentous Mission of the Apostle Paul." It says in effect that it was the tent-maker, Saul of Tarsus, trained in the Pharisaic rabbinical school of Judaism, who was the real originator and spark plug of Christianity. Whereas he at first opposed the new suicidal religion the Essenes were promoting, in a flash of brilliance he turned the poisonous brew into a masterly campaign of virulence to the advantage of the Jews. U.S. News and World Report asks the question: Where would Christianity be without Paul? Where, indeed?

There is one major issue that this U.S. News and World Report article, unlike Marcus Eli Ravage, seeks to camouflage, and that is that this Jew Saul did it all out of the goodness of his heart in order to save souls for Christ... Being a Pharisaic rabbi who hated Romans, Greeks and all other Whites with a passion, "the goodness of heart" motivation seems highly incredible. Ravage's conclusion that Saul did what he did out of revenge and hatred for the Romans makes a thousand times more sense.

One thing both articles agree on is that Jew rabbi Saul of Tarsus was one hell of a slick promoter and organizer. By the way, his favorite saying was: "I am all things to all men." Looking back on the subsequent events of history, there can be little doubt that this Pharisaic Jew rabbi, Saul of Tarsus, did indeed do one hell of an effective job. I will let the reader judge for himself whether he did it out of love or out of malice. Knowing the malevolent, vengeful and sadistic nature of the inventors of the concept of hell, there is little room for doubt in my mind as to what it was that motivated the real founder of Christianity, Jew rabbi Saul of Tarsus.

It is high time for the White Race to reject the Jew-concocted suicidal Christianity and embrace the true White Racial Religion — Creativity. Delenda est Judaica! RAHOWA!

Before the shooting ever starts

We Must First Win the Propaganda War

In every vicious campaign of destruction the Jews have ever launched, they have had the foresight to first wage an intensive and unrelenting war of words. This they have done consistently throughout their history, and this they are pursuing today more fiercely and fervently than ever.

For example, before unleashing the "allied" armed forces to destroy Hitler and Germany, the Jews first set in motion a vicious and unrelenting campaign of hatred against Hitler personally, and secondly, against everything German. In this they used every dirty trick in the book, not the least of which were the churches and religion, and above all, their clergy. After they had the goyim's brains mashed into putty, then they were ready to follow through with the heavy artillery, tanks, bombers and battleships.

When they wanted to destroy Saddam Hussein and Iraq, they followed the same modus operandi. We all remember the vicious hatred that was suddenly ignited and spewed forth against Saddam and Iraq. It was spearheaded by the Jews' most ardent servant and Zionist mouthpiece, Bushwhacker George Bush, the President of the United States. Once the war fever was considered as having been sufficiently heated up, then the heavy bombers and tanks moved in and smashed Iraq into a mass of rubble. This, despite the fact that only a few months earlier, this same president had ostensibly backed Iraq as one of our favored allies in the Middle East.

The same procedure of lies and propaganda is being pursued by the Jews and the JOG (Jewish Occupational Government) here in the United States against the White people themselves, the very people who pay most of the taxes and do most of the work. For example, in order to pass the pro-nigger, pro-Jew, anti-White Civil Rights Acts (so-called) of the 1960's, the Jews and the JOG instituted a fierce and diabolical propaganda campaign, an ongoing campaign that is still in full fury today. Concomitant with this major campaign there are, in fact, a whole passel of secondary smear campaigns running alongside the mainstream, aimed at legitimizing such measures as taking the peoples' guns away from them, forced busing, forced integration, confiscatory taxation, subsidizing the niggers and the rest of the scum of the world — the list is too long to recapitulate here. But they are all aimed at the destruction of Nature's Finest — the White Race. Let us state the bottom line — all are designated to lay the groundwork for the destruction and/or mongrelization of the White Race, both here in America and throughout the world. That is, and remains, the prime goal of the Jew's war against the goyim.

In short, there is an ongoing, unrelenting war for the minds of men being waged, night and day, year after year. Most of all, the prize target is mind of the White Man.

But more than one can play this game of propaganda, and there are in fact a number of other players in the game. There are even others besides the Jews who are successful. Let us review again what happened in Iran in the last few decades. Before we do so, let us clarify one case in point. When we speak of "America" and "American policy," we must make it clear that such policy is not that of the American people at all, least of all the White American people. America and the manipulation of its policy is totally in the hands of Israel and the Zionist Jews. Such policy is not designed for the benefit of America at all, but rather for its destruction, for the protection of Israel and the benefit of worldwide Jewry.

Having made this clear, let us proceed further with the Iranian affair. In so doing, we want to illustrate the superior power of religious ideology over a political organization when the two face confrontation.

* * * * *

For most of the 19th century and well into the 20th century the imperialist powers of Europe zealously staked their colonial claims in Africa and the Middle East. Until 1945 the foreign powers dominating Iran were basically Russia and Britain. Whereas Russia was mainly interested in territorial expansion, Britain had several different interests. These were basically in expanding markets for British exports, and establishing a land bridge to their massive colony of India. Later, as rich oil resources were discovered in Iran, the British interests concentrated on capturing and exploiting those fabulous resources for themselves.

Up to this time, for most of the colonial powers, such as Britain, France, Holland, etc., the prime interest in overseas colonies lay in exploiting their natural resources and the cheap labor of these backward peoples. In this respect I want to make it clear that benefits of such exploitation accrued basically to the large corporations and cartels who developed these overseas trade channels, but few, if any, benefits were shared by the common people at home. This was pure national commercial imperialism.

After the end of World War II, a new, more powerful and pervasive imperialism began to emerge, a power structure whose interests were more focused and more international in scope. This alliance was basically Jewish in nature, utilizing and manipulating the newly emerging and military domination of the United States in world affairs. After the establishment of Israel in 1948, the Israeli-American alliance began to challenge and replace the dominance of British interests in Iran.

The Iranians had been intensely hostile to foreign domination of any kind, whether British, American or Israeli. Leading this opposition from the beginning had been the Moslem clergy, and as the struggle deepened the religious power structure became more vociferous and more fanatically mobilized.

* * * * *

Let us digress for a moment. It is interesting to note that religion also entered into the picture from the side of colonist expansion, as well as the resisters. I remember some of the German propaganda in the late 1930's accusing the British of acquiring their colonies by means of "the Bible, the check-book and with cannon." The Germans, who at that point in history had been stripped of their colonies, contended the British first invaded virgin territory with their missionaries preaching Christianity and trying to convert the natives. The next stage, after the missionaries were well established, came the mercenaries with their checkbooks, taking over land and resources. Next came the military with their cannons to consolidate and protect their commercial aggrandizement. All this in the name of moral righteousness, as enunciated by King Leopold of the Belgians when he proclaimed: "Our only program is that of the moral and material regeneration," as they took possession of the Congo and its vast territories and natural resources. In short, the church with its appetite for expansion and growth was the spearhead and a powerful adjunct in the takeover of the backward lands and territories in the past century.

Getting back to Iran, by the early 1950's the British dominance was supplanted by the American-Israeli alliance, which was not really American at all, but purely Jewish, capitalizing on American power, prestige and military might. It was a case of the Jewish tail wagging the American dog (See RL No. 65). The Iranians, being less naive than their average American counterpart, understood this more clearly than do the Americans. Nevertheless, the hostility of the religious mullahs and the masses was directed almost exclusively against the Americans, culminating in the invasion of the U.S. Embassy in 1979 and the ensuing hostage crisis.

When the American government backed the Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, "The King of Kings," they had found themselves a real patsy. Vainglorious and ambitious, he soon surrounded himself with all the accoutrements of brute power and pomposity, a course of action that soon separated the King from the people and the mullahs. In the ten years before he was ousted in 1978, he took in more than $100,000 million in oil exports. With the help of the United States and Israel he set up a powerful and brutal secret police organization that was the envy of despots all over the world. Called the Savak, the staffing and direction of this vicious organization was taken over by the Israeli Mossad and the American CIA, with the Mossad calling the shots.

Opposing this alien take-over were the Moslem religious leaders, the mullahs, led by the Ayatollah Ruholla Khomeini, when in 1963 he virtually launched a revolution by a series of proclamations in Qum. In the ensuing struggle, the Savak stormed the Khomeini's center in Qum and killed 15,000 people. Khomeini was arrested, but later released, and spent the next 15 years in exile in Paris.

From here on in it was a battle for the minds of the people, with the Shah having control of the mass media, the military, the secret police and the vast financial resources flowing in from oil revenues.

In the end, as we all know, Ayatollah Khomeini won out with his religious power over the people and drove the Shah into exile and disgrace. Not only did he become the dominant power in Iran, but he became a religious symbol and leader of all the Islamic world, from Africa to India to Indonesia. Even after his death, he remains the cement that binds together the now powerful Islamic revolution on a global basis. This despite the fact that he knew little or nothing about government, was himself cruel and despotic, and was an extremely poor administrator. Such is the power of a religion, even a fraudulent religion as faulted as is Mohammedanism.

* * * * *

Actually, what we are now witnessing is a cultural and religious revolution of the Moslem world, a revolution some historians have equated in importance with the French revolution of 1789 and the Communist revolution of 1917. Underlying this struggle are two virulent religions, Judaism, on the one side controlling and manipulating the power of the (rapidly shrinking) White people of the world, and on the other side, we have the rapidly expanding Arabs and the Moslems.

* * * * *

Where do you fit into this world picture, Whitey? Do you have a religion of your own? Most members of the White Race will reply, oh yes, we have a religion of our own. We have our Lord and Savior, Jesus Christ. We have our own religion — Christianity.

Really? No, not really, Christianity is a Judaic opiate, designed to paralyze, deaden and render insensible the natural fighting spirit and acuity and instincts of the White Race, and as Jew Marcus Eli Ravage explains so explicitly, when Pharisee Rabbi Saul of Tarsus imposed Christianity on the unsuspecting goyim, "We conquered you more completely than any conquering enemy ever conquered any people in history."

What all the foregoing illustrates is that religion is the key to our destiny, as it has been in the history of peoples throughout civilization. It is the most powerful and dynamic force in the world in capturing the minds of men. Furthermore, there is a fierce and unrelenting war going on today as never before for the minds of the people, a war in which the Jews have been the master-manipulators for the last several thousand years. The main prize today as never before is the minds of the White people, the White Race, throughout the world. Not the niggers, not the Arabs, not the Hindus, not the Chinese, but the White Race. Only we have the power and potential to save ourselves and save the world from utter chaos and cataclysmic horrors. The Jews know this full well, and Whitey, you had better come to your senses and also clearly understand the dreadful reality of this situation.

So what weapons do we, the White Race, have to work with, to unite us and take control of our own destiny? What religion do we have that we can polarize around? Christianity? No, perish the thought. It was Jewish Christianity that has brought us to the brink of disaster and extinction in the first place.

But all is not hopeless. Now for the first time in 6000 years of the White Man's civilization we do have a racial religion of our own. We have Creativity, which is based on the Eternal Laws of Nature as revealed through science, history, logic, common sense. Creativity has the Total Program, the Final Solution, the Ultimate Creed for the salvation and redemption of Nature's Finest — the White Race. In Creativity we have it all. We now need to go out and promote the hell out of our own racial religion and take over the world.

Intense, relentless propaganda is the answer.

If Hitler had spent only 10% of the time, energy and money on propagandizing the White Race on a worldwide basis as he spent fighting a losing military war (against his own White racial comrades), he probably might never have had to resort to a shooting war at all.

Think about it! Right here in America we can win the war for the minds of our White racial comrades without ever having to resort to a shooting war at all. The fact is, whether we like it or not, we have to win the propaganda war first in any case. If we don't, we will wind up as we did in WW I and WW II, with White Men killing White Men when we should have been fighting our real enemies, the Jews and all the other mud races.

Think about it again, White Man, then go to work. You now have the weapons you need. Use Them. RAHOWA!

We are the wave of the future

Tomorrow Belongs to Creativity

Books won't stay banned. They won't burn. Ideas won't go to jail. So spoke a one-time president of Yale University about 50 years ago. Although he undoubtedly had Yale's liberal philosophies in mind, nevertheless what he uttered were some imperishable truths about books and ideas. His liberal and Jew-oriented ideas have held sway over the last several generations, not because they had much merit, but because they had a veritable army of aggressive promoters, organized, financed and orchestrated by the worldwide Jewish network.

However, time marches on, and the truth will not remain suppressed forever. The Jews undoubtedly have been the most avid and powerful promoters of ideas — religious, political and philosophical. They invented Judaism, they invented Christianity, they invented Communism. Practically all their postulations are based on lies, deceit and fraud. They are, as has been observed succinctly and often, the world's most prolific Masters of Deceit. They concocted a fictitious history for themselves and called it Judaism. It was designed to unite and polarize their tribe of thieves and cutthroats so that they could continue to rob, fleece and destroy the goyim and take over the wealth of the world for themselves. They invented Christianity in order to confuse, distract and soften up the goyim and make them easy prey for their sinister program of worldwide piracy. They invented Communism as the culmination of Judaism and Christianity so that they could use force and brutality to clap the dissident behind the iron bars of their monstrous chain of gulags. They further invented the massive lie called the holocaust to augment their program of worldwide enslavement. It seems they have been amazingly successful in slopping the goyims' brains with all of these deceitful lies and conspiracies.

But, as I said before, time marches on, and truth and reason will not forever remain suppressed and buried. The White Man has finally had enough of all this Jewish hocus-pocus. There is a new wave of ideas in the White Man's thinking today. Whereas the progression of the White Man's enslavement began in the order of Judaism, Christianity and Communism, its unraveling is proceeding in the opposite order.

The first to go is Communism. After more than seventy years of this Jewish plague, the Russian people and the people of Eastern Europe have had enough. Communism is now a dead horse in Russia. It is dying of its own stinking Jewish rot in adjoining countries. The next to go will be that foul Jewish mind-scrambler called Christianity, a sinister plague that has lain like a cancer on the brain of the White Race for lo, all these many centuries. It is beginning to crumble rapidly. Anyone who has read our latest analysis of Christianity, A Revolution of Values through Religion will curse the day he or she was ever introduced to this cancer on the brain. Once Christianity has been exposed and demolished, an angry world will make short shrift of Judaism and all its vestiges. As one nigger shrieked "Free at last! Free at last!" Yes, the world will be free at last of the most vicious and sinister parasite ever to infest this once beautiful and pristine Planet Earth.

In the first issue of Racial Loyalty (June, 1983) we stated that nothing is as powerful as an idea whose time has come, and that idea is Creativity, the White Man's religion. It is, in fact the first and only racial religion the White Race has ever structured for its own survival, expansion and advancement in the last 6000 years of civilized history.

James P. Warburg, of the notorious Jewish Warburg family that structured the sinister Federal Reserve, and who embodied the epitome of Jewish rapaciousness, made a bold statement on the floor of the U.S. Senate on February 17, 1950. Arrogantly flaunting Jewish power, he bragged, "We shall have world government whether we like it or not. The only question is whether World Government will be achieved by conquest or consent." A very revealing and interesting statement. When he said "we" will have it, he meant of course they, the Jews. When he said whether "we" like it or not, he, of course, meant us, the goyim.

Confidently and arrogantly, he was plainly telling the Senate of the United States that we have you stupid goyim locked up in our tentacles and you had better come peacefully or else.

FALLING FOR IT HOOK-LINE-AND SINKER. LONG LIVE ISRAEL AND REMEMBER THE PHONY HOLOCAUST.

But not so fast, you sleazy, stinking kike. This is 1991, and the racial conflict is rapidly heating up all over the world, especially in the United States. It is now becoming more ominously obvious to the White people of the world what the Jewish game plan is. The White people of Russia are angrily aware of what a dastardly Jewish scam is Communism, and are increasingly aware that it was the Jews that imposed this horrendous fraud upon them. PAMYAT is organizing in Russia with increasing determination, and the Jews are fearfully fleeing their own befouled nest in that vast land. But don't come to the United States! We White Americans, too, are becoming increasingly aware of your evil and parasitic presence. In growing numbers we are becoming painfully aware that it is the Jewish plan to drag in all the scum and mud races of the world into our fair land and mongrelize us into oblivion. We fully realize that it is you, you slimy kikes, who are the cause of the widespread crime, of the slums, of the degeneration of our cities and the downward spiral of our once great land. Don't come here! Retribution and vengeance will be ours! Go to Israel and let the Arabs contend with you!

Speaking of the Arabs and the Palestinians — that issue, too, is reaching a breaking point. The world is getting a much clearer picture of what kind of a brutal tyranny you kikes will impose upon its enslaved peoples once you have taken their guns away from them and have them in complete submission.

The White people of South Africa, too, are getting a clearer picture of what your ideas are about "democracy" and "one-man, one vote." It is now becoming quite clear that your perception of "one-man, one vote" is also "one-time only." Once the White man is crushed, as in former Rhodesia, then the nigger is a full time tyrant under the auspices of Jewish tutelage. Your program of decimating the White Race and mongrelizing the balance is becoming clearer to the White Man by the day. We are determined to turn the tables on you!

Recently we had a fine group of young Creators from Canada visit us here at World Headquarters. We heard innumerable stories of how the "Canadian" government is imposing iron-clad censorship on the White population. Freedom of speech and freedom of the press are as dead as a dodo in Canada. Just the mere utterance of the word "Jew" in the wrong context is an offense punishable by imprisonment. Canada is no exception. The same frightful and Draconian application of censorship and Jew-law is now prevalent in our once "Great" Britain, in Sweden, in Germany and most other Jew infested countries. It is a forerunner of what the Jews are assiduously planning and conniving to bring about in the United States also.

But one of the things one of the young Canadians said to me really brought home the stark horror of the impending situation. He said that many of their military bases were being closed and they were now being turned into vast concentration camps, or gulags, as in Russia for the last seventy years. That made me realize, yes, indeed, our military bases here in the United States, too, are closing up shop as such by the score. What is "our" Jewish government (JOG) going to do with them? Let me guess. Let them go to waste? Not by a damnsite! The building of prisons and penitentiaries are today the only booming growth industry in the United States! And the closed military bases are made to order for conversion into Jewish gulags.

And just whom do the Jews have in mind as permanent residents in these places of torture and oppression? Why, silly question! They have you in mind, Whitey, to fill those bunk beds behind the iron bars, that is, of course, if you let them take your guns away and snooker you into such a defenseless position and let the black niggers act as your "guards" and wardens.

* * * * *

Grim? Yes, indeed, But events are moving rapidly. One world Judaism is coming on with a vengeance. But another set of events is mushrooming even more rapidly and that is the angry awakening of the White Race here in the United States and across the world. Up until now the resistance has been only sporadic, unplanned, haphazard and ineffective. But things are rapidly changing. Now we have a comprehensive, well structured, meaningful plan and program. We now have a racial religion of our own — we have Creativity. No longer is the right hand unaware of what the left hand is doing. No longer are we merely on the defensive, stupidly worshiping the Jews as "God's Chosen" on Sunday, and merely cursing them the rest of the week. No longer are we wasting our time wishing for "pie in the sky" or bewailing the threat of "fry in the sky" the rest of the time. Now we have a militant, well-planned creed and program that is marching on the offensive to build a massive steam roller and crush our enemies.

Our program is Delenda est Judaica! This planet is all ours! Rahowa!

Don't just stand there! Join with us!

More About Lawyers

In November of 1986 I wrote an article (RL #37) about preachers, doctors and lawyers entitled "The Holy Trinity." In it I observed that whereas these three "professions" wielded a most powerful influence in our society, whereas they commanded unwarranted faith in their "professional" opinions, nevertheless, all three of them were founded on fraudulent premises. Like the Holy Trinity on High, namely the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, so too, were these three earthly gods promoting bad advice to their gullible "flock," their patients and to their clients. One other characteristic all three of these earthly do-gooders had in common was that whereas they all tried hard to convince us that they were trying to help solve our problems, actually they did their utmost to exacerbate and prolong those problems as long as possible, and in fact often create problems where none existed. Why? Because the more problems they created and the longer these problems can be drawn out, the more lucrative is their professed help. Money, money, money is the bottom line. An example for instance, is a preacher trying to save us from the horrible clutches of hell, a hell that doesn't exist. However, if he can draw a graphic and gruesome picture of the torture of hell, and convince his gullible sheep they are real, he has a flock of paying victims for the rest of his life, or your life.

* * * * *

Today we want to take another look at the lawyers in America. Last month (August) the American Bar Association had a gathering in Atlanta to pat themselves on the back. It so happened that one of their speakers was another lawyer by the name of Dan Quayle, now ensconced in the high office of vice-president of the United States. Unexpectedly, he more or less confirmed what I said about lawyers back in 1986, and his fellow henchmen, already sensitive to the public mood, didn't like it.

Quayle came out with some interesting statistics. He raised the question, "Does America really need 70 percent of the world's lawyers? Is it healthy for our economy to have 18 million lawsuits coursing through the system annually? He pointed out that one in every 355 Americans is a lawyer, compared to one in 9000 in Japan. Doing a little arithmetic on my own, this means that we have more than 25 times as many lawyers per capita as does highly industrialized Japan, in fact, approximately 700,000 of these vultures are on the loose, looking for prey. One thing the vice-president did not dare to point out was that an overly high proportion of these predators preying on other people's miseries are Jews, and that they dominate the profession. Jews also dominate the medical profession, and invented Christianity, that third debilitating sector of the "Holy Trinity."

Quayle's speech set off a spate of controversies, and the first to turn his wrath on Quayle was ABA President John Curtin, who gave a severe dressing down to the much maligned vice-president immediately following the V.P.'s speech, and in his presence.

However, the overwhelming public sentiment, and even the news media was not sympathetic to the lawyers. Too many of them had had unpleasant experiences and rip-offs of their own to reflect upon. We ourselves have a problem about having to hire a lawyer before the N.C. Tax Commission in order that the C.O.T.C. may protect itself in pursuing its Constitutional religious rights as set forth in the First and Fourteenth Amendments.

Historically, lawyers have had a well-earned sordid reputation over the many centuries. Even Shakespeare 400 years ago had one of the characters in one of his plays suggest in order to help humanity "First we kill all the lawyers." (Read again "The Holy Trinity" page 205, Rahowa! This Planet is All Ours.)

Legally and Progressively

How We will Build a Whiter and Brighter World

During the last six months in particular, we at the World Center here have been besieged by an increasing number of reporters from the Jewsmedia. We have had any number of reporters from prominent out of state newspapers writing feature articles about us, some with our cooperation, many without. We have been featured in a number of TV episodes from Jacksonville to Denver to New York — "Inside Edition," "Geraldo," "Maury Povitch" and a number of others.

There is one constant norm in all these articles, TV programs and interviews. They are hostile to our creed and program. The dominant obsession is to smear us and depict us as being violence-prone. Whereas it is we who have repeatedly been attacked, in true Jewish fashion they try to turn the facts upside down. Some of the basic questions I now ask any reporters before I will talk to them are usually in this order:

(a) Are you a Jew? If the answer is yes, I terminate the interview at the very inception. Next I ask them if they are black, with the same conclusion.

(b) Have you been sent here to do a smear job on the Church of the Creator?

The latter is actually not too relevant a question, since invariably they will lie to us and claim that they will give us an impartial and balanced view as they see it. Usually I will acquiesce and say, alright, we will answer your questions, but stick to your commitment. Give us an honest report and we will answer your questions frankly and honestly. We have nothing to hide.

Question (a) is usually answered honestly. By now they know that we will not tolerate talking to a Jewish or a black reporter, and therefore the media does not send such down to us. However, every once in a while they do slip in a Jew that denies he is one of the tribe.

Question (b) is really a charade, a farce. The reporter will lie every time. We know that they have been sent here to do an out and out hatchet job, and they know that we know. So we usually proceed anyway, and they never disappoint us. They invariably come out with a hostile smear job. Why do we cooperate? Well, at our stage, as Adolf said some seventy years ago, almost any publicity is good publicity, as long as they spell our name right. The more people hear about us, sooner or later the White people will sort out the true facts. It is our job to see to it that they get them, once they know we exist.

The questions usually run the same course, starting with: what is Creativity? One standard answer is, Creativity is a racial religion structured for the survival, expansion, and advancement of the White Race. How many members do you have? We don't disclose numbers since we are usually accused of either overstating or understating such numbers, and in any case, we don't want to get embroiled in the numbers game. We don't have an accurate count of all our members, supporters and sympathizers, and in any event, it is not relevant that we do. We prefer to talk about our creed and program. We want to build a Whiter and Brighter World.

It is at this point that the reporter usually begins to become venal. After a discussion of what is our definition of the White Race and who are the "mud" races, they will ask the question: How are you going to "cleanse your territory" as you put it, of the mud races? Is it your intention to kill all the Jews and the blacks?

We must keep in mind that the reporter came here to talk to us for basically two reasons: (a) to write an article about Creativity in order to smear us, in short, to do a hatchet job, (b) to gather intelligence information to convey on to the files of the ADL, and the Jewish master computer in Tel Aviv. We must also remember that besides trying to portray us as haters, they will try very hard to make us look like a movement that promotes violence. In this latter attempt to make us look violence-prone they will use every remote linkage they possibly can contrive, and nothing is too remote for these lying prostitutes of the Jewish media.

Keeping these ground rules in mind we must be very careful and very precise in our answers to these reporters, who will inevitably zero in on the key question: just what are you going to do with the Jews and the niggers that are already here? Are you going to kill them?

And our answer is: no, we have no plans for killing anybody. We are a non-violent religious movement. We have a comprehensive plan as to how to achieve a Whiter and Brighter World. Every step along the way is legal, constitutional and non-violent as we will detail to you. Here is how we plan to proceed, step by step:

Step No. 1. We mean to build our racial religious movement legally and constitutionally by employing and enjoying the same rights as does every other religious group in America, by means of propaganda, by means of persuasion, by means of organization. Instead of adulating fictitious spooks in the sky, our religion is based on Racial Loyalty. There is nothing new about Racial Loyalty. If you look at the real world around you, you will see that the niggers practice it, the Jews practice it, the Indians practice it, the Muslims practice it, the Japanese practice Racial Loyalty. In fact, just about every race in the world practices Racial Loyalty and has for thousands of years. The only difference is that we are now talking about White Racial Loyalty. But there is nothing illegal about being White and there is nothing illegal about White Racial Loyalty.

Step No. 2. We plan to build our movement to such dimensions that we will be able to take control of our government from out of the slimy hands of the Jews who now have it and thereby take control of our own destiny. Nothing illegal about that. After all, the White people built this great country, and at this point in time are still the majority. What is more fair and more legal than the White people having control of their own destiny, rather than a small minority of Talmudic Jews? How do we plan to accomplish this?

Step No. 3. We plan to accomplish it by promoting Racial Loyalty to the White Race, by informing, arousing, uniting and organizing the mighty potential of our White Racial Comrades. We mean to polarize the White Race under one language, Latin, one religion, Creativity and build one mighty powerhouse so that we, not the Jews, will be in charge of our own affairs. Nothing illegal about that.

Step No. 4. Having done the above, we will then further practice Racial Loyalty and take our next step. In accordance with Nos. 6, 7, 8 and 9 of our Sixteen Commandments, we will boycott the Jews. We will boycott them in business and break them financially. We will boycott them in politics and drive them from out of government. We will boycott them in education, in the news media, and every other place in our cultural life. There is nothing illegal about using the boycott either. The Jews have been doing it for thousands of years. The Arabs have been boycotting Israel for the last forty years. Our government (JOG) has been using sanctions (an extreme form of boycott) against South Africa, against Iraq, against Iran, against Germany in the 1930's and against any and every other country they didn't like. Numerous Jew controlled organizations (such as NOW) even today use the boycott against such states as Arizona because they did not acquiesce to declaring a legal holiday in honor of Martin Lucifer Koon. So, we can conclude there is nothing illegal about using the boycott. However, if used by a united, polarized White Race, believe me, it can be and will be extremely effective.

Step No. 5. Having achieved control of our own destiny, we will then simultaneously stop subsidizing the niggers in this country, stop subsidizing the parasitic state of Israel, and in fact, stop subsidizing all the other 120 some countries that JOG has piled on the backs of the working White American taxpayers. We will simply let all these Jews, niggers, parasites and freeloaders shift for themselves and wither on the vine.

* * * * *

Having done the above, we will let Nature take its inevitable course in phasing out the problem. For hundreds of millions of years Nature has followed its wise but ruthless course of Survival of the Fittest, which also means the demise of those unfit to cope for themselves. In the endless struggle of each species to survive in competition to other like species, Nature has persistently used the culling process, of weeding out of the weak, the deformed, the sickly and the mentally incompetent. It is only in the last half of the 20th century that the White race, misguided by the evil hand of the Jew, has subverted this purgative action of cleansing the genetic defects of a species' gene pool. By subsidizing the lazy, the shiftless, the incompetent and rendering massive aid to all the parasites, the scum and the free-loaders of the world, we have greatly multiplied the defectives at the expense of the competent, until now we are reaching the breaking point. In our program we mean to reverse this sick and idiotic process. All this, too, is strictly legal.

Step No. 6. We are now well on the way towards the salvation and redemption of the great White Race. Our next step is to then aggressively cleanse our territory of the still lingering mud races.

The first step is to forcibly expel the some 10 million illegal Mexicans. This too, is strictly legal, and it is a dereliction of duty that our JOG government has not done so a long time ago. Along with these illegal Mestizos, we will also expel all other alien muds — Haitians, Pakistanis, Jews and whatever.

Next, we will institute a program of repatriating all blacks back to Africa whether they are tenth generation "Americans" or not.

This too is not a new idea by any means, and repatriation of unassimilable mixed peoples has been practiced by any number of nations throughout history, both recent and ancient.

1. The Egyptians drove the Jews from out of their land 3500 years ago when the latter became unbearably obnoxious (as with the Holohoax, the Jews have twisted history around and claim they left Egypt voluntarily after the Egyptians tried to keep them. What an inverted lie!)

2. All of the French in the colony of Acadia (in present day Nova Scotia) were deported by the victorious British in 1755. Most of these were deported to Louisiana, but many scattered elsewhere. (Read Longfellow's Evangeline.)

3. In our own American history, we moved any number of Indian tribes to other less desirable, less inhabited areas. Some were moved and confined to reservations, some, like the Cherokees were moved en masse from North Carolina to Oklahoma. This was a matter of the conquering White Man cleansing the territory and making room for his own people, a process that was repeated time and again.

4. When the White Man conquered Texas, they organized the Texas Rangers and launched a powerful (and successful) drive to expel every Mexican and Indian from what was now conquered White Man's territory. This was How the West was Won.

5. The Turks even resorted to extensive massacres of the Armenian population in 1894-96, again in 1909, and again in 1915, the latter running into millions.

6. After World War II, the victorious "democratic" Allies, led by America, Russia and Britain, routed, moved and/or killed 13 million Germans from their eastern homelands and crowded them into the western areas of a remnant Germany, all at the bequest of the Communist Jews.

7. Also, after WW II the Jews (with the help of American JOG) drove the native Palestinian Arabs from a homeland they had lived in for two thousand years. This in order to make room for the parasitic state of Israel. With their Uzzi machine guns in hand, the Jews are still at it today driving the Arabs out of the West Bank and the Gaza Strip. All this with the subsidization of Israel by the American taxpayers to the tune of four billion a year, now being antied-up to more than ten billion. I ask you, Whitey, how long are you going to stand for this kind of rapacious atrocity?

8. The niggers in Africa, with the help of (our own!) JOG and in accordance with the Jewish plan of exterminating the White Race are driving the White people out of Africa. Is it fair? If so, it is just as fair to drive the Jews and niggers out of the White Man's territory, is it not?

* * * * *

But let us now look at the specific controversy of resettling the niggers here in America and moving them out of our land. This problem is certainly not new and the solution to it was not invented by the Church of the Creator. It is an insidious problem of long standing that should have been solved a long time ago, and several of our most astute White statesmen and leaders have strongly advocated the expulsion of these black animals from out of our midst.

1. Thomas Jefferson, certainly one of the most fervent advocates of liberty, clearly realized the race problem as early as 1811, and formulated plans to have the niggers deported onto foreign soil, preferably Africa. This was at the urging of the Virginia legislature and its then Governor. James Monroe.

2. As a result of this initial impetus for the deportation of Africans, the American Colonization Society was formed in 1817. Among its high officers were such distinguished leaders as Charles Carrolton, a signer of the Declaration of Independence, Henry Clay, John Marshall, Wm. H. Crawford, John Randolph, Daniel Webster and Andrew Jackson.

In 1822 a large tract of land was secured on the west coast of Africa and it was called Liberia. Between 1820 and 1831 some 2,228 niggers were transported to this territory.

Having shown the feasibility of their plan, the Society in 1827 asked Congress to give its support and financial aid for the continuation of this highly important project. However, the hidden hand of the Jew was already in evidence even then and Congress did nothing. The Jews have been vigorously sabotaging every plan for the deportation of the blacks in our midst ever since. They want the niggers to stay and mongrelize the White Race.

The Colonization Society nevertheless continued its efforts and did, in fact, move 20,000 niggers from America to Africa. But with the Jews blocking their every move and Congress not giving its official support, it gradually declined in effectiveness.

3. The racial problem festered on and finally exploded into the devastation of the War between the States, 1861-65, a terrible tragedy for all White Americans, especially for the South.

My biggest Mistake was I didn't ship the niggers out before the Jews assassinated me.

Abraham Lincoln, also realizing the seriousness of the problem of having two completely divergent and incompatible races living in the same land, strongly advocated moving the blacks out, and instituted a Bureau of Emigration to begin their deportation. He advocated one colony in Haiti, and another in Colombia. However, again because of Jewish opposition and since Lincoln was assassinated at the end of the war, both of these projects were stymied. Had he not been assassinated (by the Jews) the chances are that a meaningful deportation program would have been pursued by the U.S. government under the leadership of Lincoln.

4. Briefly, let me summarize other prominent American supporters, advocates and promoters:

(a) President Millard Fillmore presented a plan to Congress for the emigration of all blacks as early as 1852. Congress ignored it.

(b) President Ulysses S. Grant advocated a similar program.

(c) Marcus Garvey, a black mulatto, in the 1930's organized the Universal Negro Improvement Association advocating the resettlement of blacks to Africa. He enlisted the support of 6,000,000 black members, but the Federal government under the control of Roosevelt and the Jews hounded him, framed him, imprisoned him and stymied any such constructive action at every turn.

(d) U.S. Senator Theodore Bilbo spent most of political life advocating the resettlement of blacks to Africa. He introduced a bill in the Senate (April 24, 1939) to make this possible, and secured the support and signatures of 2-1/2 million blacks. Again, Roosevelt and the Jews killed the bill.

(e) Senator Langer introduced a bill in 1957 providing aid for blacks desirous of migrating to Liberia.

(f) Malcolm X, a black mulatto leader, strongly advocated the back to Africa movement. He, too, was assassinated.

(g) Louis Farrakhan is strongly advocating separation of the races, to the fervent vocal support of millions of niggers. However, he is now demanding that the separated niggers be given a major piece of America itself.

The upshot of all previous history is that the racial problem is becoming ever more heated, more violent, and will not go away.

The only feasible solution to this lingering cancer is to ship all the niggers in America back to Africa. Once we, the White Race, have destroyed the Jewish stranglehold, and have gained control of our own destiny and of our own government, the problem can be solved. This we will do with, I believe, the overwhelming support of the niggers themselves. Let me state it again — it is not the niggers that are blocking the solution, it is not the White people, it is the Jews.

Let us now again take up this question of "fairness," and is it fair or is it not fair for one people to drive another out of their territory and occupy it for themselves? As history has shown from time immemorial, this question is entirely moot. History has demonstrated repeatedly and irrevocably that territory is occupied by those people with the will and the means to conquer the territory they desire, and then held by those capable of, and determined to hold it.

Is it fair? Perhaps not, but history is not fair. Nature is not interested in fairness. The bigger fish eat the smaller fish, the coyotes eat the weaker rabbits and rodents, and on down the food chain. Is it fair? Evidently Nature says it is, and there is only one Law of Nature that predominates in this regard, and that is the Law of Survival of our own species on this Planet Earth. Nature severely punishes with extinction those species that are too lazy, too laggard or too incompetent to take on the struggle for survival. The bottom line is: Eternal struggle is the price of survival. I didn't make the rules but merely observe and learn from both the lessons of history and the laws of Nature. Having accepted the facts of life, I have no quarrel with reality.

Nor is the moral question of survival of its own kind any problem with any of the races of mankind other than the White Race. In fact, they exalt and glorify their triumph over their enemies, whoever they might be. When one Indian tribe destroyed another they celebrated the extermination of their rivals with great gusto. The Old Testament is full of repeated glorification of how the Jews, with the help of their Jahweh god slew the enemy with the edge of their sword until every man, woman and child had been slain. Even the White Romans, Greeks and Egyptians stated massive celebrations over their victories throughout their history. The Romans shed no tears, felt no pangs of guilt when they finally conquered Carthage after more than a century of hostility. On the contrary, they burned Carthage to the ground and sowed salt in its ruins, and were damned glad they had destroyed an overwhelming threat to their survival. It was only after the treacherous Jews inflicted the New Testament brain scrambler on the Gentiles that the White Race was plagued with the so-called morality of guilt and "fairness." We can specifically point to the Sermon on the Mount teachings of "love your enemy," "turn the other cheek," "sell all thou hast and give it to the niggers" for the suicidal origin of this self-destructive idea. (See The Sermon on the Mount, page 154, A Revolution of Values.)

* * * * *

Having thrown all this perfidious and suicidal Jewish advice overboard and established a rational and realistic moral base for our own survival, we are now ready for its next step.

Step No. 7. Ever since Columbus discovered America in 1492, the White Race pursued a vigorous program of expansion and colonization, a healthy instinct Nature has imbued in all its creatures, whether they be animals, birds, insects or plants. This expansion was first led by the Spaniards and the Portuguese, then rivaled and surpassed by the French, the Dutch and the Anglo-Saxons. There was one major difference between the former and the latter groups. Whereas the Spanish and Portuguese poisoned their gene pool in the New World by interbreeding with the indigenous natives, the Anglo-Saxon group, by and large, did not. The result is (or was) the great country of the United States we once knew, and to the detriment of the Latinos, the mongrelized mix-breeds and mestizos of Mexico and South America.

Be that as it may, this surge of energy by the White Race lasted for some 450 years, then came to an ignominious halt after the suicidal events of WW II. Not only did it come to halt, but through the Marshall Plan and the insane American policy of subsidizing all the scum, free-loaders and mud races of the world, we, the White Race are now in full retreat, running before our inferiors, apologizing for our previous success, and thanks to the devilish manipulations of the Jewish Kehilla, we, Nature's Finest, are now on the road to extinction.

Be it therefore resolved, we, the White Race are now determined to take Step No. 7, the final stage of building a Whiter and Brighter World. We are determined to take up where our White ancestors left off 50 or 100 years ago and resume the colonization program of our illustrious forbearers and expand the domain and territory of our great Race. We now have the moral base on which to proceed, fully backed by our religion, supported by centuries and millenniums of history, and furthermore, by the Eternal Laws of Nature. We need nothing more.

We will make one major change in our future expansion. Instead of conquering new territory and intermingling and exploiting the cheap labor of the natives, we will have none of this nonsense. Instead, by planned and deliberate measures, we will make a clean sweep, one measured addition at a time. In such territories as we colonize we will clear it of the mud races and settle it with White families exclusively. No longer will there be any of the former muddled geographic race mixing. We will settle and digest one segment of territory, then go on to the next, until such time as this beautiful planet will be settled and inhabited by its most deserving heirs, Nature's Finest.

Only through Creativity can we accomplish such a noble and far-reaching goal. Join with us today!

Issue No. 75 — November 1991

How the early Texans cleansed the muds out of their territory

Red Niggers in Texas

No state has a more colorful and glorious history than does the State of Texas, and no state more clearly exemplifies the eternal struggle of the White Man against his deadly racial enemies — the Indians, the Mexicans and JOG, the Federal government itself.

Today that struggle goes on, more deadly than ever, in Texas, and on a national basis, and in fact, on a worldwide basis. The only situation that has changed is that the White Race now has more racial enemies pitted against it than ever, namely Asiatics, Haitians, South American and Central Americans, mud peoples, and a host of others. In the meantime, JOG has become more powerful, more vicious and hostile, and the boundaries of the racial war have become more confused and obscure in the White Man's vision. Nevertheless, the war today is very real and more ferocious than eve. Whereas the early Texans took direct and effective action and won their racial war more than a hundred years ago, today the opposite is unravelling before our eyes. The White Race is losing, is leaderless, confused, and rapidly on its way to extinction.

* * * * *

Let us review some stages of the interesting and heroic history of the White Man's conquest of the great Lone Star State, how he was beset with the same evil forces we are today, and how he took direct and drastic action to triumph over his mortal enemies.

* * * * *

I have read a number of books on the Texas Rangers, on the battle of the Alamo, the heroic battle at San Jacinto, and Texas history in general. Most of them downplay and/or de-emphasize the historic fact that the Conquest of Texas was essentially a racial war — a long drawn out three cornered struggle between the White Man, the Mexicans and the Indians. It was not until recently, however, that when Rev. John Brooks sent me another book on Texas that I realized how fierce and intense that racial battle was. The name of the book is The Lone Star — A History of Texas, and what especially piqued my interest was a chapter in the middle of the book entitled Red Niggers, a term of contempt used by the early White settlers for the ever marauding Indians.

For two hundred years the area known as Texas had been claimed by the Spanish conquerors of Mexico. However, by the time the first White settlers arrived in this area under the auspices of Empressario Stephen F. Austin during the 1820's, the Spanish and Mexican colonization of Texas had been a colossal failure. As in South America, and in Mexico itself, the Spanish conquest, although preceding by almost two centuries that of their rivals, differed significantly from that of the Anglo-Saxon colonization. The Spaniards did not conquer to colonize. There were three major forces in play that determined the course of Empire. They were the Crown, the army, and the Catholic Church, not all three necessarily on the same course. They came to exploit the land and the native labor, mine the gold and silver and enrich the coffers of the Crown, and in the process expand the domination of the Catholic Church. But as colonizers they were a total failure. They did indeed strip the land of its gold and silver, shipping its wealth across the ocean to make Spain the most affluent domain in Europe during the sixteenth and seventeenth century.

Over the centuries of unabated effort, the attempt by the Catholic Church to Christianize the Indian heathen was a total failure. They did build a number of missions with Indian slave labor, but the Indians did not embrace this alien creed as their own. In fact, only the more docile tribes could be domesticated at all, and during the process they invariably declined in numbers and eventually died out. The more warlike tribes, such as the Comanches, the Apaches and others, rejected Catholicism in toto, and kept up their raiding, scalping and thieving.

As we come to the first half of the nineteenth century, there were a string of five Spanish missions in Texas, of which San Antonio de Bexar was the most prominent, but all were in a state of decline and decay. By the 1820's the Mexican revolution had aborted from Spain, the country was in chaos and the now mix-breed Mexican settlers in Texas were only a few, subject to the terror and raiding parties of the warlike Indians to the north and to the west. Not only was Mexican colonization not advancing, it was retreating.

When Moses Austin, followed by his son Stephen F. Austin, approached the Mexican government with an offer of bringing in 300 Anglo-American families on a given tract of choice Texas land, the Mexican government was receptive. This they were not because they liked the Anglos, but because they hoped that these more durable Americans would act as a buffer zone and thus protect the territory behind them for the Mexican settlers to expand upon.

Moses Austin soon died after the initial application, but his son carried on and the Anglo-Celts, Anglo-Saxons, and Anglo-Americans were indeed tough, and a more durable breed. When the new settlers were offered tracts of one site of legua (4428 acres) of good land at 12-1/2 cents an acre, the rush was on. The first wave came from the Trans-Appalachian South — Louisiana, Alabama, Arkansas, Tennessee and Missouri. The main motive was economic improvement — an opportunity to own and settle on good land at approximately one-tenth the going price in the United States. First came the farmers and hardy frontiersmen, soon followed by merchants, lawyers and townsmen. By 1825 his original 300 patents were used up and Austin applied for more. In the next ten years Austin succeeded in locating more than 1500 families. But he was not the only Empressario. There were soon 25 more, although none as successful as Austin. In a single decade these White Americans had more children, raised more crops and built more towns than the Spaniards had in the previous three hundred years.

Although these American frontiersmen were subjects of the Mexican government and had to "profess" to Catholicism in order to obtain the patents to their land, they brought with them their European culture and American ideas of freedom. As such they were soon on a collision course with the chaotic and ever-changing Mexican government, who by 1830 began to view the Anglos with hatred, envy and fear. Further immigration of Americans from the north to Texas was restricted, and whereas the early settlers had enjoyed almost unlimited freedom from taxation and Mexican government bureaucracy, now they became subjected to both. Nevertheless, the White Anglo settlers from the American north and east kept on coming in ever increasing numbers. A rebellion and a racial war was inevitable and it was soon to come.

Not only were the White settlers faced with the hostility of the Mexican nation of whose territory they were a part, but the depredations and hit and run raids from the war-like tribes on horseback to the north and west kept increasing. Whereas the Austin colony had settled in an area that had only a scattering of unwarlike Indians, as the numbers of White settlers increased so did the repeated raids from the fierce Comanches, Lipans, Apaches, Karankawas and other Indian warriors on horseback. Stephen F. Austin early in the settlement had organized "companies of ranging volunteers" that were soon to become the notorious Texas Rangers, the scourge of the Indians and the Mexicans, the latter calling them the "Diablos Tejano," the Texan devils.

A three cornered racial war was facing the ever expanding White settlers, between the Indians, the Mexicans and the late arriving White settlers. It was a war that was to continue for more than sixty years.

It is not our intent here, nor do we have the space, to give even a concise resume of the colorful history of Texas in the nineteenth century. Suffice it to say that by 1835 the independent, freedom-loving White Texans had had enough and were ready to revolt against the Mexican tyranny. This culminated in the thunderclap at the Alamo when the then President and General of the armies, Santa Anna marched north and decided to teach these Americanos a lesson they would never forget. After 13 days of siege, on March 5, 1836, Santa Anna and his 5000 regulars stormed the walls of the improvised fortress and within a matter of a few hours it was all over. The 182 heroic defenders of the Alamo were all slaughtered and mutilated beyond recognition. But the Mexicans had won only a Pyrrhic victory at best, and the Americans exacted a heavy toll of at least 1600 dead Mexicans and more than 500 wounded, and it was here that the legend of the Diablos Tejanos was spawned.

The shock-waves of the Alamo spread terror throughout Texas and sent the American colonists fleeing eastward with their families, as Santa Anna, despite his heavy losses, was determined to wipe out every last Americano in Texas.

Soon thereafter Sam Houston was given charge of a rag-tag army of 800 volunteers by the then interim government of President David C. Burnett, who headed up a sorely divided cabinet. Houston, too, kept retreating eastward, gaining additional volunteers as he went. Some of his men began grumbling that he, Houston was afraid to fight, but Houston consulted no one and kept his counsel to himself. Then, at the appropriate moment on the afternoon of April 21, Houston attacked. While Santa Anna's army was camped at the San Jacinto bayou only a mile from the Americans, and enjoying an afternoon siesta, Houston launched his attack on the surprised Mexicans.

The shout Remember the Alamo! went up as the Americans ran screaming at the disorganized Mexicans. It was all over in about 18 minutes and the carnage that ensued was indescribable. By nightfall 630 Mexican corpses lay scattered in clumps across the grassy field, with more than 200 wounded, as the disoriented Mexican remnants surrendered. The Americans had lost only two killed in action, with about 30 wounded, of whom seven more would die later.

General and Presidente Santa Anna had fled, but was captured the next day, disguised in a private's uniform.

As the news of San Jacinto spread, great cheering went up all over Texas and the pioneers and their families returned to their farms. Houston had not only won a most decisive battle in the history of the White Race, but he had also Won the West. Texas had won its independence.

* * * * *

Nevertheless, the three-cornered racial battle between the Indians, the Mexicans and the White Texan settlers continued. The hit-and-run marauding raids by the fiercest Indians on horseback in North America — the Comanches, the Lipans, the Apaches, the Karankawas — not only continued but increased in intensity. So also did the intensity of the hatred of the Mexicans, now that they had lost Texas. The United States government in Washington took a strictly hands-off policy and was of no help. They had made a treaty with Mexico in 1819 in which they conceded

Texas was Mexican territory. Although the new Republic of Texas wanted to join the United States, the festering slave issue, the eastern bankers and politicians rejected their White brothers who had conquered Texas by sheer blood, guts and colonization.

The White colonists carried on. They formed an independent Republic. The hero of San Jacinto, Sam Houston was its first president, limited by the new constitution to a two year term. The Indian raids increased. The new Republic was bankrupt and badly in need of not only money, but material goods of every kind. It could not afford a regular army. Having spent three years of his youth among the Cherokee Indians, Houston had a soft spot in his head about the Indian attacks. Houston was succeeded by Mirabeau Buonaparte Lamar, also a hero of San Jacinto, as president of the Republic in 1838.

Unlike Houston, Lamar had no soft spot or illusions about the racial war that freed the colonists. He faced the reality: Texas had to fend for itself. Rejecting the hypocrisy of the bleeding hearts of the North, Lamar took a forthright stand on the racial problems that confronted him, a stand that was strongly supported by the colonists themselves. As far as the Mexicans were concerned, he advocated the Mexican government should be given a final chance to negotiate a boundary and peace with Texas. If they did not, the Mexicans should be brought to their senses by knocking them to their knees. As far as the Indians were concerned, he considered them as merely trespassing red vermin on Texas soil. In this outlook, Lamar invented nothing new. The notion that these savages were tenants at will, without inherent title to American soil, and the White Man might dispossess them without formal legal action, was already firmly imbedded in American thought that had already acquired the legitimacy of two hundred years of history.

Lamar stated bluntly that the Indians, the Mexicans and the White Man could never live peacefully in the same territory. "Nature forbids it." He revived the Texas Rangers and inaugurated a firm policy of driving all the Indians and Mexicans out of Texas, a policy eagerly supported by the majority of the White Texans. Not only was it his objective to drive out the more peaceful Cherokees living on Texas soil, but it became governmental policy to pursue and destroy the more warlike Indians who made repeated forays from the north and the west. The attitude of the Texas settlers was to exterminate all Indians, that the only good Indian was a dead Indian. They called them red vermin, red niggers, and realized that their farms and settlements would never be safe until the Indian menace was completely destroyed once and for all.

From its very beginning, the Texas Republic had been campaigning for annexation into the United States, only to be spurned by such abolitionists as John Quincy Adams and other eastern anti-slavery advocates. When, in 1844, James K. Polk was elected president, a new hero entered the arena in Washington. Polk favored American expansion "from sea to shining sea" and in late December of 1845 the aspiration of most Texans was realized. Texas became a state of the Union, much to the relief of its inhabitants.

By this time, the Mexican threat on Texas' southern borders had become more abrasive and the Texas financial situation was in chaos. Soon after annexation, the United States, under President Polk, declared war against Mexico. In the ensuing war, 1846-48, the White Americans thoroughly trounced the Mestizo Mexicans on their home territory, although the White Man was repeatedly outnumbered in men and artillery in every battle. The Treaty of Guadalupe Hidalgo ended the war, and President Polk, whom we Creators regard as the greatest of American presidents, gained for the White Man the western third of the United States, including California, Arizona, New Mexico and other territories, as well as assuring the security of Texas.

* * * * *

President Polk died (1849) shortly after then end of his one term. After the war with Mexico, in which the Texas Rangers played a heroic and significant part, the people of Texas re-assessed their situation. Instead of the government helping to protect the White colonists from the marauding Mexicans south of the Rio Grande and from the fierce Indian raids from the west and north, the policy of the Feds in Washington was to do neither. The government in Washington, in fact, made the slavery issue its main preoccupation, and since Texas was a slave state, Texas was looked upon with disfavor. It made arrangements for Indian reservations on Texas territory, and forbade Federal troops from pursuing Mexican raiders across the Rio Grande. Meanwhile, the Texans and the Texas Rangers beefed up their own limited forces, wondering all the while whose side their "new" government was on.

This abrasive situation continued for another 13 years. For 30 years the Jews, the Rothschilds, and the eastern bankers had fomented a virulent campaign of hatred against the slave-owning southern states. The Jews were now orchestrating one of the most notorious and successful examples of their "Divide and Conquer" techniques, the North against the South. After a whole generation of detailed planning, conniving and conspiring, they found a most willing spokesman to lead their assault. Shortly after Abraham Lincoln was elected, the Civil War broke out in April of 1861. As planned, it proved to be the most tragic, destructive and insane war in American history. It devastated the South, including Texas, and changed forever the mentality of the White Race.

Although only a small portion of the war took place on Texas soil, nevertheless the Texans contributed heavily to its efforts and incurred disastrous losses in men killed and wounded. When it was over, Texas, along with the other Southern states, became occupied territory, occupied by a hostile, hateful, Jew-controlled Federal government. On June 19, 1865, General Gordon Granger of the Union Army landed in Texas. Some 52,000 bluecoats were sent to the border (southern) area alone, to rule, humiliate and tyrannize the White population. Their Texan former government was declared null and void, their plantations and farms were devastated. The niggers, of which there were now 200,000 in Texas, ran rampant. Although these niggers were illiterate, dumb and savage, they, along with the northern carpet baggers became the electorate and the rulers. Texas was now under military rule, whether they liked it or not. Niggers now terrorized cities such as Victoria, burned down some towns such as Brenham. The Union troops jeeringly stood by and condoned such atrocities. The White Texans, it seemed were now helpless to defend themselves and were ruled by the most vicious and hateful enemies — the niggers and the Jew controlled JOG, the Jewish Occupational Government.

For nine years these stalwart Texans endured these humiliations, atrocities and thievery of their liberties and their properties. Then by 1873 they finally got their act together and having thoroughly learned their lesson of fraud, manipulation and chicanery from their oppressors, they finally ousted JOG's tyrannical Governor E. J. Davis, and replaced him with their own man, Richard Coke, although they had to break down the door of the Governor's office to do so. They also now replaced the legislature with members of the former rebel army, they abolished the dreaded "state police" of the JOG, and wrote themselves a new constitution.

One of the notable features of this new constitution was its limitations of powers of the government. The Texans had learned a hard lesson and they instinctively distrusted government, all government. They now no longer looked to government and what it could do for them, but agonizingly realized what government could do to them. The powers of the governor of Texas were now one of the weakest in the country.

The Indian and the Mexican problems were still very real in this badly devastated state. The Indian raids, severe during the war, continued with increased fury after the surrender of the Confederates. From 1865 to Aug. 5, 1867, reports from county judges show that 163 persons were killed by Indians, 43 carried away into captivity. In this matter, too, the Texans took a firm hand. They re-invigorated their Texas Rangers, and under the capable leadership of Colonel Randal Mackenzie on the western frontier with 1000 Rangers in command of the Frontier Battalion, he destroyed the Indian tribes, using the tactics of hot pursuit wherever it would lead. They organized a Ranger Special Force on the Rio Grande under the leadership of the famous Leander H. McNelly to bring the Mexican depredations to a halt on that frontier.

By 1880, these heroic Texas Rangers had done their job and done it well. The last settler had been killed by Indians and the last Indian shot by the Texas Rangers. The frontier was secure.

* * * * *

We now come to analyze the situation as it exists today in Texas, and in the United States.

The Civil War put the Jews and their money power in flagrant control in Washington and in the state Capitals. They have remained in power ever since, the sinister and hidden enemy of not only the Southern Whites, but all White people. They have been diabolically clever in using their vast financial resources to expand that power and to enslave the White Race all over the world, using the White Race itself as a tool in their vicious technique of Divide and Conquer.

Today our main enemy is still JOG, and not much has changed, except now the Indians and the Mexicans are not our only threat. Now the Mexican horde has been increased to flood proportions, but it has also been augmented with Cubans, Haitians, Hindus, Pakistanis, Chinese, Japanese and hordes of other alien mud races. Like the situation in Texas a century ago, JOG is doing nothing to stop the invasion. On the contrary it has opened the doors wide and is encouraging the mud flood, rewarding it with welfare and subsidization after these parasites get here. All this at the White Man's expense, and aimed at the destruction of the White Race.

What can we do about it? What can we learn from the Texans who cleansed the muds out of their territory by 1880?

1. The first thing we can learn is that the cleansing action, heroic as it was then, was not permanent. Today there are more Mexicans in Texas, (as well as California, Arizona, New Mexico and other states) than there were in Mexico a century ago. And they are still coming in droves.

2. The reason we have not stopped the mud flood is because the White Race has never gotten their act together to extirpate the real cause — the Jewish virus which was the cause of the Civil War, and a host of other wars (WW I, WW II), all of which have been devastating to the White Race.

3. The reason we, the White Race, have succumbed to the deadly Jewish virus is because of our blindly clinging to the destructive Jewish mind-scrambler, namely Christianity, which teaches us that we must love our enemies, and that the Jews are God's chosen.

4. The solution is what the C.O.T.C. has advocated repeatedly: we need a racial religion of our own, based on reality and the survival, expansion and advancement of our own kind. With Creativity we now have such a religion, one around which we can now rally the total White Race and cleanse the world of the expanding mud races with the same zeal and determination as the Texas Rangers did in the last century.

Lessons We Can Learn from the David Duke Campaign

1. The most important fact emerging from the Duke campaign in Louisiana is that the racial issue is now on the front burner in politics and every other field, and overshadows all other issues on the present day political, cultural, economic and every other arena of endeavor. It is not confined to Louisiana, or the South, nor even the United States. It is now the dominant issue on a worldwide scale.

Nor is it anything new, nor something innovated by David Duke. It has been there, simmering ominously for a long, long time, even long before the Civil War, or even Columbus' discovery of America. What is new is that it is being openly debated and entering the field of politics with gusto. Words and phrases that the Jewish newsmedia defined as not "P.C." (politically correct) are now being bandied back and forth by Jewish commentators, nigger news writers and politicians, and even by most of the more timid White politicians, commentators and reporters.

2. David Duke did not set this phenomena in motion. As I said before, it has been brewing for a long, long time. Ronald Reagan during his mediocre term began to bring it more into public consciousness with his opposition to quota bills. President Bush went a step further when he turned his 1988 lackluster campaign around, coming from behind by using the Willie Horton case as a major issue, which his opponents charged was a racist tactic. The fact is, it was, and certainly helped him in coming up from behind to win the presidential race.

3. Duke was far from being the ideal candidate in representing the White racial position. I have never once heard him mention the Jewish tyranny as an issue of debate. Furthermore, he also had too many skeletons in his own closet, besides his past connection with the K.K.K. and Nazi groups. His moral and private life leave much to be desired and had he won, his enemies would certainly have eagerly aired them out in public. Nevertheless, although his past was well known, the overwhelming fact is that he still won 55% of the White vote, a very, very significant fact. Actually, this is what the Jewish press admits, but the real figures may even be considerably higher. This is what the White people voted, despite denunciations from the churches, from the (Jewish) business community, and even from the President of the United States himself. His own party, the Republican Party, also disclaimed him.

The fact that even though he only mildly represented the White racist position, it was still the key issue in the campaign, and his financial help came from not only the voters in Louisiana, but from all over the United States. This indicates more strongly than ever that the country (and the world) is ready for a racial showdown: The war is now on, the White Race vs. the mud races, an issue we, the Church of the Creator, have been preaching and promoting vehemently for nearly 20 years.

4. On the other hand, the niggers, unlike the White voters, strictly practiced racial loyalty. They voted 96% for Edwin Edwards, and it is the niggers that voted him in. So we had a strictly racial polarization, with the majority of the White people voting for a White candidate, and the overwhelming majority of the niggers voting for the Jew-nigger contingent. In future campaigns, it should be thoroughly emphasized — one candidate is the nigger's candidate, the other one is the White Man's candidate. We must polarize each contest to the hilt.

5. We, the COTC do not claim to have invented this issue. Nature has ordained it since the beginning of time — the segregation of the species, and woe betide any species that would dare violate her laws. What we have done, however, is marshalled the obvious facts and structured them into a consistent, orderly and comprehensive code and religion, the first such Racial Religion in 6000 years of civilized history. We have raised the virtue of White Racial Loyalty to its highest peak in all history, while at the same time exposing the idiotic obsession by our people of worshipping non-existent Jewish spooks in the sky, especially that of a mythical Jewish bastard. We want to revolutionize an insane frame of mind that has deranged and scrambled the brains of the White Race for the last 1900 years.

6. In order that we get the Jewish tyrant and monster off our back, it is absolutely imperative that we, the White Race, get control of our own destiny. This we can do only if we gain control of our government here in the United States, and in every other White country. The road to such attainment must be to build a strong, well organized, well financed and all-pervasive White power structure, one which is inherently religious in its zeal, political in its drive, and racial at its core. When we do this (and we are well on our way) there is nothing in the world that can stop us, not the Jews, not the niggers, not JOG nor any other power on the face of this planet.

Some Other Observations

(a) Although running a political candidate under the umbrella of the COTC is slightly premature, we should whenever a highly desirable candidate emerges and is ready, willing and able, start testing the waters and get into the swim. Although I do not believe David Duke is by any means our best standard bearer, nevertheless, I was begging and hoping he would win. It would have encouraged (and still will, even though he lost) other White candidates to do likewise and run on the racial issue. I cannot understand why Tom Metzger came out at the last minute and denounced him. What possible motive could this serve in the interests of the White Race? However, this is by no means the end of this issue, only the beginning.

(b) Racial strife and tensions are building up and running high all over the world. Skinheads in Germany are burning down the houses of the muds, even killing them, and the muds are fleeing for their lives. France is shipping out the muddy Algerians. Pamyat is active in Russia, and the Jews are fleeing that country in large numbers, a once great country they have assiduously worked to destroy and leave in shambles. Canada, Sweden, Australia, England, the Netherlands and in fact about every White country in the world is becoming race conscious and aware of our great White heritage. RAHOWA! and more power to them.

(c) In the campaigns of the future, unlike David Duke, we must be more explicit, more strident, more militant; and instead of merely talking about quotas, affirmative action, welfare parasites, we must move into the next phase with gusto and talk more incisively about the Jewish tyrants and their program to mongrelize and destroy the White Race. We must expose the Federal Reserve Board and the corrupt Jewish counterfeiting ring that it is. We must talk about expanding our own numbers and territory and driving out the mud races from our lands as did the early Texans in the Nineteenth Century (see R.L. No. 75).

(d) Finally, we must face the fact that for the White Race to pursue its program for survival, the time might soon come when we will be forced to implement Articles 7 and 8 of Creative Credo No. 64 (see page 401 of the White Man's Bible). Let us make sure we are prepared should such an emergency be forced upon us as a last resort. Let us never be caught in the disastrous position the Arabs in Palestine find themselves, where the Jews have all of the Uzi machine guns and the Arabs have nothing but rocks to throw back. Never, never, never give up your guns.

(e) In this last resort scenario, we welcome letters, literature, suggestions and advice from any and all our supporters as to how we can best prepare ourselves for self-defense and in implementing Articles 7 and 8 as a last resort, should it become necessary.

(f) In the meantime, recruit, distribute our literature, and organize to the hilt. Let us make hay while the sun shines, for time is running out.
DELENDA EST JUDAICA!

Issue No. 78 — February 1992

What is the Matter with being a Racist?

In their long and depraved history, the Jews have launched and promoted any number of evil and destructive movements and ideas. To name a few — Judaism, Christianity, Communism, the United Nations, race mixing and the program of the White Race feeding and subsidizing all the scum and mud races of the world. There are dozens more, such as the French Revolution, but we will not pursue the list of evils that were conceived and promoted by the Jewish network over the last 5000 years.

In promoting any and all of these movements their key weapons always have been, and still are, propaganda, lies and deception. The main trick is to hold up false images — make the evil seem good, and make the healthy and salubrious seem evil. An example of the former could be communism, and an example of the latter would well be exemplified of the evil image they have built up about the genius of the greatest leader the White Race has ever had, namely Adolf Hitler. They have used this same technique in selling communism to the Russians and the world, in selling Christianity to the Romans, and race-mixing to the Americans of today. All these ideas and movements were (and are) built on lies being repeated over and over again until the unthinking yokel finally accepts them as being a self-evident truth (such as all men are created equal).

They hammer away at the same goddamn set of lies endlessly and relentlessly until they have enough believers to build their evil movements. The technique consists mostly of building up a stable of epithets, which, when once established firmly enough, all the Yids need to do is hurl them at their enemies and no substantiation or argument is further needed. The Christians used this technique, it was used by the Communists, it is used by the race-mixers of today. The Christians built up such epithets as "pagan,"

"anti-Christ," "sinner" and a host of others. Communism's main target was the word "capitalist" (which would describe any competent man of intelligence and achievement). The source of most of these convoluted ideas originated out of the Jewish New Testament, first conceived by Pharisee Jew Saul of Tarsus. Remember the Sermon on the Mount? Or the story of Lazarus and the Rich Man?

Today we want to more closely examine the word "racist," a description the Jewish press and network considers as one of the most evil and despicable words in the English language. To be a racist is to be evil per se, and since we Creators openly declare that our race is our religion and we are proud to be racists, according to the Jewish mind-set we are all evil, just as Jewish Christianity deems all people are sinners and automatically evil from the day they were born. "Racist" and "racism" is indeed the Jew's favorite epithet and they will throw it at anybody and everybody who doesn't love the niggers and the Jews. In fact, it is also used as a cudgel against any one who is proud to be White.

There are a number of flaws in most of the deceptive epithets the Jews have built up to fire mortar shells at their enemies, but none of the flaws are as glaring as their invention of the racist epithet.

The most glaring flaw in this whole racist hocus-pocus is the fraudulent and two-faced nature of this hoax. It is great to be racist if the niggers practice it. For instance, Martin Lucifer Koon was a great man (according to the Jewish press) because he was so vociferously pro-nigger. Hitler was the most evil creature that ever lived because he was for his people, the White Race. The Jews are just wonderful people, God's Chosen, and in fact, because they claim they are pro-Jew and pro-Israel, even though they may be American citizens and never have set foot in Israel, they are, in fact, the most fanatic racists of all. The Arabs are evil racists if they are pro-Arab, but the dumb American Indians are heroes if they are pro-Indian and anti-American, anti-White or anti everything else. And so it goes. Pro-nigger, pro-Jew, pro-mud racism is good racism. Pro-White racism is evil, evil, evil.

Why the double standard? It is so obvious, so inconsistent and contradictory that any simple child can see through it, and unlike most of their clever deceptions, this "racism" epithet, although millions and billions are being spent by the Jewish establishment to promote it, nevertheless, it isn't selling too well. Although the Jews are using every means at their disposal, television ads, commercial newspaper ads (there is always a nigger in the middle of every clothing ad) and even government enforcement (housing laws, affirmative action and a dozen others), the White people are not buying the race-mixing garbage. Not only is it not selling, it is beginning to backfire and being used as an ever more powerful weapon by the White Race. Even the politicians (horrors!) are getting into the act, (mildly) as witness the recent David Duke foray in Louisiana.

The fact is Race is the most prominent and powerful issue in the world today. Never have so many millions of people become as race conscious as they are today, and this is what scares the hell out of the Jews in their present world predicament. The reason the Jews have spent so much time, money and energy (even long before Hitler was ever heard from) to denounce "racism" is because they themselves are the most fanatically race conscious people in history and they have long realized what a powerful, cohesive force it can be if properly organized. In fact, Judaism is nothing more or nothing less than a pro-Jew racial religion, and it has been and is today the Jews' religious loyalty to their race that has enabled them to become the world-masters and super-tyrants of mankind that they are today.

They also realize and have realized for centuries that racism inherent in and combined with religion is the most powerful motivator and world-mover of all. That is why they are scared spitless of Creativity.

They realize full well (much more so than the White people) what a powerful and world embracing force is inherent in the White Man's first totally racial religion, a religion that is clear, consistent, coherent and comprehensive, a religion that is specially designed for the survival, expansion and advancement of Nature's Finest, Nature's most intelligent and creative creature in all history. Yes, the Jews have excellent reason to shiver in their boots.

Creativity is thoroughly racist, a characteristic of which any man or woman can be intensely proud. I am proud to be a racist. The opposite of a racist is a traitor to their race. A racial traitor in our lexicon is the most despicable and repugnant miscreant in Nature's realm.

Yes. I am proud to be a racist. Anyone who is not, is a racial traitor. So let us march forward under the banner of Creativity, expand and advance the potentials of Nature's Finest until we have built that Whiter and Brighter World in totality for which mankind has been striving not only for centuries, but for millenniums.

In order that we achieve this noble goal we must first expose all the deceptive Jewish shibboleths and epithets and replace them with our own great creative and powerful ideas.

It is a war for the minds of men, and especially for the mind of the White Man. It is a war we are winning, a war that will expose and destroy the most vicious and deceptive parasite the world has ever known. Delenda est Judaica! RAHOWA!

Issue No. 79 — March 1992

BUSH'S NEW WORLD ORDER

Basically, its objective is for the Jewish Gulag Archipelago to encircle the globe with universal poverty and tyranny shared by all.

When George Bushwacker Bush was scheduled to make his State of the Union speech last January 28, he had a tough nut to crack. The establishment media realized that he had to come up with the speech of his life to save his crumbling presidency what with election year coming up. The economy was in ruins. Companies, large and small, were going bankrupt. Companies were laying off workers by the tens of thousands. Despite extending "benefits" (dole) for the second time within the last few months, people were destitute. The unemployment figures were skyrocketing. Our national debt was mounting by the hundreds of billions. The country was (and is) in a dilemma worse than the Great Depression, with this one major exception — we are never again to return to normal, and the Jews have planned it that way.

Undaunted, Old Bushwacker George stepped up to the rostrum to the repeated cheers of his Republican and Democratic lackeys, acted as if everything was coming round the bend and lied his way through what some pundits even applauded as a great speech.

What did he say? He said nothing new. He was proceeding in lock step with the Jewish plan of the New World Order which he had already touted in a major speech last year. He even bragged that it had been the United States, our persistence in fighting the Cold War against Communism that had destroyed Communism. We had fought in Korea. We had fought in Vietnam. Last but not least, we had fought in the glorious Gulf War and smashed Iraq back to the rubble of the stone age. Weren't we great? And the long suffering tax payer who had paid for all these glorious wars was finally to get kudos for having put up with it all for so long.

But the Bushwacker was lying through his teeth throughout the deceptive tirade. The United States, under the control of the Jewish network has never fought Communism. On the contrary, ever since the November Revolution of 1917 when the Jewish Communists took control of the unfortunate and misguided Russian people, the American policy has aided and abetted that Jewish swindle every step of the way. If we really had wanted Communism destroyed, all we had to do was nothing and it would have rotted into oblivion a long time ago. If we really had wanted this Jewish pestilence wiped out, Adolf Hitler and the Germans would have given it the final death knell in the early 1940's.

But no. Roosevelt and his gang of Jewish criminals moved heaven and earth to get us into that war to save Communism and to save Jewish control of the world. Not only did we save the Commies' neck, but we immediately shipped 13 billion dollars worth of goodies, refrigerators, tractors, technical machinery, and even the secrets of producing the atomic bomb to Russia even before (and after) World War II was over. Korea did nothing to impede communism. Neither did Vietnam nor the Gulf War, nor the numerous covert CIA activities in practically every part of the world. On the contrary, every action we took, every hundred billion we spent overtly or covertly helped to expand Jewish Communist control.

Despite all our efforts, Communism has dismally failed and broken down of its own insane rottenness, no thanks to America. It is now a dead horse abysmally exposed for the foul, rotten Jewish tyranny that it always was and is. But the Jewish program of world slavery under its control has not changed. Only the name has been changed to confuse the gullible and the cowards. The program itself remains constant — and that is to suck the whole world into this catastrophe. Only now we will call it the New World Order, and instead of it being run out of Moscow, it will now be directed out of Washington, New York and Israel. The American people who have had to finance most of this sorry mess are now to become poverty stricken slaves, just like the rest of the Third World countries, and beaten down to their miserable level.

* * * * *

There is nothing new about the New Order. It is as old as the Jewish conspiracy itself which has its roots in the Talmud, the Old Testament and the Protocols of the Elders of Zion.

Think about it. What is the most vicious, the most heinous, the most dastardly crime our enemies, the Tribe of Judah, could possibly perpetrate on Nature's Finest, the illustrious White Race? Would it be extinction? Would it be enslavement? Would it be mongrelization?

The answer is, yes. It would be all of these horrible catastrophes and more. Added to this horrendous list would also be the shame, the torture, the humiliation, the filth to which we would be subjected, and worst of all, the irreversible poisoning of our precious White gene pool. Our striving and the building of that illustrious gene pool by our noble ancestors over the millions of years would be thrown into the dung heap and admixed with that of the filthy niggers and sub-human animals. Our glorious history would be calumniated and defiled, ridiculed and dragged into the filthy mire of the lowliest Hottentot and African aborigines, a shameful process that would be even beyond the basest scum as witnessed in Haiti and other sub-human mires of degradation. Think about it again! Is this the kind of world you want to leave your children and grandchildren? Your future progeny ten generations down the line? Fifty, one hundred generations into the future?

We Creators say not by a goddamnsite, if we can help it!

Let us take a sober and realistic look at what we are faced with today, in the last decade of the Twentieth Century. After Bushwacker George Bush lured Saddam Hussein into attacking a two-bit penny-ante country the size of a postage stamp into invading Kuwait, he and the Jewish press had the necessary pretext to declare war on Iraq and bomb it into rubble. Why should he want to do that? To defend the United States? Lets not be silly, a fifteenth rate country like Iraq, nine thousand miles distant from our shores, was not of the slightest of threats to our (American) security. So why did he commit 450,000 troops, an endless array of tanks, battleships, planes, missiles and all the other accoutrements of destruction to the desert sand of Saudi Arabia in order to smash Iraq? The answer to that question is simple as hell. He did it not to protect our homeland, not to protect our oil supply, but he did it to protect the sleazy, slimy, sump hole of the world that is the home of the world's most pernicious parasite. He did it on the orders of his Jewish overlords, in order to smash an immediate and nearby threat to Israel. And smash Iraq he and the Jewish overlords did, in the process killing some 300,000 Iraqi men, women and children.

ITS NICE TO HAVE A JEW LOVER IN THE WHITE HOUSE.

WHEN ISRAEL SPEAKS I LISTEN!

THE JEW PROGRAM OF WORLD SLAVERY HAS NOT CHANGED. ONLY THE NAME. ITS NOW CALLED "THE NEW WORLD ORDER"

For this traitorous act of cowardly accommodation to the Jews, Bushwacker Bush was acclaimed a great hero deserving re-election in 1991, and "Stormin' Norman" Schwarzkopf the greatest military strategist since Hannibal. The fact is that the outcome was inevitable and one sided as a gang of a thousand bullies beating up on a small troop of boy scouts. It required no great genius, nor were there any heroics involved.

Nor was there any surprise involved, either in the invasion of Kuwait by Iraq, nor by the massive smashing of Iraq's military and infrastructure by our 220,000 sorties of blasting bombers. As I have shown in considerable detail back in December of 1990 in R.L. No. 66, the operation was deliberately planned a full 18 months in advance in the secret enclaves of Fort McPherson, Georgia. It was headed by chief planner Lt. Gen. John Yeosock, who, in turn, was under the orders and supervision of the Jewish network, who master-minded the whole operation.

Being overwhelmed by all the Jewish adulation, the Bushwacker began to believe all this heroic hogwash. He began to feel like a world leader and began to talk of the New World Order, with himself as the dictator of course. So let us take a closer look at what he and his Jewish cohorts are talking about. After all, he is at least nominally the president of the world's most powerful and affluent nation and the commander in chief of the world's largest and most sophisticated military establishment. In fact, the United States, now that the Soviet Union is rapidly falling apart, is the only super power left in this rapidly deteriorating world.

So what does Bush have in mind when he talks about the "New Order?" What he and his Jewish cohorts have in mind bodes ill for mankind, and especially for the White Race. The New Order is neither new nor will it be orderly. The plans and the outlines for the new order are as old as the hills, and for the perceptive historian its details can be fleshed out from reading Deuteronomy, Numbers, Joshua and all the rest of the Jewish tripe in the "slay 'em and rob 'em" stories of the Old Testament. It can be further amplified and detailed by studying the Talmud and further brought into more modern focus by reading the Protocols of the Elders of Zion. It is a Jewish program of mass genocide, of slavery, of torture and horror. The gruesome goals of such torture and beastliness can best be perceived by reading the last book in the Jewish Christian Bible — namely the splenetic ghastliness of "The Revelation." (See Part X of "Revolution of Values" Page 188, "Revelation, a Jewish Nightmare in Technicolor.")

There is no great secret about what the Jews have in mind for us in their "New Order." In fact, the details are already abundantly visible for those who will look reality in the face. Let us take it step by step.

1. Here is the kind of humanity the Jews have in mind for us goyim. In fact, they have built a model statue of such in the United Nations building in New York, and is photographed on Page 70 of the book The United Nations' Blueprint for Peace. He is called the UNESCO Brown Man and is supposed to be a composite of all the mud races of the world. He is faceless, nationless, homeless, characterless, a brown slob utterly detached of any history or heritage. Unlike the picture shown, the slob will also be ugly, short and dumpy, a deformed and grotesque caricature of what used to be "Nature's Finest."

2. The White Race, per se, is the number one target of all that the Jews hate, fear and despise. Their greatest efforts are now, and have been since the days of the Egyptians, to mongrelize and utterly destroy the White Race. We saw it in the wanton slaughter of the White Russians when the Jews ran rampant during the Russian Revolution they themselves organized. (They utterly murdered between 20 and 30 million White Russians.) We saw it happen a century and a half earlier when they guillotined the French nobility and pursued their strategy of "always kill the best first." We saw it again in the mass bombing and slaughter of the Germans in the firebombing of Dresden, Hamburg, Berlin and hundreds of other German cities during World War II. We are seeing it in the emasculation of the White Male right here in America today.

We could go on with dozens of other examples. The destruction of Rome through the poisonous virus of Jewish Christianity. The mongrelization of the exemplary Greek civilization 2500 years ago. The driving out of our W.R.C. from the continent of Africa. There is more, much more:

3. The build-up of Israel and the subjugation of national powers and independence into the jurisdiction of the United Nations. Since the governmental powers of all nations are in the hands of the Jews (especially that of the United States) this is no problem for the Jews. They own the money, they own the newsmedia, they own the government. With all the key news centers of power in their hands, controlling the United Nations is a piece of cake. George Bush repeatedly referred to fulfilling the United Nations' Resolutions when he wanted to clobber Iraq back into the stone age, and did so with great impunity. Of course, it was not he who was calling the shots and making the decisions, but his Jewish overlords, but it made it look so universal as if the whole world was behind him, when actually a few key Jews in the Kehilla were really making each and every one of the decisions.

Such is the nature of the coming New World Order. George Bush acts like he is really in control, or perhaps even believes that he is. He is of course, only a front, a Jewish stooge, and the Jewish Kehilla is calling the shots. If Georgie boy doesn't follow strict orders, he will quickly be replaced by the real operators.

How can we, the White Race, fend off the coming disaster? The answer is to inform, arouse and organize the mightiest potential power on the face of the earth — the White Race — Nature's Finest — and the best vehicle to organize around is a powerful racial religion. Join with us in promoting Creativity, recruiting new members and building a powerful steam roller to smash the Jewish menace once and for all. Issue No. 81 — June 1992

Revolutionary Leadership

Leadership, like fame, is an elusive and fleeting quantity. Some people have leadership thrust upon them, others train for it and struggle hard to obtain it, others are born to it. In this discourse we are interested how we, the COTC can obtain more and better leaders in our movement. We need thousands of leaders and millions of followers.

Leaders come in different shapes and categories. Some are financial leaders, some are best fitted to be political leaders, some are inspired to be religious leaders, some for organizational leadership. The categories are endless.

At this stage in our Creativity movement we are interested in every category of leadership, but basically we are interested in real revolutionary leadership, because, at this time in history we are in the middle of a major revolution, a complete and drastic revolution of values, a revolution so far reaching that it is undoubtedly the most significant event in 6000 years of civilized history.

Yes, whether we like it or not, we are today engulfed in a major worldwide revolution that constitutes a major turning point in the history of the human race, and the outcome will either be a catastrophe of gigantic proportions or it will usher in a new age of greatness and well-being for the human race. Not only will the future course of the human race be drastically affected, but the global environment as well. It will depend on which side wins. If the evil forces led by the Jews are victorious, future humanity is doomed to tens of thousands of years of slavery, misery and bestiality, a situation from which there is no reversal and from which it can never recover. If, on the other hand, the White Race wins, led by the program and vision of the Church of the Creator, a bright and beautiful new world will emerge. It will be a world of grandeur and beauty, a world of continuing advancement, of cultural, economic and genetic well-being. The outcome, my dear White Racial Comrades, depends completely on how hard you struggle to bring about victory.

James MacGregor Burns has written a book on Leadership, one in which he covers a dozen different types of leadership — political, executive, financial, religious and a variety of others. In Chapter 8, he examines Revolutionary Leadership, the topical subject we are herewith involved, because, believe me, what we are involved in in this latter part of the twentieth century is no parlor game. We are not playing musical chairs or ordinary politics. The revolution we have been hurled in to is the most cataclysmic in the history of mankind, and the outcome is so final it can never be reversed. Either our future progeny will be part of a hellish mongrelized mass of enslaved zombies, or they will have the great good fortune to be living in a Whiter and Brighter world that will be a wonder to behold.

Here is how Burns describes a revolution. "In its broadest meaning revolution is a complete and pervasive transformation of an entire social system. It means the birth of a radical new ideology; the rise of a movement bent on transforming society on the basis of that ideology; overthrow of the established government; creation of a new political system; reconstruction of the economy, education, communications, law, medicine, and the confirmation and deification of a new leadership... Rare is the revolutionary leader who helps initiate a revolution, lasts through the whole revolutionary cycle of struggle, victory, and consolidation of power, and directs the process of social transformation."

If we apply the above definition to the Creativity revolution to which we are committed, it fits our every category. We make no bones about it. We are and we intend to implement a radical new ideology and religion: we intend to build a bright new world that will be exclusively inhabited by Nature's Finest — the White Race. We intend to completely destroy and exterminate Jewish dominance of our government, of our finances and of our culture. We intend to wipe out the malignant Jew spawned religion of Christianity that has so plagued the mind and soul of the White Race for nearly two thousand years and replace it with a healthy and progressive racial religion structured for the best interests and needs of the White Race and exclusively for the White Race. We plan the creation of a new political system based on the Leadership Principle, not the present much-touted Jewish "democracy"; the reconstruction of the economy; of our educational system in which race and eugenics are paramount. We intend to revolutionize our system of law, medicine (Salubrious Living), communications and our whole ecological system of keeping this planet a cleaner and greener world, a world our future progeny can live in with the utmost of pride, enjoyment and health.

Burns further states that "Of all the stages in a transforming revolution, the birth of the idea or vision that impels the revolution and its adoption by a decisive number of persons are probably the most crucial steps towards the transformation." This is very true. For any revolution, movement or religion to come into being, it first must have a solid and comprehensive creed and program. This we have in Creativity, and do we ever! It is the most fully-structured, the most comprehensively detailed and clearly articulated creed and program any religion or movement has ever been given. It has been detailed to cover every phase and vital need relevant to the survival and well-being of the White Race. It is spelled out in at least twelve books and no stone has been left unturned to clearly state where we stand on every issue vital to our great race. Furthermore, it is based on two of the strongest emotional and motivational movers in history — it is based on race and religion.

There have been any number of revolutions in history gone by, most of them minor, some of major impact. Burns reviews four major revolutions, their leaders and their impact. We can learn something from each.

1. Among these certainly Martin Luther (1483-1546) ranks high, although like practically every other revolution the impact of his "Reformation" did not bode well for the White Race per se. Nevertheless, the impact of what he did changed the course of history, although not necessarily for the better.

It is interesting to note that Burns gives us a very low rating of Luther's leadership abilities. He says, "Few leaders would seem so ill suited for revolutionary leadership as Martin Luther, for he acted without party and organization; his strength lay in the collective strength of a following he hardly knew." He points out that Luther for most of his life (he died at age 63) was a poor monk with no political base and an uncertain ecclesiastical one, had no military protection and was in frequent peril for his life and freedom. He was neither a trained philosopher nor a learned theologian. Yet he created a revolution that echoes into our time. Burns notes, however that he had an absolute fanatical conviction that carried almost everything before it, and he had the good fortune of living in an era ripe for ideological change.

2. The French Revolution.

In his treatise "A Real Case Against the Jews," Marcus Eli Ravage, himself a Jew, frankly states (P. 288 WMB) "We (the Jews) have been at the bottom of not merely the latest Great War, but nearly all your wars, not only the Russian but of nearly every other major revolution in your history." Further on (P. 289) he states clearly that not only did they have a major hand in Luther's Protestant revolution, but "the three principal revolutions in modern times — the French, the American and the Russian."

Ravage was boasting, but he was not lying. The French Revolution was a carefully planned and staged Jewish revolution. It was one of those revolutions that devoured its own instigators and they did not live to see the fruits of their labors. Some of these leaders were Goy, some (most) were Jews. A few of the more prominent leaders who were victims of the revolution they had helped to instigate were Reoeillon, Brissot, Danton, Marat and dozens of others, including thousands of lesser caliber.

The real leaders and instigators of the French revolution were the Jacobins, a Jewish organization which later became the forerunner of the Communist Party in Russia. The real objective of the Jacobins was to behead and destroy the French nobility. "Always kill the best first," is the basic Jewish principle. This they did with a vengeance as they guillotined tens of thousands of those of the best in French leadership. The Napoleonic Wars that followed in the next twenty years killed other hundreds of thousands of the best France had to offer. The French nation has never recovered from this drastic blood letting instigated by the Jewish Jacobins, starting with the French Revolution.

3 and 4. The Russian Revolution and the Chinese Revolution.

In his book, Burns treats the leadership and these two revolutions in considerable detail. However, I will not take the space, and rather make short shrift of them.

Both were Communist revolutions based on Karl Marx's deceptive Jewish theories. The Russian revolution was aided and abetted in large part by American Jewish Capitalists such as Jacob Schiff of Kuehn, Loeb and Co. He donated 20 million dollars financing and training 3000 Jewish cutthroats under the tutelage of Leon Trotsky in Eastside New York. The Chinese revolution in large part was also aided and abetted by the American government itself when they sent George Marshall (of the Marshall Plan fame) over to China in 1949 to help Mao Tse-tung "negotiate" Chiang Kai-shek out of power and have Mao and his communist band of criminals take over.

There are two parallel features about the Russian and the Chinese revolutions, besides them being instigated by Jewish communism and the American government. One aspect is that Lenin, a prominent leader of the Russian Revolution, lived long enough to reap the fruits of his labors to rule the take-over for a few years, (until he went insane and died in 1924), and Mao on the other hand ruled China for many years. The other common denominator is that in both revolutions the Jews succeeded beyond their wildest dreams their maxim of "kill the best first." In Russia it is estimated that somewhere between 20 and 30 million White Russians were murdered early in the take over, the same White Russians who had brought civilization and government to Russia some one thousand years earlier. In China it is estimated that at least 60 million of Mao's enemies were murdered during his bloody regime.

There is one major revolution of modern times that author Burns fails to list among the four mentioned above, and that is Adolf Hitler's National Socialist revolution. This is rather strange, since it had an impact (at the time) that was equal to any in history. Perhaps because it was not as bloody as the French, the Russian and the Chinese Revolutions that Burns decided to omit it. Secondly, it was the only revolution that was not Jew led and inspired, and in contrast to the bloody revolutions was an extremely constructive revolution for the German people while it lasted. It was of course, as everyone knows, crushed by the worldwide Jewish powers, for to have left it to flourish it would soon have meant the end of Jewish financial and tyrannical governmental powers throughout the rest of the world. Nevertheless it was a major revolution of the first magnitude and one from which we, the White people can learn much.

And we have learned much from this heroic breakthrough against Jewish tyranny and treachery. Here are a few of the lessons we must take to heart.

1. Rather than Nationalism as preached and practiced by the Nazis, we must instead unite all the White peoples of the world under one umbrella, as did Hitler with the Germans.

2. Never again must White Men kill White Men, whether it be under the auspices of Nationalism, religion, language or any other divisive pretext. We must recognize our real enemies — the Jews and the mud races, then make common cause with all the White nations of the world and concentrate our political and military fire power against the real enemy.

3. In order to unite the White peoples of the world we must realize our genetic values and dump overboard the Jewish Christian mind boggler that has plagued the White Race for nearly two thousand years and brought it to the edge of suicide.

4. We must also unite the White people of the world under one language, namely Latin, and eliminate the three greatest divisional tools with which the Jews have manipulated us for too long, namely nationality, religion and language differences.

Creativity has the answer.

But time is running out on us. We must realize that the most deadly revolution of all time is now upon us and this time "killing the best" means killing or mongrelizing all of the White peoples on this Planet Earth — a goal the Jews are pursuing with a fanatic vengeance. So the commitment we must make is clear and imperative. We must organize the total White Race. We must train our leaders. We must have a prepared plan of action when the showdown comes — and it is coming in this decade.

The need is overwhelming and the choice is clear. Either through cowardliness and negligence we accept the death of Nature's Finest, or we fight back and take over and inhabit all of Planet Earth. There is no choice in between. So make up your mind my dear White Racial Comrade, and spring into action. Creativity has the whole program laid out for you. Join with us now and save our future progeny from the fiendish hell the Jews have planned for us.

Trials, Tribulations and Triumphs

Chapter One

Foundation Day

The history of the Church of the Creator and its World Center really begins with the day we started moving dirt and laying the foundations at its present location in North Carolina. We regard this as an historic event in our movement, and choose to call it Foundation Day. It occurred on a beautiful spring day, March 10, to be exact, and I will never forget it. The contractor, Billy Sanders, and his crew and surveyors appeared on the scene at 8 AM that fine morning, and Henrie and I were there with our cameras to take both colored and black and white pictures, to record the event for posterity. By 10 AM Dean Conners and his crew arrived with their bulldozers and other heaving equipment to start moving dirt.

Although I have already set forth most of the details of the architectural plannings and the actual construction of the building itself in my previous book, Against the Evil Tide, I nevertheless want to briefly review some of the major events of that first epic year, beginning with Foundation Day, in order to properly tie the story into the period about which this chronicle is concerned. That particular period is the decade between Foundation Day, March 10, 1982, and the time I retired and legally turned the leadership of the Church over to the succeeding Pontifex Maximus. That ten year span has been the most crucial, the most frustrating, yet undoubtedly the most productive and rewarding ten years of my life.

March 10 was a busy day. Besides dealing with the surveyors, the contractor, and the dirt movers, I also met with the well driller, Charles Davidson, and reached an agreement with him about the cost of drilling a well for the church, the cost of the pump, the pressure tank and all the rest of the supplementary equipment that went with it, as well as the exact location of the wellsite itself.

For some reason, any attempt to found a new religion, anywhere, at any time in history, has always been encountered with the most virulent opposition and the utmost hostility. It took Christianity at least three hundred years to come out into the open, and then more than fifteen hundred years of warfare and strife to establish itself. In fact, the battle is still raging in numerous parts of the world unto this very day. Mohammed and his cohorts had to fight endless battles in order to spread their beliefs, and, as we all know, the warfare is still far from over. Joseph Smith and his brother were killed at an early age by an angry mob in their attempt to establish their Mormon religion. The Jews, as we all know, have been under siege for the last four thousand years or so in order to maintain their parasitic religion in every region they have intruded. In fact, their continuing existence in Palestine, where it all began, is most precarious, to say the least, and chances are excellent that they will not be there for long. But no one can argue that the most conspicuous characteristic about all these religions, that despite all the opposition, hostility and warfare, is that they have endured. They have survived, they have grown and spread and they have persevered. Furthermore, they have had a more pervasive influence on the culture and the course of history than any other human endeavor throughout the ages.

When I first entertained the idea of structuring a racial religion for the White Race in the face of the two dominant and well entrenched Jew-spawned religions, namely Judaism and its bastard offspring, Christianity, I had no illusions about the hostility and opposition I would undoubtedly encounter. Besides the religious hostility which I expected we would encounter, there was also the added racial aspect as well. The niggers would be hostile, the Jews even more so, and then there were (especially in Southern Florida) the Cubans, the Haitians, the Mexicans, the South American mixbreeds and a dozen shades of other mud races, all hostile to the White Race and any movement that might unite us. In fact, during the first ten years after the inception of Creativity a major portion of my concern was where I could possibly locate our main headquarters without having the place burned to the ground in short order by our enemies. As I stated in my previous book, I finally decided on the wide open spaces of North Carolina, where I already owned some suitable acreage. Although I realized that there was no such a place as a safe haven anywhere in the world, I reasoned that in a nearly all-White area such as the one in which I was already established in Macon County, NC, our chances of maintaining reasonable security would be much better than in a Jew and nigger infested area such as Broward County, Florida, where I then lived. In this line of reasoning I was probably correct. Who knows how long we might have lasted in that increasingly polyglot area of crime, drugs and turmoil in South Florida.

As our anti-Christian racial religion invaded Macon County in 1982 in the center of that highly bigoted mass of religious insanity known as the Bible Belt, I believe it is constructive to review some of the highlights and antagonisms of that first hectic year. We were prepared for unrelenting warfare against the Jews, the niggers, and the other mud races, since this was what our religion was primarily geared to warn our White Racial comrades about. However, we were also keenly aware of the hatred engendered against us by the fanaticism of the Christian zealots. Nevertheless, we were not quite prepared for the viciousness of the onslaught by the local paper, highly aided and abetted by the local peddlers of the spook-craft hoax, the Christian preachers themselves. They not only were highly alarmed that we could and would expose their nefarious network of lies and lunacy, but by the very nature of our realistic creed and program we would eventually by our exposure of their hoax be undermining their very source of livelihood as well. Let me say that their fear was well founded, and as the years go by, Jewish Christianity will wither on the vine by its own sheer mass of mendacity and deceptions, as has already befallen its other twin hoax, Jewish communism.

The atmosphere for the reception of our controversial new religion by the bible thumping natives was set and determined by a nasty and vicious article that appeared in the Franklin Press on May 13, 1982, when our headquarters building was barely in mid-construction. In blaring headlines on page one, it proclaimed "Pro-Hitler, anti-Christ Leader Headquarters Here." In a sea of fanatic, spook-worshipping zealots, could anyone possibly dream up a more hateful, inflammatory target than a Hitler-loving and Christ-hating beast? Hardly! It set the whole county on its ear, and was the subject of much buzzing and a host of rumors for weeks. It also set the tone for other news items in the state and regions elsewhere that usually follow such an upheaval.

For years my wife and I had been commuting back and forth between Florida and North Carolina, as circumstances demanded, trying to take care of our affairs in both areas. This was no easy task, since the distance between the two areas was a mean 750 miles, a trip that consumed the better part of two days one way. At the time the rumors started flying about our impending headquarters, I happened to be at our home in Lighthouse Point. I received a long-distance call from a Franklin Press reporter by the name of Kim Kimmins, a fanatic who I later learned belonged to one of the many Pentecostal Churches in Macon County. (By the way, this small county at that time was, and still is, infested by more than 100 churches of all stripes.) We talked for about an hour, and most of the information of what she already possessed had been fed to her by the Jewish Anti-Defamation League, who had also gratuitously sent her a copy of the two-page article that same outfit had planted in the Miami Herald in 1981.

Well, soon all hell broke loose, and we were the main topic of conversation and rumor for the next several weeks, in fact, the rumors and lies never have stopped unto this very day nearly ten years later. All kinds of stories were invented and bandied about: that we were devil worshipers, that we practiced animalistic rituals (whatever that was), that we were neo-Nazis, Christ haters, and about every other odious idea these spook chasing idiots could dream up.

Chapter Two

Looking for a Hasta Primus

For more than a decade I had already had a volume of correspondence with a number of readers of my then two books, Nature's Eternal Religion and The White Man's Bible. Over the years I had also gathered a number of enthusiastic supporters who were willing to jump into the fry and help get the movement into high gear. It seemed there would be no lack of qualified volunteers and helpers, now that we had a headquarters that even had a nice full-fledged two bedroom apartment on the second floor. What I now needed was a helper who was somewhat familiar with the computer technique, and most of all, was a good typist, and I don't mean just the hunt-and-peck type. Such person would have a host of other duties besides helping me put the paper together, such as writing letters, and taking care of the mail, sending out packages of books and other literature, and in general, hold down the fort. Since we were, and are also promoting Latin, I thought of giving him a Latin title suited to his capacity and duties. I decided to designate him with the title of Hasta Primus, which means Spearhead. I had been spreading the word around in my correspondence that I needed such a helper, and I did indeed receive a few replies, one of which was from a young fellow by the name of Timothy J. Gaffney.

Tim was 27 years old, was from Schenectady, New York, and was an accountant for that state. He was a college graduate, was married, his wife being a Catholic. He seemed highly enthusiastic, and was already head of a small group called The National Force and Order. He wrote me that he would like to apply for the job, although it meant moving his family and giving up the better paying job he already had. He asked if he could come to Otto, meet with me, talk over the situation and the premises. I said fine, and met him at the Asheville Airport at 3 PM, October 9, 1982. A few hours later we had a good steak dinner at the Tallent Steak House in Franklin, then drove over to our headquarters, then still under construction. We had to use a ladder to get to the second story of the building in order to survey its layout. However, the apartment was all framed in and he could get an excellent conception of the whole blueprint. After staying with us at the cabin overnight, and talking over the whole proposition as thoroughly as possible, including the pay, $1000 a month, I took him back to the airport the next morning. He agreed he and his wife would be ready, willing and able, and on the scene, furniture and all, as soon as the building was finished, which we expected would be approximately the first of the year, 1983.

The building was finished on schedule, and even the carpeting had been laid in the upstairs apartment. I had been in contact with Tim Gaffney and he duly arrived in his car at 3:30, Wednesday, December 28. His furniture arrived a day later. However, his wife was not with him. He said she would follow in about a month. Nor had the typesetting equipment arrived at this time. I had been in constant contact with Art Rogers of Compugraphic, and he kept assuring me it would be arriving any day now. I had already written several articles to be published in the first edition and was rearing to get started. But for some reason, the equipment was not forthcoming, and we waited throughout January. In the meantime, another problem was developing. Tim's wife Mary was not forthcoming either. Being Catholic, her priest had been working on her, and had persuaded her what a dastardly sin she would be committing if she helped her husband promote Creativity. She would be better off if she got a divorce than move to North Carolina, he told her. All the while Tim had nothing to do, although I was still paying him his salary. Being in enemy territory, it was important to me that there was someone on the premises at all times to protect and hold down the fort.

Tim was dedicated and determined to do his job as promised, but with a rebellious and uncompromising wife throwing down the gauntlet, either he came back or she would sue for divorce, he was in the middle of a sorry state of an impossible dilemma. I tried not to influence him either one way or the other, since it was his decision to make. As can be imagined, all this drove him into a frazzled, nervous wreck, and by the last week of January the poor fellow decided to give up.

Henrie and I had gone back to Florida a few weeks earlier, and when we returned on February 26, he had already shipped his furniture back to Schenectady the day before. After a good breakfast with us at the cabin next day, we said a tearful goodbye, and he drove off in his car. Henrie and I had become quite fond of him and hated to see him go.

All this time the typesetting equipment had still not arrived, and I kept badgering Art Rogers for action. All I got was more promises. In the meantime, I was also looking for a new Hasta Primus and I went through an agonizing list of prospects that I interviewed. I will be brief and just mention a few.

Being an honorable fellow, Tim had given me adequate notice a few weeks before leaving, and I had contacted a certain Richard F. Becker, who resided at Greenville, NC. He had read my two books and seemed quite enthusiastic about the movement. He was a tall fellow, had attended the prestigious South Carolina military establishment at Charleston called The Citadel. He had also been involved in a North Carolina group and still had several connections with some of these fellows. He could touch-type and had even written an impressive little book which I had read. It was most puzzling and aroused my interest. It was all about his experiences of being consigned to an insane asylum by his own father. Strangely, although this was a most drastic procedure against his person, and an extremely demeaning action, he never held any grudge, animosity or antagonism against his father for declaring him legally insane, and this has continued to puzzle me.

His booklet also contained quite a bit of his Nazi and racial philosophy, all of which seemed racially correct. He was receiving a disability check each month, and as far as I know continues to do so unto this day.

He had written me several letters, and his book seemed quite rational and, in fact, rather interesting. I decided to contact him for a visit and an interview.

Under a cloudy sky that threatened snow, he arrived at my cabin in his own car on February 8, bringing with him a mangy dog, and a dissolute and uncouth slob of a companion who had been an associate of his while they were both in the insane asylum. Why he brought either of them along still puzzles me, and I made it clear to him that if I accepted him for the job that dogs or any other animals on the premises were out. I explained the job to him, and tested his typing ability. He seemed to be a capable typist and as there did not seem to be any other particular problem, and we agreed to having him take over the job of Hasta Primus and help in putting out the paper as soon as the typesetting equipment arrived. He, his dog, and his companion left later that afternoon, just as a heavy snowstorm began to blanket the landscape.

* * * * *

Soon thereafter I received word from Richard Becker that he would not be able to take the job after all, for what reason he did not say. I began to look for another prospect.

Recently I had been sent a small booklet on the subject of how to organize a right-wing movement, written by a fellow by the name of D.A. (Duke) McCoy. He claimed he had been in the movement for 30 years and sounded like an outstanding authority. I decided to track him down and finally made contact with him by phone at Rossville, Georgia. I made a trip to Rossville, which is near Chattanooga, to meet with him, and since he had been in the movement for so many years, I presumed he was somewhere up in his sixties. I rang the doorbell and was met by a beautiful young blonde. His daughter, I presumed. However, when the famous author appeared in a bathrobe and his stocking feet, I found out to my surprise the blonde was not his daughter, but his wife, and he himself was in his late thirties. He seemed like an arrogant fellow who knew it all, he had heard of me, read some of my writings. We talked for the next five hours and I explained to him what I wanted. He sounded interested and agreed to visit with me on the premises at the Center the following Sunday.

He and his wife arrived at 12 noon as scheduled, also having their pet pooch in tow with them. Always these goddamn dogs!

After giving them a tour of our premises, we treated them to a special dinner my wife prepared. We put them up at the cabin overnight. The next morning I also gave them a tour of the area — Dillard, Otto, and the whole layout. All the while I was trying to impress upon him the mission of our movement — namely to lay the foundations of a completely new racial religion for the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, and our first step in this direction would be the publication and widespread distribution of our monthly tabloid, Racial Loyalty. His job would be putting the paper together and being its editor.

The stupid idiot seemed opposed to just about everything I had in mind. We shouldn't put out the paper at all. We should be more subtle, more conciliatory, more gentle, something like The Spotlight. In fact, it seemed that the impact of his advice was we shouldn't do anything at all, and the more I listened to him the more he began to sound like a JOG agent. It didn't take me too long to decide I didn't want him around under any circumstances. After a few go-arounds of that nature, I sent him packing, blonde wife, pooch and all.

A few days later, Tuesday, March 8, 1983, late in the afternoon, a huge truck from Global Van Lines with six large boxed packages arrived. It contained all our typesetting equipment and accompanying accessories from Compugraphic. Evidently part of the reason for the long overdue arrival was that someone had screwed up and first sent it all to South Boston. Anyway, so now here it was, and I had no editor or typist, and the instructor who was soon to follow would have no one to whom to teach all the tricks and techniques of how to work this complicated complex of machinery.

While Tim Gaffney had been here he had utilized some of that wasted time in building a five foot high picket fence across the front of the lot to help protect us from vandals. It also had a two-part swinging gate which we could close at night. The truck was so huge it could not maneuver around in the limited space between the gate and the fence on the other side of the road. So the only solution was to park the truck outside the gate and wheel all that heavy equipment across the gravel yard with the aid of a dolly. Then it had to be carried to the upstairs floor, and one piece of equipment, the printer, was so big and heavy it strained three strong men to carry it up the outside stairway. It took the three men until 10:30 that night to unload and cart all that equipment upstairs. By that time I had gone back to the cabin about a quarter of a mile up our then gravel road and was getting ready to go to bed. Since the gravel road was a narrow one-way affair, I had told the driver that when it was time to leave, the only way he could get his huge vehicle turned around would be to drive up the road to where my cabin was, which had a four way crossing and enough space in which to turn around. Evidently, someone wasn't listening, or I hadn't made my instructions too clear to him.

At about 11:30 that night there was a knock on the cabin door and a very agitated driver related to me that he and his huge truck were stuck in the ditch just down the road. Evidently in the darkness he had tried to turn around about one hundred yards short of the four corners, and now he was stuck, having torn down part of the neighbors' cow pasture fence in the process as well.

I called the wrecking service. They said they would come out, but because it was now midnight, we would have to wait until morning. At 7:30 next morning Ron Slagle's wrecking truck duly arrived to pull Global Van Lines out of their mess and get the big dinosaur turned around. This cost Global an extra hundred dollars, but it also left an unhappy Jerry Ayers with an unfixed fence.

That same afternoon Blue Ridge Trucking Service arrived with two more pieces of equipment from Compugraphic.

Next, we needed a specialist from Compugraphic to unpack all the complex equipment, make all the proper inter-cable connections between the various pieces, and test the whole set-up to make sure it all worked. On March 15, Robert Yasi, a newly converted born-again Christian from Piedmont, South Carolina, arrived to do just that. He also asked us a lot of curious questions as to what our religion was all about, to the point of undiplomatic aggravation. However, we still needed some more equipment. We still needed the software for the printer, which was soon dispatched by special delivery.

So now we were all set to start printing our paper, but we still had no typist.

* * * * *

Richard Becker had recommended a Nazi friend of his, Tyler Thompson, who was also from Greenville. Tyler had written a fairly meaningful letter to the editor of their local Greenville paper, which impressed me that he had the right racial leanings and also some intelligence. On the basis of Becker's recommendation and the copy of the letter I had been sent, I invited him to come down for an interview. He was living with his grandmother, and as usual, he was broke and he was jobless. He was willing, but he asked me to send him his bus fare. This I did, and he in fact arrived at Headquarters on March 12, where we had our interview, discussing conditions, salary, etc. He seemed intelligent enough, could type and could evidently do the job. There were however, two negatives I detected. He had an admitted drinking problem, and he seemed too much on the defensive. Since my choice of candidates was extremely limited, I decided to take a chance on him and take him on.

On March 16 Henrie and I returned to Florida and while there I typed up a contract for him that tied down all our verbal agreements. He sent word back that the agreement was fine but that he didn't have any decent clothes to wear for the job, and that he would need at least $200 for clothes and the bus fare. I didn't like the touch, but being the naive chump I was and eager to get started, I sent him the requested $200. In our conversation over the telephone he said he would appear at the Franklin bus station on April 4.

The four large plank signs (The Winning of the West, etc.,) from Plastic Designs in Pompano Beach were now ready. I strapped them to the bars on the roof of my Pontiac station wagon, and on Good Friday, April 1, 1983, Henrie and I decided to head back to North Carolina, this time in two cars, Henrie driving the station wagon and I the VW Rabbit. We had our usual lunch of shrimp sandwiches and soup at the Holiday Inn at Fort Pierce, then after driving 430 miles, we decided on stopping at Moultrie/Adel on I-75 for the night. However, all rooms were taken in every motel. We hadn't counted on the Easter week-end. We drove to Tifton and had dinner at the Holiday Inn, but as far as lodging for the night was concerned, the clerk informed us there probably wasn't a room available by this time of the night all the way up I-75. By this time it was near midnight, and we decided the best we could do was just sleep in our respective cars. We drove up to the rest area on I-475 by-pass, parked our cars and snoozed until about 1:30 AM. We then drove on, tired as we were, and arrived at the cabin at about six in the morning.

After a few hours of sleep, I was awakened by a call from Tim Gaffney. He was interested in distributing large numbers of NER and WMB and wanted to find out the cost of cases of each. That same afternoon I also received a call from Tyler Thompson, who was supposed to arrive on April 4. He informed me, sorry, he would not be coming, he had a bad back. What about the $200 I had sent him? Sorry about that too, he had spent it all. Later I found out he had spent it on a grand drunk, and remained as suitless as before. So much for Tyler Thompson and my faith in human nature.

Since I had expected Tyler Thompson to be here on April 4, I had made arrangements with the instructor from Compugraphic, a fellow by the name of Gene Schweigert, to be on the premises and give our typist a few days of instruction. This was part of the package deal, no extra charge. Unlike Tyler, Schweigert promptly arrived on the scene. So now we had an instructor, but no typist. What to do? Henrie and I decided we would take the instruction ourselves, and since Henrie was a fairly good typist in her own right, we would put together the first edition of Racial Loyalty ourselves. I and when we ever found a suitable helper we would then pass on our limited know-how to that person. After three days of instruction, we had a fairly good grasp of the operation, at least enough needed to put the paper together.

* * * * *

The same night after I had received the no-show from Tyler Thompson, I called Tim Gaffney again, hoping that he might have reconciled his wife to coming down here and that he might still be in the mood. The answer was — no change, no chance. But he had a friend who used to be his boss in the accounting department and was part of his Force and Order group that he felt was highly qualified for the Hasta Primus job, and might be interested. His name was Bill Tucker, and he gave me his telephone number.

I gave Bill a call and after some conversation he said he was interested and would come down for a visit and an interview. Sure enough, on Saturday, April 9, he arrived with his wife Arlene and as usual, also another dog in tow. I showed him the territory, discussed the work and the terms, treated them to lunch and also to dinner. I detected that his wife was the dominant factor in the equation, and she did not seem too eager to make the move. At 7:10 PM they left, and nothing further came of that encounter, although he promised that he would be in a position to take the job in about six months. Big deal.

* * * * *

Time was slipping by, and I was getting impatient. I came to the conclusion that if we were going to get that first edition of Racial Loyalty out, we would have to do it ourselves, with Henrie doing the typing. I went to work in the garage workshop and constructed a lowboy on which to set the big, heavy 8402 Printer, and a stand and a cabinet on which to place the Zebra developer. I also built a long slanting layout table on which to cut, lay out and paste-up the copy. I also bought an electric waxer and ordered a thousand layout sheets.

For the last year, or so, I had already written and filed away a number of articles I anticipated publishing and now we were ready to go. On April 12 Henrie started typesetting the first article, Creativity, an Idea whose Time has Come. I had originally intended to only publish an eight page tabloid, but I had so many articles and information on hand, the first edition ended up with 12 pages, and it has remained such ever since, except a few times we expanded into 16 pages.

With Henrie doing the typesetting and me doing the cutting, the layout and the paste-up, we had six double sheets, 12 pages, put together and ready for the printer by April 24. We designated it as ISSUE NO. 1, June, 1983.

We found an outfit in Franklin, Dixie Advertising, to do the printing. We ordered 15,000 copies for our first run and gave Gene Dowdle a check in the amount of $921.86. Actually, they did not do the printing themselves, since they did not have a press with which to do this kind of a job, but farmed it out to an outfit in Murphy, NC, and took a commission. Having put the first issue to bed, we left for Florida that same day, April 24, to take care of several urgent matters. Among other things, we had our home up for sale.

On May 6, we left for North Carolina again. In the meantime I had been in touch with Richard Becker again by phone and he had changed his mind about taking the job. He arrived in his car minus his pooch at 10:15 PM on May 8, and I settled him and his belongings in the upstairs apartment of the church. The next morning Richard and I had breakfast at the B & D Restaurant in Franklin, then picked up 15,000 copies of Racial Loyalty from Dixie Advertising. That same day we shipped out 15 cartons of 100 each to people who had been subscribers to our books and literature with instructions to distribute them as widely as possible. The next day we shipped out another 51 such cartons, and several hundred individual copies to people who were not subscribers, but were on our mailing list.

On May 16, I had Billy Sanders put up the large plank signs on the facade of the church, The Winning of the West. During the next few days I taught Richard the fundamentals of what I knew about the mechanics and techniques of using the typesetting equipment. Then, on May 18, after leaving him with several articles I had previously written for him to typeset, Henrie and I again left for Lighthouse Point.

Chapter Three

Fireworks

On May 20th we were back in Lighthouse Point to put the finishing touches on the agreement for the sale of our house. It was a cash deal, and after getting together with the broker, the buyers' lawyer, we signed the contract, which, among other things, stipulated we would vacate the premises before July 1.

No sooner was this major episode in our lives completed, but we were off to North Carolina again on June 3 in order to start putting together the second issue of Racial Loyalty. I had left Richard with a number of articles to type, and now it was a matter of editing, cutting and pasting, as well as a number of additions, changes and rearrangements.

Meanwhile, on June 9, I was visited by two reporters by the names of Marke C. Winne and Bill Montgomery, both from the Atlanta Constitution/Journal. It seems that J.B. Stoner, publisher of The Thunderbolt and a founder of the National States Rights Party, had been convicted of bombing a nigger church in Alabama. It was an incident that had happened some 15 to 20 years earlier, an allegation for which he had been tried at the time, but had been duly acquitted. Now, it seems some eager beaver nigger District Attorney had reopened the case, and in a plainly rigged trial, got a conviction from the present jury. Anyway, Stoner was now on the lam, and there were some suspicions being bandied about that we were harboring him at our church. The two reporters were adamant that we were hiding him somewhere in our complex and they wanted to be the heroes that had found him. After some lengthy argument in which I made it plain to them that I didn't know what the hell they were talking about, they started to leave. They got as far as our gate where their car was parked (this was going on at our cabin) when they came back and thought they would make another try at it. By this time I was getting somewhat aggravated, and told them in no uncertain terms to get the hell off my property and not come back.

All this somehow reminds me of a little joke I read sometime later. It seems little nine year old Johnny was attending Sunday School and his teacher was going on about God up in heaven and all that. Johnny was listlessly dozing off when suddenly the teacher pointed a stern finger at him and asked: "Johnny, where is God?" Suddenly startled from out of his day dreams, Johnny began to cry and ran out of the room to the football field where his older brother was playing. "God is missing," he cried in desperation, "and they think we've got him!"

The next day after the reporters visit, on June 10, I finished putting the second issue of Racial Loyalty together and again took the copy to Dixie Advertising to have them print 5000 12 page copies, at a cost of $655.38.

The next day Henrie and I left for our home in Lighthouse Point, this, for the last time. As soon as we arrived we started on the arduous task of getting our endless collection of belongings, the valuable as well as the useless, packed up for the big move. It was a task at which both Henrie and I cringed, but it had to be done and we had better get going.

Chapter Four

North Carolina — Settling In

In the last chapter of Against the Evil Tide I have already described in detail the difficulties of selling our home in Lighthouse Point and the last minute fiasco with Allied Van Lines in getting our furniture and belongings moved. I will therefore not repeat it here. Let me just summarize by saying that on June 30, 1983, we arrived at Clayton, Georgia at noon. After having a good lunch at Burrell's Junction restaurant, we loaded up with groceries and arrived at our cabin at 1:30 and immediately started unloading our overloaded Pontiac station wagon. Besides the groceries, this consisted of our most intimate and treasured valuables, such as our numerous oil paintings and other personal necessities. Henrie and I checked over the cabin and the yard and found everything in good order.

Next I checked in with our Hasta Primus, Rick Becker, who was settled in at the upstairs apartment of the Church. Before I had left for Lighthouse Point on June 11, Richard and I had already finished putting the second edition (July issue of Racial Loyalty) together and taken it to Dixie Advertising to be printed. (5000 copies, $655.38.) In the meantime, Rick had mailed these out as per our prescribed mailing list at that time. Now that I had returned and settled in permanently, we immediately started putting together our third issue, the August edition.

Although sloppy in manner and in the housekeeping of his apartment, Rick was a good typist and was able to utilize the Compugraphic typesetting machinery competently. I drew up an "Agreement for Contractual Services" with him, specifying his duties and paid him a fee of $1000 per month, with him paying for his own telephone bill and the electric bill for the upstairs meter, which was separate from the downstairs and basement area. Besides taking care of the typing and correspondence, his duties also included mowing the lawn, taking care of the yard and surrounding area and keeping the building clean and in good order.

By July 26 we had put the August edition together and again took it to Dixie Advertising to have them run off 5000 copies.

In many ways Rick Becker was a strange man. About 40, he was well built, stood about 6 foot 2, and exercised regularly either by jogging or lifting weights. He had at one time attended The Citadel, the famous Military Academy at Charleston, South Carolina. As far as I know, his grades were satisfactory, yet his father, a college professor himself, had him declared as legally insane, and temporarily confined to an insane asylum. Rick wrote a comprehensive booklet about his horrible experiences during this episode. He had written me as early as 1981, and had sent me a copy of it. I read the book, found out that he was strongly racist, an ardent Nazi, and after reading my first book Nature's Eternal Religion, he became a strong supporter of Creativity. His own short book was well written, and it puzzled me greatly why his father had him declared insane. Yet, despite all the nasty procedures he experienced at the clinic, he seemed to have no grudge or hard feelings about what part his dad had played in the commitment. Anyway, one benefit he derived from it all was that he received a disability check of about $550 each month. Method in his madness?

By the middle of August, he began to get somewhat antsy in his job, and part of his problem was insecurity and a streak of cowardliness. For instance, one evening we had him over for dinner, and by the time he was ready to walk back to his apartment at the church, about a third of a mile, it was dark. He hadn't been gone for more than two minutes, when he was back, knocking on the door. He admitted he was afraid to walk back in the dark, and could I drive him back? Which, of course, I did.

* * * * *

Before coming to the World Center in North Carolina, I had carried on an extensive correspondence with just about anybody and everybody that I felt had something important to say. One of these was a fellow by the name of Keith Williams. He was a radio announcer and disc jockey from Roseburg, Oregon, and went by the professional name of "Dude." Every once in a while he would call me long distance and chat. He had a rich, cultured baritone voice, as befitted a radio announcer, and he sounded like a man of means. One day in the middle of August I got a telephone call from him that he was on a bus, enroute to see me and would I meet him at the Franklin bus station at 10:30 AM on Friday, August 19. I was flabbergasted at the sudden announcement, but said, yes, I would pick him up.

This I did. When I met him, what I saw was a big surprise from the image I had pictured in the various telephone conversations I had exchanged with him. He was without a coat, without bag or baggage. All he had on his back was a dirty, sweat soaked shirt. He said some nigger on the bus had stolen his wallet and he was penniless. Instead of the suave, polished radio pitchman I had pictured, I saw a big, fat slob, in his early fifties, unshaven and unwashed. He had come, he said, to work for the Church of the Creator, and would take any job on any terms. Then he began to unload his problems.

He had an endless assortment of family problems. He had been married twice, had five grown children, and now he was divorced again, and his wife had taken him for everything he had. Furthermore, even his children testified against him in court. Evidently he had picked up a new love, a North Carolina waitress, and he was thinking of marrying her, or at least living with her. He was in a high state of agitation as I listened to him, but claimed he was highly dedicated to the cause of the church and wanted to work with me.

I let him stay at my house over night and get cleaned up. Then next day I tested his typing ability, and further discussed the working conditions. I straightened him out on the situation that if I took him on he would not be working with me, he would be working for me, and what I said goes, and make no mistake about it.

Rick Becker had been getting antsy of late, and I was not too happy with him. Besides, if he left within the next couple of days he would be in time for a class in Ancient History that the government paid him for taking, over and above his regular disability pension. I considered the pros and cons, and finally decided I would take on this new "Dude" and let Becker go. After staying another couple of days to teach Dude the intricacies of operating the typesetting machinery and familiarizing him with other details, I paid Rick Becker his final fee of $128. and he was on his way back to Greenville, NC.

There were any number of problems with Dude. In the first place, I insisted that the name Dude sounded too phony and that he use his regular name, which was Keith, in his correspondence. Secondly, he had no car, so I temporarily let him use my VW Rabbit. He promised he would have a car of his own within a month, and he did pick up a second hand jalopy after a period of about two months. Then there was this girl friend of his that he wanted to have move in with him. I said no way, unless they were married and showed me their marriage license. This they finally did, and with her she brought two young boys of hers, ages about 8 and 10. They were nice kids, started school at the Otto Elementary School, and caused no problems.

So finally we got most of their problems put together, and he was doing a satisfactory job in answering correspondence and doing the typesetting. While he did all the typing, I did all the writing, layout, cutting and pasting in putting the paper together.

During the first week in September (1983) I had an interesting visit from Everett Wybert, with whom I had been corresponding for some time. He was from Youngston, NY. There were mainly two subjects on his mind. One, he wanted to buy several hundred copies of Salubrious Living and use them as a non controversial way of introducing Creativity to new people, then follow up with more substantial material if they seemed receptive. He bought about two hundred copies.

The other subject was an interesting scientific convention that was coming up in Atlanta within a week, and one that he had been designated to audio record all speeches given. It was called The Second International Symposium on Non-Conventional Energy and was to bring together all the leading scientists of the world to expound on their latest work and findings in the field of discovering new sources of energy other than those already current. This excluded such as solar energy, atomic energy, and other conventional sources, but tried to pursue something new, such as harnessing gravitational force, or any other means that had not yet been developed. It sounded very interesting, and Henrie and I decided to attend, at least part of it.

We left at 10 AM on September 10, and met with Everett Wybert at the Colony Square Hotel in Atlanta, where the Symposium was taking place. Since it was now 12:30, we immediately proceeded to have lunch. The Symposium had already started that morning. We listened to brilliant renditions of a host of different ideas, many of which were illustrated with slides and all kinds of other supplementary paraphernalia. There were about 300 different scientists participating from many different countries, and one thing that emerged from this gathering that stands out in my mind was that the hero of all these scientific explorers was not Thomas Edison, but Nikola Tesla.

Meanwhile Everett was recording all these speeches. Henrie and I attended the banquet that evening and then at about 11 PM we checked in at the Atlanta Cabana Motel for the night.

The next morning Henrie and I drove to the huge new renovated Cyclorama in Grant Park. Not only had the huge paintings of the battle scenes been repaired and repainted, but the whole physical structure had been redone, so that now the spectators could sit on benches, remain in one place, and the inside cyclorama itself slowly revolved and the upcoming scenes were spotlighted and highlighted, as well as accompanied by music and verbal explanations.

We then went back to the Symposium and had lunch with Everett Wybert. He was good enough to give us copies of six audio tapes of important speeches he had recorded during the Symposium.

Henrie and I then left Atlanta and arrived back home at 4:30 PM.

It was at this time, in September of 1983, that I started talking to Billy Sanders, the contractor who had built the church, about building a second structure. It was to be a School for Gifted Boys, a sort of Leadership Training School, an idea I had had in the back of my mind for some time. I started drawing up rough plans of the kind of building I had in mind, then had architect Jack Patton draw up the final blueprints. On October 14, 1983, Doyle Byrd brought in his heavy equipment and actually started moving dirt for the site of the School for Gifted Boys.

Chapter Five

Christmas with Kim and Walt in Colorado

By 1983 Kim and Walt had left Colorado Springs, had moved to Loveland, Colorado, bought a home, and, in the new location, established themselves independently in the chiropractic business in Loveland. We were invited to spend the Christmas holidays with them, an invitation we gladly accepted.

Leaving the church business in the hands of Hasta Primus Keith Williams, Henrie and I left our cabin at 11:45 AM on Sunday, December 18, and headed west on US 64. We stopped for lunch at Murphy, NC, and drove on to Paducah, KY, calling it a day when we arrived there at 8 PM and checked in at the Day's Inn. The weather was cold and clear.

The next day we drove a total of 597 miles to Salina Kansas, after stopping for lunch at St. Charles, Missouri, at the Red Lobster, one of our favorite restaurants. By the time we checked in at the Holiday Inn at Salina at 8:30 PM, the weather had become very cold.

By the next morning the temperature had dropped down to 10 below zero and it was beginning to snow. Nevertheless, we thought we would brave it, and started down the road at 8:30 AM. We hadn't driven more than seven miles down I-70 when the storm developed into a full blown blizzard and we could hardly see the road. We decided to turn around and this time checked into the Red Coach Inn on I-135, about two miles south of I-70. Here we decided to weather out the storm.

The next morning, Wednesday, December 21, the weather was still bad, but somewhat less blustery than the day before. We decided to try again and make the run all the way to Loveland. By the time we reached Russell the wind had died down, and when we reached Hayes, KS, we stopped in for lunch at the Holiday Inn. Here we called Kim and told her of our position and that we planned on arriving there that evening. We did arrive at 6:30, after having driven 465 miles, a long day. After a happy reunion, Kim served us a good dinner.

Kim was very pregnant at the time and the birth of daughter Amy was only about three weeks away. They had already made plans to leave Loveland and move to Martinsville, Virginia. Although they loved Colorado, and the area they lived in, there were just too many chiropractors already established in this town, and prospects for a successful practice in the future were less than optimistic. It was a stressful time for the Moores, but nevertheless we had a very enjoyable Christmas. We exchanged presents, we watched a football game, and had a big Christmas dinner with all the trimmings.

We visited with them for two weeks, during which time we took several drives, one of which was to Estes Park where Kim and Walt were married, and then we drove on the long and scenic Trail Ridge Road in the Rocky Mountains National Park.

Walt had bought himself a video recording camera and was pretty adept at using it to record family events, trips, etc. It appealed to me and we went down to Denver and I bought a similar piece of equipment for $1291. Unlike Walt, I have hardly ever used it, and in the meantime, the state-of-the-art has changed considerably.

The next day Henrie and I took the boys, Scott and Bryan, who were approximately seven and five at that time, to the Denver Museum of Natural History, a very interesting place indeed. The boys had been there before, and instead of us showing them around, they seemed well versed with the layout, and were showing us around and explaining the different scenarios. On the way back we took them to Coco's restaurant at North Glen for lunch.

While at Kim and Walt's I also managed to write a 15 page lead article We Are Not Helpless for the next edition of Racial Loyalty.

On Sunday, New Year's Day, Walt and I watched the Cotton Bowl football game, then we all watched the Pasadena Rose Parade. In the afternoon we all drove to Estes Park, where we saw several deer along the way. We then had dinner at the Holiday Inn.

On Tuesday, January 3rd, we said good-by to Kim and Walt and the boys and left for the long trip back home. At Hayes we had dinner at the Holiday Inn, then drove on to the Red Coach Inn at Salina for the night, arriving there at about 10 PM.

The next day, driving east on I-70, we stopped in at Abilene, Kansas, and visited the Eisenhower Library, the Museum, the home and the chapel. Continuing on I-70, we had a good dinner at the Red Lobster at Cave Springs, MO, about 20 miles west of St. Louis. We drove on, straight through St. Louis, and stayed at the Ramada Inn at Fairview Hills, Illinois. Then on to Cleveland, Tennessee the next day, where we stayed at the Holiday Inn overnight.

From there it was a straight shot back to the cabin and home. On the way we loaded up with groceries at Winn-Dixie in Franklin, and arrived home at 12:30 PM. I stopped at the church briefly to survey the mail that had come in while I was gone. That same afternoon I called Arnfinn Sveen, the travel agent, and picked up an application for the Egyptian visa.

Chapter Six

Trip to Egypt

February 1984

For years my wife Henrie and I had been interested in the land of Ancient Egypt and we had acquired a number of books on the subject, including a large one from National Geographic. One of these days we decided we would take a tour of the esoteric country that had spawned the first great White civilization. When we visited the Second International Symposium on Non-Conventional Energy in Atlanta last September we happened to listen to a professor from the University of Florida announce that he was organizing a tour group to go to Egypt next January. He was specializing in agricultural sciences and wanted to delve into Egyptian practices and methods. This sparked our immediate interest and we asked him to send us some of the literature on the tour. By the time we received the brochures six weeks later we had already decided we would go on our own, and weren't really interested in the agricultural aspects of Egypt anyway. But it was his lecture that had made up our minds to go.

The tour, though short, proved highly interesting and informative. In telling the story, I want to first of all give the background and the lessons we learned from this trip, then in a second chapter go into the details encountered during the itinerary itself.

* * * * *

The history of Egypt is extremely rich and covers a time span longer than that of any other major White civilization. There is much, much we can learn from it if we will keep our eyes and ears open and somewhat sharpen our perceptivity. I have been a longtime student of the history of White civilizations and have set down some of my observations and conclusions about them in Nature's Eternal Religion twelve years ago.

Whereas in my travels I had previously visited most of the locales of the other White civilizations such as Rome, Greece and Constantinople, I had never been to Egypt.

Understandably, because of its rich and extensive history, because of its wealth of archaeological monuments and artifacts still well preserved, I have always been fascinated with Egypt, and some day wanted to see it for myself.

The previous fall my wife and I decided come February we were going to see Egypt. Since no one knows what the future holds and what with the world being blown to bits by the Jews, especially in the Middle East, we thought that such an opportunity might never come again, and the sooner the better.

Well, on February 11, we finally did it. We got packed and left for a relatively short but exciting ten day tour of Egypt. I have related in more detail the itinerary and sites seen on the Egyptian tour in the next chapter. In this dissertation I want to re-analyze the story that is Egypt and derive what lessons we can learn from that first great White civilization and its demise.

When you take a guided tour these days you not only have your regular tour guide, but in order to create extra business most countries force the agency to have a second, a local guide as well. Egypt is one of those which require a second guide, since they too, are anxious to extract the last tourist dollar possible from its visitors. But before I describe the local guide, let me say a word about the regular guide.

His name was Tom. He was a handsome, well-built man, of Swiss nationality, and of German descent. As usual, he spoke a number of languages. He listed his home address as California, but actually domiciled in Spain. He was 51, single and as apolitical as you can get. He represented the perfect cosmopolitan, or should I say polyglot?

Our local guide was an Egyptian girl of 25 named Shareen. She was tall, had a good figure and a dark, muddy complexion. She pointed out that she was half Italian and had studied the guide business at the University of Cairo, that Italian was her first foreign language and English her second. I don't know how good her Italian was, but her English left much to be desired.

One of the first things she told us about Egypt that impressed me was that whereas the Egyptians spoke Arabic and it was their national language, there was a vast gulf of long standing between the Egyptians and the Arabs. She drew a sharp line of demarcation between themselves and the Arabs, pointing out that whereas the Egyptians had a long history of civilization and culture, the Arabs were nothing more than uncouth, uncivilized Bedouins off the desert, whom Mohammed had mobilized and polarized to become ruthless conquerors. She then lapsed into an interesting dissertation about Egypt's 4,000 year history of civilization before the Arabs came, about the multifaceted gods of Ancient Egypt, about the conquest of Alexander the Great, and then by the Romans; how Egypt was proselytized by the new Christian faith and by the fourth century A.D., Alexandria was the world's foremost center of not only Christianity, but also of culture and learning: how the Arabs came along in the 8th century, overran Egypt and converted it to the Moslem faith by force of the sword.

There was one sinister and insidious change in the Egyptian evolvement that Shareen seemed to ignore, and that was the racial disintegration of the once proud, intelligent White Egyptians.

As any student of Egyptian history knows, when the Egyptians first built their mighty empire and illustrious civilization beginning some 6,300 years ago, they were a unique species, a most outstanding race of gifted White people. Further up the Nile and to the south of them were the Nubians, black as the ace of spades. As the Egyptians expanded their empire, it was inevitable that they would come into confrontation with the Nubians. This, of course, they did, and stupidly, like all other White civilizations since, looked upon these inferior black creatures as excellent material for slave labor. They not only enlisted them as workers, but also took them into the army. The result was predictable and as I have pointed out in both Nature's Eternal Religion and The White Man's Bible, when there is a geographic mixing of the races, there is inevitably a mixing and contamination of the gene pool, and as time goes on, again inevitably, the bad genes out-breed and pull down the good genes. As a result, the average Egyptian today is a conglomerate mongrel, and a bad mongrel at that, on a level with that of the average run of Mestizo Mexican. But I will have more to say about that later.

As the bus rolled on and Shareen proceeded in telling her story of Egypt, my mind wandered off and I speculated about her own ancestry. I wondered what identity, if any, she herself could cling to, being a conglomerate composite of Ancient White Egyptian, black Nubian, Bedouin Arab, Early Roman and a proliferation of the slaves the Romans dragged into their Empire and through which they miserably dissipated their genes. On the cultural and the religious side she was an heir and composite hodge-podge of Ancient Egyptian culture and religion (of which they are so proud, but of which no vestige remains in the present day Egyptians); of the Coptic (Christian) Egyptians who held sway for five hundred years, and whose churches, temples and monasteries still remain in isolated pockets; and lastly, the Moslem creed to which she now professes adherence. But what is she really? She shares the same sad dilemma as do all mongrels, a botched-up, hodge-podge of race-mixing derelicts, whose ancestors wantonly and criminally flouted the laws of Nature. She is neither White, Nor Nubian, nor Arab, nor Roman. Culturally and religiously too, her loyalties would be torn between the Ancient Egyptian gods, Coptic Christianity, Roman Catholicism and the Moslem creed. What a shameful hodge-podge of a heritage has been slopped upon her by criminally irresponsible ancestors! How much Whiter and Brighter Egypt could have been today had the original creators of its civilization practiced the basic concepts of Creativity! If only they had had a racial religion!

The next statement made by Shareen that deeply impressed me was a political one. Whereas our German guide was completely apolitical, Shareen was not. She ventured the following opinion: "We have all been told that King Farouk was a wastrel and a scoundrel, and that Colonel Nasser was a hero who came to our rescue and gave us democracy and independence. Now, I may be thrown in jail for what I am about to say, but a lot of Egyptians think differently. The fact is that under Farouk Egypt had a population of 17 million people and most of them worked on the land in their primitive way as they had for generations. But Nasser changed all that by pursuing modernization and industrialization, by giving the people the vote, something they did not know what to do with. Egypt now has 47 million people. A large portion of these are crowded into Cairo and Alexandria. They are not better off, but are worse off, and with the subsidies of foreign aid we are receiving we have a runaway population explosion and the situation is rapidly getting worse."

Indeed it is. Cairo, which now has an explosive population of 12 million people, (this was in 1984) has facilities for a city of no more than three million. The streets are clogged with cars and people, the telephone system is a shambles, everything is patched together with chewing gum and haywire. One of the main reasons for the population explosion is U.S. foreign aid. Egypt, next to Israel, gets the largest chunk of foreign aid from the U.S. of any country in the world.

Why is the U.S. so generous to Egypt? Well, mainly it is bribe money to keep Egypt at peace with the miserable bandit state of Israel, all again at the expense of the American taxpayer. But it cannot go on. As Shareen pointed out — it is a one-way street to disaster. Egypt is increasing more than a million a year, and most of them are flocking into Cairo. Like Mexico City, it is a time bomb.

When we landed in Cairo, I took a good look at the people. They were darker than I had expected, being more or less the color of a mulatto in America. They are decrepit looking physical specimens, having all the worst characteristics of the mongrel. Yet, their Arab and some White characteristics are still discernable.

Then we flew south to Aswan and to Abu Simbel and finally embarked on a delightful and relaxing four day cruise down the Nile, from Aswan to Luxor. The big surprise to me was that whereas the natives at Cairo were a mud color, those at Aswan and north, and all along the banks north to Luxor, were out and out kinky-haired niggers, black as the ace of spades!

Watching the banks of the Nile, I had an opportunity to observe the natives, the native housing, and their primitive means of tilling the soil. Much of the housing out in the country (and even the environs of Cairo) is extremely crude, being built of primitive mud bricks and often nothing more than just plain reeds patched with mud. They tilled the soil much the same way as they did 2,000 years ago, after their civilization collapsed. Time and again I would see a team of water buffalo hitched to a primitive plough, with a fellaheen in a dirty white robe following behind. When I compared their primitive housing to the magnificent and grandiose temples and palaces built by their ancient predecessors, I could only be astounded and ask — how could a people sink so low from such an auspicious heritage? This brings me to the subject I want to discuss next — the Ancient Egyptian religion.

The history of Egypt is a prime example of what I am talking about in Creative Credo No. 45 of The White Man's Bible when I say that superstition and gullibility are the Achilles Heel of the White Race. There is hardly a civilization in history that was more overwhelmed with gods and spooks than were the Ancient Egyptians. They feared their gods, they idolized them, they supplicated to them.

In general, their religion was the most powerful force that controlled the life of the individual and set the course of the nation. This brings me to several other observations.

1. Because of their obsession with spookcraft and their neglect of nurturing their gene pool, they became mongrelized.

2. The trip to Egypt convinced me that the mongrelization of the White Race (whether local or global) is the Ultimate Horror.

3. It also firmly polarized a basic conviction I have had for a long time. That conviction is this: the White Race has been in dire need of a Racial Religion from the beginning of its civilization, and needs it more than ever today. Had the Egyptians had it, we would have a more beautiful, a Whiter and Brighter World today.

4. That all the fictitious concepts promoted by both Judaism and Christianity were already invented by the Ancient Egyptians. These fictitious concepts were first copied by the Jews and then transplanted into the Christian Creed, which the Jews originated and promoted. Some of these basic concepts were (a) the idea of a "soul," (b) the idea of "eternal life," (c) the idea of "gods," both evil and good, (d) the idea of "one god" (Ikhnaton), (e) the idea of "offerings" to appease the gods or god, (f) the idea of "baptism" (purification by ablution), (g) the idea of building magnificent and grandiose temples to honor and supplicate their gods. In fact, the whole program of controlling the masses by awing them with belief in hocus-pocus and the supernatural was already well advanced in the Egyptian religious system.

5. That the Egyptian obsession with preparing for death and immortality thereafter is, and was, one of the most destructive and wasteful ideas that helped to bring to an end not only a most illustrious and glorious civilization, but also a most unique and exemplary race.

If those gifted (and at the same time demented) idiots had only had a racial religion such as Creativity!

Instead, all the efforts of the Pharaohs were directed towards providing for the comfort and well-being of the immortality of their fictitious "souls." Each Pharaoh wanted to outdo his predecessor in leaving a monument and a tomb in which his remains resided, ensconced in a grandiose physical enclosure that they hoped would last into all eternity.

That their bodies were embalmed by a process still not understood by modern science, that we all know. That their mummies were then entombed in an elaborate set of sarcophagi which were then sealed in secret chambers in a huge pyramid or other structure, that too, is well known. What surprised me, however, is the extent to which they exerted themselves to "provide the soul" with all the thousands of goodies on its journey to eternity. They practically poured the wealth of the kingdom into this last rites project as if life here and now was inconsequential, but in contrast, the nurturing of the soul in the eternal hereafter was overwhelmingly the obsession of their living days. Does this have a familiar ring with the Christians who profess "seek not treasures on earth, but store up treasures in heaven"?

Such an astounding collection of wealth went with the sarcophagus and the tomb of a dead Pharaoh that they became the prime target of grave robbers in ancient times. It was almost like robbing Fort Knox, provided you could find it. No wonder the Pharaohs went to extreme lengths to make their inner tomb either physically inaccessible by sheer massiveness of sealed stone structures, such as the pyramids, or resorted to subterfuge, such as burying their tombs, goodies and all, far underground in a remote ravine such as the Valley of the Kings at Luxor. (Sixty-four Pharaohs' tombs have been found in the Valley of the Kings, and fifty-seven in the Valley of the Queens, opposite Luxor.)

In either case, they succeeded badly. Of all the Pharaohs buried whose tombs have been found, the grave robbers of ancient times got to them first, with the lone exception of that of the boy king, Tutankhamen, which was discovered by British archaeologist, Howard Carter, in 1922. It is suspected that the architects who designed these hideaways and who generally outlived the Pharaoh, were the key villains in either aiding the robbers, or doing the job themselves.

It is the tomb of King Tut that gives us some idea of the size of the national treasury that was poured into one of these tombs and then buried, supposedly for all time. I had the pleasure of going down into the tomb of King Tut where his mummy still lies, and also of viewing the treasures that had been found in the tomb, and now reside in the Cairo Museum.

Let me first try to describe the treasures, which are displayed in the Egyptian Museum, also called the Cairo Museum.

Whereas the exhibit that was brought to the U.S. in 1976 displaying the treasures of King Tut drew huge crowds in every city where it was held, it only included 55 pieces. On display at the Cairo Museum are 3,500 pieces, all brought out of the tomb of King Tut. It includes chariots, benches, bowls, chests, chairs, a gold face mask, gold sleeves for each of King Tut's fingers, 180 stone statuettes of his favorite servants, and such a list of varied knick-knacks that it is impossible to catalogue here. Suffice it to say that so much gold was encrusted on so many of these items and so many jewels were studded into them that it was like an open invitation to Fort Knox, provided you could find it.

Making it extremely hard to find or to get to is what the kings and their architects expended considerable labor and ingenuity in doing. I had always imagined the Valley of the Kings, and the Valley of the Queens, where a number of these underground tombs are located, as a beautiful valley with well marked ruins of the different tombs. To my surprise it was one of the most desolate ravines anyone could imagine. Despite all the elaborate and highly decorated tunnels, stairways, ante-chambers, storage rooms and the burial chambers themselves, there was not a vestige of a green blade of grass, or even the slightest indication above ground of anything of the grandeur lying beneath the ground. Until modern diggers got to these tombs there was nothing but desolation, the most beautiful of purple skies above and sand, sand, sand.

But once underground the amount of tunneling, carving, chiselling and wealth of decorations on the walls of the passages and chambers is truly astounding. Besides visiting King Tut's and a few other underground tombs, we had the pleasure of visiting the King Ramses VI tomb and exploring it to the very end. Just the physical aspects of it are overwhelming. It consisted of a series of sloping stairways, straightaways, more stairways and more chambers. Just to climb in and out would tax all but a seasoned mountain climber. I asked the guide what the total vertical drop of these stairways amount to, and she replied that it was a total of 40 meters. This is an equivalent of 125 feet, or a twelve story building, a good morning's climb, down and up.

The conclusion of all this obsession with providing for the hereafter is, of course, that it is extremely wasteful and patently stupid, but, of course, no more so than the Christians' cry of "store up treasures in heaven," or the U.S. program of subsidizing all the mud races of the world. Since King Tut was a boy king who only reigned nine years and died at the age of 18, and virtually left a national treasure in his tomb, we can only speculate how much more abundant were the treasures buried by such kings as Ramses II who was tremendously more powerful, much more egotistical, and reigned for a total of 67 years.

When we speak of Ramses II we come to another strange characteristic of the Egyptian Pharaohs that probably was highlighted by the king with the huge ego, but was shared by most of them. This was the obsession of not only being in "right" with the gods and the immortal life of the hereafter, but they each wanted their name and their statues and their monuments to overshadow all others and to prevail for all time.

The Egyptian kings' (Pharaohs') obsession with immortality evidently knew no bounds. They wanted immortality in the hereafter. To aid and abet that ego trip they built themselves grandiose tombs and stocked them with so many expensive goodies as to practically wreck the national economy, as I have already stated before. But they also wanted earthly immortality, combined with earthly fame and acclaim as well. In order to do this they built monuments, statues, pyramids and temples in their own honor. The surface of practically every wall in their facade, column, and what have you, was covered with hieroglyphics telling about themselves, about their heroic deeds, consorting with the gods, pointing to themselves in one way or another. All this was interlarded with their own "cartouche" which was their brand, or trademark, or signature. It consists of a parallelogram with rounded ends, inside of which was the particular ruler's individual name in hieroglyphics.

So popular are these cartouches that they constitute a major souvenir business in Egypt today. You can get your own cartouche made up in gold or silver by a local jeweler, with your name spelled out in raised hieroglyphics. It can be worn as a charm and is one of the few worthwhile purchases you can find in Egypt today.

To get back to the ancient pursuers of the big ego, a powerful king like Ramses II had a marvelous temple built in his honor at Abu Simbel. It was cut into the face of a solid cliff on the banks of the Nile in a godforsaken place 168 miles south of Aswan and 768 miles south of Cairo. On the outside are four colossal statues of Ramses II in a seated position. Each is over 65 feet high. Inside the first room, the Great Hypostyle Hall has a ceiling supported by eight columns faced with huge statues of our hero, Ramses II, in the pose of the god Osiris. The second hall is supported by four pillars, with reliefs on the walls of Ramses, his wife Nefertari, and his horse and chariot. A similar glorification is again repeated in the third chamber. In fact, Ramses II is all over the place, always with his cartouche, saying: "This is Ramses."

But he wasn't the only one. Most of the kings followed the same course, only were not quite as successful because they did not reign for 67 years, and the times were not as propitious.

Now there were two ways to outshine and overshadow their predecessors. One was to outdo the others, and the second was to destroy and obliterate the previous ruler's name and/or works. Whereas the history of Egypt has many pieces missing, we nevertheless can find much evidence of both tactics — to out-build the rival and to obliterate their predecessors' name and fame. Sometimes this was simply achieved by cutting out the previous ruler's cartouche (on the monument, in a temple) and replacing it with his own. Ramses II is known to have done this in several cases.

One was the case of Queen Hatshepsut, one of the most remarkable women in history. Hatshepsut was married to Thutmose II, her half brother — not an unusual practice in Ancient Egypt. When Thutmose II died after a short rule, she took over the government as temporary regent for Thutmose III, the legal heir to the throne, who was still a child. I might explain that whereas Thutmose III was the son of Thutmose II, he was not the son of Hatshepsut. Anyway, so enamored did Queen Hatshepsut become of the power she now wielded that she stayed on and on and kept a very impatient Thutmose III under wraps in the background, even after he had reached manhood (not unlike today's British monarchy). Hatshepsut proved to be a capable and powerful ruler. She wore a false beard like a man, which is reflected in her many graven images. Like her predecessors she also assumed godhood. She built the famous Queen's temple at Deir al-Bahri and also the great temple of Amen at Karnak, as well as several other monuments to her future immortality. Replete on the walls of these temples were engravings of the queen in her manifold heroic scenes, usually consorting with the gods.

Well, eventually the queen died, as all good queens finally do, and Thutmose III came to power. So angry was Thutmose III of having been treacherously suppressed all those years that he disfigured the image of Queen Hatshepsut's face on every monument, wall, and column he could find. Tut, tut, Thut. What a wanton despoilment of precious art for those of us who came along a few thousand years later. We wish you wouldn't have done that, Thut.

A second interesting case is that of Amenhotep IV during the XVIIIth Dynasty, circa 1,350 B.C. He was an ascetic, a religious reformer, a philosopher and a theologian. He changed his own name to Ikhnaton, meaning, "Aton (the sun god) is satisfied." He abolished all other gods and proclaimed the "One God" idea — his god, Aton. So obsessed was this first fanatic monotheist that he indulged in an orgy of iconoclasm. He had the plural word "gods" deleted from all monuments, destroyed images of rival gods and relentlessly persecuted the priests of Amen.

Ikhnaton's monotheistic sun god religion finally failed and he was deposed. Although it exerted a great influence on the art and thinking of his time, Egypt soon returned to its ancient, well-entrenched labyrinthine religion of polytheism and the old priests were again back in power. As a side comment, it should be noted that it was from Ikhnaton that the Jews copied their idea of Jahweh and monotheism. When the Jews now proclaim with great fanfare that they gave the world the first monotheist religion, they are lying, as usual. Remember, the Egyptians had it first.

In any case, after Ikhnaton was deposed, the priesthood returned to their ancient system with a vengeance. They in turn smashed all statues of Ikhnaton, chiseled out his image wherever it appeared and tried to stamp out every vestige of his idea.

While we are on the subject of icon smashing, it might be well to point out that this was a subject also vigorously pursued by the Egyptian Christians (known as Coptics) during their 500 year sway in Egypt. As in Greece, as in Rome, the Coptics in Egypt were hell-bent on smashing "pagan" images, and concentrated on destructively smashing off the noses of more statues than any other group in history.

Despite their obsession with religion and despite the thousands of years they labored at it and under it, the Egyptians never really put together an organized, well-structured religion, as did the Roman Catholic Church under Christianity. Instead, theirs was a confused, shifting and polyglot plethora of gods, god, gods, varying both in time, in name and in geographic location. Besides some of the principal gods, there were in addition also the minor local gods that the natives of certain cities or areas held in high esteem.

One of the dominant gods was Amen-Re, also known as Amon-Ra, also known as Ra, also known as Horus, in which guise he appeared with the face of a hawk on a human torso. Ikhnaton changed this multi-faceted sun god Amen to Aton and made him the one and only. Today, when you hear the "Amens" resounding down the corridors of Christian churches, remember, the Egyptians had it first.

Other major and universal gods beside Amen-Ra were: Anubis who had the head of a jackal and presided over the dead and guarded the tombs; Hathor, who had the head of a cow with long horns cradling the sun. She was the goddess of love and childbirth; Thot, the god of wisdom and truth, had the head of an ibis; also Ptah, Hapi, Isis, Maat, Imhotep, Min, and others. What a stupid, silly, hodge-podge!

The subject of Egyptian religion is, of course, endless, and I do not wish to pursue it any further. I believe I have given enough background of my observations so that we can come to some meaningful conclusions and derive some lessons from the 6,300 year-old Egyptian experience.

1. Because the white Egyptian race was geographically sheltered by vast stretches of desert to the east and to the west, by the sea to the north, and by the cataracts on the Nile to the south, it had an opportunity to nurture and evolve an ever-advancing species of a fine race without the intrusion of foreign pollution for thousands of years.

2. Religion can, and did, play an enormously decisive part in the life of the individual, of the nation, and of the race, and the Egyptians pushed it to a veritable mania. Religion is still a tremendously important factor in their lives today.

3. Religion, as I have stated many times before, is like fire. It can be extremely constructive or destructive, depending on the nature of the religion, by whom it is used, and, on whom.

4. The Egyptians did not have a good religion but a rather stupid religion based on purely fictitious concepts and outlandish hocus-pocus. The thrust of their religion was the preparation for a nonexistent life in the hereafter, a pointless obsession that uselessly dissipated their resources and labor, and poured it down a hidden rat hole, to be buried forever.

5. The White Race six thousand years later is still without a meaningful, constructive religion, and probably will be until such time as Creativity becomes universally accepted.

6. The White Race of Egypt was able to stay on a steady course for about 3,000 years (a long time) for two reasons:

   (a) It was geographically protected from racial contamination as mentioned earlier.

   (b) Its religion, economy and government stayed out of the hands of the Jews until probably about 1,300 B.C.

   From that time on, race-mixing, racial, cultural and economic disintegration set in and completely destroyed all — race, nation, culture and economy until we now have the dismal polyglot mess of mongrels visible today.

7. Had they had a racial religion, such as Creativity, instead of the hocus-pocus plethora of fictitious spooks, the history of not only Egypt, but the world, would read differently today. Undoubtedly, they would within a period of a few centuries have conquered all the viable lands of the earth and settled it with an ever increasingly superior breed of men. We can only vaguely speculate what the magnificence of such supermen might be. In any case, it would be so far above the decrepit mongrels of today that there would be no recognizable kinship.

8. If there is one thing that the trip to Egypt has done for me, it is to overwhelmingly reinforce a basic conviction.

That conviction is that the White Race direly needed a good racial religion in ancient times, has needed it throughout history, and needs it more than ever today.

In fact, we are reaching the End-of-the-Line. It is now or never.

The ultimate of all horrors is the mongrelization of the great White Race. Mongrelized Egypt stands today as a living reminder of the ultimate horror. Let us dedicate ourselves anew to the fight to reverse this process and cleanse the world of the scourge now engulfing it.

* * * * *

The Ancient Egyptians, too, once possessed the Divine Seed in their Race, but they allowed it to be bastardized into mud. Let this be a stern warning and a hard object lesson to what is still left of the White Race on this Planet Earth.

* * * * *

The ultimate horror is the mongrelization of the White Race.

* * * * *

The bottom line of all this intensive Egyptian religiosity is this: it was entirely based on self-deception, hocus-pocus and deliberate lies.

Chapter Seven

A Report from Today's Egypt

It all started to gel when my wife and I attended a Symposium for Unconventional Power in Atlanta, Georgia last September. A professor from the University of Florida who specialized in agricultural sciences announced he was organizing a tour group to Egypt next January. Since we had been talking about "someday" we would visit that ancient wonderland, we decided — why not this winter? We told the professor we were interested in joining his group and would he please send us his literature.

By the time we received his literature six weeks later, we had already decided (a) we would go anyway, (b) his trip was too agriculturally oriented and (c) we would do better with a professional travel company. We got new passports, visas to Egypt and signed up on an eleven day tour with the Hemphill-Harris travel agency. The starting date was February 11.

We flew out of Atlanta at 5:20 P.M. in KLM Airlines to Amsterdam. After a short layover at Amsterdam and a 30 minute stop at Athens we arrived at the Cairo Airport at 7:30 P.M. the next day.

Arrangements had been made that our tour guide whose name was Tom, was to meet us at the airport, but when we arrived that night at a very foreign airport, no Hemphill-Harris tour guide was to be seen anywhere, and we soon learned some of the down-to-earth realities of the Egyptian existence.

The airport was shabby, dirty and overcrowded with people. It was Pandemonium on the loose. By the time we got through immigration and customs and started looking for the guide who wasn't there, it was getting on into the night, and here we were stranded in a foreign airport where only the most basic of English was spoken by anybody.

I tried to phone the Ramses Hilton Hotel, but no public booths were available. A crowd of helpers were on hand at every turn, looking for a tip (called baksheesh) for anything.

A pleasant young fellow finally found a telephone at some business window that we could call from for a little baksheesh. After a dozen attempts and half an hour later, we got through to the receptionist at the hotel desk, who informed us, yes, we had a reservation, and where were we? I tried to get in contact with the Hemphill-Harris tour guide, Tom, but to no avail. Communications were so bad I decided we would do better to just take a taxi on our own and get to the hotel.

After several more helpers and more baksheesh, we got loaded into a taxi and were off. Now that we understood how the telephone system worked (?) we were in for another experience. When I say we were off, I mean we were off like a bat out of hell trying to race against the international date line. Leaning heavily on the horn, as did everyone else, this fellow simply defied all the laws of probability and wove in and out of traffic like a professional hockey player. Somehow we got to the hotel unscathed. How, I'll never know.

After settling in our room I accosted the tour guide at the hotel, who by now was in his PJ's and ready to retire for the night. When I asked Tom why he had left us stranded at the airport, he innocently replied that he had no information about our time of arrival and that he understood we were arriving on our own. When I showed him the printed slip with his name on it saying that he would meet us upon arrival, he feigned surprise. Whether it was real or a copout I have never found out. Anyway, we were there. We had a plush room at one of Cairo's finest, the Ramses Hilton, and were ready to retire, not argue.

Whereas in the article, Lessons from Egypt, I have set down many observations and conclusions from a religious and historical point of view, in this "travelogue" I want to describe more of the modern Egypt and what we actually saw of the ancient ruins, a most impressive experience.

Despite the grueling start at the airport, the rest of the trip was a most delightful and exciting adventure. Next morning, after having a sumptuous breakfast served in our room, we were off and running with the rest of the tour group. The group proved to be relatively small, about 18, as tour groups go, all seasoned travelers, and one of the most cordial and congenial groups we had ever had the pleasure of traveling with. We were on our way to Sakkara to see Egypt's oldest pyramid, the Step Pyramid of King Zoser.

This trip, about 20 miles out of Cairo, took us out past the colossal statue of Ramses II, where I learned about “cartouches” and also about Ramses II’s colossal ego. It was also my first impression of the countryside and the primitive existence of the native Egyptians.

Cairo is one of the world’s largest cities, having a burgeoning population of twelve million, crowded into facilities that were meant to accommodate no more than three million. Everything is cramped, crowded, ramshackle and inadequate. The traffic is disorganized and jammed, the horn being the principal guiding light, if any. The streets are narrow and jammed with people. The water system is not potable, and you are cautioned to drink only bottled drinks. The electricity goes off often. The telephone system is barely hanging together, as we found out when we arrived at the airport.

However, the people are congenial and easy going, never in a hurry. They are not hostile to Americans, although they may have more cause to be so than many others that are. Whereas the Mexicans, a similar drowsy race, have their “mañana,” the Egyptians top that with their own word, “maleesh,” which roughly means “it’s alright, don’t worry about it.” In fact, the only two Egyptian words I learned were “baksheesh” — everybody had their hand out — and “maleesh,” already described.

Nevertheless, Cairo is an extremely interesting city, having a wide mixture of several cultures of which three predominate, the Ancient Egyptian with their pyramids and all, the thousand year Moslem culture with their beautiful mosques and minarets, and the modern “Western” influence of skyscraper hotels, built of course by the White Man, mostly with American money.

But to get back to the countryside, on our way to Sakkara. Once out of the city itself, a traveler is impressed with the profuse green fields, irrigated by the waters of the Nile. It can truly be said that the Nile is Egypt and without the Nile, Egypt would be nothing. The Nile has also been called the longest oasis in the world, and an oasis it is. This oasis, varying in width from approximately a mile to ten miles, has very clear lines of demarcation. Once outside of the irrigated waters of the Nile, the land is as bleak and barren as any desert in the world — nothing but miles of sand and rocks without a blade of grass in sight.

As we rolled along in the bus on a narrow two lane road to Sakkara, we could see the native houses of the fellaheen, visible on both sides of the road. They are built of mud bricks, palm fronds and other crude materials. They are extremely primitive and must be hotter than an oven in the summertime when temperatures run at 110 degrees and more. Also visible along the road were many goats, donkeys, camels and water buffalo. It was the water buffalo which were the main beasts of burden often pulling a primitive plow.

Once we got to Sakkara, I viewed the landscape. It was located outside of the green oasis and was as bleak and desert-strewn as any barren landscape on earth. But the Step Pyramid was huge, and it was impressive, being the oldest large pyramid ever built. Also, extremely impressive were the ruins of the walls of a huge temple that had existed there in ancient times. It is hard to conceive the millions of hours of hand labor that must have gone into the building of such a huge enclosure that took in several acres, and which temple now is merely a dim outline of its former glory.

Sakkara, the city of the dead, was supposed to be the home of the god Sakr (hawk). He was the god of the necropolis in the netherworld. This necropolis contains more than 14 pyramids of which the Step Pyramid is by far the largest, and was thought by some to represent a staircase to heaven. This is probably where the Jews got their idea of a Jacob's ladder. Remember the Egyptians had it first!

It was here at the Step Pyramid which dates back 5,000 years that we went down into our first underground tomb. The tomb, believed to be that of Sekhemkhet, is not in the pyramid itself, but entered through funeral chambers from the ruins of the nearby temple. It is here that we climbed down slanting board walks, stooped down through long, low passageways and were introduced to the multifarious and colorful hieroglyphics that decorated every square foot of the chamber walls. It does give one an eerie feeling to stand in a funeral chamber of a pharaoh who died 5,000 years ago.

Getting back into the sunlight again onto the huge grounds of the now ruined temple, we saw two cute native children riding up from the desert. Each on a donkey, the boy and girl wore bright red, white and blue robes. Their timing was such as to have their picture taken by the tour group, and for baksheesh, of course. We were happy to oblige them.

Looking around, there were archaeological diggings going on everywhere. Further out, the landscape looked like a moonscape, dry, barren and endless sand, Every so often, the ruins of another, but much smaller pyramid would poke its head above the barren sand. Using my imagination, I could only speculate as to the life and activity that ensued here so many thousands of years ago.

Having viewed the oldest phase of Egyptian history first, we drive back to Gizeh, about 15 miles distant, to now view the largest and most famous of all the pyramids. On our way we stopped at The Carvory Restaurant, just off Pyramids Road. Here we had our first sampling of Egyptian cuisine, European style. It was a sumptuous buffet lunch, with a wide variety of meats, fruits, salads, cheeses and desserts to choose from. Not recommended for anyone on a diet.

Then on to Cheops and the Great Pyramids, one of the most famous places in the world. (At the Sound and Light show that evening, they claimed it was the most famous.) The impression the pyramids made on me was not disappointing. They lived up to my every expectation. Cheops, the largest of the three, is indeed massive. Its original height was 481 feet, and the base covers 13 acres. There are several long empty corridors inside the pyramid. Going down these corridors to the tomb chamber was one of the options of the tour. After talking to someone who had done so, and said he would not do it again for a million dollars, and after climbing up and down the low corridors on board walks at the Step Pyramid, I declined. Instead, I decided to walk around the perimeter of the pyramid by myself, a venture that took longer than expected, and kept an impatient tour group and bus driver waiting for my return.

The bus next took us to the world famous Sphinx, only a few minutes away. Here, too, were not only crowds of people, but again donkeys and camels. The owners of the camels were extremely persuasive hucksters, fervently imploring the naive and astonished tourists to take a camel ride, or at least have your picture taken astride the back of a camel. I was persuaded. After all, what is a trip to Egypt without having a picture of yourself sitting on the back of a camel? I gave the driver an Egyptian pound and he helped me climb on the back of a reclining camel. With a little prodding from the owner, the beast snorted and bellowed loudly and rose to its full height. My wife then took a picture as the beast and I posed, with the pyramids as a backdrop.

On our way to the hotel, we stopped at a papyrus shop and gallery and were instructed in the ancient and fascinating art of making papyrus from the Egyptian reed, an art as old as the pyramids themselves. On display was a large selection of colorful paintings of the Egyptian mystics on papyrus.

Our guide, Tom, explained that there were only very few things in Egypt that were worth purchasing, and he could recommend only three. They were papyrus paintings, Egyptian hand woven wool rugs with intricate native designs, and gold or silver cartouches. We had already bought a wool rug on our way back from Sakkara in the forenoon, so we now added three colorful papyrus paintings, with hieroglyphics and all, to our collection. Then off through the crowded streets of Cairo to dinner at the Ramses Hilton after a very busy day.

But the day wasn't over yet. Tom, our guide, asked the group how many of us wanted to attend the Sound and Light program at the pyramids that evening, since this too, was part of our paid tour. Out of our group of 18 only my wife and I volunteered. Six of the group had arrived here in Egypt the day before from a Safari Tour in Nairobi, which Tom had also headed. The other ten were too tired. We were tired also, but we decided we wouldn't miss this show for the world. We skipped dinner and only had half an hour to change into warmer clothes.

Since we were the only two of our group to go, we had a private limousine provided, with not only a chauffeur, but also a ticket agent that went along, bought our tickets, showed us where to go and waited outside until the show was over to guide us back to the limousine.

We were extremely glad we made the effort. We had seen the Sound and Light show eleven years earlier at the Acropolis in Athens, and we had seen the Sound and Light show floating down a cruise boat on the Colorado River at Moab, Utah, illuminating the cliffs, but this show at the Pyramids was by far the most awe-inspiring.

Through the sound system the narrator started the show with a solemn and majestic "You have come tonight to the most fabulous and celebrated place in the world. Here on the plateau of Gizeh, stands forever the mightiest of human achievements." Impressive? We were impressed.

The lights then flashed on each of the three pyramids in turn, then on all of them. Then different voices — the Sphinx, priests, pharaohs, etc., — spoke up from different locations in sonorous, cultivated voices as if speaking from their tombs. The whole show was well scripted and well orchestrated, narrated by well known actors.

A booklet describing the production claimed that the study in putting this program together lasted six months, and carrying out the project took a year. It took more than 18 miles of wiring and cables to connect all the sound systems and lighting arrangements scattered over a considerable area. We took with us a set of LP recordings of the whole program so we could again listen to it back home.

The program is in English five nights, and in French two nights a week.

Tuesday, February 14, 1984. Next morning we were out of the hotel by 7:00 A.M. and off to the airport to fly south to Aswan 534 miles upstream from Cairo. It was to be a long, hectic morning that lasted through most of the day, in fact.

This same airport which we had left late at night only 36 hours earlier in a cloud of dust and henfeathers, was still the same mass of confusion as upon our arrival. Whereas we had arrived on (the Dutch) KLM before, we were now taking an Egyptian airline to Aswan, and one peculiarity about Egyptian airlines is that you don't get seating arrangements. It's every man for himself and the competition is fierce. Not only are you not sure of your seat, but you can't even depend on getting on a given plane. It is something like standby, in competition with a herd of buffalo.

The procedure was something like this: There was a plane leaving for Aswan about every 20 minutes. Our group, with our fearless leader Tom in charge, was squeezed into a large waiting room into the midst of a large crowd that was funnelling its way into the next waiting room with a guard allowing a certain number of people through the portals to another waiting room. After much push and shove our group finally arrived at the door of the next waiting room where we were fortunate enough to see the planes from Aswan coming and going through a door that we would eventually pass through. After about an hour of push and shove in the second waiting room we all finally made it through the last bottleneck and dashed across the field to our plane. Off to Aswan.

We arrived a little over an hour later.

Aswan, as you know, is famous for the mighty High Dam which the Russians built and completed in 1965. The town of Aswan itself sits seven miles downstream from the High Dam. Before the building of the High Dam, Aswan had a population of 50,000. Today its population has swollen to 500,000 and by the looks of the average fellaheen, the 500,000 individually are as poor and destitute as were the 50,000 twenty years ago. There is no accommodating a geometric population growth. The more resources that are poured into the mud races, the faster the population explosion, but economically they always sink down to their original subsistence level.

It was here at Aswan that I first noticed that whereas the native population of Cairo was a dark mud color, here in southern Egypt they were black as the ace of spades. They are identified as Nubians, having the kinky hair of a genuine nigger.

Be that as it may, as we drove from the airport to our hotel, we crossed over the Nile on the Lower Dam, a dam the British had built back in 1910 or thereabouts, an item that was news to me. This lower dam sits about four miles downstream from the High Dam and about three miles upstream from the town of Aswan itself

When our bus arrived at Aswan we disembarked on the east shore of the Nile and immediately transferred ourselves and our belongings onto a motor ferry. This took us to Elephantine Island which sits in the Middle of the Nile and on the tip of which our hotel, the Aswan Oberoi, is located.

Here we encountered a bizarre situation. This lovely old hotel, the finest in Aswan, did not have our rooms ready. With all the baggage of our party of 18 stacked in the bar, we explored the lovely grounds of the hotel for about an hour and a half, then leaving our baggage behind, we again embarked on a tender, back to shore, back on the bus and back to the Aswan airport to fly to Abu Simbel, 168 miles to the south.

I said earlier that it was a hectic morning, what with the embarkation at the Cairo airport. Well, things got rougher and more drastic at our next embarkation into the air. Whereas the airport at Aswan was much smaller, of course, it made no concessions to Cairo whatsoever when it came to crowding, waiting and confusion. Our fearless leader advised us that this might be as good a place as any to eat our box lunches which we had brought with us from the hotel. This was no easy accomplishment, what with the smell, the crowding and the Pandemonium. Some of us ate most of our lunch, and some did not. Some of us gave most of it to the native fellaheen who were scrounging for leftovers in an overfilled garbage can in the waiting room.

Anyway, after much of the same push and shove procedure we had encountered in Cairo, only more of it, after about two hours (at least) we were finally up in the air and off to Abu Simbel where sits one of the wonders of the world, the Temple of Abu Simbel.

There is a slogan in traveling that says something to the effect that getting there is half the fun. Well, this was hardly the case this Tuesday of February 14th. But when we got to Abu Simbel it was well worth it. This Temple, which was built by that powerful ego Ramses II for the glorification of Ramses II, was something to behold. Carved into solid sandstone on the west bank of the Nile some 3,300 years ago, it was and still is, a marvel to behold. I have more fully described its face and interior in the previous chapter and will therefore not repeat it.

What I did not mention is that nearby the Great Temple stands the Temple of Hathor, also carved out of solid rock. This temple was also built by Ramses II for his wife Nefertari and dedicated to the goddess Hathor. Outside the temple on the face of the cliff are six large statues, four of the omniscient Ramses II and two of his wife as well as smaller ones of their children. Inside, the Hypostyle Hall has a roof supported by six pillars topped with the head and face of the goddess Hathor.

Egypt can lay claim to roughly three major architectural and engineering marvels in three different eras of history. The first broad grouping is that of Ancient Egypt and the building of the pyramids, temples and other architectural wonders. This spans a period of several thousand years. The second marvel was the building of the Suez Canal by DeLesseps in the 1880's. The third, though of lesser accomplishment, was the High Dam at Aswan built by the Russians in the 1960's, and has been highly trumpeted throughout the world.

However, I would like to add a fourth marvel that we witnessed at Abu Simbel that was a direct consequence of building the High Dam. That engineering marvel is the slicing of the Abu Simbel Temples, both the Ramses and the Hathor Temple, piece by piece and moving it to the top of the cliff, and reassembling it in a condition that would almost defy detection from its original condition. We also got a good look at how this was done by American engineers and to the tune of American (taxpayer) money, 75 million dollars worth.

A huge concrete half dome was built at the top of the cliff into which the two temples were then moved, piece by numbered piece. The face of the dome was then reconstructed to resemble the natural face of the cliff, except where the faces of the two temples were exposed. The roof of the dome was then also covered with desert rocks and sand, blending it in perfectly with the rest of the rocky cliffs. Unless you walked into the dome through an obscure door to view the interior's full size, its scaffolding and its machinery, you would never suspect that both temples had not stood on that same ground for the last 3,300 years.

We had ideal weather to view the temple and also the landscape as we flew back to Aswan, 168 miles to the north. We got a fine view of Lake Nasser, (backed up by the High Dam) and the bleak, barren desert that surrounded it on all sides; nothing but rocks and sand with ridges of low mountains interlacing the landscape.

Back at Aswan into the bus, across the Low Dam, into the tender, back to the Aswan Oberoi Hotel on Elephantine Island, we discovered that our rooms were now ready. After a sumptuous dinner we were now also ready for our rooms after a long, hectic, interesting and tiring day.

Wednesday, February 15th, 1984. Our stay at the Oberoi was short — only one night. First thing Wednesday morning we transferred ourselves and our gear to one of the Sheraton cruise boats, which was to be our hotel for the next five days. Sheraton had several such specially designed behemoths to cruise the Nile, and ours was called The Aton, named after the monotheistic Pharaoh Ikhnaton's one and only sun god. Having settled in, we were on the go again right after lunch. Our guide had chartered a felucca for the afternoon, navigated by a native fellaheen. A Felucca is an ancient Egyptian sailboat with a gaff-headed sail, and they have been sailing the Nile without a change in design for thousands of years.

After a hectic trip to Abu Simbel the day before, this proved to be a most enjoyable and relaxing afternoon. We went to Kitchener's Island and saw the beautiful gardens there that were a legacy of the British stamp on Egypt, which by the way, is considerable. We then embarked the felucca again and sailed to the opposite shore of the Nile to visit the Mausoleum of the Aga Khan. It is a beautiful Mausoleum, built by his wife and son, sitting on a high hill overlooking the Nile. The dozens and dozens of feluccas looked like lovely white seagulls on the deep water below. In order to help make the climb up the hill to the Mausoleum, there were a number of those persuasive camel drivers again to meet us and greet us. My wife and I rented a camel and climbed aboard. Away we went up the steep hill with the driver leading the snorting and bellowing beast, with us hanging on to a precarious saddle that threatened to slip forward had we not been going up hill. After seeing the mausoleum we opted to walk back down the hill.

Back into the felucca, and with lovely calm weather, we drifted easily to the dock of the Old Cataract Hotel (circa 1880's). We had tea and crumpets on the large veranda of this stately old hotel, which sits on a high hill overlooking the Nile. We had a commanding view of the cataracts, which are studded with tremendous smooth black boulders. After another delightful ride on the felucca we were back on the Aton cruise ship.

We had dinner with a cocktail party that night. For entertainment we were favored with a program that featured an Egyptian belly dancer and four piece band that had its electric amplifier turned up very, very loud.

Thursday, February 16th 1984. Still at Aswan in the morning, we took a tour to the Aswan High Dam about seven miles upstream. After seeing Hoover Dam, and some of the other gigantic concrete dams in the United States, the Russian built dam was a huge disappointment. It was a broad, long, ragged earth fill, 364 feet high and two miles long at the top. It created 300 mile long Lake Nasser, backing up to where it expands past the Egyptian border into the Sudan. Its waters have expanded Egypt's cultivation by a third — an additional two million acres.

More impressive than the dam itself was the huge modernistic concrete monument the Russians built to commemorate the completion of the dam.

On the way back we stopped at a riverside dock and took a tender to an island located between the old and the new dam, on which stands the magnificent Temple of Philae. The oldest part dates back only to the 4th century B.C. and the remainder was built during the Ptolemaic and Roman periods. It was magnificent and it was huge, and strangely enough, it too had been dismantled piece by piece from below the present water line and re-assembled to its present site on the small rocky island of Philae. This was done through the efforts and generosity of the Germans.

Before getting back to our cruise ship for lunch, we stopped at the granite quarries where we viewed (and walked on) a huge obelisk still in situ. It was 125 feet long and estimated to weight 1,170 tons. It had been cut and shaped lying on its side with the bottom side still firmly anchored in its granite bed.

After lunch we set sail in the Aton to cruise down the Nile to Kom Ombo, where we stopped to view the temple of the same name. This temple, situated on a hill overlooking the Nile at a point where the river makes a bend is dedicated to the gods Harwar, a hawk-headed god, and Sobek, represented with the head of a crocodile. It seems that any idiotic caricature would serve as a god as well as any other in the minds of the gullible and superstitious ancients.

The fine reliefs throughout the temple were most impressive.

We were there only 30 minutes, then back to the Aton, and continued cruising down the Nile. This cruise was a relaxing and most welcome relief from the hectic pace we had been through. Not only relaxing, but most enjoyable. We sailed on well into the night and tied up at Edfu.

Friday, February 17, 1984. In the morning we went ashore and boarded fancy horse drawn carriages, four people to a buggy. We drove a mile or so through the relatively large town of Edfu to the Temple of Horus.

As we drove through the streets, there were donkeys, dogs, water buffalos, camels, children and grownups in large numbers. Small stores, or more like bazaar type booths, lined the streets. Vendors were all over the place. Children ran alongside our carriages, but they were well behaved. Whereas in Haiti or Mexico in a similar situation a tourist is usually besieged with beggars, especially little children, this was not the case here. In fact, the few that did ask for a handout were quickly admonished by either their mothers or other children not to do so.

Arriving at the Temple of Horus we were presented with another huge and impressive temple begun in 237 B.C. by Ptolomaeus III. The front facade is massive and stands 117 feet high. At the entrance stands a sacred falcon colossus, carved out of granite.

Back to the Aton and on to Esna which is located only 30 miles south of Luxor. Here we disembarked again and went ashore.

It is fitting here to note how our cruise ship was specially designed for these Nile cruises. Some of these landing places have only the faintest semblance of a dock, others have none. So how does a large four deck cruiser accommodating 84 passengers manage to dock at such places as Esna where there is nothing but a sloping, rock studded embankment to dock? Well, they thought of that item, too. The ship can push itself sideways by having water jets emitted below the water line, fore and aft. It also has large wooden booms, like telephone poles it can push out sideways, also fore and aft. As it sidles up alongside the bank, these booms are protruding on its side, sticking into the embankment and protecting the ship itself. The lines are then tied to convenient cleats on shore and there she sits. A wide gangplank is then lowered connecting the ship to the shore and the passengers are all set to disembark or board.

Another neat little feature about these ships is that the sides are flat and parallel and the ship is just the right width to fit through the several locks that impede its passage between Aswan and Cairo.

We disembarked at Esna and walked to the Temple of Khnum (the ram god). As I said before, any caricature will do for a god. Anyway, the temple was lovely and massive. It represented the Ptolemaic period of Egyptian history, although part of it was constructed much earlier by Thutmose III (1,500 B.C.).

The interesting feature about this temple is that it lies about 28 feet below the present level of the town. It sits in an excavated bowl and its foundation represents the level of the land at the time it was built. Archaeologists say there is much more to this complex, but since it is covered by 28 feet of top soil, and the town is built on it, no more excavations are contemplated.

We sailed on and arrived at the great city of Luxor that night. This city, which contains the most magnificent and greatest collection of all ancient Egyptian ruins, was the site of the ancient city of Thebes, the capital of Egypt at the height of its glory during the Middle and New Kingdoms.

Since we arrived at Luxor in the early evening, my wife and I took a walk down the street along the river bank to see a certain hotel. We had read much about a grand hotel built in Luxor during the 1880's that had been the haunt of royalty and the elite, namely the Winter Palace Hotel. Seeing it now, a hundred years after its founding, it was still charming and stately, but definitely did not live up to its billings.

Saturday, February 18th, 1984.

The weather was clear and beautiful. We got an early start and crossed the Nile in a crude motor launch to the west bank. A bus then took us to the Valley of the Kings, where we saw the tomb of Ramses VI, , the tomb of Tutankhamen and the tomb of Haremheb (19th Dynasty, 14th Century B.C.).

That same morning we also visited the beautiful Temple of Queen Hatshepsut, which I have also described in the previous chapter. On our way back we stopped to take pictures of the two Colossi of Memnon, huge statues of solid stone.

By the time we arrived back for lunch at the Aton, it was the middle of the afternoon, during which we were able to take a well deserved rest.

That night, we were to enjoy another Sound and Light Program, this time at Karnak. It was considerably different from the one Monday night at the pyramids. Whereas at the pyramids we sat in our chairs and stayed put during the whole program, at Karnak we assembled as a huge standing mob at the entrance in front of the Avenue of the Ram-headed Sphinx. (They are reclining and lined up on each side, a total of 40. Originally, when this avenue extended all the way to Luxor Temple, there were a total of 124 of these magnificent statues.) The sound system then begins the show by giving us a dramatic script of the sacred solemnity of the place and occasion, then tells us to move on to the next area in this huge temple complex.

As we moved in the darkness from one area to another to the accompaniment of dialogue and music, after about half an hour we reached an elevated grandstand. That was temporarily semi-lighted until the people were seated, then the show went on. The grandstand provided an overall view of the layout of the whole complex, including the Sacred Lake, which reflected the huge monuments as the lights play on one, then another.

It, too, was impressive, but the Sound and Light program at the pyramids was still the finest.

Sunday, February 19th, 1984.

Another clear, beautiful day. In the morning we visited the Temple of Karnak by horse carriage to see the great Temple of Amon-Ra at Karnak, where we had viewed the program of Sound and Light the evening before. Then on to the Temple of Luxor in the heart of the city. These two great temples, the Luxor Temple and the Temple of Karnak, are about three miles apart. In ancient times when Thebes was at its height, these two were one continuous complex connected by the impressive Avenue of 124 Sphinxes. Less than a century ago the Temple of Luxor was covered under a hill of rubble and hovels.

That afternoon we flew back to Cairo and the Ramses Hilton Hotel.

Monday, February 20th, 1984. There are over 500 mosques in Cairo. In the morning we visited three of the most famous Mohammedan mosques. The first one was the Mosque of Ahmed Ibn Tulun where King Farouk and some of his forbearers are buried. The whole complex was beautiful indeed, displaying the best in ancient Moslem architecture. Everywhere you looked it was very ornate. Lacy grillwork, Islamic inscriptions, gold plating, jewel encrusted decorations everywhere.

The second mosque was in The Citadel, a large military enclosure erected by Saladin during the Third Crusade. Soldiers and guards were everywhere, as they were at all government buildings in Cairo since the 1973 war. Located in the Citadel also is the Muhammad Ali Mosque, which we visited. Buried here is the Shah of Iran, whose tomb we also viewed, although the Shah's family has discouraged public viewing of his grave.

We then visited the Khan el Khalili Bazaar, an interesting experience. Although not as large as the one we had visited in Istanbul eleven years ago, it is of considerable higher quality.

In the afternoon, we visited the Cairo Museum, and viewed with special interest the 3,500 pieces of rich artifacts from the tomb of Tutankhamen. Since I have already covered these in a previous chapter, I will not repeat the description of this most amazing collection.

Except for formalities, goodbyes, airports and travel back home, this completes our exotic journey into the Land of the Ancient Pharaohs.

Conclusion:

In previous observations I summed up the impact of the astounding Egyptian culture and civilization on its own people and the world at large. Because Egypt's achievements in the cultural, religious and architectural areas were so unique and spectacular, I chose to describe those architectural and archaeological wonders in this chapter, because to have done so in reverse order would have been anticlimactical.

There are a few other observations about modern Egypt that I need to add, however.

One is about their money. The Egyptian unit of money is the Egyptian pound, (designated as L.E.) divided into 100 piasters. An official travel book put out by Fodor's in 1984 stated that anyone staying over 48 hours must exchange at least $150 U.S. at the airport. This, I found to be incorrect. However, since we were stranded and on our own at the airport, I figured that we would have to have taxis, baksheesh and various other sundries to contend with, so I immediately exchanged $100 U.S. at one of the many official exchange windows, for which I received L.E. 81. Whereas the official rate of exchange is somewhere around 1 L.E. to $1.22 U.S., actually the Egyptians themselves have little or no faith in their own money, and most of the shops, vendors, etc., would gladly take American dollars on a one for one basis for their merchandise. Furthermore, if you have any Egyptian money left over when ready to leave the country, you might as well spend it on anything, or give it away, because you cannot reconvert it back to U.S. dollars. Nobody wants it. The Egyptians have absolutely no faith in their own money, and for good reason.

The fact is, the Egyptian economy is rotten, weak and tottering, without any solid economic base. It will collapse as soon as American subsidies (carried on the shoulders of American taxpayers) are withdrawn.

The second observation is about the Nile and present day Egyptian agriculture.

The Aswan High Dam has been highly touted as a modern engineering wonder, and the benefits Egypt will derive therefrom are presumably manifold, such as two million more acres under cultivation, billions of kilowatts of electric power, etc. Yet, it is my conclusion that the dam will prove to be a disaster in several ways.

For thousands of years the Nile flooded its banks and deposited its rich mineral-laden silt on the farm lands. This kept the land watered and fertile forever, its fertility being renewed each year. Now, with 300 mile long Lake Nasser and structural and controlled irrigation, the following disastrous consequences are developing:

1. Much of the water evaporates in the formerly dry desert climate of Upper Egypt. The water coming down the Nile now has a higher saline content (as does our own Colorado River by the time it reaches the Imperial Valley of California).
2. Through controlled irrigation, rather than the former flooding, the salt content builds up in the soil over a period of years and will poison the formerly eternally fertile oasis.
3. The mineral-rich silt will no longer be deposited on the soil, but will eventually fill Lake Nasser with mud.
4. The climate has been changed into one much more humid, which will hasten the destruction of her many marvelous historical monuments, as too, of course, will the acrid fumes of modern industry.
5. The farmers there too, have been snookered into using large quantities of chemical fertilizers, pesticides and herbicides, as have American farmers.
6. Between the controlled irrigation and the wide use of chemical fertilizers the eternally fertile Valley of the Nile is being poisoned into extinction.

Briefly, I will recapitulate.

A. The great Egyptian race of Ancient Egypt was a unique breed of men and produced the first great White civilization (emphasis on the great). It died because they had a bad religion, one that was obsessed with life in a non-existent hereafter, obsessed with a world of non-existent spooks.

B. Long before Christianity raised its destructive Jewish head, the Egyptians had already invented every fictitious concept later used and copied by Judaism and Christianity. Some of these fictitious concepts were: the existence of a "soul" that supposedly lived forever; gods and spooks, both "good" and "evil"; polytheism, and also monotheism; a murky netherworld and a "hereafter"; rewards and punishments to be meted out in the hereafter; vast material sacrifices and monuments to their fictitious gods; baptism (ablution) and cleansing by water; the practice of circumcision as a religious rite; and a host of other spurious ideas that derailed the mind into an insane spookie world of make-believe.

C. Had they paid more attention to preserving their wonderful genetic qualities, their gene pool, instead of fiddling around with spooks that weren't there, the history of not only Egypt, but of the world, would be a marvel to behold.

D. Had they had a racial religion such as Creativity, that wonder would today be a reality.

E. Since they did not, they became mongrelized and degenerate. Their present population is one of the most pathetic on the face of the earth, embarked on a runaway population explosion to disaster, with the help of U.S. subsidization.

F. Let the history of Egypt be a serious object lesson not only to our own Creativity movement, but to the White Race as a whole. Let us remember once and for all, the Ultimate Horror is the mongrelization of the White Race, and that without a racial religion, the Ultimate Horror is now rapidly engulfing the world.

* * * * *

Because they, the Egyptians, pursued a careless dementia, they lost their most precious treasure — their genes.

* * * * *

Remember, also, just as you cannot reverse an omelet back into a perfect egg, so, too, is mongrelization forever an irreversible process.

* * * * *

Let us never forget that the Divine Seed of the once great Egyptian White Race is lost forever because it did not possess a racial religion such as Creativity constitutes. Because they were instead obsessed with fictitious abstractions about gods, spirits and spooks, their precious genes were mongrelized into the shameful mess that is now their sorry plight.

Chapter Eight

Exit Keith Williams — Enter Carles Messick

We left Egypt on February 21 and made an overnight stop in Amsterdam, staying at the Ibis Motel. That evening I made a long distance call to Keith Williams, telling him specifically that we would arrive in Atlanta on KLM Flight 747 at 6 P.M. next evening, to make sure that he would be there to pick us up and there would be no misunderstanding.

We left for the Schiphol Airport the next morning, had breakfast at their restaurant and had plenty of time to shop and look over the beautiful, clean Dutch airport before taking off at 1:40 P.M.

We arrived in Atlanta at 6 P.M., but there was no Keith Williams to meet us, nor to be found anywhere. After chasing around in frustration for about an hour I got on the airport's intercom system and had them page Keith Williams, that he was to meet us at the KLM ticket counter, where we finally caught up with him. I asked him, what in the hell had happened, why had he not met us at the designated KLM gate? He acted like he had never met anyone at an airport before, and that he had expected to meet us outside, where he had let us off when we had left ten days ago. For a man 52 years old, had been married three times, been a disc jockey on radio and held down dozens of other jobs, you would expect that surely he would know how to meet someone at an airport after being given explicit instructions. How stupid can you get?

We loaded the luggage into the car and I took the wheel in driving home, while Keith slept in the back seat. It had been a long day, and Henrie and I were tired. We got back to the cabin in North Carolina at 9 P.M., but with the six hour difference in time zones, it was really 3 A.M. I did not bother chewing Keith out for his failure to meet us at the proper gate, nor did I bother to discuss the trip or anything else. That could come at another time.

* * * * *

When I got back to my desk the next morning, there was a pile of work waiting for me. There were bills to pay, there was a stack of mail to answer. The March issue of Racial Loyalty had been taken to the printer before I left, but it had not been picked up. I called Gene Dowdle, the printer, and he told me it had been ready for some time, but nobody had come around to pick it up. This we did immediately, and Keith mailed out all the individual copies that same afternoon, something he should have done a week ago.

Other events of note during the spring of 1984.

- The Macon County Tax Assessor, whose name was Jim Shope, and was friendly to us, had given us a verbal tax exemption for the church properties in 1983. So that there would be no doubt in future circumstances, I urged him to put this in writing. This he did, in his own neat hand-printed form, and it proved to be an invaluable document to us, as future events unraveled. Such remained the case until 1989, when a third tax assessor was appointed to the office, a Jewish stooge by the name of Richard Lightner.

- Kim and Walt were at this time thinking of making a major move from Loveland, Colorado, to Martinsville, Virginia, in order to improve their business opportunities. They asked us to meet them there on March 17, during which time they would be making an exploratory investigation of the area. We did meet with them, and although Kim was not very enthusiastic about the move, they did in fact, make the move within a matter of a few weeks. It proved to be a wise and profitable move, as subsequent events have demonstrated. Evidently, the Colorado area was over-saturated with chiropractors, making it a very tough and competitive business to break in to, whereas Martinsville had only two chiropractors. In the ensuing last eight years Walt's practice in Martinsville has done very well, and the Moore family is regarded as one of the leading families in their Church as well as of the town.

- Building of the Leadership School for Gifted Boys was proceeding nicely. We were now at the stage where the plumbers were ready to do their installations, which, due to the stringent Department of Health regulations, included two separate septic tanks and over 1700 feet of drainage lines.

- On March 2, I received a call from a television reporter by the name of Mark C. Winne, who asked if he could do a television story on the church. He was the same fellow who a year ago appeared on the premises with the Atlanta Constitution reporter Bill Montgomery, both of whom questioned me as to the whereabouts of J.B. Stoner, who at that time was on the lam, having been convicted of a phoney, trumped-up charge of having bombed a black school some 20 years earlier.

These two reporters at that time not only questioned me, but practically accused me of harboring him (legally a crime) at our church. In some pretty strong language, I told these two reporters where to get off at, and that was off of my property, and pronto. This, and the previous article in the Franklin Press made me hostile and leery of reporters, all reporters.

Reluctantly, I agreed to let Mark Winne do his story, for Atlanta WXIA (Channel 11). On March 10, he promptly appeared first thing in the morning, accompanied by his camera man, a fellow by the name of Mike Zakel. They had brought with them a ton of lighting equipment, cameras, and an assortment of other paraphernalia. Both of them swore they were not Jews, and the latter claimed he was of Rumanian descent. They spent most of the day with me, asking every conceivable question, and shooting endless rolls of TV tape of the upstairs and the downstairs of the church from the inside and the outside, both close-up and from a distance. As far as I know, the show was never aired. However, I am sure that all the information was assiduously relayed on to the Jewish ADL for their archives.

- On Friday, March 9, Henrie and I went into Clayton to have dinner at the Burrell's Junction Restaurant. When we came back at about 7 P.M. and were about to pass the church, I noticed that all the lights were on, both inside and outside, and not only was the gate still open, but there was a car parked astride the gate, making it impossible to either enter or leave the church grounds. I stopped the car and went over to see what in the hell was going on. When I opened the left front door, the first thing I saw was a revolver lying on the counter, a gun that looked familiar to me. When I looked into the next room, the sanctuary, I saw Keith and his wife Sandra sitting behind the little interview desk, and in front of them were three official looking men questioning and interrogating them intensively. I recognized one of them as being Sheriff George Moses, of the Macon County Sheriff's Department, but he was evidently only there for the ride to give official sanction to the process. The others were Secret Service agent Herbert T. Carlton and the third was his assistant. Both were out of Charlotte, North Carolina.

What was going on? I asked. The Secret Service man explained that there were allegations that Keith Williams had made some dire threats on the life of Gary Hart, who at that time was a Democratic candidate for the presidency. These allegations evidently stemmed from the hearsay of a friend of Keith's son, all the way back from Oregon. Nor was that all. They also charged that Keith had threatened the life of President Jimmy Carter a few years back. They kept on grilling him relentlessly, while he and Sandra were sweating it out. Meanwhile, that gun was still lying on the counter in the next room. I asked Keith whose gun that was. He replied it was mine, one I had loaned him. Great!

I didn't stay for the rest of the session, since Henrie was still outside, sitting in the car and likewise wondering what in the hell was going on. Evidently the session inside ended with no criminal charges filed against Keith. The big confrontation between us came the next day.

* * * * *

Keith Williams was a strange and eccentric fellow. Like most of us he had his good and bad points. On the good side, he was an excellent typist, he had a fine speaking voice as befitted a radio announcer, and could be quite charming when he was in a good mood. He had been converted to Mormonism by his mother many years ago, but had abandoned it in recent years when he became aware of the phoniness of it all, especially after his step-father died. Nevertheless, he kept looking for a meaningful philosophy in life and after he had read my book, Nature's Eternal Religion, he felt certain that he had finally found what he was looking for. Even several years before he came to North Carolina, he would call me on the telephone and eulogize about his new found faith. Even long after our break, he kept repeating that Creativity was the only way to go. Besides making him a Reverend of the Church, I bestowed the title of Hasta Primus on him, which in Latin meant Spearhead. Every morning when I would enter the church he would rise to his feet as a matter of respect for the head of the church. When I told him this was not necessary, he insisted that it was, and continued to do so. No other Hasta Primus emulated this gesture, nor did I ever request it.

On the negative side, he was emotional, eccentric and unstable, and lacked both business sense and I might also say just plain common sense. He had this frustrating habit of never answering a question directly, and when I demanded some specific answers about the progress of the paper, or other business matters, he would waffle and mumble, or stop in mid-sentence, a habit that aggravated me no end. He was now married for the third time and had five children by his previous two wives. In the nasty divorce proceedings that had ensued, he admitted that all of his children had gone against him and had supported their mothers' side.

We now come to the day after the encounter with the Secret Service. I asked him what in the hell was he doing, dragging my gun out to show to the Secret Service. He had no good answer, as usual, and I still don't know why he did it. I also asked him about all the alleged threats and his answers to that didn't make too much sense either. Then I brought up the subject of the fiasco at the Atlanta airport. Surely, I said, after fifty some years you have learned how and where to meet people coming off a plane. At this point he flew into a raging tantrum and said he was through, that I didn't like the way he talked, I didn't like the way he dressed, and in general he acted like a raving madman completely out of control. I just stood there calmly at the counter and let him play out his spiel. When he was through, I said, O.K. buddy, that's it. According to our contract we each are obligated to give a 30 days termination notice. I'm giving you notice right now. 30 days.

* * * * *

In the meantime I had been getting repeated and long winded telephone calls from a young fellow by the name of Carles C. Messick III, from Dover, Delaware. He had read all three of my books, Nature's Eternal Religion, The White Man's Bible and Salubrious Living, and he was immensely impressed. He, too, had been brought up as a Mormon, by the auspices of a domineering mother who had been converted to Mormonism in later life. Like Keith Williams, Carl finally saw through the fraudulent nature of it all, and completely rejected it sometime before he ever heard of Creativity. But now that he had learned of our religion he was overwhelmingly dedicated to it. Furthermore, he admitted that although at one time (while stationed in Panama) he had been practically stoned on marijuana and habitually drank beer, he was now, and had been for years, a teetotaler and completely off drugs. He was now a strict vegetarian and had religiously practiced most of the basic principles of Salubrious Living ever since. He was 33 years old, had been in the military for the last 12 years, had been a Marine, a Navy Seal, stood six foot one, and was in top physical condition. Another point on the positive side was that he could touch type and was completely dedicated to Creativity.

However, he also had several negative characteristics. One was, he talked too much. He could and would talk endlessly on any subject, any time he could get someone to listen, and when he got on the phone, whether long distance or not, he never knew when to quit. Like Keith, he had no sense for business and he was always either broke or in debt.

He wanted to come down and see me about the job Keith was leaving, and I invited him to do so. The first surprise was that he was in debt and he needed a $700 advance. I said no way, but we finally settled for $500, which I sent him. The casual observer might ask why I did such a foolish thing, especially after the experience I had had a year earlier with Tyler Thompson, that alcoholic from Greenville, North Carolina. The simple answer is, I had damn few volunteers to choose from that were foot-loose and fancy free, could type and were dedicated to the cause, all of which is a dismal reflection on the disoriented state of mind in which the White Race was then, and still is.

Anyway, we made arrangements for him to come down for a preliminary visit so I could look him over, and since his jalopy was broken down at this time, he decided to hitch-hike down. I picked him up in front of Rose's Department Store at the Macon Plaza in Franklin on March 14. I liked the fellow, and seemed to get along fine. I tested his typing capabilities and he performed satisfactorily in that department also. We visited for two days, with Carl even helping Keith on the paste-up of Racial Loyalty for April, which we took in to the printer the next day.

We came to some kind of an agreement that he would take over the job of Hasta Primus as soon as Keith's 30 days were up. On March 16 I took him to the bus station in Franklin and he was back on his way to Dover, with the promise he would be back in April.

Chapter Nine

Kim and Walt Make Major Move

from Loveland, CO, to Martinsville, VA

As I mentioned in the previous chapter, the Moores were thinking strongly of improving their business opportunities by moving from Colorado to Virginia, although Kim was less than enthusiastic about the whole operation. This was now April and Kim had just had their latest baby, Amy, in January, and had barely recovered her strength. This was a big move to make at any time, as Henrie and I had experienced in the several moves we ourselves had made in our lives.

Walt was to drive the U-Haul with all their belongings in it, and Kim to drive the car, with both keeping in touch all the way. Henrie offered to help Kim do the driving, so she could rest and sleep most of the time, what with having to take care of the new baby. I drove Henrie to the Atlanta airport on April 17, 1984 and from there she flew on to Denver. Shortly thereafter they took off, and on April 20 I received a phone call from Henrie that they expected to arrive in Martinsville on the afternoon of April 21, a Saturday. That same day she called me from Martinsville and asked me to come and join them for Easter dinner. Kim and Walt had rented a house by previous arrangement at 914 Corn Tassle Road, but Henrie was staying at the Dutch Inn Motel.

I took off first thing Sunday morning, after stopping at the church, leaving last minute instructions with Carl and saying goodbye to Ken Schwartz, who happened to be visiting us at this time. I arrived in Martinsville at 2:30 that afternoon, and after a welcome visit with the whole family and looking over their newly rented house, we all had a big Easter dinner at the Dutch Inn restaurant, probably the best Martinsville had to offer. Henrie and I stayed at the Inn over night. After having breakfast at the Dutch Inn,

I left the next morning, while Henrie stayed to help with the unpacking and other chores.

Next week-end Kim and Walt came to visit us for two days at our cabin. On Saturday we went bowling, and the next day, Sunday, we all had a second big Easter dinner, with turkey and all the trimmings. I showed Kim and Walt the church and what progress we were making with the building of the school. I also showed them the pictures we had taken on our trip to Egypt. Then at 3:45 they took off for Martinsville, Walt taking the VW Rabbit with him on a loan.

He had a big job ahead of him. Starting a new business in a new place is no small task.

Chapter Ten

The Summer of 1984

Carl Messick arrived with his jalopy, trailer, and all his belongings at 6:30 PM on Saturday, April 7, 1984, to start working. We unloaded his gear partly in the typesetting room, partly in the downstairs, and partly in the Hasta Primus bedroom, where he was to sleep that night. He had brought with him an assortment of guns, skin diving equipment, a collection of books and a number of Rambo type TV tapes, not to mention a whole list of other paraphernalia. I took him into Dillard that night and bought him a few bags of fruit to get him started on his vegetarian diet that he preferred. So he was now settled in for the night and ready to start working the next morning. I started programming him on the typesetting equipment on Monday, and on Tuesday he and Keith went into Franklin to change over the telephone and electric expenses, I paid Keith his final check of $107.35, and he left the premises on April 11. Carl also applied for his own P.O. Box at the Otto Post Office. So he was all set and was off and running. We had a lot of work ahead of us.

Carl had several other redeeming qualities that were helpful to the cause. Besides having given up smoking, drinking, and being dedicated to Salubrious Living, he kept in good physical shape and followed a strenuous routine of exercises.

Also, somewhere along the way in his military career, he had learned to become an expert agriculturalist, and soon he had a beautiful vegetable garden thriving on the grounds south of where we were planning to build the warehouse behind the church. He also planted a number of shrubs and flower beds in front of the church and at various places around it. But that was not all. He planted a number of peach trees along both sides of a walking path that he prepared, connecting the church with the School for Gifted Boys that was now under construction. We named the path Leadership Lane. Keith and I had already built an arched wooden bridge over a small creek that was located about half way between the school and the church. Carl also planted a number of cherry trees along the south side of the main road. What with mowing and trimming the grass regularly, he kept the place in fine shape, more so than any other Hasta Primus I have employed since, and this takes in quite a number.

On June 9, 1984, Carl and I laid out the corner stakes for a 12 by 12 studio I planned to build in which I could indulge in painting pictures when I retired. The studio was duly built, but I never did reach the stage where I could indulge in what I considered would be my favorite pastime.

Carl was quite frank and voluble about the mistakes he had made during his young life. He told me that during his rousing and drinking days more than a decade earlier, he had entered into an ill-considered marriage that he soon regretted and ended in divorce. However, the marriage produced a beautiful and gifted daughter, who was now nine years old, and was staying with her grandmother in Dover. Her name was Brandy, and later during the next summer holidays she was to come visit him for several weeks.

Trip to Hawk's Nest in the Florida Keys

As I mentioned in my earlier biography, (ATET), back in 1973 we had bought three weeks of time-share units in a condominium, two in the last part of November, and one week was in the first part of May. The time had now come to take our spring jaunt.

We left the cabin at 11:40 AM and had lunch at Shoney's Restaurant at the Oakwood exit at Gainesville, Georgia. We stopped at the Best Western for the night at Gainesville, Florida, after a drive of 443 miles, arriving there at 9 PM. Next morning, after an early start, we had lunch at our favorite noon stopping place, the Holiday Inn restaurant at Fort Pierce, where we had our usual lunch of soup, a crabmeat sandwich and their delicious peach cobbler with ice cream for dessert. We had a super seafood dinner at the Whale Harbor Restaurant at Islamorada (another one of our favorite eating places) and after loading up with groceries at Marathon, we finally arrived at our apartment at Hawk's Nest at 9 PM.

The next day I spent sunbathing, reading a book on The Government of Greater Germany (1938) and started putting the photo album together of our collection of Egyptian pictures. On Wednesday our friends from Lighthouse Point, Bill and Mary Wimmer, arrived for a few days visit, something that became a regular event in the years to come and something we always enjoyed. On Thursday Bill and I took a long, long walk on the old Seven Mile Bridge, to Pigeon Key and back.

The Wimmers left on Friday, and Henrie and I packed our gear and left at 10 AM on Saturday. We stopped at Sheehan Pontiac in Lighthouse Point to look at a new 6000 LE station wagon and compare prices. We then went over to the Wimmers where we stayed overnight. They treated us to a special home-cooked dinner, which was also shared by Emily and Bruce, Mary's sister and her husband. After having breakfast with the Wimmers the next morning, we took off, and after our usual lunch at Ft. Pierce, we drove 490 miles to stay at the Colonial Inn at Cordele, Georgia. The next day, Monday, we were back on our way to North Carolina, but not after first stopping in at Clayton Motors to talk to Burt and Larry Bickerstaff about prices on a new station wagon. We finally arrived at the cabin at 3:30 PM. The first thing I did was pick up our private mail at Dillard, then checked in with Carl.

A few months earlier we had started a new column in Racial Loyalty called Cupid's Corner in which we encouraged correspondence between young people who had marriage in mind and were also dedicated to our religion, Creativity. Strangely enough, such a match was not easy to come by, since it seemed that whereas we were able to attract a lot of males, there seemed to be a noticeable scarcity of female applicants.

However, one such letter we received from a young girl by the name of Naomi, was the daughter of Quinn L. Hermann from Minnesota, with whom I had had some correspondence for several years. She was about 21, and although she had never been married, she had a young daughter about two years old. She sent her picture along with her letter, and both the picture and the letter really impressed Carl. After all, he too had a daughter and was not married. They soon had a flourishing correspondence going to the point where he invited her to come down to the church and visit with him. She accepted, and on June 12, Carl went down to the Atlanta airport to pick up Naomi and her daughter Natalie Grace. They stayed about a week, and it seemed a marriage was in the offing. They had a long counselling session about it with me and I felt flattered to act as their "father confessor." Of course, I told them I was all for them getting married. We needed more young White marriages and more White children, all of which was part of our Creativity program. Carl then took mother and daughter back to the airport on June 19, and Carl and Naomi kept up a hot correspondence and had many long telephone conversations.

On July 9 Carl told me he and Naomi had decided on Marriage and he planned to fly out to Phoenix (where she was working) and get married. Leaving here at 2:30 PM, I took Carl to the Atlanta airport, and he took the 6 PM Delta flight out to Phoenix. Poor Carl! Two days later he was back, no Naomi, no marriage. Henrie and I were working in our vegetable garden in the middle of the afternoon as we saw him slowly walking up the road from the church to our house and we already guessed the sad results. As he neared our yard he tried to vault over the rail fence, but even there he fumbled and instead of clearing it, he knocked down the top rail. He then told us the sad story — the marriage was off. I never knew exactly what the problem was, but I understand her mother had something to do with it. We felt so sorry for him, and as a consolation Henrie offered that he have dinner with us that night.

At this time I was in a building mood. I still owned the 25 acre pie-shaped piece on HW 441 that I had traded from Jerry Ayres. I envisioned building a Creativity university on those grounds some day. But more immediately, I had in mind building an art studio just a few yards southeast of the cabin, in which I contemplated I could paint to my heart's content when I retired, a situation that could come none too soon as far as I was concerned. On June 9 Carl and I staked out a 12' x 12' site for the studio. On June 22 I signed a contract with Billy Sanders to have it built at a cost of $5500, a project he started in short order. I built a number of planters and retaining walls around it and brought in ten truck loads of dirt to fill in the planters. Carl did most of the shoveling, which was considerable.

Kim called at 7 PM Wednesday, June 13, and said they were all coming down to visit us for several days while Walt would be going to Atlanta to attend a seminar. They arrived at 2 AM the next day. While Walt went on to Atlanta, we had some good visiting to catch up on. On Saturday Henrie, Kim, Scott, Bryan, Amy and I packed a picnic lunch and went to Terrora Park (south Rabun County) and went swimming in the lake at the park. The weather was great and the water was warm.

Walt was back from Atlanta on Sunday. The family stayed over until Monday and left for Martinsville at 1 PM.

Our next visit to Kim and Walt didn't materialize until July 28, when we left the cabin at 11 AM, and after stopping in Maggie Valley to check into some video camera equipment, we arrived at Kim and Walt's place at 5:40, just in time for a good home cooked dinner.

The next day we looked over Walt's Chiropractic office, which was at the time located on Brookdale Road. Walt took X-rays of my back and shoulders and pronounced me in good shape (he said I still had the back of a 30 year old!) and that I had a minimum of calcium deposits in the bones of my back and neck. He also gave me a treatment, which included therapy with some electrical pulse mechanism.

Henrie also had X-rays taken, but her back and neck were not in good shape. She still suffered from some of the effects from a fall from a horse when she was taking riding lessons in college many years ago, and also she had quite a lot of calcium deposits in her joints. Walt recommended the repeated use of an electric pulse machine, and we ordered such a mechanism through him.

We all had dinner at the Dutch Inn Restaurant that night, with everybody ordering crabs legs. We left Martinsville the next morning, and Henrie and I had a good lunch at the Red Lobster in Winston Salem on the way back.

Chapter Eleven

Trip West,
Sept.-Oct. 1984

I had always had a great deal of admiration for our eleventh President, James K. Polk, who successfully fought the Mexican War and added more territory to the United States and the White Man's domain than any other president. I wanted to visit his sometime home in Columbia, Tennessee. I also wanted to look at the condominiums in Arizona, and at the same time see a number of people on our schedule out west. But most of all I longed to again see the wide open spaces and scenery in the west that have always fascinated me.

I finished the layout for the October issue of Racial Loyalty on September 18, and took it in to NE Georgia (Cornelia) for printing. The next day, after giving Carl a number of signed checks and instructions, Henrie and I left the house at 4:55 PM to start our long journey westward on US 64, stopping at the Lake Ocoee Inn restaurant for a hearty dinner. We drove a total of 145 miles that late afternoon to stay at the Ramada Inn in Chattanooga, Tennessee for the night.

Taking I-24 the next morning, we had lunch at the Cracker Barrel at Murfreesboro, Tennessee and bought a number of souvenirs, including a facsimile of an old Kentucky rifle. We then drove on to Nashville to visit President Andrew Jackson's historic Hermitage and went through the building and surveyed the grounds. After spending and hour or so at the beautiful Parthenon (also in Nashville) we went on to Columbia and checked in at the James K. Polk Motel after having dinner next door at the restaurant of the same name, although they are not affiliated. Henrie had frog legs as her dish. After dinner we drove around Columbia, including a drive past Polk's house.

The next morning we had breakfast at the same restaurant and then spent a considerable amount of time at the James K. Polk house and museum, looking over old letters, books and maps. I bought a picture of James Polk, and also one of Mrs. Polk, as well as several other souvenirs.

At 10:30 next morning we headed west on US 34 to Lawrenceburg, then on to US 64, where we had lunch at the Horse Traders Restaurant in Savannah, Tennessee. Very good. Back on the road again, through Memphis, then Little Rock, finally arriving at Conway, Arkansas, checking in at the Best Western for the night. I called Carl at home base, and found that he had picked up the printed copies of Racial Loyalty. I also found out that Mike McSwain had not yet corrected the computer for printing out the address labels, but would be over Saturday.

* * * * *

Our next objective was to visit with T.C. Fry, whom I considered the Prima Domo of the Natural Hygiene movement of the time. I had met him in Austin, Texas, a few years previously, where he was at that time putting out his Healthful Living magazine and a number of books and tapes on the subject of Natural Hygiene, a program that was closely related to our own Salubrious Living program. He had now acquired a lease on a beautiful country club on a lake, near the town of Ridgedale, Missouri. He was running it as the Lakemont Health Resort. Here he was giving daily lectures, as well as having a number of people staying there who were fasting and getting the benefits of his other health treatments as well.

The large complex also had a restaurant, and after he had finished his lecture we (the three of us) had lunch together at a table next to a window that gave us a beautiful view of the lake. T.C. Fry stuck strictly to his fruitarian lunch of grapes and three delicious pears, while Henrie and I had some sandwiches and some fruits for desert. We discussed the possibilities of him helping us set up a Health Center at our World Headquarters in North Carolina, with him supplying us with instructors and students, a program that he endorsed enthusiastically. We also discussed rates he charged for clients now staying at his resort.

* * * * *

We left Oakmont and headed north on US 65 to Springfield, Missouri, then diverted to I-44 West (a toll road from Joplin to Tulsa), arriving in Tulsa at 6:20 PM. We checked in at the Cross Roads Motor Inn and had a good dinner of spare ribs at the Country Inn restaurant. Despite all the stops, we had driven a total of 374 miles for the day.

After getting up early, 6 AM, we had breakfast at the Holiday Inn restaurant. It had been our objective to visit the Gilcrease Museum, which contained a wonderful collection of cowboy and western paintings, sculptures and artifacts. However, this being Sunday (the 23rd) we found out that the Museum didn't open until 1 PM. So instead we utilized the morning by driving over to the huge Oral Roberts religious establishment, a 40 acre compound that was a marvel to behold. It was at this time that shortly before he had claimed to have envisioned a 900 foot Christ standing before him, allegedly telling him to build a hospital of equal height in this compound. This he was now endeavoring to do, with a great deal of promotion and vigor. His structure was already several hundred feet up and some of the elevators were in operation. We went in and up in the building as high as we could go, and were amazed at the immensity of it. In front of it he had a statue that was a replica of the praying hands that had been drawn by one of the classical artists. The statue itself was at least 50 feet high and must have cost a million dollars. I noticed that somewhere on the grounds he had a sign that said something to the effect that with faith you could accomplish miracles. Seeing his fantastic layout, it was hard to argue with his approach.

We left Tulsa at 10:30 AM and drove on to Oklahoma City to take another look at the Cowboy Hall of Fame. We found that its "Club" restaurant was also closed on Sundays, so we went over to Howard Johnson's and had a crab sandwich. We then drove back to the Cowboy Hall of Fame and again reviewed its many interesting paintings, statues and scenarios. We had been through it some years before, and the thing that struck me this time was that whereas before it was a magnificent museum glorifying the American cowboy, and the days of the early west, it was now beginning to move more towards down-playing cowboys and more and more prominently to glorify the goddamn Indians. I bought a bronze statue of a cowboy on horseback, some books, and two copies of their magazine, Persimmon Hill.

During the next several days we covered a lot of territory and did a lot of driving. We left Tulsa that same Sunday and checked in at the 7 Flags Motel at Shamrock, Texas, having driven 285 miles since 4:30 PM. Next morning we drove west on I-40 and had lunch at Denny's in Tucumcari, New Mexico. After stopping at Cline's Corners and buying several souvenirs, we arrived at Gallup, New Mexico at 6 PM. (We lost an hour due to change of time zone.) We checked in at the Royal Holiday (B.W.) We had been on the road for eleven hours and driven 515 miles. Henrie and I had dinner at an old Spanish restaurant, the Eldorado, where we each had a prime rib.

Next morning we continued west on I-40 until we came to the Information Center for the Painted Desert. The view from there was fantastic. We took the 26 mile loop road through it and the Petrified Forest, stopping at numerous places along the way, including Newspaper Rock, which had a mass of Indian hieroglyphics on it.

The tour road of the two parks ended at US 180. From there we went on to Holbrook, Arizona and had lunch at the Plainsman Restaurant. Staying on I-40, we turned north on Arizona highway 64 at Williams, heading for the Grand Canyon. We checked in for the night at the Red Feather Quality Inn and had a shrimp and avocado salad at their restaurant of the same name. The Red Feathers was located twelve miles south of the Canyon and the reason we stopped there is it was late and we did not want to take a chance on not finding a place on the more crowded area on the Canyon's Rim.

After checking out of the motel next morning, we drove to the Grand Canyon headquarters and received our Golden Age Passport, a privileged gift to Senior Citizens at any and every U.S. park, a welcome surprise. We saw many interesting exhibits and a slide show of early boats that had gone down the Canyon exploring its many gorges, banks, tributaries, and in general, its geography and geology.

Doing a little exploring of our own, we drove west along the Canyon's Rim to the Hermit's Rest, the end of the road. Here I bought a book by that noted canyon explorer, John Wesley Powell, and some other items. Then back to the village, where we saw a most fascinating show on the giant screen at the Imax Theatre. After having lunch at the Grand Canyon Squire (B.W.) Restaurant, we left the Canyon at about 2:30 and started heading for Sedona, Arizona.

* * * * *

Arriving at Sedona at about 5:30 PM, we checked in at the Canyon Portal Motel. At 6:30 we gave Kim and Walt a call to let them know where we were and see how they were doing. Kim informed us they were buying a house in Martinsville, and the kids and everybody were doing just fine. I told her we were going to be looking at condominiums. Kim had talked to us on several occasions about owning a condominium in Arizona, as a winter vacation home, and probably as a retirement home for the future as well.

Next morning I visited the office of John DePoe Real Estate, and salesman Paul Sloman took us out and showed us a 2 bedroom, 1-3/4 bath condo in West Sedona. Price, $68,000. It didn't look too good. He had few other choices to show, none too attractive. We were not impressed.

Checking out of the motel, we headed south on US 179. About three miles south of Sedona we stopped at the Chapel of the Holy Cross, a beautiful memorial some lady had built for her deceased mother. It was built right into the solid red sandstone that was so abundant and characteristic of the Sedona area, and the views were just simply breathtaking. Heading south on I-17, we stopped for lunch at Cordes Junction, then headed on towards Phoenix, arriving there at 2:30 in the afternoon.

One of the first condo complexes that we happened to encounter was Maryland Lakes, in Glendale on 47th Avenue and Maryland. They had three different furnished models on display. A saleslady by the name of Courtney Morgan showed us around. We were impressed with "Plan C", but made no decisions. I thought it would be a good idea to first talk to my old friend Dr. Martin A. Larsen, with whom I had been in correspondence for some time. I called him and made an appointment with him at his home for 10:30 AM the next morning. He was glad to hear from me.

At that time Dr. Larson was nearly 90 years old. Although his hearing was somewhat impaired, he was still sharp as a whip. He had written numerous books and wrote a weekly article for The Spotlight. He was familiar with my operation and my books and complimented me on my bold approach on both the subject of Christianity and on the Jews, although he never attacked either of them openly in his own writings. We had a nice long conversation and exchange of views in his living room, and then he offered to take me out to lunch. It was an offer I could not refuse. We ate at Wynn's Chinese Restaurant (his choice). He drove me around Scottsdale, (where he lived), Paradise Valley, the Camelback Country Club, and showed me several of the other better class towns in the immediate area. He presented me with two of his latest books, as well as giving me a lot of valuable information about Phoenix in general. I asked him about the Maryland Lakes condo development. He approved of the area as such and said there were not too many Mexicans in or near the area at that time. (This was 1984, we must remember.)

The next day Henrie and I went back to the Maryland Lakes condos (the company was called J.R. Ventures, Inc.) and took another look at the condos and the whole layout and we liked it. After Henrie and I had talked it over, we decided to buy a unit for Kim, (Tahoe, Plan C) a two bedroom unit, two bath unit for a total price of $66,405, plus $650 for mirrors on all the sliding doors on the closets. The date was Friday, September 28, 1984.

We celebrated that night by having a sumptuous dinner at the Stag and Hound Restaurant on Indian School Road and I-17.

The next day I called Carl at 7 AM. Everything seemed in order. He had mailed out the copies of Racial Loyalty on Monday. Billy Sanders had completed construction of the steel warehouse. I called Kim at 9 AM and told her all about the purchase of the condo. Walt was not home. He had gone to Ft. Wayne, Indiana for a seminar.

We went back to Maryland Lakes and took a number of pictures, then drove on to Sun City West. It was really something to behold. They had everything there that any retired person could want for recreation. We looked at the huge Sundrome Auditorium and all the other lavish facilities for recreation, then had lunch at the Salad Bar. We then drove west on Bell Avenue to I-17 and south to the Phoenix Metro Center. Fabulous. Not only was the place huge, but the buildings all had that harmonious Arizona desert style of architecture that I particularly found appealing, not only at this mall, but throughout most of the city itself.

* * * * *

We left Phoenix at 2:30 PM and drove south and west on I-10 to Tucson and on to Lordsburg, New Mexico where we stayed overnight at the B.W. American Motor Inn. Continuing on I-10 the next day, we stopped at El Paso, where we picked up a bundle of Texas tourist literature and had lunch at Denny's (chef's salad and brownie deluxe with ice cream). Diverting to I-20, we went on through to Ft. Worth, then south on I-35W to Waco, Texas to visit that most interesting Texas Rangers Museum and Hall of Fame. We checked in at the River Place Motel, which was just across the Brazos River from the Museum itself. Most of the next morning was spent browsing through the museum, looking at the hundreds of old rifles and guns, at the beautiful art works and portraits of the famous Texas Rangers that had added so much to Texas lore and history and to the opening up of the West. At this time the Heart of Texas Fair was in progress at the Texas Colosseum and Fairgrounds, and we spent the afternoon visiting their exhibits.

Several years ago I had read a book called Please Doctor, Do Something! by Joe D. Nichols, M.D., who, when he wrote the book in 1972, was also President of Natural Food Associates. Although he had been a medical doctor since 1933, like most other M.D.'s he had not the slightest knowledge about the importance of nutrition, until one day in 1946 he had a heart attack that almost proved to be fatal. Since he was still relatively young, his period of invalidity and recovery forced him to meditate on what he had been doing wrong. He came to the conclusion that the food they, the doctors, and millions of other people were eating, was junk food. It lacked nutrition, as did the soil the food was grown on. He had just bought a 1000 acre farm before the heart attack and he decided to fertilize the soil with organic fertilizers, raise organically grown foods and spread his message to the world.

This he did with a great deal of vigor, and I happened to hear one of his speeches at Countess Guardabassi's mansion in Palm Beach several years later. Henrie and I were both much impressed, and now, in 1984, since we were in the area, we decided to go out of our way to visit him at Atlanta, Texas, a small town about 130 miles east of Dallas. After a long struggle, we finally found the town and the farm. However, much to our disappointment, some other organization had now taken over the farm and was using it for purposes altogether different from what Dr. Nichols had been doing. Not even his books were in the office of the building any more. Dr. Nichols, now 74, was pursuing his own private practice somewhere, and I never did find out from the secretary in charge as to what had happened.

Much disappointed, we drove south on secondary roads, had lunch at a small place called Vivian's, then on to Shreveport, Louisiana. Finally we pulled in at a Best Western Motel at 9 PM at Meridian, Mississippi. We had driven a total of 564 miles for the day.

From there we headed back home the next day and arrived at about 5 PM. I stopped in at the church, consulted Carl, picked up whatever mail was of interest to me, and called it a day.

It was now October 5, and we had travelled a total of 4854 miles on our circuitous odyssey.

Chapter Twelve

A Grand Prix for Henrie

After looking over all the back mail, my first order of business after the long trip out west was to put together the layout for the November, 1984 issue of Racial Loyalty. This would be our 18th edition since we started in June of 1983, and we had never missed a single issue since. We put the finishing touches on it by October 21, and I took it to the printers. This was now being done by The North East Georgian in Cornelia, Georgia, since Dixie Advertising had moved away from Franklin to Brevard, North Carolina and was no longer available to us. The man in charge of the NE Georgian Printers was a good fellow by the name of Bobby Williams, who, unfortunately, did not own the business. We did have a short stint with the Franklin Press doing a few issues for us, but the editor at the time, Ken Hudgins, although not unfriendly, told me he had had a revolt among his employees about the matter because of our hostile attitude toward Christianity, and he could no longer continue to do the job for us. It was to be the beginning of a long search for a reliable printer for our paper, but more about that later.

Meanwhile, Billy Sanders was busy in trying to make progress on the school building, and we were getting to the stage where I had to make a lot of individual decisions, such as wall colors, types of Formica counter tops, tile, lighting fixtures, etc.

For some time Henrie had been agitating for a prestigious car of her own. Of course, we did have the VW Rabbit as a second car, but she didn't like to drive it, especially since it had a stick shift. On Friday, October 27, 1984, we left for Martinsville to look for a car for Henrie. The next day, Saturday, Walt took her around to all the car dealers in Martinsville. The final decision was a silver colored two door, Grand Prix Pontiac. The dealer was Blue Ridge Pontiac, and since the car had been used as a demo and had a few miles on it, the final price was $13,728. We closed the deal at 10 AM on Sunday, but since some servicing had to be done on it, and we wanted to make some other contacts in Florida, we left it there for a week.

Henrie and I had been at war with the I.R.S. for years, and had not filed a return since 1980. (At this date in 1992, we still haven't. Since Henrie has since passed away, and since it is a matter of grave principle with me that I will never stoop to be a race traitor, and that I would never, ever contemplate helping the Jews finance the destruction and genocide of our own race, I assure you I never will file.) Anyway, at this time the I.R.S. was beginning to breathe down our neck more heavily and we decided to go back to Florida and disperse whatever assets we had. We left Martinsville on Monday, October 29, and were back at our cabin in North Carolina by Wednesday night.

We met with Kim and Walt again at Hickory, North Carolina, a half-way point, about a week later. The Grand Prix had been serviced and was ready to go, and Walt was bringing it down to Hickory, with Kim following in her car. We met at Shoney's Restaurant, where we not only enjoyed a good lunch, but also a good visit. Kim and Walt drove back in one car, and Henrie and I drove back in two cars. Henrie finally had her own Grand Prix.

Hawk's Nest; Tom Metzger; Christmas and New Year

It was always a pleasure when our last two weeks at Hawk's Nest in the Florida Keys came up in the last half of November. By that time it was beginning to get chilly in North Carolina and the bright foliage from the trees was pretty well gone, whereas in the southernmost part of Florida it was warm, sunshiny and the waters in the Keys were at their sparkling best. It was always a good time for a change of scenery and a time to get away from it all. Besides, we could always spend Thanksgiving there and our anniversary was usually within the same week.

We loaded up the station wagon and left the cabin at 11:40 on Saturday, November 17, 1984. We were a day late in leaving, since our week started on Saturday, but no matter. We stopped for our usual lunch at Shoney's at the Oakmont Exit off I-985, then drove a total of 405 miles, arriving at Lake City at 7:45 PM. This time, instead of taking the usual route we took a detour down along the west coast of Florida. We wanted to have lunch at the Crab Trap, just south of the Skyway Bridge, Tampa Bay. We had eaten there before and the food was delicious.

From there we drove south on I-75 to Naples, then east along Alligator Alley to Krome Avenue, then south past Homestead, all the way to another of our favorite restaurants, Whale Harbor at Islamorada, where we had another great dinner. We finally arrived at Hawk's Nest after 10 PM after having driven 555 miles for the day.

Of the three weeks we had, two of our apartments (#501) were on the (top) fifth floor, and one (#401) was on the fourth. From either one we had an excellent view of the old Seven Mile Bridge and also the new bridge that was now being built alongside of it. We could look over the bridges and see the Florida Bay to the north, with all its numerous little keys, islets and bird rookeries, and we had an unobstructed view of the Atlantic Ocean to the south, including the famous Sombrero Key Lighthouse. The latter was five miles straight south of us, and the area around it was a snorkelers and skindiver's paradise.

The next day after we arrived there, I started working on the article "The Polestar" for the next edition of Racial Loyalty. I wrote four pages the first day, twelve more the second, and before I was through with it, the article amounted to a stack of scribble on yellow pages. At this time I happened to see an advertisement for a Sharp typewriter with a limited computer memory, available at K-Mart for about $250. I went out and bought it, studied the manual for awhile, then showed Henrie, who was an excellent typist, how to use it. I then asked her if she would type my article, which over the next few days she did. It amounted to a total of 21 typewritten pages, and was published in the January 1985 issue of Racial Loyalty.

I read several books while there, such as Golden Boy about William Holden, the story about Ghandi, and a story about the experiences of 33 combat veterans in Viet Nam by Al Santoli. Henrie and I had a turkey Thanksgiving dinner at The Buccaneer, and talked to the owner, a Dutchman by the name of Bakker again. We had become acquainted with him last year. On the last Monday we made our usual visit to Key West and did some more exploring. We also talked with Kim that night. They had had a nice little Thanksgiving vacation in Williamsburg with their family.

On Wednesday we left the Hawk's Nest at 3 PM and drove over to Bill and Mary Wimmer's in Lighthouse Point. They had a lovely dinner prepared and we were soon at it again. We also saw their son Scott while there.

After having breakfast with them the next morning, we said goodbye and left to do some shopping in Lighthouse Point. We left at 12:30 and drove to Ft. Pierce, where we had our usual lunch of a shrimp sandwich and a peach cobbler with icecream. We drove on to Lake City, stayed overnight, and on home the next day. Since he is an avid frugitarian, we brought Carl a big bag of oranges from Florida.

* * * * *

Tom Metzger. For the last several months Tom Metzger, from Fallbrook, California had been taping a few half hour interviews with people who were connected with the racial movement, no matter how far astray their views might be. He had a connection with Dave Wiley, who was a student at the California State University in Fullerton, and either was in charge of, or had access to their video recording studio and facilities. Through his contact with Dave, who was always present at every recording, Tom was able to schedule a number of shows that concerned the racial issue, and at this time he had already been able to record about half a dozen or so, which could be aired on Public Television.

I had had some intermittent correspondence with Tom for the past ten years, since I had written Nature's Eternal Religion, during the periods when he still adhered to Christianity, or when he was still a member of the Klan, but our correspondence had never been very productive, nor very congenial. Although he was against the Jews and niggers, he seemed to have no clear cut creed, program or philosophy of his own, and what he said changed from time to time. Strangely, he always seemed to have some nit-picking reason as to why he could not join with us and promote Creativity. I also had some correspondence with his son John, who seemed much more receptive, and in fact applied for a Ministerial Certificate to become a Reverend of our church. This we were happy to grant him, and he still is in good standing with us to this day (1992).

We now go back to December of 1984. About a month earlier Tom had called me and said he would like to tape a show of my ideas and activities. Since I would have to fly most of the distance across the country, while he had me there, he said he would make it worth my while and tape two half hour shows. I checked the cost of the airline ticket and found it came to $596, plus there would be other expenses. I contemplated for a while whether it would be worth the cost, and after some consideration I agreed I would come. The condition was we would tape two shows.

He called me while I was at the Hawk's Nest in Marathon and confirmed that he had the taping scheduled, and the date was Wednesday, December 5, 1984. At 3:30 on Tuesday afternoon, just a few days after getting back from the Keys, Carl and I left in my car for the Atlanta airport for me to catch the plane for the John Wayne Airport in Orange County, California. At 6:20 PM I left Atlanta on American Airlines Flight 627 and after a change of planes in Dallas, arrived in Orange County at 11:22 PM. I took a cab to the Ali Baba Best Western Motel at La Mesa and called it a day.

Next morning I called Henrie to say I had arrived, and then called Tom Metzger. He said he would pick me up at 11 AM. At 12 noon he, or they, arrived in two cars. In one was Tom Metzger and his bodyguard, a fellow by the name of Terry. In the other car was the great (jerk) Mike Brown, to whom Tom introduced me as once having had the honor of being the bodyguard of George Lincoln Rockwell. Tom told me right at the outset that since the great Mike Brown had arrived, he was going to do a show on him, and sorry, that left time for just one show for me, instead of the two he had promised. This made me angry, since if I had known that he (Tom) was going to welch on me I would not have come at all. It was not the only thing that aggravated me. This Mike fellow talked endlessly and had an ego as big as a house, and a brain as big as a mouse. What was worse, Tom pointedly slighted me, for what reasons I am still mystified, but patronized Brown like he was God's gift to the White Race. The only other achievement, besides being Rockwell's sometime bodyguard, was that Mike had also served a year in the penitentiary for a stupid and bungled attempt at dynamiting the United Nations building. I was not in a good mood, but since I was here, I tried to make the best of it.

We drove about 20 miles to the studio at Fullerton, where I finally met with Dave Wiley, who was in charge of the production, and, also along with Tom, acted as the host asking the questions. The taping started at 2:30 PM, with me going first. I thought it went rather well, and in all fairness to Tom, although he had a cold, I thought he did a good job and asked all the right questions.

After Brown's session was over, we all went to a Pizza Parlor, where pitcher after pitcher of beer was ordered and drunk. Here I met Tom Padgett, who was a member of our church (and also an Odinist!) and with whom I had had considerable correspondence. I also met Carl Straight, who claimed he supported me 100%, except that he still clung to Christianity. There were soon several more fellows who joined the group and to whom I was introduced, and as pitcher after pitcher of beer was consumed, the party became very lively and congenial. I didn't like beer, but just to join the crowd, I drank a tall glass of wine to get in the mood.

At 8 PM the party broke up and Tom Padgett drove me to the Los Angeles Airport. Here I met Larry White, who had specially come to see me at the airport, and with whom I had had correspondence for several years. Since we still had some time to kill before my plane left, we all ordered dinner and had much conversation.

At 11:15 PM my plane left. Sleeping most of the way, I arrived at the Atlanta Airport at 6:20 AM, where Carl was ready to pick me up in my car. We arrived back in North Carolina at about 9:30, and after relating most of the events to Henrie, I went to bed and slept until 3:30 PM.

* * * * *

Christmas and New Year, 1984-85. During the year's holidays, we mutually decided we would have Christmas at the Moores, and New Years at the Klassen's layout.

On Sunday, December 23, Henrie and I left the house at 11:30 AM and headed for Kim and Walt's place. At Exit 64 on I-40 we stopped and had lunch at the Western Steak House. After a stop at the grocery store and loading up, we arrived at Kim and Walt's at 5:30 PM. On Monday we had a big turkey dinner, then opened stocking stuffer presents at night. Friends of the Moores, the Kleinschusters and their family and parents were over in the evening and brought some presents.

Tuesday, December 25, 1984. Christmas Day. After a viewing of Santa's appearance (Walt was dressed as Santa Claus) in a downstairs room, we opened many, many presents in the living room. Much confusion and much hustle and bustle. Later in the afternoon we had a kitchen dinner. After dinner a neighbor from across the street came over to visit and told us about her adverse experiences with the medical profession, about over-medication with drugs and their disastrous effects. I gave her a copy of our book on Salubrious Living.

In the evening Walt replayed the filming of this morning's events of opening the presents and other activities. He also showed a screening of a play Bryan had taken part in at school.

Next morning we left for home at about 10:30. Since Kim and Walt would be with us in a few days for the New Year's get-together, we took Scott and Bryan with us. On the way back we stopped at Hickory to have lunch at Shoney's.

New Years at the Cabin. Kim and Walt and Amy arrived at our place on Saturday, December 29. One of the first things Walt helped me with was to put the shutters up on the north side of the studio. He also tried to give me some help with a video camera I had recently purchased, but there was something wrong with it and he could not get it to work either.

The next day, Sunday, Kim and I had a long walk down the lower road of Swiss Village, and then also tackled the upper road. We talked to the Penns, who lived on the upper road, and were invited into their house. After all that walking we had a big New Year's dinner that Kim and Henrie had cooked. It was great.

On Monday, the last day of the year, I received a copy of the Race and Reason tape I had made with Tom Metzger. We all watched it on the TV set with anticipation. Not bad.

That night we all went to Sky Valley (of which I was then still a member) and at 9:30 the whole family had dinner there, after which we participated in the dancing and in the floor show. We got back to the cabin just before midnight so we could watch the New Year being brought in on television in different parts of the country.

The next day, January 1, we all watched the Rose Parade in Pasadena on TV, with Walt switching stations every so often to see what the football games were doing. Meanwhile Kim and Walt started packing their things, and at 1 PM they said good-by and left for home.

Chapter Fourteen

January, 1985:
an Assessment

This being the beginning of a New Year, the time had come to take stock, to make an assessment as to what we had accomplished so far, and where we were now at.

It had now been almost twelve years since I had published my creed and program in Nature's Eternal Religion. Since then we had published two more fundamental books, The White Man's Bible, and Salubrious Living. It had been a year and a half since we moved our whole operation up here to the World Center in North Carolina. During this time we had printed, published and widely distributed tens of thousands copies of Racial Loyalty every month, for a total of 20 issues, as of January, 1985. Everyone of them was hard hitting, pulling no punches against either Judaism or Christianity, a combination of evils that had never before been linked or accused of as being in collusion in a conspiracy to destroy the White Race, nor as being at the root of all our evils. We had made a lot of enemies of the most powerful forces in the world, not the least of which was JOG (our Jewish Occupation Government.)

However, so far we had survived. We had not had our headquarters burned down, and I personally had not (yet) been shot, as many predicted I would be. Furthermore, we had received widespread attention, not only from our friends in the racial movement, but also from our legion of enemies in the Establishment. We had won the hearts and dedication of a considerable number of dedicated White Racial Comrades. Our list of subscribers and supporters, although not phenomenal, was growing each month. We would have liked to see a more rapid growth, but then, Rome wasn't built in a day, and it took the Christian movement 300 years before they even so much as had a Bible that encoded their beliefs, whereas we had ours put together and in place right at the very beginning of our movement. Furthermore, at that time we were able to carry insurance on our buildings, and the County, bless their little black hearts, had even allowed us property tax exemption, something to which we were most certainly entitled, and was guaranteed by the Constitution, but which most of the Jews and the Christians in the area fiercely resented. (Both of these basic rights were later illegally taken away from us, despite our legal battles, as we shall see later.) We had been fire-bombed and shot at in June of 1983, as I have already related earlier in my autobiography Against the Evil Tide, and we had rocks thrown at the front of our building from time to time. But the fiercest and most vocal opposition came from the local little preachers of the numerous fundamental churches in the county, of which there were more than one hundred of such dens of superstition. However, although not as visible, we never forgot that behind all such harassment and opposition were those parasitic and eternal enemies of the White Race, the Jews.

Well, things could have been better, but they could also have been a lot worse. Anyway, we were struggling along against some most powerful odds, but we were surviving.

In writing these articles for the first 20 issues, the thought came to me that we were enhancing and adding much to our creed and program of Creativity, material that should become a permanent part of our religion and should be preserved for the future. Whereas I was busy writing the material, pasting the copy sheets for Racial Loyalty and a hundred other things, while Carl was answering mail, typesetting the copy, planting trees and mowing the lawn, I decided we needed a special typist to put together and typeset the articles in a special book for permanent preservation.

I called Rev. Rick Becker, our erstwhile Hasta Primus, and asked him if he would take on a temporary job and do just that. He was getting a permanent government disability pension, but no matter, nobody need take note of that, and in three months or so he would be back at Greenville. The pay was small, only $100 a week, but, it was so much extra spending money, and Rick was very conscious of money.

He started the second week in January, and moved in with Carl in the upstairs apartment. However, he was such a sloppy housekeeper that there soon developed a disagreement about this matter between him and Carl, and soon Rick moved into the accommodations at the school. He did very nicely in his typesetting, and in a few months he had it finished.

I gave the book a title. I called it Expanding Creativity. His job finished, I paid him his final check in the amount of $110 on May 2, 1985, and Rick left for home.

The next big problem was finding a printer. Shops that print tabloids seldom print books, and, because our material was so controversial, most printers were extremely reluctant to print either our paper, or any book we might put out. After much scouting and many rejections, I finally found a printer that could and would do our book. The name of the company was Currahee Printing, located in Toccoa, Georgia. We soon reached an agreement and the book was duly printed in 1985. It was to be the forerunner of several other books that the same printer would do for us. As an additional note, all our books are in the Macon County Library.

Chapter Fifteen

Hawaii Revisited, 1985

It had been nearly twenty-seven years since Henrie, Kim and I had last visited Hawaii. That was back in June of 1958, on the occasion of both Henrie's and Kim's birthday, when we cruised over on the Matson Steamship Lines flagship, The Lureline, and a beautiful cruise it was. (We flew back by plane.) Now, after a long and intensive involvement in the religious and racial issue for the last fifteen years, it seemed it would be most interesting to make another visit to Hawaii and take a fresh look at these beautiful islands from both a scenic point of view and also a look at its people, as well as the changes that commercial development had wrought in the meantime. What better time to go than in the middle of the winter?

We made arrangements with our travel agent to leave February 16, 1985. In telling about this trip, I am going to divide it into two parts. First, I will treat it as a regular travelogue, describing our daily itinerary and activities, including our three day stay in Las Vegas, and our side trip to Phoenix to overlook things at the newly bought condo apartment. Secondly, in a separate and following chapter, I will go into more explicit detail about my racial impressions of the rank miscegenation that is Hawaii, as I described in my former article in Racial Loyalty. (Issue No. 23)

In my opinion, there is no question about it that the Hawaiian chain of islands represent one of the most scenic pieces of real estate in the world, from what I have seen of it. Henrie and I were most eager to see them again, especially the islands of Maui and Kauai, which we had not visited on our first trip.

* * * * *

Saturday, February 16. Henrie and I got up early, 4 AM, to finish our packing and get ready to go. We picked up Carl in our Pontiac station wagon at 5:10 and drove to the Atlanta Airport. In getting over-involved in one of Carl's conversations, we missed a turn-off at the Airport and barely caught United Flight 780 to Denver. We arrived at 8:55 AM and left Denver on United Airlines Flight 27 at 11:35 AM. After an approximately seven hour non-stop flight, we arrived in Honolulu at 2:30 PM.

We were picked up at the Airport by the MTI tour director, were given leis to hang around our neck, had our pictures taken, and driven to the Hawaiian Village Hotel by private taxi, all part of the paid tour. Although by this time we were real tired (it had been a long day) we checked over the hotel grounds and started looking at the numerous tour brochures that were most readily available. We decided on two activities for tomorrow, (a) the Circle Island tour, which took in most of the day, and (b) the Don Ho Dinner and show that night.

Sunday, February 17. We had chosen the Alamai Tour Agency's Deluxe Circle Island tour. Cost, $33.50 each. A minibus that held no more than ten passengers picked us up at the Hawaiian Village Hotel at 9 AM. The first stop was at the Kahala Residential Area, inside the crater of Diamond Head. When we were there 27 years ago, there was no development inside the crater, but there certainly was now. Then on to Hanauma Bay Blowhole, Sandy Beach, Makapuu Point, Pali Lookout, and then on to Punaluu, where we had lunch at "Pat's." Here I bought a Japanese carved whalebone (imitation?) bridge, which I still keep in my study as a souvenir.

From there we drove on to the Mormon Temple and its Cultural Center, but since this is a huge, all day attraction in itself, we only had time to drive through it. But no matter, since it avidly attracted our attention, we decided to come back to it again another day and spend the whole day exploring it. This we did, and I spend all of Chapter 16 telling about it, as I promised I would at the beginning.

We drove on to Sunset Beach and the North Shore, the latter being a real surfer's paradise. From there on to Waimea Falls Park, where we stayed a while and watched the beautiful white falls, and also had a refreshing fruit drink at the Dale Pineapple Hut. While driving through the sugar cane fields, we got to meet a nice couple from Indiana. I got involved in a conversation about Creativity with the husband, whose name was McCord Purdy. I promised to send him a three book set, which I did.

We were back at the Hilton Hawaiian Village Hotel at 5:30. After changing clothes, we went to the Don Ho show and dinner inside the Geodesic Dome of the H.H.V. Hotel at 6:30. We had two Mai Tai drinks each (watered down) and a real good dinner while Don Ho was telling his jokes, singing his songs, putting on girlie dance routines and kissing any number of old women while engaging them in meaningless chatter. We met an interesting couple at our table. Their names were Don and Edie Adams from Wenonah, New Jersey. We had our pictures taken ($11) and took a number of flash pictures with our own camera. Back at our hotel room at 10:15 PM.

Monday, February 18. Had breakfast at the Voyager Restaurant at the Travelodge Hotel nearby. Made reservations with MTI tours to leave the hotel tomorrow at 12 noon with our luggage, all to be ready at the Diamond Head entrance at 11 AM to leave the island of Oahu.

For today we also made reservations to take the Mormon Polynesian Cultural Center tour ($43). The driver of our bus was a comedian by the name of Joe, who claimed to have a mixed ancestry which included just about every race and nationality imaginable, Japanese, Irish, and even native Hawaiian. (Didn't everybody?) He loaded us into a large bus and we took off at 12:30. It proved to be a most interesting day, and since I will be describing this event in more detail in the next chapter, I will not take the space here.

Tuesday, February 19. After we were all packed and ready to leave we had breakfast at the hotel restaurant, and then I bought myself a navy, blue, and yellow "Aloha" shirt. We had set all our luggage out in the hall and at 12 noon we and the luggage were picked up by the bus at the Diamond Head Exit to transfer us to the airport. After a crowded and confused scramble that was reminiscent of the Cairo and Aswan airport episodes in Egypt, our Hawaiian Air flight left at 2:30 PM. We were on our way to Kauai.

When we got there, we stood in line for about an hour at the Dollar Rent-a-Car before we managed to acquire a vehicle, a Chevy Sprint. We drove ourselves out to our hotel and checked in at the Kauai Surf Hotel, assigned Room 306. It was a great hotel, a beautiful place, an excellent room and a wonderful view of Nawiliwili Harbor on whose beach the hotel was located. It was a huge place and had six first class restaurants. We chose to have dinner at the Outrigger Restaurant, having prime rib, and a Napoleon for dessert. We were really living high on the hog.

Wednesday, February 20. Today was my birthday. I was 67 years young, but I felt like 35. I had a good night's sleep, the best on the trip so far. (It must have been last night's prime rib.) In the morning, after a good breakfast at the Outrigger Restaurant, Henrie and I went for a long walk on the extensive grounds of the hotel, which consisted of 200 acres altogether. We left a roll of film with 24 exposures at the camera booth at the hotel. Now it was time to explore the island, and having our rented Chevrolet Sprint at our disposal, we took a south and westerly drive along Road #50 from Lihue along the south coast to the very end of the road. There we stopped at a broken down old place at Waimea and had lunch.

We drove up the Waimea Canyon road, which later joins #55 to Waimea Lookout, an elevation of about 3800 feet, to look down into this huge canyon, then back to #50 and the end of the line to the west.

We looked at some time-sharing condos at Poipu Beach, called Niki Kai Villas. However, they did not particularly appeal to us. After this, we drove back to our hotel, the Kauai Surf, and had a delicious dinner of duck a l'orange. We also had our pictures taken to celebrate the event.

Thursday, February 21. Had breakfast at the Outrigger Restaurant, and while dining there we watched the cruise ship Constitution come in to Nawiliwili Bay. Went for a walk on the hotel grounds to the set where many of the TV episodes of Mash were filmed and took a number of pictures. We then walked to the hotel's Japanese gardens and took a number of pictures, then took a roll of 36 exposures to their camera shop, to be developed and ready by 4 PM.

The same day we took a drive to Lihue and visited the Kauai Museum, next we drove to the Wailua Marina and took a (Smith) cruise to the famous Fern Grotto. While there we witnessed a wedding in progress, followed by a program of singing and music.

We returned to the marina and had lunch, then drove north on HW 56 to Kapaa and visited the Kapaa Shopping Center and Bazaar, which had a multitude of interesting shops. Continuing north, we saw many taro fields, and some terrific beaches right next to steep mountainsides.

Returning to the hotel, we picked up the sets of 24 and 36 developed pictures from the photo shop. Had a Mahi Mahi dinner at the Fisherman's Restaurant at the hotel. Very good.

Friday, February 22. This morning we had a big buffet breakfast at the Outrigger Restaurant with lots of papaya, pineapple spears, melon, bacon, sausage, and more. We got our belongings together and reluctantly checked out of the Kauai Surf Hotel at 12 noon. We drove our rented Chevy Sprint to the Lihue Airport and checked it out at no charge. (The cost had already been figured in the original package.)

After having lunch at the airport, we embarked on Hawaiian Airlines Flight 27 at 2:10 PM, then changed planes on the runway tarmac to Maui. We arrived at the Kahului Airport at approximately 3:45 PM. Back again to the Dollar Rent-a-Car where we obtained a Nissan station wagon. It was a 27 mile drive to our hotel at Kaanapali, and on the way along the coast we saw a whale cavorting on the surface, about 3/4 mile off shore.

We checked in at the Maui Marriott Hotel, Room 2059. After having dinner at the Moana Terrace Restaurant, we checked the listed room prices. We noted ours was listed at $115 a day, but, what the hell, it was all part of the package.

Saturday, February 23. Started out with breakfast at the same restaurant as we had dinner last night.

Getting into our rented station wagon, we headed for Lahaina, the famous old whaling town, where we bought a number of items, including a Hawaiian shirt and shorts outfit for each of our grandsons. We had lunch at a quaint old restaurant overlooking the water. Returned to the Maui Marriott at about 3:30 to get ready for the big luau coming up for tonight.

But first I though I would give Carl a call at the church headquarters and see what was happening back home. Things seemed to be pretty well under control. The paper had been printed and delivered. He would be mailing it out Monday.

The luau was to be served buffet style and when we got there at 4:55 a line had already formed. About 400 people were coming. The food was good, and drinks (Mai Tais) were being served, as many as you wanted, but they were pretty well watered down.

We were back at the hotel by 8:45.

Sunday, February 24. About a mile from the Marriott was the quaint old Whaler's Village and shopping center. Here we had breakfast at the H.M.S. Bounty Restaurant, then drove south on HW 30 on the west coast of Wailea, where quite a lot of new development was going on. We then turned around and drove across the island on HW 35, all the way to Keanae, expecting to see the church and where we thought Charles Lindberg's grave was located, but when we got there we learned that his grave was another good ten miles past Hana. This meant another 28 miles of rough driving and since the last 17 miles had been extremely crooked, we decided to turn around and go back home. However, it was a beautiful drive along the north shore, and an unusual sight to see dozens of windsurfers riding the big rollers as they were coming in.

When we got back we had dinner at the Moana Terrace Hotel. That same night I started reading the story of Marriott by J. Willard Marriott, a most remarkable man.

Monday, February 25. Next morning we checked out of the Marriott Maui Hotel, drove back to Whaler's Village and had breakfast again at the H.M.S. Bounty. After exploring this unusual shopping center more extensively, we visited the Whaler's Museum on the third floor of one of the larger buildings.

That completed our tour of the islands on this trip. We filled the tank with gas, drove over to the Maui Airport to unload our baggage, turn in our car to the rental agency and check in our tickets. We left Maui at 4:45 PM and when we arrived at the Honolulu Airport immediately checked in with United Airlines. At 10:45 PM we took off for Los Angeles, and tired out after a long day, we slept most of the way enroute.

Addendum: In describing our trip to these beautiful island, we must remember that this is how we saw them in February of 1985. Many changes have ensued since then, some of most damaging consequences. As I am writing this in September of 1992, a most powerful natural disaster, Hurricane Iniki, swept over the island of Kauai on September 11 devastating the island to such an extent that it will never be the same again. What a tragedy!

However, there was a demographic disaster overtaking all of the islands that was, and is, of longer standing, and although more devious in its course, is even more virulent in its long term damage. It started when the American missionaries landed there in the 1820's. In the next chapter I will concentrate on the miscegenation of the people who inhabit the Hawaiian Islands. This is as I saw it in 1985, and described the situation in an article in Issue No. 23 of Racial Loyalty and page 161, Building a Whiter and Brighter World.

Chapter Sixteen

An Eyewitness Report from the Hawaiian Islands

Aloha to You too, Kamaaina!

Race mixing and miscegenation rampant in one of nature's most scenic tropical paradises.

From a scenic and climatic point of view, the Hawaiian Islands are some of the most desirable pieces of real estate on earth. They are, in fact, the stuff that dreams are made of and a virtual tropical paradise, if there ever was one.

From a White Man's point of view they are a racial nightmare, the ultimate in miscegenation. They are, in fact, the consummation of a race mixer's dream. They come very close to that goal so devoutly pursued by the Jews and their bleeding-heart counterparts among the Christians and their degenerate White segment.

My wife, my seven year old daughter and I visited the Hawaiian Islands of Oahu and the big island (Hawaii) in 1958. Departing from San Francisco we went over on the then operating Lureline, one of two flagships of the Matson Lines. The five day cruise across the Pacific was sheer joy, and was in celebration of both my wife's and daughter's birthdays, both of which occurred on June 7th. Our first trip to these beautiful islands was an exciting adventure and we enjoyed every minute of it. We flew back by plane.

A few months ago, my wife and I planned to make a return trip to these lovely islands which we had visited 27 years earlier. This time it was to celebrate my birthday.

We took off by United Airlines from Atlanta at 7:35 AM, changing planes in Denver and arrived in Honolulu at 2:30 PM the same day, February 16, having gained six hours on the sun.

Flying in toward Oahu, as this beautiful island is bathed in the afternoon sunshine, is still (almost) as exciting an event as arriving there by cruise ship. The island is still a beautiful gem set in the blue Pacific, its vertical green mountains creased by sharp ravines and the sawtooth profile accentuated by sharp, picturesque peaks. Geographically, with their beautiful sandy beaches, rugged mountain peaks and undulating valleys, they are still a tropical paradise.

Honolulu had greatly changed since we last saw it in 1958. It has now become another Miami Beach, but fortunately not as heavily infested with rude, pushy, arrogant Jews. In fact, the mongrel natives, which are a melting pot of Asiatic, Oriental, Polynesian and every other shade of miscegenation, are by and large friendly, polite and accommodating. But big money has arrived in Hawaii and large conglomerates, mostly Jewish controlled, have taken possession. Huge motel and hotel complexes now crowd the limited real estate, and whereas in 1958 there were only a handful, now the city of Honolulu is as crowded and congested as any on the "state side." High-rise apartments, condominiums and hotels now crowd this beautiful tropical island. It now also has “freeways," traffic congestion and noise pollution. The air, however, is still relatively clean, having the advantage of the perpetual Pacific breezes and tropical showers renewing the atmosphere.

Prices are high in Hawaii. I was well aware that most of what Hawaiians consume has to be imported. I was, however, surprised to learn from a tourist guide on one of our excursions that practically everything else, flowers, shrubs, fruits, trees, birds and animals, too, are of recent foreign import. Even the "native" Hawaiians did not arrive from “elsewhere” until as recently as the 14th century, only a few centuries before Captain Cook, that great White explorer.

We stayed only briefly in Oahu, being eager to explore Kauai and Maui, which we had not visited on our previous trip.

One of the tours we took on Oahu was an all-day circle tour of the island. We took off from the hotel at 9:00 AM in a mini-bus, with a group total of ten. The driver and guide was a typical native by the name of Robert. He explained eagerly that his own racial ancestry was somewhat like chop suey (or smorgasbord) and consisted of Portuguese, Irish, Japanese, and some others that I don't recall, but it did include Hawaiian. Everybody there claims some Hawaiian ancestry, whether they have it or not.

One of the stops on this all-day tour was at the Polynesian Cultural Center, a vast Disneyland like complex of structures that are supposed to represent seven Polynesian "Cultures," but look more like Hollywood sets for a movie. This 42 acre complex adjoins the Mormon Temple grounds, and the campus of Brigham Young University of Hawaii. All this is part of a huge 7000 acre spread known as Hawaiian Village, and includes the town of Laie. It is all owned by the Mormon Church which bought this prime piece of real estate for a song back in the 30's.

I was intrigued by the Mormon extravaganza in promoting these alien "cultures" and the next day we took another tour to the Polynesian Cultural Center itself. It was expensive — $43.00 per person — including dinner and a Polynesian show at night. The Mormon Church does not come cheaply and has few rivals in the efficiency with which it can extract money from its own members, or outsiders.

The Center is a 42 acre "living museum" and was purportedly established for the purpose of preserving the "cultures" of the Polynesian peoples, in particular that of the islands of Tonga, Hawaii, Fiji, Tahiti, the Marquesas, Samoa and Aotearoa. Aotearoa? Where is that? I had never heard of it. Well, guess what? That is the future name of New Zealand already resurrected from some mythical invention to be bestowed upon these lovely islands when the White Man has been expunged from them, and the aborigines again hold sway. This is completely in line with the Jewish program now going full speed ahead in Africa, where the Belgian Congo has now become Zaire, White Rhodesia has become Zimbabwe, and a host of other countries that were being colonized by Whites and had their culture bearing people driven out and/or exterminated and placed in the hands of cultureless black savages.

Most of these new names really have little or no historical significance. They are purely Jewish inventions designed to sound very African, and wipe out any and all White influence.

The Mormons have spent a wad of money on this 42 acre “museum,” which it is not. A museum, in the correct sense of the word, is a place where genuine artifacts, statues, relics of some historic bygone age are collected and displayed. The articles displayed are usually genuine, not fabricated. Not so at the Polynesian Cultural Center.

Everything is genuinely phoney, fabricated by the skill of White technology, mostly by White craftsmen and workers much in the same manner as are Hollywood sets constructed for a particular movie.

But for these sets the Mormon Church has spared no expense. Money is no object, it would seem. It has poured tens of millions into these 42 acres. It has built wide, intricate canals, bridges and waterfalls with the water kept in constant motion by huge pumps hidden from view. It has built a huge Gateway Restaurant, as well as several smaller fast food snack bars. It has built a store, "Shop Polynesia," canoe landings, a huge Pacific Pavilion to stage its nighttime shows, gazebos for bandstands, the whole works. I repeat, money is no object.

It has also built a Samoan Village, (Talofa), an Aotearoa Village (Kia Oro), a Fiji Village (Bula Vinaka), a Tahitian Village (Iaorana), a Tongan Village (Malo e Lelei) and more. It has also built a Hawaiian Village named (Aloha), a word repeated to the point of nausea, around which a whole industry has been built.

When we arrived in Hawaii, I liked the word "Aloha" which means hello, I love you, goodbye, and just about anything else you might want it to mean. You are greeted with it at the airport, it is repeated incessantly on the tour buses, at the night time shows, everywhere. In fact, as soon as a tour guide has the attention of his group he starts training them to respond to his "Aloha" with a loud shouted "Aloha" in return from his group, until it becomes as automatic as a trained Pavlovian dog salivating. They especially train you to stress the end of the word with a loud aaah! By the time we left, I became sick of the word.

Several questions arose in my mind as we wandered through these 42 acres of plastic Polynesian fantasyland by dugout canoes, outrigger canoes, by tram, and on foot. Some of these questions were (a) Were these "cultures" by these shouting, stomping aborigines really worth saving? (b) Were they really cultures at all by the White Man's standards? (c) Why would any group of White people spend such lavish amounts of money to construct artificial renditions of a phoney Hollywood set in order to glorify "cultures" that never existed, and could not be identified by true natives of those many islands even if they were paid to do so?

Why did the Mormon Church spend tens of millions to build this plastic facade?

The shuttle bus that took us through the Polynesian Villages also took us on a tour through the adjoining Brigham Young University Campus, then as if by happenstance, to the lavish Mormon Temple, but not through the Temple. Heaven forbid, that is only the privilege of a select few, not ordinary sinners. However, they did take us through the Visitor's Center next to the Temple, where we were given a low key speech about the history and virtues of Mormonism and shown a movie to further drive the message home. Everyone was invited to sign the Visitors' Register, a clever recruiting device that is faithfully followed up by their young missionaries at your home address at a later date.

Back in the Village we were lined up — about two blocks long — outside the Gateway Restaurant for the ensuing dinner that was included in our $43.00 ticket. It was a disaster. Not only did several thousand people have to stand in line outside for nearly an hour under the skies that threatened rain, but the dinner itself was crudely served buffet style and of inferior quality — all the "seafood" had been strained out of the Seafood Newburg — and only replaced after there were no more people in line waiting to eat. As huge as the place was, there were few clean tables to be seen, and no one could be seen cleaning any of them. So everyone grabbed an empty table, shoved all the dirty dishes and glasses aside and proceeded to eat. The floor areas leading from the buffet tables were wet and sloppy from spilled food. It is an understatement to say that the whole affair was most unappetizing.

At 7:30 PM we congregated in the Pacific Pavilion, a huge amphitheater with comfortable seats on concrete tiers similar to a football stadium. We were now ready to view the highlight of the day, a 90 minute extravaganza of music and dancing called This is Polynesia. After a disappointing dinner, I was surprised at the excellence and the high quality of the show. It had lavish sets, the costumes were terrific, it had a cast of 150, and it was great. We really enjoyed it. I am sure the natives back in the South Sea Islands would not recognize any of the music, dances or costumes as being part of "Their culture." It was strictly a matter of the White Man's genius and talent creating a rendition of what a glorified version of their native culture should have been if these savages had had any brains of their own.

One thing I noticed was that there were any number of mongrelized smorgasbord, chopsuey South Sea Islanders much in evidence and highly visible. Yet in all the key positions, whether it was in the villages, or at the restaurant, or wherever, a nice Nordic type of Mormon was in charge. Obviously, when it came to organizing and keeping the show together the chopsueys couldn't cut it. From the foregoing, a reader might get the impression that I did not enjoy the recent excursion to the Hawaiian Islands. Not so. I enjoyed it immensely. After a few days in Oahu, we flew on to Kauai, the Garden Isle, then to Maui, the Valley Isle — both extremely scenic and picturesque. We even saw a humpback whale lumbering along about a mile off shore shortly after we arrived at Maui. Of the two islands, however, it is my opinion that Kauai is the most beautiful and restful of all.

However, I did not intend to write this article about the scenic wonders of the Hawaiian Islands. Rather it is to examine the race-mixing and miscegenation that is characteristic of Hawaii, of what the Jews, the Mormons and the bleeding-hearts (all for different reasons) are doing to compound it, and what the White Man must do to regain this precious piece of real estate for himself.

In so doing, we would not be taking anything away from the "original natives," since there is hardly a genuine pure-blood native left in these islands. The only exception perhaps is the tiny island of Niihau, containing only 72 square miles and not far off the coast of Kauai. This small island the natives have tried to preserve for themselves, and no one that is not a "pure blooded Hawaiian" can reside there. Tourism is relatively sparse and is discouraged. However, what vestige of "pure blood" remains among these natives is questionable, since the Hawaiians had been thoroughly miscegenated before they got the idea of preserving what was left on the island of Niihau.

It is interesting, nevertheless, that these backward natives should take enough pride and interest in their original racial stock to want to preserve it, when there is and was little to be proud of, or for that matter, little to be accomplished with this small and incompetent seed-bed. In contrast, it is not only interesting but shamefully disgusting when we look at the wanton and indifferent attitude the White Race has about itself. Nature's Finest has a proud record of achievement in culture, civilization, art, music, literature, science, technology, architecture, warfare and ranks first in just about every other field, yet the White race hardly even recognizes itself as an entity. Not only does it stupidly not lift a finger to ensure the future survival of its species, but on the contrary, like the Mormons in Hawaii, it goes all out to promote, perpetuate, subsidize and glorify other cultures hostile and much inferior to itself.

The question that remained uppermost in my mind on my return from Hawaii is why are the Mormons doing this? Isn't every "culture," every race, in competition with, rivals of, and an adversary of, if not outright hostile to, every other race or culture?

Yes, they are, unless they are spiritually sick or demented. You can't be loyal to your home team and at the same time be bankrolling, promoting and cheering for a rival team. Only traitors who have been bought by the opposition do that. For instance, you don't find George Steinbrenner, who owns the New York Yankees, bankrolling, promoting and cheering for the Los Angeles Dodgers when it comes to the World Series playoffs, or at any other time, for that matter. He would be considered a fool, an idiot and a traitor to his own team if he did.

So why does the Mormon Church promote, bankroll and glorify not only one, but seven "cultures" that are not only completely alien to it racially, religiously and culturally, but also vastly inferior to it? Isn't promoting an alien group with vastly different values also flagrantly demeaning to your own? Isn't it playing the fool and being a traitor to your own? Of course it is. It is stupid, demeaning and outright treasonous. It is, in fact the most heinous kind of betrayal and treachery it can perpetrate on the followers of its own church and race which from its very beginning has not only been White, but more zealously guarded its White origins than any other pseudo-Christian religion in the world.

What has happened to the Mormon Church?

In studying this question in depth, the answer comes up loud and clear: the Mormon Church has gone Jewish, lock, stock, and barrel. When President Spencer W. Kimball proclaimed on June 7 of 1978 that he had had a new "revelation from the Lord" and that the mud peoples were now also eligible for priesthood, it might have been a shock for many of the Mormon faithful. (Read again My Transformation from a Jew-loving Mormon to a Militant Creator by Rev. Carles C. Messick in Issue No. 13 of our monthly newspaper, Racial Loyalty). However, it was not a sudden reversal of the Mormon creed. The seeds had been sown a long time ago, and the crafty Jews had sunk their poisonous tentacles into the heart of the Mormon hierarchy almost from the beginning. The two religions have now become as cozy as two peas in a pod.

While being subjected to indoctrination propaganda at the Visitors Center at the Mormon Temple in Oahu, I picked up a few pieces of their free literature on display. One of them was the booklet The Mormons and the Jewish People. On the first page of this booklet it says: "If the Jewish people really understood, they would realize that no other people, organization or church, has as much in common as do the Mormons, as members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints.

> You have been driven, robbed, and ravished. So have we. You have been persecuted, mistreated, misunderstood — so have we.
> What a power we could be if we were united.
>
> The complete accomplishment of our mutual and heaven assigned responsibilities involves our becoming united (as descendants of Joseph) with the descendants of Judah (the Jewish people) in the fulfillment of the promises given by the Lord to Abraham and renewed upon the heads of Isaac and Jacob,---"

There you have it. This is the official line as disseminated by the hierarchy of the church itself. It fairly shouts: "We want to be Jews!"

Alright. That's what the stated, official position of the Mormon hierarchy is in their strange and sticky love affair with the Jews. Now let us hear from the other side and see what the cunning Jews have to say about their queer, hybrid courtship of the Mormons.

Here is a Commentary written by Rabbi Marc H. Tannenbaum in the B'nai B'rith Messenger:

> "Probably no people who are not themselves Jews are so much concerned in the Jewish race (sic!) as the Latter-Day Saints. Indeed, the fortunes of these two people are very closely connected."

That statement was made in 1905 by a Brigham Young church historian on the occasion of the centennial of the birth of Joseph Smith, founder of Mormonism.

The Mormon Church's deep feelings of respect and solidarity with Jews, Judaism, and Israel were manifested impressively a few weeks ago. Southern Utah State College in Cedar City, Utah, sponsored an entire week of activities devoted to introducing their 3,000 students, mostly Mormons, to the religious, cultural, artistic, and social achievements of Jews.

An entire room was dedicated to learning about the Nazi "Holocaust" and the "horrors of anti-Semitism." Mormon students from 32 states and nearly a dozen foreign countries joined Hillel youth from Las Vegas in dancing Israeli dances and in eating humus and techina. Utah's Governor Scott Matheson, Israel officials, the Las Vegas Jewish Federation — which did yeoman's work in helping organize the event — made this a memorable week in strengthening friendship between Mormons and Jews.

There is more sweet talk, but I believe this pretty well tells the story, more about the Mormons than about the Jews, who are playing their intentions close to the vest.

Joseph Smith, who based his whole religion on an incredible fraud, (actually he plagiarized The Book of Mormon from Solomon Spaulding's fictional story Manuscript Found, written 20 years earlier) nevertheless had one redeeming characteristic in his movement: It was exclusively White. But the Jews, who had been around for 5,000 years and were exceedingly cunning in the techniques of subversion and infiltration, were already conspiring of ways and means of how to take over this newly founded cult and pervert it to their own designs. In this they succeeded overwhelmingly. Today the Mormon Church stands poised to become the most effective religious movement in the Jewish goal of race-mixing. If there is any question as to why the Mormons would lay out tens of millions to build the Polynesian Cultural Center, the fact that they have built and are building their temples in places like Buenos Aires, Argentina; Papeete, Tahiti; Nuku Alofa, Tonga; Apia, West Samoa; Japan; Mexico; New Zealand; as well as Hawaii (this is only a partial list) should answer the question. The Mormons are now fully committed to an all out Jewish program of race-mixing, and not only halfheartedly like the other Christian denominations. They are now promoting the Jewish business of race-mixing with a vengeance, no holds barred.

Whereas Joseph Smith had no understanding of the Jewish conspiracy nor the depth of their treachery, the Jews were already into his operation while he was alive. As early as 1841, Orson Hyde, himself a Jew, was already one of Joseph Smith's twelve Apostles, and in that year Joseph Smith sent Hyde to Palestine to dedicate that Arab country to the future piracy of the Jews, with Smith's blessing.

So much for the sinister race-mixing program of the Jews, the Mormons, and the Christian Churches en masse. Let us now spell out the program of The Church of the Creator to save the White Race from such a fate, a fate worse than death.

In the title of this dissertation appears the word "kamaaina," which in Hawaiian means a native, or a person born in the islands, or having lived there a long time. This is in contrast to the word "haole," which means Caucasian or White. Since, as I have stated before, there are practically no "pure-blooded" Hawaiians left in the islands, but only a mish-mash mixture of mongrels, the prolifically breeding mud people are further being rapidly reinforced by a massive invasion of the more aggressive Japanese, who, thanks to American collaboration and encouragement, are rapidly buying up and taking over a choice piece of American real estate. This despite the American military forces at great cost in men and material smashing the military power of this yellow peril only 40 years ago.

We, of The Church of the Creator, have a dynamic program that runs completely counter to that of the Jews, the Mormons and the bleeding-heart Christians. We flatly oppose the diabolical program of race-mixing and the population explosion of the mud races.

We say to the White Race — let us get our act together. Let us spread the word, inform our racial comrades as to the immensity of the conspiracy to commit genocide on the White Race. Let us arouse, organize and unite the White Race. We have the means and the power. Let us stop subsidizing and promoting the mud races and let us take care of our own.

Pursuing this program, the Jews and the mud races would soon shrink and wither on the vine.

The Hawaiian Islands are much too beautiful, much too good to be wasted on the "kamaaina" mud races that now pollute it. It is the goal of The Church of the Creator that the White Race, Nature's Finest, inhabit exclusively every square mile of the good lands of this Planet Earth. That includes particularly the beautiful islands of Hawaii.

So we say to mud races — Aloha to you, too, kamaaina! and we do mean goodbye!

* * * * *

The reason the White Race has been such an easy prey is that a major segment of the White Race is promoting its own self-destruction and the overwhelming moral force behind it has been none other than Christianity itself.

Las Vegas, Nevada

Phoenix, Arizona

After the diversion about miscegenation in the Hawaiian Islands described in the previous chapter, I am continuing the narration of that same trip after leaving Hawaii from where I left off in Chapter 15.

Tuesday, February 26, 1985. After sleeping on the plane from Hawaii most of the night, we arrived at the Los Angeles Airport at 6:30 AM and immediately changed planes to United Airlines Fl. 608 for Las Vegas. We arrived there at 8:40 AM and took the shuttle bus to the Flamingo Hilton, where we checked in at Room 608.

We immediately made a few reservations. One was for the dinner show at the hotel that night. The dinner was set for 6:30 and the show, City Lights, was for 8:30 PM. The other reservation was with Thrift Car Rentals for a vehicle for 9 AM the next morning. We obtained a quote on a Chevette with air conditioning and automatic shift on a three day package at $24 a day, which we confirmed. After that, I shaved and showered and then took a nap.

After several more phone calls, we finally got to the City Lights dinner at 7, a little late. The dinner was very good, the show was excellent. They had fabulous revues, many beautiful girls and costumes, a magician performing his act, an ice-skating show, two South American comedians, and three acrobats in the performance.

Wednesday, February 27. Had breakfast at Lindy's Restaurant in the hotel by myself. Henrie was too tired and preferred to sleep in for the morning. I took a walk to look over some of the other casinos, including the MGM Grand Hotel.

After Henrie got herself awake and put together, we made reservations for that evening's Rich Little and Ann

Jillian show at the cocktail lounge for 7:30. Then Henrie and I explored Caesar's Palace and had lunch in the Post Time Restaurant. We then saw Hawaii in the big geodesic dome of the Omnimax Theatre, also part of Caesar's Palace. Back in the hotel room, I read some more of Marriott.

At 6:30 we had dinner in the Orleans Coffee Shop at the MGM Grand Hotel. By 7:30 we got into a long, long line to see the Ann Jillian and Rich Little performance (despite our reservations). Ann Jillian was cute, but somewhat boring, including her nigger support. Rich Little was terrific, and showed great talent. He literally had people rolling in the aisles with laughter. The show lasted about an hour and 40 minutes. That same night we made reservations for the Jubilee show at 7:30 for Sunday night, when we expected to be back from Phoenix.

Thursday, February 28. Had breakfast at Lindy's Restaurant (good Canadian bacon, two thick slices). Then we checked out of the Flamingo Hilton, after making reservations to return to the same hotel on Sunday night. We were picked up by the Thrifty Rent-a-Car mini-bus at 8:30 AM, and now rented a Chevrolet with air conditioning and automatic shift. At 9:30 we drove out of Las Vegas on US 93 and headed for Phoenix. We stopped at Hoover Dam and took a few pictures, then stopped for lunch at a Chinese restaurant in Kingman, Arizona, called House of Wan, which was new, attractive and had good food.

Arriving in Phoenix at 4:30 PM, our first stop was at the Maryland Lakes apartments to check out our condo #210. We found the carpeting and the vinyl had been laid. The washer-dryer unit was standing in the middle of the living room, uninstalled. Many details were still unfinished.

We checked in at the American 6 Motel at 4021 N. 27 Ave. Since Henrie said she was not hungry, I had dinner by myself at the nearby Village Inn Restaurant. I called Carl at about 8 PM to check things back at the Headquarters, and everything seemed pretty much under control. I also called Kim and reported to her about the apartment. Everything seemed in good shape at Martinsville as well. Walt was setting up a second office at Stuart, and Kim and Walt were looking at a certain house they thought of buying.

Friday, March 1, 1985. Henrie and I had breakfast at the nearby Village Inn Restaurant. I called Roger Nelson and made an appointment with Terry Hannenberg, the project manager of the Maryland Lakes construction crew to go over the details of what needed to be done. We made a "walk through" inspection and wrote down all the deficiencies (18 of them) that needed to be taken care of. I also met with Tim, who would be doing much of the work.

Henrie and I then drove over to the Valley West Shopping Center, where we had lunch. We looked at refrigerators at Montgomery Ward, and in general looked at furniture at other stores in the shopping center. However, we didn't see anything we liked. Next we went to Appliance TV City at 422 W. Cactus St., and there we bought a real nice 22 c.f. Hotpoint Refrigerator-freezer for a total of $865.91. The salesman was Joe Juliano, and he promised to deliver it to the apartment on Saturday. Next we drove to the Metro Center Shopping Mall, to Breuner's Furniture, where we shopped for bedding. We bought two sets of (double) bed frames, and two of each — mattress and mattress springs, the total coming to $1054.76. These were all to be delivered Tuesday or Thursday.

Back to the motel. We had dinner at the Village Inn and watched Dallas and The Wizard of Oz on television that night.

Saturday, March 2. Breakfast again at the Village Inn and then we looked at dining room tables and chairs at two stores, Shaeffers and Levitz, both of which were close to our motel. At 11 AM we went back to the apartment to await the installation of our new 22 c.f. refrigerator. It finally arrived at 12:30 and I gave the man a check in the amount of $815.95 to close out the balance. We then had a good lunch at the Red Lobster on Dunlap, after which we drove to Breuners and wrote them a check for the balance on the two sets of beds and mattresses. We looked at more furniture there, and also at RB Furniture.

Back to the motel. We were going to have dinner at the Stag and Hound, a high class place where we had eaten before, but could not get a reservation, so we settled for the good old Village Inn again. I finished reading my book on Marriott that night.

Sunday, March 3. Got up early, 4:30 AM. Had breakfast at the nearby Village Inn (blueberry pancakes, eggs, bacon.) Checked out of the motel and left Phoenix at 6 AM in our rented Chevrolet Cavalier, headed for Las Vegas on US 93. I got a speeding ticket just 18 miles short of the Nevada border (65 mph on a 68 mph clocking.) Returned the car to Thrifty rental at 9:40 AM, then checked in at the Flamingo Hilton at about 10:30, where we had a reservation, However, the room was not ready until 1:30 PM. Meanwhile, we had another breakfast at Lindy's, then when we got into the room we took a nap.

At 5:30 we went to have dinner at the Orleans Coffee House at the MGM Grand Hotel, then went to see the Jubilee cocktail show in the theatre of the same hotel (we had made reservations before we left previously). While watching the show we had a bottle of Lancer's rose wine. The show lasted about an hour and 45 minutes. When we got back to our room we called the Whittlesby Transportation Co. for transportation to the airport the next morning.

Monday, March 4. We checked out of the Flamingo Hilton at 9 AM and about 20 minutes later we were picked up by the mini-bus to be transferred to the airport. At 11 AM we flew out on United Airlines to Chicago, then changed planes and arrived at Atlanta at 8 PM. Carl was there to pick us up, and we were on our way home, but not until after stopping in Gainsville at the Star Supermarket to load up on groceries.

We got home at about 11:15 PM, after perusing and picking up some of the mail at the church.

Chapter Eighteen

Tour of Alpine Countries, 1985

My wife and I had made any number of trips to Europe, and we decided that it had been too long since we had made our last such foray, which was in 1973. Since we had a fairly wide perception of the European landscape, and since we were going to take only two weeks off, we asked ourselves this question: which area in our judgment is the most beautiful to re-visit and see again? Our answer unequivocally came up that the Alps and the Alpine region was Number One. We therefore decided that in the two short weeks we could concentrate on the beautiful scenery within the confines of this region. We went to see our travel agent at the beginning of August and chose a Globus Gateway tour.

We left on an overnight flight on Monday, August 19, and arrived in Frankfurt, Germany, the next morning. After settling in at our hotel, the day was free to wander around the city, or rest and get some much needed sleep. We did some of both. At night we assembled at a gala dinner and met our fellow travelling companions, and also our tour director, whose name was Hans. The latter was a fellow of German descent, in his late thirties, had a beard, and dressed rather sloppily, I thought, in comparison to our previous directors we had observed in several other tours. Our group was relatively small, consisting of approximately 15 people.

On the third day, Wednesday, August 21, we finally got rolling. We boarded our deluxe (they said) air-conditioned bus first thing in the morning and headed towards Munich and the Alps on what the Germans like to call their Romantic Road. On the way we visited those romantic old cities with ramparts and towers reminiscent of medieval times, such as Rothenburg an der Tauber (we had been there before), Dinkelsbuel, Nordingen and Donauwoerty, cities that the Germans refer to as the jewels of medieval town planning. In Augsburg we visited the Cathedral, which was begun in 955, and boasts of the world's oldest stained glass, an altar painting by Holbein, and an 11th century bronze door. Back to Munich for overnight, where we had dinner and were treated to a "stein" of beer.

Thursday, August 22. Back in Munich, we had a guided tour of the famous Olympic Stadium, the 1000 ft. high TV tower, the Nymphenburg Palace, the Oktoberfest area, the Marien Platz, and the Old and the New Townhall. We also toured the famous Pinakothek Art Museum, which had a collection of paintings by Duerer, Cranach, Rubens and other great masters.

In the afternoon we entered the heart of the Bavarian Alps: Ettal Abbey, then charming Linderhof Castle, once the hunting retreat of Bavarian Royalty, and finally on to the beautiful town of Oberammergau, where the Passion Play is staged every ten years. Then back to Munich overnight.

Friday, August 23. After driving through the forested landscape of southern Bavaria, we crossed the border into Austria and on to Salzburg, Mozart's birthplace. It was here that most of The Sound of Music was filmed. We also viewed the Great Festival Hall and the celebrated 17th century cathedral. Then on to Vienna, the capital, once the center of the mighty Hapsburg empire.

Saturday, August 24. We stayed in Vienna for two nights, there was so much to see. First we visited the lavishly terraced gardens of Prince Eugen's Belvedere Palace. Then we took a drive around the sumptuous Ring Boulevard, which is really the heart of Old Vienna. This includes past Emperor Franz Josef's Hofburg Palace, the Burg Theatre, the State Operahaus, and the University of Vienna, among hundreds of other historically famous points of interest. Next we visited the huge Prater Amusement Park, which contains bandstands where orchestras play Strauss waltzes, and has many other attractions, one of which is the largest Ferris Wheel in the world. We took a ride on it. The United Nations has built and arrogantly pre-empted for itself a city that claims to be outside of the jurisdiction of either Austria or Vienna. It is located in a choice area on the banks of the Danube. The highlight of the tour was an inside visit to the famous St. Stephen's Cathedral, a beauty to behold.

The afternoon and evening were free for shopping, or a tour of the Schoenbrunn Palace, which we had seen before, but went through again.

Sunday, August 25. We left the urban sophistication of Vienna and drove into the rustic beauty of the surrounding countryside, which included the scenic Semmering Pass, the peaceful baroque crossroad towns in Styria and finally into the mountains, lakes and resorts of Carinthia. We drove along the shores of beautiful Lake Woerth and ended up in the romantic city of Villach, immortalized in Franz Lehar's operetta The Merry Widow.

Monday, August 26. From Villach we followed the course of the Drave River up to Lienz, near the Italian border. We stopped for lunch at the Olympic ski resort of Cortina d'Ampezzo, beneath the limestone towers of the majestic Dolomites. Then on through the Brenner Pass that takes us through the barrier of the Tyrolean Alps to Innsbruck, Austria. After a stroll through the quaint medieval lanes we had a look at a major tourist attraction — Emperor Maximilian's Golden Roof, and we settled in for the night.

Tuesday, August 27. St. Moritz, the famous Swiss ski resort and one of the favorite playgrounds of the international jet set, is our destination for the night. To get there we ascended up into the Swiss Engadine, a mountain area considered by many as the most beautiful in the world. It has deep blue lakes, airy larch forests that turn golden in the fall, and quaint Grison style ornate stone houses.

Wednesday, August 28. We see more vistas of the Engadine on our way up Majola Pass, then negotiated thirteen hairpin bends that finally took us down into the lovely Bregaglia Valley leading towards Lake Como. Now the vegetation became more Mediterranean, with chestnut groves, vineyards, olive and fig trees, all of which remind us that we are now into a sub-tropical area and away from the glaciers. By lunch time we are in subtropical Lugano, a sparkling Swiss summer resort with a charming Italian character. Here we spent the rest of the day exploring the arcades of Via Nassa and flower bedecked Piazza Riforma.

Thursday, August 29. By ferry, we crossed Lake Maggiore and then motor up the 6500 foot Simplon Pass. It is here that Napoleon built a hospice in 1802. Going down into the Rhone Valley, we left our coach behind and traded it for a tiny mountain train which took us to the lovely little summer and winter resort of Zermatt, which tolerated no cars, and brought us into the shadow of the world famous Matterhorn. Here we spent the night, and while walking down its streets, Henrie and I were impressed by how much it had changed, how much more densely it was now built up compared to our last visit here, compressed within the same amount of limited space.

Friday, August 30. Morning at leisure. We chose to take Europe's highest rack-railway to 10,272 foot Gornergrat, where we would be as close to the foot of the great Matterhorn (without walking) as we could get, while also at the same time on the interesting ride on the rack-railway we could take in the breathtaking panoramic view of the Alps.

In the afternoon we motored through the vineyards and apricot groves of the lower Rhone Valley to Lake Geneva. Here we visited Chillon and took some pictures. The Castle of Chillon was immortalized by the poet Lord Byron in his poem The Prisoner of Chillon. We spent the night at the elegant resort town of Montreux.

Saturday, August 31. Our next destination is Lucerne, and on the road to it are undoubtedly some of Switzerland's most spectacular sights. Most outstanding points of interest: the terraced vineyards on the shores of Lake Geneva; the cheese factory in Guyere; the perfectly preserved medieval Old Town, the Parliament Building, and the Bear Pits in Berne, the capital of the old confederation. Finally, the scenic drive to Interlaken in the Bernese Oberland and the Bruenig Pass.

Sunday, September 1. We now come to Lucerne, Switzerland's most popular tourist city. The impressive city walls, the mural decorated covered wooden bridge dating from 1333, the ornate patrician houses lining cobblestoned streets. A highlight is the Lion Monument, in honor of the heroic Swiss Guard that defended Louis XVI and died in the attempt. That night we attended a folklore party with yodeling and alphorn blowing, as well as a beautiful display of native folk dances.

Monday, September 2. Our first stop was at Schaffhausen, where we viewed the impressive Rhine Falls, a 70 ft. cataract on the Rhine River. We then crossed over into Germany and drove through the fairytale landscapes of the Black Forest. Later, we stopped at the Student Prince University town of Heidelberg on the banks of the Neckar River. We stopped to visit the romantic old Heidelberg Castle and viewed the panoramic scene below us. We then returned to the cosmopolitan City of Frankfurt for a last dinner with our travelling companions of the last two weeks.

Tuesday, September 3. We flew back home from Frankfurt, arriving the same day.

* * * * *

There are a few personal incidents on this memorable tour that stick in my mind. This was in the year of 1985, and I was aggressively promoting my views on Creativity to anybody and everybody, including my travelling companions on this particular trip. I had even brought along a packet of Creativity flyers. At least three people were quite receptive to my ideas, a few disagreed, but nobody was particularly hostile. Although the group was small, it had in it some most interesting characters.

One was a spinster in her early seventies. She claimed that although she had had any number of proposals, she had never married. She was a very voluble old lady, had a loud, raucous voice, usually sat near the front of the bus, and never stopped talking. She nearly drove Hans, the tour director, crazy, and he had given her explicit instructions not to talk to, or distract the driver. Most of our group avoided sitting at the same table with her at mealtime, that is, if they had a choice.

One evening, in Munich, my wife didn't feel like coming down to dinner, and I was late getting there. I had no choice but to sit at the same table with this voluble spinster, the only seat available, and no supporting cast. We were alone, and I was trapped. What to do? Instead of letting her do all the talking and being bored to death on the receiving end, I decided I would take the initiative and have a little fun in the process.

She lost no time in opening the conversation. She was Catholic, and she had read one of my Creativity flyers, she told me, so her first questions were: what was Creativity all about, and was I an atheist? I replied, no, I was not an atheist, I was a Creator, but rather than explain our religion, she could read some of my books, if she cared to. Instead, I suggested, let us talk about Christianity, a subject we both knew something about.

I started out with the position that the Christian religion was based on the supposition that there are spirits floating around somewhere, everywhere, who are continuously looking over our shoulder, taking notes on our every action, word and even our every thought. We humans too have a spirit inside of us, and it is called a soul. When we die this spirit supposedly leaves our body and then will be brought to judgment by other spirits who are superior to ours. Evidently there are master spirits and slave spirits. The master spirits, who have been snooping on us during all our living days, now that we are dead, are suddenly in a position to take full control, pass judgment on us, and either throw us into a fiery pit to endure eternal torture, or put wings on us and have us fly around in a heaven of eternal bliss.

Having laid down this frame of reference, I pursued the question: Just what is a spirit? What is a soul?

She started off with the usual negative answers — it is not this, it is not that. Not good enough. I kept on pressing — what is it? If you didn't have the foggiest idea of what a giraffe was, it wouldn't help much to say it's not like a mouse, it's not like a house, so please don't waste my time telling me what it isn't. I want you to tell me what it is, describe it in specific detail, backed with meaningful and substantiated evidence. Does it have eyes? Does it have brains? Nerves? Shape? Weight? Consist of molecules and atoms?

The answers to these questions were all negative. Alright, tell me something you know for certain about a spirit that is positive and you can back up with evidence.

This kind of conversation went on at our little table for about two hours long after everyone else had left. When we finally concluded, I had a speechless, dumbfounded little old lady who couldn't answer the basic question: what is a spirit? If you don't know what you are talking about, why make such a fuss about it, waste other people's time and money, or why talk about it at all? She was stumped.

Next morning she told me (and everybody else in the bus) that she hadn't slept much last night, and it was all my fault.

A few days later, which was Sunday, when we stopped over in Vienna, my friend sought out a Catholic Church and consulted a priest. She asked him the same basic question: what is a spirit?

The next day the little old spinster had the tour guide slip me a note. It said:

Soul — a general principle of life (human beings, animals, plants).
Spirit — immaterial principle of intellect (human soul/spirit).

Well, I was as baffled as ever as to what is a spirit. Her answers were no answer at all. Our little discussion got around in the group.

* * * * *

Our group included a nice Methodist minister from York, Pennsylvania. He was in his early fifties and his name was John. One day I suggested to him that I would enjoy a friendly discussion with him on the issue of religion, and especially I would like to hear his definition of a soul or a spirit. He agreed to accommodate, although, it seemed to me, with some foreboding.

And so it came to pass, about a week later, when we finished dinner in the hotel dining room in Montreux, Switzerland, we sat down on a sofa in the hotel lobby and had our discussion. The discussion lasted about three hours, but I will not go into any great detail. I started off the discussion by explaining to him that we were in a similar line of work. Whereas he was laboring in the fantasy of saving "souls," a nebulous concept at best, I was in the real business of trying to save the White Race from extinction.

My basic premise was that the whole framework of the Christian religion to which he had devoted most of his adult life, rested on the supposition that there is a supernatural world of spirits floating around out there somewhere, yet nobody seems to have the foggiest idea what a spirit is. Now, if after all these thousands of years nobody has been able to define a spirit, or find any meaningful evidence of such, then it is logical to come to the conclusion that such do not exist and the whole framework of the Christian religion is based on nothing more than a fictitious concept, or, in other words, a hoax. We went through the same arduous procedure as I did with the little old spinster, with the same results. Furthermore, I charged that I had researched the Christ story in encyclopedias and hundreds of other books. They all pretty well agreed that there was no historical evidence that such a character as Christ ever existed, there were no written records from any contemporary eye witnesses about him, nor any other meaningful evidence about those claims. All we had were the contradictory stories attributed to some fictitious characters named Matthew, Mark, Luke and John, but there was no historical evidence as to who they were either, or if any of them ever existed. The whole thing was concocted some centuries later, with no more credence than the fables of Mother Goose. That, I suggested, is a pretty flimsy coat hook on which to hang a whole battleship.

Finally, I asked him what did he know about God, and what was his perception of him. Was he like a male father, only much smarter? His answer was very fuzzy. No, he said, the anthropomorphic image, the father image, was not real, just an explanation for the simple people to grasp more easily, he explained. God was intelligence. Where did he reside? He was all over. Any shape? Any shape in the image of man? No shape, just all over. That sounds like the scientists' description of the ether. What is the difference between God and the ether? No answer. O.K., what about the other spirits? What about souls? He was stumped. No answer. That pretty well finished our discussion. We said goodnight and prepared to take off for Lucerne the next day.

Chapter Nineteen

Fasting

Going on the alpine trip meant being away from home for about 16 days and a drastic change in our eating routine from what we had followed at home. Naturally, on such an excursion one is inclined to indulge and have a good time. However, eating on airplanes, at restaurants and hotels is not an inducement to sticking to any sort of diet that will keep your weight down. So on this trip I had gained about six or seven pounds. This was no great catastrophe, but I felt that instead of dieting at home, I should go on a crash program and go on a fast. Besides, I had never gone on a prolonged fast, despite the fact that it is a major part of our Salubrious Living program, and we had published any number of articles about it, all written by T.C. Fry, or Herbert M. Shelton, or Arnold De Vries, or someone else in the pursuit of the Natural Hygiene doctrine. I thought that now was a good time to experience fasting for myself, and at the same time lose a few pounds and get my system into better shape.

Henrie, my wife, had gone on several fasts in the past, and with good results. At two different times she had fasted at a place in Bonita Springs, Florida, once for a period as long as 30 days. The place was called Shangri-la, and it specialized in fasting, recuperation and dieting programs. It had been converted from an old two storey hotel, and was patronized by health-conscious people, especially those who wanted to get away from the northern cold in the winter season. Henrie had advised me that trying to fast at home, while easily done and is a lot less expensive, was a rather hard routine to follow, especially with all the interruptions and demands made by other people who know that they can always reach you at home.

So I decided to take two weeks at Shangri-la and get away from it all. I left the cabin on September 27, 1985, and driving my own car, arrived there two days later. The first day after checking in, they put me on a light fruit and vegetable diet, the same as the rest of the "boarders" there were being served. The doctor, or nurse, told me it was better to precede a fast with a light diet such as they served. To my surprise, I found that practically nobody there was really on a fast, but on a light vegetarian diet. I was there to fast, and was determined to go a full 14 days without eating a thing. I started that process the second day. I found that the procedure was not as painful as I had expected, and that hunger as such was not really a problem. However, during the first three days I did have a continuous headache, but not really severe. After that, I didn't even feel hungry any more. The real problem for me was boredom, although there were a number of activities to participate in, and plenty of people to talk to, if you were so inclined. However, I did not feel inclined to do either. My daily routine was to walk across the street, pick up the morning paper, the Miami Herald, and study it thoroughly. I would go for long walks and do some calisthenics. I had brought along several good books to read, and found some additional ones in their library. (In fact, as my contribution, I left a copy of Nature's Eternal Religion and The White Man's Bible on the library shelves for others to read.)

Regularly, I would spend a part of each day sunbathing. Each morning I would weigh myself, and usually I found that I lost a pound, more or less, each day. Since I had my car there, I could also go for a drive whenever I wanted to.

Each morning, at about 10 o'clock, the nurse would check into my room and take my pulse and temperature, although I didn't feel that it added much to the cause. My main complaint was I didn't sleep as well as I was used to, but other than that, no problems.

By Monday, October the 14th, I had put in my 14 days, no food, only distilled water, I got up at 6 AM and felt a little weak and sluggish, with a slight headache. I picked up the Miami Herald, shaved and showered, then went to the dining room and had a slice of watermelon and three stewed prunes for breakfast. The cook fixed me up with a brown bag of goodies to take along on my trip home. Their advice was to break a fast slowly, and to eat only fruits and veggies, and that in moderation.

After paying my bill, I took off at 8:40 AM. I ate two dates and two figs at 11 AM, then a bunch of grapes at 2 PM, all out of the brown bag the cook had given me. I drove 462 miles that day, stopping at the Colonial Inn at Cordele, Georgia, getting there at about 5 PM. About an hour later I had a Chef's Salad at the Holiday Inn across the street. It was not too good a choice, since it had quite a lot of ham and cheese, as well as the vegetables.

Some observations about driving the 462 miles on the trip after the fast:

(a) I never got sleepy, as I usually do while driving on long trips in the middle of the morning, or the middle of the afternoon.

(b) My joints didn't feel stiff after I got out of the car after a long drive.

(c) I wasn't particularly tired after 462 miles.

(d) After I had eaten something, I had three bowel movements that day, one each in the morning, at noon and at night, the first in nine days.

I went to bed that night in a real good bed, and slept from 9 PM until 2 AM, and then I couldn't get back to sleep. The next day, Tuesday, I got up at 5:30 AM, shaved and showered and picked up and read the Atlanta Constitution. For breakfast I had a banana and an apple in the room. Left Cordele at 7:40 AM and motored down I-75. In mid-morning I had a couple of dried figs and raisins. I arrived at Shoney's Restaurant on I-985 (Exit #4) and had a lunch of soup and salad. From there it was a straight shot home where I had my regular cook (Henrie) fix my menus again, which were a big improvement.

I had lost 16 pounds in the process, and I felt much better in every way. Although I did not stick to a Salubrious Living diet, I watched what I ate more carefully, sticking more to Chef's salads, fruits and vegetables. I slowly got back to my usual weight. However, I felt I had more energy and felt better in every way. Fasting pays!

Chapter Twenty

Phoenix in February, 1986

Henrie and I spent our usual two weeks at the Hawk's Nest in the Keys in the latter half of November of 1985, celebrating both Thanksgiving and our anniversary, our 39th. We had a rip-roaring and hilarious Christmas at Kim and Walt's and with all three of our grandchildren at Martinsville eating, drinking, distributing presents, and making merry. Henrie and I spent New Year's Eve at our cabin, and had Carl over for New Year's dinner the next day.

After dinner, Carl and I had a long discussion about our optimistic plans for the promotion of Creativity in the coming year. We sat down in my newly built art studio and talked for the next three hours about our plans for 1986. Poor Carl! Little did either he or I know that before the year of 1986 was over Carl would be sitting behind bars in a penitentiary, and the Creativity movement would suffer a severe set-back. But more about that later.

Meanwhile, the winter days in North Carolina grew colder, with much fog in the mornings. Henrie and I were thinking about sunny Arizona and our newly acquired apartment in Phoenix. We still had a lot of work to do to furnish it fully and put it into good shape, and we were determined to spend some of our winter time enjoying it.

* * * * *

On Tuesday, February 18, I finished the details on the last small paste-up pieces for Flyers #56 and #57 for Carl to take to the printer (Rabun Printers) and have 5000 of each printed. Henrie and I already had our gear packed and we left the cabin at 10:45 AM on our planned trip to Phoenix. We stopped at Duck Town, Tennessee and had lunch at Burger Hall. Pushing on down I-59, then I-20, we drove a total of 442 miles to pull in at the Holiday Inn at Meridian, Mississippi, arriving there at 6:40 PM. We treated ourselves to a good steak dinner and called it a day.

Wednesday, February 19. Off to an early start with breakfast at the Holiday Inn dining room, we were on the road by 7:45. Continuing on I-20, we stopped for lunch at Shoneys in Monroe, Louisiana. When we came to the Texas line, we stopped at the Visitors' Center and loaded up on more Texas literature, concentrating on the Texas Hill Country. When we got to Dallas-Ft. Worth, we took the I-20 By-pass but the evening traffic jam was terrible, and added to that, in order to make my driving more miserable, the sun was low and shining directly into our not too clean windshield. We finally made it to Weatherford, approximately 30 miles west of Ft. Worth. We found a fine new motel we hadn't noticed before, the Santa Fe (use Exit #409). We stopped there for the night, having driven 568 miles for the day, and finished off with a Chef's Salad for dinner.

Thursday, February 20. Today is my birthday. I finally made it to the age of 68!

I gave Carl an early morning call at 7:20 AM. He informed me the 10,000 flyers were to cost us $700, and that he took in $285 in contributions yesterday, including $200 from Hetty Greene, an old correspondent from South Africa, and a publisher of a newsletter herself.

After a nice breakfast in the B.W. dining room, we left Weatherford and proceeded down I-20 to Colorado City, where we had lunch at the Villa Restaurant. Turned off I-20 on to U.S. 285 to stop in at the Pecos Museum. We found it very interesting. They had a large collection of western artifacts and memorabilia.

Drove on to Carlsbad, New Mexico and checked in at the Best Western Stevens Motel. Had a spaghetti dinner. Drove 455 miles.

Friday, February 21. From Carlsbad we headed for White Sands, New Mexico, after stopping at Artesia and buying a vest or jacket lined with sheepskin at Bennie's Western Store. Drove down U.S. 82 through some real scenic valleys, including past Snowcroft, a ski resort.

Arrived at Alamogordo, where we promptly had lunch at Denny's. Visited the White Sands National Park. We found the white dunes a most interesting geological phenomena and took several pictures. We also went through their Visitors' Center, which was most informative. Back on I-20 going west, we stopped at a tourist trap called Akela and Henrie and I each bought ourselves a pair of Indian moccasins. At 7 PM we reached Wilcox, Arizona, pulled in for the night at the Plaza Inn and had dinner at their restaurant. We drove a total of 419 miles.

Saturday, February 22. Left Wilcox at 8:10 AM and drove on to Benson, then turned south on HW 82 and drove another 23 miles to Tombstone, Arizona. We stayed about two and a half hours and saw the scene of the shoot-out at O.K. Corral. We went through a number of souvenir places, including one run by a dealer of interesting dolls.

Had lunch at Denny's in Tucson, then drove on north to Phoenix on I-10, arriving there at 4 PM. After stopping at one of our favorite supermarkets in Glendale to load up on groceries, we arrived at the apartment about an hour later to unload. Had soup and a sandwich of our own making in our own kitchen. The weather was real nice and sunny. Drove a total of 250 miles.

Sunday, February 23. First thing in the morning I picked up the Arizona Republic Sunday paper at the Convenient Food Mart located catercorner from our apartment. We read it while eating breakfast, especially looking for furniture ads.

Henrie and I then went to Chris-Town, a huge shopping mall located at Bethany and 19th Ave. on the west side of I-10.

(a) We bought a sofa for $800, two easy chairs for $250 each, and with delivery, etc., the total came to $1407.

(b) Then at Montgomery Ward we bought a floor sample kitchen table for $117. and a vacuum cleaner.

(c) Stopped at Smitty's on Bethany and 35th and loaded up on brooms, mops, glasses, etc., and a load of groceries.

Had dinner (Chef's Salad) on the new kitchen table.

Monday, February 24. Went across the street to pick up the morning paper and called Carl from the pay phone at 7:20 AM. He had picked up the 5000 copies of Racial Loyalty #33, and also 5000 copies of the "Mexican" issue we had reprinted. The books, Expanding Creativity, due from Copple House (bookbinders) had not been delivered yet. I told him to call Pierson, the manager.

I let Henrie sleep (she was tired out from all the running around yesterday) and fixed my own breakfast. Then solo I went out and scouted around at different furniture stores, I finally found a set of bedroom furniture I liked at Levitz's, located at 2801 W. Indian School Road.

Stopped in at K-Mart on the same street and bought a step stool and other pieces for the kitchen.

Back to the apartment and took Henrie to the Levitz Show Room to show her my selection. She highly approved. Bought desk, $129; hutch, $129; chest of drawers, $149; headboard $89; nightstand $88. Total with delivery, $702.

Tuesday, February 25. Got hold of Tim, the repair man. His bosses' name is Terry. Pointed out all the deficiencies for Tim to fix. Drove to Levitz's central warehouse in Mesa, a distance of 26 miles, in order to pick up a matching night stand for my bedroom set. On the way back I stopped in at Good's Furniture Store and found a good secretary's chair that had been a rental. It had retailed at $217 and I picked it up for $89. After picking up a few more items at Smitty's, I had lunch by myself at Denny's on Bethany St.

Started reading Richard Barrett's The Mission. Read 91 pages.

Wednesday, February 26. The delivery van arrived from Levitz at 9 AM with a desk, bookcase and headboard for the bed. Spent the rest of the morning vacuuming headboards, window sills, etc., and sweeping the deck and the storage room.

In the evening Henrie and I had a real good dinner at The Hungry Hunter Restaurant on Indian School Road. It used to be the Stag and Hound last year.

Thursday, February 27. Had Tim change locks on all doors so that no master key could fit any longer. Checked Sales Office about insurance and found out that the Homeowner's Insurance did cover fire damage.

Henrie and I went shopping some more at Fry's, Thrifty Drugstore and to Chris-Town Plaza on the other side of the I-10 Freeway. At J.C. Penney's we bought two sets of full-sized bedsheets, two pillow cases, two queen sized pillows, two blankets, one through mail order. We also paid for the sofa and two lounge chairs, which we had bought earlier, and Penney's delivered in the afternoon.

Friday, February 28. Got up at 6 AM and started packing for the trip back home. We felt we had accomplished a lot to get the apartment furnished and in good shape for our next stay, which we hoped would be of longer duration. We locked up the apartment and took off at 9:15 AM after stopping at Fry's Market and picking up a few essentials.

Drove south on I-10 and in Tucson we had lunch at Denny's again, our favorite when travelling, it seems. Took time out to visit the old and all white Mission of San Xavier de Bac, about ten miles south of Tucson. Drove on to Las Cruces, New Mexico and checked in at the Messilla Valley Inn (Best Western), arriving at 6:10 PM. We had a good prime rib dinner at Eddies Bar & Grill, (next to the motel). Drove a total of 415 miles.

Saturday, March 1. Breakfast at Eddie's next door. Called Carl to see if everything was under control. He answered in the affirmative. Good responses from donations, $200 from Paul Alexander, good letter from Michael Merritt.

Left motel at 8:30 AM and drove on and through El Paso. Looked very dry and desolate. Had lunch at Van Horn, a small Chef's Salad. Merged I-10 with I-20. Drove on to Abilene, Texas and stayed at the American Best Western Motel. Novel room. Both the bathtub and the wash bowl in the vanity were in the shape of the State of Texas. Had a Jacuzzi in the tub. The weather was great. Drove 495 miles for the day.

Sunday, March 2. Breakfast at B.W. dining room. Picked up a Sunday edition of the Dallas-Times Herald, which had a large extra section dedicated to the ongoing Texas Sesqui-centennial, all very pro-Mexican. Left Motel at 9 AM and stopped for lunch at Denny's, Grande Prairie, halfway between Dallas and Ft. Worth. Drove on to Monroe, Louisiana, and stayed at the Rodeway Inn, a happy choice, arriving at 6:45 PM. We had dinner served in our room, Henrie had Seafood Fiesta and I had Red Snapper with shrimp. Drove 476 miles.

Monday, March 3. Had breakfast at Tobe's Restaurant, at the far end of the Rodeway Inn. Left Monroe at 8:50 AM. The weather was just beautiful.

Drove to Vicksburg, Mississippi and took a tour of the National Battle ground Park and Cemetery, perusing through the Visitors' Center and driving over 12 of the 16 miles of the parkway's roads. Then on to Jackson, Mississippi and had lunch at Shoney's. North on I-59 to Gadsden, Alabama, where we turned in to the Holiday Inn for the night. I had a Sirloin Tips dinner in their dining room, but Henrie wasn't very hungry, and just ate a couple of oranges in the room.

Arrived at Gadsden at 7 PM, after driving 430 miles.

Tuesday, March 4. Had a good night's sleep and woke up late. We both had breakfast in the Holiday Inn dining room. Filled car up with gas and left Gadsden at about 9:30. We stopped at the Ocoee Lake Lodge on HW 64 in North Carolina for lunch, then at Winn Dixie in Franklin by 3:30 to load up with groceries, and home by 4:15. Stopped at the church to talk to Carl and picked up my mail. Drove 237 miles for the day and a total of 4320 miles for the trip.

At 8 PM I had a long distance call from Bolder Landry from California. He wanted me to know that he would be delighted to come help me with the School for Gifted Boys, and said that in the meantime he would send me an appraisal of Jewish infiltration into the Atheist movement.

Chapter Twenty-one

Sizing up Richard Barrett

As all the world knows, for more than a decade I had been seriously searching for the Great Promoter, especially as age was increasingly edging up on me. I was now 68, and I was desperately searching for a man whom I could not only trust to carry on the Creativity movement, but one that I felt could probably do a better job than I was doing in promoting the great new White Man's religion. What I was really looking for was another Adolf Hitler, a prospect not too likely to happen. In so doing, I approached just about anybody and everybody that I thought showed some kind of leadership in the racial movement, and believe me, I ran into a variety of strange and twisted characters, probably half of whom were Jewish stooges and/or government agents.

Back in 1985 I received gratis and unsolicited a book called The Commission from a Richard Barrett, the author of the book. He resided in Jackson, Mississippi, and I had noted that he had run for various state and federal offices, although he had always come out a bad loser. Representing himself as a White racist, this was to be expected, and was no mark against him. I read his book from cover to cover, and although I did not discover what his "Commission" was, he did seem to get around the political arena, and had an ample number of photographs in his book that showed him in the company of a considerable number of political notables. Perhaps he was a candidate for the Great Promoter.

I wrote him a letter thanking him for the book and suggested that it might be a good idea if we got together and discussed some of our common concerns. We agreed to meet on April 5, 1986, and I would visit him in Jackson.

According to my notes, I left the cabin at 9 AM on that date, and taking several audio tapes along to listen to during the day long trip, I headed out west for Jackson, stopping only for lunch at the Holiday Inn located about 10 miles west of Chattanooga, Tennessee. After driving 534 miles, I arrived in Jackson at 6:45 PM and checked in at the Metro (Best Western) Motel. After calling him at both the numbers he had given me, all I got was his taped message.

Finally at 8:30 he and his chief aide arrived, and we went to the nearby Green Derby Restaurant and had shrimp and steak dinners. (I picked up the tab.) At the end of the meal, a blonde young fellow, about 30, joined us at the table. His name was Rev. Kevan Barley, a preacher. Why Richard had invited him I still don't understand, since I had questioned Richard closely about his own position on Christianity. Whereas he had waffled on the issue, he made it clear to me that we were on the same wave length about this religious hocus-pocus, but since he was always running for election, he could not, of course, take an Anti-Christian position. Why then did he bring this young preacher, who claimed he was a racist, into this meeting at 10 PM to argue about Christianity with me? This was the first of several repeated strange moves of his that soon convinced me this fellow was not a friend, but a tricky con man.

After some further discussion all around, I gave each of the three all five of my (then) books and I turned in at 11:30 after a long day, with plans to get together again tomorrow.

Richard Barrett and his aide picked me up at the motel next morning (I checked out) and we drove to his country office at Learned, about 20 miles out of Jackson. He owned a small brick building completely out in the country. He had bought it for taxes ($30) about 20 years earlier and fixed up the dilapidated little building to serve as his office. As I understood it, we were going to have a large meeting with his followers in his electioneering, in which I would participate. At the same time we would discuss the main issue I had travelled all this way to see him about, namely whether he might be the right man to lead the Creativity movement.

Instead, when we got there he brought his lawn mower out of the shed and started mowing the grass on the scrubby acre or so of land that went with the building, then he would go into his office and work on a mailing list. This he did alternately with his aide. In between we talked in interrupted sequences about our business, all of which made no sense. My proposition was that I was looking for a competent leader, the "Great Promoter," to take over the leadership of my church. I had made this clear during our previous conversations on the phone. He put forth some kind of confused proposition that we bring the C.O.T.C. in under "one umbrella" with his Nationalist movement, form a Board of Directors with him as chairman, and he would then select a new Pontifex. The church would then be some kind of a subsidiary adjunct to his Nationalist movement, whatever it was that his movement stood for. Even after reading his book, I could not get any kind of a picture of what his Nationalist movement stood for, if anything. The very fact that it was Nationalistic and stressed nationalism, was in itself a clear contradiction to Creativity, which sought to unite the total White Race under one banner. Actually what he was preaching was the same old God and country, flag and constitution garbage that had provided the basis for the downfall of the White Race for the last 50 years. After intermittently sitting by and watching him mow his grass and listening to his propaganda, finally I had had enough, and I asked to be returned to the motel, where my car was parked. Disgusted, I got back into my Pontiac station wagon and took to the road, leaving Jackson at 4 PM.

Stopping at Meridian to have a good dinner at Shoney's restaurant, I pushed on to pull in at the LaQuinta Motor Inn at Tuscaloosa for the night. After having breakfast at the nearby Holiday Inn, I hit the road again at 9 AM, deciding to remain on I-20 to Atlanta, instead of following the previous I-59 and Chattanooga route. I found a group of about 20 firefighters also lunching. They were fighting some out of control fires in the nearby area.

During the trip home I tried to analyze Richard Barrett and his motives. Was he a sincere White racist or was he perhaps an agent for JOG, misleading the White people down dead-end streets, wasting their money on futile election campaigns that he had no intention of winning? He had repeatedly run for one office after another, always with disastrous results. He had run for governor of the State of Mississippi, he had run for U.S. Senator, and numerous other offices, always coming out a bad loser. Now, while I had been visiting with him, he was running for Justice on the State Supreme Court. His opponent was a nigger, and a little later when the results were in, he again lost by a land slide. Was he there just to discourage the White racists from running and draining their finances, or was he for real? After talking to the man, I came to the conclusion that his pro-Christian front was phoney, and he did not believe that garbage himself. Yet his attitude towards the C.O.T.C. was openly hostile, and his proposals were such as to destroy and close us down. Was he perhaps a JOG agent doing his job as several people who had known him for years later informed me? I wasn't sure, but I had found out one thing: he was no friend of ours, and he was not promoting the good of the White race. It was neither the first time nor to be the last time that I would be going on a wild goose chase in trying to find the right man to succeed me.

I got back home at 4:30 PM and stopped at the church to talk to Carl. He had received a lot of mail in the few days I had been gone, and had deposited $718 in donations. Things were going pretty well at Headquarters.

Chapter Twenty-two

Harassment and Fireworks

From the time we started building our headquarters the Jews and the Christians had begun spreading outrageous lies and wild rumors about us, which soon culminated in a nasty, hostile article against us in the Franklin Press on May 13, 1982, headed "Pro-Hitler, anti-Christ leader headquarters here." This article, instigated by the Jewish ADL and modeled after the Miami Herald article of July 7, 1981, rile up the natives of Macon County to the extent that not only were lies, rumors and allegations flying all over the county, but we were soon being physically threatened with deadly violence. As I have described in the last chapter of my autobiography, Against the Evil Tide, our building contractor for the headquarters, Billy Sanders, was threatened with gunfire aimed at his workers if they continued working on the construction of our building. This halted their work for a few days, then coming back armed with their own weapons, they continued working and finished the job before the end of 1982. As I have also related in that same chapter, on June 15, while our new Hasta Primus, Richard Becker, was in residence at the new H.Q building, at 1:45 in the morning our Church was fire bombed with a Molotov cocktail, which, on the quick action of Rev. Becker brought out both the Otto Fire Department, and also the Dillard Fire Department, which put out the fire and saved the church. But before the vandals left, they fired off a shotgun blast at our eight foot diameter Logo Sign on the upper part of the front of our building, using a double 0 shotgun load. The holes are still there in the plastic sign and we are going to leave them there as part of our colorful history. Although any number of people in the county knew who the culprits were, the Sheriff's Department pleaded ignorance, and the culprits were never apprehended.

We had other minor attacks and harassments from time to time, but despite us notifying the Sheriff's Department, no one was ever charged, no major damage resulted, nor did we ever pause in putting out and distributing our Flagship paper, Racial Loyalty, each and every month. We were growing, and as I said in the last chapter after coming back from Jackson in April of 1986, things were coming along pretty well. Rev. Carles Messick had been the Hasta Primus for over two years.

In the early hours of June 14, 1986, Henrie woke me at 3:10 in the early morning hours and warned me that Carl had just called and had heard some loud voices talking and laughing in the area between the church and the school. It was a hot dark night and Carl had been sleeping outside on the second floor deck. He had heard them saying that they were going to shoot out the yard light, and blow up the church. If the bald headed dude (meaning Carl) should come running out they would shoot him, too. He wanted me to call the Sheriff's Department while he got his gun and other gear together to check the area as to who was out there. This I did immediately, but I had to call four times before I could get through. (Busy line. Coincidence?) Finally at 3:20 I got through and talked to Deputy Jim Barker. I told him the story and asked him to immediately send out a squad car. I quickly got dressed and grabbed my gun, when sure enough, I saw a car coming up the road, stop at the intersection at our house, turn around and drive back down towards the church. They stopped in front of the church momentarily, and turned out their head lights, but when they saw my headlights barreling down the road at them, they took off like a scalded cat. But let us hear from Carl directly. Here is his official report to the Sheriff's Department.

My Report on the Attempted Assault on the Church of the Creator in the Early Morning Hours of June 14, 1986

by Rev. Carles C. Messick III

On the warm night of June 13-14 I was sleeping in the open air on the second floor deck of the Church of the Creator. At approximately 3:10 A.M. I was awakened by some loud and boisterous voices. Two male voices were talking and laughing in the darkness. Although I could not pinpoint their exact location, the sound seemed to be coming from somewhere near our school, or near the entrance of our private road.

Although I could not understand everything, I did hear the following snatches of conversation that alarmed me.

"Something needs to be done about that church. First I will shoot out the light." (There is a yard light on the north side of the church.) "Let's blast that 'W' off the church." (We have a circular eight ft. logo on the front of the church.) "...firebomb and burn down the church. If that bald-headed dude comes out we will take care of him, too."

After I had heard that much, I got up and crawled into the upstairs apartment through the kitchen window, since I did not want to expose myself in the light, nor did I turn on any lights in the apartment. The first thing I did was to try to call the Sheriff, using my flashlight to see my way. I tried twice to call the Sheriff, but the line was busy. I then called Mr. Klassen's house. His wife answered the phone. I told her about what I had heard, and would Mr. Klassen call the Sheriff while I wanted to investigate who the people were that were threatening to burn down the church and probably kill me as well.

Mr. Klassen did call the Sheriff's Dept. at approximately 3:20 A.M., and specifically talked to Deputy Jim Barker, who was on duty. He told him that there were some prowlers around the church, threatening to burn down the building and do other mischief.

Meanwhile, I grabbed my gun and circled around in the meadow to the back of the school and eventually to the main road, (Old 441) but I could not locate the people who had been talking so loudly before. As I was nearing the entrance to our private road, I heard a car coming up behind me from the south and saw headlights approaching. I hid in the ditch by the main road as they passed by. I saw them turn into our private road and do the classical thing we have noticed most previous terrorists have done. They drove up the private road to the Klassen's and the Bergstrom's entrances, turned around, then drove back to the front of the church. There they stopped and turned out their car lights.

In the meantime, Mr. Klassen, who had contacted the Sheriff's office by this time and gotten dressed, was in his car and coming down the road to see what was going on.

They were sitting in front of the church in their car, (probably 20 seconds). When they saw Mr. Klassen's headlights coming down the hill, they took off at a high rate of speed. By this time I was stationed at the entrance by the sign that plainly said "PRIVATE ROAD — PROPERTY OWNERS ONLY — NO TRESPASSING." I intended to stop them and make a citizen's arrest, since no help had yet arrived from the Sheriff's Dept. This is not only a citizen's Constitutional right, but in fact, his duty, when he believes a crime is in progress. I fired a warning shot, but they kept coming right at me. I then fired a number of shots (more than a dozen) at the vehicle, trying to shoot out their tires and force them to stop. But they kept right on going, trying to run me down, passing within two feet of me. They escaped southward towards Dillard, Georgia.

By this time Mr. Klassen arrived and we met at the church and I told him what had happened. We then got in the car and drove down Old 441 to the bridge to see if we could perhaps find the culprit's car on the road, but we did not. We then drove back to the church and looked at the clock. It was 3:51 AM. We then got out and walked down the road to see if there were any signs of car damage. Using the flashlight we saw a trail of water on the main road in an erratic path, and we assumed that the radiator had been pierced. In making the shots I had tried to keep them low at tire level, and not aim for the occupants. This is pretty well verified by the fact that more than a dozen shots were fire, two tires were shot out and no one in the car was hurt.

We then walked back to the church, sat in the car and waited for the Sheriff's squad car to arrive. By approximately 4:05 AM the squad car and two Deputies did arrive, and we voluntarily gave the Deputies a brief resume of what happened.

About an hour later they came back and told us that it belonged to Wm. J. and Patricia A. Trusty of Dillard, Georgia. Another squad car arrived from the Sheriff's office with two more Deputies. The Deputies also told us the Trusty's story. They claimed they had been here to look up some "old friends," the Lents, to have a drink with them, and ask them about co-signing on a loan for a pick-up truck, a story that at best, is wild in fantasy and far-fetched to the point of being preposterous. The Lents had moved away from our neighborhood nine months ago.

As far as we are concerned, the key question still remains unanswered, and that is this: IF NOT PART OF THE CONSPIRACY, WHAT WERE THE TRUSTYS DOING IN FRONT OF THE CHURCH AT THE UNGODLY HOUR OF 3:30 IN THE MORNING? This is especially cogent since I had incidentally apprised Mrs. Trusty (and others) on numerous occasions that it might be somewhat unhealthy for unidentified prowlers to be found loitering in the vicinity of the church during unreasonable hours of the night.

We have more than substantial evidence to conclude that the Trustys were lying when they said that they were merely looking up "old friends" to have a drink, at 3:30 in the morning and talk about a loan. We have sworn affidavits to indicate otherwise, and in any case, the fact that after the loud and verbose threats I heard at 3:10 AM, it would be the height of gullibility to believe that they drove up to the church only 15-20 minutes later, and were completely unrelated to threats I had heard in the darkness just 20 minutes earlier.

Whereas we do not know to whom the two male voices belonged, the evidence is overwhelming that the Trustys are part and parcel of the conspiracy. We therefore charge them with the following allegations:

1. Criminal trespassing on private property adequately posted as such.
2. Conspiracy to commit arson and burn down our religious center.
3. Attempted murder by trying to run me down by moving vehicle.
4. Conspiracy to terrorize a religious group.
5. Violation of my religious, civil and Constitutional rights as guaranteed by the First Amendment.
6. Terroristic threatening and harassment.
7. Conspiracy to entrap me into a criminal act.

In conclusion, I want to state for the record:

In doing what I did, I had no intent to do bodily harm to any person, and did not do so. I did what I did legally and deliberately and that is to try to apprehend the culprits involved in a criminal conspiracy to violate my civil, religious and Constitutional rights and those of my church, specifics of which I have already listed.

I did what I did in order to defend my life, our property and my Constitutional rights. For more than three years now we have been threatened, harassed, maligned, shot at, fire-bombed and terrorized. The Sheriff's Dept. and the courts have turned a deaf ear and a blind eye towards our plight. Had this been a Jewish synagogue, or a black church, (or even a Christian church) that was shot at and fire-bombed as was ours three (3) years ago, the FBI would have had a force of 50 men out here, investigating and tracking down the culprits. But not for the Church of the Creator, despite the fact that it has been harassed and threatened repeatedly, and as recently as a year ago four boys were apprehended on their way to blow our church sky-high with six cases of dynamite. But they were not apprehended for their intentions of blowing up the church — only for firing at the Patrol car that saw them weaving erratically and tried to stop them. Their intentions were, in fact, discreetly suppressed, and in the end they were let off with a light slap on the wrist. The Sheriff's Dept. never even bothered to apprise us while all this was happening.

And what, supposedly, is our crime? We stand for the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, something the NAACP has been promoting for more than 50 years for the blacks, and the Jews have been doing this same thing with extreme fanaticism for their people for more than 5,000 years. Since when is it a crime to be a proud member of the White Race, a race that has built America, and every decent and progressive civilization for the last 6,000 years?

I did only what every prudent and reasonable citizen would have done under similar circumstances: and that is to protect his own life, his property and Constitutional rights when the legal authorities and law enforcement agencies fail to do so, when they have become partial, discriminatory and prejudiced against a particular religion because they don't happen to agree with it.

We of the Church of the Creator have not gone out to seek trouble, to intrude and invade other people's churches, homes or properties. We have been the victims, not the culprits, of terrorists aggressions and attacks, and evidently without any legal recourse, and we are getting damn sick and tired of it.

Therefore, we finally come to the bottom line: If the legally instituted authorities will not render equal protection under the law, as guaranteed by the 14th Amendment, then it is incumbent upon every reasonable, prudent, self respecting citizen to do what he is bound to do: protect his life, liberty and property the best way he can. This I have tried to do within the legal bounds of the Constitution as spelled out in the First, Second, Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments.

We therefore respectfully demand that our Constitutional rights be respected and that Warrants be issued for the arrest of the conspirators and transgressors, and their still unidentified cronies be found and also arrested.

Carles C. Messick III

I took some hurried notes of my own later that morning and recorded them in my day book. For the sake of posterity I believe it is relevant that I repeat them in this book, although they may not exactly mesh with Carl's version. I will pick up from where I was barrelling down the road to the church and the intruders "took off like a scalded cat." Here are my notes on the morning of June 14:

Vaguely, I heard a number of shots which were fired by Carl as they were trying to escape past him at the gate entrance. (He was stationed at the "No Trespassing" sign.) The time just before I left the house was 3:37 AM. I stopped in front of the church and heard Carl calling as he was coming towards my car. He then told me what had happened, and we decided to drive after the prowlers (in my car) in case they were stalled further down the road. We drove to the bridge (on County Rd. 1102) and turned around and drove back to the church, without finding the culprits. We then walked down 1102 with a flashlight in hand and saw water on the road south, in a weaving pattern. We then walked back to the church and waited for Deputies from the Sheriff's Department to arrive, which they did at 4:05. We told them what had happened. They then went to look for the car and evidently found it at Dillard with (they said) about 30 bullet holes in it. It belonged to Wm. J.

and Patricia Trusty who claimed (they said) that they were there to visit their “old friends" the Rollie Lents, have a drink with them and then ask about co-signing on a loan. Soon another squad car from the Sheriff's Department also arrived, and one of the deputies suggested we present a written statement to the Sheriff in the morning. Another observed "if we weren't here, these kind of things wouldn't happen," as if being assaulted by terrorists was really our fault.

I called Sheriff George Moses at 9:20 AM (Saturday) and said we would cooperate fully with his department, but we first wanted to obtain a lawyer and have him present when we did. He said he needed to talk to "my young man" and they would be here in about an hour.

They did not get there until shortly before 6 PM while I was eating dinner. They arrived in three squad cars, six men, as I remember. They claimed they had a search warrant and they went all through the first and second floor of our church building, taking copious pictures of everything as they went along. I suspect these pictures were for the benefit of the ADL, who I also suspect, set up the whole caper in the first place, for three reasons (or more) (a) to entrap us in a position where we had to use firearms to defend ourselves, (b) to take Carl's guns and ammo away from him, and (c) to get detailed pictures of the interior and layout of our church. Carl called me as I was eating dinner and by the time I got there, they had picked up his guns and ammo, taken their pictures and were taking Carl into Franklin under arrest. I told them I would follow in my car and shortly thereafter see them at the Courthouse.

Carl was booked, fingerprinted and photographed and placed in custody, to be held for trial. I applied for a release bond, which was granted by Magistrate Waldroop. The surety bond was for $20,000, and I personally guaranteed it against property I owned in Macon County. At about 8:30 PM I drove back with Carl in my car and dropped him off at the church.

I had talked to my attorney, Richard S. Jones, while at the courthouse, and made an appoint with him for Wednesday at 2:30 PM. (End of my notes for Saturday.)

When I say "my attorney" I use the term loosely, because I seldom used him, but had known him for about 15 years. It was he and his family from whom I had bought the original 160 acres in North Carolina back in 1971.

* * * * *

A few months earlier I had received a call from a certain Don Johnson, who resided in the outskirts of Houston, Texas. He said he was a friend of Gale Bailey, who had come to visit me during the previous year. Besides some smaller donations earlier, Gale Bailey was the first to make a one thousand dollar donation to the church. A little earlier we had inaugurated a program in which we offered to plant a tree along Leadership Lane with a plaque honoring the donor if the amount of the donation was $1000 or more. Gale Bailey had the honor of being the first man to do so, and Carl duly planted a peach tree, placing Gale Bailey's name beside it. There were several other donors who followed suit for whom we planted trees in the ensuing years.

Anyway, to get back to Don Johnson, a friend of Gale Bailey must be a friend of ours, I reasoned, and I was receptive in listening to what he had to say. He said he had read several of my books and he and his wife Bobbi were all for Creativity. Furthermore, he was a paralegal, he had studied and completed a paralegal course given by Jack Gordon a few years ago, and Don himself now was a practicing paralegal. He had all sixteen of Jack Gordon's lessons on video tape, information to which he referred repeatedly. Anything he could do to help the church in any legal problems it might get into he would be most glad to contribute his expertise. Don even sent us a few of Jack Gordon's video tapes, copies of which Gale Bailey also possessed. Carl, too, had talked with Don several times after my original contact with him and he was most impressed.

With this as background, Carl and I showed up for our appointment with my lawyer, Richard Jones, the following Wednesday at 2:30, June 18. However, when we arrived, his secretary told us Jones was sick, and the meeting was postponed to 1:00 PM Friday.

Jones was head of a partnership of several attorneys, who officially were listed as Jones, Key, Melvin and Patton, PA. When we did meet on Friday, Jones had brought with him Russell Bowling, a partner who specialized in criminal law and would probably be taking the case if we reached an agreement. We explained what had happened, and they seemed most eager to take the case. Both Carl and I realized that their fees would probably run as high as $20,000 up front and probably much more as the case progressed. Bowling suggested that there was a presiding judge in the next county who was retiring shortly, and if we hurried and brought the case before him and that if Carl plea bargained (pleaded guilty) he might get off with as light as a six months sentence. After about two hours of discussion, we finally concluded with that we would think it over and let them know within a matter of a few days. Before we left, Jones asked me a key question: had I myself sanctioned such shooting at prowlers at any time? Absolutely not, I answered, which was a fact. Carl had acted on his own volition, and there was no reason to drag me or the church into the case, which, I believe, both the Court and the lawyers would love to have seen happen.

In the meantime Carl talked extensively with the paralegal, Don Johnson, by phone. Carl did not trust the establishment lawyers, and besides, he had committed no crime, he said. He had done the honorable thing and defended the church, he said. He had done the honorable thing and defended the church from prowlers who had threatened to burn the church down and commit other mayhem. He wasn't going to plead guilty when he had committed no crime and be branded a felon. Don Johnson concurred in this attitude and volunteered to come to Macon County and defend him at no cost, other than travel expenses. Don had vehemently declared earlier that any assault on the church was a personal assault on him! How lucky could we get! He, too, was against plea bargaining, and said we should go for clear victory!

I made it clear to Carl that I would help defend him and pay the legal costs, including Jones' attorneys' fees, if he chose to go that route, whatever those fees might be. I also made it clear that I did not claim to be any kind of legal expert and the decision as to which way to go was squarely up to him. Carl decided he would act in his own defense with Don Johnson back of him and advising him. We advised Jones and Company of our decision.

So the case rested. The trial date would be set later.

Chapter Twenty-three

Legal Maneuvering, Trickery and Stonewalling

Before I start to describe the confused sequence of events in Carl's case, let me make it clear that justice in this country is non-existent, that the courts are rigged and controlled from beginning to end, and that unless you are part of the (Jewish) establishment, the system is almost impossible to beat. Carl had three strikes against him to start with, whether he was guilty or whether he was innocent, and they were (a) he chose not to hire a lawyer, something the establishment wants to make sure that you will learn your lesson never to do that again or you will be punished for it. (b) He belonged to the C.O.T.C., which was anti-Jewish and (c) anti-Christian. Being in the Bible Belt, the last strike alone was enough that almost any local jury would convict him. But even more ominous was the fact that the judges, the attorneys, and the prosecutors worked as a team and every one of them belonged to the Masonic Lodge, a Jew instigated conspiracy. They pretty well determined in advance whom they were going to nail, and whom they would let off the hook.

On Tuesday, June 24, Don Johnson called and said he was flying in from Houston and would be arriving at 9:35 in Atlanta tomorrow morning. I duly met him there at Concourse B-28 (Delta). It was our first meeting. For some reason, my initial impression of him was less than great. After having lunch at Shoney's, we arrived at the Church at about 3 PM. After quickly showing Don the premises, I introduced him to Carl and left them to talk strategy. Since Don had to be back in Houston in a few days, time was of the essence. One of the first items Don needed were some law books on North Carolina procedures and some case histories. Patsie Braswell, who had been working on her husband Frank's case for some years, was fairly well versed in these procedures, and she probably had the right books. She and Roger Ingram, another friend of the Church, who also offered his help, had just left about fifteen minutes ago. Anyway, Don, Carl and Brandy (Carl's ten year old daughter) decided to go to Penland and see Pat Braswell. They took my VW Rabbit and off they went. Pat did not have the law books, but she gave him a case history that was useful. They all got back to the church at 11:15 PM.

Next morning we all sat down together and planned strategy. We went to the Franklin Law Library, and also the bookstore, but were not successful in finding the proper law books. However, Don got a copy of a case at the law library of assault with a deadly weapon. The culprit was black, and got off with only six months probation. I picked up a copy of my $20,000 bond at the Clerk's office. Don also got a copy of the Charges against Carl. We decided on the following: (a) Try to postpone the July 8 Hearing date. (b) Press Federal charges against the Sheriff's Department. (c) File a multiple complaint against the Trustys, who had threatened and attempted assault against us in the early hours of June 14.

Then at 3 PM I took Don back to the airport, arriving there at 6 PM.

* * * * *

On Saturday, June 28, in the afternoon at about 2 PM, Carl and I went into Franklin to see the Magistrate about filing a complaint against the Trustys. To my surprise, I found that Michael Sharp, whom I had known for 15 years, was one of the three Magistrates, and he was on duty that afternoon. He seemed very nervous, and gave us very much the runaround. He suggested we wait until Monday morning and take it up with Charles Boring, who had all the information and was handling the case. We insisted that it was up to us to give him our complaint, regardless of what "information" Boring might have. But instead of persisting that he take our complaint as we had come to achieve, we naively let him off the hook.

Carl and I went back the next day and laid our complaint on the Magistrate on duty, which was not Boring, but a third fellow by the name of Waldroop. We went in prepared with a tape recorder. Waldroop referred us to the Sheriff's office. We told him we had already been to that office last week, but we went back anyway. There a blonde young fellow told us we had to initiate our charges with the Magistrate's Office. And so it went, round and around. Sheriff Moses insisted that we type up our charges and give him a written statement of the whole affair.

This we did and decided that since we were getting nothing but a runaround, we would take our story to the newspapers. We sent a copy to Bob Scott of the Asheville Times, one to Ken Sexton of the Franklin Press, and one copy to the Clayton Tribune.

Early Tuesday morning Carl, Brandy and I went to the Courthouse to try to get a continuance (a delay) for Carl's hearing. First we talked to the D.A. Jerry Townson. This antagonistic fellow told us we would have to get that decision from the Judge in the Courtroom. Carl had a tough hassle with both the D.A. and the Judge. The district Attorney, Jerry Townson, chortled that he loved to prosecute turkeys like Carl who did not know how to defend themselves. He told Carl he was facing a probable ten years. We got back to the church at 12 noon. Carl was pretty rattled and agitated, and justifiably so.

At 6:30 July 1, Carl took Brandy to the Asheville Airport to return to her home in Delaware. He called Don Johnson about what had transpired that day. Don said he would be back in about two weeks.

I got up at 3:40 AM on Tuesday, July 15, to pick up Don Johnson at the Atlanta Airport. I met him at the Eastern Departure ramp at 6:50 AM and we drove to the Holiday Inn at Exit 44 on I-85 and had breakfast. We checked him in at the Best Western Motel in Dillard, and after an exhausting night flight he took a short nap. I reimbursed him for his airline ticket ($118). Carl met with him a little later and they discussed strategy for the court hearing the next day, Wednesday, July 1.

I picked up Carl and Don Johnson at the church at 8:45 AM and we drove to the Macon County Courthouse for the "Probable Cause" hearing. There we also met our friends, Roger Ingram, Paul Wheeler and his wife, and Pat Braswell and her daughter. Don had seven motions to file on Carl's behalf.

Carl's turn at the docket finally came at 3 PM. Jack and Pat Trusty were there to give evidence against Carl, as did Deputy Ken Doster. Presiding was Judge Danny Davis and the prosecuting D.A. was Don Patton. The verdict was that "Probable Cause" was justified and Carl was to be bound over and tried in Superior Court at such time as he would be notified. He was free on the previous $20,000 bond I had put up, with the restriction he was not to contact the Trustys at any time.

Carl and I stopped in briefly to see Sheriff George Moses about our complaint against the Trustys. He was still "investigating." Carl then drove Don back to the Atlanta Airport, where his flight was scheduled to leave at 1 AM Thursday, July 17.

Chapter Twenty-four

A Journey into History Lands

For some years Henrie and I had been thinking about visiting and exploring Pennsylvania and surrounding areas, the Civil War battlefields, such as Gettysburg, and some of the Mennonite settlements, such as Lancaster, and others. While we were waiting for the Johnsons to arrive, we thought might be a good opportunity to do so.

On the morning of September 8, 1986, I called Don Johnson and told him we had put up a mail box on the County road 1102 (at our own road entrance) and sent the new address to him. I also told him we would be going on a trip for the next ten days or so, but since he and Bobbi would not be arriving for some time anyway, this should present no problem.

After getting all packed, Henrie and I left the cabin at 10:30 AM. I picked up our mail at Dillard, stopped off at Drake and Co. in Franklin to leave the Blue Ridge Villas Ledger book with Glenn Davis, the accountant, and took off on US 441 North, then I-40 East. We arrived at Mom & Pop's Restaurant (Exit 135) at 1:30 to have lunch. At Statesville we turned north on I-77 until we reached I-81, then east until we reached New Market, Virginia at 7:15 PM.

Here we checked in for the night at the Quality Inn, and I had dinner at the Johnny Appleseed Restaurant. (We were now in Johnny Appleseed country.) I had BBQ pork ribs, while Henrie stayed in the motel room and had grapes. (She was on a fruitarian diet.) We had driven a total of 451 miles for the day.

Tuesday, September 9. After we both had breakfast at the Johnny Appleseed Restaurant we drove to New Market, Virginia, and visited the New Market Battlefield Park. It was here that on May 15, 1864 a battle was fought between 4500 Confederate troops and 6000 Union forces. Joining the outnumbered Confederate Army was a volunteer contingent of 247 young and untrained Cadets, who have gone down in history for their outstanding bravery and valor. Of the 247 young Cadets who fought against the Union forces, ten were killed and 47 others were wounded. The Hall of Valor accompanying the Battlefield and the 160 acre park were endowed to the State of Virginia in 1911, by George R. Collins, a graduate of the Virginia Military Institute. What a horrible waste, and what a terrible and completely unnecessary tragedy was that insane episode now referred to as the Civil War.

We drove on up I-81 through part of West Virginia, Maryland, and into Pennsylvania, and arrived at the Quality Inn on Steinwehr Ave. in Gettysburg, where we had dinner at Elby's Restaurant across the street. I bought the book The Lincoln Conspiracy by David Balsiger and Charles E. Sellier, Jr. at the lobby of the motel.

Wednesday, September 10. Had breakfast at Elby's Restaurant. We then took a ride up the 393 foot high National Tower to view the Gettysburg Battlefield and its huge cemetery. We took a walk through the cemetery and took a number of pictures, including several from the top of the tower and also on the ground, including the monument where Lincoln delivered the Gettysburg address. We also went to the Jenny Wade House (she was the only woman killed in the Battle of Gettysburg).

Had lunch at The Dutch Cupboard, then went to see the Old Dutch Village. Next we drove five miles west of town on HW 116 to see the Gettysburg Minnapure horse farm, where they have a number of very small horses. Very interesting. Went to the National Park Service Visitors' Center to see what other attractions they had to offer.

Called Carl after 5 PM. He had received more than $600 from England and Australia on Monday, he told me. Henrie and I had lunch at the Dobbin House restaurant on Steinwehr Avenue. That night I started reading a book on Mennonite Life by John Hostettler.

Thursday, September 11. Still at the Quality Inn at Gettysburg. After breakfast Henrie and I took a shuttle bus to the Eisenhower farm. The tour took about an hour. I was especially interested in his collection of choice guns that were on display in a rack on the wall. From there we went to the Cyclorama Painting and Exhibits Center, where we also visited for about an hour.

We left Gettysburg at about 12:30 PM and drove down U.S. 30 to York, Pennsylvania. Had lunch at the Quality Inn Restaurant and then drove on to Lancaster, where we stopped at the Pennsylvania-Dutch Information Center. Made a reservation at the Best Western for the night at Intercourse, about ten miles west of Lancaster. Had dinner at the B.W. Restaurant. Started reading the Lincoln Conspiracy.

Friday, September 12. Intercourse is a highly ethnic town settled mostly by Amish and Mennonite pioneers, located west of Lancaster. We settled in a Best Western Motel there. We drove to a Crafts and Shopping Center where Henrie bought a highly crafted and beautifully lighted plastic ornament. I had a wooden sign made for the church with the words Leadership Lane carved on it.

Drove south on HW 896 to an Amish village. We were given a viewing of the interior of a typical Amish home, (a family lived in it) by a tour guide, then we toured the rest of the farm on our own.

We drove to another Amish place, the Hershey Farm, and had lunch there, then drove on west to Italian Villa East and reserved a room there in the Friendship Inn for the night. We had dinner at Denny's, about two miles west on U.S. 30. Read another 130 pages of The Lincoln Conspiracy.

Saturday, September 13. Had breakfast at Joe Myer's Restaurant on U.S. 30. Checked out of the Italian Villa and made reservations again at the Best Western Intercourse Motel, where we stayed two nights ago. In the morning we headed for Hershey, Pennsylvania, about 30 miles distant, to take a guided tour through the Hershey Chocolate Factory. It was done in real style. We sat in a little car on tracks, (along with a train of other little cars) with sound, animation and complete control of programming as we passed through the different parts of the factory. It was all very interesting.

Mr. Milton Snavely Hershey, (1857-1945) who started this extremely successful enterprise of manufacturing and merchandizing chocolate products, was a Mennonite, and, as we all know, he became a very rich and successful man. What most people don't know about him is that he was also a very generous man and donated millions of dollars to various civic enterprises that he sponsored. In 1903 he acquired a 1200 acre site which became the base of his manufacturing plant and subsequently also became the town of Hershey, which today has a population of more than 10,000. In 1905 he founded a school and home for orphan boys, which later became known as the Hershey Industrial School, which was endowed by him in 1918 with a trust fund of 60 million dollars. This is only one of several civic and philanthropic projects that he sponsored and funded.

We spent the next two hours going through the Hershey Museum. Excellent American collections of tureens, artifacts, furniture, Hershey family history, etc. Had lunch in the Hershey display and stores area. Then went through the Hershey factory a second time, and next we went through the beautiful Hershey Gardens. Of course, the whole town of Hershey is named after him, as is the Hershey High School and the Hershey Hotel. We drove past both of the latter.

After that we went back to our Motel at Intercourse, then had dinner at the Best Western Restaurant.

Sunday, September 14. Most Amish and Mennonite restaurants are closed on Sundays. We tried to get a table at Joe Myer's, then at Denny's. Either way, there was about a 15 minute wait, and we finally decided on Denny's. Stopped at the Mennonite Information Center. We were surprised to see a Hebrew Tabernacle also located on the same grounds. Both were closed for Sunday, so we didn't get much information, except that it looked like the Jews also had their tentacles sunk deep into the Mennonite Church, had them under their control, and had them doing their bidding as well as all other churches.

Drove west on HW 30, then south on I-83. Stopped at a Red Lobster Restaurant for lunch. Arrived at Fredericksburg at approximately 3:40 PM and checked in at the Johnny Appleseed Best Western Motel. Called Carl at H.Q. Everything under control. Had received $210 from Mr. Nieman in Holland, and $50 from a young fellow in New Zealand. Drove to a Safeway store to pick up some items, then had dinner at the Johnny Appleseed Restaurant. Watched the TV show on CBS, The Last Days of Patton. What they neglected to mention was that the Jews deliberately had him murdered in order to shut him up.

Monday, September 15. At the Best Western Motel, Fredericksburg, Virginia. Had breakfast at the Johnny Appleseed Restaurant. After a frustrating and confusing goose chase in trying to find the points of interest in downtown Fredericksburg, we decided to leave the town for the Outer Banks of North Carolina. After we had lunch at the Coppahaunk Restaurant in the small town of Waverly, Virginia, we drove down HW 460 to the Shirley Plantation on the north side of the James River. It is one of the oldest plantations in the United States. It has been owned by the Hill-Carter families for ten generations.

Drove on to the Outer Banks and checked in at the Quality Inn on the beach at Kill Devil Hill, where we had dinner at the Sea Ranch Restaurant. Nice dining room, Had crabmeat wrapped in crepes. Good. At night we watched the TV movie, The Ghost of Flight 340.

Tuesday, September 16. At the Quality Inn, Kill Devil Beach. We both had breakfast in the dining room of the motel at a window overlooking the ocean. After checking out we drove about a quarter of a mile to the Wilbur & Orville Wright Museum. An interesting lecture was given by a lady Park Ranger relating the story of the Wright Brothers. The room had a replica of their original "flying machine" and glider. Took several pictures. Bought the book Wind and Sand. Drove to the memorial statue and walked up the hill, approximately 120 feet. Took more pictures.

After driving down the main thoroughfare, we decided to leave The Banks. Drove out on HW 64, then inadvertently got on HW 264 and drove all the way to Raleigh, North Carolina. Checked in at the Cricket Inn, a nice new motel on U.S. 1, North. Had dinner at Denny's Restaurant next door.

Wednesday, September 17. At the Cricket Inn, a fairly new chain, good, decent sized rooms, good beds, at a reasonable price of $34.50. Had breakfast at Denny's nearby, then checked out at about 8:45. We headed out on I-40, but it soon ended. At that time neither I-40 nor I-85 were completed between Raleigh and Burlington as then shown on the road map. Finally we got back on I-40 again before Greensboro. Stopped at Ex. 135 at Mom and Pop's Restaurant for lunch. (It is now no longer Mom & Pop's, only Mom's.)

When we arrived in Franklin, I stopped and checked with Troy Whiteside about the metal gate posts. They were ready to also include the electric latch. Had Troy add an additional six inches of length to the latch post.

Stopped at Winn-Dixie for groceries, then picked up the mail at Dillard. Got home at about 5 PM.

Checked with Carl at the Church. Had an interesting letter from K. Bolton from New Zealand. Called Ralph Allen, the fence man, to start installing the fence posts for the hurricane fence around the church.

Addendum: In the previous ten day trip I got the ideas for writing three articles for future editions of Racial Loyalty:

(a) The Holy Trinity: Don't worship it — become one.

(b) The War with Mexico and the Civil War — a sharp contrast.

(c) Who Killed Kennedy? We have the answer. Also similarities with the Lincoln assassination.

Chapter Twenty-five

Building a New Home

When we decided to sell our home in Lighthouse Point, Florida, in 1983, and make the move to North Carolina permanent, Henrie and I also had in mind the building of a better and bigger house than the cabin we were moving into. The cabin, built in 1974 as a summer (and sometimes Christmas) vacation place, was a fine, two story Swiss chalet style building. It had three bedrooms and two and a half baths. It even had a library room in the basement, and although the rest of the walls in the basement were unfinished, it offered ample storage space for our many belongings. As time went on, we added an enclosed garage, which soon turned into a workshop instead. Then a year or so later we also built a detached two-car garage as well. With its two outside decks and its chalet-like steep sloped roof, its chalet-like trimmings, the "cabin," as we liked to call it, had real style, and best of all was its choice location. It was built in the middle of the encirclement of seven huge oak trees that some pioneer had evidently planted a hundred years earlier. Most likely he had built his homestead there, but all vestiges of the building itself were long gone. Added to that was the excellent open view across the valley below and the beautiful profile of the mountains about a mile and a half to the east.

Yes, the cabin and the location were excellent for what its original purpose was, namely a vacation place. But as a full-fledged, roomy, permanent home, Henrie kept reminding me, it was too small and inadequate. Especially now that we had a married daughter, a son-in-law, and three grandchildren that came to visit us every so often. She wanted a larger bedroom for herself, with an accompanying sun room of her own. She wanted a bigger living room. She wanted a bigger kitchen. She wanted a fully finished basement which would not only have the present library, but three nice bedrooms and a full bath to accommodate Kim and Walt and the grandchildren when they came to visit. In short, she wanted quite a lot more house, and I was in full agreement. The only reason we had dragged our feet so long was that I was so busy with my projects at the church, and secondly, being in our late sixties, we dreaded the prospect of packing all our belongings together again and putting them into boxes and in storage, an ordeal we had just gone through in moving from Lighthouse Point. And on top of that, we would have to be living in some makeshift rentals during the seven months or so during the time it would take to build the house.

However, by 1986, we decided to bite the bullet and do it. On October 2, 1986, we called our regular contractor, Billy Sanders, who had built the church and several other buildings for us, to our cabin to discuss the matter in detail. We had mentioned the idea to him before, but now we were getting down to brass tacks.

The first decision we had to make was as to what we should do with the cabin. Its location was so ideal that we had no hesitation that that was where the house was to be built. We debated pro and con. Should we modify and enlarge the existing cabin? Should we jack it up on wheels and move it to a different location? Or should we tear it down and start from scratch? The latter seemed such a waste and a shame. But in the end, that is the conclusion we finally came to.

On October 7, we brought in our architect with whom, too, we had done considerable business before. His name was Jack Patton, with whom we had also discussed the different alternatives before. We now announced our decision that we would tear the cabin down and build the new house in its place.

We were hemmed in by certain limitations because of the beautiful large oak trees that surrounded us. We could not make the house any wider, but we could extend it ten feet further in front. Also, we had considerable room in the back to build Henrie's larger bedroom and the adjoining sunroom, and a first class bathroom of her own. With these decisions made, we then went into any number of details about the rest of the items we wanted in the new house, and told him to go to work and come up with some preliminary plans. This he did, and with several additional consultations and revisions, we were finally ready to haggle with Billy Sanders, the contractor, about price.

Sanders said it would take him about two weeks to tear down the cabin and clear the site. For this he would charge us $2500. We finally came to an agreement on the total price of the building itself and drew up a contract to that effect.

Now came the hard part. We moved out all our furniture and packed all the books and smaller items into dozens of boxes, the same dreary routine as we had gone through in Florida before moving here. We stored all these items either in the two-car garage (which was not affected by the building change), or in the warehouse back of the church, and/or in the basement of the church. We timed our leaving for November 14, so we could take full advantage of our two-week time-share stay at our Hawk's Nest condo in the Florida Keys. So the next day, November 15, Billy Sanders and his crew were ready to go to it and started the process of tearing down our beloved cabin.

A little more than two weeks later we were back, and the contractor and his men had indeed torn the cabin to the ground. Before we left, we had made arrangements with John Dillard, (who owns the Best Western Motel, the restaurant and any number of other properties in and around Dillard) to rent one of his cabins on the north side of the road going towards Highlands. So this is where we stayed a few weeks, giving us an opportunity to further watch and discuss building developments with the contractor. By this time Don and Bobbi Johnson had moved into the upstairs Church apartment, and poor Carl was already sitting behind bars in the penitentiary. Gale Bailey, Don's friend, was fasting and living in the quarters at the school. But more about all that later. We were getting our house built and we moved to various facilities available to us where we chose to stay for the time being.

Some time ago we had decided to spend a month of that time in our Maryland Lakes apartment in Phoenix, Arizona, during the Christmas holidays and on into January. But more about that later.

In the meantime, Bobbi was picking up the mail at the Post Office and answering the mail, Don was holding down the fort and seemed to be working on his legal education program, while Gale Bailey was maintaining his 30 day fast at the school. Gale said he felt great. I kept in touch by telephone with Billy Sanders as to the progress of the building program on any problems that might be coming up.

Billy was quite a congenial man to work with, but like every other contractor, you had to watch his every step. One hassle I recall in particular was about the shingles on the roof. The contract called specifically for cedar shake shingles, the thick kind, such as were already on the roof of the detached double car garage. During the building process

Billy told me that there was now a synthetic type of shingle available that looked exactly like the genuine thick cedar shakes. He furthermore extolled its virtues that it was fireproof, and also much cheaper. I said O.K., bring me some samples and I will take a look. But somehow, he never got around to bringing any of the said samples, and when it came time to put the shingles on the roof, the whole load of the synthetics was already unloaded and a dozen bundles had already been dragged to the top of the second story roof. I tore open one of the bundles still on the ground and took a close look. They were no different than the thin tar shingles we had on the school roof and had no resemblance to the thick cedar shakes. I was angry. I made him reload all the synthetics and get the genuine thick cedar shake shingles, which he did. (This incident was quite a bit later than our return from Arizona.)

When we returned from Phoenix at the end of January, the framework was pretty well completed, and the shape of the house and the rooms was becoming visible. The sheeting, the insulation and the paneling were going on fast. A lot of the more detailed decisions now had to be made and we had to stick close to the job. We also had to find a place to stay in the meantime. We went back to our old friend, John Dillard, at the Dillard Motel (the Best Western). He happened to have a whole house to rent, known as the Sellers place, which he now also owned. It sat at the top of a round hill with a beautiful view in any direction you might want to look. (It had three bedrooms, more than we needed) several baths, a large old fashioned kitchen, a large living room, the whole works. Most of all, it had the whole hill around it to itself, and it was beautifully landscaped. The old people that had lived there for many years had spent a lot of time building rock walls and planters, and planting all kinds of flowers and flowering shrubs. Came Easter time the place was a joy to behold. Kim and the three grandchildren came to visit us over the Easter holidays and spent several days with us, which we all enjoyed immensely. John Dillard was quite reasonable about the rent, which we paid on a weekly basis. However, our time of stay was limited to two and a half months, I believe, when someone else had an option on occupying it. It was all electrically heated and the electric bill was considerable, which we understood would be additional. We paid each week's rent in advance, but strangely enough, John Dillard never mentioned the electric bill again. When our time was up, he found us another cottage on the north side of the road to Highlands, not too far from where our first rental was located, the place we stayed in before Christmas. But even here our time was limited to only one month, when it had previously been reserved for someone else. We then moved into a room in the Dillard Best Western itself, and stayed there until a few weeks before we moved into our newly completed home. Henrie and I spent the last three days sleeping in the bunk beds in the school, staying right on top of the job with the builders to the last detail.

Finally, on June 21, 1987, the house was finished to the point where we could start moving in. This in itself was quite an operation, but it was a most happy occasion. Actually, not everything was quite finished. The carpet people had goofed on the right kind of carpeting on the whole of the second floor, but the padding was down. We moved in anyway, and I slept quite well in my nice big new bedroom, even though the right carpeting took another three weeks in coming.

Kim and Walt and the kids rushed over to see our new house the first weekend after we moved in. Since on such weekends Walt first had to finish his day at the clinic and they all had to get ready after he came home, it was seldom before 7 or 8 PM before they could get away from Martinsville, Virginia on such Friday nights, and they would usually get here at about 1:30 in the morning. And that was when they arrived that last week in June. Henrie was asleep and I let them all in, quietly cautioning them that Henrie was asleep and we would all go through the house together in the morning. But Kim would have none of this, and Henrie was soon awakened and we went through every room in the house. It was another hour and a half before we all got bedded down. But it was a time of celebration and jubilation. We were all happy and very much relieved that now we really had our big new dream house and room for everybody.

Chapter Twenty-six

The Johnsons, Don and Bobbi

How did I ever get tangled up with the Johnsons, I keep asking myself. Now that I look back on the situation, the answer is relatively simple. I was dealing with an expert con-man and I didn't realize it until I was well into the game. I have already related some of the details in meeting with him, his discussions with Carl in preparing for the "Probable Cause" hearing and other matters, in the previous chapters. It all started with a phone call early in 1986. Out of nowhere, Don called me from Houston, Texas, and said he was a friend of Gale Bailey's. Gale, as you will recall, had the honor of being the first man to donate $1000 to the church and have a tree planted along Leadership Lane in his honor, as we began to sponsor that program. Not only did he do that, but he had made several smaller donations previously after reading my first three books, and he had come down to visit me personally. He was a tall, slim, blonde, good-looking young chap, about 30, who had formerly been an Identity Christian, and he was now ever so grateful that I had set him straight on this Jewish swindle. He had a successful electrical repair business of his own and was doing quite well. He was unmarried.

Now I got this call from Don Johnson, as I have already related, saying he is a close friend of Gale Bailey's and he too had read my three books and greatly admired what I was doing. He, too, wanted to become a member of the church and do what he could to help. He said that he was a paralegal, and anything that he could do to help in the church's legal problems, he would be glad to contribute, no charge. Also he wanted to start a C.O.T.C. group out there in Texas.

Well, all this sounded very good and I was most happy to hear from him. Any friend of Gale Bailey's was a friend of mine and the church. After some back and forth correspondence, on June 19 he even sent a check for $535.54 to the church to obtain a whole supply of our books, pamphlets, our paper, and his membership. All this was most encouraging.

Just a few days before, as you will recall, Carl had just had his shoot-out with the Trustys, and we could indeed use all the legal help we could get. I have already related the events that followed, about him flying down here twice and his collaborating with Carl. We will pick up the story from there.

Don was 51 years old, he had been married twice before. Both marriages had ended in divorce. He had a son who was in his late twenties, and he had two daughters from his previous marriages. His son was in the penitentiary for a 50 year term on some gun charges, the details of which are not clear to me. Bobbi, too, had been married before. She had a 30 year old son and a 24 year old daughter. Both her ex-husband and her son were on drugs, she told me, but nevertheless her son was effectively and efficiently capable of being a driver for UPS. Let me say at this point, I was never certain as to whether Don and Bobbi were ever married to each other, or whether they just lived together after all their previous marriage failures. Nor after I learned as to how manipulative Don was, I was never convinced that his real name was Don Johnson, which, as we all know, is also the name of a well known TV star, and I suspect that he adopted it as an alias because it sounded like a good name to him. At the time that we are now discussing, Don, Bobbi and the 24 year old daughter (to whom Don jokingly referred to as 24, going on 12) all lived in a ranch house on two acres that Gale Bailey had rented, and from which he ran his electrical business. Somehow Don and Bobbi had inveigled themselves into his business and into his rented house.

Sometime during the end of July Don made some suggestions that he and Bobbi would consider coming to our church and moving in permanently, help with Carl's legal defense, and best of all, he would set up a paralegal course at the church to teach our members the basics of how to defend themselves from the JOG assaults and iniquities from which all of us White racists were now suffering. He had already taken a similar course as he had in mind from Jack Gordon, only he would revamp it in a way that it meshed harmoniously with our religious creed, Creativity, so that it would be one consistent and dynamic creed and program. He said he had all his ideas together in his head, and he wanted to put the whole course on video tape, all of which he would do at our church. It would not cost us anything. He would run it as his own self-supporting business, except of course, we would be furnishing the space, and also, of course, our movement would be greatly strengthened thereby. In the meantime, he would also be giving the church free legal services whenever it needed such, and at the same time he would be rendering legal services to the public at large, and building up a clientele of his own. The only exception to this would be Carl's upcoming case, for which he would not charge, since, of course it was a church problem. It all sounded great to me and I said we should get together and discuss it in more detail. He agreed, and invited me to come over to their "ranch" just north of Houston and meet his wife Bobbi, and his daughter. Gale, of course, would be there too.

I accepted his offer and left the church in the morning of Wednesday, August 6, 1986, after stopping at the church and giving Carl last minute instructions. Driving a total of 463 miles, I checked in at the Best Western in Mobile, Alabama. I left the motel at 7:40 AM the next morning (Thursday) and after having breakfast at the Ramada Inn, I drove west on I-10. After driving 463 miles and taking several subsidiary roads, I finally reached Spring, Texas, at 5:35 PM, which is about 20 miles north of Houston, and close to their place. Here I checked in at the Cypress Court Quality Inn, and immediately after arriving, called Don. He and Bobbi dropped in at my room at 7:40 PM and Don and I had a drink to mark the occasion. Then we drove to the Red Lobster Restaurant and had dinner. We were soon joined by Jeff and Darlene Sanderson. Jeff was Gale's foreman in the electrical business.

Next morning Don stopped by at my room and the two of us went to have breakfast at Champ's Restaurant about a mile away. After going back to the motel, I followed Don to their two acre complex in Miracle Lakes. I met with Gale, also Bobbi's daughter, and Richard, another electrician. After viewing the premises, Don and I talked in his office for about two hours regarding arrangements to move to our H.Q. in North Carolina. During this time Don also managed to sell me a HK 91 German semi-automatic rifle for $750. Jeff Sanders was also interested in coming to the church, and when he came back at noon I took him out to lunch and we talked for another few hours. Then I drove him back to Gale Bailey's center and I went back to my motel. I called Carl at about 5 PM to check if everything was under control and report our dealings thus far.

At 6:30 Don and Bobbi stopped at my room and we drove to the Steak and Ale Restaurant to have dinner. I had prime rib. We then drove over to Jeff and Arlene Sanderson's home and visited for about an hour. Don highly recommended Jeff as being a very capable administrator and we should have him join us at the church. I was back at my motel at about 10:45.

Next morning, Saturday, I checked out of the Quality Inn and headed for home, my new HK 92 semi-automatic in the back of my car. I stopped in at the Holiday Inn at Evergreen, Alabama, for the night, after driving 557 miles. Next morning I took off for home, arriving that evening on Sunday, August 10. Evidently our negotiations had been successful, and the Johnsons were going to join us in our enterprise in North Carolina. So far everything seemed to be going just fine. The Johnsons expected to leave shortly, at about the end of August. Then there was one new stipulation. Don called me and asked if I would pay for the transportation charges? Well, yes, I reluctantly agreed, but not anything over $2000.

Their furniture and “belongings” arrived in one huge van on September 3, but for some reasons the Johnsons would not be coming just yet, in fact, it would be quite a while. Bobbi's mother's husband (he was not her father) had just died, so she had to go spend some time with her mother. Don had a lot of loose ends to tie up, go see his son in the penitentiary, etc. So here we were, Carl and I and the truck driver, stuck with a huge carload of stuff to unload that included everything from huge concrete birdbaths to a useless dinosaur type of printing machine that weighed a ton, but no Johnsons. Added to that was the truck driver's bill, which amounted to $3845.80, and he would not take a check. He insisted on either cash or a Cashier's check. But no Johnsons. Not only were they conspicuous by their absence, but they did not even have the courtesy to call us or let us know where they could be reached. Like the sucker I always am, I paid the bill, and Carl and the truck driver lugged all their tons of stuff and paraphernalia up the outside stairs and stacked it all over the second floor of the church living room. In the meantime, Carl moved himself and all his belongings into the school. And we waited.

Finally we got some word and lame excuses that they would be arriving sometime in the middle of October. On Sunday, October 18, more than a month and a half after their stuff had been unloaded, they finally did drive up in their car. How about the additional shipping charges? Well, they didn't have the money right now, but he would be getting busy on Carl's case and the Legal Course in short order. Of course, he never did get around to paying for the difference.

Chapter Twenty-seven

The Trial of Rev. Carles Messick

The building of our new home was a major event in our lives, and a story in itself. I did not want to break into the middle of that story and go into the details of Carl's trial, which occurred at the beginning of our building project. I consider this trial to be one of the more dramatic events of our domicile in North Carolina, and warranted a story in itself.

After his unfavorable "Probable Cause" hearing on July 16, 1986, Carl's trial was scheduled on the Court Calendar. He was to appear in the Superior Court of Macon County in Franklin on December 15, despite all the motions and strategy he and Don Johnson had made and planned. The prosecutor was that nasty idiot by the name of Jerry Townson, the same JOG stooge who had prosecuted Carl in the hearing on July 16. The Presiding Judge was C. Walter Allen, another member of the Masonic conspiracy, and the trial was to be held in Superior Court, as I have already stated.

The prosecution led off with the ludicrous story of how the Trustys just innocently happened to be out there in front of our church with their lights out at 3:30 in the morning of June 14. I have already related in an earlier chapter of how Carl had heard loud voices outside on the church grounds, threatening to shoot out our yard light, burn down the building, and shoot the bald-headed dude when he came running out. I have also told of our calling the Sheriff's Department and informing them about the threats, and how they took their sweet time getting there, stonewalling until after the damage was done, and this, I am sure was planned and deliberate.

Mrs. Trusty got on the stand and in a sing-song and matter-of-fact tone of voice rattled off an explanation that would have been incredible to even a six year old child. However, she had been well coached and her story was well rehearsed. She and her husband claimed that they had come our way to see their dear "close" friends, the Rolley Lents, who, at one time had lived in the house across the road from us, but had moved nine months earlier. The Trustys claimed they were just going to have a friendly drink with the Lents and ask them about co-signing on a loan for a truck with them. Would you believe? They hardly knew each other and the Trustys didn't even know they had moved months ago. And just break in on them at 3:30 in the morning!

In the first place, the Lents were an older couple in their seventies and did not drink, nor were they inclined to any such frivolities at 3:30 in the morning, or any other time. In the second place, they barely knew of the Trustys, who were a generation younger and had had next to nothing in common with them. The fact that the Trustys didn't even know that they had moved months ago, made it pretty obvious that they had little, if anything, in common. Surely, for the Trustys to claim they were "close" friends who could drop in unannounced at 3:30 in the morning would stretch any reasonable person's credibility beyond the breaking point. But the rigged court took it all in as if there wasn't a shadow of doubt about her idiotic story.

The Lents had been neighbors of ours for years before they moved to another place west of Franklin. I went over to see them at their present residence and asked them if they were willing to sign an affidavit to the effect that none of the Trustys' claims of close friendship had any validity and that such a visit at such an ungodly hour would have been extremely ludicrous. They said they would be glad to, and had the Trustys appeared at their door at that hour they would probably have been repelled with a shotgun in hand.

Mrs. Lent was particularly outraged that the Trustys would drag them into such an outrageous lie, and they gladly signed an affidavit to that effect, and we had it notarized. I entered it as evidence into the case on Carl's behalf, with the firm belief that it would be a powerful repudiation of the Trusty's idiotic story.

However, nothing of the kind happened. Although plenty of witnesses appeared on Carl's behalf, including my wife and myself, the prosecutor would shout objection! to every meaningful piece of evidence presented, and the judge would immediately sustain the objection. The Lents' affidavit was dismissed out-of-hand as a meaningless piece of paper because the Lents were not there in person to verify it (although they had signed it previously in front of a Notary Public). Not only did the judge deem it as meaningless, he declared it as inadmissible, and when in my testimony I so much as made mention of it, the prosecutor would immediately scream objection, and the judge would sustain.

Although Don Johnson was not a licensed attorney, he had been chosen by Carl as his legal counsel, as he is entitled to do in accordance with the Constitution. But among this clique of Masonic hyenas, the Constitution mattered not a damn. The judge and the prosecutor were in charge, and whatever they said was the law and prevailed without any meaningful opposition from anybody. In this respect I blame Don Johnson, who could have, and should have, insisted on his client's Constitutional rights. Don Johnson was not allowed to advise Carl, not even speak to him, or even sit near him. And so it went. This conspiratorial clique was out to get Carl because he was hostile to the Jewish establishment, and the law be damned. In two days it was all over and Carl was found guilty and convicted on all counts. He was sentenced to a total of seven years — three years for discharge of a firearm into an occupied vehicle, and two years on each of two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, the terms to run not concurrently, but consecutively, for a total of seven years.

Carl was immediately locked up in the Macon County jail. He is convinced that they tried to trap him into an attempt to escape, since during the middle one night they left the jail door unlocked and ajar, with no one else visible except a lone woman deputy on duty. He believes they tried to tempt him to make a break for it, at which time the other non-visible deputies would quickly have emerged and have had an excuse to shoot him.

However, he did not fall for the ruse, and he stayed in the Macon County jail for a week, then he was transferred to the Swain County jail for another week, then to the Shelby, North Carolina penitentiary for a number of months, then to the Newton, North Carolina jail. Henrie and I visited him at both the Shelby and the Newton prisons. After serving 20 months he was finally released.

Chapter Twenty-eight

In Phoenix over the Holidays, 1986-87

During the last two weeks of November and a few weeks before Carl's trial, the notoriety of the trial had aroused the attention of a number of our enemies in Macon County and outside. One of these was the Internal Revenue Service. Don Johnson informed me when we were back that a cruiser containing four officials had come looking for me, namely the local I.R.S. agent from Franklin, the District I.R.S. Director out of Asheville, Macon County Sheriff George Moses, and another deputy. Don told them my wife and I were travelling the country and he had no idea as to our whereabouts. For the time being they left.

It was no secret to the I.R.S. that I refused to pay any further income tax. I had blatantly and defiantly written them a letter to that effect in the middle of 1981, stated that the personal income tax was unconstitutional, and a number of legal briefs as to why. Furthermore, I demanded a refund on what monies I had already paid in. I refused to file any further Forms 1040, and I have never done so since. Besides the other constitutional arguments, I made it plain that the Federal Reserve was an illegal gang of Jewish counterfeiters, and that our Jew controlled government was taxing us White people and using our own money to exterminate and destroy the White Race, and I would be damned if I would contribute any further to the destruction of my own people. Every April 15, instead of sending in a 1040 I would repeat my demand for a refund of the money I had already paid in, and my reasons for it. Actually, this is a long story of legal maneuvering and correspondence back and forth, a battle that is still ongoing, but I don't want to go into it here. I wrote a booklet on the fraudulent Jewish Federal Reserve conspiracy as far back as 1976, and the whole story is detailed as Chapter 40 in The White Man's Bible, and can be read in full.

The point is that I did not wish to make my presence too obvious during the period of Carl's trial, although I attended much of the trial, and even appeared on the witness stand on Carl's behalf. During this same period I talked to the judge, to the prosecutor and even Sheriff in Carl's defense. It was, in fact, the Carl Messick shooting incident that sparked their renewed persecution of me by the IRS, but I was determined to stick to my guns, let the chips fall where they may.

After Carl was convicted and incarcerated, there was nothing more that I could do. If there was, Don Johnson, being a paralegal, could take care of it and do it better. Anyway, this chapter was not intended about my long-standing and still ongoing battle with the IRS, but about our trip to Phoenix, Arizona. As early as last July, we had planned to spend about a month in Phoenix during the winter, and now that our house building program was underway, we were going to do just that, come what way. Besides, we had made no other arrangements to stay elsewhere when our lease ran out on John Dillard's cabin. So on December 17, when the verdict was in, we were ready to leave for Arizona, but we wanted to go to Martinsville, Virginia first, and see our grandchildren and Kim and Walt. It had been customary for us to spend our Christmases together, and now that we were going to spend this one in Arizona, we wanted to exchange gifts, and give them our season's greetings before we left.

After checking with Billy Sanders, the contractor, we were all packed and left the house at 2 PM on our way to Kim and Walt's. We stopped at the Red Lobster in Winston Salem for dinner and arrived at the Moore's house at 8:30 PM exchanging presents, and leaving other items with them. We finally got to bed at 12 midnight.

Thursday, December 18. Henrie and I left Kim and Walt's house at 8:30 AM and drove to the Dutch Inn (Martinsville) and had a good breakfast. Then we were on our way and soon we were heading west on I-40. We detoured off I-40 at Exit 64 and had a good lunch at the Western Steer Steakhouse. Then pushing on through Knoxville, we finally called it a day at 4:45 PM and checked in at the Thunderbird Inn (Best Western) at Cooksville, Tennessee. I had a good rib-eye steak at the Thunderbird, while Henrie decided she would skip dinner and settle for an apple in the room.

Friday, December 19. Leaving Cooksville in the morning, we continued on down I-40, stopping to have lunch at the New England Seafood House in Jackson, Tennessee, a really good place to eat. We had planned to stop and visit the Casey Jones Museum at Jackson, and/or Mud Island at Memphis, but decided it was getting too late, so drove on. We finally pulled in at the Interstate Inn (Best Western) at Carlisle, Arkansas, about 30 miles east of Little Rock.

I called Don that night. He said I had been sent a Certified Letter from the IRS demanding that we have a meeting to be scheduled for January 6. I told him to answer it and tell them I couldn't possibly make it.

Saturday, December 20. We left Carlisle at 9 AM and drove down I-40 to Texarkana and stopped at the Texas Information Center to get a Texas map. Left I-40 and headed south on US 271. We stopped at a little place called Pittsburg and had lunch. Then on to Tyler, Texas, taking the by-pass to arrive at Corsicana. Here we stopped at the Collin Street Bakery and bought one of their famous Corsicana Fruit Cakes. Drove back east on Main Street where the motels were and checked in at the Best Western. Had dinner at the Catfish King Restaurant across the lot. They serve "farm raised" catfish as their specialty. Drove 381 miles.

Sunday, December 21. Left the Best Western at Corsicana and had a real good breakfast at the Holiday Inn. Drove 60 miles down US 31 to Waco, Texas and checked in at the Texian Motel. Had a good lunch at the Tanglewood Farms Restaurant, then drove a short distance north on I-35 to Belmead to the H.E.B. store to buy some supplies. For dinner we went back to the Tanglewood Restaurant located just south of the Texian Motel.

Monday, December 22. As I mentioned before, I had had an ongoing battle with the IRS for years, but it had been relatively low key until the Carl Messick shooting affair stirred up renewed hostilities. What funds I had at this time I had dispersed in five different Florida banks, with the questionable reasoning that if these IRS pirates seized one account it might give me enough time to withdraw the others forthwith. The IRS thieves call this making a "levy," but what it really amounts to is an illegal seizure without due process, also known as stealing, piracy, thieving and several other choice definitions. In any case, I did not feel too secure with the funds being where they were, being well aware that the banks, the Federal Reserve, and the Jewish pirates were all banded together in the same conspiracy, namely, how to rob the American people blind. I discussed this subject with Don Johnson one day, as to where he thought might be the least risky place to keep what funds you might still have. I was well aware by this time that Don was an accomplished con-man, and that he probably knew all the tricks.

Well, he had an answer for this one also. He informed me that he had learned "through the grapevine" that there was a small unincorporated bank in the little town of Chilton, Texas, that had been privately owned since 1914, and did not easily or willingly collaborate with the IRS on demand, as did the other banks in the system, and that there were only five such private banks left who still operated under the grandfather clause. Not that the IRS could not get at your money in their bank, but the IRS would be forced to go to court first, and a depositor would have plenty of notice to withdraw his money before the court case was ever settled. Furthermore, he said, they invested all their depositors' money in government bonds, and whereas at the same time you had all the conveniences of a checking account. They also paid interest on your deposit, their operating profit coming from the difference in the rate they paid the depositor and what the government bonds paid. So you also had the insurance that unlike a lot of other banks that were going broke on risky loans, this one was backed 100% by government bonds. So he said, and I thought how clever of this con-man to know all these unconventional gimmicks.

One of the reasons we were making this detour was to go to Chilton, and talk to the manager of the Chilton Private Bank himself, and see if it all squared with what Don had told me.

Henrie and I left the Texian Motel in Waco and drove the 21 miles to Chilton, arriving at the bank at 9:10 AM. There we met with a dapper and very articulate young fellow by the name of James T. Davis, about 30. He was not the owner, or even part owner, but the hired manager. He confirmed everything Don had told me, except that whereas the De Graffenreid family, who had owned the bank since 1914, and whose main interests were in the cotton business, had in recent years sold the bank to a certain businessman by the name of John Landon, who was now the real owner of the bank. Landon would come in two or three times a week and check all activities. According to Davis, Landon was an astute business man of means, and the bank's business had increased tenfold since he had taken over. We talked to Davis for about an hour, and took with us a checkbook and deposit slips.

After leaving Chilton, a dumpy little town of about 300 to 500 people, we went back to I-35 and drove on to Austin, Texas. We then took the Hill Country Trail (US 290) to Fredericksburg, where we stopped and had lunch at the Golden Corral Restaurant. We drove on west and joined I-10 and continued on to Ft. Stockton. Arriving at 6:10, we checked in at the Sunday House Motor Inn (B.W.) to find we had the finest room we had had on the whole trip, large room, king-sized beds. We had dinner at a nearby restaurant, Spanish steak, soup and salad bar. Drove a total of 460 miles.

Tuesday, December 23. After checking out of the Sunday House, we drove across the street and had a good breakfast at the Holiday Inn. Left at 8:45 AM and drove west on I-10. Made a time change a few miles west of Van Horn, Texas (gained an hour) and on to El Paso. Had lunch at the Red Lobster (McRae Exit) and on to Willcox, Arizona, where we checked in at the Plaza Inn (Best Western). Had driven a total of 474 miles for the day.

Called Don Johnson. Everything O.K. Filing a Habeas Corpus, expects to get Carl out, he says. Called Billy Sanders. Been working on the house every day except Monday. Footers in, septic tank in, water lines in. Gave me his new home address. Talked to Kim and Walt. Kim busy delivering presents.

Wednesday, December 24. Left Willcox early, after having a free "continental" breakfast. Drove to Tucson and had a good breakfast at Denny's (St. Mary's Exit). Drove on north on I-10 and arrived at our Maryland Lakes apartment at 10:45 AM, after driving 196 miles. The weather was bright and sunny, but cool. After unloading a ton of goods, we drove to Fry's Supermarket to load up on $70 worth of groceries, then had a good lunch of turkey sandwiches and other goodies. Henrie made the beds, etc. We were both pretty well tired out after a long day and went to bed at 7 PM.

Thursday, December 25, Christmas Day. Got up late in our new apartment. Henrie had stocked up on groceries yesterday and fixed a good home-cooked Christmas dinner, a welcome change after eating in all the restaurants while being on the road. We did not have a TV set as yet, so could not watch the programs and other events, which we missed. In the afternoon we went to some of the different shopping centers to look for furniture, TV sets, and a host of other essentials.

Friday, December 26. Tried to find the maintenance man to fix the lights in the drop ceiling in the kitchen, but everything was closed. Received a letter from Rev. Rick Harp. Said he would be here in Phoenix to visit with me in about a week. Answered him and said I preferred January 5th, and drew a diagram showing him where to find us. Wrote a letter to Claude Curtis, the postmaster at Otto, authorizing Don Johnson to pick up certified mail. Sent a check to Billy Sanders, paying the contract balance on the house in full (in advance of it being even half finished). Talked to the telephone company about a phone. Costs $50 for installation, $27.50 to put on vacation rate, and $4.75 to keep it on standby, or $27.50 to have it reconnected. Decided it was not worth connecting it for the duration of this visit. Henrie and I went looking for a TV set. Looked at several places, including two places in Maryvale Shopping Center on Indian School Road and 51st Ave.

Saturday, December 27. Mailed three letters to three different banks, instructing them to transfer all the funds to our accounts to the Chilton Private Bank. Called Don Johnson. No judge is available to post Habeas Corpus, he says. He had not yet written the IRS, as I had told him to do, but said he would.

After lunch, Henrie and I drove to the new Safeway store and loaded up on $65 worth of groceries. Then to Appliance-TV City at Cactus and 43 Ave., and bought a 25 inch Sharp TV set, price $369. Next we went to the K-Mark at Northern and 27 Ave. and bought a TV table, a set of dishes and two sets of new flatware.

Sunday, December 28. Picked up the Sunday paper Arizona Republic from across the street. In the morning I assembled the TV stand I bought yesterday and read the Sunday paper. In the afternoon Henrie and I went to Levitz (Indian School and 27th) and picked out a set of bedroom furniture.

Finished reading Going Like Sixty by Richard Armour. 133 pages about enjoying life in the senior years.

Monday, December 29. Called James T. Davis and informed him that I had transferred the funds from three different Florida banks to the Chilton Private Bank. Contacted Hahnenberg, the project manager for Maryland Lakes, to fix the ceiling lights in the kitchen. He and another young fellow carried the TV set up the stairs, and also took the necessary measurements to replace the panels in the kitchen. Called Alan Tanner of Republic Cable to hook up to our new TV set. This he did the same day, between 11 AM and 12:30 PM. Hookup charge $5, plus $10.95 per month.

Henrie and I went to the Red Lobster at 53rd and Indian School for lunch. Then we went to Target Department Store and bought a desk light and other items. Next, to Levitz Furniture Store, where Henrie picked out another bedroom set in place of the one she picked yesterday. Stopped at the Map Store and picked up a nice 15" globe for my study in North Carolina. In the evening we watched our new TV set for the first time.

Tuesday, December 30. At 10 AM Henrie and I took off on a tour to Sedona, Arizona (110 miles) and had lunch at the Orchard Inn and Grill in the dining room known as L'Auberge de Sedona. Browsed through the shops up and down the main street. Beautiful day. Drove back by way of Jerome, an historic old mining town. Stopped in at the museum and witnessed an interesting movie and account of early mining in Jerome.

On the way back we drove through Prescott Valley (US 89), then took HW 69 back to I-17 and arrived back at the apartment at 7 PM.

Wednesday, December 31. Called James T. Davis, manager of the Chilton Private Bank. Confirmed two of the accounts from Florida had been received, but the third had not. Watched the Fiesta Parade in Phoenix from 11:30 AM to 1:30 PM. Drove to Fry's Supermarket and loaded up with groceries. At 8 PM we watched the King Orange Parade in Miami (1 hour), then watched Dynasty and Hotel.

Thursday, January 2, 1987. Watched the Cotton Bowl Parade, Dallas, Texas, from 8:00 to 9:30 AM. Watched the Tournament of Roses Parade, Pasadena, California, from 9:30 to 11:30 AM. Drove over to Smitty's at the West Plaza Shopping Center and bought a pair of pyjamas, a long sleeved shirt, and a red and navy dressing robe.

Watched the game between the Arizona State University Sun Devils and the Michigan Wolverines. The Sun Devils won 22 to 15, much to the delight of the Arizonians.

* * * * *

Although I have detailed notes in my notebook on the rest of our stay in Phoenix, I am going to try to summarize and condense the last part of our visit for the sake of brevity.

Friday, January 2. Levitz delivered five pieces of Henrie's bedroom furniture. At 6 PM watched the football game between the Miami Hurricanes and Penn State. Penn won 14-10.

Saturday, January 3. Henrie and I went to Reliable Furniture and picked up an ottoman, a small table and a lamp for Henrie.

Sunday, January 4. Drove to Christown Shopping Center and bought an oak dining table and four chairs.

Monday, January 5. Rev.. Rick Harp from California dropped in at about 5:30 PM. Helped me carry Henrie's hutch up the stairs and into her bedroom. He and I went to have dinner at Denny's. We talked until about 9 PM, then he went to find himself a room at a "6" Motel on Bell Road.

Tuesday, January 6. Rick back at the apartment at 9:30 AM. Had forgotten about the time change and was about an hour late. Anyway, we had breakfast together and he stayed until about 3 PM. He had brought along his comprehensive album of pictures and clippings of his younger days when he was a member of George L. Rockwell's Nazi Party, and also of his involvement in other racial movements. I showed him my prize Christmas present from Henrie — a genuine replica of Gen. George Custer's army revolver, as reproduced by the Franklin Mint.

Thursday, January 8. About 10:30 AM Henrie and I left for the Mormon Temple at Mesa, about 27 miles from our apartment. We were given an intensive indoctrination program at their Visitors' Center and viewed four different Audio-visual programs in an many different theaters, (they had six.) I was given a copy of the Book of Mormon. The Center was built six years earlier and was the latest in sophisticated indoctrination techniques. After that we went across the street to the Mormon Genealogy Library. It contained an enormous amount of data, had many people in there, all very busy. Later in the afternoon Henrie and I had a big lunch at the Red Lobster.

Saturday, January 10. At about 10:30 AM, by pre-arrangement, Alan Tanner stopped by and picked up the TV cable control unit. We got packed, had our last lunch at the apartment, and left Glendale at 1:10 PM for the trip back home, which would now be one of the rented cabins from John Dillard.

At 3 PM we were in Tucson and stopped in at Denny's for refreshments. Drove a total of 281 miles, then pulled in at the Best Western American Motel at Lordsburg, New Mexico, at 6:30. Had a light dinner of left over veggies in the room and went to bed early.

Sunday, January 22. Rose early and had breakfast in the motel dining room. Very Western, run by Mexicans. Left at 8 AM and headed east on I-10. Had lunch at the Holiday Inn at 2 PM (new time) at Van Horn. (It had a lot of nice paintings on display at that time, but it is now no longer a Holiday Inn.) Drove on to Big Spring, Texas on I-20, arriving there at 6:20 PM after driving 504 miles. Had a steak dinner at Ron Griffin's Restaurant nearby. Big, busy place, more Mexicans.

Monday, January 12. Had breakfast at Ron Griffin's Restaurant. Called James T. Davis at the Chilton Bank and asked him to also open an account in the name of the C.O.T.C. and send application papers. Left Big Spring at 10:15 AM and drove west on I-20, stopping at Grande Prairie, Texas, to have lunch at Denny's. Had chicken fillets and shrimp, hot apple pie with caramel sauce and icecream. At 6:20 we pulled in at the Contessa Inn (Best Western) at Longview Texas after driving 418 miles. After that big lunch, we skipped dinner and went to bed early.

Tuesday, January 13. Got up early and left the motel without breakfast at 7 AM. At 11 AM we stopped for lunch at the prestigious Red Snapper Restaurant at the Pecanland Mall on the east side of Monroe, Louisiana. In mid afternoon we stopped again, this time at Shoney's, for pie and coffee. Pulled in at the Bessemer Inn at 6:45 PM at Bessemer, Alabama. Drove a total of 514 miles.

Wednesday, January 14, 1987. Had breakfast at the lounge restaurant and left the motel at 8:30 AM. Drove west on I-20, using the perimeter road I-495 to by-pass Birmingham. The highway surface was excellent from here on out all the way into Atlanta, in contrast to the rough surface throughout Mississippi, Louisiana, and Alabama. Had lunch at the Red Lobster in the Pleasant Hill mall north of Atlanta.

Got back to Dillard after driving 285 miles and stopped in at the Best Western Motel to inquire about our chalet rental. The girl at the desk said chalet #20 was ready to move into and gave me the key. We then picked up the mail, picked up some groceries at the market, and drove to the cabin. We found everything in good shape. I drove over to our house now under construction to see what progress had been made. We spent the rest of the evening sorting and opening a large box full of mail.

Chapter Twenty-nine

1987: An Assessment of the Past and Future

After returning from Arizona, I sat down and tried to make an appraisal of how far our movement had come, and what its outlook might be for the coming year and beyond. The Carl Messick shooting incident and the coming of the Johnsons had thrown a monkey wrench into our operations and changed the picture considerably. Working with Carl might have been difficult at times, but he was genuinely interested in promoting the progress of the Creativity movement and guarding the best interests of the church. His judgment might sometimes have been faulty, and often was, but his heart was with it all the way. Up until June, 1986, we had put out and distributed 36 issues of Racial Loyalty, and we had never missed a month, except for the one month during which I had been fasting. We were growing each month and our contributors were backing us up more generously as time went on.

With the coming of the Johnsons, things changed. I had expected great things from Don Johnson, since he had projected such far-reaching plans, as I have stated before. But ever since I received that $3845.80 transfer bill from the trucker and the Johnsons weren't heard from for a month and a half, I began to suspect that I was up against a first rate con-man. But still, I thought I would give him the benefit of the doubt and see how well he would, or would not, deliver on all his bombastic promises and predictions. His performance at the trial had been less than heroic, and Carl was in jail. What with Bobbi now being on full salary, her contributions in answering the mail and putting out the paper were mediocre and uninspired at best. With Carl, we had put out our last continuous issue in June, but now we did not manage to put out another issue of Racial Loyalty until November, 1986, the next issue was delayed until February, 1987, and the next issue was put out in June of that same year. It was to be the last issue we were to put out with Bobbi at the computer. It would be a full year before another issue would be printed, but not by Bobbi. Many things were to happen in between.

Bobbi was an extremely efficient typist, and, in fact, a very capable manager. She did typeset two sets of books during her presence here, namely The Klassen Letters, Vol. One and Two. In the meantime, I got the feeling that neither Don nor Bobbi were really interested in promoting the church, but promoting the Johnsons, and doing what would benefit them, and, if possible, take over the church property from me. Bobbi seemed to have that unhappy, sinister, inscrutable air about her, and you never knew what she was thinking. Suddenly, without any consultation, they harbored a dog, then a cat. Then there appeared a large doghouse in back of the church, and a cat house on the stairway leading to the library. Next the large doghouse was moved up to the top of the stairs and on the landing beside the door to the second floor. All this despite the fact that I had made it plain to them from the beginning that no animals were allowed on the church property. Although I had loaned them my personal VW Rabbit, which I kept stored in the warehouse behind the church, they soon took over and drove it at will as if they owned it. I finally had to make it plain that it was not their property to drive and took the keys away.

In the meantime, how was Don doing in putting his law course together? Not very well. Every time I would ask him as to how much longer it would take him to have it ready, his answer would be, in about a month. He had it all put together in his head, he said. And so it went, month after month. It never got out of his head, and not a single video tape was ever made. Besides, I soon got the feeling that there was rank animosity between Don and Bobbi, although they never showed it publicly. At one time Don went to Texas for a month, reasons unknown, and Gale Bailey, who had been living at the school all this time, went with him. In the meantime, Bobbi changed her telephone number at the church, and although she told me what the number was, she told me not to divulge it to anyone else. One day I got a call from Texas asking me what Bobbi's new number was, and, naively thinking that "anyone else" did not include her husband. (What I did not know was it was because of her husband she had changed it.) I gave him her new number since I did not know they were not on speaking terms. Such was the situation into the summer of 1987. We were not progressing in our membership, we were regressing. All this was leading up to an even more drastic event soon coming up that same year.

But let us first digress to two other affairs that were also unravelling at this time.

Chapter Thirty

The Art Company Agreement

It seems ever since I started the Church of the Creator I repeatedly managed to become the target of some scam, and sometimes more than one con-man was working on me at the same time. Whether this just happened by coincidence, or whether JOG was pointing them my way, I never did figure out, but it certainly seemed like I had become a prime target.

Back in about 1980, three years before we moved to North Carolina, I was introduced to a fellow by the name of Tad Galin by my friend Chet Sasadu, who owned a drugstore in Pompano Beach, just south of Lighthouse Point. Chet was a friendly chap and we had known each other for years. We were having a cup of coffee at the lunch counter in his store when he told me that over there was this fellow Tad, a friend of his, who was interested in my church and would like to meet me. Fine, join us in a cup of coffee.

Tad was a small, but sharp little fellow in his middle thirties. He had come from Poland, where his family had been part of some aristocracy, he said. His English was good, although he still spoke with quite an accent, and he was a rather personable fellow. He was in the Amway business, he said, and although he was still having a rough time of it, he was making rapid progress. He told me of all the outstanding successes that had emerged from the Amway system, and some day he was going to be on easy street. He would like to come over to my house sometime and explain the whole Amway set-up, and he would like to have me join. He also had some big plans as to how this could at the same time benefit the growth of my Church, with which he said he was already somewhat familiar. He seemed like an interesting fellow, and he claimed to agree with me 100% about the Jews. It was the Jews and the Communists that had robbed the land and holdings of his once aristocratic family. I said, sure, come on over sometime, and we'll talk about it in greater detail.

He lost no time doing just that, and went into great detail about how many people he now knew who were independently wealthy after they had entered the Amway game plan. At present he was merchandising out of his bedroom and strapped for capital, but he was going to be one of the successful ones. These visits continued for some months, and each time when he came over he would be showing me how much progress he had made. At the same time he had read more of my books, and he would let me know how enthusiastic he was becoming in helping to promote Creativity. He kept emphasizing that if he just had a few thousand in working capital, he could have a good stock of merchandise ready on hand to deliver immediately and he could be moving much faster. So far, it was his wife, June, who had a well paying job as a supervisor in a private Pompano Beach hospital that was really carrying the family load, and at the same time helping him promote his Amway business. I was convinced that this little Polish fellow had a lot on the ball, and I sort of felt sorry for him. He seemed to be trying so hard. At his persistence, finally, on June 2, 1981, I loaned him an initial $3000. He continued to keep visiting and showing me how his business was growing, but actually he could go much faster if he had more inventory and if I loaned him another $7000. After all, his wife was making $2000 a month, and she would co-sign on the note. Foolishly, on September 23, I loaned him another $7000. Actually, his business was increasing considerably.

Then a third party entered into the picture. A young friend of Tad's, by the name of William P. Therrien, was selling cheap paintings, door to door, and he was making himself a tidy $100 a day in profit, with very little investment on his part. This gave Tad a big idea. They could form a company and set up Art Centers all across the country and make millions. They needed me in to bankroll the deal, but my contribution would be only minimal as far as time and work was concerned. By forming a three way corporation we could promote Amway, we could promote the art venture (which would be the backbone of our financial impetus) and best of all, we could use each of these art centers as meeting places for the promotion of the Church of the Creator. How much would it take? Another $9000 would get our first center stocked, remodeled and refurbished right here in Ft. Lauderdale. Tad had already rented a place at 50 E. Prospect Road, Ft. Lauderdale, and had himself and a few carpenters furiously sawing and hammering at it to put it into shape. He had also bought a white van with which to haul the paintings. He was going at it like a house on fire.

There was no doubt about it, the little fellow had a lot of energy.

On January 12th, 1982, we drew up a working contract. The principals were Tad Galin, William P. Therrien, the Church of the Creator, and myself as President. The company was known as The Art Co. I loaned them the $9000, but this time it was out of the funds that I had donated to the Church of the Creator, since we were expecting the church to benefit from this action. The note was guaranteed to me and signed personally by Tad Galin, his wife June, and by William Therrien. We were off and running and things looked good. We even held two COTC meetings in the new place. The first one was on Sunday, January 10, 1982, with me presiding and lecturing for two sessions of about two hours each. There were 18 people present, and we signed up three new members. One of the prominent people at that meeting was Dr. Herbert Poinsett, from Hollywood, who at present (1992) has a TV talk show in the Tampa area, and had been active in both the racial and Atheist promotions on his own for some time previously. A second meeting was held at the Art Center about a month later, on Sunday, February 7, at which I was not present, since I was in North Carolina at the time, working on the many projects I then had going. But I thought that was fine, I would soon be moving to North Carolina anyway, and they should learn to run their meetings without me.

Then came a shocker. Suddenly, Tad said they were broke. His Amway business was falling apart because he had spent all his time on the Art Co., but he was assiduously building it up again, not to worry, he said. Where William Therrien was, I had no idea, and Tad was very vague about it. He was "on the road."

By this time we were into the late spring of 1982, and I was deeply preoccupied with getting the COTC Center in North Carolina built. (Foundation Day was March 10, 1982.) Henrie and I were planning to move up to North Carolina as soon as we could get our house sold. When could I get my loans repaid? Soon, Tad kept reassuring me. Then another disaster struck. June had privately given one of her female "friends" at the hospital a copy of the White Man's Bible, secretly, in a brown envelope, being assured that she sympathized with our teachings. Next thing June knew she was fired and lost her $2000 a month job, no reason given.

Time went on, and all I ever got from Tad were numerous reassurances that he would repay me "soon." His wife, June did get another job, but it did not pay as well as the one she had had. I was trying to give the poor fellow a chance to recover and make good on his promises. (He also owed me the $9000 I had loaned him previously.) Finally, three years and 50 promises later, my patience was at an end. We were now into 1986, and living in North Carolina, and I had received not a dime, nothing but promises. What could I do? I decided to take my losses and turn the deal over to a collection agency. Where could I find one I could trust in Broward County? I called my old friend, Jim Hundley, who owned the warehouse and rental complex in Pompano Beach, where, during my last domicile in Florida, I had stored my thousands of copies of Nature's Eternal Religion and The White Man's Bible, and also kept my business records and files. I had known Jim for at least 15 years. I decided to call him and ask him — did he know of any honest collection agency in Broward County? Sure, his daughter-in-law, Geri Lamb, owned one, called Professional Credit Control, Inc., and she would be glad to handle my case.

So I called her and she sent me the necessary papers to sign and she would take it from there. She was not an attorney herself, but the agency retained one who did all the legal work for them. The agency's commission for making a collection was somewhat stiff — 50% if they collected, and out of that they paid all the attorneys' and other legal fees. If they did not collect, I owed nothing. Good enough. Better to try to salvage something out of the deal than nothing. I knew the Galins owned a house and must have at least some equity in it. Besides, June had a fairly good paying job, and also they must have a considerable inventory of Amway merchandise.

The collection agency's attorney's name was Alton A. Linn, Jr., whose office was located in Pompano Beach. He duly filed suit on behalf of myself, as one case, and another on behalf of the Church, as a second case, in the Circuit Court in Ft. Lauderdale.

Our case was scheduled for January 27, 1987.

At this time our new house was still being built and we were living in John Dillard's cabin No. 20 in Georgia. On January 25, after checking at the church (Don Johnson had just returned from Texas) I picked up the "Art" file from the cabinet in the church and Henrie and I left for Florida at 10:20 AM. It was raining hard when we left and when we stopped for lunch at the Red Lobster in Atlanta it was still raining. We arrived in Lakeland, Florida and pulled in at the Holiday Inn at 5:50 PM. We had dinner at the Holiday Inn dining room.

Mary Wimmer, who still lived in Lighthouse Point at that time, had invited us to stay with her when we came down. (Her husband, Bill, had died just a few months previously.) We arrived there in the evening and she had a good dinner prepared for us. Next morning we had breakfast at her table, and she went her way to take care of a multitude of chores she had waiting for her, and we prepared for our meeting at the Courthouse.

After having lunch at Denny's in Lighthouse Point, we drove to the Broward County Courthouse. We found much construction going on at the expanding Courthouse and the closest parking place we could find was about a quarter of a mile away. We went to Room 920, the chambers of Judge Linda A. Vitale. Our attorney, Alton A. Linn, Jr., soon arrived. It was the first time we had met him, and we discussed a few details of the case, although the facts were already well known to all of us. Tad and June Galin were already there, accompanied by a supporter who really had nothing to do with the case. Soon Judge Vitale arrived and the case began. Actually, it was an open and shut case. They had borrowed $19,000 and signed 90 day notes to repay. Five years had gone by and they had not repaid a cent. Tad had already sent in a long, tedious written defence that his connection with the church had ruined his business, and it was all my fault. As the trial commenced he kept whining away and repeating the same tune endlessly. Every so often the Judge would intervene and ask, but you did borrow the money and sign the notes we have before us here? He would say, yes, but..., and then start whining all over again. I was getting hot under the collar, and wanted to interject that he came to me and it was his idea to join and he borrowed and spent the money. However, my attorney poke me in the ribs, and told me to remain silent, which I did. Finally the whining session ended, and the Judge said, you borrowed the money, you didn't repay it, and pronounced judgment against them.

So we had won our case, had a judgment filed against them and went back to North Carolina.

What happened next? Nothing. I never heard a response from the attorney, nor from the collection agency, for what seemed an overly long time. When I inquired at both places by telephone, they were hard to reach. When I finally did make contact, the answers were vague, strange and ambiguous. One of them said the Galins had filed for bankruptcy, but whether before or after the court decision, I never could find out. In any case, neither took the slightest action to pursue collection, and after a while I gave up. I suspect that Tad bought them off at a discount, and they, the attorney and the collection agency, kept what money they could get for themselves. At least, I never received a cent and I did not want to waste any further time pursuing a lost cause 750 miles away when I had more important things to do.

Is there an honest collection agency in Broward County? Not that I know of.

Chapter Thirty-one

The Natchez Pilgrimage Tour Plus

Before the Civil War, the State of Mississippi was one of the wealthiest, if not the wealthiest, in the nation, and the city of Natchez was said to have more millionaires in its environs than any other city, including New York. As we all know, the Jews changed all that, and today Mississippi is one of the poorest and most backward in the union. Be that as it may, the city of Natchez has a proud tradition and many of its old mansions are still standing as show places and exhibits of the Old South. Every year during the entire month of March the city holds a Pilgrimage Tour that reflects the glory of times gone by, although the downtown section is as shabby as any other slum inhabited by niggers. Nevertheless, its pilgrimage celebration each year is a rare jewel, and my wife and I have visited it more than once. We have noticed that in the last ten years or so, several new suburban sections have sprung up around the environs of the city that did not exist when we first visited it.

In March of 1987, while our new house was being built, we decided to take the time out to visit it again. Henrie and I planned to leave on March 27. Having consulted with Billy Sanders, the contractor, about choices of tile, woods, and other details, we got up early to get to the tile store. We chose the type and color of tile for all of the 3- 1/2 bathrooms, and also for the foyer at the entrance door. We also stopped at Macon Supply and picked out the type numbers for plumbing fixtures (mostly brushed bronze). We took notes on the choices of all these items and rushed back to the building site, but Sanders was not there. We left them all in a file folder and nailed it to a studding. We were sure he would see it.

We were still living in John Dillard's cabin #20 at this time. After picking up the mail at the post office, we had lunch at cabin #20 and packed to leave. We stopped and paid our rental bill up to the 27th, and talked to John Dillard about giving us some concession during our absence. On this count we won a partial concession.

We stopped at Clayton Motors and left them a $100 deposit check on a deal we had made with them on a new 1987 Pontiac 6000 LE station wagon.

Left Clayton at about 12:45 PM and headed south to Atlanta, then east on I-20 all the way to Tuscaloosa, Alabama, and checked in at the Stage Coach Inn for the night. We had driven 314 miles and arrived at 6 PM (CST). Henrie had an apple in the room, while I went to the lounge and had a sandwich and all the shrimp I could eat.

Friday, March 27, 1987. We got off to an early start and drove west through Jackson, Mississippi, then turned off on the Natchez Trace Parkway, south toward Natchez. It was a beautiful day and a beautiful drive. Henrie was especially impressed with all the dogwood in bloom, also many other blooming trees and climbers, including quince (purple), some unidentified yellow climbers, and many excellent species of wisteria. Also saw a wild turkey up close, walking on the road. Many buzzards were in evidence, both in the trees and in the air.

We diverted to an off-road that led to Port Gibson, then drove down another side road for eight miles, leading to the ruins of the grand old Windsor Plantation mansion, built in 1859-61, and destroyed in a fire in 1890. The huge and beautiful Corinthian columns (I believe we counted 14) left standing are some of the most outstanding of all the southern ante-bellum mansions.

We arrived in Natchez at about 3 PM and checked in at the Scottish Inn. Henrie and I had dinner at Chug's Restaurant a few blocks away. I had broiled catfish and she had crab Augustin.

Saturday, March 28. Henrie skipped breakfast. I drove across the road (US 61) and had breakfast in the Best Western dining room. A large Baptist group was there too, they were just leaving. Towards noon we drove up to the Natchez Pilgrimage Tour Center and bought tickets for the Green Tour — four of the ante-bellum homes for that afternoon, and also tickets for the Confederate Pageant that evening. At the same time we made reservations to have dinner at the Carriage House for 7 PM. We had lunch at the Post House, next to the Pilgrimage Center, where we had Crayfish Et'ouffe. I forget what it was, but Henrie thought it was excellent.

After lunch, we visited the four homes for which we had tickets, (a) the Parsonage, (b) the Rosalie, (c) the Richmond, and (d) the Dunleith. Large crowds were everywhere. The weather was sunny, getting somewhat on the hot side. At 7:20, Henrie and I had dinner at the Carriage House on the grounds of Stanton Hall. From there we hurried over to the City Auditorium to see the main event — the Confederate Pageant. When we got back to the car we found we had a dead battery, but a kindly Southerner came to our rescue with a jumper and we soon had the car going.

Sunday, March 29. After checking out of the Scottish Inn, we had breakfast at the Best Western across the street, and at 8:50 AM we headed out for Texas. Crossed over the Mississippi into Louisiana on US 84, then on to I-20 and had lunch at Denny's in Shreveport. On to Tyler, through Corsicana, then US 31 all the way to Waco, Texas. Checked in at the Lexington Motel, which was called The Texian when we stayed there last December. The weather had turned unusually cold, and we saw some snow on the way. Drove 410 miles.

Monday, March 30, at Waco, Texas. Had breakfast at the Tanglewood Farms Restaurant, a block from the motel. Called the Chilton Bank. Talked to Janice, set up an appointment with James Davis, the manager, for 10 AM. Talked to him for about an hour, the subject being as to how to keep the IRS from laying their hands on any assets I may have. Discussed setting up "off-shore trusts," interest on which would not need to be reported to the IRS. Davis gave me the name and phone number of an attorney who specialized in such: a Richard Moore, in Clearwater, Florida. He also informed me that John Landon, owner of the bank at present was in Hong Kong, exploring ways of converting US dollars into Swiss Francs, in accounts that would pay interest. He said I was the first to make such a request. Found out Landon was only 39. Met Janice.

Drove north on I-35E. Stopped at a new Holiday Inn that was about to open and received a "complimentary lunch."

Drove north and east from Dallas on I-30 and checked in at the Continental Motor Inn (Best Western) at Arkadelphia, Arkansas, arriving at 6:30 PM. Had a big buffet dinner at an accompanying restaurant. Drove 401 miles.

Tuesday, March 31. Breakfast at motel restaurant. Checked out at 8:50 and drove down I-30, arriving at Memphis at noon. We wanted to re-visit Mud Island, an interesting museum of the Civil War days, yet also an amusement park and play ground of a sorts. It had been built at considerable expense on what used to be nothing more than the name implies, a mud island in the Mississippi River, lying about a quarter of a mile of the east shore and a little south of the main bridge. We had both visited it before, but not together.

Leaving our car parked in the parking lot built especially for Mud Island visitors, but located on the mainland, we bought tickets for the Mud Island tour and took the monorail over to the island. There we had lunch, just sandwiches, at Meagher's Restaurant. The place also had two other restaurants, which are really first class, but they were both closed, since the tourist season was not yet in full swing. The River Terrace Restaurant was scheduled to open on April 11.

Henrie and I then went through the Museum for the next hour and a half. We noticed that the staff was practically all black, and that the whole place had deteriorated considerably since the last time we visited it.

Left at 3 PM and drove south and east on US 78 all the way to Hamilton, Alabama, population 4500. We checked in at the Holiday Inn, where I had dinner at their dining room, while Henrie fasted on an apple in the room. Drove 352 miles.

Wednesday, April 1, 1987. Henrie and I had breakfast in the Holiday Inn dining room, then checked out and left at 9 AM, travelling south on US 73. Fairly good road, half of it four laned. After stopping for lunch at Anniston, Alabama (Shoney's), we drive on to Atlanta and joined I-85. Drove north on US 441, then took a side trip to see Bill Stratton at the Currahee Printing Co., Toccoa. They were doing the printing job on RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours for us at that time. However, they still did not have a machine to do the book binding at that time, and had to have an outside company do the binding. (They do have a binding machine now.)

Drove on to Clayton, where we had dinner at Burrell's Junction, then picked up some groceries at Winn-Dixie. Drove on to the school to turn on the heat. Looked at the construction job at the house to see if any progress had been made in our absence. Not much, the breakfast nook had been closed in. Henrie picked up her car at the church. We talked briefly to the Johnsons, then drove to our cabin #20. Drove a total of 378 miles.

Chapter Thirty-two

The Chilton Private Bank Disaster

This next major episode in the history of the Church of the Creator is most painful for me to report. It is not the first time I have been bilked and booby-trapped, nor is it the last. I have already told of my intensive search for a relatively safe haven for what resources I owned personally, and those in the name of the church, and how to prevent the long and crooked arm of the IRS from grabbing them at any time without warning. I have also related of how I was advised by Don Johnson that a private bank in Texas that was not under the jurisdiction of the Feds, nor Texas State authorities, was probably my best bet, since they had been in business since 1914, and did not collaborate with JOG. Furthermore, all their assets were in government bonds or Treasury Bills, supposedly the safest of all funds, and if any IRS agents came around and wanted to snoop into anyone's particular account, the bank's management would give the investor plenty of warning to withdraw their account. I have also described my two visits to the bank itself to talk to the management to do my best to check these claims. As a result of all these recommendations I moved a major portion of the liquid assets, my own, and those of the Church, from five major banks in Florida into the Chilton Private Bank. These were not minor accounts, mine totalling $262,649.68, and those of the church totalling $231,572.60, altogether amounting to almost half a million dollars.

About a month before we moved into our newly built home, sometime during the earlier part of May, I sent another major deposit to the Chilton Bank, a check in the amount of about $35,000, which I had received from my last major sale of real estate in Collier County, Florida. The check and the deposit slips were returned to me by The Republic Bank of Waco, through whom for some reason the Chilton Private Bank ran all their deposits. There was no explanation in the envelope as to why the deposit was being returned. Alarmed, I immediately tried to call the Chilton Bank, but their telephone, the recorded voice said, had been disconnected. I then called the Republic Bank for an explanation, and was informed that the Chilton Private Bank was insolvent and that the Texas Banking Commission had taken it over. Now I was really in a state of desperation, and I went outside to break the news to Don. He seemed neither surprised nor alarmed. He made some stupid remark that it would undoubtedly be straightened out shortly. I tried to get further information from the Republic Bank, but all they could tell me that I would soon be getting an official letter from the Texas Banking Commission. Within a week, I did indeed get two letters, one on my behalf, and the other addressed to the church. The letters confirmed all my worst fears. The bank was bankrupt and in liquidation.

What with two accounts involving large sums of money, both ours and that of the church, Henrie and I wanted to find out as quickly as possible as to what had happened, and what, if anything, could be done. Since no information was forthcoming from the Chilton bank, and since the Texas Banking Commission offered nothing but the formal announcement in the form letters, we decided it was imperative that we take a trip to Texas and glean what information we could from various sources. Where should we start? We would go to the scene of the crime itself, to Texas, and play it by ear when we got there.

Chilton is located about 28 miles south of Waco, Texas, in Hall County, whose county seat is Marlin, an insignificant rural area, an area that contains much of nothing. We decided the county records of the Chilton Bank case would be the place to start.

Henrie and I left our new home on Saturday, August 8, 1987, and our first lap of 502 miles took us all the way to the town of Marlin itself, where we checked in at the Metro Inn (Best Western), arriving there at 7 PM. The next morning we drove to the Sheriff's office to get the lay of the land. There, in a small ante room, was a fancy dude nigger guard, who told me that the Sheriff had been gone for a week, and in any case the Sheriff's Department had no part in the Chilton Bank Case.

Next we went to the County Courthouse, where we consulted the Court Clerk. She said they had no part in the case either, but pointed to the District Court on the third floor. We went up to the third floor and there the District Court Clerk had the Texas Banking Commission Case on file, in a folder ready for me to peruse. I asked if I could get a copy of it, and the clerk said, yes, at $1 per page. I said, go ahead, get me the whole file, 20 pages and $20 worth. I tried to get further information from the clerk, but he feigned ignorance of everything. He suggested the local newspaper might have more information, since they had followed the case closely.

I went to talk to the editor of the Marlin Democrat. He was very cooperative and offered a file with a batch of clippings about the Chilton case, most of which were taken from the Waco Tribune Herald. I sat down at a desk he offered and started scanning the articles. I picked out four articles and asked if they could make copies of them, which they did.

I then went back to the motel and checked out. Henrie and I then had lunch at the Plantation Inn Restaurant and left for Waco, Texas, about 28 miles distant. We arrived there at about 2:30 and finally found the offices of the Federal Bankruptcy Court on the third floor of the main Post Office Building at Austin Blvd. and 5th St. We searched through the index of cases and finally found the Chilton Bank Case — Bankruptcy No. 8760550, filed June 22, 1987. The female clerks (three of them) then quickly located the file and allowed us to make copies on their copying machine, a total of 72 pages at 25 cents a page, $18. It took us about 40 minutes. We then left Waco and headed for Austin, about 100 miles distant. We arrived at 5:45 PM and chose to stay at the Quality Inn, South. I had a nice Chef's Salad for dinner, topping it all off with apple pie a la mode. Henrie chose to only have an apple and some juice in the room.

The attorney challenging the Texas Banking Commission in their actions against the Chilton Bank was Joe Alfred Izen, whose office was located in Houston. I studied Izen's brief the rest of the evening.

* * * * *

By now, from the various files I had gathered in the Marlin District Court records, the Marlin Democrat and Waco Herald Tribune stories, the Federal Bankruptcy Court records in Waco, quite a different story emerged from what I had been told by Don Johnson and by James T. Davis in the Chilton Bank. Most of what they had told me was true and applied to the management of the bank during the 70 or so years of ownership by the De Graffenreid family, who ran the bank honestly and used it mostly as an adjunct and convenience to their main business, which was cotton. But in recent years it had changed ownership twice and was taken over by con-men whose intent it was to capitalize on the 70 year old reputation of the De Graffenreid family and fleece unsuspecting investors. John F. Landon took over control of the Chilton Private Bank as recently as 1986. Enter into this picture an ex-convict, 44 year old John Peter Galanis, whose record involves too many swindles to list here. It seems he had an amazing talent for raising money on a huge scale.

To quote one example, in the Transpac Oil Co. case alone, $172 million in fraudulent partnership losses were passed on to investors by a scam managed by Galanis. His wife owned a $156,000 Rolls-Royce Corniche. Their seven acre Greenwich estate, complete with a private lake and a heated indoor swimming pool, was valued at $3,500,000. But this was only part of the holdings and a fraction of the fraudulent scams in which he was involved. Suffice it to say, he was a "friend" of John Landon, and his and his wife's "overdrafts" at the Chilton Bank ran as high as $1,492,000 in 1986. But there were dozens of other fraudulent accounts overdrawn and unsecured loans made during these short years during Landon's ownership which made the insolvency of the bank inevitable. This is the part of the story that I was not told by either Don Johnson nor James T. Davis. The question is: how did they get away with it, and why was the story peddled about how the bank was so unusually secure because all its investments were supposedly in government bonds and U.S. Treasury Bills?

This is what I wanted to find out next. When Henrie and I arrived in Austin on Tuesday, August 11, 1987, we sought out the Texas Banking Commission, which was located at 2601 N. Lamar Blvd. We arrived at the State Finance Building at 11 AM. We were amazed at the plush accommodations and spacious layout of the building. We took the elevator to the third floor where the Banking Commission resided and walked across a spacious amount of carpeted flooring to the reception desk where sat a fat little nigger gal. I asked to see Carlos J. Contreras III, who was the assistant general counsel. Kenneth W. Littlefield, who was the commissioner, was out of town. After asking us a number of pointless questions, the fat little nigger gal said Contreras was tied up in a meeting, and could not possibly see us. After insisting we would wait out Contreras, and while I was on the phone trying to make an appointment with the Regional Director, Jimmy Parker (in another building about four miles removed), lo and behold, both Carlos Contreras and his secretary came out and said they could see us now.

At 11:20 we walked into his office and began our meeting. Henrie secretly turned on the little Sony tape recorder in her purse, which I had coached her the previous evening as to how to work it.

The following conversation ensued. I am only going to review part of the highlights.

(a) John Landon. I asked about his whereabouts, was he free, or was he in prison, and what assets he might have outside the bank? Contreras replied that Landon had been indicted and arrested, but at present was out on bail. He resided in Manhattan, NY, and they did have contact with him through his lawyer.

Landon did have a number of assets, but they were hard to establish. There was a condo in Utah worth $400,000. There was a third lien on a residence (not Landon's) in Palo Alto, California valued at $1,000,000. There was a string of other items. Contreras claimed they (the Banking Commission) had their finger on all of them.

(b) Overdrafts. I asked how was it possible to allow dozens of overdrafts, running into as much as $250,000, or even $800,000, and not bounce those checks. Contreras said it was obviously sloppy banking practice, but Landon had evidently chosen to allow it. In some cases where the overdrafts remained unpaid, they were converted into loans.

Were any of these loans secured, and could they be recovered, I asked. The loans were not secured and he did not know whether they could be recovered.

(c) Cash. I reminded Contreras that I had talked to him on the phone in May and that he had told me there was $700,000 cash found on hand at the bank, but now that the report had been put out, it showed only $413,000. Why the difference? He said there was no actual cash found at the bank, but there were deposits at other institutions, such as Merrill Lynch, the largest, and the Republic Bank at Waco, and others. He never did explain the difference, but said they had found new deposits since the report, and the figure now was probably larger than $413,000.

(d) Treasury Bills. Contreras said no T-Bills were found in possession by the bank. When I asked whether De Graffenreid, the previous owner, had backed up his deposits with T-Bills, he said he didn't know, it was before his time. Evidently Contreras hadn't been there for more than a year.

(e) James T. Davis. He had been indicted on a minor charge of not reporting a deposit of over $10,000 to the IRS and had used subterfuge by splitting it into two accounts. He was free and loose, living somewhere around Chilton. When I asked what possible gain there might be in it for Davis to get involved in such a mess when he obviously knew of all the crooked shenanigans that were going on, he said he didn't know. Contreras said they did not pursue criminal charges, that was under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Attorney's Office, probably out of San Antonio.

(f) International Risk Assurance. A few weeks ago, I had been contacted by Mr. Reinhold Sommerstedt of Santa Ana, California, who wanted the bank put into the Bankruptcy Court, and after being declared bankrupt, it was their intention to purchase it and credit all depositors the full value of their accounts. But evidently the Banking Commission opposed this sensible move. I asked Contreras, why? I also asked him whose interests the International Risk Assurance were most interested in protecting, and Contreras said, why, the depositor's, of course. I said I understood the International Risk Assurance was willing to make up a deficiency of $5 or $6 million, and cover the depositors 100%, but the Banking Commission would not allow it, nor let them purchase it. Why not?

His answer was that when John Landon announced the bank closed on May 15, the bank no longer existed, and it was then against the law to sell it. I argued that such was at best a flimsy technicality, and if the Banking Commission really wanted to come to the rescue of the depositors, they easily could arrange such a take-over. He insisted it was against the law, and anyway, they had never received such offer, either verbally or in writing. It sounded outright stupid to me, although I did not say so. If they were at all interested in solving the problem, the offer from the I.R.A. could easily have been followed up, and either confirmed or denied.

All along, I got the impression that Contreras and the Banking Commission were stonewalling, and really were defending Landon's actions, in fact, deliberately wanted the depositors to lose their investments, and were in cahoots with Landon, Galanis and Co. At the conclusion of the conversation, I told him I had three possible theories about the whole affair.

1. That perhaps Landon was just an incompetent bumbler and had messed up.
2. That Landon and Galanis were out and out crooks and had planned to fleece the depositors from the beginning.
3. The third possibility, and the one I considered as the most probable, was that they were all in this together, that it was a C.I.A. type of sting operation, designed to entrap and make destitute a certain group of citizenry they viewed as tax-protesters. When I volunteered the latter possibility, Contreras' swarthy face blanched, and even Henrie noticed it, she said later. He denied the latter possibility vehemently, as any good JOG agent of course would.

* * * * *

Henrie and I finally stopped for lunch at a restaurant called Pat's Barbecue in a small town called Giddings, Texas. We each had a good B.Q. sandwich and a peach cobbler topped off with icecream. When we reached Houston, we checked in at the Comfort Inn, Galleria/Westchase.

Wednesday, August 12. I called Joe Izen's office at 8:45 AM to try and make an appointment with him, but only reached his answering service. I left my name and said I would call back later. In the meantime, Henrie and I went over to Denny's and had breakfast. I called again at 9:30, then again at 11:56 and again at 2:12 PM. Each time the secretary said he would be in soon, but did not know when. Finally at 3:30 she called and said he was in. We finally found his place, a dingy dark grey residence at the N.E. corner of Ferris and Spruce. I was not impressed with either the man or the place.

The first thing I tried to determine was the basis on which we could do business if I joined this group against the Banking Commission. After a considerable amount of stalling, he said I could join the group at $3000 up front, or at $150 an hour, as the case proceeded.

I told him I pretty well knew the story of what had happened, and there was no need to retell me the story. I told him of all the files I had already gathered, including a copy of his Bankruptcy Case. After scanning all my files, he said I did not have his latest Brief (five pages, Aug. 10-87). He ran those off for me. The question I wanted to have an answer to was this: Just what did he and his group intend to do about it all?

His answer was that they intended to have the Courts force the bank into a bankruptcy position and they, the depositor group, would select their own trustee, rather than have the Texas B.C. "close" the bank and "liquidate" the assets. This way the sequestered assets could be more thoroughly pursued with the depositors in charge, he argued. Furthermore, the bank could be repurchased by a private group that could make good most, or even all, of the depositors' equity. When I presented Izen with the three theories I had given Contreras of why Landon & Co. had done what they had done, he said he did not know, but leaned towards the sting theory. There was much more conversation, but after we left (at 5:25) and mulled things over, I wondered if this fellow was not just as likely to ransack the remaining assets as was the State of Texas, but would also in most likelihood drag the finalization of the case on indefinitely.

Henrie and I got up early the next morning (6 AM), and checked out of the motel. We had breakfast at Denny's and drove east on I-10 through the middle of Houston and on to Lake Charles, Louisiana. Here we stopped for lunch at the Catfish Connection restaurant and had a seafood gourmet repast. The food was hot (with spices) and so was the weather, but so far no rain. We stopped for the night at the Hampton Inn, Pascagoula, Mississippi for the night and had steak dinners. I had sirloin. Henrie had filet mignon.

The next morning at about 6 AM I woke up to the sound of a thunderclap and much lightning. A full fledged downpour was in progress, and continued for several hours. Our car was parked some distance away from our upstairs room, and our raincoats and umbrella were in it. So I walked to the front office, all under the shelter of the overhang, and asked the pretty blonde clerk if anyone could temporarily lend me an umbrella. The nice girl said I could use hers. Under cover of the umbrella I dashed to the car and drove it under the shelter of the larger vestibule in front of the motel. After a complimentary breakfast, we took off on I-10, then north on I-65 towards Montgomery, Alabama.

We arrived there at about 2:45 and drove south on East Blvd. to explore the ASF, the Alabama Shakespeare Festival. We bought two tickets for that night's play, Othello. (Regular $16, AARP discount, $14.) We then checked in at the Hampton Inn, but had dinner at the nearby Ramada Inn.

At 7:40 we drove over to the ASF to see a professional version of Othello. We had good seats, four rows from the front. However, as the play progressed, Henrie began to feel sick, weak, and shaky. We therefore left at intermission time and went back to the motel without seeing the second half.

Saturday, August 15, 1987. By morning Henrie felt fine again. We had the regular complimentary breakfast at the Hampton Inn, then checked out and left. We stopped again at Auburn, Alabama, and had a second breakfast at Denny's. We drove east on I-85, through Atlanta, and on towards home.

On the drive back, I kept mulling over the whole Chilton Private Bank fiasco. I couldn't help but wonder what role my prime Church resident, Don Johnson, might have in the whole scam. Of all the thousands of banks in the United States, why had he steered me to a tiny, insignificant bank that no one else had ever heard of, located in the dumpy backwoods of Texas and given it such a glowing report just at a time when the rotten structure was about ready to collapse? I knew that Don was a con-man, that he knew all the tricks, but I didn't think that he would use them to the detriment of the church, which he said he had come to help build up. Now I began to wonder if he wasn't an important part of the enemy scam. How did he happen to know about the bank at all, and how did it happen that he knew all about the bank's history back as far as 1914, but failed to mention that it had been taken over by a gang of crooks in the last few years? After all, that didn't happen over night. It had been publicized in the Texas papers, and the Banking Commission had known for years of the crooked shenanigans that had been going on. If Don knew so much about the bank as to recommend it to me, he could hardly have been unaware of what had been going on during the last few years. He had just come from Texas, and he recommended it within weeks after he arrived at the church. Obviously, he was well informed on its recent history and its imminent collapse. His glowing report about all their assets being secured by Treasury Notes and government bonds was exactly the same lying story as James T. Davis had been telling me, when he knew damn well that the whole set-up was a swindle. That could hardly be a coincidence.

To wind up the story, the Texas Banking Commission did make some effort to recover what assets were readily available, but they could have done much more had they wanted to. After about a year we did receive a check for what they had recovered at that time, divided proportionally among the depositors according to their investment. Six months later we received another check. In all, we recovered approximately 28 cents on the dollar. The rest we could kiss goodbye forever.

I couldn't help but come to the only conclusion that made any sense: Don Johnson had moved into the church for no other reason than to help JOG wreck our movement, and had he ever done a number on us!

We stopped at the Winn-Dixie store in Clayton to load up on groceries, then stopped at the Dillard Post Office to pick up a big cardboard box full of mail, arriving home at 4 PM. Home never looked better. After we each had a highball, Henrie fixed a good dinner of chicken soup, chicken casserole with water chestnuts, and peach turn-overs with icecream.

Chapter Thirty-three

Death on the Second Floor of the Church

Since the Johnsons played such an important, although destructive, part in our program during their domicile at the church, it behooves us to take a closer look at their background, part of which I have already related in previous chapters. As I stated before, Don Johnson made his entree into my confidence by stating that he was a close friend of Gale Bailey, who was the first to make a $1000 donation to the Church and in whose memory we planted the first tree on Leadership Lane.

Don and Bobbi, the latter his alleged wife, were both in the prime of their life, in their early fifties. Whether they were really married to each other, or just lived together, I was never quite sure. Nor was I ever quite sure whether Don Johnson was his real name, or an alias he adopted from the TV actor of the same name. Both Don and Bobbi had been married before, she at least once, and he at least twice. Both had grandchildren.

She had a son, age 30, and a daughter, age 24. Her son, she said, was on drugs, but competently capable of holding down a driving job with UPS. Her ex-husband was also on drugs. Her 24 year old daughter, according to Don, had the maturity of a twelve-year old. I met her while I visited them in Texas, and she was a rather attractive looking woman. In fact, for a woman of 50, so was Bobbi. Not only was Bobbi quite attractive, but also very competent and intelligent, and hard as nails.

Don had a son and two daughters. The son was in a penitentiary in Texas, serving a 50 year sentence for some crime connected with illegal gun possession, a charge that Don said he was not guilty of, and that he had been framed. Every few weeks Don would go back to Texas and visit him in the penitentiary. According to Don, his trial had been completely bungled by the attorney Don had defending him, and it was this what prompted him (Don) to study law and become a paralegal. Now he had come to our Church, not only to protect it from illegal machinations, but to set up a paralegal course that he would not only put on video tape, but also teach at the church to our members, for a fee, of course. The Church need not pay him anything, only allow him the use of our premises to construct his video course, and also attract and teach students in our sanctuary. He had already taken such a course from Jack Gordon and been practicing law as a paralegal. Furthermore, with Carl Messick being in trouble about the car shooting incident, he claimed he would valiantly defend him at no expense to us. It all sounded very inviting to me, and after the personal visit I made to Texas, I was thoroughly sold on his offer. We came to an agreement, as described earlier. I have also related how their carload of possessions arrived on September 3, 1986, without the Johnsons, but with a shipping bill of $3845.80, which I had to pay. They would be along later, they said, when we finally heard from them.

One of the reasons for the delay was that Bobbi's mother's husband (but not her father) had just died. He had been 68 years old and in good health, when he had a sudden heart attack and died. In consequence of what happened later, let us take special notice of this fact. The Johnsons themselves did not arrive at the Church until October 18, 1986, more than six weeks after all their baggage arrived. Don lost no time asking a salary for Bobbi to help in typesetting the paper and general correspondence, and as soon as Carl was out of the way and safely behind bars, asking for the full $1000 a month I had been paying Carl as Hasta Primus.

The Johnsons also lost no time making themselves at home and rearranging the furniture and set-up in the building. They soon had a cat and a huge hound on the premises, despite the fact that I had distinctly told them we did not want any animals on the church grounds. Instead of using one of the four offices in the back part of the ground floor as Carl and others had done, Don moved his desk (he had brought his own along with everything else) into the main sanctuary, or meeting room of the church, along with all his filing cabinets and other paraphernalia. The main purpose of him coming to the church, as well as defending Carl's case (which I have already described and ended after the first two months) was to set up his legal course, put it on video tape, and set up a regular curriculum of classes in law. After Henrie and I got back from Phoenix on January 19, 1987, I asked him how he was progressing in his venture, and was he about ready to start taping some of the material. The answer was, no, but he had it all in his mind. When did he think he would be able to start filming? On, in about a month, he ventured. A month went by, and nothing happened. Two months went by, six months went by, and always the same answer — in about a month. He just sat there at his desk with a stupid cap on his head (it had inscribed on it what looked like Hebrew letters, but if turned at a 90 degree angle was really a filthy epithet in English).

Meanwhile, Bobbi was typing various materials. While being at our apartment in Arizona I had written a major portion of my autobiography Against the Evil Tide on yellow sheets. Bobbi typed all this out in good form so I could put the whole manuscript together in good order in a three ring loose-leaf book. She also typed those materials I wrote after getting back. Also, at this time I had her typeset all the materials contained in The Klassen Letters, both Volumes One and Two.

In the middle of the night of November 3, at 12:30 AM to be exact, I thought I heard my phone ringing. I was half asleep, and the phone was in my study upstairs, a room and a hallway removed from my bedroom. My hearing isn't any too good in the first place, and it was sheer chance that I heard it at all. When I picked up the receiver, I heard Bobbi screeching at the top of her voice "For Christ's sake! Somebody get an ambulance! Don has stopped breathing!" She was screaming hysterically, and I didn't waste any further time asking her why she hadn't already called for an ambulance herself, instead of wasting a lot of time trying to reach me. I said I would call an ambulance right away, and that Henrie and I would be over as soon as we could. I looked up a number for an ambulance service in Franklin in the yellow pages, explained the situation, and told them to hurry over to the Church of the Creator, 13 miles away. They said they knew where it was and would try to get there as soon as they could.

Henrie and I got dressed as quickly as we could, jumped into the car and rushed over to the church. We found Bobbi in hysterics, and Don was lying on the bed with only his briefs on. His eyes were half closed and I noticed that his lips were beginning to turn blue. Henrie immediately tried to give him mouth to mouth resuscitation. She had taken a course at the Pompano Beach Fire Station in first aid about 20 years earlier. I tried to thump his chest with my fist as I had seen doctors do in movies. Bobbi just screamed — when is that damn ambulance coming? Finally, in about half an hour after I had called, the ambulance came with three paramedics. They tried working on him briefly, then gave up and carried him down the outside stairs into the ambulance and took off like a streak of lightning. Henrie, Bobbi and I jumped into my car and followed them at about 80 miles an hour. Personally, by this time I felt it was all over, but, of course, we all would do what we could.

At the hospital they had Don in the emergency room for another half hour or so, and finally one of the doctors came out to break the news to Bobbi that they had done all they could, but Don was gone.

After several minutes of weeping on Bobbi's part, we decided all we could do that night (it was about 3 AM) was to take Bobbi back home. Henrie stayed with her at the apartment and sat up with her for the rest of the night. Bobbi started making a number of phone calls.

We took her to the Bryant Funeral Home in Franklin next morning, where Don's body had been taken, to make arrangements. She decided that his body was to be cremated. However, the body was first readied for viewing, and placed in a coffin. Henrie and I went to the viewing at the proper time, and while there met Bobbi's mother and also her sister. When the hospital authorities informed her that under the circumstances they were required to make an autopsy, Bobbi objected long and loudly. However, the autopsy was carried out, nevertheless. The body was then cremated at a crematory in Asheville.

Don's sisters also came to the church a few days later and talked to Bobbi, but what went on at those meetings I do not know. They were not friendly to Bobbi, according to Gale Bailey. Gale, too, came down about two weeks later to help Bobbi straighten out Don's files and affairs.

According to Gale, some of Don's family suspected that Bobbi might have had something to do with his demise.

There was considerable circumstantial evidence to that effect. Although Don and Bobbi did not display their animosity in public, there evidently was a bitter rift between them. About two months earlier Don had gone to Texas and stayed with a friend for about a month, presumably "on business." Gale was also there with him. During this time Bobbi changed her telephone number, and when I insisted that I should know where I would be able to reach her, she gave me that number, insisting, however, that I not give it out to anyone else. At that time I did not realize there was any animosity between them, and when one day Gale called and asked me what Bobbi's new number was, I innocently gave it to him. When Bobbi found this out she was furious.

The other strange circumstance about this affair was that only a year earlier, Bobbi's mother's husband had died under very similar circumstances. He was 68, in seemingly good health, but had died of a sudden heart attack. Now Don, age 52, had also been in seemingly good health, and he too had died of a sudden heart attack. Coincidence, or did they share some secret formula?

Anyway, Henrie and I were extremely sympathetic to her and tried to help her in every way we could. We had her over for Thanksgiving dinner.

* * * * *

For years I had been searching for the "great promoter," (see Racial Loyalty No. 10) without much success, and now with Carl gone, I didn't even have a Hasta Primus to help me put the paper together and have it distributed. As a result, our movement was floundering. The last issue of Racial Loyalty we put out before the Johnsons arrived was the issue of June, 1986. During the time that the Johnsons were here until Bobbi was given her walking papers, a period of 18 months, we put out only three issues. They were Nos. 37, 38 and 39, and the key articles respectively were "The Holy Trinity," "I Talked with God," and "Mind Pollution — Cleaning out the Augean Stables."

Our mail was dropping off, and after Bobbi had typed the manuscripts I mentioned earlier, there was little for her to do. Also she was becoming more independent and was seldom in the office, taking off a few weeks to attend her daughter's wedding, or whatever. After she came back from the wedding, I told her that I was going to put her on half time, she need only come into the office a half day three days a week, three hours in the morning, 9 to 12. Her pay would be cut in half also. Since she was seldom in the office anyway, I told her I expected her to be at work promptly during those hours designated. She was pretty chagrined at the change and what with the continuing nuisance her dog created, our relationship evolved from one of tolerance to hostility. Certainly, her actions indicated she had not the slightest interest in promoting the welfare of the church, but only what she could get out of it. Finally I was fed up with the whole situation, and I gave her 30 days notice to leave the premises by May 1, 1988. From there on out it was total war, and she decided to go me one better and quit 15 days ahead of the deadline. One confession that she made that indirectly implicated Don in the Chilton fiasco was her assertion that she was not responsible for anything that Don had done, an admission that I interpreted that she was in on the Chilton Bank affair all along.

She hired a big U-Haul, with a two-wheel trailer hitched to the rear of the U-Haul on which to load her car. She also hired a couple from Franklin to help load their huge collection of baggage. She took off on April 16, 1987, concrete birdbath, dog, car and all. And so ended the Johnson affair on a sour note, one that seemed to have promised so much before they ever arrived from Texas.

Chapter Thirty-Four

Phoenix, AZ and Fallbrook, CA

Dec. 17, 1987 to Jan. 19, 1988

As was our usual custom since we acquired the apartment in Phoenix, Henrie and I planned to spend about a month away from North Carolina and take advantage of the warmth and sunshine of sunny Arizona. We usually timed this during some parts of the months of December and January. This year, 1987, we left the house at 11:30 on Thursday, December 17. We stopped in Atlanta and had lunch at the Red Lobster in the Gwinnet Shopping Center, then took I-20 off the Beltway and drove to Meridian, Mississippi checking in at the Hampton Inn, having driven a total of 408 miles.

Our next day's stop was at Marshall, Texas, where we stayed at the Best Western Motel. From there I called George Arlen in Lewisville, Texas, a suburb of Dallas. George had been handling our legal hassle with the IRS for years. In the meantime he had spent some ten months in the penitentiary because of some technicality in getting a divorce from his wife and now had remarried and moved from Ft. Lauderdale to Dallas, Texas. Henrie and I had stopped paying taxes and sending in our 1040's since 1981, and I was having some new problems with this gang of Jewish pirates that I wanted to discuss with George. As per arrangement, George Arlen picked me up at our motel at 7:30 and we had dinner at the Golden Corral in Lewisville. Our discussion lasted about three and a half hours. Since the process is too involved, this is not the place to go into the details of the case. Let me summarize by saying that Arlen was of no help, and I have had the help of several other paralegals since then to try to fend off these Jewish gangsters.

After stopping in El Paso the next night, we took a detour route for a change and drove from Lordsburg, New Mexico to Globe, Arizona, then to Mesa and got on the Superstition Speedway, I-10. We arrived at our apartment at 5 PM on Monday, December 21. After turning on the electricity and finding everything in good order, we unloaded our belongings, then went to Fry's Supermarket and loaded up with $55 worth of groceries. After we each had a highball, Henrie fixed soup and a sandwich and we called it a day. We had driven exactly 2000 miles since we left our home in North Carolina.

* * * * *

A secondary objective of this trip was to try to get together with Tom Metzger and his son John. For years I had been trying to persuade him to join forces with the Church of the Creator. We had the creed, the program and a multitude of books setting forth in concise and consistent detail just what that creed and program was. Tom and his group lacked all these essentials, except that Tom was a vigorous and flamboyant promoter and was 20 years younger than I was. He passionately endeavored to get on every TV talk show and program he possibly could, and in large part was successful in doing so. I felt he needed us, and we needed him. In fact, shortly after appearing on his Race and Reason show in December of 1984, I extended the hand of friendship and wrote him the following letter, which speaks for itself.

January 25, 1985

Mr. Tom Metzger
P.O. Box 65
Fallbrook, CA 92028

Dear Tom:

I have been meaning to write you ever since I returned from my trip to So. California and thank you for your hospitality and the taping of the show. So allow me to now say — many thanks.

After meeting you I am convinced of your sincerity and dedication to the cause that I believe you and I both hold in common — and that is the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race — a goal that we of The Church of the Creator spell out repeatedly.

But time is rapidly running out on us and whether we will achieve this in our lifetime depends on how fast we, the White Race, can get our act together. Let me add that if we don't do it in our lifetime (and I believe we have at best only another 5 or 10 years to do so) it will not be done in our children's' lifetime either. In another decade or less all hell will break loose and a worldwide racial war will ensue, the objective of which will be to completely destroy the White Race, and mongrelize what dilapidated remnants survive. There will be no comeback, no second chance. The other alternative is to smash the monster that is bent on destroying us.

I have been preaching repeatedly that the only way the White Race can beat the monster and survive is by sheer power — to build a powerhouse larger and stronger than the Jewish powerhouse and smash the hell out of it. Secondly, I have been preaching that the only way that can be done is the same way as the miserable parasitic Jews have built theirs — by polarization and dispersion — around a dynamic powerful racial religion. See again "Dispersion and Polarization" in Racial Loyalty No. 14.

In Creativity we have it all — the whole ball of wax — to build that powerhouse. Also the White Race has the manpower, wealth, resources, intelligence and numbers to do the job. The biggest roadblock in my opinion is the hubris of the tens of thousands of little groups in wanting to be so goddamned independent and individualistic that they would rather see the White Race go down the drain than admit that their own little satraps might not be equal to the task.

My objective in writing you this letter is to convince you — to implore you — to join with us in the Creativity movement and form a Church of the Creator in your area. That would be a big step in the direction of polarization, and since you are a leader, a man with considerable following, this would shake up the whole White Racial movement to take a second look and bring them to their senses — to the realization that we have to polarize into one huge powerful battering ram. Fragmented and divided we are sitting ducks. The last 50 years of history has proved that overwhelmingly. In contrast, in Germany Hitler proved the power of the polarization approach, the Catholic Church proved it over the centuries, and the Jews have amply demonstrated it for thousands of years.

For those who argue that we must be dispersed or the Jews might smash us in one fell swoop — the beauty of Creativity is that we can do both: polarize around one loyalty — one creed — one program, and at the same time be dispersed into thousands of different church groups — just as the Jews have done for millenniums.

What I am saying, Tom, is this. What is to stop you from forming a Church of the Creator group in Fallbrook, or So. California anywhere, and still be your own boss? You can put out your own newspaper, or you can put out ours, or you can put out both, if you like. You can run candidates for political offices or whatever activities you see fit and constructive. You can be ordained as a minister of our church, or we could even create a higher title (equivalent to a bishop, cardinal, etc., in the Catholic Church, except we would come up with some Latin name for it) all of which would provide prestige and some legal protection. You would be affiliated with us, (but we do not grant franchises as such, since the IRS regards this as a black mark against a "non-profit" organization).

All of this would create a significant beginning toward crystallizing and polarizing the whole White Racial movement toward really building a meaningful, lasting power structure. It would also buy us all a lot more security as a movement. For instance, if we (here in North Carolina) were wiped off the map (which could happen) there would be thousands of other church groups who could and would carry on, pick up the leadership and in fact through our martyrdom be fanned into cold blazing fury of determination and retribution.

Anyway, this is the only way to go. History has proven that a formless fragmentation of little groups going in hundreds of different directions are no match for a united, polarized army that has a specific goal, purpose and creed.

I could go on, but I believe you have read enough of my literature, including "The Pole Star" issue No. 20 to know what I am talking about.

Why don't you sit down, lock yourself in your office as you did about the Christianity issue, and think this thing through. You could be a key figure in amalgamating and galvanizing the White racial movement, and I invite you to join with us in achieving this overwhelmingly crucial goal.

May the CREATIVE FORCE stay with you!

For a Whiter and Brighter World,
Creatively yours,

B. Klassen, P.M.

* * * * *

After Carl's incarceration, I had been vainly looking for a capable replacement for the now vacant position of Hasta Primus, with little success. For years, I had hoped that Tom Metzger would join with the Church of the Creator and had urged and implored him to do so. His son John had applied to become one of our Ministers near the beginning of our move to North Carolina, (July 7, 1984, to be exact) when he was only sixteen years old. We were happy to grant him a Ministerial Certificate, and he has been one of our Reverends ever since. Personally, I had hoped this would help to improve our relationship with his father, Tom, and his group, which was named WAR, since our objectives seemed to run parallel, although our philosophy and creed seemed to have some serious differences. Whereas our creed and program from its very beginning was clearly spelled out in our basic books, (at that time we had only three books out, Nature's Eternal Religion, The White Man's Bible, and Salubrious Living) and remained constant, clear and fixed, Tom's seemed to veer with every change of the wind.

Let us review a few of his changes at that time, and also those prior and subsequent.

When he named his movement WAR, it at first stood for White American Resistance. When it was pointed out to him that the word "American" was too weak and too general and could include niggers and Jews, he substituted the word "Aryan" for "American," which, although excluding the mud races, was still a meaningless word, as I have expounded in considerable detail in a three page chapter entitled A Choice of Terms — Aryan, White Race, or White Volk? It can be found in The Klassen Letters, Vol. One, starting on Page 10. The article demonstrates fairly clearly that a coal-black Hindu has more claim to being an "Aryan" than a blonde Englishman or German, and the word Aryan is nothing more than a linguistic description, not at all racial.

However, this is a minor point, and there were several more important contradictions and confusions. When he was a member of the Klan, he was pro-Christian and fervently defended Christianity. Then he left the Klan and, after a while, openly proclaimed he was anti-Christian. Then he joined with Gary Gallo in advocating that we slice the United States into geographic sections, each race, (the Indians, the niggers, the Mexicans, etc.,) live in their respective allotments as per their percentage of population, and the White Race settle for some Northwest or Southeast corner of the United States. When I criticized this policy as being sheer lunacy and asked the question: who would decide on who would get what and who would move the people into their South African style of Apartheid, there was no answer. To further underline the idiocy of this kind of proposal, I wrote the book, RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours. After that, he again reversed himself, and came out loud and strong, "Yes, we want it all!"

Be that as it may, Tom by 1988 was strongly anti-Jew and anti-Christian, and his policy as far as could be determined, had come around to where he proclaimed pretty much the same creed and program as does the Church of the Creator, and we were on fairly congenial terms. By now I was 70 years old, my energy was flagging, and I was looking for a leader to take over and carry on our movement.

I had talked to both Tom and John about this issue in the fall of 1987, with the proposal that I was willing to step down and let John take over the leadership of the Church of the Creator, living here in our World Headquarters. We seemed to be coming to an agreement and a meeting of the minds. I suggested that over the holidays my wife and I would again be visiting in our apartment in Phoenix, and I would drive down from there to Fallbrook, and we could discuss it further. I had never met John personally, and this was one of the things that was uppermost in my mind that I do so before we went any further.

The next day, after arriving at our apartment, I called the Metzgers and talked to both Tom and John. I told them I had arrived in Phoenix and we made arrangements to meet at their home in Fallbrook, California shortly after the first of January. I wanted to make sure that John would be there, since it was important that I meet with him and be able to make my own assessment of his suitability. Everything went fine, and I agreed that I would be there in Fallbrook in the afternoon of January 3.

In the meantime, Henrie and I did the usual things in Phoenix. We spent Christmas at the apartment and Henrie cooked a good home-cooked dinner, better than any you could find in a restaurant. We did some travelling to several interesting places in Phoenix and also outside, such as Sedona, Cottonwood, Prescott, the Grand Canyon, and other places. We again spent New Year's Day at the apartment, watching the Rose Parade in Pasadena, and some of the others that are on television on New Year's day.

On Sunday, January 3, 1988, I took off for Fallbrook. I left the apartment at 7:40 AM, went down south to Buckeye Road, then I-10 West. At noon I stopped in Indio to have lunch at Denny's Restaurant. The place was crowded, noisy and the predominance of Mexicans was an ominous reminder that I was now in California. At Beaumont I turned off on US 60, to I-215, which became I-15 at Rancho California. Here I stopped again at another Denny's to enjoy my dessert of apple pie with caramel sauce and icecream. The other place had been too noisy and crowded to enjoy.

After a drive of 360 miles, I arrived in Fallbrook at 2:30 PM (MST), somewhat earlier than I had expected and called Tom from a shopping center. He arrived in his rusty red old Cadillac about ten minutes later, wearing his toupee. The first thing I asked was — where's John? He was in San Francisco, and he would explain later. I was disappointed and angry. This was the second time he had double-crossed me.

We drove in our two separate cars to his residence. This consisted of a decrepit old house on a street that looked more like an alley than a street. I understand there were seven Mexican houses on the same street.

His main office was a garage converted into a working place. It was stacked with a large assortment of books, including some of mine, on shelves that consisted of plain boards with concrete blocks used as spacers. There were papers (WAR, etc.,) strewn all over the place.

When I asked him why John wasn't there when I had specifically come to talk with him, he said John had gone to San Francisco to talk to some skinheads. I got the impression that the absence was intentional, and Tom's, rather than John's idea. While I was there, John called, and I talked to him briefly on the telephone, leaving the situation as such that we would arrange to get together in North Carolina in a few weeks. Tom and I spent the rest of the afternoon discussing people and events, mostly as they concerned our respective movements. The implication was that he and John were still very much in favor of John coming to North Carolina, and us working in unison. Finally at about 7:30, he and I went to have dinner at The Packing House. He had a bourbon, and I had a glass of wine. We both had a turkey dinner, and I picked up the tab.

When we came back, we went upstairs, where there was a sort of living room, an alcove which had a large copier, and a cot. The living room had a TV set with a large projector that displayed the picture on a separate screen. It could also play video tapes. He treated me to a demonstration of a speech he had made at an Aryan Nations meeting. It was all about how the rich Whites, not the Jews, were the real culprits that caused the mess we are in, and it was a matter of getting the White workers to rebel against them and get rid of them. I couldn't help making the comment "You sound like a communist!" We talked until 11:30, at which time I retired on the cot.

Monday, January 4, 1988. I spent a miserable night on the cot. The blankets were an assortment of knitted wool throws. The room was cold and I had forgotten to bring my pyjamas, so I slept with my underwear and my socks on, plus my red and blue dressing robe. Still I was cold and miserable, and probably didn't get more than an hour of sleep all night.

I understood the kids would be using the same upstairs bathroom and dining table, but would be gone by 8 AM. At about 10 minutes of 8, with nobody around, I went to the bathroom and shaved. When I left about 15 minutes later, I found Tom was waiting in his p.j. bottoms to use the bathroom next. Although he only had the bottoms on, he wore a cap on his head to mask his bald pate.

Anyway, by 8:30 we were both ready to have breakfast. We drove to the Village Shop, then back to his house. I gave him a complete set of my books (except NER, which he had received earlier) and a complete set of my booklets.

We said goodbye and I left at about 9:25 AM, deciding that on the way back to Phoenix I would take a different route, see different scenery. I went south on I-15 to San Diego, then took I-8 east. I was amazed at the miles and miles of interesting rocky terrain that consisted of nothing but huge round boulders, many of them the size of a house. The tremendous cost and effort it must have taken the road builders to put a smooth four lane interstate highway through and over such difficult terrain occurred to me several times as I sped along. Stopping at El Centro to have lunch, I then went on to Gila Bend, north on US 85 to I-10, on into Phoenix. I arrived home at 6:30 PM after driving 404 miles. It was good to be home again and see Henrie. After both of us had a highball, we had a good dinner of porkchops with applesauce, and a dessert of blueberry turnovers with icecream.

Conclusions. Tom M. had a lot of problems of his own. The rental on his meeting place was in jeopardy, and he still had a court case hanging over his head about some old KKK meeting he was at several years ago. The IRS was still on his back (as it was on mine). The street he now lived on had seven Mexican families, all hostile, and his was the only White family. He had a tremendous ego, but his financial resources are small, and I doubt that we will ever get together, or that John will ever endeavor to take over the leadership of the COTC. Although Tom is fervently dedicated to the cause of the White Race, he is no intellectual of any merit. He has written no books, and his creed and program change from day to day. At the time I saw him his pitch was against the "rich Whites," not the Jews who were the problem. His line is nothing more than the old bitch and gripe, deplore and lament variety, one that has been unsuccessfully exhausted over the last 50 years. To his credit, Tom is aggressive, energetic and a fairly good speaker, and above all, he has a penchant for getting publicity and working every TV talk show and/or program he possibly can. We need more people like that, but we also need to get Tom on the right track and have him stick to it.

* * * * *

Back at the apartment, Henrie and I enjoyed visiting as many sights in and around Phoenix for the time we had left. However, we did less running around than we had done on our previous visits. For one thing, we had pretty well completed the furnishing of our apartment, and therefore did not have to pursue that endeavor much further. I had started writing my autobiography about two months earlier, and I now pursued that course with a great deal of vigor, writing it all down on yellow sheets. When we got back to North Carolina, I had reams and reams of material for Bobbi to type on the computer in my study and put the material in good shape. However, that was by no means the end of it, and it took another year and a half to complete it.

On Wednesday, January 13, we cleaned up the apartment, had Allen Tanner pick up the TV cable unit, turned off the electricity and left for Tucson at 12:45 PM. When we got there about two hours later, we had lunch at Denny's, then drove out on St. Mary's Road to the International Wildlife Museum. It was a most interesting display of wildlife from all over the world, beautifully mounted, many set in well-designed dioramas. The building itself is a masterpiece of art. The museum is about five miles west of Tucson.

The museum closed at 5:30 PM and we hardly had time to see all the exhibits. We drove a few more miles west to see the sunset from Gates Pass Road, a beautiful spectacle, and found many other people already there to do the same. After that we called it a day, and checked in at the Executive Inn on the Speedway exit.

Thursday, January 14. After checking out of the motel, we drove on west over Gates Pass to what was once built as a movie set (in 1939) for Arizona and was now called Old Tucson. When it fell into a state of ruin and abandon, it was bought by Robert Shelton, and rebuilt as an all-around setting for movies and TV shows, and soon became a major tourist attraction in itself. We had a big lunch of B-Q spare-ribs at the Red Dog Restaurant, also saw two shoot-outs, a medicine show, and several other exhibits.

We left at 3 PM and drove east on I-10, then south on US 80 to Tombstone, AZ, where we checked in at the Look Out Motel, and had dinner at Nellie Cashman's Restaurant. Nellie was an Irish gal who had a rather interesting history to leave behind.

Next morning, after having breakfast at The Wagon Wheel Restaurant, we took a tour of the old 1880's Birdcage Theater, then another tour of Tucson's famous Boot Hill. While in Tucson I bought a beautiful set of mounted longhorns, 80 inches from tip to tip, ($70) at Linsey's Trading Post. We left Tucson at about 3 PM, drove on to the old mining town of Bisbee, saw the Lavender Pit mine, then drove on to Douglas, AZ, another 23 miles. From there we joined I-10 and drove to Las Cruces, New Mexico, where we checked in at the Mesilla Valley Inn for the night.

We left the next morning and drove west on I-10, pretty much following the routes we had used before. We finally arrived at our home in North Carolina on Tuesday, January 19, after being away for 33 days and driving a total of 2106 miles on the trip back, and a total of 4106 miles for the whole trip.

Chapter Thirty-five

Lucinda and Will Williams

Bobbi Johnson left with her car, the U-Haul, and all her kit and kaboodle on April 16, 1988. (I will never forget the day!) As if by coincidence, and perhaps it was, no sooner had she left than one Sunday afternoon a young couple (in their late thirties) showed up at the house and said they had been hearing about our movement and were very much interested in learning more, perhaps joining. Their names were Lucinda Coleman and Will White Williams. They were from Raleigh, North Carolina and Will said he had been active in different White racial movements for several years. In fact, he had been quite active in Glenn Miller's group until that movement was broken up by JOG.

The young man and young woman were not married, but said they had been going together, and living together, for six years, off and on, although the going sometimes had been rather rough. Cindy, as Lucinda was called, had been married before, had an 11 year old daughter named Heather, but had been divorced for some time. Heather at this time was living with her father. Will was a Vietnam veteran and had never been married. He had read only one of my books, Building a Whiter and Brighter World, someone had incidentally given to him. However, that was enough, he said, to really get him going and that he had finally found the movement he was looking for. All the other racial movements he knew of either embraced, or tolerated, Jewish Christianity, and he had decided a long time ago that he wanted no part of that Jewish garbage. They said they had stopped by our church a few weeks ago when Bobbi was there but had not gotten much cooperation nor information. Well, I said, they had come to the right place this time.

Evidently, the experiences of the Vietnam War, in which Will had been in Army Intelligence, had left a deep impression on him, such that after all these years he had not recovered from its psychological scars. There were times when he talked about it he would be on the verge of crying, and it had affected his whole outlook on the world, on the U.S. government, and on his moral attitudes in general. I have previously been telling about all the con-men that had come my way, and of which I had been a victim at times. However, there was no ambiguity about this matter with Will. He openly admitted he was a con-man, and in fact bragged that you can't con a con-man. Furthermore, he claimed every man (or woman) had some secret skeletons in their closet, and he openly admitted that he was going to find out what mine were. Will had been in the architectural and building game for a number of years after he got out of the army, but had finally given up the hassle and gone broke. He had also had some bitter encounters with the IRS, and what made him even more bitter, they had sent a dumb nigger to audit his returns. After that he had more or less thrown in the towel and taken up painting (portraits, etc.,) not only as a hobby but as a means of making a living. And so he and Cindy lived a sort of disorderly and troubled life, together some of the time, separately the rest of the time, when they landed at the Church of the Creator in the spring of 1988.

I told him of the experiences I had just gone through with the Johnsons, that we had only put out three issues of Racial Loyalty in more than a year, when before we had issued the paper regularly every month. One of the basics that I was looking for was a good typist to typeset the articles. In the past I had written most of the articles and done the paste-up work in putting the paper together myself. From here on out, however, I wanted a competent man to do that job. However, I also needed plenty of help in answering the volumes of mail, mailing out the book orders, and mailing out the stacks of Racial Loyalty to our subscribers each month, not to mention mowing the lawns, provide security for our premises, and a thousand other items that needed work and attention. I was looking for a good, dedicated man who could do all these things, and in the past such a man had carried the title of Hasta Primus, which in Latin meant Spearhead. I told him that in the past such Hastas had received a fee of $1000 a month, and we did not make any withholding deductions, nor did we send in any financial reports.

When I showed them the two-bedroom apartment upstairs, they were delighted. It was certainly far superior to the little shack without electricity out in the woods around Raleigh somewhere that they had contemplated moving into. There was one problem — Will was no typist, and typesetting was the most essential skill needed to put out the paper. But no problem. Cindy could type, and he was capable of doing the paste-up and putting the paper together. If they took on the job, I would be getting a bargain, they said — two for the price of one. I then also reminded them of the case of Keith Williams three years ago, who wanted to move in with his girl friend, and I made it clear that the job was available only to a couple who was married. No problem there, they were soon getting married anyway. There was one more stipulation I made clear at the outset — no pets, no dogs or cats on the premises. They would think it over and let me know shortly.

They did let me know shortly and they moved in on May 15, 1988, and we soon got things moving. By the end of May, we had the June edition of Racial Loyalty ready to go out. I had already written the key article "I Never Invented the Wheel," but I had it published under Will Williams' byline with the announcement that he was now the new Hasta Primus. From there on out, we regularly published an edition of Racial Loyalty every month, for the next 16 editions, even after the Williams left.

Cindy was a rather woe-begone and tearful personality, whereas Will not only was a con-man but he also had a mean and stubborn streak in him. He came from a wealthy family, his father and brothers were in the insurance business and in the millionaire class, but Will was not one of them. He admitted he was the "black sheep" of the family, and because of his stubbornness, because of his racist views, because of his disdain for Christianity, his father disowned him and they hadn't spoken to each other for some years. It wasn't long before I began to notice obvious friction between Will and Cindy, but nevertheless, they were soon going to get married and they set the date. Since Will was a great admirer of Adolf Hitler, to whom many in the movement refer to as "88 for "Heil Hitler," (H is the 8th letter in the alphabet), Will decided the wedding date would be at 8 minutes after 8 o'clock on the 8th day of the 8th month (August 8). He wanted me to perform the ceremony, and I was glad to oblige. It was a quite well attended affair, with many of their friends from Raleigh, as well as many other members of the church being in attendance. Even Will's mother was there. (Unlike his father, she was on good terms with him.) Heather, Cindy's eleven year old daughter was there also. She was a sweet, bright and good looking girl.

The article in the September issue of Racial Loyalty about the wedding, written by Will himself, was entitled "The Bride was Lovely in White." Refreshments were served in the Sanctuary, and everyone seemed to have smiles on their faces and having a good time, except I never saw Lucinda smile. I signed their Wedding Certificate and I was going to make a copy of it for our records, as we did with all the other weddings we performed at the church. However, I never did get to make a copy of it, and I never saw it again, although I asked for it several times. Nor was it ever recorded in the Records of Macon County, as Wedding Certificates should be.

Even before the wedding, in fact within a week after they arrived there, I noticed a little white kitten in the basement of the church. Next I noticed four little white kittens in the basement, despite the fact that I had definitely set down the "no pets" ruling. I asked "Where did all these goddamn cats come from?" Oh, Cindy said, they're mine. Aren't they cute?

One day I came into the library, and lying on the counter was a cute photo of Heather holding a little puppy. Knowing how tricky Will could be, I immediately realized that this was his sneaky way of letting me know that they now also had a puppy, and, as we all know, puppies grow into dogs. The puppy did indeed grow into a dog, a huge hound, in fact. All too often he lay across the front door and became a veritable nuisance. Soon there were two dogs, a male and a female. But more about that later. There were other problems of a more serious nature.

Soon after they were married I got a phone call at the house from Cindy. She was sobbing into the telephone and she wanted me to come over right away and protect her from Will. They were apparently having one hell of a fight and Will was beating up on her. Now if there is anything that I dislike more than getting involved in a domestic fight, I don't know what it is, but since she was crying and asking for help I rushed over as quickly as I could.

When I got there, she was still crying, and Will was still in a vicious mood as Cindy recited all the cruelties he had inflicted upon her. He tried to pass it off as just another one of their domestic spats, and resented the fact that I should even appear on the scene and get involved. This got my dander up, and as Cindy showed some of the bruises she had sustained, I laid down the law to both of them. I told Cindy that I never wanted her to call me again to intervene should they have another fight. What did she want me to do about protecting her? Beat up on Will? He was bigger and stronger and thirty years younger than I was, so that was no solution. Next time, if there was a next time, and she was in danger, she should call the police, and leave me out of it. And furthermore, if there ever was another row like this, they were both through, and contract or no contract, I would have them removed from the premises immediately.

Things simmered down after that, at least on the surface. I noticed that Will moved out of the upstairs bedroom and set up a cot in the small southeast corner office on the ground floor, and the situation remained that way for the duration. However, we were making a lot of progress in the movement in 1988. For one thing, starting with Issue No. 40, (June, 1988) we put out an issue and never missed a single month for the next 16 issues. This I consider a major accomplishment, and it extended well beyond Will and Cindy's tenure. Will considered himself an artist and added a few touches here and there to improve interest. But the biggest boon that came to us without any solicitation on our part was the volume of excellent and hard-hitting cartoons drawn and sent to us by an artist and cartoonist named Ron Quinn, from Tucson, Arizona. He sent us hundreds of well-thought out cartoons that would fit in with our articles, or stand by themselves, that always hit the nail on the head. Many thanks, Ron. He was still sending them even long after I resigned.

During this period of continuity, our circulation increased, our donations increased, and we were beginning to get some of our members from Milwaukee, Detroit, Baltimore and even Toronto, Canada, to come visit us for a week or so. We would invariably put them up in the bunk beds in the school. They would, of course, have to supply their own blankets and bedding, but it was a morale uplifting experience to get to visit with and know our racial supporters first hand. Some of these were eager and willing to quit whatever it was they were doing and come work with us at the center at almost any remuneration that would keep them alive.

One of these was a 20 year old fellow by the name of Allen W. Reynolds from the Atlanta area, East Point to be exact. He started helping Will with the correspondence, addressing labels in mailing out the paper, and Will was so impressed with his cooperation and willingness to work that he soon persuaded me to put him on our payroll at a mere $250 a month, starting the last week of April, 1989, then soon raised it to $300 a month. He seemed very much engrossed in our religious mission, and was eager to get the classes going for the School for Gifted Boys. I was also eager to get it going and had been trying to enlist candidates for the last several years, but we could never get enough boys together to make it worth while. A.W., as we called him, said he would make it his special project to get a class together. I said, fine, you take charge. This would entail putting together a teaching curriculum for two weeks, getting groceries and holding classes and keeping the school clean and in good shape. A.W. said he would take care of the whole thing. He himself was living at the school.

Well, he did draw up a fancy and detailed program for every day of the week, but by July 15, 1989, when the classes were to start, we only had three candidates, despite the fact that we had advertised widely in Racial Loyalty. None of the three paid for their required fee of $300 for the two week stay. There were, however, other members who did contribute donations to make up for these boys. We decided to go ahead with the program anyway and I went ahead and bought the groceries to get the program started. The three candidates were Mark Wilson, 20; Arno Michaelis, 18; both from Milwaukee, and Matt Hayhow, 22.

With A.W. Reynolds in charge of the teaching and instructing, the first week was a total flop. None of the three boys had the slightest respect for him nor did they care to listen to him, or take orders from him. Will Williams gave no support to the program, since he deemed it was A.W.'s idea and he and A.W. were by now bitter enemies. We should remember that it was initially Will who brought A.W. into the organization in the first place and had the highest of praise for his abilities and dedication. But as Cindy sadly warned me on their wedding day, Will's best friends invariably turn into his worst enemies, and the case of A.W. was no exception. However, with the help of Paul Wheeler, an older member from Andrews, North Carolina, they did have quite a lot of activity and fun going camping, doing some target practice with the guns they had brought along, doing some rappelling with ropes in some cave located in South Carolina, and some other outdoor activities.

However, that was not the kind of activity I had in mind when I planned the school for leadership training, interesting and beneficial as they might be for Forest Rangers or other occupations. They were here to be indoctrinated in Creativity and learn how to lead, teach and recruit other members of the White Race to join with us in spreading the ideology and the zeal of our religious teachings. So the second week I took over and we had regular classes in the main dining room of the school in which we selected certain key chapters in our Basic Books for study and discussion and assigned chapters for reading and preparation for the next day. These classes were well prepared and we covered a lot of ground. Instead of being the instructor to whom nobody paid any attention, Allen Reynolds now became the fourth pupil, and everybody paid strict attention.

Meanwhile, the situation between the two marrieds had not improved any. In fact, it had gotten intolerably worse. Although I never again received a phone call for help from Cindy after the lecture and warning I had given the two of them, and Will still slept on his separate cot downstairs to the very end, which by July of 1989 was drawing near. The fights had been continuing, although they did not drag me into them. In one fight, Will had kicked Cindy around with his hob-nailed army boots, and when she tried to protect her behind with her hand, he kicked her so hard he broke one of the metacarpus bones in her right hand. They had to go to a doctor and have the bone set and the whole hand and arm up to her elbow set in a cast. Since Cindy was our one and only typesetter, this put us in a dilemma as far as getting the paper out. However, with my wife Henrie helping type some of the time, and Will using his hunt-and-peck technique part of the time, and Cindy typing with one hand only the rest of the time, we did manage to get the paper out each month without fail, although her arm was in a cast for six weeks.

By the end of July, 1989, Cindy left, where to I know not. Will stayed on a little longer to get his affairs cleaned up (he still had his old Airstream trailer in the back of the church) and he promised to stay on until we had the present edition of Racial Loyalty put together. But he welshed on that promise and did next to nothing during August 1 and August 19, when he too left. I paid him $400 for that time period, although he contributed very little. I withheld half of that amount until such time as he had removed all his belongings from the premises. This he finally did about six weeks later and I paid him his last $200 and that was the end of both Will and Cindy and all their quasi-marital problems as far as the Church was concerned.

That still left us with Allen Reynolds, but he, too, was no typist.

Chapter Thirty-six

The White American

Rev. Victor Wolf

In October of 1986 we received a letter entitled A Report from California, signed "A White American," but no other name or identification attached. Enclosed with it was a nice $200 donation. The letter ended with the emphatic exhortation "White People Awake! Join the Creativity Movement! It is our only Salvation!" It was a phrase we were to hear from him many a time again. I was both pleased and also puzzled by the letter. Why didn't he sign his name if he was so enthused about the movement? We published the "Report" on page 7 of the November, 1986 Issue No. 37.

This was at the time we were having the troubles with Carl Messick's shooting case, and also problems with Bobbi and Don Johnson, and we did not publish Issue No. 38 of Racial Loyalty until February of 1987. In the meantime, we received another Report from California from The White American. This time the report took up all of page 5 (Issue No. 38) and it came in four separate envelopes, each containing a money order in the amount of $250, for a total of one thousand dollars. Each of the four copies of the report was identical, and the only reason I can think of why he sent it in four different envelopes was to make sure at least one of them would reach us.

We were still having problems getting our paper out and the next issue, No. 39 was not published until June of 1987. By this time we had received another report from The White American from California, which was duly published in the June issue and took up two pages. Again, it was sent in four separate letters, containing a total of $1000. By this time my curiosity was really aroused as to who this generous benefactor might be who would not reveal his identity. Was he old or was he young? Was he perhaps a multi-millionaire who did not wish to have his name publicized?

For the next year we did not publish a single issue of Racial Loyalty, although we did publish short Newsletters keeping our members informed, and we did publish and distribute three new books to add to our collection during this time, namely, RAHOWA! This Planet is All Ours (1987), The Klassen Letters, Vol. One (1987), and Vol. Two (1989). The hiatus (during the Johnsons' stay) was very disappointing to The White American (and many others) and although we kept up our correspondence, and The White American did keep sending in donations of from $200 to $1000 from time to time, the situation was not encouraging. It was not until May of 1989, when we enlisted the help of Will Williams and Lucinda that we were again in a position to put out Racial Loyalty on a regular basis. It was with the June, 1989 edition (No. 40), that we got the ball rolling again, much to the delight and relief of The White American and a host of other members. By July of 1989, The White American submitted a comprehensive article with a number of solid suggestions of how we could substantially "enhance" our paper and our program to be more dynamic and effective. We considered it so important we devoted most of the August paper (Issue No. 53) to the suggestions he submitted and expanded that issue into 16 pages.

In the next issue, No. 54, he again wrote the key article entitled The Great Promoter — Leadership and Communion, which had many excellent suggestions, and occupied 3-1/2 pages of the September issue. Both of these issues, Nos 53 and 54 are well worth re-reading at this time, if you still have these copies. It was also in this issue that he introduced a new feature article the right hand side of the front page in future editions of Racial Loyalty, and that is, to give a graphic picture and short account of murders perpetrated by [slur] on members of the White Race, especially on young White women. It was to become an effective and regular feature in our paper.

It was at this time, in early August, 1989, that The White American decided to reveal himself and decided to come visit us here at Headquarters. This he did during the first week of August, 1989. He also sent me a 16 page Resume of his life history, which is very interesting indeed.

He was born in Lithuania in 1955, which made him 34 years old at the time. His Lithuanian name is so complicated that not only can I not spell it, I can't even pronounce it. For the sake of brevity and the convenience of our organization he adopted the pseudonym of Victor Wolf, and as you know, we have been hearing a lot from, and about him, ever since. When he was 15 years old, he and his father, having suffered unmercifully at the hands of the tyrannical Communist regime in Lithuania, decided to flee the country, and against tremendous odds, were successful in doing so. After much time and overcoming many obstacles, they finally managed to work their way to California. Victor, being considerably more intelligent than the average, quickly learned the English language, pursued college, and earned a C.P.A. degree in accounting. I dare say that his command of the English language is now better than that of the average American, although he still has a very slight accent.

Furthermore, I learned he is no millionaire, but only a working accountant, and a very capable one at that. After reading the books of Creativity, he has dedicated and devoted his life to that of our own goals, namely the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race. He stands six foot, two, and is an outstanding and highly intelligent member of our organization, at an age when he is at the prime of life, and still has much more to contribute to our success.

In the next issue he again wrote a very important article for the benefit of our movement, called The Basis of our Organization, and shows that through the organization of Primary Groups, Secondary Groups, Units, Sections, and finally, Legions, we can build an organizational structure that the Jews cannot penetrate, nor can they ever stop the victory of our movement. Because of its primary importance we reproduce the article in its totality at the end of this chapter.

Since Will Williams had no typing abilities and had already made arrangements to leave, we were in dire need of a Hasta Primus who could type and put the paper together. When I presented our problem to Victor Wolf, he volunteered he would consider taking on the job, although he was tied into a profitable accounting partnership at present, and he would have to make some difficult decisions and arrangements in order to make the transfer. Besides, he had just recently purchased a $7000 Apple Macintosh computer of his own, which he would need here at headquarters in order to do the typesetting. After further discussion, he volunteered that after he had made arrangements for a leave of absence from his group back in California, he would work here for one year, for no remuneration, provided we bought and paid him for the computer he had just bought. This sounded like a more than fair proposition to me, and we came to an agreement on that basis. Furthermore, our old compugraphic was by now completely outdated and belonged to the dinosaur age.

As per agreement, I purchased the Apple Macintosh and laser printer for $7000 on September 15, 1989, and Reverend Victor (by now we had ordained him as a Minister of our Church) came back with his car and personal belongings as soon as he had all the details worked out back home. He did the typing for the September and October Issues (Nos. 54 and 55) of 1989, and I put the paper together. The first issue of Racial Loyalty that he put together himself was No. 56, the December, 1989 issue.

After a few months, by February of 1990, Rev. Victor found the changeover from a hectic urban life in the cities of California to the loneliness and isolation of the rural mountains of North Carolina more than he could stand, and he was having problems with the rebelliousness of Allen Reynolds, who was still with us. Painful as it was for all of us, he decided to quit and go back to California. Besides, his interest in the partnership back home was in jeopardy. He needed to have a change, so back he went, much to our loss. Since I had already paid for the Apple Macintosh computer, of course, we kept it, and it stayed with the church. When he got back to California, he bought another Macintosh, practically the same model, new.

After being back in California for about a month, and after much soul searching, he decided that what he had been doing at the church was of much greater importance than making bucks in the accounting business. He decided he would come back, but we would have to buy his new computer in the bargain. He would need the money, if he was to make the return, and even so it would be a considerable sacrifice on his part. We needed him and I agreed. We could use two computers anyway, since we were not only putting out the paper, but Victor had also started typesetting the text of my autobiography Against the Evil Tide on the other computer.

By the first of April, 1990, he was back, his new computer with him. We mutually signed a one year contract in which we agreed to pay him a fee of $1000 a month as well as buy his new computer at the full price of $8000. Not only did we do that, but I insisted that he now also carry the title of Editor, which he did, although reluctantly. So we were back in business again. We had missed the March, 1990 issue, but we got the April issue put together and out to our readers before the month was over. We had only missed one month in the hiatus. Starting with the April issue we put out one issue after another every month for the next twelve months.

There were some other notable contributions for which we should give the Rev. Victor credit. He considered that all our issues were of historical importance and none should be lost to posterity. It was his idea that they should be put together and bound in full portfolio size, by groups, starting with Issue No. 1. This was a rather expensive venture, and we considered putting the first twenty issues together in our first Portfolio One. I went to our book printers (Currahee Printing Co. in Toccoa, Ga.) and got a price quotation from them. The cost would be $16,000 for one thousand copies, rather an exorbitant amount. Finally, Rev. Victor was so enthusiastic about his idea that he volunteered to contribute $6000 of his own money to the project. I caved in and we went ahead with it, and the result was we did have it published, and we now had a complete record of the first twenty issues exactly the way they were printed, in one bound volume for all posterity. Most of these have been sold by now and are in the hands of our readers and members. However, since then, I have had the first 79 issues put on microfilm, and a number of copies made. So now we have at least the first 79 copies of Racial Loyalty permanently available for posterity, and any of our members can order a copy of the microfilm from Headquarters in Florida.

The other item that Rev. Victor conceived and felt was imperative that we should place in the hands of every one of our members was The Little White Book. I put him in charge of the project of putting it together, and although it did not contain much new material as such, (we were in strict agreement that the original creed and program should never be tampered with) he put together in brief and concentrated form the essence of our beliefs and our creed in a concise little booklet that every member could carry with him in his vest or coat pocket at all times and refer to it daily. On the first inside page is a pen and ink drawing of our first martyr killed in the line of duty. His name is Brian Kozel. He was only 19, and belonged to the Milwaukee group. He was shot dead by a dirty little greaser of a Mexican while Rev. Kozel was distributing our literature.

He died a hero's death and we have honored him by having a whole chapter dedicated to him later in this book.

Rev. Victor Wolf, Hasta Primus and Editor, did an excellent job of putting the booklet together, and we had thousands of them printed. They too, were an immediate success and are now in the hands of thousands of our White Racial Comrades.

We will now leave the story of The White American at this point (but come back to him at a later date) and give credit to another one of our notable members who has contributed greatly to the movement in a different form, namely, artist Ron Quinn. However, before we leave this chapter, here is the full text of the article in Racial Loyalty No. 55 on organizational procedure we mentioned earlier we would print at the end of the chapter.

The Basis of Organization

First Stage: Ideology

Thanks to the tremendous intellectual efforts of Pontifex Maximus, the first stage in establishing our religious movement has been successfully completed: the Ideology of our religion has been formulated and recorded in the three basic books, five supplementary books (good news: three more supplementary books by Pontifex Maximus are to be published shortly!) and numerous issues of Racial Loyalty. In order to fully appreciate the significance and magnitude of this achievement, we must remember that no other religion or ideology during the entire 6000 years of civilization came even close to Creativity as far as the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race is concerned.

Second Stage: Organization

However, even the best religion or ideology will remain ineffective without proper organization of its supporters and activists. Therefore, now upon completion of our Religious Creed and Ideology, we must enter the second stage in establishing our religious movement: we must create an effective Organization to achieve the goals of our Ideology.

New Type of Leadership

While leadership in the first stage of our development by its very nature belonged to philosophers/ideologues, the second stage in establishing our religious movement calls for a new type of leadership — Activists/Organizers. Also, while during the first stage of our development the main burden was carried at the headquarters almost single-handedly by Pontifex Maximus, the second stage shifts the burden and focus of our activities to legions of grassroot activists/organizers not only all over the U.S., but also in every White country of this Planet Earth.

Grassroot Expansion and Self-Renewal

At this point in history, the most important task and challenge facing our movement is the overwhelming need for rapid, aggressive, massive expansion of our activities and organization at the grassroot level among the frustrated masses of White people. The time has passed when our subscribers, supporters and members in the field could be passive beneficiaries of activities centered at the headquarters; in fact, the time has come to reverse the trend and make sure that the main activities of our movement are coming from the field to the headquarters, not the other way around. Also, we have to make sure that our movement becomes a self-sustaining, self-supporting, self-renewing mass movement, able to withstand any and all attacks by our racial enemies, including the possibility of destruction of our headquarters by the enemy forces.

What is to be Done?

In the following questions and answers we will outline the Organizational Framework for achieving our vital, overwhelming goals of Grassroot Expansion and Self-Renewal.

1. Where do we start?

Each Creator should start by becoming thoroughly familiar with The White Man's Bible, subscribing to the Racial Loyalty newspaper and supporting the COTC Headquarters with regular financial donations.

2. What is the second step?

Each Creator should introduce our ideas, leaflets, newspapers and books to as many of his relatives, friends and acquaintances as possible.

3. What is the third step?

Each Creator should find at least one other sympathetic White person and organize a COTC Primary Group.

4. What is a COTC Primary Group?

COTC Primary Group is the basic organizational cell of the Church of the Creator. It consists of a minimum of two persons, optimum five persons, maximum ten persons.

5. Why is five the suggested best (optimum) number of people within a COTC Primary Group?

The whole purpose of a Primary Group is to be a closely-knit team, based upon familiarity, trust and frequent interaction. Studies show that groups with more than five members tend to have less familiarity, trust and interaction. Also, a smaller group is much harder to penetrate for the enemy agents, which is a circumstance of great importance in case the Jewish Occupational Government tries to suppress our First Amendment rights and forces us to go underground.

6. Who can organize a COTC PG?

Every Creator has a right and a duty to organize a COTC Primary Group (or increase an existing COTC PG) by converting at least one White person to the White Racial Religion — Creativity.

7. Who selects a COTC PG leader?

Members of each COTC Primary Group select a leader among themselves.

8. What is the suggested way to resolve conflicts within a Primary Group?

Each member of a PG can leave it and form a new PG. Like all living cells, COTC Primary Groups have to grow, divide and multiply, yet remain within the same body — the Church of the Creator.

9. How do we organize different COTC Primary Groups?

Minimum two, optimum five, maximum ten COTC Primary Groups (PG) form a COTC Secondary Group (SG), which is directed by a Committee of PG leaders.

10. How do we organize different COTC Secondary Groups?

Minimum two, optimum five, maximum ten COTC Secondary Groups (SG) form a COTC Unit, which is directed by a Committee of SG Leaders.

11. How do we organize different COTC Units?

Minimum two, optimum five, maximum ten COTC Units form a COTC Section, which is directed by a Committee of Unit Leaders.

12. How do we organize different COTC Sections?

Minimum two, optimum five, maximum ten COTC Sections form a COTC Legion, which is directed by a Legion Leader, appointed by the Pontifex Maximus and reporting directly to the COTC Headquarters.

Ideology without action is sterile:

Propagandize! Proselytize! Organize!

13. Are we planning to create special purpose Primary Groups?

Yes, we can foresee a need for special defense COTC Primary Groups, whose members could be called White Guard/White Tigers/White Berets.

Seven Operations:
A Program of Action

In summary, I would like to restate the main goals and challenges facing our Movement.

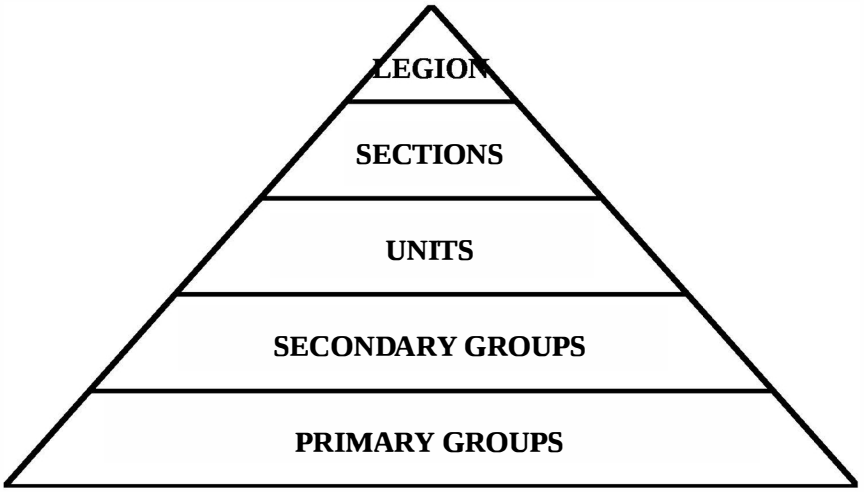
Now that the first (Ideological) stage of our Movement has been successfully completed, our main goal must be rapid, aggressive, massive expansion of the Creativity Movement through the concerted programs of The Seven Operations:

1. Operation "BiWeekly" — to increase the frequency (and volume!) of our message by turning Racial Loyalty into a biweekly publication. This I consider to be the matter of Top Priority No. 1: its success is a prerequisite for our success in all the other projects, we might even say that our expansion and our press will rise or fall together. To achieve this very important goal, we need more generous financial support from the activists in the field, because our present financial resources at the Headquarters do not permit us to increase our staff. Each Creator must feel a sacred duty to support the Headquarters of the Church of the Creator with regular and generous contributions.

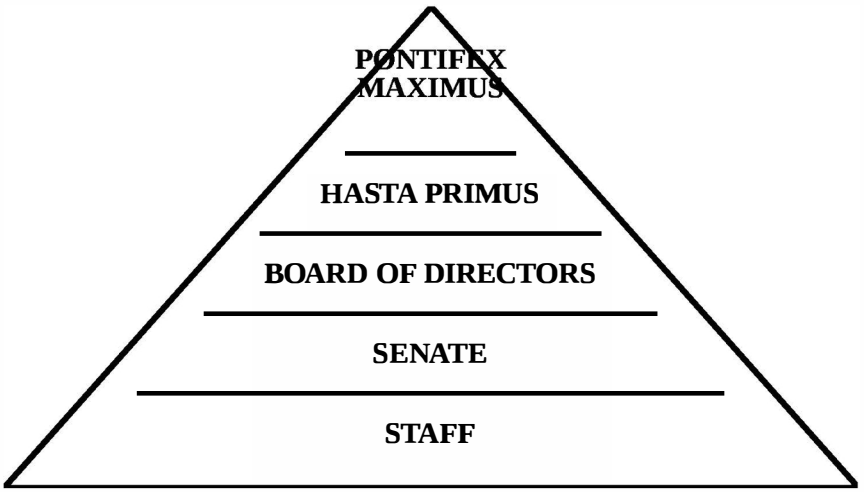
2. Operation "Primary Group" — During this new (Organizational) stage of our development, all Creators must become self-starting Activists/Organizers of COTC Primary Groups at the grassroot level all over the U.S. and in all White countries on this Planet Earth. Each Creator must feel a duty to organize/expand a COTC Primary Group which then will be organized in accordance with the Five Step Pyramid Principle into a COTC Secondary Group, then into a COTC Unit, then into a COTC Legion.

3. Operation "Strong Center" — to assure organizational continuity of a strong central leadership of the Church of the Creator by organizing the Church Headquarters in accordance with the Five-Step Pyramid Principle as follows: Pontifex Maximus, Hasta Primus, Board of Directors, Senate, Staff. Also, we should institute annual Membership Congresses and Activist Leadership Conferences, as well as expand our Youth Camp and School for Gifted Boys programs at the World Center.

COTC Legion:
The Five-Level Pyramid Organization



COTC Headquarters:
The Five-Level Pyramid Organization



4. Operation "Street Action" — organized into the Primary Groups or individually, we must start our Street Action — to frequently and systematically confront the broad masses of White people with our Presence and our Message through various Street Action methods and techniques, such as: leaflets, posters, banners, signs, bumper stickers, T-shirts, business cards, templates for spray-paint jobs on walls and sidewalks, displays on freeway overpasses, as well as marching, demonstrating and, let's not forget, driving around with displays on rented U-haul trucks. Of course, paid ads in various publications, such as Spotlight, should also be an integral part of our intensive expansion campaign. All of these expansion methods and techniques should consistently expound our Central Message:

White People Awake!
Save the White Race!

Subscribe to the pro-White newspaper:

Racial Loyalty
P.O. Box 400
Otto, NC 28763

In preparation for the Operation "Street Action" we must: (a) arm our Logo, Flag and Masthead with our rallying Sound Bite: White People Awake! Save the White Race!; (b) adopt the "White Hat"/"White Cap"/"White Beret" uniform; and (c) present the concentrated essence of our ideas in an easy-to-carry, pocket-size eclectic compendium — The Fundamentals of the Creativity Movement.

5. Operation "Skinhead" — to contact, attract and organize under the victorious flag of the one and only White Racial Religion — Creativity all White youth, especially Skinheads.

Above all we must appeal to the mighty army of our youth! — This advice of Adolf Hitler is still valid today. In order to appeal to our youth, we must take at least the following steps:

(a) create Racial Loyalty's youth section which could be entitled Skinhead — Young White Warrior;

(b) put all known Skinhead and White youth organizations and individuals on our mailing list;

(c) organize youth leadership seminars and youth camps;

(d) organize frequent and systematic Street Actions (leafletting, postering, wall and sidewalk slogan painting, etc.,) on college and high school campuses;

(e) provide moral and material help to jailed Skinheads and other young White activists.

6. Operation "White Ethnic" — to contact and attract into our ranks large numbers of White Ethnics, various culturally distinct European-Americans, by issuing direct appeals to them and organizing White Ethnic Sections of the Creativity Movement.

White Ethnic Sections could concentrate on: (a) spreading our word in their communities, (b) translating our works into their own languages, and (c) helping to spread our ideas in their "old countries" in Europe.

7. Operation "Global" — to organize active branches of the Creativity Movement in ALL White countries, especially in major European countries, South Africa, Canada and Australia.

Obviously, the success of our Operation "White Ethnic" could greatly facilitate (through translations and pre-established contacts) the spread of our ideas across the world and thereby help our Operation "Global."

Our Operation "Global" must devote particular attention to South Africa, because in the worldwide WHITE RACIAL HOLY WAR (RAHOWA) South Africa is one of the most crucial battlefields. The South African branch of the COTC must immediately adopt our Street Action program and start the rapid, aggressive, massive expansion in South Africa, where our rallying cry — White People Awake! Save the White Race! — is more urgent than anywhere else in the world.

Daily Affirmation of Our Principles

Each Creator must realize that his personal dedication and commitment to the Sacred Cause of the One and Only White Racial Religion is the key factor in winning the worldwide Racial Holy War and assuring the survival, expansion and advancement of our precious White Race. For increased dedication and commitment, let's read the sacred books of Creativity on a daily basis: they are the best books ever written in the 6000 years of White civilization.

Chapter Thirty-seven

Cartoonist Par Excellence

Some unexpected and unsolicited help came to us from a gentleman and artist residing in Tucson, Arizona. The number of cartoons he has contributed to us that we have used in Racial Loyalty and many of our books is enormous. Not only is the volume of the cartoons he has sent us astounding, but how this man has captured and skillfully portrayed the very heart of our ideas with a great deal of wit, wisdom and power is amazing.

Searching through the back issues of Racial Loyalty, the first cartoons we utilized from Rev. Ron Quinn is Issue No. 43, October 1988, while Will Williams was Hasta Primus. In it appeared not only three of Rev. Quinn's cartoons that were in support of specific articles, but we went all out and filled most of the back page with five more of his witty and hardhitting cartoons. We have been doing such ever since. It is amazing how quickly and accurately Rev. Ron captures any idea that is presented to him. If I had a specific idea in mind for an article, all I had to do was call him on the telephone and let him know what I wanted. He would have a clear grasp of it in a matter of minutes, and in a matter of a few days the right cartoons would be arriving in the mail, along with a few dozen other cartoons of his own invention. Really amazing!

Back in May of 1985, more than three years before he had heard of us, or we of him, I started to write a series of twelve articles in Racial Loyalty about Comparative Religions, followed by twenty-four articles on The Wildest Stories Ever Told. The last of this series ended in the July, 1990 issue. All of these stories would have been enhanced considerably if they had been accompanied by one or more cartoons. Unfortunately, it was only during the latter part of the series that we met up with Rev. Ron. However, later I put all thirty-six of these articles together in a book we later published. We called it A Revolution of Values Through Religion. Before doing so, I sent Rev. Ron all the back copies of Racial Loyalty and asked him to draw up specific cartoons for each article, which we would then use in the book to be published. This he accomplished in short order, and the book was published in 1991, and anyone having obtained a copy can appreciate the much added impact of the hard-hitting cartoons.

In January of 1989 Henrie and I took our annual winter trip to our apartment in Phoenix, Arizona, and during that trip I had the pleasure of meeting with Rev. Ron personally. I had calls from two different radio talk show hosts to appear on their programs. One was from Radio Station KNST in Tucson, and I thought I would take advantage of the drive to Tucson and meet with Ron Quinn. We made arrangements ahead of time and I asked him if he would care to accompany me to the studio of the radio talk show, sort of as my bodyguard. He said he would be delighted.

The show was called the Teresa Blythe talk show, and I was scheduled for 4 PM, Friday, January 27, 1989. I had been on another talk show in Phoenix the day before, which went very well, but evidently now that the Tucson station knew that I was highly controversial and against niggers and Jews, they switched hosts in order to really give me a bad time. So instead of the regular Teresa Blythe, I was to be confronted by a hostile hatchet man by the name of Harry Alexander. But more about that later.

Ron and I had made arrangements to have lunch together at Coco's Restaurant at 1 PM, and he gave me directions as to how to get there. I left the apartment in Phoenix at 11 AM, allowing myself two hours to get to Tucson, 117 miles south. When I got to Tucson I got my instructions hopelessly scrambled and spent the next hour or so running around trying to find Coco's Restaurant. After making another call to Ron's office for more instructions, we finally got together at the restaurant at 2 PM and had lunch. I had seen a picture of Ron before (on his membership application) in which he had a large white goatee, but apparently he now had it shaved off. I found him affable, that he was 55, single, and had a girl friend. He was quite interested in Arizona archaeology and mineralogy and made a number of field trips when the weather was amicable.

After a small lunch and a big desert we left for the KNST studio at about 3:40 PM, somewhat later than we should have. I followed his car and we arrived at the studio at exactly 4 PM, where I met Sandi Gregory, the producer, first of all. She was pleasant and accommodating and introduced me to Harry Alexander, who was to be the substitute host for Teresa Blythe.

My first impression of Harry Alexander was that he was snobbish, hostile, a liberal, and probably a Jew, although of light complexion. When I asked him what his ethnic background was he curtly informed me that it was not pertinent to the issue at hand. It took me no time at all to realize that he had been subbed for Teresa Blythe to undo the good promotion I had done in Phoenix the day before and to attack me, to disparage, malign and vilify me and in every way he could, to cut me down as much as possible. He had a whole gang of stooges lined up in his listening audience to help him do his smear job. Knowing all this, I was going to do as much for him and we went to it. One listener even called in with the thinly veiled threat that he would hate to be in my shoes when I walked out of that studio to the parking lot. So we went at it for an hour, with commercials thrown in every now and then. We had it going hot and heavy, and he asked me to stay a second hour. I said, no thanks, I didn't come here to be insulted by a hostile host, and Ron and I left.

As we walked to the parking lot next to the studio, the management assigned three armed guards with guns and walkie-talkies to escort us back to our cars, and we drove off.

Since I didn't know my way around Tucson, I followed Ron's car until we got to I-10, and we waved good-by to each other, and I was back on my way to Phoenix. It had been an interesting afternoon.

Since that time we have received hundreds of cartoons from Rev. Ron, and his contribution to our propaganda war has been prodigious. Many thanks, Ron. I hope the new management in Florida will make as valuable use of your talents as we have found them to be to us.

Chapter Thirty-eight

Brian Kozel

Our Martyred Hero

of our fallen comrade,

In memory of our fallen comrade,
Brian Kozel (1971-1990)

Brian Kozel, 18, a White Racial Loyalist — Creator — White Beret was killed by a group of Mexican muds on September 15, 1990, in Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

According to the newspaper reports and letters from the COTC activists in Milwaukee, Brian and several other White Berets were walking to a friend's house in Milwaukee when a carload of spics drove up to them shouting anti-White obscenities. The spics exited their car and started a fight. Brian and his friends bravely fought them off until the Mexican cowards ran back to their car. Thinking the fight was over, Brian and other White Berets turned and continued walking down the street with the pride of victory. However, the muds, having no honor to accept the obvious defeat, perfidiously pulled their guns and started shooting at the backs of the victorious Whites. Brian was shot in the back, through the heart, and died almost instantly.

The murder of the young pro-White activist was a tremendous loss and a painful tragedy which naturally calls for vengeance. However, the best way to avenge Brian Kozel's death is to make sure that the entire anti-White JOG System, which allows spics to come into this country and terrorize Whites, is totally, completely and irrevocably destroyed through a Racial Holy War under the victorious flag of the one and only, true and revolutionary White Racial Religion — Creativity.

White People Awake!
Save the White Race!

Join the Creativity Movement and hasten the day when all enemies of the White Race — niggers, muds and Jews — will be shipped out of this country.

Chapter Thirty-nine

Trip West, Jan. 4 to Feb. 5, 1989

New Orleans, The Alamo, San Jacinto, Phoenix, Talk Shows and Cousins

On this far-ranging trip that Henrie and I took we covered a lot of territory, more than I care to recapitulate in this chapter. I will therefore try to stick to some of the more important events and people we met with and leave out the rest of the detail.

Henrie and I left the house at 11 AM on Wednesday, January 4, 1989, with our Pontiac station wagon loaded to the gills, including a new Radio Shack computer, a Tandy DWP230 printer, a heavy computer table (the kind you have to assemble yourself) and a special chair (from Sears) to go with it, all of which I had just bought to take along on this trip to our apartment in Arizona. I stopped briefly at the church to pick up four Phoenix addresses from Will.

We headed for Atlanta and stopped off at our favorite Red Lobster Restaurant for lunch. Then taking the Beltway we exited on I-20 and headed west.

New Orleans, Jan. 5 and 6. Ever since I had started the Church of the Creator in 1973, I had been searching not only for the Great Promoter, but also for a multi-millionaire angel who would have the dedication and the guts to finance our movement. I thought, surely, there must be thousands of such people in the land who would be more concerned about saving the White Race and civilization than about hoarding their Jewish Federal Reserve Notes. If I, who was no millionaire, was willing to spend the major portion of my assets for such a great and noble cause, then there surely must be tens of thousands, hundreds of thousands, who had more money than I, who would be willing to do the same. One such prospective angel I had in mind was a 50 year old bachelor in New Orleans by the prestigious name of Prescott Rathborne, a good old Southern name.

I had never met Prescott, but evidently he was intensely interested in our movement, since he had driven up several months ago and visited our church and stayed with Will Williams for a period of four days, discussing plans for our movement. He came from an old Southern family, and was heir to a large fortune that had been accumulated by his grandfather. It was held in trust for the heirs, of which he had an eighth share. Unfortunately, I was away on some trip at the time of his visit, but I would make sure I would get together with him as soon as possible. Surely, he was one of those White Angels I had been looking for.

Before we took this trip, I had contacted Prescott in advance and told him we were coming, and he invited us to stay at his layout, which was in the middle of the city. Driving west on I-10, we arrived in New Orleans at 4 PM, and decided we should stay at a motel instead, where Henrie could get more rest. Looking for a motel on I-10, the territory looked pretty black, bleak and desolate, but finally we saw a Holiday Inn, and, we thought, that such a motel would be well run by White people and relatively safe. So we pulled in, and checked into Room 617 on the sixth floor. I immediately called Prescott at his office and told him of our move, nevertheless thanking him for his offer. Prescott was highly alarmed. He said we were in the middle of a nigger district and if we stayed there we would surely be robbed and mugged before morning.

He was coming over immediately to get us the hell out of there. By this time we, too, were alarmed and since I had my computer and other valuables in the wagon, I went down to the lobby and kept my eye on our car. Sure enough, there already were three or four niggers congregated and loitering next to our car, eyeing its contents. In about 20 minutes Prescott arrived in the lobby, and although we had never met before, we immediately recognized each other and wasted no time in introductions. Somehow he had obtained a deputy police badge, which he carried with him at all times. He walked up to the darkie female clerk at the counter and flashed his badge and said we were moving out immediately, and to rescind and return the Visa slip I had signed. She did so without protest, and we hauled all our baggage back from the sixth floor into our station wagon. Away we went, following Prescott in his black Lincoln Continental to his abode.

The whole town looked like a slum to me, including the area where Prescott lived. His domicile was a helter-skelter place spread over two lots, but to get into the place at all you had to pass through one of two overhead garage doors, both of which faced and were next to the sidewalk and were electrically operated. They were part of a continuous high wall that extended all along the street, and actually the rambling house, which was very old, was built in such a way that the wall was part of it. The house had evidently been built and rebuilt and added on to from time to time, depending on whoever owned it over the last two centuries. There was a small courtyard and a swimming pool in the middle of the buildings. He even cultivated a small garden, and was very much into fruit juices and Salubrious Living. Our car and belongings safely behind the high wall, he showed us to our quarters, which was actually his own bedroom. He offered us some beet juice, which I (alone) took with a shot of bourbon. He then showed us around the house.

While Henrie rested, Prescott and I sat down by his pool in the inner court, he with some fruit juice in his hand and I with a glass of Jack Daniels he had poured. We discussed our various positions. After an hour and a half we decided to go out to dinner. Henrie decided to stay in the room and eat an orange or two. We got into his black Lincoln and as he backed out onto Barracks Street, the bottom of the Lincoln scraped the pavement (deep gutter).

We went downtown to where all the tall skyscrapers were located and had a sumptuous dinner at the Intercontinental Restaurant in the hotel of the same name. Despite my avowed determination not to get into a discussion of our creed and program, he persistently kept drifting towards that subject, and wanted to inject his differences, whatever they were. However, I assiduously avoided any confrontation. I should add that Prescott was a very spoiled, opinionated and stubborn man, who never had to work for a living, and as such assumed that his opinions were unassailable.

He paid the bill and paid the mulatto parking attendant a $10 tip. He said this was to make sure that his car wasn't broken into and the attendant himself didn't steal anything.

When we got back to his house, he again showed us around, and especially pointed out all the important books he had, which included most of mine. The books focused on race, religion, philosophy, history, and a variety of other subjects, including many on healthful living. Finally, at 12 midnight, Henrie and I got into our king sized bed, very tired.

Friday, Jan. 6. Without any breakfast, at about 9 AM Prescott and I got into his black Continental and drove to his downtown office. His office was on the 25th floor of the second tallest building in New Orleans. He turned his car over to a mulatto attendant to have it washed, which he said would take about an hour and a half. Prescott showed me through his offices, which consisted of several interconnecting rooms, as rambling as was his house. They were full of piles of paper, maps on the walls, maps of Louisiana, of New Orleans, of his estates' properties and a massive collection of other information. He also had a whole room devoted to his library, a large collection of books (including mine) bearing on Jews, niggers, race and religion, and all kinds of tracts and booklets. One strange thing about his office was that with all those rooms and all that space, there were no secretaries or other employees around. I wondered why he needed all that expensive office space in the most expensive area in the city.

He explained to me all the properties the Rathborne Estate owned, all of which was built and acquired by his grandfather. He also told me what a bunch of bastards his present family was, especially his brother. Prescott said that he had been left one-eighth of the estate, but he had no control over how it was managed. He was at present litigating to have his eighth separated from the estate, since so far at the age of 50, he had no control over the workings of the business, and he said he was being robbed blind.

However, despite the fact that I assiduously wanted to avoid arguing with him about our creed, he kept pushing me about the issue that we should use the word species instead of race, and we should change our books and literature accordingly. At first I thought it was a silly and insignificant issue, but he kept pushing and pushing, and finally I had enough. We were sitting across the table from each other in one of his offices, and I leaned over and in effect, I said to him, listen, Prescott, the Church of the Creator is not for sale. I don't care how much money you have, or don't have. The creed and program as laid down in our books is inviolable at any price. Whether you offered me ten million dollars, or one hundred million dollars, I wouldn't change one word of it. I don't need your money. The creed and program remains fixed as if it were carved in granite. If you want to help promote it, I welcome your help. If you want to tamper with it, adulterate it, and control it, you are wasting your time. I repeat, the Church creed is not for sale at any price. There was considerable further argument, but not to the point of nastiness. Finally he said "you win," and that was the end of it.

At 12 noon Prescott's house boy said the car was washed, and Prescott told him to take me back to his house in it, to help us pack, and to show us back to the ramp in order to get back on I-10. Henrie and I were relieved to get going again.

However, that was not the end of our relationship. He has made some donations since, and even been back to visit me at the church.

San Jacinto, Sunday, January 8. From New Orleans we drove west on I-10 to Beaumont, Texas and checked in at the Best Western Beaumont Inn. The next morning (Sunday) we drove west to Battleground Road (Texas 134) trying to get to the San Jacinto Monument. Due to road construction, we found that the ferry needed to cross the canal was out of commission, and we had to backtrack, go west to the East Belt Road and come in from the south.

I took several pictures of the monument (which is 15 feet higher than the George Washington Monument), then Henrie and I went inside the museum and also the novelty store. I bought a large poster picture of Sam Houston ($30) and Henrie bought a Texas Cook Book. I especially wanted the Sam Houston poster so that Ron McVan could reproduce an oil painting of him to hang in our sanctuary at the church. This, in fact, he did do later. We toured the Battlefield grounds where Houston defeated the Mexican army and captured Santa Anna in 1836, and thereby won Texas independence from the Mexicans.

From San Jacinto we headed for the Alamo.

The Alamo and Bracketville. The whole family, including Kim and our dog Tammy had visited the Alamo in the summer of 1965. If you have read my autobiography Against the Evil Tide, you will perhaps remember me telling about it, and how hot it was and how Tammy tip-toed as she walked on the hot pavement. Well, now it was 1989, 24 years later, and Kim and Tammy were not with us, but Henrie and I wanted to revisit the Alamo again. Poor Tammy had died 17 years ago, and Kim was now a married woman and raising a family. This time it was not in the heat of July, but on a cold day in January. A lot had happened in the meantime.

We arrived in San Antonio at 4:30 PM, January 7, and checked in at the Comfort Inn, just west of town. Next morning we had breakfast at Hailey's Pig Stand Restaurant, then checked out of the motel at 10 AM and drove to the center of San Antonio to visit the Alamo. Somehow, it did look a lot different than it did 24 years ago, but why I do not know. I had also wanted Ron McVan to paint a picture of William B. Travis, the hero of the Alamo, for our collection at the church, so I bought a postcard picture of him and also a book on Travis that contained his picture. We wanted to go to the I-Max Theatre and also the Tower Restaurant nearby. However, the I-Max didn't open until 12 noon, and the weather was real stormy and beastly cold, so we decided to drive on.

One of the other historic sites I had wanted to visit for some time was John Wayne's Alamo Village, the set where the movie was filmed. It is located seven miles out of Bracketville, a little place in the wilds of the southwestern Texas desert, and considerably out of our way. But we headed for it anyway, just to see how the set compared with the original. When we got there we found a fellow dressed as a frontiersman, cooking some coffee over an open fire, his dog beside him. Also the gift store was open, and an Indian holding down an Indian store (what else?) Otherwise, the place was abandoned, no customers, and this was on a Sunday. We saw about everything there was to see, took a few pictures and drove on west on I-10 to Ozona, Texas, and checked in at the Circle Bar Motel at about 7:30 PM. We had a steak dinner at their steak house next to the motel, and called it a day.

Arrival at the Maryland Lakes Apartment

January 10, 1989. After leaving the American Motel at Lordsburg, New Mexico at 9 AM, we headed west on I-10 and stopped at Denny's Restaurant in Tucson for lunch. Then, heading north, we arrived at our Phoenix apartment at 2:30 PM, Tuesday. After checking out the apartment and finding everything in good order, we started unloading a wagon load of goods, except for the computer, and all the pieces that went with it. We then drove to Fry's supermarket and loaded up with $101.70 worth of groceries.

While at the market, I made three phone calls from the pay phone. One was to the telephone company to have a phone installed in our apartment. They promised us they would have it in by the 17th. The second call was to Allen Tanner of Republic Cable Co. to have our TV set connected to their cable system. Allen, with whom I had dealt before, was not there, but his wife took the message. Much to my surprise, Allen was over at 7:30 that very night and in no time at all had us hooked up to their cable system. The third call was to the Arizona Republic newspaper to start delivery of their paper. They promised delivery by Thursday morning, and deliver they did.

After fixing myself a good breakfast (Henrie was sleeping in) I started unloading all the computer equipment. Since the computer table (disassembled and in a carton) was too heavy for me to carry up the stairs, I opened the carton and carried it up piecemeal. I spent all of the forenoon assembling the table and the Sears swivel chair. In the afternoon I unpacked the three units of the computer assemblage. Then I drove over to Radio Shack on Glendale Blvd. to get information and instructions as to how to connect it all. A fellow by the name of Mitch spent some time with me demonstrating on similar equipment. I bought a nine foot extension cord with three outlets and some ground wire. When I got back, I somehow got it all together and working.

By the 19th, we finally got our telephone hooked up. I called Will Williams at Headquarters to check out how everything was going back home. We had a letter from Radio Station KFYI inviting me to appear on the Barry Young talk show. Also, I got the telephone numbers of Larry Pierce, Ken Schwarz and Myron K. Harshman, all of whom live in the Phoenix area. I called each of these, our members, and arranged to have a meeting at my apartment on Sunday, Jan. 29.

Thursday, January 26. The Barry Young Show. I had called back and made arrangements to appear on his radio talk show on KFYI. I got up real early, 4:30 AM, shaved and showered, had breakfast, and left for the studio at 631 No. 1st Ave. After having some problems finding the place, I arrived there at 6:30, half an hour early.

The show started at 7 AM, and went fairly well, and Barry Young proved to be a congenial and cooperative but very sharp host. All of the first hour was spent in conversation between Barry and myself. He probed into just who and what was the "White Race," about our belief or disbelief in God, focused in on a chapter in the White Man's Bible (of which he had a copy in his hands) on Who Needs Niggers?, but he was not particularly hostile. In fact, he seemed delighted that here in Creativity he had a completely different ball game from the regular Klan and other White racist interviews he had been through previously. I injected our Otto, North Carolina address twice during the show.

During the second hour he opened up the telephone lines for listeners to call in. The majority of the calls were hostile, but some were not, and some were outright comical. One young man called in and said that some city in which he and his family had previously domiciled, they had lived in a real nice clean White neighborhood. Then the NAHA's had moved in and today it was a crime ridden slum. What is a NAHA, Barry asked. The caller said, I don't think you really would want to know. Barry said, yes I do. What is a NAHA? Well, the young man replied, that was our term for North American Hairless Apes. Another man called in and said he was a Christian minister and headed a certain denomination with a considerable membership. He berated Barry for even letting such a man as me on his show and called me a white nigger. This really got Barry's dander up. Barry lowered the boom on him and called him the worst of bigots and hypocrites. He said, look, here we are having an intelligent intellectual discussion on a unique new philosophy, and you butt in and tell me whom I can or cannot have on my show. Talk about bigotry! Now that we know who and what you are, get the hell off the line!

I thought the show went very well, and I got most of my points across in the face of a hostile audience and twice mentioned our address where they could reach us in Otto. I received a taped copy of the show, which I don't have anymore, but I believe copies can still be obtained from the Florida Headquarters. When I was ready to leave, Barry said he would like to have me on again any time I was in town. I left him with copies of four of my books. I asked him if there might be any hostile niggers out there waiting for me on the parking lot. We went into the next room where we could view both the front door on the street and also the parking lot on a screen. The coast seemed clear and I walked to my car and left.

Friday, January 27, Tucson. This is the day I had my first meeting with Rev. Ron Quinn and was on the Teresa Blythe talk show in Tucson. Since I have already described these events in a previous chapter, there is no need to repeat.

Cousins. In the morning, when I came back from the post office, my niece Ruby was on the phone, talking to Henrie. She and her husband Bill (Sawatsky) were in town, on their way back to Saskatchewan. They had just been to Mexico, and had visited, among other sites, the little whistle stop of Rosario, where my family and I lived for a year and a half when I was six and seven years old. (1924-25) Two of my cousins, she said, were also in town, namely Edith Klassen and her husband Lorne Klassen (no blood relationship), and Jack Klassen, also my cousin, and his wife Ann. I got on the phone and we arranged to have all of us get together the coming Monday. By this time it was urgent for me to start leaving for Tucson.

Sunday, January 29, 1989. Meeting with my Phoenix members. Larry Pierce came early at 2:30. He drove a taxi and had a live-in girl friend. Ken Schwarz came next and immediately asked for a glass of water. I wondered if he was on drugs. Myron K. Harshman came last. He was eighty years old and had been with me for at least 15 years. He brought me two books (a) The Arizona Project, about the criminal element in Arizona during 1976, when a reporter was murdered for knowing and telling too much, and (b) The Hitler Century by Leon Degrelle. He said he had a 1973 Kennedy issue of a $5 bill he would bring me. In the meeting with the above three I tried to impress upon them that (a) they should recruit and organize and hold regular meetings, and (b) they should contact the skinheads and get our literature to them. The meeting lasted until 5:30, but nothing much was accomplished.

Monday, January 30. First thing, at 9 AM, Myron Harshman did indeed bring me a Kennedy $5 bill. Then, at 11:15 the relatives arrived at our apartment, all six of them in one car. Ruby, my niece, was my brother Henry's oldest daughter, now 55, and married to Bill Sawatsky, also a Mennonite. He farmed 1500 acres near Herschel. Jack Klassen was my Uncle Abe's oldest son. He was about two years younger than I, and was suffering from heart ailments. His wife Ann was with him. Edith Klassen, Jack's sister, was married to Lorne Klassen, no blood relationship. He farmed 1800 acres. Edith had had a serious operation on her mouth and cheek because of cancer that left her face slightly disfigured. Much had happened since I had last seen them. In fact, I hadn't seen Jack for 40 years, and I had never before met Lorne nor Ann. During that time many of our large and scattered family had died, but Uncle Abe, Jack and Edith's dad, was still going strong at the age of 93.

At 1 PM we all drove over to Denny's Restaurant at 43rd Ave. and Glendale Blvd., and had lunch. We visited at the apartment for another two hours, took several pictures of our group on the deck of our apartment, then said our goodbyes and disbanded.

Leaving. Wednesday, February 1. Disconnected the cable unit and took it back to Republic Cable. Disconnected all appliances and the main switch. With our station wagon loaded, we left the apartment at 12:40 PM. We stopped for lunch at Denny's in Tucson at 2:45 and drove west on I-10, headed for home.

When we reached Abilene, Texas, we stayed at the Colonial Inn. The weather was becoming miserably cold. A sleet and ice storm was underway and growing in intensity, blanketing the roads and the countryside with a layer of ice overnight. When we left at 8:10 on Friday morning, Feb. 3, on I-20, it became increasingly worse, and traffic was reduced to a slow crawl of between 15 and 20 miles an hour. Numerous wrecked trucks littered the roadside, as well as a number of cars. As slowly and carefully as I tried to drive, we ourselves skidded off the road at one point into a grassy ditch and narrowly missed a road sign. We drove gingerly through Ft. Worth and at 12:30 PM we pulled into Denny's Restaurant just inside the borders of Grand Prairie. After a good lunch, we decided we had had it, that it was too dangerous to be on the road and we checked into the La Quinta Motel next to Denny's and called it a day. We had driven 171 miles.

After checking the weather reports, it seemed to be clearing and at 10 AM we tried our luck again, with Henrie being extremely apprehensive. As we carefully drove along, both the road and the weather improved and at Longview, Texas, we stopped at the Red Lobster and had a good lunch.

From there on out we had no more problems and we continued all the way home, arriving at Clayton, Georgia at 5:45 PM on Sunday, February 5. We loaded up with groceries and in another 20 minutes we were back at our home sweet home. We drove 506 miles for the day, and 5079 for the entire trip.

Chapter Forty

DeWest Hooker, Washington, D.C.

As everyone who has read my books knows, that from the very beginning I realized that there were two special individuals that our movement needed and were of monumental importance in its future success. One was the Great Promoter, and the second was a dedicated Financial Angel, with unlimited financial resources that could bankroll the movement for whatever our needs were. An example of the first would be a personality in the caliber of an Adolf Hitler; and an example of the second could be someone like Henry Ford, or Sam Walton, or Ross Perot, or any one of a dozen other White millionaires or billionaires. With our comprehensive, dynamic and hard-hitting religion now in place and exposing both the sinister Jewish conspiracy and the Jew-spawned Christian fraud, victory for the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race would be assured for all time. I am certain that hundreds of such White people exist, even today, and it is our duty to find them and enlist them into our cause. I have spent the last twenty years looking for one, or both, so far without success.

Anyway, back in 1988, Will Williams, who was then Hasta Primus at our church headquarters, pointed out to me that George Lincoln Rockwell in the introduction to his book, This Time the World, made a statement to the effect that everything that he knew about the Jews he had learned from DeWest Hooker. To quote Rockwell exactly, "DeWest Hooker, who taught me to know the cunning and evil ways of the enemy." Will further informed that DeWest Hooker was a very wealthy man, that he was still very much alive, and that at present domiciled in Washington, D.C. We both came to the conclusion that it might well be worth our while to make contact with this man and that I check him out.

No sooner said than done. I obtained his telephone number from information and gave him a call. He recognized my name immediately and said he had high praise for my writings, that I was a famous man. I denied that I was famous, but nevertheless, thank you for the compliment and that I felt highly flattered that he thought so. In any case, I suggested it would be constructive for us to get together and see what could be done. I volunteered that I would be glad to come and visit him while he was in Washington. (He also had a villa in Italy, where his wife and family resided.) He said he would be glad to see me, and would make reservations for me at a certain hotel. This he did, and when he called back at the church number, I was not there, and Will answered the phone. Will understood that DeWest had made reservations at the Normandie Hotel for August 20. I made immediate preparations to make the trip to Washington and left the house at 9:30 on August 20, 1988. After driving 560 miles, I reached Washington at 7:10 PM. Will had evidently misunderstood and given me a bum steer about the name of the hotel. There was no Normandie Hotel. After much time wasted in cruising around and making inquiries, I finally drove to DeWest Hooker's apartment building at 2141 "I" Street and called him by phone from the downstairs lobby desk. He was quite cheerful I had arrived, and said that although he was in his pyjamas, and had a girl friend in his apartment, to come on up anyway. Of course, I declined, but I got the name of the hotel straight. It was the Lombardy Hotel, not Normandy. He invited me to have dinner with him later, at 8:30, and I accepted.

DeWest called at my hotel at 8:30, as agreed, and we walked across the street to the Wollensky Restaurant on Pennsylvania Ave. However, it was so noisy, what with a band playing, we decided it was not a suitable place to carry on an intelligent conversation. We walked over to the Devon Cafe, only a few blocks away. It was high class, quiet, and we had an excellent dinner. I had Lobster Newburg, and he had Filet Mignon. We also had an excellent and informative exchange that lasted until 12:30, when the waiters hinted they were ready to close the place.

DeWest was an interesting and unusually attractive man. Although he was of the same age as I, (we were both 70 at that time) he still had that youthful look and figure, tall and straight. In fact, in his younger years he had been a professional model at one time, had even played bit parts in movies, but mainly he had also engaged in several successful business ventures. He was married (twice) and had six grown children, some of whom lived in his villa in Italy, where his wife resided. Why he was in Washington at this time, I never really did find out, except that he was trying to put together some "business deals." Why anyone would spend all that time in Washington, living in a cramped two-room "efficiency apartment" when they had a family and a villa in Italy, remained a mystery to me.

At 12:30 our conversation broke up and I made arrangements with DeWest to meet with him again the next day. Before leaving, I gave him a copy of a lead article I had just written for the September (1988) issue of Racial Loyalty, entitled Survival, Expansion, and Advancement, Part One, and asked him if he would take the time to read it before we met again tomorrow. Having had a long day I went straight to my room at the Lombardy. To my disgust, the air conditioning didn't work. I called the desk and the night clerk came up and fiddled around with it for a while, but he couldn't get it to work either. Finally he moved me from the fourth floor to room 1203 on the second floor, a two room suite. I finally got to bed at 1:30 AM.

Sunday, August 21. Had breakfast at the Lombardy Restaurant, part of the hotel set-up. I soon found out the hotel was run by a bunch of Hindus. After reading the Washington Post, I called Miss Pauline Mackey to have lunch with her. She was an elderly lady, but quite active in the racial movement. She was a subscriber to Racial Loyalty, and had been for some years. I had had correspondence with her before and told her I was going to look her up in Washington before I left North Carolina. I drove to Miss Mackey's place at 2214 Observatory Place in my car, a distance of about five miles from my hotel, and along the way observed a good chunk of a decaying Washington. I arrived at 1 PM, right on schedule, and found a large old house that seemed to be coming apart at the seams. Her living room was strewn with papers of every description, as was every chair, table and sofa, with hardly a place to sit down. She was an elderly, fragile lady, well versed in the racial movement and was very glad to see me. We talked for about two hours, but since some air conditioning people were working on her house, we never did get around to lunch. She had read much of my material and was very supportive, but she said she still needed her "little Jesus." There were some young Nazi boys wandering about the house. I left her a complete set of my books and a number of copies of Racial Loyalty. She invited me to stay over at her other house (about ten miles out) should I be coming to Washington again.

After I got back to the hotel, at about 3:30 I tried to call DeWest several times, but I could not reach him. Later I found out he was playing tennis with his girl friend.

At about 6:30 DeWest returned my call, and we made an appointment to have dinner together again at 7:30. However, he got a long distance call from Saudi Arabia and talked on the phone for about 45 minutes, he said. So we finally got together at 8:30 and walked across the street to Wollensky's Restaurant in the basement. This time there was no orchestra, and it was relatively quite.

I was particularly interested in how he got together with George Lincoln Rockwell, and what he told me was rather revealing. It seems that back in the 1950's DeWest was on rather intimate terms with Arnold Forster, a head honcho of the ADL, and who for many years served as general counsel for that sinister and subversive organization. Forster, as I remember, was at that time a very vocal and the most visible and aggressive head of the Jewish ADL, and remained such for many years. According to DeWest, he and Forster were in close communication and on a first name basis, but in an adversary sense. The Jews wanted to whip up more fervent support for the ADL among their own, and in order to do so Forster had an idea. They would print and distribute half a million Nazi flyers in Miami Beach, which would scare the hell out of the rank and file Jews and get them to cough up more shekels for the support of the ADL. But they wanted some goyim to head up this project and do the distributing and dirty work, although they, the Jews, would get the flyers printed and pay all the expenses. Forster approached DeWest Hooker and asked him if he would do the job. DeWest told him no, but he knew a young man out of the Navy that would be glad to take it on and take advantage of the opportunity to spread such Nazi propaganda. His name was Commander George Lincoln Rockwell. DeWest contacted Rockwell, and sure enough, he was ready, willing and eager to do the job just the way the Jews planned it. And sure enough, it achieved the very results the ADL had anticipated. It stirred the Jews up into a frenzy, and the money started rolling into the ADL coffers by the bushel. And that was how the American Nazi Party got its start and continued to function.

All of which brought up the question in my mind: was the American Nazi Party the genuine article, or was it a vehicle created by the Jews, an invention of theirs to keep the rank and file Jew stirred up and active in their cause? Of one thing we can be certain: the activities of the Nazi Party brought in a thousand fold more money to the Jewish cause than it did to the cause of the White Race, and became, and remains to this day, the best propaganda ploy the Jews have in their arsenal to keep alive their Holocaust lie and their eternal war against the White Race.

There were some more strange things I found out about DeWest Hooker. We continued our conversation at the Wollensky Restaurant until midnight until again the waiters informed us that they were ready to close shop. We left to resume our conversation at my hotel, but inadvertently meandered across the street and found ourselves in front of Hooker's apartment, and since we were there, he invited me to come up.

It was a small, cramped two-room "efficiency apartment," and like Miss Mackey's place, it too, was strewn with papers. He finally read the rest of my article on "Survival" I had given him the day before, and I believe he was kind of shocked by it. He thought we should keep it secret and not let the Jew and the niggers see it. I told him we were publishing it in the September (1988) issue of Racial Loyalty, and there was no way in the world we could keep it secret, and I couldn't care less if the enemy knew what we intended to do.

He showed me pictures of the homes they had lived in when he was growing up, pictures of his house in Italy, pictures of his first wife, of his second wife, of his six children, and pictures of himself when he was modeling for agencies back in the 40's and 50's. His approach seemed to be that we should be kind to the niggers and the Arabs, and collaborate with them (especially with Louis T. Farrakhan, with whom he was also in close contact) and against the Jews. There were some more shockers. The girl friend that he was sleeping with in his apartment was not only Jewish, but also a member of the ADL. He explained that he was using her, pumping her for information as to what the Jews were up to, but as to who was pumping whom most successfully was not too hard to guess.

I told him frankly that my mission in coming to see him was to find a White Angel to help finance our movement, the first real racial religion the White Race had ever had in its six thousand year history, and I wondered what help he could give us. Well, he said, he was all for us, and he was working on a deal with the Arabs to contract and to ship 25,000 barrels of oil a day to Israel, and if successful he would be getting a commission of a dollar on each barrel. When successful, he would supply our church with ample funding, because he was convinced that we had the right and only answer — it was their racial religion that had brought the Jews to the position where they now had control of the world, and we could not only do the same, but we could do it better.

By this time it was getting to be 1:30 in the morning and his telephone rang. From what I could gather from his part of the conversation, it was his Jewish girl friend wanting to know whether I had left yet, so she could come over and crawl into bed with him and he could pump her for more information. Although I pretended to not have heard anything, I got the message, said goodbye, it was getting late, and shortly thereafter left for my own hotel.

Next morning I had breakfast at the Lombardy Restaurant and checked out of the hotel. On driving home, I had a lot of things to mull over, about DeWest Hooker, about George Lincoln Rockwell, about the Nazi Party, and who controlled whom. I had lunch at the Wonderland Restaurant at the Natural Bridge in Virginia, and after a total drive of 574 miles I arrived home at 7 PM, where Henrie had a good sweet and sour pork dinner waiting.

Chapter Forty-one

The Rudy Stanko

(Stinko, Stunko) Fiasco

I first became aware of Rudy Stanko through an attorney whose name was Roger C. Elletson, and this only after Rudy had already served several years in a number of different penitentiaries. During the early 1980's I began receiving financial literature, books and booklets, from Roger Elletson, a prolific writer and an attorney who was born in Australia. Elletson was a highly intelligent and a well educated individual, whose studies focused on the swindle that was, and is, the (Jewish) international finance.

In 1970 he graduated from the University of Witwatersrand, Johannesburg, South Africa, and in 1972, from Columbia University, New York, with an MBA degree in Finance and International Business. In 1978 he domiciled in Wilson, Wyoming, and founded The Church of the New Order of Christ, and also The Christian Theological Seminary. He first wrote me in 1981, and told me he had read both of my books, Nature's Eternal Religion, and The White Man's Bible. Whether or not my ideas about trying to solve the Jewish stranglehold by means of a racial religion was the inspiration of his idea for instituting a Seminary that combined Christianity and finance, I have no idea. (His books usually had some inscription on the inside fly cover saying "This Seminary is Dedicated to the Glory of Jesus Christ.") Nor do I have any idea how he might be able to compromise two hostile ideas into a consistent and viable formula. Whereas Judaism is highly parasitic, the Christian creed avidly advocates self-destruction.

When Rudy Stanko was indicted and tried for selling contaminated meat, Roger Elletson, being in the area, was in a position where he could hardly escape the flood of media propaganda that was being disseminated about Rudy Stanko. Being aware of the power wielded by the Jews in both the media and in financial circles, Roger soon became emotionally and partially involved legally in the Rudy Stanko case. He strongly protested the injustice of the persecution that was being carried on.

Rudy Stanko himself wrote a book called The Score in which he described the processes the Jews had used to frame him and put him behind bars for six years. He claimed the main reason the Jews had targeted and framed him was because of his rapidly growing business expansion that was cutting deeply into the market and profits of the Jewish meat cartel. In the book, he also claimed that in only a few years he had built his companies into a $200 million business, despite of, and in the face of all Jewish hostility. Roger Elletson sent me a copy of his book, which I read. I was highly impressed. But by now Rudy was in the penitentiary, serving an extremely severe six year term. I reasoned that if he could build such a thriving business, and at the same time buck the Jews, he must be one hell of a promoter, and might well have all those qualities of The Great Promoter we in the Church of the Creator were looking for. Perhaps he was the man capable of leading our religious movement over the hump to overwhelming success. I contacted Roger Elletson as to where and how I could get in touch with Rudy. Roger informed me that Rudy was at present incarcerated in the Federal Penitentiary at Sandstone, Minnesota, and the address was P.O. Box 1000. I first wrote Rudy on January 25, 1989, and also talked with him on the telephone, implying that I would like to come visit him. I soon found out that there was a certain amount of paper work that had to be complied with. I followed all the instructions and finally received permission for the visit.

However, no sooner had I received permission for the visit than he was to be transferred to another prison. This the Bureau of Prisons (B.O.P.) was doing to him repeatedly, and is called "dieseling." During his entire term, he was "dieseled" more than 22 times, to at least 15 different prisons. (Sometimes he would be sent back to a prison he had been to before.) The reason for his being repeatedly dieseled was two fold: (a) he would usually file a Habeas Corpus and/or a law suit against the prison authorities, and (b) he would organize a following among the inmates that was anti-Jewish and anti-establishment (at one time he had a group of 50 in the yard shouting "Sieg Heil!" and giving the Nazi salute.) By dieseling him to another prison, this would disrupt any of his activities as such.

Anyway, by the time I was ready to visit him at Sandstone, he was again being transferred, destination unknown. Finally he was placed in the Oxford, Wisconsin F.C.I. (Federal Correction Institution, a synonym for penitentiary) and I managed to receive permission to visit him there. By this time he already was a certified minister of our church. We had sent him a Ministerial Certificate on March 22, 1989.

I left home on Friday, April 7, 1989, and finally found my way to the Oxford F.C.I., arriving there at 9:30 AM on Sunday, April 9. At this time a blizzard was whipping up a storm. I parked the car in front of the institution and walked in to the front office and inquired about seeing Rudy Stanko. The young man at the desk looked at his roster sheet, and pretended he had never heard of him. "Stanko? We have nobody here by that name." A long argument and hassle ensued. I insisted that I had just received legal permission to visit him. I called for Father Kelly, the prison Chaplain to whom I had talked on the phone. He, too, knew nothing about Rudy's whereabouts. He, too, was lying. Evidently, the prison authorities did not want Rudy and myself to get together, knowing that I was head of the Church of the Creator, and Rudy one of our ministers. I finally found out they had dieseled him off to another institution just the day before. Angry as I was, there was nothing left for me to do but go back home. I had driven a total of 1934 miles for nothing.

* * * * *

I could write a whole book on all the trips and visits I made in order to see Rudy, not to mention all the letters and legal briefs I participated in over the next two and a half years. It all turned out to be wasted time and money on my part, but I will nevertheless try to summarize the whole fiasco as briefly as I can. I finally made contact with Rudy in the Seagoville, Texas F.C.I. on June 3, 1989. We had a most amicable visit, and I clearly stated my mission that we wanted him to become the head of our church when he got out, to be the "Great Promoter" we were looking for. Since by this time he had already read two of our basic books and we had had a volume of correspondence to that effect, this was no surprise to him, and he was ready and eager to take on the challenge, or so it seemed. We soon developed a close relationship and I made repeated visits to whatever penitentiary he was dieseled to in order to keep up his spirits and his enthusiasm. Since he was going to be the future head of the church, I felt I owed him that much. After all, I was getting on into the seventies, and time was of the essence.

* * * * *

To make a long story short, here is a summary of the trips I made in order to visit Rudy, although sometimes I would make a futile run, as in the case of Oxford, Wisconsin.

1. Oxford, Wisconsin, April 7 to 10, 1989. Total of 1934 miles. He had been dieseled out the day before.

2. Seagoville Texas, June 1 to 6, 1989. In this case I also made a detour and stopped by in Cushing, Oklahoma to see Don Hart and Cynthia Casselman, who were paralegals and at that time were working on Rudy's case. Total of 2195 miles for that trip.

3. Bradford, Pennsylvania F.C.I. December 14 to 19, 1989. Rudy had asked me to come up and see him as soon as possible, that he had a special message to give me. This was in the dead of winter, but I made arrangements to get there as soon as I could. His special message was (promises! promises!) that he had gold coins buried and he was going to donate one million dollars to the Church of the Creator, one quarter of a million immediately, and the rest as soon as he was out and was in charge. (In his book, The Score he had made the same promise to a certain other religious denomination, neither of which he ever fulfilled.) However, in all fairness to Rudy, he did send the COTC two checks in the amount of $5000 each shortly thereafter, $1500 of which he asked me to contribute to some shyster lawyer (on whom he wasted $50,000) and $500 of which he asked me to use to print some useless stickers. I readily complied with both of these requests. However, I probably spent more time and money of what was left in following him around the country in supportive visits. On this particular trip I was snow-bound and laid over in a little dump called Zelienople, Pennsylvania. Total mileage on this trip was 1690.

4. Ashland, Kentucky. September 5 to 9, 1990. Also stopped to see Kim and Walt at Martinsville, Virginia. Total mileage 1008.

5. Buttner, North Carolina. February 7 and 8, 1991. Total mileage 630.

6. August 31, 1991. I was given information that Rudy was soon to be released and that they were holding him at the huge Federal Penitentiary at 601 McDonough Blvd., Atlanta, considered a way station before being processed. When I got there, they told me, yes, they were holding him there alright, but I could not see him. There were only certain visiting days, and this was not one of them. This despite the fact that I had contacted the authorities previously and been given permission to visit on that day. Besides, they informed me, he was scheduled to be moved to another penitentiary soon. Another dry run.

7. Marianna, Florida, November 20 to 22. We had a long discussion about future plans for the church, and he was enthusiastically looking forward to taking on the most important and challenging mission of his life, he said. He was now quite certain he would be out before Christmas, and after spending some time with his family and serving out the few months of probation, he would be down at the Church, ready to go.

On the way back, I took advantage of this trip to stop in Atlanta and make arrangements to have the first 79 issues of Racial Loyalty recorded on microfilm.

8. Columbus, Georgia. On December 13, 1991, I received a call from Rudy that he had indeed been released, and he was now on the outside making this call. The prison authorities had given him bus fare to take him back to Scottsbluff, Nebraska, but he said that he was going only as far as Columbus, Georgia, and if I would pick him up there at the bus station, he would stay with me at my house overnight and he would prefer to fly back to Nebraska, rather than endure the long bus ride. I was overjoyed that finally he was out, and I said I would be glad to pick him up.

I left at 10 AM and met him at the Columbus Greyhound bus station at 1:45. After a happy reunion, we drove to Atlanta and had a big seafood lunch at the Red Lobster Restaurant. When we got to my home, I showed him around in the Church and then took him to our house. I introduced him to my wife, Henrie, who was in bed, soon to die of cancer.

After a good night's sleep in one of our downstairs bedrooms Rudy borrowed $500 from me to pay for his flight to Scottsbluff, and I took him to the Asheville Airport, about 85 miles distant. He promised he would be back as soon as his parole was ended, in about three months.

* * * * *

On January 24, the most tragic event of my life occurred when my dear sweet wife of 45 years, died of cancer. I was grief stricken, and now, a year later, I still am. For the few remaining years, life for me will never be the same again.

But I still had the responsibility of the church on my hands, and I could hardly wait until Rudy would be here to take over. The tragic death of my wife deserves a chapter of its own, and in order to keep this history in its proper time sequence I will relate the painful details of this tragedy in a separate chapter about this sad watershed in my life.

I kept in touch with Rudy, and in every issue of Racial Loyalty we had kept eulogizing the coming of Rudy Stanko, much as the Christians do about the Second Coming of Christ, as we had been doing for the last two or more years. In the meantime, late in February, I had received a call from a Paul Jackson, from Rapid City, South Dakota, who said that he had read my first book, Nature's Eternal Religion, about 18 years ago and it had changed his life completely. He said he was eternally grateful to me that I had rid his mind once and for all of that fraudulent Jewish aberration about Christianity, hell and all the rest of that garbage. He was now married and had a lovely family of three, the second of which being a daughter of 16. He said that since he had read my book he had strictly lived by its principles and brought his family up the same way. His 16 year old daughter, whose name was Mary, had written in to us earlier as a candidate for Cupid's Corner and sent her picture along with the letter. Lou Durrence, who then worked at the church, had struck up a correspondence with Mary, and was smitten by her. Now her father called me and said that although he had never written me before, that since I had had such a powerful influence on his life, he would like to come down and meet me. I said, great, but that Rudy Stanko, who lived not too far from him, was coming down in about a week, and why don't the two of you get together and come down in the same vehicle. I talked to Rudy and made the same suggestion to him. Rudy did indeed go see Paul Jackson, and when he saw Mary, he too was smitten by her, and told me "that is the girl I am going to marry." Just like that.

Rudy and Paul Jackson arrived at about 3:30 in the afternoon of Monday, March 9, 1991, in Rudy's Chevrolet Suburban van. It had a trailer attached to it consisting of an old jalopy with its engine removed and the rest of the vehicle attached to the back of the van by means of a special hitch. Both the van and the trailer were loaded with boxes. They did not contain personal effects, such as clothes, etc., but were stuffed with tons of legal papers, a residue of his legal manipulations during his five and a half years in prison.

The boxes in the van were unloaded into the basement of the church, and the jalopy full of boxes was left sitting in front of the warehouse back of the church.

After all the unloading had been completed, the four of us, including Lou Durrence, went out to dinner at the Dillard Restaurant. Rudy seemed in a belligerent mood and tried to start some kind of an argument about me owning the copyrights to my own books. I never did find out what his point was at the time, but as subsequent events developed, it is clear to me now that he wanted them for himself. Why, is still a mystery. Perhaps to change the contents, and perhaps to sell the copyrights to the Jews themselves.

Lou Durrence and Chris Peronto had moved their belongings out of the upstairs church apartment into the school in preparation for the coming of Rudy. Paul and Rudy slept in the apartment overnight. Rudy had given all indications he was now here to stay and was taking over immediately.

About an hour after breakfast Rudy came over to my house, and we both sat down at the dining room table for what I thought would be a discussion of our future plans. However, nothing of the kind happened. Rudy lost no time in dropping the bombshell that he had contemplated all along. Arrogantly and with a straight face he told me that he was returning to Scottsbluff today, and that he had no intention of taking on the job at the church. I was dumbfounded. I was stunned. This on top of losing my precious wife only six weeks earlier. What about the Church? No problem, Rudy said, we could sell it. After all, it was just another piece of real estate, as far as he was concerned. I thought to myself, you goddamned lying son of a bitch! Now that I knew his real nature, I wouldn't want him for all the tea in China! After all the time and promotion we had spent on cultivating him and eulogizing him to our membership, all the trips I had taken visiting him at eight different locations over the past two and a half years, after the dozens of promises he had made not only to me, but to our whole membership, he now let me know that know that he had never had any intention of devoting his life to the movement. He was going back to his old ways of slaughtering cattle and making money. He had lied to all of us! He was not only a goddamned liar, but a slick con man when he went into the pen and came out unreformed and had learned dozens of new tricks in the process. He had used the church and me as an additional means (he hoped) of getting himself out of the pen sooner.

After dropping the bombshell, he left quickly, leaving all his goddamned legal papers in our basement and in his jalopy. Paul Jackson, a pretty decent fellow, was as dumbfounded as I was, but had no choice but to leave with him. I soon found out why Rudy was in a hurry to leave the premises. He had stolen our mailing list during that hour before he came to see me, and he was in a hurry to leave before I found out. He had tricked Janet Quaife, who was my sometime typist and knew how to operate the computer, that he was now in charge and the first thing he wanted her to do was to run off a copy of our mailing list (about 30 pages.) She, believing that he was here to stay, as did the rest of the staff, naively obliged. When he then came over to my house to tell me he was welshing on his promise, he already had the mailing list safely tucked away in his van. Talk about a treacherous, crooked, lying con-man, this was hard to top.

* * * * *

It is my unequivocal conclusion that Rudy Stanko was a born, congenital con-man long before he ever went to the 15 different penitentiaries in which he revolved. When he came out after five and a half years, he had picked up a number of additional tricks and devices, and remained unreformed. I am convinced that he was able to build up the large meat business before he was convicted because he was more adroit and a sharper con-man than the people he was dealing with, especially the cattlemen and ranchers. Now that I know his real nature, and have read his book, I have many second thoughts about the validity of his many claims of innocence. I don't believe that he was dedicated to Christianity (in his book The Score he says it was dedicated to Jesus Christ) nor do I have any faith in his dedication to Creativity and the survival of the White Race, nor do I believe that he ever had any intention of leading our race out of the clutches of the Jews. That the treacherous Jews framed him and wanted him out of the way, of that I have no doubt, but that does not change or absolve Rudy of being a crook himself. After all, there are also a lot of crooked Jews who also ended up in the penitentiary, and are in there today. But I was crushed that a White man, in whom I had so much faith, ended up a welsher and a liar when he had such a wonderful opportunity to become a great benefactor and a hero of the White Race.

Chapter Forty-two

The Tax Battle with Macon County

When we decided to build our Church Headquarters in Macon County, North Carolina, there was some apprehension among a small minority of the natives. Mostly these consisted of the Christian-Jew oriented preachers, by the small number of Jews, and by the news media, which consisted of the Franklin Press (mostly) and a few of the Christian oriented radio stations. But the majority of the people were not unfriendly, but mostly curious. Personally, I cannot remember a hostile encounter with any neighbor, or individuals with whom I did business, or anybody with whom I came in contact. What stirred up a hornets nest was the malevolent smear article printed by the Franklin Press on May 13, 1982, when they came out with a blaring headline on the front page, proclaiming "Pro-Hitler, Anti-Christ Leader Headquarters Here." This was purely instigated by the Jewish ADL, and followed the same line as the Miami Herald article had disseminated a year earlier. We were in the middle of the building program when the Franklin article came out, and I have already described it earlier in this book.

One of the first things I did in 1983 was go to the Macon County tax assessor and apply for tax exemption on our Church property, to which we were entitled by the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, the same as any other church. The tax assessor at that time was Jim Shope, a native of the county, who, like most of the ordinary people in Macon County, was a decent fellow and not at all unfriendly. He said, sure, we were entitled to tax exemption and he would take our property off the tax rolls, which he did. By 1984, as we were getting more heat and publicity from various newsmedia, including the Franklin Press, I went to him and asked him to put our tax exempt status in writing, so that if things came to a showdown, we would have a written exemption to back us up. This he said he would do. After dragging his feet for awhile he did put it in writing, but curiously instead of having his secretary type it out, he neatly wrote it out in his own hand lettering. We reproduce his note in full on the next page.

After a few years, he was succeeded by a woman tax assessor, but our tax exemption remained intact and was not questioned. However, there remained continuing pressure from the Jewish ADL and the Christian preachers, urging the County Commissioners that law or no law, we should not be allowed to print our anti-Christian and anti-Jewish “hate propaganda" and still receive official tax exemption.

Finally, by 1988, the conspiracy succeeded in installing a new tax assessor by the name of Richard Lightner, who, I am sure was picked and coached by our enemies to go after the Church of the Creator. The opening gambit was a letter we received from him on February 14, 1989. It opens innocuously with the statement “Our office is in the process of reviewing exempt properties to see if they still qualify for tax exemption... It appears that your property does not meet the requirements any longer. After visiting your place several times during the past year, it seems that the place is not being used for any type of activity..." There were more meaningless, nit-picking insinuations in the letter. It ended with the flat statement that their office had no choice but "to take you out of tax exempt status."

This letter aroused my anger for several reasons. For one thing, our church was open and manned seven days a week, and not once had Richard Lightner shown his face inside our outside our building, or talked to us. If he had made all the exploratory visits he claimed, he could at least have talked to us and we could have shown him that during the period he mentioned we had never been more active than during the past years. Furthermore, what damn business of his was it how "active" or "inactive" we were? How well was his own lousy church or synagogue doing? We didn't go snooping around the periphery of their property monitoring the efficiency or diligence of their activities. I wrote him a sharp letter to that effect, and that we would appreciate him keeping his nose out of our business. I reminded him that we had the same constitutional rights to tax exemption as did all the other one hundred or so churches in Macon County, and we would not tolerate any prejudicial selective discrimination or violation of our constitutional rights.

Although I realized how futile, expensive, and time consuming legal suits can be, I did not fully grasp the endless embroilment our Jewish judicial system can involve anyone, on any charge, no matter how trivial, nor how time consuming and expensive such involvements can become.

We had the right to appeal the case within 30 days before the full County Commission. We did appeal, had a heated argument, and were turned down. It was, of course, a rigged deal from beginning to end.

The next step was we could appeal to the North Carolina Property Tax Commission, which was located in Raleigh, North Carolina, about 300 miles away. However, the six member board and their attorney met at different locations within the state, and at times of their choice. We filed a request for an Appeal before the Commission. In order to appear before them we had to have a licensed North Carolina lawyer to be present and represent us. That was the law, they said. By now we were in deep water.

I tried to find an attorney in Macon County who would be willing to represent us. None was willing to do so, and suggested that we hire an attorney from outside the county. Evidently, they were afraid the taint would hurt their business, or the ADL was putting the pressure on them.

The next meeting of the North Carolina Property Tax Commission was to be held in Boone, North Carolina, on August 30, 1989. I contacted various attorneys in Boone, and one responded favorably, that is, until the last moment, evidently when he was informed who we were and he must not represent us.

My memory then reverted back to Don Hart, a paralegal who worked with Cindy Casselman on some of Rudy Stanko's cases, and at that time he and Cindy domiciled in Cushing, Oklahoma. He was not a licensed attorney in any state, but he had impressed me as knowing the law perhaps better than most attorneys. As you will recall, I stopped by their place in Cushing on my way back from visiting Rudy in Seagoville, Texas. I reasoned at that time that if Rudy had confidence in him, he must be alright, and in any case, he had impressed me quite favorably.

Don Hart, who himself had served a long term in the penitentiary several years ago, was a sharp cookie, and he was also a sharp con-man. He exuded confidence. Sure, he not only would be glad to represent our Church, but he would also guarantee a successful verdict in our favor or our money would be refunded. However, he would need $5000 cash up front before he could, or would, do anything. What about the requirement of having a licensed North Carolina attorney present to represent us? No problem. He would have one when the time came. Since the meeting in Boone was now only a day or so away, he would make arrangements by telephone with the North Carolina Tax Commissioners to have our case postponed, then represent us at their next meeting. We would not even have to make an appearance at Boone, which was about 200 miles north of us. But first I would have to deliver that $5000 cash up front. How could I do that? Well, did I have a Visa or other credit card? Yes, I did. Well, I could call in to some Visa office (he named the place) and authorize him to pick up the cash. Of course, Visa would charge us an extra $200 for this kind of unusual transaction. We did just that and he rushed to the designated office about 60 miles from his place to pick up the cash.

After he had the cash, he called me at the last moment, at 7 PM the night before the meeting and informed me that the commission demanded my presence at the 9 AM meeting the next morning after all, but everything else would be in order. In the meantime he would fax a statement to the commission explaining our situation.

I was desperate and mad as hell. Here it was seven in the evening, and I was to appear at that damned meeting at nine in the morning, which would mean driving most of the night. I was 71 years old and I was tired. My wife, Henrie, did not want me driving such long distances at night all alone. I hunted up A.W. Reynolds, a young fellow of 20, who was the only help I had at that time. I found him in one of the eateries in Dillard. I told him of the situation, and that we were leaving for Boone, North Carolina that night. We got our suitcases packed and I got my papers together and by 9 PM we were off on the road.

After driving for hours on crooked country roads, we finally pulled into a motel at Boone at 1:30 in the morning, and I immediately tried to call Don Hart to let him know where we were and ask him what our next move should be. All I got was his recorded message. I tried several more times, but got nothing. At least I had left the name of our motel on his machine. Reynolds slept like a log, but I got very little sleep that night. I tried to call Don again in the morning, but no success.

At about quarter of nine the next morning as Reynolds and I were leaving the motel to go to the meeting, the motel clerk said he had a six page fax message for me. It was, of course, from Don.

We met with the six man commission, their attorney, and their secretaries. We were the only case on the docket. I read the statement to them that Don had sent, which said basically the same thing as I was prepared to tell them myself, namely we could find no licensed attorney in Macon County who would represent us, despite the fact that we had no criminal record, were not pursuing any criminal cause, and were only demanding our basic civil rights; that I had found one attorney here in Boone, but he had welshed on us at the last moment and left us in the lurch. We, therefore, asked for a continuance (delay) until we could find an attorney. They consented (what else could they do?) and the whole thing was over in about ten minutes. We had all driven hundreds of miles and wasted the whole day for nothing. There were about ten people representing the commission. Richard Lightner from Macon County was there along with an attorney named John W. Alexander, the County's hired gun. Then there were the two of us. What a waste of time and money!

The next hearing was ordered for September 21, 1989, to be held in Raleigh, North Carolina. Macon County's new hired gun, attorney John T. Alexander had a whole laundry list of items he wanted to subpoena, including our membership list, our articles of incorporation, minutes of our meetings, etc. The list contained 17 items. Also, my wife was subpoenaed to appear, since she had originally been listed as secretary when we filed for incorporation in 1981. She had long since been replaced by someone else as secretary. My wife did appear, but under stress and protest, since she no longer was secretary and did not want to make that long trip. A.W. Reynolds from our church was also there for our side. However, we ignored all other demands, since we knew, and they knew it was all pure harassment.

This time everyone was in place, including Don Hart. He had flown in with a licensed female attorney by the name of Mary T. Klockner, from Cheyenne, Wyoming, with whom he was now apparently living. She was young, beautiful, and had reddish blonde hair. Evidently Don had dumped Cynthia Casselman, or vice versa, with whom he was living when I last saw them in Cushing, Oklahoma. He said Ms. Klockner was an expert in these kind of civil rights cases, and he was bringing her along at his own expense, no extra charge to us. The previous $5,000 covered all. Then he also enlisted a local attorney from Raleigh, North Carolina to meet the requirements of the commission. His name was William D. Harazin. This, however, was at our expense. He initially charged $100 an hour, then later raised it to $125 an hour. We were supposedly allotted three hours, but the meeting lasted all day.

Finally, on December 22, the commission came out with its decision. It was in our favor. The county had erred in its decision to revoke our exemption. We had won a victory. But it was only a partial victory. It pertained only to taxes ending with the year 1989. When Lightner sent us that letter of revocation on February 14, 1989, he was too late. It should have been sent in January, when all taxes are reviewed. But it did not settle the main question as to whether we were, or were not, entitled to tax exemption per se.

If the tax assessor sent us a new revocation January of 1990, we would have to fight the battle all over again. This legal battle had already cost us $8000, and the county probably had already spent over $20,000.

But the Jews and Richard Lightner were persistent. They did not wait for 1990 but appealed to the next higher court, which was the North Carolina Court of Appeals. This was now handled by our newly found licensed attorney, William D. Harazin, of Raleigh, North Carolina, and was completely reviewed by correspondence. No one needed to appear at any meetings. The attorney handled all. Don Hart and Mary Klockner were not even consulted and were completely out of the case. But nevertheless this go-around again cost us a bundle.

The North Carolina Court of Appeals came out with their verdict on April 16, 1991, and it, too, ruled in our favor. That was the end of the 1989 question. But that did not mean the end of our problem with the county. All it meant was that the county was too late to cancel our exemption for the year 1989. The issue as to whether we were entitled to tax exemption as a church per se had not been addressed. The county aggressively pursued the case for the succeeding years and sent us tax bills for 1990 and 1991, which we paid under protest, and put the county commissioners on notice that we would sue them individually in the sum of a million dollars each for violation of our civil rights, and discrimination against our religion and our church.

We were on to their game. Whereas we again filed for exemption to the County Commissioners, they again denied us our rights, and a new hearing was set up at the North Carolina Tax Commission, except this time the County had sent us the denial in proper time, in January. We now knew what their game was, and that they were well aware of the fact that they were violating our civil rights. What they were determined to do was to keep dragging this thing through the courts, the cost of which was paid for by county taxpayers' money, while we had to pay our expenses out of our own pockets defending ourselves. They could and would keep this up and play this game of ring around the roses until they would break us financially, even if they lost every time.

A new hearing was set up at the North Carolina Property Tax Commission in Raleigh, North Carolina. We did not bother to attend. We didn't even send them notice that we would not be there. Let Richard Lightner, the hired gun, John W. Alexander, and the Commissioners use of their time and money to meet. We would not be there and waste our time and money. We would pursue instead the course of suing the County Commissioners each as individuals instead. Rudy Stanko would soon be on the scene, I reckoned, and he would be well fitted to fight such a case. And anyway, I was getting too old and tired to carry on such a prolonged battle.

However, a number of events changed the situation rapidly, and it never did come to a final showdown. I will relate them in the final chapters. But before I do so, I want to quote in full the brief I wrote to the County Commissioners at the time we made the second Application for Exemption and one that I believe best states our disposition.

A Brief

of the Church of the Creator accompanying application for tax exemption

Introduction

The Macon County Tax Assessor, in trying to revoke our previous status of tax exemption, has prattled sanctimoniously that he is only interested in that every property owner in the County dutifully pay "their fair share" of the taxes. We have no quarrel with such a position. Let us say at the outset that we, as a church, will gladly pay our "fair share" of the taxes if the one hundred or so other churches in Macon County also pay their "fair share" of the taxes. In fact, we are not even against the idea of church properties being taxed the same as any other properties. But we will be damned if we are going to be singled out as the exception while the other churches go scot free. We will pay taxes if the other churches pay taxes, and we will adamantly refuse to do so if they don't. We demand "equal protection" under the law as is guaranteed by the Fourteenth Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, and no pip-squeak bureaucrat is arbitrarily and capriciously going to deny us that right just because the bigot hates the White Race and does not like our religious beliefs. Perhaps we don't like his either, but we wouldn't think of violating his constitutional rights because of it. We agree with Voltaire when he states, "I may violently disagree with what you say, but I will defend unto death your right to say it."

Bigotry, Prejudice and Religious Persecution

However, we have good reason to believe that there is more involved here than the maliciousness, the bigotry and the prejudice of one Richard Lightner, now tax assessor. We are convinced that behind the smoke screen of religious bigotry lurks the strong-arm criminal coercion of the Jewish Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith, in short the ADL. We have good and sufficient reason to believe that it is they who instigated the demand for revocation, that it is the ADL who is behind Richard Lightner, goading, threatening and orchestrating this sinister and malicious maneuver. It is their purpose to destroy the Church of the Creator by any means whatsoever, be they illegal, criminal or whatever. Why? Because in fighting for the survival of the White Race, we are also exposing their age-old conspiracy to shrink the White Race into oblivion, to mongrelize the White Race and in the process enslave the bastardized mongrels as mindless brown zombies. They have been feverishly working at this sinister program for centuries, and now, as any one who cares to look at the demographics of the world (and the United States) can plainly see, they are succeeding with amazing rapidity. they are bringing this heinous conspiracy to fruition within this decade, or this generation almost.

We are legal and above board

We — the Church of the Creator — will fight this heinous abomination of mongrelizing the White Race into oblivion with every ounce of energy within our bodies, and we will do so unto our last breath. We are legal in every sense of the word and we intend to pursue legal means in carrying on the fight, as set forth in the Creative Credo No. 64 of the White Man's Bible, which is one of the sacred books of our church. Should our legal prerogatives be denied, however, we will then revert to Articles 7 and 8 of the aforementioned Creative Credo No. 64 and invoke the Highest Law of Nature, the Survival of our Species at any cost, by all means.

We are a Religion in every sense of the word

What the Tax Assessor and the ADL are trying to do is to destroy us by first of all trying to categorize us as not being a religion.

Well, we have news for them. We not only are a fully structured legitimate religion, but our religion, being based on the Eternal Laws of Nature, is more sensible, more logical, more purposeful and inspiring than the plethora of spooks-in-the-sky swindles that are polluting the air waves and permeating the minds of superstitious and gullible individuals who believe in spirits, ghosts, spooks, angels, demons, gods and all the other supernatural creatures concocted by the aberrations of a host of con-artists. (For further examination of this area see Exhibit A — "What is a Spirit?")

Trying to define a Religion

Before any one, including Richard Lightner, can decide who or what is a religion and who or what is not, it is first necessary to define the word "religion." This Lightner has never done, and we personally doubt he is capable of doing so. What he is trying to do is arbitrarily and capriciously declare us as a non-religion at the outset, and thereby, ipso facto, declare us ineligible for tax exemption. However, he is on extremely thin ice in this matter and we will not accept the word or decision of a small-time tin-horn bureaucrat whose qualifications to make such a monumental judgment are less than nil.

Here is what in essence Federal Judge James F. Battin has to say about judging the other fellow's religion:

"Neither this Court nor any branch of this Government will consider the merits or fallacies of a religion. Nor will this Court compare the beliefs, dogmas, and practices of a newly organized religion with those of an older, more established religion. Nor will the Court praise or condemn a religion, however excellent or fanatical or preposterous it may seem. Were the Court to do so, it would impinge on the guarantees of the First Amendment." (See Exhibit B for the full text.)

Although the Federal Judge in his consummate wisdom declines to make such a judgment on any religion, our local pip-squeak tax assessor evidently thinks that he is qualified and has such discretion at his disposal, an arrogant and tyrannical assumption indeed.

It is our intent in this discussion to not only establish that we are as well qualified to claim to be a religion as any on the face of this earth, but also to establish the fact that in many respects we are better qualified than most other religions.

What is a religion? Webster's big dictionary (Webster's Third New International Dictionary, 1961) comes up with seven different definitions and you can take your pick. Colliers Encyclopedia claims that scholars have offered some fifty definitions of religion, and even these do not exhaust the subject. We arbitrarily choose Webster's definition No. 7, which says "religion is a cause, principle, system of tenets held with ardor, devotion, conscientiousness, and faith: a value held to be of supreme importance."

This definition describes Creativity, our religion, quite adequately. The cause, the principle, that we hold with ardor, devotion, conscientiousness and faith is the survival, expansion and advancement of our precious race, the White Race. The tenets of our faith are set forth in our three basic books, namely Nature's Eternal Religion, The White Man's Bible, and Salubrious Living. We also have our Sixteen Commandments, Daily Affirmation and Prayer, and our Golden Rule, which is: "What is good for the White Race is the highest virtue; what is bad for the White Race is the ultimate sin."

Comparing our Religion to other major religions

Whereas Judge Battin declares, and rightfully so, that no judicial or governmental body has any right to judge the merits of any religion, and to do so is a violation of the First Amendment, we, as a religion, are free to compare, praise, condemn or judge any religion we want to, our own or others. Every religion claims they are the best, the one and only "right" religion, and we can make the same claims. In fact, we have done so in a series of twelve articles entitled "Comparative Religions," which have been published from time to time in our monthly periodical "Racial Loyalty," and are now permanently set forth in some of our religious books, namely "Building a Whiter and Brighter World," and "Rahowa!" In these articles we compare the merits of our own religion, Creativity, with those of some of the older, long-established religions. The logic and common sense inherent in our religion, Creativity, compared to the superstitions and myths of most of the other spooks-in-the-sky religions, I believe, will prevail in the mind of any intelligent reader. (See Exhibits C, D, E, F, G, H, I, J, K, L, M and N.)

We also have analyzed the fallacies, myths and spurious claims of the Judaic and Christian religions as set forth in the Old and the New Testament in a series of twenty articles entitled "The Wildest Stories Ever Told." We are enclosing the first three of these articles herewith. (See Exhibits O, P and Q.)"

Some Legal Decisions substantiating and supporting our status as a fully constituted religion protected by the First Amendment

The First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution clearly states: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peacefully to assemble and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances."

In addition to the Constitution, we also direct your attention to the many precedent-setting court decisions:

1. We have already quoted Judge Battin's decision that no judicial or governmental body is entitled to make any judgments on the merits of any religion. This includes Congress, Federal Courts, State Courts, State Laws, and certainly also any local County Board of Commissioners. It also includes any minor pip-squeak tax assessor who has the gall to set himself up as judge and jury.

2. The decision of Judge Fern Smith. (See Exhibit R.) Judge Smith states in effect that whereas Creativity advocates "racial purity" (yes, indeed we do. Who wants a world populated by a horde of mongrelized bastards?), nevertheless, "The White Man's Bible" does not advocate violence, nor pose any meaningful threat to prison security.

3. Even Madelein Murray O'Haire's "Atheist" religion has been declared by the courts as a legitimate religion and tax-exempt.

4. So evidently has the religion of "Witchcraft." (See Exhibit S.)

5. We could and can add endlessly to the list, including the highly racist religion of the Black Muslims, the violence-prone and highly racist religion of Judaism, and the "sweat-tent" ceremonies of certain Indian tribes, all of which have been approved and adjudged as legitimate religions, tax-exempt, and protected by the First Amendment. We, as advocates of the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, will settle for no less.

6. The previous two tax assessors of Macon County, beginning with Jim Shope, confirmed and approved the tax exemption of our church beginning with the year 1983, and through the years of 1984, 1985, 1986, 1987, 1988 and 1989. It was confirmed by Jim Shope in writing in 1984. (See Exhibit V.)

Nothing has substantially changed about our church activities since 1983, except that we have grown and expanded and added a Leadership School for Gifted Boys to our program. Lightner has presented no valid, meaningful, nor intelligent argument as to why the previous two tax assessors were wrong, or why or how our qualifications for tax exemption have diminished since 1983.

No more KGB tactics.

There is one more thing I want to make clear to Richard Lightner and his "hired gun," John Alexander. The completeness or incompleteness of our Articles of Incorporation, our By-laws, or the minutes of our meetings, has absolutely no bearing whatsoever upon our validity as a religion, nor upon our First Amendment rights, nor upon our rights to a tax exemption, along with the one hundred or so other churches in Macon County. Nor are we required to present the names and addresses of our ministers, or our members, or any of the other endless details that Lightner and his "hired gun" are so eager to get their filthy hands on. In fact, if we were not incorporated at all, had no by-laws, no minutes of meetings whatsoever, we would still be qualified as a legitimate religion and as a church.

How many of the other hundred churches have you, Richard Lightner, tried to drag through the expense of a legal wringer in order to engage in a fishing expedition? So don't hound us with this kind of KGB tactics ever again! What you really want with our membership lists is to turn them over to the ADL, so that they in turn can hound our members, get them fired from their jobs and cause other malevolent mischief.

Conclusion

In conclusion we contend that the persecution of our religion, Creativity, and our church, the Church of the Creator, is nothing more, nor is it anything less than a malevolent, malicious witch-hunt, an Inquisition reminiscent of the Dark Ages. We are convinced that it was instigated by the Jewish ADL, is being orchestrated by them in the background and that Richard Lightner is their lick spittle, their stooge, being coerced to follow their sinister instructions. We further contend that the total Jewish network is the prime power establishment tyrannizing and enslaving the United States and the world. We have ample evidence to substantiate this claim and mean to pursue our course to expose this sinister conspiracy to the White people of the world. (See Exhibit T, "Operation Rip-off," and Exhibit U, "The Federal Reserve Board: the most gigantic Counterfeiting Ring in the World".)

We demand the County reimburse the Church for needless expenses incurred

The North Carolina Tax Commission has ruled that the Tax Assessor and the Macon County Commission were in error in revoking our tax exemption for 1989, that they did not follow legal procedure, and exceeded their authority. In other words, they made one hell of a mistake. It was a mistake, however, that cost us more than $7000 in legal fees and traveling expenses, not to mention the amount of aggravation they caused and the amount of our time they wasted.

We demand that the County reimburse us for the expenses and the damage they have caused. The County can settle out of court, or — if we have to go to court — we will also demand punitive damages for the violation of our civil rights, our religious rights and impingement on our First Amendment rights. This, I assure you, will be in the realm of the upper six figures.

At what cost to the taxpayers of Macon County?

As taxpayers we are entitled to know what this insane and vindictive indulgence in a personal vendetta by a power-mad bureaucrat is costing the taxpayers of Macon County. The County Commission seems very secretive about the cost and is lying about estimates of future costs. We estimate that they have already spent somewhere between $30,000 and $40,000 in legal fees and traveling expenses to collect what would be less than $800 in our church's taxes.

They went far afield, all the way to Morgantown, N.C., more than 100 miles away, to find the best "hired gun" money could buy. Like

"Palladin" in the former Western TV epic "Have gun, will travel," John Alexander from far away Morgantown was hired because he had "experience in these kind of cases." What kind of cases? Evidently he was the roving hired gun type that could effectively assassinate (by means of legal trickery) those kind of people who were "racists," in other words, those who had the pride and the courage to defend the White Race. At least Richard Lightner and the ADL thought that he was the best "hired gun" to do a job. Evidently, he wasn't as straight a shooter as they had hoped, and the North Carolina Tax Commission didn't buy his garbage.

Nevertheless, what with traveling to meetings to Boone, N.C., to Raleigh, N.C., several consultation trips to Franklin, all the way from Morgantown, the "hired gun," John Alexander, is costing the Macon County taxpayers a tidy bundle.

If the Tax Assessor and the County Commissioners — these traitors to the White Race — pursue this matter further, it will cost the County not $3,000 as they deceptively lied about, but somewhere around $100,000. This is more than they could hope to collect from our church in the next hundred years. We taxpayers want an accounting of how much they have already spent on this stupid caper, and why they are flagrantly wasting the taxpayers' money on such idiotic personal grudges.

Over the last 20 years I have personally paid in tens of thousands of dollars in taxes to Macon County. I'll be damned if I am now going to allow these profligate race-traitors to use it against me because I am fighting for the survival of the White Race.

Maybe we should form a county-wide Taxpayers' Committee to investigate the corrupt and vindictive bureaucracy that with malice aforethought irresponsibly, willy-nilly is spending our taxpayers' money on profligate projects to satisfy their own personal grudges and ego. Surely, a power-mad tin-horn little bureaucrat, Richard Lightner, who is evidently a traitor to the White Race, cannot be allowed to spend $100,000 to $150,000 of the taxpayers money to indulge in his own whims and grudges without being brought to account. And any County Commissioners, who support him in his insane persecution of those who love the White Race, must also be made to pay for their sins.

Chapter Forty-three

The Death of My Dear Beloved Wife

As I am writing this, a year has gone by since my beloved wife passed away on January 24, 1992. With her passing, after more than 45 years of love, loyalty and companionship, a major chapter of my life also ended, and my will to live has faded into oblivion. Even a year or two before her death I felt that my purpose in life was nearing an end, and my interests and drive were rapidly slipping away. At 74, old age has caught up with me, and that I have now fulfilled the natural life span that Nature has allotted for me. There is a time to sow, and a time to reap; a time to be born, and a time to die, and death is a natural culmination of each living creature. I have further elucidated on this subject in Chapter 59, Life, Death and Immortality, in The White Man's Bible, and what I am now saying is not a new attitude or philosophy on my part. We all have to die, and as the immortal Horatius at the Bridge is quoted as saying, "to every man upon this earth, death cometh, soon or late." The only questions in which we sometimes have any choice is the when and how. I wrote that chapter more than 15 years ago, and even then, when I was in excellent health and spirits, I decided that when the time came I would make my own choice as to when and how, provided I had the chance. Nevertheless, when a loved one dies, it is a tragedy of major proportions, and there is little that can be done to assuage the grief.

My wife's problems started in the early spring of 1991, when she began having mild pains in her lower abdomen. At first we thought it was nothing more than indigestion, or an upset stomach, but as time went on and they began to get worse, we were beginning to suspect cancer as a possibility. If so, we had better get a diagnosis, and quickly. Living where we did, we had two choices, either we could go to the clinics and the hospital Toccoa, Georgia, 40 miles away, or go to Martinsville, Virginia, where Kim and Walt lived and where there were more and better medical facilities, in case it really became serious. Henrie, my wife, and Kim decided that Martinsville, although it is 280 miles away, was the better choice. For one thing, Walt, being a chiropractor, was already fairly familiar with the medical profession in the area, and secondly, should Henrie have to be hospitalized, Kim would at all times be close by to visit and supervise.

On Friday, April 19, 1991, Henrie and I left for Martinsville and arrived at Kim and Walt's house at 5:20 PM. Kim took me to Walt's Clinic where Walt took four X-ray pictures of my spine and gave me a chiropractic treatment. Why, I don't know.

The next day Kim and I took Henrie to Stuart, about 30 miles away, where she underwent clinical diagnosis by several doctors. These preliminary indications were not too clear but they were rather disturbing. Back from Stuart, that evening we all went to see the musical production of "Hello, Dolly!", at Carlyle School, a private school which all three of our grandchildren were attending. Scott was even one of the players in the production.

Two days later, Monday, April 22, 1991, Kim and I again took Henrie to Stuart, where Dr. Rick Cole examined her colon with a stereoscopic light, and again, the diagnosis was not too promising. She then went to the hospital clinic, had an injection of barium salts and and X-rays taken of her colon. This was done by a Dr. Khan, and the results examined by Dr. Rick Cole again. The diagnosis this time: no tumor, no operation needed! We were all elated!

We decided to stay another day. Kim and Henrie went to a rummage sale and came back with a bundle of clothes. Henrie decided to stay for a few more days anyway, while I decided to go back home and take care of church business. I called Henrie the next night. She wasn't feeling too sharp.

On Wednesday, April 24 I called Henrie again at Kim and Walt's. She said she was not feeling too well, However, when I talked to her again two days later, she said that she planned on coming home on Saturday and that they would meet me at Hickory. Kim then called me back a little later that same day and said the latest reports from the lab tests looked bad, that Henrie should have more tests, and that she would be staying another week.

Talking to Kim on May 1, Henrie's situation did not seem to be improving. Further tests showed she had a large tumor in her lower colon, and an operation seemed imminent. I decided to leave whatever I was doing and go back to Martinsville. When I got there, Henrie was already in the hospital, and after dinner Kim and I went to see her. She informed us that she was scheduled for an operation at 8 o-clock the next morning, May 10, 1991. Nevertheless, she seemed in very good spirits, considering what lay ahead.

I got up at 6 AM and an hour later Kim and I drove to the Martinsville Memorial Hospital. We went to Henrie's room and visited with her for about ten minutes. Then the nurse came in and prepared Henrie to be wheeled into the operating room. Dr. Fox was the operating physician, and the operation started at the scheduled time. While we were waiting for the outcome, Kim and I went to the hospital cafeteria and had breakfast, awaiting the results with much apprehension. Then we went to the O.R. room and waited. After two hours, Dr. Fox came back to inform us that the tumor had also spread to the bladder and there were complications. He was calling in Dr. Andy Gherkin, a specialist in urology to assist. Kim and I talked to him about that phase of the operation.

At 12 noon, after four hours, the operation was finished, and Dr. Fox said Henrie was doing very well. She was then taken to the Intensive Care clinic, still unconscious. Kim and I went to Shoney's to get a bite to eat. When we go back at about 2 PM to see Henrie, she was still pretty groggy from all the sedatives and the whole ordeal. After about an hour, Kim and I left and did some shopping. I bought Henrie a big Mother's Day card, which I planned to give her on Sunday, May 12.

I got up at 7:30 on Sunday, but everyone else in the Moore household was still asleep. As usual under such conditions, I drove over to Shoney's, read the Sunday paper and had breakfast by myself. I stopped by at the hospital at about 10 AM to try to see Henrie, but she was being given a bath at the time so I decided to come back later. When I got back to the house, all the Moores had left for their church.

At about 11 AM I drove to the hospital to see Henrie. After about 15 minutes, Kim and Walt, Maika, (a German student staying with the Moores) and the boys all arrived also. I gave her the big Mother's Day card, which she greatly appreciated.

Maika and the boys cooked up a big BBQ chicken dinner. Then after dinner we all went back to see Henrie again. Kim showed Henrie all the cards the kids at Sunday school had made for her, and all the cards she and Walt and the boys had for her. This greatly helped to raise her spirits.

At about 10 PM that night, I received a call from my sister Katie from Niagara Falls, informing me that her daughter Anita had given birth to a baby boy. I brought Katie up to date on Henrie's operation.

Meanwhile, Henrie was recovering slowly. On Monday, May 13, I had breakfast by myself at Shoney's, then at 9:30 I went to the hospital to see Henrie again. While there they were taking X-rays of her again (with a portable unit) and I talked to Dr. Fox once more, who was visiting her at the time. She seemed to be making good progress. I decided I might as well go back home again for a few days and then return. I left at about 10:30, stopped at the Red Lobster in Hickory for lunch and was back at my own home at 4:30. I picked up the Franklin Press, which had a news item in it about our church.

I called Henrie and Kim just about every day to find out how Henrie was doing. On Saturday, May 18, reports from Dr. Fox, and from Kim and Henrie, seemed favorable and they thought Henrie could leave the hospital on Monday. She did leave the hospital on Tuesday and wanted to come back home to North Carolina. I was back in Martinsville the next day, arriving at Kim and Walt's at 6 PM Wednesday. After a few days, I went back home again, but Henrie stayed on at the Moores. On Thursday, June 6, I was back there again to see Henrie. She was feeling somewhat better, and we even went out shopping together. On Sunday, we had breakfast together at Shoney's, and then I left to go back home again.

The next Sunday, a week later, the reports were negative again, and I immediately got into my newly purchased Buick and rushed back to Martinsville again. By the next day Henrie was back in the hospital again for further tests. They gave her another barium salts injection and took further X-rays. It seems she had a partial blockage in her intestinal tract. The next day, according to Dr. Mlot, the blockage had opened up, and Henrie was feeling better.

The next morning, Wednesday, June 19, I was packed to go back home again. I went to see Henrie at 8:30 and things seemed worse again and Henrie was throwing up. That same night I got a call from Kim. She was at Brevard, and on her way to coming over to my house. She wanted to get some business information and left at 10 AM, while I left for Toccoa. Henrie's condition seemed to go up and down and by June 29, she felt well enough to check out of the hospital again.

In the meantime, here at the church we had some excitement. On July 2 we received a large box in the post office, with no return address. I suspected mischief that it might be a mail bomb, and called the Sheriff's department. Deputies Andy Shields and Jim Ker came out, and they came to the same conclusion as I did, and were afraid to open the box. The next day they told me that a North Carolina state bomb expert from Raleigh was being flown out.

By 8 PM a whole crowd of about 15 people had gathered back of the church (about 100 yards) surveilling the mysterious box. The deputies were there, Sheriff Homer Holbrook was there, the fire department and crew had their truck out there, and finally the bomb expert arrived. I stood around until about 10 PM, then went to the house and went to bed.

The next morning I checked with Ron McVan, and he told me that they were all preoccupied with the box until about midnight. Finally the bomb expert opened the box while everybody stood back, and found it was full of shredded papers, (including some of our own Racial Loyalty) and hostile letters. The officials took the material with them for further analysis.

That same day at 2 PM I called Henrie. She said she wanted to come home the next day. At 11:30 AM next morning I again took off for Martinsville, arriving there at 5:30. That evening I took Kim, Walt, Henrie and the grandchildren out to dinner (it was seafood night) at the Dutch Inn.

The next morning, Saturday, July 6, Henrie and I had breakfast at Shoney's and left for home. The Moore family went to the lake about 40 miles away for a day of boating. Henrie and I arrived home at about 3:30. She fixed dinner for the two of us — beef stew, defrosted out of the freezer.

Henrie's troubles did not get worse, nor did they get any better. We drove to the grocery store and a few other nearby places, otherwise she took it easy. Two months later on September 22, Henrie felt well enough that we took a two day trip to Pigeon Forge, Tennessee, going over the hump of the Smoky Mountains National Park, without her feeling too much discomfort.

In the meantime, Henrie and Kim had been talking about taking one last grand trip to Henrie's beloved West — Colorado, Utah, and some of the other beautiful places and scenery that Henrie loved so much. Henrie and I left for Kim and Walt's on Saturday, September 28. We stayed with the Moore family for two days, enjoying ourselves, then I left for home on Monday.

Kim and Henrie took off from the Greensboro Airport at 8:30 the next morning, October 1, for points west, arriving at Las Vegas, Nevada at noon. They immediately rented a car and were off and running. They took the scenic drive through the Virgin River Gorge to St. George, Utah, one of the most costly roads ever built, Kim told me. Here Henrie went to see a certain Dr. Graff, with whom she had made a previous appointment. He used some very unorthodox procedures, but Henrie had been to him before and had a lot of confidence in him that he could do her some good. Later they all had dinner at a very colorful Mexican Restaurant, nestled on a high bluff overlooking the city. They spent the next day visiting museums in St. George, visiting the all-white Mormon Temple, and both of them saw Dr. Graff again.

From there on out they covered a tremendous amount of scenic territory, and Kim wrote an 18 page summary of what they considered as one of the most colorful and enjoyable trips of their life. I don't have the space here to recapitulate all, but will only try to mention some of the highlights they visited.

From St. George they drove north on I-15, turned east on I-70 and landed late at night at Green River, Utah. They visited the John Wesley Powell Museum and saw the films on his exploratory trips of the Green and Colorado Rivers. From there they went to Moab, Utah, took a motel, and explored the colorful rock erosions in the area, drove to Dead Horse Point and viewed the winding river and landscape far below. They went back into town and rented a red jeep and explored Arches National Park. Big steak dinner that night, then next morning, into the jeep again, to the edge of the Colorado River, and Indian petroglyphs. they returned the jeep, and that next night went on a Sound and Light trip on a raft down the Colorado.

This will give you some idea of their exploratory curiosity, but due to limited space, I will merely mention the numerous places they also visited and explored. Ouray, Colorado, staying at the Swiss Chalet, where Henrie and I stayed some 20 years earlier when we first discovered the beautiful and unique setting of this little Colorado town. To Telluride; Kim made an appointment to meet an old friend at Larimer Square in Denver; on to Salida, then Buena Vista, Colorado; on over the mountains and finally into Denver, where they took a suite at the exclusive Embassy Suite (last room left, no extra charge) where Kim met and had dinner with the friend she had called a few days before.

By now it was time to head back to Las Vegas and return the rental. They took I-70 through Vail, and beautiful Glenwood Canyon. They took an 80 mile detour to visit Henrie's childhood home in Craig, Colorado, which Henrie viewed with much nostalgia and tears in her eyes. They stopped in Vernal Falls, Utah, for the night. The next day, somehow they got on the wrong road and ended up in Provo. While there they visited Brigham Young University and the student union buildings. They finally got to Las Vegas and had breakfast in the Excaliber Hotel, the largest in Vegas. Then back on the plane and back to Martinsville.

Kim said that Henrie felt well and vibrant throughout the trip until that very last day at Vegas, when she took a turn for the worse. But, although she realized this would be her last such trip, it was most exhilarating for both her and Kim, and until the day of her death three months later, she continued to talk frequently about the wonderful time and memorable experiences they both shared on this last trip West.

* * * * *

Henrie and Kim returned to Martinsville on Friday, October 11, via the Greensboro Airport. Henrie wanted to come back to her own home. I left the next day and arrived at Kim and Walt's at 7:20 PM and we stayed over Sunday. Then on Monday Henrie and I left.

On Wednesday, October 16, I called Kim and told her Henrie was in considerable pain. Kim said she would leave everything and pick up Henrie the next day. She arrived at 4:35 and the two of them took off for Martinsville at 6 PM. The next day I called Kim and she told me that they had been to see Dr. Mlot who had taken some blood samples for analysis to be sent to the lab, and that Henrie was scheduled for a catscan on Friday. I called Henrie again the next day, and we talked for about 20 minutes. She said she felt drowsy and was taking painkiller pills to subdue the pain. Next day she called me at about noon and sounded fairly cheerful and said she was feeling somewhat better.

On Friday, October 25, Henrie received results of the blood tests and the catscan, and the news was not good. Evidently cancer was present on the right side of her abdomen. I left for Martinsville on Sunday. On Monday Henrie and I went back home to North Carolina.

Henrie's condition did not seem to improve, but she thought she felt well enough to go to Kim and Walt's for Thanksgiving. This we did, where we all had a big turkey dinner. The next day the Moores were all leaving for Myrtle Beach and Henrie and I left for home at 10 AM, just before their leaving.

With Christmas coming up, Kim wondered if we would be joining them as usual. Henrie was hesitant, but finally decided she just wasn't up to making the trip again and we declined. However, she cooked a good cornish hen dinner for the two of us. It was our last Christmas together.

On December 30, Kim, Amy, and the boys arrived at our house and we spent New Years together. They stayed for five days. Henrie's condition was declining rapidly, and we knew the end was not far off. On Saturday, January 11, Kim arrived to stay with us for the duration. Henrie was mostly bedridden, and to make her last days more cheerful, Kim decorated Henrie's bedroom with all the old photographs and paintings that Henrie loved. On Thursday, January 16, Mary Wimmer, a dear old friend of Henrie's, arrived to visit with her, which cheered her up immensely. She stayed for several days, recalling old times, much to Henrie's delight. She left on January 20.

At 8:30 in the morning of January 24, 1992, Henrie died. When I saw she had stopped breathing, it seemed she had such a serene and peaceful look on her face, I almost envied her. And why not? She had lived her life in dignity and died the same way. All her troubles, pain and anguish were over and gone.

We called the Bryant Funeral Mortuary in Franklin, where Kim and I had already made previous arrangements. Two of their attendants arrived at 1 PM and as they slowly wheeled her through the living room, Kim and I embraced each other and cried. We knew we would never see her again.

They took her first to Dr. Charles Pennington, in Dillard, to confirm her death, then in accordance with Henrie's wishes, she was cremated at the Daniel-Mize Mortuary in Clayton. She had asked us to scatter her ashes in the scenic beauty of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado, a wish Kim and I carried out some months later.

A Memorial Service was held in Bassett, Virginia, (near Martinsville) on Saturday, February 1. Dr. Walter S. Moore, her son-in-law, gave the eulogy.

Kim then gave an emotional but cheerful speech about all the wonderful times they had had together, how much they loved each other and what a wonderful mother Henrie had been. Mary Wimmer, too, gave a talk about what a wonderful friend Henrie had been since the 25 years they had known each other, going back to Lighthouse Point, Florida, where they first met. In between the speeches Mrs. Dianne Moran played the organ, accompanying soloist Susan Stone in two beautiful renditions of Henrie's choice. They were Whispering Hope and Springtime in the Rockies.

Chapter Forty-four

Moving Headquarters to Milwaukee

I have already related the Rudy Stanko fiasco in considerable detail in a former chapter. When he came to my house on March the 10th and sat down at my dining room table and flatly told me that he was welshing on his promise to take charge of the leadership of the church, the whole picture of our future plans changed in an instant. I had been waiting for and seeking the "great promoter" for years, and because of my age, was determined to turn over my multitude of duties and heavy work load (I was also writing two more books) to a younger and more energetic leader in this year of 1992, come what may. Now I was back to square one.

To whom could I entrust this great responsibility? I went over my membership list. I wracked my brain. There was not a single willing, qualified volunteer. Nevertheless, I was on the verge of doing one of two things, either finding someone, or close up shop. I was extremely reluctant to do the latter. Finally, I thought of Rev. Charles Altvater from Baltimore.

Charles Altvater was by no means the ideal candidate, but he had several things going for him. He was highly dedicated to our religious creed, and had told me several times that if it weren't for Creativity, he would have had no goals, no aspirations in life, in fact he would have become a bum, he told me. But when he read my books, it inspired him to turn his whole life around, and it meant everything in the world to him. Furthermore, he had been one of the most active distributors of our paper, Racial Loyalty, and had enlisted several of his comrades to help him in this endeavor. Most important of all, he was the only one I knew of that was not only highly articulate, but was willing to leave the job he had and take on the leadership. He and his girl friend lived together and had a two year old daughter, but they had not married, for some reason.

I called Charles about the situation and he and his friend, Frank Cook, came to the house at 6 PM on Sunday, April 5. After about an hour's talk about the details of the job, we all went out to have dinner at Dillard's Restaurant and continued our negotiations. When we came back, I showed him the upstairs living quarters and furnishings. To my surprise, Lou Durrence and Chris Peronto were still working on the layout of Racial Loyalty at this late hour. Charles and Frank Cook spent the night in the upstairs quarters of the church, and the next morning we discussed further details of taking on the job of Pontifex Maximus. He agreed to take the job and would arrive here on, or about, May 5 or 6, without his girl friend and baby the first two months. Then they both left for Baltimore that morning.

Some weeks earlier I had been talking to some attorneys and also to a certain J.R Wright, a paralegal who specialized in church law and structural set-ups. He had recommended that being a corporation was not the best legal form for a church, but rather recommended that it be owned by a trusteeship.

At 3 PM I left for Kim and Walt's, and arrived at 8:20 PM. I was in a rather depressed mood. Next morning I took Kim out to Shoney's for breakfast, and told her how low I felt and asked her if I changed the church structure to a Trust if she was willing to be a trustee. She said she would talk it over with Walt and let me know. This they did, and Kim said that she and Walt would both volunteer, if that was of any help to me.

At this breakfast I also confessed to Kim that I was bored with life as such, and that sometime within the next year or so, after I had completed publishing the two books I was working on, and had put the church organization in order and into the right hands, someone I could depend on to advance and expand it properly, that I had been thinking of voluntarily making a terminal exit from this corrupt and degenerating world. Kim was shocked and broke down and cried, and told me all the good things I had to live for. Perhaps it was cruel of me to make this confession to her, but I had been thinking about this for some time, and thought it better to let her know of my thinking some time in advance rather than have it happen and come as a sudden and unexpected shock.

I left Martinsville at 12:30 and stopped by to see Kirk Lyons, an attorney, at Black Mountain, North Carolina on the way back and discussed the trusteeship with him.

also. I donated $100 to him and his cause, since he seemed to be entering our ranks in the fight for the White racial cause. He had several reservations about the trust idea.

Charles Altvater finally arrived here at H.Q. at noon on May 8, a few days late. About a week and a half later he had to go back to Baltimore to appear in court about a traffic case. He was back a few days later. By this time I had pretty well sized him up and decided that he was a good fellow, but quite unqualified to take over such an important job as Pontifex Maximus of the church. Not only did he lack the intellectual capacity, but he seemed paranoid about the dangers involved in bringing his family here. He even wanted me to board up the basement windows, because it would be easy to throw a bomb through them, but he could not expose his little daughter to such a risk. I told him that we had been here ten years now, and whereas the danger was always present, no one here had been hurt as yet. However, if someone wanted to blow up the church, or my house for that matter, there were hundreds of ways of doing so, other than preventing them by boarding up the basement windows. In any case we both mutually began to feel that Charles Altvater was not the man for the job.

On May 20 I drove down to see Sam Dickson, an attorney in Marietta, about writing up a legal trust. I already had a stereotype trust in my hands from paralegal J.R. Wright, which cost me $300, but I wanted a real attorney to do the right kind of job. Sam Dickson was the only licensed attorney I knew of that was sympathetic to our cause. I had visited with him before and discussed the Trust idea with him over the telephone. He said that the mail order trust had many flaws in it and he would do the job properly for $1500. I told him to go ahead.

In the meantime some of the Milwaukee boys had arrived to take their free annual "vacation" here at the school. Matt Saladin and Randy Kastner were already unloading as I stopped at the school. Soon Paul Leach arrived. When I came back from buying groceries and stopped by the school again, Arno Michaelis and his pregnant girl friend had arrived. I had hoped that Mark Wilson, the leader of the Milwaukee group, would be coming also, because there was a serious issue I wanted to discuss with him.

I was coming to realize, slowly, that whereas we had done a terrific job in the last nine years, from a small rural isolated location, in that we had survived and that we had now served our purpose. We were now at the stage where we needed to be located in a number of places in large urban areas where large groups could assemble and meet on a regular basis, as they were doing in Milwaukee, if we were to grow into a mass movement. Neither Charles Altvater nor anybody else could do that in a rural, isolated area such as we occupied in Macon County, especially in the Bible Belt. Who had done the best job of attracting and building such a group? Without a doubt, Mark Wilson in Milwaukee. Since I was 74, and determined to step down, it was highly improbable that any "great promoter" would come to this isolated area, and even if he did, would stay for long, as Victor Wolf, Ron McVan, and others had proven. That is why I wanted to talk to Mark Wilson, and what I wanted to talk to him about was moving our entire Headquarters to Milwaukee, a major population center. It was also a major decision. I tried to call Mark, and after some difficulties, I was finally able to reach him.

I explained the situation to him. Not only did I want to move the headquarters, but I wanted to retire and hand over the reigns of leadership to him, since he indeed had built the largest and most active group of Creators in the country. This was Friday, May 22, and since we had a good representative group here, I wanted to hold a general meeting on Sunday to discuss this issue, and if possible, come up with a decision. In order to get down here on time, he would, of course, have to fly. This presented some problems, since the reason he had not come with the rest of the gang was that he had to work that weekend, and secondly, he didn't have enough money for the flight. After impressing him with the importance of the meeting, and offering to pay for half the cost of the flight, he decided to come. He arrived in Atlanta at 1:03 PM on Saturday, and Lou Durrence picked him up.

He first of all checked in with the boys at the school, although at this point, neither he nor I had discussed this with anyone. I invited him over to the house so we could discuss the move privately between ourselves, before we presented it at the meeting the next day. We talked for about two hours.

That same afternoon Kim and Walt arrived with a car full of potted flowers, which Kim was ready to put in the ground in the numerous planters around my house and various places in the yard. This she accomplished like an expert, and finished the whole job on Sunday afternoon. Not only did she plant dozens and dozens of flower while she was here, but she was so kind as to cook a number of various dishes I could store in the freezer and enjoy for the next month. What a good daughter! Thank you, Kim.

I called Charles Altvater the next morning and had a private discussion with him in my office at the church. I informed him about my intentions to make the move to Milwaukee, and that I intended to designate Mark as the Pontifex Maximus. I did not want to embarrass him or have it come as a surprise to him at the meeting we were about to have this afternoon. He was neither surprised nor was he unhappy about it. In fact, he was all in favor of it, and seemed rather relieved. At 3:30 on the Sunday afternoon of May 24, we had a meeting of all the members present, which included some from Baltimore, from Milwaukee and surrounding area, from Toronto, from Jacksonville, as well as our own staff.

I laid out the whole story to all the members, telling them of our plans to move our Headquarters from North Carolina to Milwaukee, Wisconsin. I told them that after struggling to build the movement for 20 years and at the age of 74, I was tired, burned out, and no longer had the energy to dynamically propel our great movement forward at the increasing momentum it deserved. We had come a long way in the last 20 years since I first wrote Nature's Eternal Religion. We had published 81 issues of Racial Loyalty and spread our ideas and our message not only into every state of the Union, but to all the far corners of the world. And above all, in this remote corner of North Carolina, despite fire bombing, having a shotgun blast fire at our logo, despite losing our insurance coverage in 1986 after the Carl Messick shooting incident, we had not been burned out, nor had we retreated. We had survived, a major accomplishment in itself. We probably never would have survived had we stayed in the polyglot milieu of Jew, niggers, Cubans and other mud races that were, and are, flooding into South Florida, where we originally started. But now that we had established bases all over the world, the time had come to move forward and expand into the metropolitan suburbs and hold mass meetings, such as some of you are now doing in Milwaukee. This is something we cannot do in an isolated area such as Macon County, where we are now located. I believe strongly the world, after all the lies, chaos and anarchy the Jews have inflicted upon us, is now more than ever ready to receive our message. We must now go forward and provide for continuity of the movement, work even harder and pass the leadership into younger and more energetic hands. In order to be able to do this we must have mass meetings and rallies.

I am, therefore, resigning and transferring the title of Pontifex Maximus on to Rev. Mark Wilson, who has done such a fine job in Milwaukee. Furthermore, I am selling the land, buildings and our precious library, and will donate all the proceeds to the new headquarters in Milwaukee. Furthermore, we will ship and transfer our large inventory of Creativity books to your office at no charge to you, except that you pay the shipping charges at your end. This is, of course, a minor fraction of the value of hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of books we are giving you. Furthermore, I am having ten thousand new copies of Nature's Eternal Religion reprinted right now, which will also be shipped to you directly. This will be followed by a new printing of ten thousand copies of The White Man's Bible, which will also be sent to you directly. It was a most generous offer, an offer they could hardly refuse.

After some discussion of the transfer, we took a vote, and everyone was in favor, with no dissenting vote. Having reached unanimous agreement, the meeting disbanded, and I went back to the house to see how Kim was doing about planting the flower beds. She was doing great.

* * * * *

The next day, Monday, all of the Milwaukee group left for home to get ready for the changeover. Meanwhile, I still had Lou Durrence, Chris Peronto, and Charles Altvater on my payroll and working for me. Charles Altvater realized that he was no longer needed and said that he might as well get back home to Baltimore as quickly as possible. I agreed with him and I told him that I appreciated his cooperation, gave him a check in the amount of $350 for the short time he had been here and he left on May 25.

Meanwhile, Chris Peronto and I went down to the U-Haul in Clayton and negotiated the rental of the biggest truck they had, an 18 footer. Lou and Chris then started loading the truck with the huge inventory of books we had on hand. Since Chris had experience in the trucking business, he did the driving to Milwaukee, alone. It took three truck loads to do the job. The hauling costs were to be paid at the other end, and since Mark called me and said they didn't have the money, as usual, I advanced the costs, later to be reconciled when we sold the real estate. The two huge shipments of Nature's Eternal Religion and The White Man's Bible were shipped later when ready, but they were shipped directly from the printer in Toccoa, Georgia to Milwaukee by regular commercial freight lines in larger trucks. There too, I had to advance the freighting costs, to be adjusted later, if, and when the real estate was sold.

By June 15, everything at our Headquarters had been shipped out. I paid Lou and Chris as per agreement, and they each went their separate ways. Chris went back to Milwaukee, and Lou immediately left for Rapid City, South Dakota to start courting Paul Jackson's daughter Mary, whom Rudy was also aggressively pursuing, as I mentioned earlier. Also, Paul Jackson, who approved of Lou, had a job for him helping Paul fix up an old motel. Ironically, in the end, neither Rudy nor Lou succeeded in their courtship.

Chapter Forty-five

Selling the Church Property

When we agreed to move the headquarters to Milwaukee, we also agreed to sell the church real estate here at Otto and turn over the proceeds of the sale to their group so that they could fund their various needs in equipment, publishing the newspaper, and other requirements in order to run their program. By June 15, we had already shipped our entire inventory of books over to their center. It was now necessary to dispose of the real estate as quickly as possible to get the funds in order to get their program into high gear. Since most of their membership consisted of skinheads and other young fellows who were next to broke, they had little ready cash, and as I have already pointed out, they did not even have enough money on hand to pay for transfer of the books over to their Headquarters. Everybody looked to me to fund everything, as if I had a bottomless gold mine at my disposal.

I have been asked by various people, why did I sell the church at all? After all, the church was consecrated ground, our starting point, our geographical Holy Center, much as Mecca is to the Moslems, Jerusalem to the Jews, and Nuremberg to the Nazis. All this is true, and it pained me more than anybody, since I had put so much of myself into the center. I hope that in some future day when we have become the worldwide religion of the White Race, we will be able to repossess it and restore it to its original pristine form. Much as it pained me to do so, there were several compelling reasons as to why I did what I had to do.

In the first place, at 74, old age was creeping up on me, and being mortal as everyone else, I did not want to kick the bucket and leave the movement floundering without a designated leader. As you will remember, I had been looking for the "great promoter" for the last ten years, without success.

Now, in 1992, I was determined to resign and do what I could to provide for continuity. Milwaukee seemed my best shot.

Secondly, the George Loeb case was coming to trial, and who could foresee what the consequences of that might engender. I realized that our properties were built for a specific purpose (to promote the cause of the Church of the Creator) and finding a buyer might be difficult and perhaps take years. I knew in order to make the deal attractive I would have to offer it at a price far below its real value. However, under the circumstances, time was of the essence, and in a way, was much more important than waiting for years, perhaps, in order to obtain a selling price that reflected its true value.

Fortunately, at the $100,000 asking price a bonafide buyer appeared on the scene in short order. His name was Dr. William Pierce, who had an operation similar to ours at his mountain complex near Hillsboro, West Virginia.

Although only from a distance, I have known Dr. Pierce for about 18 years, but had met him only twice back in 1975 when he still operated on the outskirts of Washington, D.C. Our ideologies regarding race ran on a parallel course, although as far as religion was concerned, I never did understand the logic of what he called his Cosmotheism religion, no matter how many times he tried to explain it in his literature. But it has not been of any significance as far as our common goals of promoting White racial solidarity was concerned. I have always admired Dr. Pierce as a great man and an outstanding intellectual thinker, and as one of us. I had been corresponding with him, although infrequently, and off and on, as far back as 1975, and some of those letters appear in my books, The Klassen Letters.

When he moved from Washington to his mountain complex in West Virginia, I called him and had every intention of visiting him there, but somehow, I never got around to it. In early 1992 I invited him to come and visit us here in North Carolina instead, and on Sunday, March 22, 1992, he did indeed come down and spend the day here. We had lunch together, had a congenial visit, and I showed him our premises. He left me a collection of his fine magazine National Vanguard, (1982-1985), and also a 6" x 48" plastic tube for burying guns or other valuables. At that time (March 22) I had not yet given any thought to moving our headquarters to Milwaukee, or any other place.

However, about two months later, after my experience with Charles Altvater in trying him out as a succeeding Pontifex, I came to the inevitable conclusion that whereas our location here had been extremely productive, but it had, now that I was determined to retire, outlived its usefulness. I made preparations to move the Headquarters to Milwaukee, as I have described in the previous chapter, and sell the property for the bargain price of $100,000. About three weeks later, I tried to call Dr. Pierce and let him know the place was for sale and would he spread the word. Instead, I got Will Williams answering the phone and asked him to have Dr. Pierce call me back. Meanwhile, we got embroiled in a conversation, (Will Williams, you may recall, used to be my Hasta Primus at one time) and I mentioned to him that I was moving the Headquarters and putting the place up for sale at the bargain price of $100,000.

About an hour later (this was on June 6) Dr. Pierce did call back and surprised me by saying that he was willing to buy the premises at that price, and would immediately send me a letter to that effect, enclosing a $1000 in earnest money with it.

At 11 AM, on Sunday, June 21, William Pierce, his new Hungarian wife Susan, and Will Williams arrived in a big white van to reinspect the properties, to sort things out, and go over the property, including the boundary lines. Dr. Pierce and I hammered out the details of the transaction and tied them down in writing. It was to be a cash deal by Cashier's check, and the closing date was to be July 17th.

True to his word, at 9 AM William Pierce, his wife, and Will Williams arrived at my house. They had planned to be here earlier the previous night, in fact, but had had a transmission breakdown on the big white van. At 10 o'clock we all met at my attorney's office, Bobby Key, of Jones, Key, Melvin and Patton, in Franklin. The deeds were all prepared in advance and were duly signed. Everything went smoothly, except when it came to the prorationing and adjustment of taxes. The county had a surprise in store for me. The Macon County Tax Office, unbeknownst to me had the church properties divided into two parcels, Parcel One, on which the church resided, and another bill for Parcel Two, for the other 20 acres. Parcel One had been tax exempt until the last two years, but now that they deemed it taxable, they had sent the bills to Lighthouse Point, Florida, which they knew very well I had left nine years ago and the mail would not be forwarded. I'm not sure what their game plan was, but believe that they conspired that if I never saw those bills, and therefore could not take care of them, they would sooner or later foreclose on the main church building. It was undoubtedly one of Richard Lightner's tricks. However, at the closing, with the attorney inquiring into the total taxes due, they revealed that they had sent these bills to Florida, and that I was delinquent for the years 1990 and 1991, and I had to come up with an unexpected $2,133.54 in order to close the deal.

As agreed upon, Dr. Pierce came up with two cashier's checks totalling $100,000. I paid the extra taxes and signed the deeds, and the deal was completed. While in the Courthouse tax office paying the additional taxes, Will Williams said out loud "I wonder where Richard Lightner lives." Lightner was the scoundrel who had instigated the revocation of our tax exempt status, while all the other churches in the county were enjoying exemption without any hassle.

The four of us, Dr. Pierce, his wife, Will Williams and I, then went across the alley from the courthouse to have lunch at the Courthouse Plaza Restaurant. We were enjoying our meal, and were about half way through, when in saunters Sheriff Homer Holbrook up to our table with Richard Lightner at his heels, and said to me in a challenging tone, "I understand you were wondering where Richard Lightner lives. Why did you want to know?" I was somewhat surprised, since I had always considered us as being on a friendly basis in all our previous meetings. I said no, I never said that. At this point Will cut in and replied in a bravado voice "I said that." Holbrook turned on him and asked "Why do you want to know?" Will casually replied, "Oh, its just a hobby of mine." Then Sheriff Holbrook really started to chew Will out and I thought a real fight would ensue, but Will held his temper and took it. It sort of spoiled our lunch, but on the other hand, it provided unexpected entertainment. Actually, the Sheriff was out of line and out of his territory, since we were not in the county but within the city jurisdiction, and if anybody had any beef about Will exercising his First Amendment rights, it should have been the Franklin city police. I was somewhat irritated about the way they barged in on our lunch, but then, I was only an innocent bystander.

So ended our business transaction on a note of rancor and also amusement. Dr. Pierce, his wife and Will went back to the church cleaning up affairs, taking down our big eight foot logo and the large letters around it, saying THE CHURCH OF THE CREATOR. After some more cleaning up, the party of three left for West Virginia, their van loaded to the gills.

Chapter Forty-six

Scattering Henrie's Ashes in the Rocky Mountains

Years before she died, Henrie expressed her wish that when that event came about she wished to be cremated and that her ashes be scattered in some of the most scenic areas of the Rocky Mountains in Colorado. She was born in Colorado, and she loved Colorado. Twenty years earlier, when we put our aging and beloved dog Tammy to sleep, we buried Tammy by a large pinion tree on a hillside in Ouray County overlooking the beautiful Uncompahgre Valley and the Sawtooth Mountains to the east. Even then Henrie remarked that she wouldn't mind being buried at that spot herself.

Before she died on January 24, 1992, she reiterated that request to Kim and me, and we faithfully promised her we would carry out her wishes. After she died, she was duly cremated in Clayton, Georgia, and Kim and I decided that we would carry out her wish of scattering the ashes at a time of the year when the weather and the scenery in Colorado was at its best. That time was approximately the same as when the two of them had made that grand trip West the previous year, which I described earlier. That time of the year was at the beginning of October.

In carrying out our mission, I drove over to Kim and Walt's house at the end of September, 1992.

Thursday, October 1, 1992. Kim and I left the Moore's house at Martinsville at 9:10 AM and drove to the Triad Airport near Greensboro, North Carolina. Our destination was Albuquerque, New Mexico, but we had to make several plane changes to get there. We left on United Flight 1625V at 10:48, had a snack, and landed in O'Hare 50 minutes later. Taking off from Chicago on United Flight 147V we had lunch on board and arrived in Denver at 1:52. From there we flew to Albuquerque and reached our final destination at 3:58 PM. Kim went straight to Avis and rented a car, a snappy four door Chevy Corsair. She seemed to know her way around. She had been there before.

We drove to the Hampton Inn at 7433 No. American Freeway, N.E., where we had a reservation. ($50.50 plus Tax.) And fortunate it was that we did, because the town was filled to the brim with tourists eager to watch the big hot air Balloon Fiesta. After unpacking and resting up a bit, and me having a highball, Kim and I drove to the Holiday Inn Restaurant and had a sumptuous dinner. Since rooms were hard to get, we asked for and got a reservation for the next night also at the Hampton Inn.

Friday, October 2. In the morning Kim and I visited the Albuquerque Museum of Art, History and Science. We had a genuine Mexican lunch at the Montoya Patio Cafe — tacos, enchiladas and tamales. After lunch we visited the New Mexico Museum of Art and Natural History. At 5 PM we saw the Imax Theatre film of the Niagara Falls (big screen, about 45 minutes.)

We then wandered over to Old Albuquerque and visited the numerous quaint Mexican shops, with which the place abounded. It also abounded with hundreds of thousands of people. Finally tired, we had dinner at the Black Kettle Restaurant. Before going back to the motel, Kim tried to make arrangements to go up in a hot air balloon the next day when the big show was to start, however, because of timing, she did not get to take that ride. We also bought two of the wide angle cameras, the throw-away type, to capture the colorful scene. There were a total of 640 balloons on the grounds, getting ready to be heated up and fly up into the wild blue yonder the next morning.

Saturday, October 3. Since this was the big day that all those colorful balloons were going up into the clear blue sky, we got up at 5 o'clock. Kim and I had a complimentary breakfast in the Hampton Inn breakfast lobby (more items than most offer). We checked out at 6:30 and drove to the grounds where 640 hot air balloons were being staged and heated up. The traffic to the grounds was heavy, but we slowly made our way to the spectacle where all those balloons were packed on the grounds and getting geared up to take off. They came in all shapes and sizes. Some were in the shape of a huge cow, some in the shape of a whisky bottle with their brand name on it (for sure), some in the shape of a castle, you name it. There were also reputedly 1.1 million people on the Fiesta grounds.

Kim and I took a lot of pictures, some regular, and some wide angle. I bought another throw away camera.

By 10 o-clock, the show was pretty well over. It was amazing how so many balloons could have been heated up and were up in the air in such short time. It was something I had never expected to see and probably won't ever see again, but it was an awe inspiring sight to see the skies filled with all those colorful balloons.

Since Kim and I had already checked out of the motel, we drove north on I-25 towards Antonito, Colorado, where we were going to take a trip on the narrow gauge railroad. But first we stopped in Santa Fe. I wanted to see the Palace Restaurant again, where Henrie and I used to eat some memorable meals many years ago. I wanted to see if it was still in business and still as plush as it used to be. It was still there, but under new management. Kim and I had lunch there in the garden restaurant, and for dessert, shared a special pie they made. I used to enjoy their Napoleons, but they did not make them any more. After lunch we talked to the new owner who was from Germany. We then visited several art galleries around the Plaza, and were specially impressed by the works of an artist and sculptor by the name of Ken Payne, with whom we had an interesting conversation.

After two hours we left, and as we drove north on Hwy 84, then onto Hwy 285, we saw a number of elk in the meadows along the way. We arrived at Antonito at 5:15 PM. It was a shabby little town in Colorado close to the New Mexico border. It is noted as the terminus of an old ore bearing narrow gauge railroad that runs to Chama, New Mexico and is known as the Toltec & Cumbres narrow gauge railroad. Today it no longer hauls ore, but is a tourist attraction because of its quaintness, because it cuts through such wild and beautiful scenery, and is one of the few such railroads left in the West. (Another one is the Silverton to Durango, which we all had travelled years earlier, Henrie and I twice, once with the Moore family when the boys were only little tykes.)

The first place we went was the Antonito railroad station and bought two tickets for the next morning for the narrow gauge railroad trip to Osier and back. ($29 for Kim, $26.10 for the Senior Citizen.) Osier is only half way to Chama, but if we went all the way, we would be without our car, have to stay overnight, and come back on the same route the next day. Next we checked in at the Park Motel, a pretty run down dump, but the room itself wasn't too bad. We didn't have much choice. We had dinner at the Dutch Mill Restaurant, where I chose a Chef's Salad in order to get my veggies.

Sunday, October 4. Checked out of the Park Motel. Kim took a picture of me standing in front of a large mural painted on one side of the motel. We then had a big breakfast at the same Dutch Mill Restaurant, where we also picked up our "brown bag" for our lunch when we would get to stop over at Osier.

We boarded the train (car E, seats 3 and 4), and at 10 AM it slowly started on its creaky journey. The scenery was wild and beautiful. We were travelling along in rugged mountain terrain at an average elevation of between nine and ten thousand feet. At 12:45 we arrived at Osier for an hour's delay, when we would catch the other train going back. Taking our little brown lunch bags, we entered a large hall that had many dining tables. We chose one next to a window where we could watch the beautiful scenery below and ate our lunch of sandwiches, sweet rolls and fruit. Then, outside, we took a number of pictures with both the regular and the wide angle newly bought throw away cameras.

By the time we left Osier (elevation 9600 feet) we had used up all the film and bought another throw away for the scenic views on the way back, arriving at Antonito at 5:20 PM. We said goodbye to some of our newly acquired friends and took off in our rented Corsair, heading north for Alamosa. Entering Hwy 160, we turned west, drove over Wolf Creek Pass and on to Pagosa Springs, arriving there at 8 PM.

We checked in at the Oak Ridge (Best Western). Being somewhat bushed from a long day and a lot of driving, we had our dinner brought to our room from the restaurant across the parking lot. I had a prime rib on sandwich and apple pie, and Kim had a Mexican dish.

Monday, October 5. We had breakfast at the Best Western at Pagosa Springs. We then sauntered over to the Wagon Wheel Art Gallery, where Kim bought a print of a painting by Milton Lewis, the owner, who was also a friend of Ken Payne, the artist with whom we had talked in Santa Fe. We then drove about five miles further down the road to Pagosa Lakes, a huge development where Kim and Walt bought a four acre homesite many years ago, and on which they hope to retire some day. Kim also visited the sales office and also Homeowner's office to find out the latest as to what was going on. The development had changed ownership several times.

We then drove on west to Durango, where we had lunch at Denny's. There we switched north onto Hwy 550 (the Million Dollar Highway). There was a lot of new road work being done on it. We drove through the nostalgic old town of Ouray, and on to Ridgway where we once owned a 160 acre ranch (since sold in 35 acre homesites.) Driving one mile north to Owl Creek Road and then about a mile east, we found the big pinion tree where we had buried Tammy some 20 years earlier. We now performed the sad task we had come here to do. We scattered about half of Henrie's ashes near Tammy's grave and around the tree. Kim asked to be alone for about five minutes to meditate, while I went back to the car on the side of the road and waited for her, reflecting on my own thoughts.

We then went back to Ridgway and took Hwy 64 west, until we came to a place where we thought the view of the San Juan Mountains was particularly inspiring, and scattered some few more handfuls of ashes in the meadow. The driving another five miles or so, we came to another outstanding vista of the San Juans to the south and scattered a few more handfuls. I saved about a cupful of her ashes, which I want to keep in a bronze urn and have them placed in my own coffin right next to my heart when I am buried, so we will be together in all eternity.

We drove back to Hwy 550 and north to Montrose. By now it was about 6:20 PM and we stopped at Baskin Robbins for a dish of icecream. I then took the wheel of the car and we drove all the way to Gunnison and checked in at the Best Western for the night. We were tired, but not hungry, and went to bed without dinner.

Tuesday, October 6. After having breakfast at Gunnison, we drove west to Alamosa, then back tracked our way through Antonito, through Santa Fe, and arrived back at the Hampton Inn at Albuquerque before 5 PM. The balloon fiesta was still in full swing and we immediately inquired whether they had been able to secure that room reservation with two beds for us that night, as we had requested before we left. They had, and we felt relieved. We went to an Arby restaurant and loaded up with goodies and ate in our room. We wanted to make sure nobody stole our room away from us while we were gone.

Wednesday, October 7. We got up early in order to catch our 8:40 plane. We had a quick complimentary breakfast in the Hampton Inn lounge, loaded all our bag and baggage into our rented Corsair and left for the airport ten miles away at 7 AM. The traffic was heavy and slow. We hadn't counted on the balloon tourists still being there to block our way, in addition to the usual heavy morning traffic jam. Anyway, in the nick of time Kim dropped me off at the outside United stand, and I had our bags ticketed all the way through to Greensboro, North Carolina. Meanwhile Kim turned in the rented Corsair and settled that bill, while I went to the counter and had our tickets validated for Flight 369V, and we barely made it in time to get on the plane for Denver. From there it was clear sailing to New York and from there to Greensboro, North Carolina, arriving at about 6:15 PM.

A shuttle bus took us to the parking lot about half a mile away. We loaded all our belongings into my good old waiting Buick and we were off to Martinsville, about 50 miles distant. We arrived there at about 7:30. Walt was away to some church meeting at Roanoke. Kim put a quick dinner together and we ate at about 9 PM. I went to bed at 10, fairly bushed. Home at last.

Chapter Forty-seven

Creativity and the White Race

Propelling it into Perpetuity

The future fate of mankind now rests on the success or failure of the creed and the program of the Creativity movement. We have reached that crucial stage in the history of the human race, a watershed, you might say, where it will either regress and degenerate into a horrible monstrosity of mongrels, who are incapable of either feeding themselves or governing themselves, as exemplified by Somalia, Ethiopia, India, Pakistan and dozens of other countries populated by the decrepit mud races. On the other hand, we can progressively march forward to a Whiter and Brighter world, as Nature in the most creative and benevolent of her many plans intended mankind to progress as the epitome of her creation. We have now reached that momentous crisis in the history of mankind, and, whether we like it or not, the decision will be made in the next generation, or even more likely, in this decade. That decision will be made, one way or the other, either by us, or by our enemies. As to whether the human race will be further debauched by the Jewish conspiracy into a mass of starving, clawing mongrels and savages, unable to either feed themselves, or govern themselves as a civilized society, depends entirely upon us. As to whether we, the White Race, will be able to muster the will and the determination to fight for our very survival, and save Planet Earth for Nature's Finest, now completely rests in our hands. Only Creativity has the creed and program with which to do the job, and do it thoroughly. And that, my friend, is the stark, undeniable fact of the world situation as it faces us today.

* * * * *

In September of 1984, my wife and I visited the huge 40 acre religious compound of evangelist Oral Roberts, located on the outskirts of Tulsa, Oklahoma. It was founded in 1962 as the Oral Roberts Evangelistic Association in downtown Tulsa. However, Oral Roberts proved to be such a dynamic and successful huckster that the organization soon outgrew its cramped downtown quarters and purchased a 40 acre tract outside the city for greater expansion. And expand it did! Soon he was in the process of building the Oral Roberts University, a huge complex. He also built a unique television complex. He also built a unique television broadcasting station that had a dias which housed the studios and broadcasting facilities high up on a tower, so that looking at it from any direction it looked like a huge cross. And the money kept pouring in by the tens of millions. He had more money coming in than he knew what to do with.

When Henrie and I visited the compound in 1984, he had a few years earlier conceived of a new idea as to how to spend all that surplus money. He claimed he had had a vision of a 900 foot tall Jesus Christ standing before him, telling him to build a hospital equally tall, namely 900 feet. With his usual energy, he plunged into the project with a vengeance. It was a crazy idea, out of all proportion to the needs of the area, but he went ahead anyway. When we visited the place in 1984, he had one part of it half finished, when he ran out of money. Checking the situation lately, (1993) I am told that as a hospital, it was a complete operational failure, and he has given a 30 year lease on one of the towers to The Cancer Treatment Center of America, and the other two of the three towers are standing vacant, unused, and waiting for a tenant. And that, as far as I know, is where the situation is floundering today. But that is not the crux of this narrative.

Oral Roberts is about the same age as I am, now in his middle seventies, and he realizes that he is mortal, that his life and energies are coming to an end. He was, and is an expert con-artist without equal, and his whole empire was built on lies, fraud, nebulous promises of pie-in-the-sky when you die, or the threat of fry-in-the-sky if you don't comply and come across with the shekels. He has been extraordinarily successful, but con-men with such talents are rare. Now that he is nearing the end of his life, he is worried as to whether anyone can fill his shoes and keep his empire from falling apart. He is recently quoted as saying "Success without a successor is failure." He is absolutely right. There is nobody who can duplicate his artistry as a con-artist, and since he has come up with nothing but the same old fraudulent promises and Jewish lies as have been around for centuries, I predict that upon his death his empire will fall apart, just as did Jimmy and Tammy Bakker's even before their death, and just as did Jewish communism.

* * * * *

I cite the Oral Roberts story in order that we may better understand the importance of succession and continuity. In building the Creativity movement for the ages, we too, are manifestly concerned with competent succession. But there the similarity ends. Whereas we have not been anywhere nearly as masterful in raking in the money, or in promoting propaganda, or in building our membership, we do have the winning formula in our hands. We don't have to lie to anybody, we don't have to make false promises of pie-in-the-sky-when-you-die, or promote a passel of fraudulent Jewish lies in order to build our movement. Our religion is based on the Eternal Laws of Nature, on the experience of history, and just plain good common sense. Our Race is our Religion. We see the world and the universe as it is, not based on stone-age myths, but on fact and verities as they are in reality, and our conclusions and actions are governed by those facts that are substantiated by observation and sound reasoning. Above all, our goals are the loftiest and most noble ever conceived by the mind of man, namely the Survival, Expansion and Advancement of Nature's Finest.

Because of these fundamental verities I have the utmost confidence that we will win in the end, while all these other Jewish shibboleths will fall by the wayside.

* * * * *

As anyone who has read Racial Loyalty, or any of my books knows, we have been searching for the Great Promoter for the last fifteen years. As everyone also knows, I am not he, and never pretended to be. I am merely a philosopher and a writer, and in no way am I the expert promoter that is embodied in an Oral Roberts, or a Jimmy Bakker, or a dozen other television con-artists. I believe the time has come when we must now face up to reality. No longer can the White Race afford to be led around by the nose through Jewish Christianity by these deceptive Jewish stooges to our own detriment and destruction, mongrelization and enslavement. We must now face reality and fight for the very survival of our precious race. In order to successfully do so we must first of all have a militant and powerful creed around which the whole White Race can unite, rally and build a power structure with which to smash the enemy. That we now have in Creativity, fully structured and completed. Secondly, since our creed is based on the Leadership Principle, we must have an astute and determined leader to take charge of the movement, promote it aggressively on a massive scale and on a worldwide basis.

As I have said numerous times before, I realized from the very beginning, that whereas I had finally structured the first and most comprehensive racial religion for the survival, expansion and advancement of the White peoples of the world, we needed the great leader to spread our creed and beliefs, and I was not that man. By 1992, I felt that not only could I never fulfill that role, but due to the ravages of age, I could not even carry on my routine duties. To whom could I turn? None came forth to the challenge.

Rather than let the movement die, as a last resort I thought about moving the Headquarters to Milwaukee, under the leadership of 24 year old Mark Wilson. I called a meeting and made them a proposition they could not refuse. I have already described that move in full detail in a previous chapter, and need not repeat it here.

At that time I had full confidence in both the integrity and the loyalty of Mark Wilson. Unfortunately, I was wrong on both counts. No sooner did they have $95,000 in cash in their hands (from the sale of the North Carolina Headquarters, as I had promised them, $5000 of the $100,000 being consumed for transfer and shipping), plus at least a quarter of a million dollars worth of books and other materials, when strange things began to happen. Instead of having the guts of using his real name, Mark hid under the alias of Brandon O'Rourke, a cowardly act indeed. Instead of acknowledging the honor and trust I had bestowed upon him. Mark never acknowledged his now proffered position as Pontifex Maximus, not even a thank you note, not a letter, absolutely nothing. When I kept reminding him (at least a dozen times) that such offer was not binding unless accepted in writing, he repeatedly kept lying to me he would be sending it out shortly, but in seven months he never did. He just kept promising he was "gonna, gonna, gonna." I began to get a strong impression that his word was worthless.

The situation about publishing Racial Loyalty was similar. In seven months they managed to put out only two editions, and neither one of them being much to the credit of the movement. He began to have visions of grandeur about himself, and had the idea that before anyone could become a Reverend of the church, they had to personally appear before him on bended knee for approval, even if they had to travel all the way from Sweden. Because of his arrogant stance, we lost one of our most ardent workers in Europe, the Rev. Tommy Ryden from Sweden, a great man, not to mention a number of others, all because of this idiotic tactic.

Worst of all, whereas they never had had more than thirty cents in their pockets before and didn't even know how to set up a bank account (I had to give Mark explicit instructions) now that they had all this free money at their disposal they began to throw it around like it grew on trees. They now paid themselves salaries, (it was formerly a volunteer organization) and purchased a ten acre piece of real estate out in the woods that they didn't really need. But the worst crime of all, they hired Steven Thomas, a felon, as their key office manager. I had warned Mark about Steve Thomas' record as a felon who had spent four years in the Leavenworth Penitentiary for one of the worst crimes imaginable. He had raped a woman in Vietnam, then shot her to death. Furthermore, because of his connection with the George Loeb incident (which I have also described previously) Steve was now on parole, threatened with imprisonment, and had to report to his JOG superiors regularly, a perfect inside pipeline for the Jews to get every scrap of information as to what was going on at our C.O.T.C. Headquarters. I told Mark time and again to get rid of this JOG informer, but he did not. Again, he was gonna, gonna, gonna, but he lied to me repeatedly. In the meantime, the headquarters was spending our money lavishly, and it was going down the drain. Something had to be done.

On October 14, an impressive looking gentleman drove up to my house in North Carolina in a Lincoln Continental, rang the doorbell and introduced himself as Rick McCarty. He was neatly dressed, in suit and tie, and seemed to be an individual of some distinction. I invited him in, and we had a comprehensive conversation that lasted about two hours, regarding our religious movement, Creativity, which is what he had driven up from Niceville, Florida to see me about in the first place. To get the full story, I suggested he read all my books. I gave him a complete set and he paid me $50. He said he already knew something about our movement and had contemplated starting a church group in his area.

* * * * *

In the meantime, things were going from bad to worse in Milwaukee. Rick and I had several more telephone conversations about the situation, and he suggested he would like to come up for another visit. He said that he had read every one of my books and he had several ideas which he wished to discuss with me. I let him know that I was most receptive. We arranged for a time compatible to both of us.

He arrived in his Lincoln Continental at 4:30 PM on Tuesday, January 19, staying at the Best Western in Dillard. We agreed to meet at the Cupboard Cafe in about an hour and have dinner together. Rick McCarty gave me a briefing on his background and qualifications. He was a psychologist headquartered in Niceville, Florida, and had a Ph.D. degree in psychology. He gave lectures and seminars on psychology, and also had attended a number of Klan and racial rallies. He said he was responsible for doubling the membership of Tom Robb's Klan group, but he couldn't go along with their Christian orientation. He also volunteered he had been married twice, but unfortunately both marriages had ended in divorce. He had a thirteen year old daughter by his first marriage.

He was evidently a man of many talents, and said he also specialized in the brokerage of business firms, as well as reorganizing and restructuring ailing companies. All this entailed a lot of lecturing and a lot of traveling, some of which often took him to cities in Europe.

Having read all my books, he was especially interested in Creativity, and believed it was the only movement that had the viable answer to the Jewish tyranny over the White Race and the peoples of the world. Only through a racial religion such as Creativity could we now unite and save the White Race from mongrelization and total slavery. He volunteered that if he could become head of it, he could put Creativity on the map and make it a growing, powerful worldwide organization. In fact, he was most eager to do so, and that is why he had come up to see me. I was most interested, and from the credentials he had volunteered, he seemed well qualified. We had a lot more discussing to do, and would sleep on it and discuss it further the next day. I told him that I had planned to go to Toccoa the next morning to see my printers about final details on my book, On the Brink of a Bloody Racial War, which they were in the process of completing, and that they had a sample of the cover to show me. We could talk about his offer further while we were on our way to Toccoa and back.

During the drive to Toccoa, we finally came to an understanding, and I decided with the way things were going in Milwaukee, a change was necessary, before they squandered all the funds I had entrusted to them. Furthermore, with an inside informer such as Steve Thomas in charge, a change was imperative, costly and disruptive, though undoubtedly it would be. I decided I would take Rick up on his offer, despite all the disruptions it would undoubtedly entail.

The first thing he would need to make the changeover, he said, was a Power of Attorney from me so that he could represent me as if I were there myself. We went to my attorney's office, Bobby Key, and picked up a sample of a model of a Power of Attorney, then fashioned it to fit the purpose that it would apply only to affairs concerning the Church. My understanding was that it was to be only a temporary tool to be useful for the difficult negotiations he would encounter in dealing with the Milwaukee group. I typed it out on my computer in my study, then went to the bank and had it notarized.

That was Wednesday, January 20. We called Milwaukee and informed them of our intentions. One of the first things I informed Mark Wilson of was the basic fact that since he had never acknowledged my offer to be Pontifex, we had never had a binding contract, since in order for an agreement to be binding it requires both offer and acceptance. I had already spelled this out to him in detail in a letter I had written to him a few days earlier. When we returned from Toccoa, I called Mark, told him Rick McCarty was here, and we were going to make the change in leadership and location of the Headquarters. However, through telephone tapping and the Jewish spy system, they were already well aware of what we were doing even before I called, and all hell broke loose. With his Power of Attorney in hand, I let Rick do most of the arguing, negotiating and wrangling. This entailed a number of people and went on for the rest of the day until Rick left for his motel for the night. It continued on further the next day until Rick left for Florida at 4:30 PM, January 21.

* * * * *

Since January 24 was the first anniversary of my wife's death, my daughter Kim and I wanted to be together in remembrance of this tragic day and to console and comfort each other. She arrived alone at 4:30 PM on Saturday the 23rd. It was so kind of her to come and be with me. I needed the moral lift and consolation, as also did she.

Next day, Sunday the 24th, we spent most of the day talking about the happy times the three of us had spent together, what a wonderful wife and mother Henrie had been to us. We reminisced about our trip to Europe in 1967, about all the other enjoyable trips we had taken to Mexico, to the Keys, to the Bahamas, to Hawaii when Kim was seven years old. We even recalled coming up to North Carolina to dig for rubies in Franklin when we first moved to Florida in 1958 and several years following. We looked at old photo albums, in many of which Tammy, our lovable dog, was also present, and fondly remembered all the interesting incidents and places we had shared. It was a nostalgic day.

That night I took Kim out to the Dillard Restaurant where we each had a Prime Rib dinner. She stayed on through Monday, and helped straighten out the house, since I had not been the best of housekeepers. At 1:30 PM the following Tuesday, we said a tearful goodbye for now, see you again soon, and she returned to Martinsville.

* * * * *

Meanwhile the battle between the Milwaukee group and Rick McCarty continued by telephone. Finally it was decided that Rick would fly up to Milwaukee and work out a settlement. In the meantime, the letter I had written on January 18, a day before Rick arrived at my house, was on its way to Mark Wilson, in which I laid down the ultimatum. Mark claimed he had not yet received it, although it was now January 26. It read as follows:

January 18, 1993

Rev. Mark Wilson
C.O.T.C. P.O. Box 340377
Milwaukee, WI 52234

Dear Rev. Wilson:

On June 14, 1992, I sent you a letter appointing you as my successor as Pontifex Maximus of the Church of the Creator. Despite my numerous reminders to you that such an appointment requires written consent of acceptance and to make it binding, and despite your numerous promises and assurances you would do so promptly, seven months have now gone by and still I have never received any such written statement acknowledging acceptance. Not even a thank you note for the honor of the offer, nor for the hundreds of thousands of dollars of money, books and materials donated to your group. Nor has any of this even been acknowledged by you.

In order for any contract to be binding, it must have both an offer and an acceptance in writing. You have failed to do so, and are evidently even too cowardly to use your true name in public. Such are not qualifications for leadership of a great movement as important as I consider the Creativity movement.

I am therefore revoking my offer to you as my successor, and the Transfer of Leadership letter is now null and void, even if you should now send such a letter of acceptance. Your position as Pontifex Maximus was never confirmed, the offer is now revoked, and therefore you never did have any legal claims to that position. You do not now, nor in the future. I remain the Founder, the Leader, and the Pontifex Maximus until such time as I appoint a more qualified and cooperative appointee. I have such in mind, one who is ready, willing and able to come forth before the public in his own true name, and will accept in writing such appointment and responsibility for leadership.

What prompts me to take this summary action is that your performance for the past seven months has been extremely disappointing. After seven months I still have to see the second edition of Racial Loyalty come out of your office. You have knowingly placed in the nerve center of your office a man you knew to be a criminal felon, a rapist and a murderer. That in itself is a heinous offence against our organization worldwide, as witness the letter and resignation of a great man, Rev. Tommy Ryden, of Sweden. I am enclosing a copy with this letter. Not only is Steve Thomas a hard criminal, but he is, as you very well know, under probation, and you can be sure that he reports every move that transpires in your office to his JOG superiors. I have repeatedly demanded that you get rid of him, and you have told me repeatedly you would, but you lied to me. You even gave me a deadline date, Jan. 15. Yet when I called H.Q. on the 16th, there he was, answering the telephone as usual. I was surprised, and when I said that I understood he would be gone by the 15th, he said he knew nothing about that. What is your explanation?

Secondly, for a man that is supposedly in supreme command, you are almost impossible to reach. You seldom return my calls, or call at all. Your private telephone is constantly changing, or disconnected and you seem to deliberately avoid contact with me. Now that I have granted you large sums of money, and large quantities of books and materials, you are under the false impression that you can damn well do as you please. You couldn't be more mistaken. We are not helpless. You are no longer in authority. You will soon be replaced by a person who has better judgment, better promotional and speaking abilities, and superior leadership qualifications. Also H.Q. will be moved and Racial Loyalty published monthly and promptly.

For the good of the movement and for your own best interests, I suggest you resign quietly and promptly, after setting your house in order, and this letter need not be published and broadcast to our membership. But in any case, your position as Pontifex Maximus was never legalized, and your authority in assuming such is null and void.

For a Whiter and Brighter World,
Creatively yours,

B. Klassen, P.M.

Rick McCarty left Niceville late in the afternoon of the same day, January 26. Mark Wilson picked him up at the Milwaukee Airport and drove him to his hotel that evening. The real negotiations started the next day. Rick had a tough nut to crack. He was facing a hostile group on their home turf. Furthermore, they had all the money, the books, all the materials and other valuables in their possession, although their legal and moral position was weak. Armed with my Power of Attorney, I further reinforced his position by sending him his Credentials as Pontifex Maximus by Overnight Express Mail, which arrived on the first day of the negotiations, as did the letter I had sent to Mark a week earlier revoking any claims he might have to that title. Considering all the odds stacked against him I think Rick did a remarkable job as a negotiator in reaching any agreement at all, albeit we did not get all that was due us. Perhaps his training as a psychologist was of some help.

Here is the agreement they finally reached after two days of haggling.

Mark claimed of the $95,000, they now only had $65,000 left (Rick and I perceived they really had more.) Of that amount Mark wrote a Cashier's check in the sum of $50,000 that would go to the new C.O.T.C. Headquarters in Florida. The Milwaukee group could keep 5% of all the books they still had, and all the office equipment they had purchased with the Church money. This also included the 10 acres they had bought. Since they had recently also received the two large book shipments of the second printing of Nature's Eternal Religion (of 10,000 books) and also the same quantity of The White Man's Bible, plus all the other books that had been shipped to them from North Carolina in June of 1992, it took two huge freight trucks to convey all this material to Florida, with the new Headquarters paying all of the freighting costs. Rick made all the arrangements with the freighting companies, prices, places, etc., before he left. Unfortunately, not all the materials in Milwaukee were in one place, but in two, but Rick had made arrangements for the truckers to pick up at both places. When the goods arrived about a week later, which consisted of most of the books, the trucker had refused or failed to stop at the second place. Missing were all of our large Portfolio No. One, all of the nearly 5000 posters of the Church (Mobilize the White Race!), almost half of the second set of posters, also the 8 x 10 black and white photographs of myself, and some other materials. We still haven't received the rest of that merchandise, but will persist until we do.

* * * * *

The Transfer of Leadership Certificate. I sent Rick by Overnight Express was worded exactly the same as the one I had sent Mark Wilson seven months earlier, but which had never been acknowledged. Here is an exact copy of the document I sent to Rick on a C.O.T.C. letterhead on January 25, and which he received in Milwaukee the next day:

Transfer of Leadership

I am hereby resigning as religious leader of the worldwide CHURCH OF THE CREATOR, and appoint you, Dr. Rick McCarty, as my successor with the title of Pontifex Maximus. This resignation and transfer is effective as of January 25, 1993. I will still remain president of the North Carolina corporation called The Church of the Creator, Inc., on a temporary basis.

You will serve out your term for the balance of the decade, and a new Pontifex will be selected during the year 2000 C.E., in accordance with our creed and program.

You will further set up a group of 12 true, tried and trusted believers from our membership, to be called the Guardian of the Faith Committee, whose duty it will be to act as watchdogs over our creed as set forth in our Sacred Books, in keeping it pure and consistent, and prevent it from ever being altered, adulterated or tampered with. They will also have the power to enforce this edict.

During the several years between now and the year 2000 you will also try to institute a Leadership School to train our future leaders. You will also set up a College of Electors whose duty it will be to select the best trained and most capable leader, when the time comes to select your successor. It is most important that we choose the most dedicated and capable leader best qualified to carry on the duties and responsibilities of this high office.

Signed, this 25th day of January, 1993

Unlike Mark's non-response, I received a prompt and enthusiastic acknowledgement from Rick when he got back to Niceville, (although he pre-dated it for January 25). It reads as follows:

January 25, 1993

Mr Ben Klassen

It is with the utmost respect and honor, that I accept the leadership position as Pontifex Maximus.

I also accept full rights to Power of Attorney in all matters concerning the Church of the Creator on a world wide basis. Including all the responsibility that entails.

At this time allow me to extend my gratitude for the Faith you have in my ability to complete your work. To take up the banner of the Church of the Creator and carry it to victory.

As Founder of the earths only White Racial Religion, you have made history. I can only say, it is beyond words to express the awesome pride and honor I feel, To have had the privilege of knowing a man of your magnitude. Through me, your life work will continue and on the day of our victory a special holiday will be declared. Through out the White World, bands will play. Armies will march and every man, woman and child will honor your name.

Thank you Ben Klassen. Your are my HERO

When Rick left Milwaukee, he also had been given a copy of the mailing list. Whether it had been doctored and a number of the better prospects had been left off, we are not sure. In any case, he had a big job ahead of him. His first job was to put out the next issue of Racial Loyalty and send it out to everyone on the mailing list he had. Instead of taking several months to do this first job, he had a twelve page issue of Racial Loyalty put together and out within the first two weeks, in which, of course he also broke the announcement to our members that we had moved our headquarters to Niceville, Florida, and that the Church was now under new Leadership, with Rev. Rick McCarty being the new Pontifex Maximus. The paper was well put together and had many good articles in it, the lead article being written by the Rev. Eric Hawthorne, from Canada.

On April 4, the book printing press in Toccoa, Georgia had completed its printing job on the 10,000 copies of our new book, On the Brink of a Bloody Racial War. I had instructed them to ship 8500 copies to our new headquarters in Florida. I had also given the printers instructions that 1000 copies were to go to one of our ardent distributors in Mississippi (Dick Liggett, P.O. Box 717, Raymond, MS 39154), and 500 copies to John Brooks, P.O. Box 68, Pinole, CA 94564. I had made these promises to these loyal supporters some time before I had met up with Rick McCarty, or had any ideas that we would be making any drastic changes, and now that the book was finished, I honored that promise.

The next thing that Rick accomplished before he had been in office less than a month was to get himself invited to appear on the Sally Jessy Raphael talk show where he could expound upon Creativity before a nationwide TV audience. The subject was White Collar Racists, on which he appeared with three other White representatives and four black racists. The in-house audience consisted of niggers, homos, and other hand-picked anti-White rowdies, all of which were, of course, extremely vocal and hostile to the White Race. The problem with such a setting is, of course, that there is much shouting, much confusion, and there is really very little time to get your point across. However, Rick gave a good accounting of himself, and the show was aired on March 18, 1993. A copy of the tape is available from our C.O.T.C. Headquarters, P.O. Box 411, Niceville, FL 32588.

* * * * *

This pretty well brings us up to the present and I must end the book at this point in time and get it to the printers before some unforeseen calamities, or the uncertain turbulence of world events, make even that impossible. Only time will tell. Certainly we are living in a chaotic and unpredictable era of history in which the whole civilized order, and the White Race in particular, could be demolished by the fiendish Jewish juggernaut within this generation. The only force that can prevent this most horrible catastrophe from becoming a reality is an informed and united White Race itself. Nobody else will, or can, do it for us. At seventy-five, this is undoubtedly the last book I will write. I have dedicated the last twenty years of my life and all my worldly resources to try to awaken the White Race to its impending peril, and I have done all I can. I am finished, and this book can be regarded as My Last Will and Testament.

Now the younger generation must pick up the torch and fight the battle. In so doing, we must, among other things, make an intensive search for the White Financial Angel to back up, bankroll, and finance this tremendous operation. There are still 500 million White people on this Planet Earth, all of which in their heart of hearts, I am sure, want to see the White Race survive, prosper and expand. I have exhausted my resources in waging the fight over the last twenty years and I am sure there are millions of White people who are multi-millionaires who have a lot more financial resources at their disposal than I ever had. There are quite a few families, in fact, who are worth billions. There is, for example, the Sam Walton family of Wal-Mart, who, I understand, is worth 23 billion dollars. There is the Ross Perot family, who are worth a few billion. Then there is Ted Turner, who not only has tremendous wealth, but with his CNN Network has tremendous media power as well. Then there are the Hunts of Texas, and their oil fortunes, there are the Fords, the Rockefellers, the Adolf Busch family of Anheuser-Busch, the Coors of Coors beer, and dozens of others who are in the billionaire or near billionaire class. None of these people are Jews. And then there are hundreds of thousands in the hundred million dollar category, in the ten million class, of whom we have never even heard. I am sure that there is at least one among all those affluent White people who alone could bankroll our movement over the top and never even miss a few millions. It is our duty to seek them out and make the situation clear to them that it is they who have the most to lose if we don't win this battle against our mortal enemies. And who are our mortal enemies? The evidence is out there, plainly for every thinking person to see: the Jews and the mud peoples who are flooding the world and seek to enslave and destroy us. They are our enemies, and they hate us with a vengeance, and their program to destroy the White Race is now in high gear.

It is your beholden duty to go out and find some of these White financial angels we were talking about earlier and enlist their aid. We, the White Race, have the financial means, we have the intelligence, and we have the potential power to prevent the destruction of our race and our civilization. It is all blueprinted in stark and comprehensive detail in our RACIAL RELIGION. We must now promptly get our act together and take firm, resolute and ruthless action to implement that plan and we must do it now! A tremendous responsibility rests upon the shoulders of our leader, and whether he can succeed or not depends upon his drive, his energy, his perseverance and his wisdom, but most of all, it will depend upon your energetic and unstinting support, financially, morally, and above all, the zeal with which you help organize and spread the word in your own territory.

So let us take up the challenge! Let us support our new leader, Pontifex Maximus Rick McCarty, back him up to the utmost, exert ourselves beyond the call of duty and save the world for Nature's Finest and the millions of our future progeny who will follow us. DELENDA EST JUDAICA! RAHOWA!

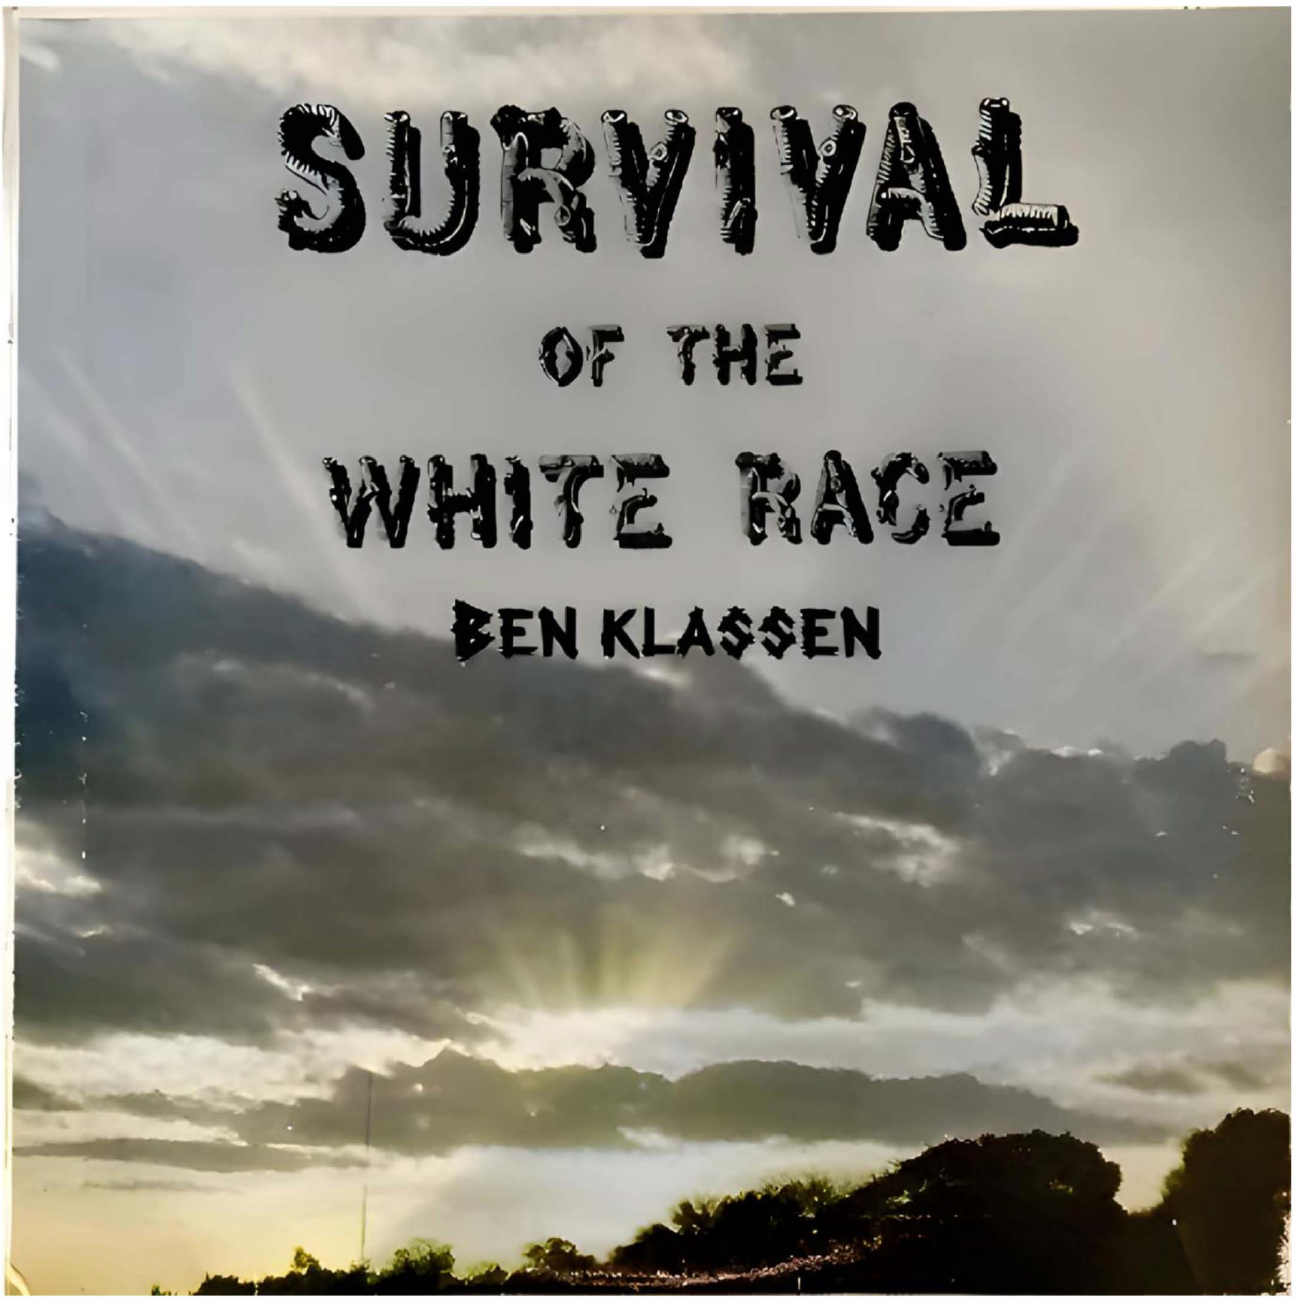
OF THE

WHITE RACE

BEN KLASSEN



Survival of the White Race

By Ben Klassen. First published 1976.

What I have to say in the next 40 minutes is probably going to shock you. It might even profoundly shake up some of your most cherished superstitions and pet presumptions that you may have nurtured all your life, without perhaps ever bothering to examine the validity or worthiness of those presumptions. This discussion is going to delve seriously into race and religion - two subjects which our power establishment tells us we must never discuss, unless of course, you are a Jew, or a black, or some other so-called minority. Today, we are going to defy the Jew-controlled power structure and discuss race and religion from the White Man's point of view.

In particular, we are interested in examining whether we, the White Race, are going to survive or whether we are going to be mongrelized and destroyed in a flood tide of parasitical, colored races. Therefore, I want you to decide early in this presentation whether you are interested in the survival of your own kind; or, whether you prefer to be a traitor to the White Race and would just as soon see it wiped from the face of the earth and supplanted by niggers, blacks, yellows, semites and other mud races. For make no mistake about it, the White Race is a highly endangered species - a vanishing species - one that its enemies have decided must disappear from the face of the earth. If suicide of your own kind is what you wish to see, now is a good time to stop listening. If, on the other hand, you are loyal to your own kind and wish the White Race to survive and prosper, then you, undoubtedly, are not only interested in hearing about the Creativity religion but also becoming a member of our religious movement.

The creed and philosophy of our religion, called Creativity, is set forth in our book Nature's Eternal Religion. It is the White Man's bible and its basic goal is not only the survival of the White Race, but also its expansion and advancement. Since in this short dissertation it is impossible to give the full basis of our religion, even in short summary, we must continually refer you back to our bible, namely Nature's Eternal Religion, a book consisting of 508 pages and 49 chapters. Why are we so concerned about the survival of the White Race? Basically, there are two overwhelming reasons. One, the White Race is rapidly shrinking into extinction and two, we are proud members of Nature's most distinguished, intelligent, productive and creative species. We are talking about our own survival, the survival of the White Race. There are many other reasons we can cite, such as the preservation of civilization and everything else that is worthwhile in life, but all these other reasons become secondary. First, and foremost, we of the Creativity Religion are concerned about the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race for its own sake, period. The sum total of all our efforts and dedication revolve around that central issue.

As soon as we begin to logically and calmly examine the impending destruction of the White Race, our enemies immediately bristle and hurl at us all the timeworn clichés and invectives of “racist,” “fascist,” “nazi,” and a host of others. It seems that if the Jews are loyal to Israel and to their race, that is just wonderful. If the niggers organize for the soul interest of their race and shout: ‘Kill Whitey’, that, too, is highly commendable. If the indians organize and commit atrocities, that, too, is to be praised - for isn’t the White Man responsible for everybody else’s shortcomings, stupidities, and their inabilities to cope? To which I say, loudly and emphatically: No! We are not responsible for the shortcomings, defects and stupidities of the niggers and their historical inability to create a civilization; nor to maintain it, even when the White Man has brought it to them. Nor are we responsible for the colored mud-races’ inability to cope with the problem of feeding themselves above a starvation level. In six thousand years of recorded history, the blacks of Africa have never even so much as invented the wheel, a written alphabet, or much of anything else. No, we are not responsible for that. Nature made them dumb, shiftless and lazy - you can take the nigger out of the jungle, but you cannot take the jungle out of the nigger. It is not our responsibility to compensate for their defects, nor is it our duty to incorporate them into our society, or into our race, and thereby poison our own racial bloodstream. On the contrary, the highest law of Nature commands us to make every effort for our own race to survive, to expand, and advance the genetic quality of our future generations.

There is a sinister race on the face of the earth that is working feverishly for the mongrelization and final liquidation of the White Race. It is a tribe that is fanatically loyal to its own, and fiercely hostile to all other races. That tribe is the tribe of Judah. The Jewish race has frantically been striving for the last several thousand years towards its ultimate goal - the genocide of the White Race. As far back as three thousand years ago, during the days of Solomon, the rough outlines of a Jewish conspiracy were hatched in which the final goal was the enslavement of all the other peoples of this planet and the possession of all the wealth, riches and natural resources of the world. In the ensuing three thousand years, the Jews have progressed steadily towards that goal and are now on the threshold of total success. For a more detailed history of the Jews and their conspiracy, read chapter six of Nature’s Eternal Religion entitled “Masters of Deceit: a Short History of the Jews.”

How, you might well ask, could the Jews possibly succeed in perpetrating such an outrage on the rest of the world; how, especially on the White Race which is highly intelligent, creative and productive. Again, for the full story, we must refer you to Nature’s Eternal Religion, but we can sketch a few of the significant factors in this limited discussion. For one thing, the Jews would never be able to get to first base if it weren’t for certain serious idiosyncrasies in the White Race itself. The Jews are extremely skillful mind manipulators, they are tremendously expertise at spreading lies and compounding confusion, they are the historical masters of deceit. In their conspiracy to confuse, deceive and control the mind of the White Man, they have had some incredible help from the White Man himself. The best help the Jew has had are two suicidal weaknesses inherent in the White Man's makeup; namely, his gullibility and his susceptibility to superstition.

It is one of the strange paradoxes of history that, whereas the White Man is the most intelligent, creative and productive creature on the face of the earth, when it comes to his being able to recognize his enemies and fight for his own survival, the White Man is the most stupid creature on the face of the earth. And therein lies his Achilles' heel, which the Jews have exploited to the hilt. There are other weakness from which the White man suffers that have been of tremendous help in the Jewish program of enslavement. Some of these are the naïve sense of fair play, his sympathy for the underdog, his extraordinary and exaggerated sense of compassion, his inability to realize his own outstanding worth, but far more devastating has been the White Man's fatal susceptibility towards superstition, gullibility, and his strange inability to recognize his mortal enemies. Let us remember these two words: superstition and gullibility, they go together. Superstition deals with believing in the supernatural - spooks, spirits, gods, devils, angels, witches, fairies, gremlins, ghosts, etc. Gullibility refers to foolishly believing in things that aren't so, without bothering to check for evidence. These two debilities of the mind - gullibility and superstition - are the basis of almost all religious faiths that have ever been invented and perpetrated on a long suffering humanity. If you can get people to believe in spooks in the sky, then they are often more real to the believers than the real world. Furthermore, in their fantasy, the spooks often become more important to people than the real world. They also become an extremely powerful weapon in the hands of con artists in controlling the masses of their gullible believers. It is very similar to scaring little children with a bogey man, if they believe, then they are as afraid of an imaginary bogey man as if he were real. Believing in a fantasy makes the fantasy as real to the believer as reality itself, and often, even more so.

The point is, that the impostor, who claims to be in with, and have influence with the spooks in the sky, has a powerful weapon in his hands with which to frighten and manipulate the minds of his gullible victims, and so it has been throughout the history of mankind. A book I have read shows that people have invented more than 30,000 gods and goddesses that gullible and superstitious fools believed in, even before the Jews invented their particular versions of Jehovah, Jahweh, Jesus Christ, the "holy ghost," Satan, and a host of other imaginary spooks. The Jews, in their search of how to control and manipulate people's minds, discovered early in their history, what a powerful weapon spookcraft, or religion, was. They utilized this discovery to its fullest in two directly opposite ways. They invented Jehovah as their own private god to bind their own people together into a fanatic racial loyalty such as the world had never seen before or since. They invented Christianity, with its built in suicidal teachings, to confuse, debilitate and destroy their enemies. How effectively they did so we shall soon see.

During the early centuries, in the rise of the great Roman civilization, Rome fought and overcame its many surrounding enemies. As Rome expanded, one of the greatest threats, and its most dangerous rival, was Carthage, who had established a powerful empire on the southern shores of the Mediterranean, directly opposite from Rome. For one hundred and twenty years, these two rival nations intermittently fought each other in three major wars in a life and death struggle. Finally, when Rome triumphed, they leveled Carthage to the ground, killed the men, and sold the women and children into slavery. Carthage was wiped from the face of the earth and was never again to rise as a threat to Rome. A few centuries later, in the year 70 A.D., the Jews of Judea rebelled against the Roman authorities. Emperor Vespasian sent General Titus to Jerusalem with a few legions. In a siege similar to Carthage, General Titus devastated the Jews, leveled Jerusalem to the ground, and either dispersed, killed, or sold the population into slavery. Now we would think, that in a fate similar to Carthage, the Jewish threat would have been liquidated forever and wiped from the face of the earth, but not so. On the contrary, history shows the Jews survived and the Romans, as a race, perished. The Romans declined rapidly after they embraced Christianity, while the imported slave populations multiplied rapidly and replaced the original Roman stock. By the year 476 A.D., the Roman Empire collapsed miserably, and the original Roman racial stock, for all practical purposes, can be considered extinct.

The Jews had their revenge, they had destroyed miserably, and completely, the Roman race, the Roman Empire, and the great Roman civilization, for all of which they harbored an intense and pathological hatred. How did they accomplish this? They knew they could not overcome the Romans in open combat, in which the Romans excelled and the Jews, in any case, are physical cowards. Being a parasitical race and the supreme masters of deceit, they decided to employ their special weapon; namely, mind subversion. They decided to destroy the Romans by deranging their brains, and they decided to employ religion as their most powerful weapon with which to warp and cripple the Roman mind. They decided to take full advantage of those two weaknesses, to which the otherwise intelligent White Man is so susceptible; namely, gullibility and superstition. They invented and foisted on the Romans, a new and suicidal religion - Christianity, a religion that has plagued and crippled the White Man's thinking to this very day. Its founder, supposedly, was one Jesus Christ, who according to Luke 2:21, was a circumcised Jew.

What is it about Christianity that is so devastating and suicidal as to cause the breakdown of the great Roman civilization and plunge the White Race into the dark ages of superstition and ignorance, poverty and misery, for the next thousand years? If we examine the New Testament, we don't have to go far from its original first few pages to find out. In the "Sermon on the Mount," (Matthew 6, 7 & 8), we find a mythological Christ dispensing the following suicidal advice: 'Sell all thou hasst and give it to the poor', 'Love your enemies', 'Turn the other cheek', 'Resist not evil', 'Judge not'. There is more real bad and suicidal advice that, if followed, must surely lead to self-destruction and extinction of those that take such idiotic advice seriously. Let us examine a little more closely just how crazy and how destructive the above five teachings really are. Let us examine the idea of 'Sell all thou hasst and give it to the poor'. If everyone was a so-called "good Christian" and followed that advice from their early youth, there would be no one that would ever build a business, build a home, or build a family. As soon as they had earned two dimes to rub together, they would immediately transfer such to the freeloaders, parasites, and the niggers who would be there waiting to relieve the working White Christian of his hard-earned savings. More likely still, the Jew, who doesn't believe in such nonsense, would beat the other parasites to the punch in relieving the foolish, but gullible, White Man of his earnings and property. A fool and his money are soon parted.

In any case, if we were all "good Christian" chumps, there would be no substantial citizenry left who could support the building of roads, harbors, airports, cities, homes, industry, factories, or anything else. We would, in fact, soon be reduced to a straggling horde of meandering bums, without money, without homes, without industry, without jobs, without food. Civilization would break down and be reduced to primitive barbarism. Or let's take the idea of 'loving your enemies'. If you hadn't fallen for the first bad piece of advice of foolishly giving everything away to the freeloaders, but were gullible enough to succumb to the idea of 'loving your enemies', the end result would be the same - suicide and destruction of yourself. If instead of giving it away, you did manage to accumulate a home and some property, you would in short order be beset with thieves, pirates, and robbers who would quickly relieve you of your money, your home, and any other belongings. Why wouldn't they? You 'love them' and, especially, since such victims would also be imbued with the stupid Christian idea of 'turning the other cheek' and 'not resisting evil', the robbers would have a field day and you would be right back to where you started, with nothing. You might as well have stuck with the first suicidal concept and given it all away in the first place. The end result would be the same - you end up with nothing, the Jews and the parasites end up with the hard-earned fruits of your labor.

There is much more bad advice in the "Sermon on the Mount", for a fuller examination, read chapter thirteen of Nature's Eternal Religion entitled "The New Testament." Suffice it here to say that any reasonable and intelligent analysis of the bad, poisonous advice that is interlarded and interlaced throughout the New Testament always leads to the same, inevitable results. The end result is self-destruction and suicide. We might well ask: Why would anyone be stupid enough to want to buy such a load of garbage? It is incredible that anybody would, but we come back to those two mortal failings of the White Man's mind; namely, gullibility and superstition, and the treacherous, cunning Jew played on those weaknesses to the hilt. Strange and incredible as it may seem, the Jews were successful in peddling this new suicidal religion to the Romans and their rapidly mongrelized and deteriorating offspring of imported slaves. History tells us that the Romans bought this garbage of Christianity from the Jews. In fact, Emperor Constantine - himself a treacherous criminal who murdered his own wife and son, among many others, and who was later canonized as one of "saints" of the roman catholic church - in the year 313 A.D., decreed that Christianity was now the official religion of the Roman Empire, to the exclusion of all others. By the year 476 A.D., the Roman Empire had collapsed completely. The superlative White Roman race, who produced the most splendid civilization in the golden age of classical history, and perhaps to this very day, was for all time wiped from the face of the earth. The Jews did it by feeding the Romans a suicidal new religion, the Romans bought the new poison, hook, line and sinker and the victims died from it. The Jews had their revenge.

The collapse and destruction of the Roman Empire is undoubtedly the most colossal tragedy in the history of the White Race. The original Romans exemplified much that is best in the White Race, they were a brave and noble people. The Romans were creative builders and organizers, they were resolute and tenacious, strenuous and indefatigable. Daunted by no reverses or misfortune, they never admitted defeat, having a strong sense of discipline and duty. They were clear-headed, business-like and efficient, and finally, they were not a mere fighting race, but one gifted above all others with a genius for consolidating and organizing, and for the forming and administering of laws. Their civilization lasted for a thousand years; it left the White Race a proud legacy of laws, customs, art, sculpture, language, architecture and government that persist to this very day. Our debt to the now extinct Romans is very great indeed. In contrast to the Romans, the Jews were the very opposite; they never built any civilization, created no art, architecture, sculpture, or anything else of value. Yet the Jews are the oldest surviving race in the world today, who have appeared and reappeared in the histories of all great White peoples, such as the Egyptians, the Greek, the Romans, et cetera, for the last five thousand years. Their most predominate characteristic has been their cunning and deceit in boring into the vitals of other nations, sucking out their life blood and destroying them. They are doing just that to the productive White Race today, here in America and in the rest of the world. Since the White Race as a whole, but especially here in America, is the victim marked for mongrelization and destruction, it behooves us to seriously study our tormentor and find ways and means of warding off the suicidal path on which we - the White Race - are now programmed.

First of all, let us analyze why the Jews have survived for five thousand years when more intelligent, more healthy and powerful nations, such as the Romans, did not survive. Why did the Carthaginians disappear from the face of the earth, when Jerusalem suffered a similar fate, but the inferior Jews survived to destroy the Romans? There are many reasons for this, but the overwhelming reason lies in the mosaic religion of the Jews, which is tailor-made for this parasitic race. The mosaic, or judaic, religion has bound the Jewish race together in a fanatic loyalty which has not been matched by any other people. It has done more than that, it has given them a purpose and a program that they have pursued tenaciously for the last several thousand years. In essence, that program is to garner, under the Jews, all the wealth and riches of the world and to subjugate all other people as slaves to do their bidding. A tall order, but they have been extremely successful and are nearing their ultimate goal. Their mosaic religion has done more; it has given them a philosophy which has been the core around which they have rallied throughout their long and tumultuous history. Stripped of all the window dressing, that creed essentially boils down to this: What is good for the Jews is the highest virtue, what is bad for the Jews is the ultimate sin. Nothing else matters; the survival and the welfare of the Jewish race above everything else. The Romans, on the other hand, had no such religion. True, they had a confusing array of gods - Mars, Jupiter, Mercury, Venus, and a host of others - but they meant little to the unity or stability of the Roman race. They gave the Romans no particular creed, no goals, no program, no purpose. Their religion was nothing more than a superstitious indulgence in a world of fantasy; above all, it did not promote racial loyalty - the one ingredient which must be the core of any creed for the survival of a race. Having no serious or worthwhile religion of their own, the Romans were highly vulnerable to the cunning of the treacherous Jews, who as we stated before, are history's masters of deceit and the most insidious and crafty mind manipulators the world has ever known.

The Jews had one other advantage. Unlike Carthage, they were not concentrated in a Jerusalem, or even in Judea. They were dispersed all over the Roman Empire, parasitically feeding, especially on the trade routes and centers of commerce. They dominated the money market, the slave trade, and many other nerve centers of power. Above all, they stuck together like glue. Since the Romans had no good religion of their own, and were therefore highly vulnerable, the Jews went about their destruction with a vengeance. They invented Christianity soon after the destruction of Jerusalem in 70 A.D. They invented the horrible concept of hell, like the bogey man we described earlier, to terrorize and panic their foolish victims into submission. With these formidable weapons, especially the fear of hellfire and torture, they wreaked havoc on the superstitious and the gullible. The victims swallowed the whole package, including the suicidal concepts of 'Sell all thou hasst', 'Love your enemies', 'Turn the other cheek', 'Resist not evil', 'Judge not', and a whole passel of other idiotic and suicidal advice. The befuddled Romans, who in their past history had been realistic, down-to-earth, taken good care of their affairs here on earth - the only place man has ever been known to live - now lost their sense of reality. Instead of pursuing their earthly duties, as Christians their minds now meandered in a fantasy world of spooks. Their empire, their civilization, and their race, went down the drain - down the sinkhole of history - never to rise again, with Jews in control of the wreckage.

Fifteen hundred years later, the Jews are still in control of the White Race, even after having subjected us to a thousand miserable years of the dark ages. We are still stuck with the same suicidal religion that warped the brains of the Romans and orbited their minds into the unreal world of spooks. In the meantime, the Jews have strongly consolidated their gains. Over the centuries, they have either strengthened or added to their arsenal of weapons with which to exploit and control their victims. Some of these tools, other than religion are, first, money - the Jews control the gold, the finances, the banks, and stock exchanges of the world. Second, propaganda - the Jews control the newspapers, wire services, television networks, movies, book printing and distribution, magazines, and every other meaningful facet of the news and influence-wielding media, both here in the United States, and throughout the world. Third, education - how the Jews control and blanket our educational institutions is too broad a subject to cover here; suffice it to say, that they coerce our children, by force of law, to attend, then indoctrinate and pollute their impressionable young minds with destructive and depraved Jewish ideas, most of which will lead to race-mixing and the racial poisoning of our future generations. Fourth, government - having control of our nation's finances and news media, they control our government and are all over it like a swarm of locusts. This applies to all governments of the world.

Their most usual trick is to have some White gentile yokel, preferably Anglo-Saxon, as front man, and have him surrounded by the real manipulators of power, all Jews. If we take a look at the bureaucrats in control in Washington as of the summer of 1975, we find Gerald Ford, a White gentile, acting as a stooge and front man. He is surrounded by Henry Kissinger, a Jew who is Secretary of State and also the director of the National Security Council. In these two offices, the fate and security of the nation hangs in balance, yet it is in the hands of a Jewish communist traitor whose loyalty is to Israel, to communism, and to the Jewish worldwide network. But this is only the beginning, head of the Defense Department is a Jew by the name of James Schlesinger, the head of the Treasury Department is a Jew by the name of John Simon, chairman of the Federal Reserve board is a German-born Jew by the name of Arthur Burns, alias Bernstein. Ford's financial adviser is a Jew by the name of Seidmann. The federal insurance advisor is a Jew by the name of Bernstein. Press secretary to the president is a Jew by the name of Ron Nessen. Ford's chief speech writer is a Jew by the name of Friedman. Head of the economic council is a Jew by the name of Alan Greenspan. Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare is a Jew by the name of Casper Weinberger. The Attorney General's office is in the hands of a Jew by the name of Levy. Even Betty Ford's secretary is a Jewess by the name of Mrs. Weidenfeld. They make sure they have all the bases covered and leave no nerve center of power occupied by one, not of their tribe. The cast of characters changes constantly, and has changed by now, but it is always a Jewish cast.

Now, so far, we have been analyzing the problem, but what is the solution to the disastrous and sinister calamity which the White Race finds itself boxed into today? Are we doomed to mongrelization and extinction the Jews have scheduled for us, like they did the Romans, or is there any hope whatsoever that the White Race will awaken, shake off its stupor, organize, and forcefully seize control of its own destiny.

We of the Creativity Religion say that we can free ourselves from the sinister vise in which we are now locked and that we can regain control of our own destiny - we must, it is a matter of life and death. That we are in a horrible dilemma there is no doubt. In 1920, the White Race of the world was outnumbered only 2-to-1 by the colored and mud-races of the world. Today, it is outnumbered 12-to-1 and rapidly shrinking while the mud-races are exploding at an unprecedented, engulfing the White Race even in their traditional homelands, such as America and England. The Jewish United Nations gleefully predicts that in another generation, the White Race will be outnumbered 49-to-1. At the rate we are going, that will most surely happen and by that time, it will be too late. Reduced to impotence, the White Race will be mastered by the flood tide of mud-races at a given signal by the Jews. For generations, the mud-races have been goaded and incited to 'Hate Whitey' all over the world, and will be eager, ready and willing to slaughter us as soon as they have the upper hand, and especially as the struggle for food becomes more critical.

We of the Creativity Religion are convinced that we can stave off this horrible disaster and we have the creed and the program to do it with. Had the Romans possessed it, the Jews would never have had a chance. Had the Romans had a Racial religion, like Creativity, instead of their meaningless gods and spooks, what a different world this would be today. Instead of a world rapidly degenerating into chaos, flooded by a starving mass of mud-people who cannot cope, and a world exploited by the Jewish network, we would today have instead a beautiful world populated by a creative, productive, culture-loving White Race. It would be a beautiful world minus niggers, Jews or hordes of subhuman mud-races. The genetic, cultural and technological progress that would have evolved in the ensuing fifteen hundred years since the Romans perished would be a marvel to behold, something that can only tax our wildest imagination. Such a world as the Romans would have built had they marched forward with a strong Racial religion is the goal of the Church of the Creator. It is not too late. What we need to day is a completely new direction, a powerful new religion for the White Race, a religion based on the superlative value of our Race. In Creativity, we have such a religion.

The central core of our religion, Creativity, is the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, and the White Race alone, to the exclusion of all others. We are taking the most salient page from the history of the Jews, the golden rule of the Creativity Religion reads: What is good for the White Race is the highest virtue, what is bad for the White Race is the ultimate sin - period. Organized and united, the White Race is ten times more powerful than all the Jews, niggers, and mud-races of the world combined. We of the Church of the Creator mean to organize that awesome potential of White Power for the benefit of the White Race. We mean to put every White Man in the position where he will have to openly take a stand, either for the White Race by word, deed and action, or be exposed as a dastardly traitor to his Race … there will be no 'Mister In-betweens'. Whereas, it is impossible to set forth our entire creed and program in this limited dissertation, we want to urge you to read, and re-read, the bible of our religion: Nature's Eternal Religion. It consists of 508 pages and 49 chapters. It is divided into two parts: the first half is entitled "The Unavenged Outrage" and sets forth the problem; the second half is entitled "The Salvation" and blueprints the solution to the problem. The whole book can be considered the creed and program of our religion; namely, Creativity.

I have said, that it is the core of our creed, to advance the welfare of the White Race, to expand it until we ultimately inhabit all the good land of this fertile planet, and above all, to keep our Race pure, to advance it to ever finer genetic levels. In no way does this imply waging wars of extermination against the mud-races, should this be your impression, nor do we want to enslave any other race. We mean to pursue the same program of expanding the White Race as the White Race pursued in the winning of the West and the building of America. We mean to apply the American way to the winning of the world. The essential part of our program is Racial Loyalty - providing for the best interests of our own people, the White Race. It is our unalterable position to stop subsidizing, feeding, aiding and abetting the scum and parasites of the world that are now devouring our productivity and consuming our largesse. Just as the inferior American redskins were not able to compete with the White settlers, so the mud-people of the world are not able to compete. It is only because of Jewish control and the perverted sense of confused loyalty that the White Race is now shrinking its own; feeding and expanding the mud-races to where the very survival of the White Race is now in dire jeopardy. It is stupid, idiotic, and suicidal to shrink our own and expand our enemies. We of the Church of the Creator mean to reverse this process, we mean to practice White teamwork - Racial Loyalty - to expand the White Race and to shrink the numbers of the mud-races by letting them shift for themselves. We mean to expand our numbers and our territory in the same way the White Man did throughout the world during the sixteenth, seventeenth, eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

The first phase of winning our fight for survival lies in bringing the White Man's thinking back to sanity. The biggest obstacle we have to overcome is not the Jews, the niggers and the other mud-races, but first of all straightening out the White Man's confused thinking. In order to survive, the White Race needs a new creed, a new philosophy; in short, a completely new religion. The White Man's thinking must shake off the Jewish cancer that has clouded his mind throughout the last two thousand years and face reality. That is what the religion of Creativity is all about. It is based on reality, it is not based on 'pie-in-the-sky-when-you-die' nor 'fry-in-the-sky-when-you-die', nor is it based on a fantasy world of spooks in the sky to whom we might vainly implore, plead and pray for our welfare. No, we are done with the superstitious and primitive nonsense and throw it all overboard. Our religion is based on reality: the laws of Nature, which are eternal, which are real, which always happen the same and always will be; and one of the highest laws which Nature has spelled out to us, as to every other creature, is the survival of our own kind. This law transcends all others. Had the Romans realized this, had they kept their race pure and pursued the survival, expansion and advancement of their own race, this would be a far better and superior world today.

There is much more to our program and creed. There are the Sixteen Commandments of the Creativity Religion. There is the program spelled out in the chapter entitled “The Road to Greatness.” There is a picture of a bright new world of the future toward which we are striving. It is all contained in our bible: Nature’s Eternal Religion. I urge you not only to read it, but study it daily. There is much to be done if our great people are to survive. The first constructive thing you can do is to avail yourself of the book, read it and then distribute it among your White Racial Comrades. The next thing you can do is to organize; well, read the whole program in the White Man’s bible: Nature’s Eternal Religion. Remember, to be skeptical and of an inquiring mind is no vice; to be gullible and superstitious is no virtue, and may today be the day when you take a stand for the White Race, when you dedicate yourself and your future to the building of a Whiter and Brighter world of tomorrow.

Thank you.

ABOUT THE CHURCH OF THE CREATOR

This record sets forth in short summary the purpose and goals of the creed contained in NATURE'S ETERNAL RELIGION, the Bible of the CHURCH OF THE CREATOR. Basically those goals are the survival, expansion and advancement of the White Race, the finest and most intelligent creature ever conceived by Nature. It is narrated by Ben Klassen, P.M., Founder of the CHURCH OF THE CREATOR.

Not only does the CHURCH OF THE CREATOR have a powerful new creed for the Survival of the White Race but it also has a dynamic program to achieve that goal. It goes beyond that. We not only are interested in the survival of the White Race but also its expansion until it inhabits all the good lands of this fertile Planet Earth. We go further. While insuring its survival and expansion, our program seeks to encourage the genetic, cultural and esthetic advancement of the White Race for the next million years.

Our creed is firmly rooted in the Eternal Laws of Nature. We shun the superstitious beliefs of most past and present religions which cater to imaginary Spooks in the Skies. We believe in reality. We do not believe in "Pie in the Sky when you Die", nor "Fry in the Sky when you Die", nor that there are a host of spooks in the sky controlling our destiny and forever threatening us with eternal hell fire.

We are realists. We mean to bring the White Man back to reality — to the realization that the White Race is the most precious value on the face of the earth. We believe that promoting the welfare and best interests of our own kind, the White Race, here on earth — the only place man has ever been known to live — is a thousand times more important than catering to non-existent spooks in the skies.

In order to help your race and yourself, play this record to groups of your friends as often as you can. Distribute the White Man's Bible, NATURE'S ETERNAL RELIGION to as many contacts as possible — SPREAD THE WORD.

BEN KLASSEN

AN AUDIENCE WITH ...

School for Gifted Boys Speech

By Ben Klassen. Made in 1989.

We have a Matthew and a Mark here. You know, the Christian religion started with four Gospels. Matthew, Mark, Luke, and John are the office strictly. We've got two Matthew, Mark. We've got Arno and we've got A.W. I ought not to give a long speech here. I want to get you on the program that we've got set up, and we want to introduce you to some rigorous training and education and discipline.

Now, let me state first of all what the school is all about. We're starting out real small, as you can see, and we hope to have probably what? Is Justin coming you think? Probably we are, because we're after his opinions, so we'll probably cover more.

Anyway, I wish we had the school full, but we'll start small. Okay, like the acorn grows into a gigantic oak. And when we look back in some what some of the other religions did, what they started with, how little they started with, and what flimsy pretexts they started with, such as Christianity, and what tremendous influence they had on the events of human history, and especially on the white race.

We have the start here of something that is as big as anything that's ever happened in history, and what we need is leaders. We need leaders. We need young people like you.

So what are we trying to accomplish with the school?

First of all, we want a large training corps for something we want to not call the Christian pretext, the program that the building of the Nazi party that Adolf Hitler accomplished in Germany. He is one of our greatest heroes. He's the greatest hero, as far as I'm concerned, in the white race because of what he accomplished.

And he, too, started off, you know, the party, that only had seven members initially. And he said at his trial in 1924, that he was about to be imprisoned. He said, now today, we may only have a small number of followers. We will have only probably, but we will start out as a platoon, then we will build into regiments, we will build into divisions, we will have armies that were to take in the whole country, finally, and they did. And I think we have a more solid foundation than any movement that has ever tried to do something constructive.

Christianity, as you know, was a disaster for the white race, as you see. The most horrible tool that the Jews had dreamed of, of which to drug and immunize and render harmless the White Race, so they couldn't fight back.

Well, our movement is one of the few that really has the interests of the White Race and the White Race alone at heart.

So, the School for Gifted Boys is there to train young people like you for leadership. We hope to have hundreds, we will get thousands, through the Church of the Creator have been very instrumentally. It will be the main program that saved the White Race from destruction.

And there's a possibility either way. I mean, it's up to what we do from here on out, to make the difference. If it does survive, it is going to do exactly what we say it's going to do. It's going to take over the whole world. There's no longer any room for compromise between where we can live happily and comfortably with the mud races, or they with us. It's going to be either them, or us. And the school is there to train you.

We want the best to come forward. Train them in our program. Orient them, indoctrinate them in our creed and program, and go out in the world and build a Brighter and Whiter world.

A Sound mind, in a sound body, in a sound society, in a sound environment. And those are all four different things that all tie together.

Now, the first thing we start with is, with a sound mind. You can't think straight if your mind is filled with a lot of garbage that isn't true. Which our so-called Christian society is just completely slopped with.

You know, if you're thinking that there are spooks-in-the-sky there and they're going to do this for you and all you got to do is pray and everything will be solved, instead of doing the job yourself that needs to be done, you're going to be left hanging.

So, our first step is a sound mind, sound body, in which our book, Salubrious Living, to which we are going to seriously introduce you to. You might have some reluctance on that at first, but I'll tell you one thing. Once you get into the fruitarian diet, you're going to feel a lot better. You're going to be a lot healthier, and you're going to live a lot longer, and you're going to have a lot more energy.

Now, at my age, I haven't gotten into it as much as I should. I'll admit to you frankly. And of course it's harder to change lifestyles when you get up into the 70s, or ever. However, I'll tell you this much. If I was your age, I would seriously get into it, and stick with it. And once you get into it, you'd never want to change. That's what Salubrious Living is all about.

Sound society. The White Race cannot survive in an integrated mud race society. They're either going to devour us, or we're going to drive them out.

We're either going to be mongrelized and extinct as a race, and the whole world is going to be a slop pale, and you young fellas are going to have to live in it.

Now, I don't need Creativity anymore at my age. I'm 50 years older than you fellas are. And somehow, if I died tomorrow or got shot tomorrow, the Jews got me tomorrow, I'd feel "well, I'd lived a pretty good life, long life. I'm ahead of the average and so on".

But, you fellows are going to have to live in this world whether you like it or not, and you're not going to be able to survive in a mud-slopped world. How would you like to live in the middle of Harlem? You think you could survive for long?

It's going to be mud, ground, sled, kill.

The mud races are expanding like a pack of rats, cockroaches is a better word. And the White Race is shrinking.

It's not that the White Race doesn't have the ability to defend itself. It's not that the White Race isn't fecund and can multiply prolifically. You know, my grandmother, for instance, had 14 kids back in Russia, Mennonites.

And given the proper environment, the White Race has no problem raising a nice, big, healthy family. But the Jews have so stacked the deck against us, that we're not in a position anymore to build a family, have a nice house of their own, which they're entitled to, and they should have, and we have the ability to produce all this.

And so, we are at war!

And don't forget it, we're at war, whether you like it or not. Most White people are so snuckered, and their brains have been so deranged, that they don't know, they won't accept it even when you tell them, that we are at war, whether we like it or not, we're either going to be mongrelized and extinct, or we're going to get organized, mobilize, and overcome.

Now there's no in-between. It's going to be, for us it's going to be either or. And we're going to either win this war, or we're going to lose it, and we're going to be extinct.

You know that General MacArthur said, "There is no substitute for victory". You've heard that, haven't you?

Well, let me add to that, that losing a war is sheer hell.

Have you read the two articles on the rape of Germany? Have you all read that? Well, that's what they did to the Germans. They lost the war. Jews did it to them. They looted them, they starved them, they enslaved them, they send them marching after Russia into slave camps, they sent them in France, they ripped them to slaves, they raped their women, they blew up their cities.

And this is not something new that was just invented during the last war.

When you go back through the history of our own country, the Civil War. Look at what happened to the South. We already see a very similar procedure there.

They burned cities, not only Atlanta, but they went all the way to the east coast of Georgia. Then they turned up into South Carolina and went north and burned and destroyed and burned and looted for sheer vindictiveness. There was no necessity for that, any more than there was for the bombing, the firebombing of Dresden.

The Civil war at that time was pretty well over when they sure marched through Georgia and up north, and similarly the war was pretty well over in Germany when they killed 330 000 of the best of the Germans of Dresden, planning as to how they were going to do it to the rest of the White Race.

And let us not forget that the firing target of the Jews is the United States of america. Why? Because it is the last major strong-hold of the White Race. If America was to go niggerized and Jew, the rest of the countries in Europe would fall like a bunch of rotten apples.

So this is the prime fighting ground that we've got to win.

I'm going to get back to Adolf. How did he do it? He did it by building up the political army. And whereas we don't, we're not, we're not Nazis. We don't buy the Nazi philosophy, creed, program in total in its entirety.

Back in Racial Loyalty number four, I specifically state there eight important differences.

And one important difference is, and this is very crucial, for as the Nazi party of Adolf Hitler were concerned about the survival and welfare of Germany and all the Germans, "Deutschland über alles", we are concerned about the total survival and building as a unity the total White Race, whether they're Brits or English, or Swedes, Italians, or whatever.

We want to embrace the whole White Race and get them mobilized. We can't do it alone. This business of the White Man killing White Men like in World War 2 must never happen again.

And it's only the white man that has the power to do what happened in the last World War.

So we must make the White Race conscious of the unity of our biological face, the biological bond. We are united in our genes, it's not a matter of nationality, that has been a debated, divisive point in the past.

You know you take me for instance, nationality. So I don't want to review all the differences, but the other thing is that the Hitler and the Nazi Party never put the finger on Christianity as the most powerful tool Jews had.

They probably would have, had they won the war, but they didn't and they didn't do that. And I say this, that until we replace Christianity with Creativity, we're never going to win the war against the Jews.

And I'm going to say one more thing. Until we obliterate the Jews and the White Race gets control of its own destiny, we will never solve any of the major problems in this world, thus far we've come to this last stage. Mainly cleaning up the environment, which is also a very important plank in our program.

As I've pointed out in various other articles, that what benefit is it in particular if the White Race did take over the world, and all we've got left is a polluted pigsty, right?

So, we've got to go step by steps, clean up this world if we want to build a Whiter and a brighter world, and we can only do that when the White Race gets control of its own destiny, gets rid of all the parasites around its back, and is free to do what they are innately so capable of doing.

And we want you fellas to be the leaders of this.

Tribute Speech to Adolf Hitler

Made in 1989. By Ben Klassen.

RAHOWA! We're gathered here today to pay tribute to and give recognition to the greatest man in history. His name was Adolf Hitler. And in my view he was the greatest White man that ever lived, and the greatest leader that the White Race has ever had, without a rival. He has influenced not only our lives but the whole world greatly in the last century. And in fact, I was reading a book recently by Leon Degrelle, who was a Belgian fighter for the White Race, in the great war and prior to that even, fought on the Russian front. And he calls this the "Hitler century", and the subtitle "Hitler was born at Versailles". Undoubtedly, the treacherous and horrible World War 1 greatly shaped Hitler's views and his own life, which then shaped the world.

And certainly he has tremendously influenced me personally, as he has all of us. If it wasn't for Hitler, there would be no Church of The Creator. In fact, we wouldn't be here today. I read "Mein Kampf" in the original German back in 1938, when I was twenty-one... twenty years old. I don't need to make it any more than necessary. And it changed my life immediately. One of the things that it did for me was it taught me to make definitive and decisive decisions promptly. I don't know whether I've made them any better, but I've certainly made them a lot faster than I used to.

Now, I was teaching school at the time, I was back at the farm there at Saskatchewan, teaching school, a little country-school where I had gone to school myself. And at that time, as you know, in 1938 the psychological and propaganda war was heating up, including with the natives there, the native Canadians.

And an interesting side-line is as I was teaching school, in order to rev up the war-hatred against the Germans, the British government shipped their king and queen over to Canada to make a tour to whip up the populace. And of course every school had to go to the nearest big city where the king and the queen were stopping. And I said to myself - I'd already read "Mein Kampf" at the time - I said to myself: "Hell no, I'm not going." And that aroused quite a bit of controversy of course, but I didn't go.

In fact, a year later after I've read "Mein Kampf" I had decided that I would go and livve in the regenerated Germany, and study engineering at the university of Heidelberg there. And I applied for my passport, got my papers ready, and sold my guitar for 7 dollars and a few other belongings I had. I was ready to go to Germany. I was ready to leave in about a month. I looked forward to living with people that thought the way I did. And I remember the day, the date was September the 1st 1939. I was out in the field scoping 10 hours a day at my brothers farm. When I got home he told me that World War 2 had started.

Um... That was the end of my dream as far as going to Germany was concerned.

So, I decided to go out and the next best thing I could do was study engineering in Canada, so I went to the the university of Saskatchewan and did just that.

Now, this man whose 100th birthday we're celebrating today, two days later after his birthday of April 20th, accomplished tremendous things. Let us briefly review some of the unbelievable and outstanding accomplishments of this great man. And when we do so we must remember that his views and his philosophy was shaped by the agony of World War 1, in which he was a beautiful and faithful soldier and suffered all the agonies of war for four and a half brutal years. He was more, even, tempered with the draconian treat of Versailles that followed World War 2, where the German people were robbed of everything that they had - and not only robbed, but enslaved for the next 50 years that they were going to pay off their so-called war debts.

Now, Hitler was just an ordinary soldier in the ranks when he emerged blinded by gas from World War 1. And he said in his great book "Mein Kampf" that since he was a boy, he had not cried since he left his mother's grave. But when he heard that all that he had fought for and all his comrades that had died for four and a half years - he broke down and cried.

Now let's review briefly some of the accomplishments that this great man did. One of the greatest things that influences us and that we can learn from him, is that he built a powerful political party, in the Nazi party. He joined that as a recruit when the party only had 7 members, and he really whipped it into shape, he built it up, he spoke, he lectured, he organized, and he built up the Nazi party, which has become a model for us and from which we can learn what we must do. One of the things, probably the main thing that we can learn from the building of the Nazi party is that whereas in Germany as in the United States today, there was a multitude of polyglot nationalist parties.

None of them accomplished anything, until they all joined into one powerful party - the Nazi party - and then took over the government. And let that be an important lesson to us. This business of belonging to and supporting thirty-three different parties and publications and so on - isn't getting us anywhere. I don't know how many of you have read the little skit in the paper about the mugwamp, how many of you have read that? And for those who haven't, the mugwamp is a dirty bird who sits on the fence with his mug on one side of the fence and its wamp on the other side, and it can never quite decide what side of the fence it's on. In fact, it can't decide much of anything, it just can't make up its mind.

Now, there are a lot of people who are in the same position here in this country. They want to do a little bit with the Klan, and a little bit with the Nazi party, and a little bit with this and a little bit of that. And as I said, I know one multimillionaire who is proud of the fact that he subscribe to something like, I don't know, 25 or 33 different right-wing publications, and boy isn't that something. He's really doing his part, he isn't doing anything else, but he's subscribing to some 30 publications.

Well, you don't get anywhere, you don't build anything, you don't get any clout by having our forces and our energies fragmented in seventeen different direction. We've got to be... instead of the buckshot-technique, we've got to use the rifle fire, load on target, hit it right in the bullseye. You can only do that when we get it all together, get our act together, into one powerful powerhouse. One party, one religion. And I believe in Creativity we have it all together, but we'll get to that later. But let us review some of the other things that Hitler did after he built his Nazi party and they took over the government of Germany and the destiny of the German people. Now, as soon as Hitler took over, it was almost as if a miracle struck across the land. People were suddenly reinvigorated, they were really gung-ho, they were ready to go. They got organized, whereas they had been left a legacy of a shattered country, six million unemployed, their industry, their finances, their political system in shambles.

Immediately things began happening. Whereas at the same time the United States the most wealthy country in the world was wallowing in unemployment and depression at that time, Germany in short order got their act together and all the six million people were employed, they were producing, they were building super highways. Whereas before they had not enough money to buy a bicycle, they were soon in a position where they could drive Volkswagen's and have money to have their own house. They would go on Kraft durch Freude, which means Strength Through Joy, vacations. They really had it together, in short order, 2 years in fact, the unemployment problem was gone, they were producing, they were exuberant. Hitler did a lot of other things. He for one thing got the money system into the hands of the German, instead of being in the hands of the Jews and paying untold billions of interest, like we are doing today. The Germans had their own money, printed their own money, which is a key to our prosperity if we ever want to get back to that, which he have to get to. He did more. He built super-highways, he got industry going, he passed racial laws, he drove the Jews out of the universities, the colleagues and the educational system.

He drove the Jews out of government, and he made Germany a country for the people who had built the country. And in fact, they were in control of their own destiny, which is what we are determined - come hell or high water - we're going to do. We want to get the control of the White Race back into the hands of the White people. One other thing that he did, that no other German had ever done before, was to unite the German people. You know, the German people were really the heart of Europe, had been for 300 years, but they've always been fragmented into various little states and various provinces and so on. He united the Germans to feel that they were one people. He went further than that. He united Austria, which was his homeland and was German, that had six or seven million Germans, with his what he called Austria's motherland. United it with his fatherland, which was Germany. He also brought back into the Reich, 3 million Germans that had been ruthlessly cut off from Germany and annexed to a fictitious state called Czechoslovakia, and brought the sedated Germans back into the Reich. He built what was one of the most thriving, progressive, prosperous nations in Europe and in the world.

Now, of course, the Jews couldn't tolerate that. And world-wide Jewry declared War on Hitler, not only after he did all these things, but before he even got started they declared war on Germany - and set out to destroy Hitler and the German people, the German Reich.

By the way, we have some mementos here - makes it a little bit more personal - from Germany. An old German gentleman gave me this flag here, and he said was a "blutfane", which is a blood flag. You know, when they had that Beerhall putsch at Munich in 1923, the army shot down and killed as they were marching towards the City Hall, killed 17 of their comrades. And they were carrying their banners, and of course as they fell blood floated on the streets, and many of those flags were soaked in blood. Well, they were retrieved and later they became sort of a sacred symbol. And they called it, when Hitler... after Hitler came to power, they brushed a number of these other flags against those that had been soaked with the blood of these martyrs, and they called them the "Blut fane", the blood flags.

And this is, according to this gentleman, is one of those, so we're very proud to have that. This in fact in 1980 he gave me and he also gave me another item that I started to treasure. And he said that this is the glasses that Hitler owned. I'm now going to look at the world through the glasses that Hitler did. So...

Now, I can't swear to that fact that that's genuine, but you know, like Christians who have all these pieces from the Cross I'm going to say "well it's genuine" and it might be, it probably is.

Now, according to Shakespeare, Mark Anthony gave a funeral oration at the death of Julius Caesar, and if I remember my Shakespeare it says something like: 'I came not to bury Caesar, not to praise him. The evil that men do lives on after them, and the good is oft interred with their bones'. Now this is not necessarily true. I know a lot of people whose evil didn't livve after them or wasn't publicized after them. One comes to mind, for instance Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jack Kennedy and many others. But anyway, that's what Mark Anthony said. Now, I'm not here to either bury Hitler, nor to praise him, particularly, except for what is his just views. My intention is more decisively to appraise him. What he did for us, what he did that was good, what he did that we are left with a legacy or a burden to carry on, and to be realistic about it.

Now one of the biggest things that I think Hitler did for us, was to expose the Jewish cancer that lies on the world, like bad disease. There's no other man in history - whereas the Jews have been attacked here and there, fragmentarily - there's no other man in history that has so dramatically and so firmly exposed the Jew. And the Jew will remain the focus of the worlds anger and the worlds problems, for a long time to come.

The other thing that he did that I think that we can be very grateful for, is he showed us how to break the power of the Jew, because he did it in Germany. And a big thing that we can learn is that we got to get our act together, and get it in focus, and build one powerful battering ram with which to do the job, instead of this helter-skelter proliferated deal that we have been doing for the last 40 or 50 years. You know, in Germany there was 2000 nationalist parties after World War 1, and I repeat: nothing happened, until they were all taken into one united powerful party.

In America as you know, if you look at the roster of all these so-called right-wing, racist etcetera parties, groups etcetera, there have been more than I'm told, more than 20 000 that have come and gone, and we haven't made a dent on it - the Jewish powerhouse. And we should learn something from that.

The other thing that I think that's important that he has left us as a legacy, is the Leadership Principle, instead of this much touted democracy that we hear about everyday. You know, we've got to get a democracy in Nicaragua, we've gotta get a democracy here, and we're gotta get a democracy there. Now we have a democracy supposedly in the United States, but do we? We have a Jewish dictatorship. What democracy means is that sure, you can go to the polls and vote but nobody cares anymore. You don't have any candidates and people don't know what the score is. So what do you have? You have a Jewish dictatorship hidden behind a facade so-called of a free people. We're not a free people. You go and speak about the White Race and boy you're immediately set upon as being a racist, a bigot, or attacked by a bunch of niggers or what have you. So he has taught us about the Leadership Principle. I think that's a very important fact that we should learn. And when you look at history, when you look at any of the big corporation, whether it's IBM or General Motor and so on, you have the leadership principle. General Motor doesn't call all their employees together every day and say: "now folks, should we do some work today, or should we go out and have a picnic?" You have a chain of command, you have an organization, and you have goals, and you follow that.

Now, that's one thing that confuses the hell out of most White people today, even today. And if we're going to get anywhere we're got to built along those same lines.

Now, we have briefly covered many of the great things that Hitler has done and I believe, I'll repeat that he is the greatest man that ever lived as far as I'm concerned.

Now we want to see what some of the deficiencies where and what some of the legacy that he has left us, that we have to cope with.

Hitler, for one thing, lost the war. That's something that we cannot forgive him for, the German people don't forgive him for that. It could have been won, I don't fault him in his leadership. I think they fought impressively, I think they fought valiantly. They were the greatest fighters, the greatest fighting machine, the greatest army that were ever put together, but they lost the war. And we now are left with the consequences.

We want to make it clear what Hitler did was the right thing for Germany at that time. This is 50 years later, this is not the 1930s anymore, this is the 1980s, and we're soon going to be into the 1990's and the 21st century. And were Hitler alive today, he would approach the problem undoubtedly much different than he did in Germany. At that time, I think he did a tremendous job. Okay.

But today, in the United States and the world at large, which is now being overrun by, not only are the Jews firmly in the saddle, but it's overrun by mud races. We have an altogether different problem. And we want to make it clear just where we stand, in relation to the Nazi party or any other group.

And we want to make it clear that we are not neo-nazis. We are not a replay of the Nazi party. We are not a number of other things, that I want to clear up. We are not White supremacists. What is a White supremacist? A White supremacist is a person or group that wants to be supreme over inferior people's. And we've had the White Race do that in various locations. We've had the White plantation owners in the South, for example, that exploited the niggers, worked them and so on. We've had the British in India, coming into to and govern the country, exploit it, take over, but they didn't develop or they didn't settle it as such, like the White Race did in the United States. They were White supremacists. Now, this is one thing if you go on a... you're interviewed by a newspaper reporter, or a talk-show host, this is the first thing they'll throw at you: "you are of course a White Supremacist". And I tell them "no, I'm not a White supremacist, the Church of the Creator is not a White supremacist organization. We don't want to rule any inferior race, we don't want to exploit the niggers or anybody else. We just want to have control of our own destiny, we want to expand and take over control of our own destiny: to which we're entitled. We want to expand our territories, just like our forefathers did over the last 400 years. What's the matter with that? That's the way America was built, and if you're against that, evidently your un-American." You know, throw this out. We're doing a very normal, natural, non-violent thing. We're not White supremacists.

Of course now, the thing that, depending on who it will throw at you, the Christians will throw at you: you are of course an atheist. So, that's the end of that. You're an theist. Even our good friends here in Atlanta, they will brush us off, you know, your atheist. Well, we're not atheists. What is an atheist? I mean, this are points that we should all keep in mind when we're talking to people, who are accusing us of things that we are not. We've put out a little booklet on that very subject "We are not atheists, we are Creators!"

An atheist is somebody that doesn't believes in the other guys spooks. And that's about it. What does he believe in? Who knows, he doesn't say it. That's not us. We have a very comprehensive set of beliefs. We've got it all spelled out in our various books: Nature's Eternal Religion, The White Man's Bible, Expanding Creativity, Salubrious Living etcetera. And so, very comprehensive and complete set of beliefs, which does not qualify as what's called atheism.

We are not Klansmen. The Klansmen want to deplorable want to revert back to winning the Civil War and going back, I guess, I don't know what they want to do, go back to the plantation system governing with watermelon-eating little niggers out there, picking cotton or something. I don't know, I don't think they know themselves. But anyway, we're not Klansmen, we're not confederates. We are Creators.

The other thing we are not, is we are not nationalists. Now, this is a very important point. Nationalism has been the cause of killing more White people than any other cause, except perhaps religion. I don't know, it's a toss between the two. We fought during the 16th, 17th century and so on. We fought a number of religious wars. But from time and memorial, the White Race has fought nationalistic wars. The English against the French, the war that rose was a hundred years war, World War 1, World War 2, the Boer War, you name it, the Civil War. Who's more capable, in fact only is capable of and more efficient killing White people, than the White people themselves, gouted by the Jews? It's the been the White people that have been killing other White people. We denounce and deplore nationalism.

I can cite myself as an example of, you know, this nonsense about being a nationalist. Now, take myself as an example, what nationality should I be loyal to? Now I was born in Russia, in the Ukraine, Mennonite parents. So maybe I should be loyal to Russia, as a nationalist, as a nation? Then we moved to Mexico and lived there for a year or two. Maybe I should dedicate my loyalty to Mexico? Then we moved to Canada and my dad became a citizen there and I became a citizen along with him. So, maybe I should be a loyal Canadian?

Then, well, I moved to United States about, let's see, in '45, so since I've lived here the longest, maybe my loyalty should be the loyalty to the United States? But I say this, would you want to be loyal to a country, to a government whose very aim is to destroy the White Race? Who is governed and exploited by Jews, whose aim is to mongrelize the White Race of this country, and have more wall-to-wall niggers in this country? I can't feel any great urge of loyalty to such a country. Loyalty to the land as such, but I'm not loyal to the United States government. I think it stinks! What... where does our loyalty lie? We Creators say our loyalty with our biological origins: the White Race! I have more in common with a White Man that lives 12,000 miles away in Australia, than I do with an American nigger that lives across the tracks. That's for sure.

Now we've just reviewed what we're not. We're not White supremacists, we're not atheists, we're not Klansmen, we're not nationalists. But, since when we are celebrating Hitler's birthday today, we want to put some emphasis on the differences between us and the Nazi party. I think it's important that we do. I think he's the greatest Man that ever lived, we give him full credit for everything he's done, he's done great things for us. But I repeat, that the Nazi party and the ideology of the Nazi party is not what's going to save us today.

We have many liabilities that we carry with it that we need not, and it is not the total program for the salvation of the White Race today. Now, in issue number 4 of Racial Loyalty, which was back in September 1983, I listed eight differences of ideology and philosophy with the Nazi party. And I think we should remember these and we should emphasize these, and we should emphasize that we are not a neo-nazi party. We are not White supremacists. We are not atheists. That we are unique! We are a, the first great White Racial Religion, a comprehensive, totally structured White Racial Religion that the White Race has ever had in 6000 years of its history. Now I'm going to list those differences that we have with the Nazi party.

The first fundamental difference is one of identity. When we ask the question: what are we fighting for? Who are we trying to save? And basically, when we say 'we', who do we mean by 'we'? The Nazi party and Adolf Hitler, the aim of Adolf Hitler and the Nazi party, and their main concern was Germany, the German people. And we remember the speeches and so on, it was 'Deutschland über alles!', 'Das Deutsche Reich!', 'Das Deutsche Volk!'. Germany! Which was fine, and if they'd won the war, Germany probably would have been the supreme leader of the White Race, and it would be one hell of a lot better than being under the heel of the Jews.

Now, he did not win, and it is not our goal, our main concern, to promote the interests of the German people as such. Now my ancestors were German and Dutch, I don't know which exact or a mixture of both. They were Mennonites, they lived in Germany for several centuries and then moved to Russia and so. And I love the German people, but that's not our main concern. I also love the British people, the French people, the Irish and the Scots, Scandinavians, the Poles, and what have you. As long as they are White. As I say, I've been citizen of three countries and a resident of four, and this idea of national boundaries and national loyalties is not the answer to anything.

So, whereas the Nazi party, the main concern of the Nazi party and Adolf Hitler, was "Deutschland über alles" it is not our goal. What are we for? We are for the White Race: throughout the world. We are out to organize, unite, mobilize, and arouse the White Race to get control of its own destiny. That's one major difference. I repeat: who has killed more White people than the White people, fighting against each other in the name of nationality, or in the name of religion, or in the name of language, or whatever? You know, Canada for instance, you have the French and the English speaking, and language is the big thing that the Jews got them fighting over. Same thing in Belgium. You have the French and you have the Belgians and so on and so on, and there's a big hassle there and so on and so on.

We want to eliminate all those artificial - those are artificial - differences. For instance, whether you speak French or whether you speak English or you speak Italian or so on, depends entirely as to what you're taught: that's an artificial difference. But what is in your genes... that's something that nature has implanted, and that is not artificial, that's real. So, the first major difference.

We go back to our base, and that is the White Race. Our biological base. The second difference is that whereas the Nazi party was purely a political movement, and Hitler said so himself. It was a political movement, it was for Germany only. Although there were Nazi parties in the United States, even in other countries, Hitler specifically said that this was not for export, this was a German phenomena, and its main purpose was to save Germany, of which he did a tremendous job.

Now, we are a religious organization: something that we should have been a long, long time ago! We should have learned from the Jews. The Jews have the world in their grip, because of the power of their religion. They united, coalesced, polarized around their religion.

We haven't we learned all that? We didn't we do the same thing? It's a racial religion: and they have conquered the world with it, miserable little bunch of parasites that they are. Now with the White Race, which outnumbers them 30 to 1, if we would have employed those kind of tactics, we would have had a beautiful White world a long, long time ago.

Now we have the vehicle! And that is the second difference.

The third difference is, and this is also I think very important, is that Hitler never confronted the issue of Jewish Christianity. He tolerated it, and condoned it, in fact sometimes even praised it. And I don't think that he believed in it himself, and I think he would have probably if he'd won the war in future years perhaps, erased Christianity and replaced it with a Nazi philosophy. But that's speculation. The point is he said that, you know, Christianity had many virtues and so on, and he tolerated it. Well, if you tolerate something, that means you condone it. Now we say that Christianity is a fraudulent swindle, that the Jews have employed for the last 2000 years, and this has been their most powerful weapon. If it wasn't for Christianity, we wouldn't be in the miserable situation we're in. We would had never let the Jews done what they have done, the Jews would have been nothing. The Jews would have never gotten this world-wide power without Christianity.

It's because they inculcated and gave us a religion, and inculcated in it the idea that you love your enemy, sell all thou hast and give it to the niggers, turn the other cheek, you judge not. Now, if you stop a minute and use your logic a little bit, you can't help but come to the conclusion "look than that's the kind of bad advice you'd give your worst enemy if you wanted that enemy to destroy itself: without you having to lift a finger". And that is exactly what has happened.

We have let them do all these things to us, because of Christianity.

So, we say this, that until and unless we replace Christianity with a powerful racial religion such as Creativity, we are never going to get the Jew off our back.

Secondly we say that, until and unless we get the Jew off our back, we're never going to solve any of the pervasive problems that haunt us today. We are never going to solve the racial problem, we are never going to solve the money problem, we are never going to solve the unemployment problem, we are never going to solve the immigration problem, we are never going to solve any problem!

First thing we got to do is to get the Jews off our back. So that's another major difference.

We confront and attack and expose Christianity full blast, and we will continue to do so, until the day that we have replaced it with Creativity.

The other thing that the Nazi party has left us with a legacy is that the Jewish problem is a political problem only, and once we get political power and take over our government, why, we'd be able to throw the Jew out: and this is not true.

The Jewish problem is a pervasive problem that spreads into all fields, and we confront and we move into and we have policies in all these fields, and this include religion, education, politics, economics, banking, the environment, health, we have salubrious living, we cover the whole waterfront. When people say: "well, now, you know, Creativity is only a religious movement, and who needs another religion". Well, that is not the true picture at all. We cover the whole waterfront, the whole ball of wax.

We go into every detail of what we must do, what we need to do, to get the White Race back into a healthy position, to take control of its own destiny, and build its own future.

So, the answer is not just political, it is more religious than anything else, and until we do embody this in our religious movement - which we have - we are not going to be in a position to do anything to destroy the Jewish pestilence.

In fact, a Jew by the name of Marcus Eli Ravage spelled it out pretty succinctly, as to how Saul of Tarsus, this Jew who lived in the first century A.D., promoted Christianity, and through that vehicle he says loud and clear, he brags about it like Jews only can, how they conquered us as no nation has ever been conquered, or no country has ever been conquered before. Not only were we conquered politically, but we were conquered in our very thoughts, in our schools, in our religion, and in our society.

Now, the other thing that we differ with the Nazi party is that, whereas the Nazi party took a hostile attitude to the other White racial neighbors, such as say Czechs, the Poles, the French and so on. And remember, this was a result of the fact that they had fought against these people and lost the war, I mean as far as Hitler was concerned.

Anyway, we take no such attitude. Like I said, whereas I'm proud of my German ancestry and so on, I love all the White people in the world, providing they're good people, which most of them are! In fact, I say that anywhere where the Jews don't have their hands in the pie and where the White people run their own affairs they do a pretty nice job, they do pretty well. For instance, the Mennonites in Russia, who were sort of an isolated little colony, and they did pretty well. There were no Jews in there, and they did excellent - until the Jewish Communists took over and destroyed it all.

Now, I'm not saying that the Mennonites have the answer. They had some serious defects of their own. One of them were the fact that they were pacifists, which we deplore. But anyway.

We don't discriminate between the different nationalities, we want to join them all together into one world of White people, inhabit this planet earth, and eventually have them all speaking Latin, if possible, so that we can converse with each other freely, just like the Jews do with their Yiddish, except we'd have a much better language.

In fact, Latin undoubtedly as everybody knows is the finest language that has ever been created by the White Civilization, and has great historic value, it has tradition, and for one thing that is why we choose Latin is that it'd be non-controversial.

If we went to some language that was used by some country today, like French or whatever, the other countries would immediately be hostile to it because it's some other language others than theirs. You know how people are.

Now, one other thing we cannot quite forgive Hitler for, is that he joined in an alliance with a mud people, the Japanese, and fought the White people. A lot of Japanese killed a lot of White people. We must never again do that. In fact, we must never again go to war against our own White Racial Comrades.

When we do go to war, let's make it count, let's kill Jews and our real enemies. Never again must we be suckered into fighting our White Racial Comrades. The other difference that we have is the Mythos, as Alfred Rosenberg coined the word in 'The Myth of The 21th Century'. Mythos means your mythological atmosphere or environment that your philosophy dwells in.

Now, the Nazi philosophy, as it is embodied in that painting there, was militaristic, German army, Reichswear, huge rallies, the goose-stepping, Reichwear. And there's nothing wrong with that, I mean, they had much to be proud of, we're not denouncing that. But it is not our mythos. We are a native grown movement, an American movement, that is as American as motherhood and apple pie. And our mythos is embodied in this man right here. The Winning of the West, the Western tradition, building a great new empire, fighting the Indians, and the Western Convoys. That's why we promote the Western Attire and the Winning of the West and so on. That's what we're proud of, the pioneer, and the Winning of the West. We are very proud of the war we fought against Mexico. The only war that I can remember that we fought that was in our interest.

And we pay great tribute to this man here, president James Knox Polk. It was painted by our gifted artist, the Hasta Primus. By the way, he's going to do a little more on that. He's going to paint a background of the Winning of the West, of the territory that we won in the Mexican War.

So we are not, as I say, our mythos is different. We are proud of the pioneering American, Winning of the West, and it represents us more clearly than say the Nazi ideology which were their home.

Now, one last thing I want to point out is that we do not promote personality worship as such and personality cult. We go by principles. We have a set of principleswe don't want to be like the Catholic Church, we don't even want to be like the Nazis, that if Hitler said it was so, the Pope said it was so.

We want to use certain guidelines that are laid down in our religion, our philosophy. And the bottom line is: Is this for the benefit of the White Race?

We've also acquired a real good (inaudible) from early America that we want to add to our mythos. A few years ago I happened to visit the Hall of Fame of the Texas Rangers and its museum in Waco, Texas. And I happened to pick up a belt-buckle, this one right here, which I think illustrates something that is an important part of, that is an important segment of our Creativity mythos, and that is the colorful and heroic Texas Ranger.

A few years ago I happened to visit the Texas Rangers Hall of Fame in Waxo, Texas and its museum, and there I purchased a belt-buckle, which was dedicated to the Texas Rangers with two medals on. One was the lone star of Texas, and the other showed the Ranger on the horse. The motto of the Texas Rangers in the middle of the 19th century was: The Only Good Indian Was A Dead Indian! And they pursued that policy with vigor!

The Texas Rangers not only scourged the countryside and the mountains and the valleys of Texas for Indians but also for Mexicans, to cleanse the area of the settlement of the White people that came in to Texas at that time.

We of the Church of The Creator adopt the same view on a nation-wide basis today. We want to cleanse the country of the mud races, and make it a beautiful home for the White Race.

In conclusion, now that we have payed tribute to Adolf Hitler, and now that we have honored him, and always will revere him as the greatest leader the White Race has ever had. Let us now sum up our own situation here in the latter part of the 20th century.

Frankly, our situation is grim and it is ominous. However, it is not hopeless. The fact is that we are now faced with a problem that is completely different from the times of Hitler and Germany 50 years ago. The world is now overrun with mud races. They outnumber us now 12 to 1. The White population on the other hand is rapidly diminishing and decreasing, whereas the mud races are exploding. We now have a problem to solve ahead that Hitler cannot solve for us. He has however left us a legacy that we can learn from and that we must act upon.

One of the things that he had brought to the fore, is the tremendous power and value of race. But the burning issue still remains as it was 50 years ago, as it was 100 years ago, and that is the... how we can get the sinister and deadly Jew off our back? How can we save the White Race from disintegration and from destruction? There are many things we can learn from Hitler. One is that we must build up a powerful battering ram. We must build a movement, with which we can smash the Jewish monster once and for all.

In Creativity, we have the creed and program, and the religion to do the job. We now have a movement that encompasses a united White Race under one language, under one banner, under one religion. And we must pursue that and build and build until we have the movement powerful enough that it encompasses the world and encompasses all the White Race in every country of the world. We now have the total program, the final solution, the ultimate creed. So our duty is clear. We need to build a movement that will replace and smash Jewish Christianity. If and until we replace Christianity with a powerful White Racial Religion of our own we will never get the Jew off our back. And until and unless we get the Jew off our back, we will never solve any of the myriad of problems of the world that we are faced with today.

So let us go forward with determination and confidence. To me, the future today looks much brighter than it did even a year ago. And it's much more encouraging to see the growth of our movement. We now have a substantial increase in our forces, and we are getting new members every day. We now have an editor that can and does an excellent job in putting our paper together. Hasta Primus Will Williams is on top of the job and is pushing forward with a vengeance.

I believe we now have a so-far untapped resources of young White people and ardent warriors in the skinhead movement. Now many of the skinheads are undisciplined and cannot be absorbed into our movement, many of them can! Many of them are dedicated and are filled with determination to do something. They know something is wrong, they don't know exactly what. But with our leadership, with our program, and with our creed, we can unite the forces to where they can be a useful and powerful element in our own movement. We need those young people.

I believe we now have found the Great Promoter that I have been looking for for years, and that is in fact Rudy Stanko, has joined with us. I think he has the dynamo and the dynamics to become a great leader to push and lead us forward. I hope to visit him in the next week or so.

It is now our sacred duty and our challenge to put all our resources into focus. And to get our act together, to do the job.

This we can do, this we will do.

What can you do? You are the key to this whole movement.

One of the best things a dedicated Creator can do, is to become an ordained minister of the church.

Form your own church group in your area and recruit and organize.

Help get those first 10 million copies of The White Man's Bible into the hands of our White Racial Comrades.

When we've done that much, the battle is as good as won.

The answer is to propagandize, proselytize, and organize.

Informed, aroused, and organized the White Race is the most powerful force on the face of the earth. It will overcome and conquer all the mud races, the Jews and the enemies that are now against us with great ease and facility.

All these things are now within our reach.

Let us now strive and strain to the utmost, to bring about that beautiful day when the White Race will again be in control of its own destiny.

When it will inhabit and develop every benevolent square mile on the face of this Planet Earth. Let us join together to build a Whiter and Brighter World.
